

14. Brahmā's Prayers to Lord Kṛṣṇa

This chapter describes the prayers Brahmā offered to Lord Kṛṣṇa, who is also known as Nanda-nandana.

For His satisfaction, Brahmā first praised the beauty of the Lord's transcendental limbs and then declared that His original identity of sweetness is even more difficult to comprehend than His opulence. Only by the devotional process of hearing and chanting transcendental sounds received from Vedic authorities can one realize the Personality of Godhead. It is fruitless to try to realize God through processes outside the scope of Vedic authority.

The mystery of the Personality of Godhead, who is the reservoir of unlimited spiritual qualities, is inconceivable; it is even more difficult to understand than the impersonal Supreme. Thus only by the mercy of God can one understand His glories. Finally realizing this, Brahmā repeatedly condemned his own actions and recognized that Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the ultimate shelter of the universe, is Brahmā's own father, the original Nārāyaṇa. In this way Brahmā begged the Lord's forgiveness.

Brahmā then glorified the inconceivable opulence of the Personality of Godhead and described the ways in which Brahmā and Śiva differ from Lord Viṣṇu, the reason for the Supreme Lord's appearance in various species of demigods, animals and so on, the eternal nature of the pastimes of the Personality of Godhead, and the temporality of the material world. By knowing the Supreme Personality in truth, the individual spirit soul can achieve liberation from bondage. In actuality, however, both liberation and bondage are unreal, for it is only from the living entity's conditioned outlook that his bondage and liberation are produced. Thinking the personal form of Lord Kṛṣṇa illusory, fools reject His lotus feet and look elsewhere to find the Supreme Self. But the futility of their search is the obvious proof of their foolishness. There is simply no way to understand the truth of the Personality of Godhead without His mercy.

Having established this conclusion, Lord Brahmā analyzed the great good fortune of the residents of Vraja and then personally prayed to be born there even as a blade of grass, a bush or a creeper. Indeed, the homes of the residents of Vṛndāvana are not prisons of material existence but rather abodes envied even by the jñānīs and yogīs. On the other hand, any home without a connection to Lord Kṛṣṇa is in fact a prison cell of material existence. Finally, Brahmā offered his whole self at the lotus feet of the Supreme Lord and, praising Him again and again, circumambulated Him and took his leave.

Lord Kṛṣṇa then gathered the animals Brahmā stole and led them to the place on the Yamunā's bank where the cowherd boys had been taking lunch. The same friends who had been present before were sitting there now. By the power of Kṛṣṇa's illusory energy, they were not at all aware of what had happened. Thus when Kṛṣṇa arrived with the calves, the boys told Him, "You've returned so quickly! Very good. As long as You were gone we couldn't take even a morsel of food, so come and eat."

Laughing at the words of the cowherd boys, Lord Kṛṣṇa began taking His meal in their company. While eating, Kṛṣṇa pointed out to His young friends the skin of the python, and the boys thought, "Kṛṣṇa has just now killed this terrible snake." Indeed, later they related to the residents of Vṛndāvana the incident of Kṛṣṇa's killing the Agha demon. In this way, the cowherd boys described pastimes that Lord Kṛṣṇa had performed in His bālyā age (one to five), even though His paugāṇḍā age (six to ten) had begun.

Śukadeva Gosvāmī concludes this chapter by explaining how the gopīs

loved Lord Kṛṣṇa even more than they loved their own sons.

TEXT 1

श्रीब्रह्मोवाच
नौमीड्य तेऽभ्रवपुषे तडिदम्बराय
गुञ्जावतंसपरिपिच्छलसन्मुखाय
वन्यस्रजे कवलवेत्रविषाणवेणु- लक्ष्मश्रिये मृदुपदे पशुपाङ्गजाय śrī-brahmovāca

naumīḍya te 'bhra-vapuṣe taḍid-ambarāya guñjāvataṁsa-paripiccha-lasan-mukhāya vanya-sraje kavala-vetra-viṣāṇa-veṇulakṣma-śriye mṛdu-pade paśupāṅgajāya

SYNONYMS

śrī-brahmā uvāca—Lord Brahmā said; naumi—I offer praise; īḍya—O most worshipable one; te—unto You; abhra—like a dark cloud; vapuṣe—whose body; taḍit—like lightning; ambarāya—whose garment; guñjā—made of small berries; avataṁsa—with ornaments (for the ears); paripiccha—and peacock feathers; lasat—resplendent; mukhāya—whose face; vanya-sraje—wearing garlands of forest flowers; kavala—a morsel of food; vetra—a stick; viṣāṇa—a buffalo-horn bugle; veṇu—and a flute; lakṣma—characterized by; śriye—whose beauty; mṛdu—soft; pade—whose feet; paśu-pa—of the cowherd (Nanda Mahārāja); aṅga-jāya—unto the son.

TRANSLATION

Lord Brahmā said: My dear Lord, You are the only worshipable Lord, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, and therefore I offer my humble obeisances and prayers just to please You. O son of the king of the cowherds, Your transcendental body is dark blue like a new cloud, Your garment is brilliant like lightning, and the beauty of Your face is enhanced by Your guñjā earrings and the peacock feather on Your head. Wearing garlands of various forest flowers and leaves, and equipped with a herding stick, a buffalo horn and a flute, You stand beautifully with a morsel of food in Your hand.

PURPORT

In the previous chapter Brahmā, the creator of the universe, tried to bewilder the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Lord Kṛṣṇa, by stealing His cowherd boyfriends and calves. But by a slight exhibition of Kṛṣṇa's own mystic potency, Brahmā himself was completely bewildered, and now with great humility and devotion he offers his humble obeisances and prayers unto the Lord.

The word kavala in this verse refers to a morsel of rice mixed with yogurt that Kṛṣṇa held in His left hand. According to Sanātana Gosvāmī, the Lord held a cowherding stick and a buffalo horn pressed under His left arm, and His flute was placed under His belt. Beautiful young Kṛṣṇa, decorated with multicolored forest minerals, exhibited opulences far greater than those of Vaikuṇṭha. Although Brahmā had seen innumerable four-armed forms of the Lord, he now surrendered unto the lotus feet of the two-armed form of Kṛṣṇa, who appeared as the son of Nanda Mahārāja. Brahmā offered his prayers to that form.

TEXT 2

अस्यापि देव वपुषो मदनुग्रहस्य
स्वेच्छामयस्य न तु भूतमयस्य कोऽपि

नेशे महि त्ववसितुं मनसान्तरेण साक्षात्तवैव किमुतात्मसुखानुभूतेः

asyāpi deva vapuṣo mad-anugrahasya svecchā-mayasya na tu bhūta-mayasya ko 'pi neśe mahi tv avasitum manasāntareṇa sākṣāt tavaiva kim utātma-sukhānubhūteḥ

SYNONYMS

asya—of this; api—even; deva—O Lord; vapuṣaḥ—the body; mat-anugrahasya—which has shown mercy to me; sva-icchā-mayasya—which appears in response to the desires of Your pure devotees; na—not; tu—on the other hand; bhūta-mayasya—a product of matter; kaḥ—Brahmā; api—even; na īśe—I am not able; mahi—the potency; tu—indeed; avasitum—to estimate; manasā—with my mind; antareṇa—which is controlled and withdrawn; sākṣāt—directly; tava—Your; eva—indeed; kim uta—what to speak; ātma—within Yourself; sukha—of happiness; anubhūteḥ—of Your experience.

TRANSLATION

My dear Lord, neither I nor anyone else can estimate the potency of this transcendental body of Yours, which has shown such mercy to me and which appears just to fulfill the desires of Your pure devotees. Although my mind is completely withdrawn from material affairs, I cannot understand Your personal form. How, then, could I possibly understand the happiness You experience within Yourself?

PURPORT

In Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Chapter Fourteen, Śrīla Prabhupāda explains that in the present verse Lord Brahmā expressed the following prayerful sentiment: "Your appearance as a cowherd child is for the benefit of the devotees, and although I have committed an offense at Your lotus feet by stealing away Your boys and calves, I can understand that You have bestowed Your mercy upon me. That is Your transcendental quality: You are very affectionate toward Your devotees. But in spite of Your great affection for me, I cannot estimate the potency of Your bodily activities. It is to be understood that when I, Lord Brahmā, the supreme personality of this universe, cannot estimate the childlike body of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, then what to speak of others? And if I cannot estimate the spiritual potency of Your childlike body, then what can I understand about Your transcendental pastimes? Therefore, as it is said in the Bhagavad-gītā, anyone who can understand a little of the transcendental pastimes, appearance and disappearance of the Lord immediately becomes eligible to enter the kingdom of God after quitting the material body. This statement is confirmed in the Vedas, where it is stated. Simply by understanding the Supreme Personality of Godhead, one can overcome the chain of repeated birth and death. I therefore recommend that people should not try to understand You by their speculative knowledge."

When Brahmā disrespected the supreme status of the Personality of Godhead, Lord Kṛṣṇa first bewildered him by exhibiting the Lord's own transcendental power. Then, having humbled His devotee Brahmā, Kṛṣṇa gave him His personal audience.

According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura, Lord Kṛṣṇa's transcendental body can also function through the agency of His plenary expansions, called viṣṇu-tattva. As stated by Brahmā himself in the Brahma-saṁhitā (5.32): aṅgāni yasya sakalendriya-vṛttimanti. This verse indicates not only that the Lord can perform any bodily function with any of His limbs but also that He can see through the eyes of His Viṣṇu expansions or, indeed, through the eyes of any living entity, and similarly that He can hear through the ears of any Viṣṇu or jīva expansion. Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura points out that although the Lord can perform any function with any one of His senses, in His transcendental pastimes as Śrī Kṛṣṇa He generally sees with His eyes, touches with His hands, hears with His ears and so on. Thus He behaves like the most beautiful and charming young cowherd boy.

The Vedic knowledge expands from Lord Brahmā, who is described in the first verse of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam as ādi-kavi, the primeval Vedic scholar. Yet Brahmā could not understand the transcendental body of Lord Kṛṣṇa, because it is beyond the reach of ordinary Vedic knowledge. Among all the transcendental forms of the Lord, the two-armed form of Govinda-Kṛṣṇa—is original and supreme. Thus Lord Govinda's pastimes of stealing butter, drinking the gopīs' breast-milk, tending the calves, playing His flute and playing childhood sports are extraordinary even in comparison with the activities of the Lord's Viṣṇu expansions.

TEXT 3

ज्ञाने प्रयासमुदपास्य नमन्त एव
जीवन्ति सन्मुखरितां भवदीयवार्ताम्
स्थाने स्थिताः श्रुतिगतां तनुवाङ्मनोभिर ये प्रायशोऽजित जितोऽप्यसि तैस्त्रिलोक्याम् jñāne prayāsam udapāsyā namanta eva jīvanti san-mukharitām bhavadīya-vārtām sthāne sthitāḥ śruti-gatām tanu-vāṅ-manobhir ye prāyaśo 'jita jito 'py asi tais tri-lokyām

SYNONYMS

jñāne—for knowledge; prayāsam—the endeavor; udapāsyā—giving up completely; namantaḥ—offering obeisances; eva—simply; jīvanti—live; sat-mukharitām—chanted by the pure devotees; bhavadīya-vārtām—topics related to You; sthāne—in their material position; sthitāḥ—remaining; śruti-gatām—received by hearing; tanu—with their body; vāk—words; manobhiḥ—and mind; ye—who; prāyaśaḥ—for the most part; ajita—O unconquerable one; jitaḥ—conquered; api—nevertheless; asi—You become; taiḥ—by them; tri-lokyām—within the three worlds.

TRANSLATION

Those who, even while remaining situated in their established social positions, throw away the process of speculative knowledge and with their body, words and mind offer all respects to descriptions of Your personality and activities, dedicating their lives to these narrations, which are vibrated by You personally and by Your pure devotees, certainly conquer Your Lordship, although You are otherwise unconquerable by anyone within the three worlds.

PURPORT

Here the word udapāśya clearly indicates that one should not even slightly endeavor to understand the Absolute Truth by the process of mental speculation, for it invariably carries one to an imperfect, impersonal understanding of God. The word jīvanti indicates that a devotee who always hears about Lord Kṛṣṇa will go back home, back to Godhead, even if he can do nothing except maintain his existence and hear topics concerning the Lord.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī has explained the words tanu-vāñ-manobhiḥ ("by the body, words and mind") in three ways. In reference to devotees, through their body, words and mind they are able to conquer Lord Kṛṣṇa. Thus becoming perfect in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, they can touch His lotus feet with their hands, call Him to come with their words, and attain His direct audience within their mind simply by thinking about Him.

In the case of nondevotees, the words tanu-vāñ-manobhiḥ refer to the word ajita, "unconquered," and indicate that those not engaged in the loving service of Lord Kṛṣṇa cannot conquer the Absolute Truth by their bodily strength, verbal expertise or mental power. Despite all their endeavors, the ultimate truth remains beyond their reach.

In reference to the word jitaḥ, "conquered," the words tanu-vāñ-manobhiḥ indicate that the pure devotees of Lord Kṛṣṇa conquer His body, words and mind. Lord Kṛṣṇa's body is conquered because He always remains by the side of His pure devotees; Lord Kṛṣṇa's words are conquered because He always chants the glories of His devotees; and Lord Kṛṣṇa's mind is conquered because He always thinks about His loving devotees.

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura has explained the words tanu-vāñ-manobhiḥ in regard to the word namantaḥ, "offering obeisances." He explains that the devotees can take full advantage of the transcendental topics of the Lord by offering all respects to those topics with their body, words and mind. One should engage his body by touching the ground with his hands and head while offering obeisances to the topics of the Lord; one should engage his words by praising transcendental literatures such as Bhagavad-gītā and Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, as well as the devotees who are preaching such literatures; and one should engage his mind by feeling great reverence and pleasure while hearing the transcendental topics of the Lord. In this way, a sincere devotee who has acquired even a small amount of transcendental knowledge about Lord Kṛṣṇa can conquer Him and thus go back home, back to Godhead, for eternal life at the Lord's side.

TEXT 4

श्रेयःसृतिं भक्तिमुदस्य ते विभो क्लिश्यन्ति ये केवलबोधलब्धये
तेषामसौ क्लेशल एव शिष्यते

नान्यद्यथा स्थूलतुषावघातिनाम्

śreyaḥ-sṛtim bhaktim udasya te vibho kliśyanti ye kevala-bodha-labdhave teṣāṃ asau kleśala eva śiṣyate nānyad yathā sthūla-tuṣāvaghātinām

SYNONYMS

śreyaḥ—of supreme benefit; sṛtim—the path; bhaktim—devotional service; udasya—rejecting; te—they; vibho—O almighty Lord; kliśyanti—struggle; ye—who; kevala—exclusive; bodha—of knowledge; labdhaye—for the achievement; teṣāṃ—for them; asau—this; kleśalaḥ—botheration; eva—merely; śiṣyate—remains; na—nothing; anyat—other; yathā—just as; sthūla-tuṣa—empty husks; avaghātinām—for those who are beating.

TRANSLATION

My dear Lord, devotional service unto You is the best path for self-realization. If someone gives up that path and engages in the cultivation of speculative knowledge, he will simply undergo a troublesome process and will not achieve his desired result. As a person who beats an empty husk of wheat cannot get grain, one who simply speculates cannot achieve self-realization. His only gain is trouble.

PURPORT

Loving service to the Supreme Person is the natural and eternal function of every living entity. If a person renounces his own constitutional function and instead laboriously seeks so-called enlightenment through impersonal, speculative knowledge, his result is simply the trouble and bother that come from following an artificial process. A fool may beat an empty husk, not knowing that the grain has already been removed. Similarly foolish is the person who throws his mind again and again into the pursuit of knowledge without surrendering to the Supreme Personality of Godhead, for it is the Supreme Personality of Godhead who is the very substance and goal of knowledge, just as grain is the substance and goal of the entire agricultural effort. Vedic knowledge or, indeed, material science without the Personality of Godhead is exactly like an empty and useless husk of wheat.

One may argue that by practicing yoga or cultivating impersonal knowledge one can acquire prestige, wealth, mystic powers or even impersonal liberation. But these so-called gains are actually useless, because they do not situate the living being in his constitutional position of loving service to the Supreme Lord. Therefore such results, being superfluous to the living being's essential nature, are impermanent. As stated in the Nṛsiṃha Purāṇa, patreṣu puṣpeṣu phaleṣu toyeṣv akrīta-labhyeṣu vadaiva satsu/ bhaktyā su-labhye puruṣe purāṇe muktyai kim arthaṁ kriyate prayatnaḥ: "Since the primeval Personality of Godhead is easily attained by offering Him such things as leaves, flowers, fruits and water, which are all found without difficulty, why does one need to endeavor for liberation separately?"

Although the process of devotional service to Lord Kṛṣṇa is very simple, it is extremely difficult for stubborn conditioned souls to completely humble themselves before the Supreme Personality of Godhead and absorb themselves twenty-four hours a day in His loving service. The mood of loving service is anathema to belligerent conditioned souls determined to defy God and enjoy. When such stubborn conditioned souls attempt to bypass surrendering to God through proud attempts at philosophical speculation, austerity, and yoga, they are turned back to the material platform by the powerful laws of God and violently merged into the heaving ocean of insignificance called the material world.

TEXT 5

पुरेह भूमन् बहवोऽपि योगिनस्
त्वदर्पितेहा निजकर्मलब्धया
विबुध्य भक्त्यैव कथोपनीतया प्रपेदिरेऽओऽच्युत ते गतिं पराम्

pureha bhūman bahavo 'pi yoginas tvad-arpitehā nija-karma-labdhayā vibudhya bhaktyaiva kathopanītayā prapedire 'ñjo 'cyuta te gatiṁ parām

SYNONYMS

purā—previously; iha—in this world; bhūman—O almighty Lord; bahavaḥ—many; api—indeed; yoginaḥ—followers of the path of yoga; tvat—unto You; arpita—having offered; ihāḥ—all their endeavors; nija-karma—by their prescribed duties; labdhayā—which is achieved; vibudhya—coming to understand; bhaktyā—by devotional service; eva—indeed; kathā-upanītayā—cultivated through hearing and chanting topics about You; prapedire—they achieved by surrender; añjaḥ—easily; acyuta—O infallible one; te—Your; gatiṁ—destination; parām—supreme.

TRANSLATION

O almighty Lord, in the past many yogīs in this world achieved the platform of devotional service by offering all their endeavors unto You and faithfully carrying out their prescribed duties. Through such devotional service, perfected by the processes of hearing and chanting about You, they came to understand You, O infallible one, and could easily surrender to You and achieve Your supreme abode.

TEXT 6

तथापि भूमन्महिमागुणस्य ते
विबोद्धुमर्हत्यमलान्तरात्मभिः
अविक्रियात्स्वानुभवादरूपतो ह्यनन्यबोध्यात्मतया न चान्यथा tathāpi bhūman mahimāguṇasya te viboddhum arhaty amalāntar-ātmabhiḥ avikriyāt svānubhavād arūpato hy ananya-bodhyātmatayā na cānyathā

SYNONYMS

tathā api—nevertheless; bhūman—O limitless one; mahimā—the potency; aguṇasya—of Him who has no material qualities; te—of You; viboddhum—to understand; arhati—one is able; amala—spotless; antaḥ-ātmabhiḥ—with mind and senses; avikriyāt—not based on material differentiations; sva-anubhavāt—by perception of the Supreme Soul; arūpataḥ—without attachment to material forms; hi—indeed; ananya-bodhya-ātmatayā—as self-manifested, without the help of any other illuminating agent; na—not; ca—and; anyathā—otherwise.

TRANSLATION

Nondevotees, however, cannot realize You in Your full personal feature. Nevertheless, it may be possible for them to realize Your expansion as the impersonal Supreme by cultivating direct perception of the Self within the heart. But they can do this only by purifying their mind and senses of all conceptions of material distinctions and all attachment to material sense objects. Only in this way will Your impersonal feature manifest itself to them.

PURPORT

It is difficult for conditioned souls to understand all the transcendental features of the Supreme Lord. As confirmed in the First Canto of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam (1.2.11): brahmeti paramātmetye bhagavān iti śabdyate. The transcendental existence of God is understood progressively as the impersonal effulgence, the localized Supersoul in one's heart, and finally the Supreme Personality of Godhead existing in His eternal abode. Lord Kṛṣṇa's transcendental existence is beyond the qualities of material nature. Thus here the Lord is referred to as aguṇasya, without material qualities.

Even by practicing yoga or engaging in advanced philosophical speculation, one will find it very difficult to understand clearly the transcendental existence beyond the modes of material nature. And these processes are virtually useless for understanding the Lord's own unlimited transcendental qualities, which are far beyond the impersonal conception of spiritual existence. Only by the mercy of the pure devotees of the Lord or by associating with the Lord Himself can one begin the process of realizing the personal feature of God—a process that culminates in pure Kṛṣṇa consciousness, the final and supreme perfection of knowledge.

TEXT 7

गुणात्मनस्तेऽपि गुणान् विमातुं
हितावतीऋतस्य क ईशिरेऽस्य
कालेन यैर्वा विमिताः सुकल्पैर् भूपांशवः खे मिहिका द्युभासः

*guṇātmānas te 'pi guṇān vimāturṁ
hitāvatīṛnasya ka īśire 'sya*

kālena yair vā vimitāḥ su-kalpair bhū-pāṁśavaḥ khe mihikā dyu-bhāsaḥ

SYNONYMS

guṇa-ātmanaḥ—of the possessor of all superior qualities; te—You; api—certainly; guṇān—the qualities; vimātum—to count; hita-avatīrṇasya—who have descended for the benefit of all living entities; ke—who; īśire—are able; asya—of the universe; kālena—in due course of time; yaiḥ—by whom; vā—or; vimitāḥ—counted; su-kalpaiḥ—by great scientists; bhū-pāṁśavaḥ—the atoms of an earthly planet; khe—in the sky; mihikāḥ—the particles of snow; dyu-bhāsaḥ—the illumination of stars and planets.

TRANSLATION

In time, learned philosophers or scientists might be able to count all the atoms of the earth, the particles of snow, or perhaps even the shining molecules radiating from the sun, the stars and other luminaries. But among these learned men, who could possibly count the unlimited transcendental qualities possessed by You, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, who have descended onto the surface of the earth for the benefit of all living entities?

PURPORT

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Lord Kṛṣṇa is guṇātmā, "the soul of all superior qualities," because He gives them life. For example, one may discuss in an abstract way such qualities as generosity, intelligence and mercy, but they come to life only when a living person exhibits them. Thus Lord Kṛṣṇa is guṇātmā because He descends to the material world and reestablishes religious principles by exhibiting all godly qualities Himself and inspiring them in others. A living entity who develops the transcendental qualities found in the Lord receives immeasurable benefit and eventually goes with the Lord back to His own abode, where all living beings are liberated and fully endowed with the transcendental nature.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī further explains that the Lord manifests a specific spiritual quality for the benefit of each living entity. Since there are innumerable living entities within the confines of the material creation, the Lord manifests infinite qualities. Thus every conditioned soul can appreciate the Supreme Lord in a particular way.

The example is given here that even if the most learned scholars could someday count the particles of earth, snow and light, they would still fail to understand the qualities of the Lord. In this example earth, snow and light are progressively more subtle; thus it is to be understood that there is an increasing difficulty in counting their virtually infinite particles.

According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura, great personalities like Lord Saṅkarṣaṇa actually have counted the number of atoms on the earth, and even the molecules in the entire universe. Yet even such a personality as Saṅkarṣaṇa, who has been continuously chanting the glories of the Lord since time immemorial, has not even approached a final count of those glories.

Lord Kṛṣṇa exhibits His most astonishing qualities during His childhood pastimes in Vṛndāvana, where He steals butter from the cowherd ladies, dances with His girlfriends, and plays with His cowherd boyfriends as their most dear companion. Although appearing like ordinary human activities, such sublime pastimes embody Lord Kṛṣṇa's immeasurable and innumerable beautiful transcendental qualities, which are the life and soul of the pure devotees.

TEXT 8

तत्तेऽनुकम्पां सुसमीक्षमाणो
भुञ्जान एवात्मकृतं विपाकम्

हृद्वाग्वपुर्भिर्विदधन्नमस्ते जीवेत यो मुक्तिपदे स दायभाक् tat te 'nukampām su-samīkṣamāṇo bhuñjāna evātma-kṛtaṁ vipākam hṛd-vāg-vapurbhir vidadhan namas te jīveta yo mukti-pade sa dāya-bhāk

SYNONYMS

tat—therefore; te—Your; anukampām—compassion;
su-samīkṣamāṇaḥ—earnestly hoping for; bhuñjānaḥ—enduring;
eva—certainly; ātma-kṛtaṁ—done by himself; vipākam—the fruitive results;
hṛt—with his heart; vāk—words; vapurbhiḥ—and body; vidadhan—offering;
namaḥ—obeisances; te—unto You; jīveta—lives; yaḥ—anyone who;
mukti-pade—to the position of liberation; saḥ—he; dāya-bhāk—the rightful heir.

TRANSLATION

My dear Lord, one who earnestly waits for You to bestow Your causeless mercy upon him, all the while patiently suffering the reactions of his past misdeeds and offering You respectful obeisances with his heart, words and body, is surely eligible for liberation, for it has become his rightful claim.

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī explains in his commentary that just as a legitimate son has to simply remain alive to gain an inheritance from his father, one who simply remains alive in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, following the regulative principles of bhakti-yoga, automatically becomes eligible to receive the mercy of the Personality of Godhead. In other words, he will be promoted to the kingdom of God.

The word su-samīkṣamāṇa indicates that a devotee earnestly awaits the mercy of the Supreme Lord even while suffering the painful effects of previous sinful activities. Lord Kṛṣṇa explains in the Bhagavad-gītā that a devotee who fully surrenders unto Him is no longer liable to suffer the reactions of his previous karma. However, because in his mind a devotee may still maintain the remnants of his previous sinful mentality, the Lord removes the last vestiges of the enjoying spirit by giving His devotee punishments that may sometimes resemble sinful reactions. The purpose of the entire creation of God is to rectify the living entity's tendency to enjoy without the Lord, and therefore the particular punishment given for a sinful activity is specifically designed to curtail the mentality that produced the activity. Although a devotee has surrendered to the Lord's devotional service, until he is completely perfect in Kṛṣṇa consciousness he may maintain a slight inclination to enjoy the false happiness of this world. The Lord therefore creates a particular situation to eradicate this remaining enjoying spirit. This unhappiness suffered by a sincere devotee is not technically a karmic reaction; it is rather the Lord's special mercy for inducing His devotee to completely let go of the material world and return home, back to Godhead.

A sincere devotee earnestly desires to go back to the Lord's abode. Therefore he willingly accepts the Lord's merciful punishment and continues offering respects and obeisances to the Lord with his heart, words and body. Such a bona fide servant of the Lord, considering all hardship a small price to pay for gaining the personal association of the Lord, certainly becomes a legitimate son of God, as indicated here by the words dāya-bhāṅk. Just as one cannot approach the sun without becoming fire, one cannot approach the supreme pure, Lord Kṛṣṇa, without undergoing a rigid purificatory process, which may appear like suffering but which is in fact a curative treatment administered by the personal hand of the Lord.

TEXT 9

पश्येश मेऽनार्यमनन्त आद्ये
परात्मनि त्वय्यपि मायिमायिनि
मायां वितत्येक्षितुमात्मवैभवं ह्यहं कियानैच्छमिवार्चिरग्नौ

paśyeśa me 'nāryam ananta ādye parātmāni tvayy api māyi-māyini māyām vitatyekṣitum ātma-vaibhavaṁ hy ahaṁ kiyān aiccham ivārcir agnau

SYNONYMS

paśya—just see; īśa—O Lord; me—my; anāryam—contemptible behavior; anante—against the unlimited; ādye—the primeval; para-ātmāni—the Supersoul; tvayi—You; api—even; māyi-māyini—for the masters of illusion; māyām—(my) illusory potency; vitatya—spreading; īkṣitum—to see; ātma—Your; vaibhavam—power; hi—indeed; aham—I; kiyān—how much; aiccham—I desired; iva—just like; arciḥ—a small spark; agnau—in comparison to the whole fire.

TRANSLATION

My Lord, just see my uncivilized impudence! To test Your power I tried to extend my illusory potency to cover You, the unlimited and primeval Supersoul, who bewilder even the masters of illusion. What am I compared to You? I am just like a small spark in the presence of a great fire.

PURPORT

A great fire produces many sparks, which are insignificant in comparison to it. Indeed, if one of the small sparks were to try to burn the original fire, the attempt would be simply ludicrous. Similarly, even the creator of the entire universe, Lord Brahmā, is an insignificant spark of the potency of God, and therefore Brahmā's attempt to bewilder the Supreme Lord was certainly ludicrous.

Brahmā here addresses Lord Kṛṣṇa as īśa, which indicates that Kṛṣṇa is not only the supreme master of everyone but is also specifically the master of Brahmā, who creates the universe directly under the guidance of the Lord and who, indeed, is born directly from the Lord's own body.

Brahmā felt ashamed of his impudent attempt at deluding Lord Kṛṣṇa, and he was therefore perfectly willing to be punished or forgiven by the Lord, according to His decision. If Lord Kṛṣṇa does not mercifully punish His devotees when they act improperly, their foolishness will simply increase and gradually completely overwhelm their devotional sentiments. Therefore Lord Kṛṣṇa kindly disciplines His devotees and maintains them on the progressive path back home, back to Godhead.

TEXT 10

अतः क्षमस्वाच्युत मे रजोभुवो
ह्यजानतस्त्वत्पृथगीशमानिनः
अजावलेपान्धतमोऽन्धचक्षुष एषोऽनुकम्प्यो मयि नाथवानिति

ataḥ kṣamasvācyuta me rajo-bhuvo hy ajānatas tvat-pṛthag-īśa-māninaḥ ajāvālepāndha-tamo-'ndha-cakṣuṣa eṣo 'nukampyo mayi nāthavān iti

SYNONYMS

ataḥ—therefore; kṣamasva—please excuse; acyuta—O infallible Lord; me—me; rajaḥ-bhuvaḥ—who have taken birth in the mode of passion; hi—indeed; ajānataḥ—being ignorant; tvat—from You; prthak—separate; īśa—a controller; māninaḥ—presuming myself; aja—the unborn creator; avalepa—the covering; andha-tamaḥ—by such darkness of ignorance; andha—blinded; cakṣuṣaḥ—my eyes; eṣaḥ—this person; anukampyaḥ—should be shown mercy; mayi—Me; nātha-vān—having as his master; iti—thus thinking.

TRANSLATION

Therefore, O infallible Lord, kindly excuse my offenses. I have taken birth in the mode of passion and am therefore simply foolish, presuming myself a controller independent of Your Lordship. My eyes are blinded by the darkness of ignorance, which causes me to think of myself as the unborn creator of the universe. But please consider that I am Your servant and therefore worthy of Your compassion.

PURPORT

In his commentary, Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura explains that Brahmā wanted to present the following argument to the Lord: "My dear Lord, because I have acted so badly I certainly deserve to be punished. On the other hand, because I am so ignorant You should consider me an innocent fool and be merciful to me. Thus, although I deserve both punishment and forgiveness, I humbly beg You to exercise tolerance in this matter and simply forgive me and show me Your mercy."

The words nāthavān iti indicate that Lord Brahmā wanted to humbly remind Lord Kṛṣṇa that He was, after all, Brahmā's father and master and should therefore forgive the unfortunate transgressions of His humble servant. Every conditioned soul, whether he be Lord Brahmā or an insignificant ant, falsely identifies himself with the material world and in this way forgets his eternal relationship with the Supreme Personality of Godhead. Lord Brahmā, because of his prestigious position as the cosmic creator, also tends to identify himself as the lord of this world, and thus he sometimes forgets his position as an insignificant servant of the Supreme Lord. Now, by Lord Kṛṣṇa's mercy, this false identification is being rectified and Lord Brahmā is remembering his constitutional position as the eternal servant of God.

TEXT 11

क्वाहं तमोमहदहंखचराग्निवार्भू- संवेष्टिताण्डघटसप्तवितस्तिकायः
क्वेदृग्विधाविगणिताण्डपराणुचर्या- वाताध्वरोमविवरस्य च ते महित्वम्

kvāham tamo-mahad-aham-kha-carāgni-vār-bhūsaṁveṣṭitāṇḍa-ghaṭa-sapta-vitasti-kāyaḥ kvedṛg-vidhāvigaṇitāṇḍa-paraṇu-caryā-vātādhva-roma-vivarasya ca te mahitvam

SYNONYMS

kva—where; aham—I; tamaḥ—the material nature; mahat—the total material energy; aham—false ego; kha—ether; cara—air; agni—fire; vāḥ—water; bhū—earth; saṁveṣṭita—surrounded by; aṇḍa-ghaṭa—a potlike universe; sapta-vitasti—seven spans; kāyaḥ—body; kva—where; īdṛk—such; vidhā—like; avigaṇita—unlimited; aṇḍa—universes; para-aṇu—like the atomic dust; caryā—moving; vāta-adhva—airholes; roma—of hair on the body;

vivarasya—of the holes; ca—also; te—Your; mahitvam—greatness.

TRANSLATION

What am I, a small creature measuring seven spans of my own hand? I am enclosed in a potlike universe composed of material nature, the total material energy, false ego, ether, air, water and earth. And what is Your glory? Unlimited universes pass through the pores of Your body just as particles of dust pass through the openings of a screened window.

PURPORT

In the Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, Chapter Five, Text 72, Śrīla Prabhupāda gives the following purport for this verse: "Then Lord Brahmā, after having stolen all Kṛṣṇa's cows and cowherd boys, returned and saw that the cows and boys were still roaming with Kṛṣṇa, he offered this prayer in his defeat. A conditioned soul—even one so great as Brahmā, who manages the affairs of the entire universe—cannot compare to the Personality of Godhead, for He can produce numberless universes simply by the spiritual rays emanating from the pores of His body. Material scientists should take lessons from the utterances of Śrī Brahmā regarding our insignificance in comparison with God. In these prayers of Brahmā there is much to learn for those who are falsely puffed up by the accumulation of power."

In Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Chapter Fourteen, Śrīla Prabhupāda further comments on this verse: "Lord Brahmā realized his actual position. He is certainly the supreme teacher of this universe, in charge of the production of material nature, consisting of the complete material energy, false ego, sky, air, fire, water and earth. Such a universe may be gigantic, but it can be measured, just as we measure our body as seven spans. Generally, everyone's personal bodily measurement is calculated to be seven spans of his hand. This particular universe may appear to be a very gigantic body, but it is nothing but the measurement of seven spans for Lord Brahmā."

Aside from this universe, there are unlimited other universes outside the jurisdiction of this particular Lord Brahmā. Just as innumerable atomic infinitesimal fragments pass through the holes of a screened window, so millions and trillions of universes in their seedling form are coming out from the bodily pores of Mahā-Viṣṇu, and that Mahā-Viṣṇu is but a part of the plenary expansion of Kṛṣṇa. Under these circumstances, although Lord Brahmā is the supreme creature within this universe, what is his importance in the presence of Lord Kṛṣṇa?

TEXT 12

उत्क्षेपणं गर्भगतस्य पादयोः
किं कल्पते मातुरधोक्षजागसे
किमस्तिनास्तिव्यपदेशभूषितं तवास्ति कुक्षेः कियदप्यनन्तः utkṣepaṇam garbha-gatasya pādayoḥ kim kalpate mātur adhokṣajāgase kim asti-nāsti-vyapadeśa-bhūṣitam tavāsti kukṣeḥ kiyad apy anantaḥ

SYNONYMS

utkṣepaṇam—the kicking; garbha-gatasya—of a child in the womb; pādayoḥ—of the legs; kim—what; kalpate—amounts to; mātuḥ—for the mother; adhokṣaja—O transcendental Lord; āgase—as an offense; kim—what; asti—it exists; na asti—it does not exist; vyapadeśa—by the designations; bhūṣitam—decorated; tava—Your; asti—there is, kukṣeḥ—of the abdomen; kiyat—how much; api—even; anantaḥ—external.

TRANSLATION

O Lord Adhokṣaja, does a mother take offense when the child within her womb kicks with his legs? And is there anything in existence—whether designated by various philosophers as real or as unreal—that is actually outside Your abdomen?

PURPORT

Śrīla Prabhupāda comments as follows on this verse in Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Chapter Fourteen: "Lord Brahmā therefore compared himself to a little child within the womb of his mother. If the child within the womb plays with his hands and legs, and while playing touches the body of the mother, is the mother offended with the child? Of course she isn't. Similarly, Lord Brahmā may be a very great personality, and yet not only Brahmā but everything that be is existing within the womb of the Supreme Personality of Godhead. The Lord's energy is all-pervading: there is no place in the creation where it is not acting. Since everything is existing within the energy of the Lord, the Brahmā of this universe or the Brahmās of the many other millions and trillions of universes are existing within the energy of the Lord; therefore the Lord is considered to be the mother, and everything existing within the womb of the mother is considered to be the child. And the good mother is never offended with the child, even if he touches the body of the mother by kicking his legs."

TEXT 13

जगत्त्रयान्तोदधिसम्प्लवोदे
नारायणस्योदरनाभिनालात्
विनिर्गतोऽजस्त्विति वाङ् न वै मृषा

किन्त्वीश्वर त्वन्न विनिर्गतोऽस्मि

jagat-trayāntodadhi-samplavode nārāyaṇasyodara-nābhi-nālāt vinirgato 'jas tv iti vāñ na vai mṛṣā kintv īśvara tvan na vinirgato 'smi

SYNONYMS

jagat-traya—of the three worlds; anta—in the dissolution; udadhi—of all the oceans; samplava—of the total deluge; ude—in the water; nārāyaṇasya—of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Nārāyaṇa; udara—growing from the abdomen; nābhi—from the navel; nālāt—out of the lotus stem; vinirgataḥ—came out; ajaḥ—Brahmā; tu—indeed; iti—thus speaking; vāk—the words; na—are not; vai—certainly; mṛṣā—false; kintu—thus; īśvara—O Lord; tvat—from You; na—not; vinirgataḥ—specifically emanated; asmi—am I.

TRANSLATION

My dear Lord, it is said that when the three planetary systems are merged into the water at the time of dissolution, Your plenary portion, Nārāyaṇa, lies down on the water, gradually a lotus flower grows from His navel, and Brahmā takes birth upon that lotus flower. Certainly, these words are not false. Thus am I not born from You?

PURPORT

Although every living being is a child of God, Lord Brahmā here makes a special claim because he takes birth on a lotus flower that emanates from the navel of Nārāyaṇa, the Personality of Godhead. Ultimately, all living beings are equally expansions of the transcendental body of the Supreme Lord. But Brahmā has an intimate relationship with the Lord because of the activities of universal creation, and so he uses the prefix vi in the word vinirgata to beg the Lord's special mercy. Lord Brahmā is called aja because he is not born from any mother but rather emanates directly from the body of the Lord. As Śrīla Prabhupāda states in Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, "It is naturally concluded that the mother of Brahmā is Nārāyaṇa." On these grounds, Lord Brahmā is requesting special forgiveness for his offenses.

TEXT 14

नारायणस्त्वं न हि सर्वदेहिनाम्
आत्मास्यधीशाखिललोकसाक्षी
नारायणोऽङ्गं नरभूजलायनात् तच्चापि सत्यं न तवैव माया

nārāyaṇas tvam na hi sarva-dehinām ātmāsy adhīśākhila-loka-sākṣī nārāyaṇo 'ṅgaṁ nara-bhū-jalāyanāt tat cāpi satyaṁ na tavaiva māyā

SYNONYMS

nārāyaṇaḥ—the Supreme Lord Nārāyaṇa; tvam—You; na—not; hi—whether; sarva—of all; dehinām—embodied living beings; ātmā—the Supersoul; asi—You are; adhīśa—O supreme controller; akhila—of all; loka—planets; sākṣī—the witness; nārāyaṇaḥ—Lord Śrī Nārāyaṇa; aṅgam—the expanded plenary portion; nara—from the Supreme Personality; bhū—originating; jala—of the water; ayanāt—because of being the manifesting source; tat—that (expansion); ca—and; api—indeed; satyaṁ—true; na—not; tava—Your; eva—at all; māyā—illusory energy.

TRANSLATION

Are You not the original Nārāyaṇa, O supreme controller, since You are the Soul of every embodied being and the eternal witness of all created realms? Indeed, Lord Nārāyaṇa is Your expansion, and He is called Nārāyaṇa because He is the generating source of the primeval water of the universe. He is real, not a product of Your illusory Māyā.

PURPORT

In the Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, Chapter Two, Text 30, Śrīla Prabhupāda comments on this verse as follows: "This statement was spoken by Lord Brahmā in his prayers to Lord Kṛṣṇa after the Lord defeated him by displaying His mystic powers. Brahmā had tried to test Lord Kṛṣṇa to see if He was really the Supreme Personality of Godhead playing as a cowherd boy. Brahmā stole all the other boys and their cows from the pasturing grounds, but when he returned to the pastures he saw that all the boys and cows were still there, for Lord Kṛṣṇa had created them all again. When Brahmā saw this mystic power of Lord Kṛṣṇa, he admitted defeat and offered prayers to the Lord, addressing Him as the proprietor and seer of everything in the creation and as the Supersoul who is within each and every living entity and is dear to all. Lord Kṛṣṇa is Nārāyaṇa, the father of Brahmā, because Lord Kṛṣṇa's plenary expansion Garbhodakaśāyī Viṣṇu, after placing Himself on the Garbha Ocean, created Brahmā from His own body. Mahā-Viṣṇu in the Causal Ocean and Kṣīrodakaśāyī Viṣṇu, the Supersoul in everyone's heart, are also transcendental expansions of the Supreme Truth."

In his commentary on this verse, Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī has elaborately explained the expansion of the Viṣṇu, or Nārāyaṇa, incarnations from the original form of Godhead, Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa. The essence is that although Lord Brahmā was born from Lord Nārāyaṇa, Brahmā now understands that Nārāyaṇa is Himself a mere expansion of the original Personality of Godhead, Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 15

तच्चेज्जलस्थं तव सज्जगद्वपुः
किं मे न दृष्टं भगवंस्तदैव
किं वा सुदृष्टं हृदि मे तदैव किं नो सपद्येव पुनर्व्यदर्शि tac cej jala-stham tava saj jagad-vapuḥ kim me na dṛṣṭam bhagavaṁs tadaiva kim vā su-dṛṣṭam hṛdi me tadaiva kim no sapady eva punar vyadarśi

SYNONYMS

tat—that; cet—if; jala-stham—situated upon the water; tava—Your; sat—real; jagat—sheltering the entire universe; vapuḥ—the transcendental body; kim—why; me—by me; na dṛṣṭam—was not seen; bhagavan—O Supreme Lord; tadā eva—at that very time; kim—why; vā—or; su-dṛṣṭam—perfectly seen; hṛdi—within the heart; me—by me; tadā eva—just then; kim—why; na—not; u—on the other hand; sapadi—suddenly; eva—indeed; punaḥ—again; vyadarśi—was seen.

TRANSLATION

My dear Lord, if Your transcendental body, which shelters the entire universe, is actually lying upon the water, then why were You not seen by me when I searched for You? And why, though I could not envision You properly within my heart, did You then suddenly reveal Yourself?

PURPORT

Lord Brahmā here refers to his experience at the dawn of cosmic creation. As described in the Second Canto of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, Lord Brahmā took birth on the seat of a giant lotus whose stem emanated from the navel of Nārāyaṇa. Brahmā was bewildered as to his whereabouts, function and identity, and therefore he tried to trace out the source of the lotus stem, searching for clear information. Unable to find the Personality of Godhead, he returned to his seat and engaged in severe austerities, having been ordered to do so by the transcendental voice of the Lord, who could be heard but not seen. After long meditation, Brahmā saw the Lord but then again lost sight of Him. Thus Brahmā concludes that the transcendental body of the Personality of Godhead is not material but rather an eternal, spiritual form endowed with inconceivable mystic potencies. In other words, Lord Brahmā should not have challenged the Personality of Godhead, the Lord of all mystic power.

TEXT 16

अत्रैव मायाधमनावतारे
ह्यस्य प्रपञ्चस्य बहिः स्फुटस्य कृत्स्नस्य चान्तर्जठरे जनन्या मायात्वमेव प्रकटीकृतं ते

atraiva māyā-dhamanāvatāre hy asya prapañcasya bahiḥ sphuṭasya kṛtsnasya cāntar jaṭhare jananyā māyātvam eva prakṛtī-kṛtaṁ te

SYNONYMS

atra—in this; eva—indeed; māyā-dhamana—O subduer of Māyā; avatāre—in the incarnation; hi—certainly; asya—of this; prapañcasya—created material manifestation; bahiḥ—externally; sphuṭasya—which is visible; kṛtsnasya—entire; ca—and; antaḥ—within; jaṭhare—Your abdomen; jananyāḥ—unto Your mother; māyātvam—Your bewildering potency; eva—indeed; prakaṭī-kṛtam—has been demonstrated; te—by You.

TRANSLATION

My dear Lord, in this incarnation You have proved that You are the supreme controller of Māyā. Although You are now within this universe, the whole universal creation is within Your transcendental body—a fact You demonstrated by exhibiting the universe within Your abdomen before Your mother, Yaśodā.

PURPORT

Lord Brahmā here describes the inconceivable spiritual potency of the Lord. We may find a pot within a house, but we can hardly expect to find the house within the same pot. By the Lord's spiritual potency, however, He can appear within this universe and simultaneously exhibit all the universes within His body. One may argue that since the universes seen by mother Yaśodā within Lord Kṛṣṇa's abdomen were within the Lord's body, they are different from the illusory material universes manifest externally. Here Lord Brahmā refutes that argument, however. Lord Kṛṣṇa is māyā-dhamana, the supreme controller of illusion. By the Lord's own supreme mystic potency, He can bewilder even illusion herself, and thus the Lord actually exhibited all the material universes within His body. This is māyātvam, the supreme bewildering potency of the Personality of Godhead.

TEXT 17

यस्य कुक्षाविदं सर्वं
सात्मं भाति यथा तथा
तत्त्वय्यपीह तत्सर्वं किमिदं मायया विना

yasya kukṣāv idam sarvaṁ sātmam bhāti yathā tathā tat tvayy apīha tat sarvaṁ kim idam māyayā vinā

SYNONYMS

yasya—of whom; kukṣau—within the abdomen; idam—this cosmic manifestation; sarvam—all; sa-ātmam—including Yourself; bhāti—is manifested; yathā—as; tathā—so; tat—that; tvayi—within You; api—although; iha—here externally; tat—that cosmic manifestation; sarvam—whole; kim—what; idam—this; māyayā—the influence of Your inconceivable energy; vinā—without.

TRANSLATION

Just as this entire universe, including You, was exhibited within Your abdomen, so it is now manifested here externally in the same exact form. How could such things happen unless arranged by Your inconceivable energy?

PURPORT

Śrīla Prabhupāda comments on this verse as follows in Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead: "Lord Brahmā stressed herein that without accepting the inconceivable energy of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, one cannot explain things as they are."

TEXT 18

अद्यैव त्वदृतेऽस्य किं मम न ते मायात्वमादर्शितम्
एकोऽसि प्रथमं ततो ब्रजसुहृद्वत्साः समस्ता अपि
तावन्तोऽसि चतुर्भुजास्तदखिलैः साकं मयोपासितास्
तावन्त्येव जगन्त्यभूस्तदमितं ब्रह्माद्वयं शिष्यते

*adyaiva tvad ṛte 'sya kiṁ mama na te māyātvam ādarśitam
eko 'si prathamam tato vraja-suhṛd-vatsāḥ samastā api tāvanto 'si catur-bhujās tad akhilaiḥ sākam mayopāsītās tāvanty eva jaganty abhūs tad amitam brahmādvayaṁ śiṣyate*

SYNONYMS

adya—today; eva—just; tvad ṛte—apart from You; asya—of this universe; kiṁ—what; mama—to me; na—not; te—by You; māyātvam—the basis in Your inconceivable potency; ādarśitam—shown; ekaḥ—alone; asi—You are; prathamam—first of all; tataḥ—then; vraja-suhṛt—Your cowherd boyfriends of Vṛndāvana; vatsāḥ—and the calves; samastāḥ—all; api—even; tāvantaḥ—of the same number; asi—You became; catur-bhujāḥ—four-handed forms of Lord Viṣṇu; tat—then; akhilaiḥ—by all; sākam—together with; mayā—myself; upāsītāḥ—being worshiped; tāvanti—of the same number; eva—also; jaganti—universes; abhūḥ—You became; tat—then; amitam—the unlimited; brahma—Absolute Truth; advayaṁ—one without a second; śiṣyate—You now remain.

TRANSLATION

Have You not shown me today that both You Yourself and everything within this creation are manifestations of Your inconceivable potency? First

You appeared alone, and then You manifested Yourself as all of Vṛndāvana's calves and cowherd boys, Your friends. Next You appeared as an equal number of four-handed Viṣṇu forms, who were worshiped by all living beings, including me, and after that You appeared as an equal number of complete universes. Finally, You have now returned to Your unlimited form as the Supreme Absolute Truth, one without a second.

PURPORT

As stated in the Vedic literature, sarvaṁ khalv idaṁ brahma: everything that exists is an expansion of the Supreme Personality of Godhead. Thus everything is ultimately part and parcel of the Lord's spiritual existence. By Lord Kṛṣṇa's causeless mercy, Lord Brahmā personally experienced that all existence, being the potency of God, is nondifferent from Him.

TEXT 19

अजानतां त्वत्पदवीमनात्मन्य्
आत्मात्मना भासि वितत्य मायाम्
सृष्टाविवाहं जगतो विधान इव त्वमेषोऽन्त इव त्रिनेत्रः

ajānatām tvat-padavīm anātmany ātmātmanā bhāsi vitatya māyām sṛṣṭāv ivāhaṁ jagato vidhāna iva tvam eṣo 'nta iva trinetraḥ

SYNONYMS

ajānatām—to persons who are in ignorance; tvat-padavīm—of Your transcendental position; anātmāni—in the material energy; ātmā—Yourself;

ātmanā—by Yourself; bhāsi—appear; vitatya—expanding; māyām—Your inconceivable energy; sṛṣṭau—in the matter of creation; iva—as if; aham—I, Brahmā; jagataḥ—of the universe; vidhāne—in the maintenance; iva—as if; tvam eṣaḥ—Yourself; ante—in the annihilation; iva—as if; tri-netraḥ—Lord Śiva.

TRANSLATION

To persons ignorant of Your actual transcendental position, You appear as part of the material world, manifesting Yourself by the expansion of Your inconceivable energy. Thus for the creation of the universe You appear as me [Brahmā], for its maintenance You appear as Yourself [Viṣṇu], and for its annihilation You appear as Lord Trinetra [Śiva].

PURPORT

Although the impersonal Māyāvādī philosophers think that the demigods are illusory, Lord Brahmā, Lord Śiva and Lord Viṣṇu are stated here to be expansions of the Supreme Personality of Godhead and are thus real. Indeed, they are the extraordinarily powerful controllers of the universe. The ultimate truth is a supreme and beautiful person, and thus throughout the creation of God we will always find the personal touch.

TEXT 20

सुरेष्णुषिष्वीश तथैव नृष्वपि
तिर्यक्षु यादःस्वपि तेऽजनस्य
जन्मासतां दुर्मदनिग्रहाय प्रभो विधातः सद्नुग्रहाय च sureṣu ṛṣiṣu īśa tathaiva nṛṣu api tiryakṣu yādaḥsu api te 'janasya janmāsatām durmada-nigrahāya prabho vidhātaḥ sad-anugrahāya ca

SYNONYMS

sureṣu—among the demigods; ṛṣiṣu—among the great sages; īśa—O Lord; tathā—as well as; eva—indeed; nṛṣu—among the human beings; api—and; tiryakṣu—among animals; yādaḥsu—among aquatics; api—also; te—of You; ajanasya—who never takes material birth; janma—the birth; asatām—of the nondevotees; durmada—the false pride; nigrahāya—for the purpose of subduing; prabho—O master; vidhātaḥ—O creator; sat—to the faithful devotees; anugrahāya—for the purpose of showing mercy; ca—and.

TRANSLATION

O Lord, O supreme creator and master, You have no material birth, yet to defeat the false pride of the faithless demons and show mercy to Your saintly devotees, You take birth among the demigods, sages, human beings, animals and even the aquatics.

PURPORT

Among the demigods Lord Kṛṣṇa appears in such forms as Vāmanadeva, among the sages as Paraśurāma, among human beings as Lord Kṛṣṇa Himself and as Lord Rāmacandra, and among animals as the boar incarnation. Lord Kṛṣṇa appears among the aquatics as Matsya, the gigantic fish. Indeed, the plenary expansions of the Supreme Personality of Godhead are innumerable, as the Lord relentlessly comes down within the universes to smash the false pride of the atheists and show mercy to the saintly devotees.

In another sense, the Lord never appears, since He exists eternally. His appearance is like that of the sun, which is always present in the sky but which periodically appears to our vision.

TEXT 21

को वेत्ति भूमन् भगवन् परात्मन्
योगेश्वरोतीर्भवतस्त्रिलोक्याम् क्व वा कथं वा कति वा कदेति विस्तारयन् क्रीडसि योगमायाम्

ko vetti bhūman bhagavan parātman yogeśvarotīr bhavatas tri-lokyām kva vā katham vā kati vā kadeti vistārayan krīḍasi yoga-māyām

SYNONYMS

kaḥ—who; vetti—knows; bhūman—O supreme great one; bhagavan—O Supreme Personality of Godhead; para-ātman—O Supreme Soul; yoga-īśvara—O master of mystic power; ūtīḥ—the pastimes; bhavataḥ—of Your Lordship; tri-lokyām—in the three worlds; kva—where; vā—or; katham—how; vā—or; kati—how many; vā—or; kadā—when; iti—thus; vistārayan—expanding; krīḍasi—You play; yoga-māyām—Your spiritual energy.

TRANSLATION

O supreme great one! O Supreme Personality of Godhead! O Supersoul, master of all mystic power! Your pastimes are taking place continuously in these three worlds, but who can estimate where, how and when You are employing Your spiritual energy and performing these innumerable pastimes? No one can understand the mystery of how Your spiritual energy acts.

PURPORT

Brahmā previously stated that Lord Kṛṣṇa incarnates among the demigods, human beings, animals, fish and so on. This does not mean, however, that the Lord is degraded by His incarnations. As Brahmā clarifies here, no conditioned soul can understand the transcendental nature of the Lord's activities, which He enacts through His spiritual potency. Although the Lord is bhūman, the supremely great one, He is still Bhagavān, the supremely beautiful personality exhibiting pastimes of love in His own abode. At the same time He is Paramātmā, the all-pervading Supersoul, who witnesses and sanctions all the activities of conditioned souls. The Lord's multiple identity is explained by the term yogeśvara. The Absolute Truth is the master of all mystic potencies, and although He is one and supreme, He manifests His greatness and opulence in many different ways.

Such elevated spiritual matters can hardly be understood by foolish persons primitively identifying themselves with the insignificant material body. These conditioned souls, such as atheistic scientists, consider their own puffed-up intelligence supreme. Gullibly placing their firm faith in material illusion, they are captured by the modes of nature and driven far away from knowledge of God.

TEXT 22

तस्मादिदं जगदशेषमसत्स्वरूपं
स्वप्नाभमस्तधिषणं पुरुदुःखदुःखम्
त्वय्येव नित्यसुखबोधतनावनन्ते

मायात उद्यदपि यत्सदिवावभाति

tasmād idam jagad aśeṣam asat-svarūpaṁ svapnābham asta-dhīṣaṇam puru-duḥkha-duḥkham tvayy eva nitya-sukha-bodha-tanāv anante māyāta udyad api yat sad ivāvabhāti

SYNONYMS

tasmāt—therefore; idam—this; jagat—cosmic manifestation; aśeṣam—entire; asat-svarūpaṁ—whose existence is unreal in the sense of temporary; svapna-ābham—like a dream; asta-dhīṣaṇam—wherein awareness becomes covered over; puru-duḥkha-duḥkham—full of repeated miseries; tvayi—within You; eva—indeed; nitya—eternal; sukha—happy; bodha—conscious; tanau—whose personal appearances; anante—who is unlimited; māyātaḥ—by the illusory energy; udyat—coming forth; api—although; yat—which; sat—real; iva—as if; avabhāti—appears.

TRANSLATION

Therefore this entire universe, which like a dream is by nature unreal, nevertheless appears real, and thus it covers one's consciousness and assails one with repeated miseries. This universe appears real because it is manifested by the potency of illusion emanating from You, whose unlimited transcendental forms are full of eternal happiness and knowledge.

PURPORT

As an object of enjoyment or a permanent residence for the conditioned souls, the material universe is certainly illusion, nothing more than a dream. One may give the analogy that the vision of abundant water in a desert is no more than a dream, although real water exists elsewhere. Similarly, the vision of home, happiness and reality within matter is certainly no better than a foolish dream in which repeated miseries appear.

In another sense, however, the universe is real. In his commentary on Vedānta-sūtra, Śrīla Madhvācārya has confirmed this by quoting the following statement from the Vedic śruti-mantras: satyaṁ hy evedaṁ viśvam asṛjata. "This universe, created by the Lord, is real." The perfect authority of the Vedas thus certifies this universe to be real; nevertheless, because our knowledge is stolen by illusion (as indicated here by the words asta-dhiṣaṇam), we cannot properly understand this universe or the Supreme Lord who has created it. As the expansion of Lord Kṛṣṇa, the universe is real and is meant for being engaged in His service. One who accepts the kingdom of God as home, the Lord Himself as the object of love, and the material universe as paraphernalia for being engaged in the Lord's service dwells within eternal reality wherever he may go within the material and spiritual worlds.

TEXT 23

एकस्त्वमात्मा पुरुषः पुराणः
सत्यः स्वयंज्योतिरनन्त आद्यः
नित्योऽक्षरोऽजस्रसुखो निरञ्जनः पूर्णाद्वयो मुक्त उपाधितोऽमृतः

ekas tvam ātmā puruṣaḥ purāṇaḥ satyaḥ svayaṁ-jyotir ananta ādyaḥ nityo 'kṣaro 'jasra-sukho nirañjanaḥ pūrṇādvayo mukta upādhito 'mṛtaḥ

SYNONYMS

ekaḥ—one; tvam—You; ātmā—the Supreme Soul; puruṣaḥ—the Supreme Person; purāṇaḥ—the oldest; satyaḥ—the Absolute Truth; svayam-jyotiḥ—self-manifested; anantaḥ—without end; ādyāḥ—without beginning; nityāḥ—eternal; akṣaraḥ—indestructible; ajasra-sukhaḥ—whose happiness cannot be obstructed; nirañjanaḥ—devoid of contamination; pūrṇa—complete; advayaḥ—without a second; muktaḥ—free; upādhiḥ—from all material designations; amṛtaḥ—deathless.

TRANSLATION

You are the one Supreme Soul, the primeval Supreme Personality, the Absolute Truth—self-manifested, endless and beginningless. You are eternal and infallible, perfect and complete, without any rival and free from all material designations. Your happiness can never be obstructed, nor have You any connection with material contamination. Indeed, You are the indestructible nectar of immortality.

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī explains how the various terms of this verse demonstrate that the transcendental body of Lord Kṛṣṇa is free from the characteristics of material bodies. All material bodies go through six phases: birth, growth, maturity, reproduction, decline and destruction. But Lord Kṛṣṇa does not take material birth, since He is the original reality, a fact clearly indicated here by the word adya, "original." We take our material birth within a particular material atmosphere, in material bodies that are amalgamations of various material elements. Since Lord Kṛṣṇa existed long before the creation of any material atmosphere or element, there is no question of material birth for His transcendental body.

Similarly, the word pūrṇa, meaning "full and complete," refutes the concept that Lord Kṛṣṇa could grow, since He is ever-existing in fullness. When one's material body becomes mature, one can no longer enjoy as in youth; but the words ajasra-sukha, "enjoying unobstructed happiness," indicate that Lord Kṛṣṇa's body never reaches so-called middle age, since it is always full of spiritual youthful bliss. The word akṣara, "undiminishing," refutes the possibility that Lord Kṛṣṇa's body grows old or declines, and the word amṛta, "immortal" negates the possibility of death.

In other words, Lord Kṛṣṇa's transcendental body is free from the transformations of material bodies. The Lord does, however, create innumerable worlds and expand Himself as innumerable living entities. But the Lord's so-called reproduction is completely spiritual and does not take place at a certain phase of bodily existence; rather, it constitutes the Lord's eternal proclivity to expand His spiritual bliss and glories.

As the Lord states in śruti, pūrvam evāham ihāsam: "I alone existed in the beginning." Therefore here the Lord is called puruṣaḥ purāṇaḥ, "the primeval enjoyer." This original puruṣa expands Himself as the Supersoul and enters every living being. Still, He is ultimately the Absolute Truth, Kṛṣṇa, as stated in the Gopāla-tāpanī Upaniṣad: yaḥ sākṣāt para-brahmeti govindam sac-cid-ānanda-vigrahaṁ vṛndāvana-sura-bhūruha-talāsīnam. "The Absolute Truth Himself is Govinda, who has an eternal form of bliss and knowledge and who is sitting beneath the shady desire trees of Vṛndāvana." This Absolute Truth is beyond material ignorance and beyond even ordinary spiritual knowledge, as stated in the same Gopāla-tāpanī śruti: vidyāvidyābhyām bhinnāḥ. Thus, in many ways the supremacy of Lord Kṛṣṇa has been established in the Vedic literature, and it is here confirmed by Lord Brahmā himself.

TEXT 24

एवंविधं त्वां सकलात्मनामपि
स्वात्मानमात्मात्मतया विचक्षते
गुर्वर्कलब्धोपनिषत्सुचक्षुषा

ये ते तरन्तीव भवानृताम्बुधिम्

evam-vidham tvām sakalātmanām api svātmānam ātmāmatayā vicakṣate gurv-arka-labdhopaniṣat-sucakṣuṣā ye te tarantīva bhavānṛtāmbudhim

SYNONYMS

evam-vidham—as thus described; tvām—You; sakala—of all; ātmanām—souls; api—indeed; sva-ātmānam—the very Soul; ātma-ātmāmatayā—as the Supersoul; vicakṣate—they see; guru—from the spiritual master; arka—who is like the sun; labdha—received; upaniṣat—of confidential knowledge; su-cakṣuṣā—by the perfect eye; ye—who; te—they; taranti—cross over; iva—easily; bhava—of material existence; anṛta—which is not real; ambudhim—the ocean.

TRANSLATION

Those who have received the clear vision of knowledge from the sunlike spiritual master can see You in this way, as the very Soul of all souls, the Supersoul of everyone's own self. Thus understanding Your original personality, they are able to cross over the ocean of illusory material existence.

PURPORT

As confirmed in the Bhagavad-gītā (4.9), *janma karma ca me divyam

evam yo vetti tattvataḥ tyaktvā dehaṁ punar janma
naiti mām eti so 'rjuna*

"One who knows the transcendental nature of My appearance and activities does not, upon leaving the body, take his birth again in this material world, but attains My eternal abode, O Arjuna."

TEXT 25

आत्मानमेवात्मतयाविजानतां
तेनैव जातं निखिलं प्रपञ्चितम्
ज्ञानेन भूयोऽपि च तत्प्रलीयते रज्ज्वामहेर्भोगभवाभवौ यथा

ātmānam evātmatayāvijānatām tenaiva jātam nikhilam prapañcitam jñānena bhūyo 'pi ca tat pralīyate rajjvām aher bhoga-bhavābhavau yathā

SYNONYMS

ātmānam—Yourself; eva—indeed; ātmatayā—as the Supreme Soul; avijānatām—for those who do not understand; tena—by that; eva—alone; jātam—is generated; nikhilam—the entire; prapañcitam—material existence; jñānena—by knowledge; bhūyaḥ api—once again; ca—and; tat—that material existence; pralīyate—disappears; rajjvām—within a rope; aheḥ—of a snake; bhoga—of the body; bhava-abhavau—the apparent appearance and disappearance; yathā—just as.

TRANSLATION

A person who mistakes a rope for a snake becomes fearful, but he then gives up his fear upon realizing that the so-called snake does not exist. Similarly, for those who fail to recognize You as the Supreme Soul of all souls, the expansive illusory material existence arises, but knowledge of You at once causes it to subside.

PURPORT

Those submerged in illusion see material existence as infinite, just as one who is submerged in water sees only water all around him. For example, material scientists and philosophers, submerged deep within the ocean of material illusion, imagine that material nature extends infinitely in all directions. In fact, the material creation is a finite ocean of ignorance in which foolish living entities, such as material scientists, are unceremoniously dunked by the order of the Supreme Personality of Godhead.

To be trapped in a world in which all things are born and die is certainly a fearful experience. Anyone trapped in a dark place naturally becomes fearful. Since material life is always covered by the darkness of ignorance, every conditioned soul is fearful. The material nature is not ultimate reality, and thus analysis of matter can never provide answers to ultimate questions. This dark, snakelike existence called material life immediately disappears as soon as one opens his eyes to the bright light of Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 26

अज्ञानसंज्ञौ भवबन्धमोक्षौ
द्वौ नाम नान्यौ स्त ऋतज्ञभावात् अजस्रचित्यात्मनि केवले परे विचार्यमाणे तरणाविवाहनी

ajñāna-samjñau bhava-bandha-mokṣau dvau nāma nānyau sta ṛta-jñā-bhāvāt ajasra-city ātmani kevale pare

vicāryamāṇe taraṇāv ivāhanī

SYNONYMS

ajñāna—manifesting from ignorance; saṁjñau—which designations; bhava-bandha—bondage to material existence; mokṣau—and liberation; dvau—the two; nāma—indeed; na—not; anyau—separate; staḥ—are; ṛta—true; jñā-bhāvāt—from knowledge; ajasra-citi—whose awareness is unimpeded; ātmani—the spirit soul; kevale—who is separate from matter; pare—who is pure; vicāryamāṇe—when he is properly distinguished; taraṇau—within the sun; iva—just as; ahanī—day and night.

TRANSLATION

The conception of material bondage and the conception of liberation are both manifestations of ignorance. Being outside the scope of true knowledge, they cease to exist when one correctly understands that the pure spirit soul is distinct from matter and always fully conscious. At that time bondage and liberation no longer have any significance, just as day and night have no significance from the perspective of the sun.

PURPORT

Material bondage is illusion because the living entity actually has no real relationship with the material world. Because of false ego, the conditioned soul identifies himself with matter. Therefore so-called liberation is simply the giving up of an illusion rather than release from actual bondage. Yet even if we think that the suffering of material illusion is real and that liberation is thus a meaningful release from suffering, the mere absence of material existence is still insignificant compared to the achievement of factual spiritual life, which is the positive eternal reality opposed to the negative illusion of material life. Ultimately, Kṛṣṇa consciousness, or pure love of Godhead, is the only significant, meaningful and permanent status for every living entity.

Since the darkness of night is caused by the absence of the sun, one would not experience night within the sun itself, nor would one experience individual days separated by nights. Similarly, within the pure living entity there is no material darkness and thus no experience of liberation from such darkness. When the conditioned soul comes to this platform of pure consciousness, he becomes fit to associate with the supreme pure, the Personality of Godhead Himself, in the Lord's own abode.

TEXT 27

त्वामात्मानं परं मत्वा
परमात्मानमेव च
आत्मा पुनर्बहिर्मृग्य अहोऽज्ञजनताज्ञता

*tvām ātmānam param matvā
param ātmānam eva ca
ātmā punar bahir mṛgya
aho 'jñā-janatājñatā*

SYNONYMS

tvām—You; ātmānam—the real self; param—something else; matvā—thinking; param—something else; ātmānam—Yourself; eva—indeed; ca—also; ātmā—the Supreme Self; punaḥ—again; bahiḥ—outside; mṛgyaḥ—must be searched out; aho—oh; ajñā—ignorant; janatā—of persons; ajñatā—the ignorance.

TRANSLATION

Just see the foolishness of those ignorant persons who consider You to be some separated manifestation of illusion and who consider the self, which is actually You, to be something else, the material body. Such fools conclude that the supreme soul is to be searched for somewhere outside Your supreme personality.

PURPORT

Lord Brahmā is amazed at the gross ignorance of conditioned souls who consider Lord Kṛṣṇa's supreme spiritual body to be material. Ignorant of the spiritual form of the Lord, such persons also consider their own material bodies to be the self, and therefore they conclude that spiritual reality is to be found somewhere beyond the supreme personality of Lord Kṛṣṇa. Sometimes such fools consider Lord Kṛṣṇa to be one of many individual souls who together constitute a single impersonal spiritual entity. Unfortunately, such speculators are not inclined to hear from the Lord Himself or from the Lord's authorized representatives, such as Lord Brahmā. Because they whimsically speculate on the nature of the Supreme, their ultimate result is confusion and ignorance, which they euphemistically describe as "the mystery of life."

TEXT 28

अन्तर्भवेऽनन्त भवन्तमेव
ह्यतत्त्यजन्तो मृगयन्ति सन्तः
असन्तमप्यन्त्यहिमन्तरेण सन्तं गुणं तं किमु यन्ति सन्तः antar-bhave 'nanta bhavantam eva

hy atat tyajanto mṛgayanti santaḥ asantam apy anty ahim antareṇa santam guṇam tam kim u yanti santaḥ

SYNONYMS

antaḥ-bhave—within the body; ananta—O unlimited Lord; bhavantam—Yourself; eva—indeed; hi—certainly; atat—everything separate from You; tyajantaḥ—rejecting; mṛgayanti—search out; santaḥ—the saintly devotees; asantam—unreal; api—even; anti—present nearby; ahim—(the illusion of) a snake; antareṇa—without (negating); santam—real; guṇam—the rope; tam—that; kim u—whether; yanti—appreciate; santaḥ—persons who are spiritually situated.

TRANSLATION

O unlimited Lord, the saintly devotees seek You out within their own bodies by rejecting everything separate from You. Indeed, how can discriminating persons appreciate the real nature of a rope lying before them until they refute the illusion that it is a snake?

PURPORT

One may argue that a person should cultivate self-realization and at the same time pursue sense gratification for the material body. This proposition is herein refuted by the example of misidentifying a rope as a snake. One who mistakes a rope for a snake becomes fearful and thinks of the so-called snake. But upon discovering that the so-called snake is actually a rope, he experiences a different emotion—relief—and can then ignore the rope. Similarly, because we misunderstand the material body to be the self, we are experiencing many emotions in relation to the body. Upon discovering, however, that the body is simply a bag of material chemicals, we carefully note how this illusion was created and then lose interest in the body. Discovering that we are actually an eternal soul within the body, we naturally focus our attention on that real self.

Those who are saintly and wise always cultivate Kṛṣṇa consciousness, spiritual knowledge, having transcended the foolish misidentification of the body as the self. Such Kṛṣṇa conscious persons go on to realize the Supreme Personality of Godhead, who dwells within the material body as the Supersoul—the witness and guide of every living entity. Realization of the Supersoul and the individual soul is so pleasing and satisfying that a self-realized person automatically gives up everything irrelevant to his spiritual advancement.

TEXT 29

अथापि ते देव पदाम्बुजद्वय-प्रसादलेशानुगृहीत एव हि
जानाति तत्त्वं भगवन्महिम्नो न चान्य एकोऽपि चिरं विचिन्वन्

athāpi te deva padāmbuja-dvaya-prasāda-leśānugrṛhīta eva hi jānāti tattvaṁ bhagavan-mahimno na cānya eko 'pi ciram vicinvan

SYNONYMS

atha—therefore; api—indeed; te—Your; deva—my Lord; pada-ambuja-dvaya—of the two lotus feet; prasāda—of the mercy; leśa—by only a trace; anugrṛhītaḥ—favored; eva—certainly; hi—indeed; jānāti—one knows; tattvam—the truth; bhagavat—of the Supreme Personality of Godhead; mahimnaḥ—of the greatness; na—never; ca—and; anyaḥ—another;

ekaḥ—one; api—although; ciram—for a long period; vicinvan—speculating.

TRANSLATION

My Lord, if one is favored by even a slight trace of the mercy of Your lotus feet, he can understand the greatness of Your personality. But those who speculate to understand the Supreme Personality of Godhead are unable to know You, even though they continue to study the Vedas for many years.

PURPORT

This translation is quoted from Śrīla Prabhupāda's Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līla, Chapter Six, Text 84.

Lord Kṛṣṇa is very eager to bestow His mercy upon the conditioned living beings, who are uselessly struggling with the Lord's illusory energy, Māyā. The conditioned soul struggles for happiness through sense gratification and for knowledge through mental speculation. Both processes ultimately bring him to a morose and hopeless condition. If the conditioned soul surrenders to the lotus feet of Lord Kṛṣṇa and thus acquires even a trace of His causeless mercy, the whole situation is changed, and the living entity can begin his real life of bliss and knowledge in Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 30

तदस्तु मे नाथ स भूरिभागो
भवेऽत्र वान्यत्र तु वा तिरश्चाम्
येनाहमेकोऽपि भवञ्जनानां
भूत्वा निषेवे तव पादपल्लवम्

tad astu me nātha sa bhūri-bhāgo

bhave 'tra vānyatra tu vā tiraścām yenāham eko 'pi bhavaj-janānām bhūtvā niṣeve tava pāda-pallavam

SYNONYMS

tat—therefore; astu—may it be; me—my; nātha—O master; saḥ—that; bhūri-bhāgaḥ—greatest good fortune; bhave—in the birth; atra—this; vā—or; anyatra—in some other birth; tu—indeed; vā—or; tiraścām—among the animals; yena—by which; aham—I; ekaḥ—one; api—even; bhavat—or Your; janānām—devotees; bhūtvā—becoming; niṣeve—I may fully engage in serving; tava—Your; pāda-pallavam—lotus feet.

TRANSLATION

My dear Lord, I therefore pray to be so fortunate that in this life as Lord Brahmā or in another life, wherever I take my birth, I may be counted as one of Your devotees. I pray that wherever I may be, even among the animal species, I can engage in devotional service to Your lotus feet.

TEXT 31

अहोऽतिधन्या ब्रजगोरमण्यः
स्तन्यामृतं पीतमतीव ते मुदा
यासां विभो वत्सतरात्मजात्मना यत्तृप्तयेऽद्यापि न चालमध्वराः

aho 'ti-dhanyā vraja-go-ramaṇyaḥ stanyāmṛtaṁ pītam atīva te mudā yāsāṁ vibho vatsatarātma-jātmanā

yat-tṛptaye 'dyāpi na cālam adhvarāḥ

SYNONYMS

aho—oh; ati-dhanyāḥ—most fortunate; vraja—of Vṛndāvana; go—the cows; ramaṇyaḥ—and the gopīs; stanya—the breast-milk; amṛtam—which is like nectar; pītam—has been drunk; atīva—fully; te—by You; mudā—with satisfaction; yāsām—of whom; vibho—O almighty Lord; vatsatara-ātmaja-ātmanā—in the form of the calves and the sons of the cowherd women; yat—whose; tṛptaye—for the satisfaction; adya api—even until now; na—not; ca—and; alam—sufficient; adhvarāḥ—the Vedic sacrifices.

TRANSLATION

O almighty Lord, how greatly fortunate are the cows and ladies of Vṛndāvana, the nectar of whose breast-milk You have happily drunk to Your full satisfaction, taking the form of their calves and children! All the Vedic sacrifices performed from time immemorial up to the present day have not given You as much satisfaction.

TEXT 32

अहो भाग्यमहो भाग्यं
नन्दगोपव्रजौकसाम्
यन्मित्रं परमानन्दं पूर्णं ब्रह्म सनातनम्

*aho bhāgyam aho bhāgyam
nanda-gopa-vrajaukasām*

yan-mitram paramānandaṁ pūrṇam brahma sanātanam

SYNONYMS

aho—what great; bhāgyam—fortune; aho—what great; bhāgyam—fortune; nanda—of Mahārāja Nanda; gopa—of the other cowherd men; vraja-okasām—of the inhabitants of Vrajabhūmi; yat—of whom; mitram—the friend; parama-ānandaṁ—the supreme bliss; pūrṇam—complete; brahma—the Absolute Truth; sanātanam—eternal.

TRANSLATION

How greatly fortunate are Nanda Mahārāja, the cowherd men and all the other inhabitants of Vrajabhūmi! There is no limit to their good fortune, because the Absolute Truth, the source of transcendental bliss, the eternal Supreme Brahman, has become their friend.

PURPORT

This translation is quoted from Śrīla Prabhupāda's Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, Chapter Six, Text 149.

TEXT 33

एषां तु भाग्यमहिमाच्युत तावदास्ताम्
एकादशैव हि वयं बत भूरिभागाः
एतद्धृषीकचषकैरसकृत्पिबामः शर्वादयोऽङ्घ्र्युदजमध्वमृतासवं ते

eṣāṁ tu bhāgya-mahimācyuta tāvad āstām

ekādaśaiiva hi vayaṁ bata bhūri-bhāgāḥ etat-dhṛṣṭika-caṣakair asakṛt pibāmaḥ śarvādayo 'ṅghri-udaja-madhv-amṛtāsavaṁ te

SYNONYMS

eṣāṁ—of these (residents of Vṛndāvana); tu—however; bhāgya—of the good fortune; mahimā—the greatness; acyuta—O infallible Supreme Lord; tāvat—so much; āstāṁ—let it be; ekādaśa—the eleven; eva hi—indeed; vayaṁ—we; bata—oh; bhūri-bhāgāḥ—are most fortunate; etat—of these devotees; dhṛṣṭika—by the senses; caṣakaiḥ—(which are like) drinking cups; asakṛt—repeatedly; pibāmaḥ—we are drinking; śarva-ādayaḥ—Lord Śiva and the other chief demigods; aṅghri-udaja—of the lotus feet; madhu—the honey; amṛta-āsavaṁ—which is a nectarean, intoxicating beverage; te—of You.

TRANSLATION

Yet even though the extent of the good fortune of these residents of Vṛndāvana is inconceivable, we eleven presiding deities of the various senses, headed by Lord Śiva, are also most fortunate, because the senses of these devotees of Vṛndāvana are the cups through which we repeatedly drink the nectarean, intoxicating beverage of the honey of Your lotus feet.

TEXT 34

तद्भूरिभाग्यमिह जन्म किमप्यटव्यां
यद्भोक्तुलेऽपि कतमाङ्घ्रिरजोऽभिषेकम्
यज्जीवितं तु निखिलं भगवान्मुकुन्दस त्वद्यापि यत्पदरजः श्रुतिमृग्यमेव tad bhūri-bhāgyam iha janma kim apy aṭavyām yad gokule 'pi katamāṅghri-rajo-'bhiṣekam yaj-jīvitam tu nikhilam bhagavān mukundas tv adyāpi yat-pada-rajah śruti-mṛgyam eva

SYNONYMS

tat—that; bhūri-bhāgyam—the greatest good fortune; iha—here; janma—the birth; kim api—any whatsoever; aṭavyām—in the forest (of Vṛndāvana); yat—which; gokule—in Gokula; api—even; katama—of any (of the devotees); aṅghri—of the feet; rajah—by the dust; abhiṣekam—bathing; yat—whose; jīvitam—life; tu—indeed; nikhilam—whole; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; mukundaḥ—Lord Mukunda; tu—but; adya api—even until now; yat—whose; pāda-rajah—dust of the feet; śruti—by the Vedas; mṛgyam—sought after; eva—certainly.

TRANSLATION

My greatest possible good fortune would be to take any birth whatever in this forest of Gokula and have my head bathed by the dust falling from the lotus feet of any of its residents. Their entire life and soul is the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Mukunda, the dust of whose lotus feet is still being searched for in the Vedic mantras.

PURPORT

This verse indicates that Lord Brahmā desires to take birth even as the smallest blade of grass in Vṛndāvana so that the holy residents of the Lord's abode may walk upon his head and bless him with the dust of their feet. Being realistic, Lord Brahmā does not aspire to directly achieve the dust of Lord Kṛṣṇa's feet; rather, he aspires for the mercy of the Lord's devotees. Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura explains that Brahmā is willing to take birth even as a stone in a paved footpath in the Lord's abode. Since Brahmā is the creator of the entire universe, we can just imagine the glorious position of the residents of Vṛndāvana.

The Lord's devotees achieve their exalted position by unalloyed devotion and love. One cannot achieve such spiritual opulence by any puffed-up material process of personal improvement. In Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrīla Prabhupāda reveals the mind of Brahmā as follows: "But if I am not so fortunate as to take birth within the forest of Vṛndāvana, I beg to be allowed to take birth outside the immediate area of Vṛndāvana so that when the devotees go out they will walk over me. Even that would be a great fortune for me. I am just aspiring for a birth in which I will be smeared by the dust of the devotees' feet."

TEXT 35

एषां घोषनिवासिनामुत भवान् किं देव रातेति नश्
चेतो विश्वफलात्फलं त्वदपरं कुत्राप्ययन्मुह्यति
सद्वेषादिव पूतनापि सकुला त्वामेव देवापिता यद्धामार्थसुहृत्प्रियात्मतनयप्राणाशयास्त्वत्कृते

eṣāṁ ghoṣa-nivāsinām uta bhavān kiṁ deva rātetī naś ceto viśva-phalāt phalaṁ tvad-aparaṁ kutrāpy ayan muhyati sad-veṣād iva pūtanāpi sa-kulā tvām eva devāpitā yad-dhāmārtha-suhṛt-priyātma-tanaya-prāṇāśayās tvat-kṛte

SYNONYMS

eṣāṁ—to these; ghoṣa-nivāsinām—residents of the cowherd community; uta—indeed; bhavān—Your Lordship; kiṁ—what; deva—O Supreme Personality of Godhead; rātā—will give; iti—thinking thus; naḥ—our;

cetaḥ—mind; viśva-phalāt—than the supreme source of all benedictions; phalam—a reward; tvat—than You; aparam—other; kutra api—anywhere; ayat—considering; muhyati—becomes bewildered; sat-veṣāt—by disguising herself as a devotee; iva—indeed; pūtanā—the demoness Pūtanā; api—even; sa-kulā—along with her family members, Bakāsura and Aghāsura; tvām—You; eva—certainly; deva—O Lord; āpitā—was made to attain; yat—whose; dhāma—homes; artha—wealth; suhṛt—friends; priya—dear relatives; ātma—bodies; tanaya—children; prāṇa—life air; āśayāḥ—and minds; tvat-kṛte—dedicated to You.

TRANSLATION

My mind becomes bewildered just trying to think of what reward other than You could be found anywhere. You are the embodiment of all benedictions, which You bestow upon these residents of the cowherd community of Vṛndāvana. You have already arranged to give Yourself to Pūtanā and her family members in exchange for her disguising herself as a devotee. So what is left for You to give these devotees of Vṛndāvana, whose homes, wealth, friends, dear relations, bodies, children and very lives and hearts are all dedicated only to You?

TEXT 36

तावद्रागादयः स्तेनासु
तावत्कारागृहं गृहम्
तावन्मोहोऽङ्घ्रिनिगडो यावत्कृष्ण न ते जनाः

tāvad rāgādayaḥ stenās
tāvat kārā-grham grham

tāvan moho 'n̄ghri-nigaḍo
yāvat kṛṣṇa na te janāḥ

SYNONYMS

tāvat—for that long; rāga-ādayaḥ—material attachment and so on; stenāḥ—thieves; tāvat—for that long; kārā-gṛham—a prison; gṛham—one's home; tāvat—for that long; mohaḥ—the bewilderment of family affection; aṅghri—upon their feet; nigaḍaḥ—shackles; yāvat—as long as; kṛṣṇa—O Lord Kṛṣṇa; na—do not become; te—Your (devotees); janāḥ—any persons.

TRANSLATION

My dear Lord Kṛṣṇa, until people become Your devotees, their material attachments and desires remain thieves, their homes remain prisons, and their affectionate feelings for their family members remain foot-shackles.

PURPORT

Apparently, the residents of Vṛndāvana, the abode of Lord Kṛṣṇa, are simple householders engaged in ordinary affairs such as herding cows, cooking, rearing children and performing religious ceremonies. However, all these activities are intensely engaged in the loving service of Lord Kṛṣṇa. The residents of Vṛndāvana perform all activities in pure Kṛṣṇa consciousness and thus exist on the most exalted platform of liberated life. Otherwise, the same activities performed without Kṛṣṇa consciousness constitute ordinary bondage to the material world.

Thus, one should not misunderstand the exalted position of the residents of Vṛndāvana, nor should one consider oneself highly religious simply because one performs ordinary domestic affairs very enthusiastically, but without Kṛṣṇa consciousness. By focusing our passionate attachment on our family and society, we are completely deviated from the progressive path of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Conversely, if we engage our family in the loving service of the Lord, our endeavors to maintain our family become part and parcel of our progressive spiritual duties.

In conclusion, by studying the extraordinary status of the residents of Vṛndāvana, we can see that the essential quality of their lives is pure Kṛṣṇa consciousness—the rendering of loving service to the Lord without a trace of material desire or mental speculation. Such loving service to the original Personality of Godhead immediately creates the atmosphere of Śrī Vṛndāvana-dhāma, the kingdom of God.

TEXT 37

प्रपञ्चं निष्प्रपञ्चोऽपि
विडम्बयसि भूतले
प्रपन्नजनतानन्द-सन्दोहं प्रथितुं प्रभो

prapañcam niṣprapañco 'pi viḍambayasi bhū-tale prapanna-janatānanda-sandoham prathitum prabho

SYNONYMS

prapañcam—that which is material; niṣprapañcaḥ—completely transcendental to material existence; api—although; viḍambayasi—You imitate; bhū-tale—on the surface of the earth; prapanna—who are surrendered; janatā—of people; ānanda-sandoham—the great variety of different kinds of ecstasies; prathitum—in order to spread; prabho—O master.

TRANSLATION

My dear master, although You have nothing to do with material existence, You come to this earth and imitate material life just to expand the varieties of ecstatic enjoyment for Your surrendered devotees.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura points out that just as a lamp does not seem to shine as brightly in sunlight as it does in the shade, or as a diamond does not seem as brilliant on a silver platter as it does on a plate of blue glass, the Lord's pastimes as Govinda do not seem as amazing in the transcendental abode of Vaikuṇṭha as they do within the material realm of Māyā. Lord Kṛṣṇa comes to the earth and acts toward His pure devotees exactly like a devoted son, boyfriend, husband, father, friend and so on, and within the darkness of material existence these brilliant, liberated pastimes give unlimited ecstasy to the surrendered devotees of the Lord.

In his Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrīla Prabhupāda quotes Lord Brahmā as follows: "I can also understand that Your appearance as a small cowherd boy, a child of the cowherd men, is not at all a material activity. You are so much obliged by their affection that You are here to enthuse them with more loving service by Your transcendental presence. "

TEXT 38

जानन्त एव जानन्तु
किं बहूक्त्या न मे प्रभो
मनसो वपुषो वाचो

वैभवं तव गोचरः

*jānanta eva jānantu
kim bahūktyā na me prabho manaso vapuṣo vāco
vaibhavam tava go-caraḥ*

SYNONYMS

jānantaḥ—persons who think they are aware of Your unlimited potency; eva—certainly; jānantu—let them think like that; kim—what is the use; bahu-uktyā—with many words; na—not; me—my; prabho—O Lord; manasaḥ—of the mind; vapuṣaḥ—of the body; vācaḥ—of the words; vaibhavam—opulences; tava—Your; go-caraḥ—within the range.

TRANSLATION

There are people who say, "I know everything about Kṛṣṇa." Let them think that way. As far as I am concerned, I do not wish to speak very much about this matter. O my Lord, let me say this much: As far as Your opulences are concerned, they are all beyond the reach of my mind, body and words.

PURPORT

This translation is quoted from Śrīla Prabhupāda's Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līla, Chapter Twenty-one, Text 27.

TEXT 39

अनुजानीहि मां कृष्ण
सर्वं त्वं वेत्सि सर्वदृक्

त्वमेव जगतां नाथो जगदेतत्तवार्पितम्

*anujānīhi mām kṛṣṇa sarvaṁ tvam vetsyi sarva-dṛk tvam eva jagatām nātho
jagad etat tavārpitam*

SYNONYMS

anujānīhi—please give leave; mām—to me; kṛṣṇa—O Lord Kṛṣṇa; sarvaṁ—everything; tvam—You; vetsyi—know; sarva-dṛk—all-seeing; tvam—You; eva—alone; jagatām—of all the universes; nāthaḥ—the master; jagat—universe; etat—this; tava—to You; arpitam—is offered.

TRANSLATION

My dear Kṛṣṇa, I now humbly request permission to leave. Actually, You are the knower and seer of all things. Indeed, You are the Lord of all the universes, and yet I offer this one universe unto You.

PURPORT

In his Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrīla Prabhupāda has quoted Lord Brahmā as follows: "My dear Lord, although You are the Supreme Lord of all creation, I sometimes falsely think that I am the master of this universe. I may be master of this universe, but there are innumerable universes, and there are also innumerable Brahmās who preside over these universes. But actually You are the master of them all. As the Supersoul in everyone's heart, You know everything. Please, therefore, accept me as Your surrendered servant. I hope that You will excuse me for disturbing You in Your pastimes with Your friends and calves. Now if You will kindly allow me, I will immediately leave so You can enjoy Your friends and calves without my presence."

The words sarvaṁ tvam vetsy sarva-dṛk are very significant here. Lord Kṛṣṇa knows everything and sees everything, and therefore Lord Brahmā did not need to remain in Vṛndāvana to maintain his personal loving contact with the Lord. In fact, as the creator of the universe, Lord Brahmā was somewhat out of place in the simple, blissful atmosphere of Vṛndāvana, where Lord Kṛṣṇa was exhibiting His supreme opulences in herding cows, enjoying picnics, playing games and so on.

Upon seeing the intense love the residents of Vṛndāvana had for Lord Kṛṣṇa, Brahmā felt unqualified to remain there. He was not eager to give up the Lord's association, but he felt it better to return to his personal devotional service in Brahmaloḥa. Somewhat embarrassed and unhappy over his foolish attempt at bewildering the Lord, Brahmā preferred to resume his transcendental loving service rather than try to enjoy the Lord's presence.

TEXT 40

श्रीकृष्ण वृष्णिकुलपुष्करजोषदायिन्
क्ष्मानिर्जरद्विजपशूदधिवृद्धिकारिन्
उद्धर्मशर्वरहर क्षितिराक्षसध्रुग आकल्पमार्कमर्हन् भगवन्नमस्ते

śrī-kṛṣṇa vṛṣṇi-kula-puṣkara-joṣa-dāyin kṣmā-nirjara-dvija-paśūdadhi-vṛddhi-kārin uddharma-śārvara-hara kṣiti-rākṣasa-dhruḡ ā-kalpam ārkam arhan bhagavan namas te

SYNONYMS

śrī-kṛṣṇa—O Lord Kṛṣṇa; vṛṣṇi-kula—of the Yadu dynasty; puṣkara—to the lotus; joṣa—pleasure; dāyin—O You who bestow; kṣmā—of the earth; nirjara—the demigods; dviija—the brāhmaṇas; paśu—and of the animals; udadhi—of the great oceans; vṛddhi—the increase; kārin—O You who cause; uddharma—of atheistic principles; śārvara—of the darkness; hara—O dispeller; kṣiti—upon the earth; rākṣasa—of the demons; dhruk—the opponent; ā-kalpam—until the end of the universe; ā-arkam—as long as the sun shines; arhan—O supremely worshipable Deity; bhagavan—O Supreme Personality of Godhead; namaḥ—I offer my respectful obeisances; te—unto You.

TRANSLATION

My dear Śrī Kṛṣṇa, You bestow happiness upon the lotuslike Vṛṣṇi dynasty and expand the great oceans consisting of the earth, the demigods, the brāhmaëas and the cows. You dispel the dense darkness of irreligion and oppose the demons who have appeared on this earth. O Supreme Personality of Godhead, as long as this universe exists and as long as the sun shines, I will offer my obeisances unto You.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī, Lord Brahmā is here engaged in the ecstasy of nāma-saṅkīrtana, glorifying various holy names of Lord Kṛṣṇa that indicate His variegated pastimes. Lord Kṛṣṇa expertly suppressed the demoniac population of the earth, which became unbearable with the advent of demoniac politicians like Kāṁsa, Jarāsandha and Śiśupāla. Similarly, in modern society there are many so-called God-fearing people who are actually attracted to demoniac existence. Such persons become enlivened with the setting of the sun and go out in the darkness to enjoy life in restaurants, nightclubs, discotheques, hotels and so on, which are all simply meant for illicit sex, intoxication, gambling and meat-eating. Then there are those who openly defy God and His laws, declaring themselves atheists and demons. Both the covert and the overt enemies of the Lord constitute an unholy burden for the earth, and Lord Kṛṣṇa descends to expertly remove this burden.

Here Lord Brahmā indirectly states that Lord Kṛṣṇa should remove Brahmā's own subtle atheism, which had led him to try to exert illusory power over Lord Kṛṣṇa. According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura, Lord Brahmā, in his shame, felt himself to be like a brahma-rākṣasa from Satyaloka who had come to the earth to disturb Lord Kṛṣṇa and His intimate friends and calves. Brahmā is lamenting that although Lord Kṛṣṇa is most exalted, the Lord of all lords, because He had appeared before Brahmā in such a simple and innocent feature—decorated with a stick, a conchshell, ornaments, red clay, a peacock feather and so on, and sporting with His cowherd boyfriends—Brahmā dared to challenge Him. Concerning Brahmā's prayers, of which this verse is the conclusion, Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura states, "May these prayers of Brahmā, which take away all doubts and broadcast all the definitive conclusions of devotional service, become the expert craftsmanship of the foundation of my consciousness."

TEXT 41

श्रीशुक उवाच
इत्यभिष्टूय भूमानं
त्रिः परिक्रम्य पादयोः
नत्वाभीष्टं जगद्धाता स्वधाम प्रत्यपद्यत

śrī-śuka uvāca
ity abhiṣṭūya bhūmānam
triḥ parikramya pādayoḥ

*natvābhīṣṭaṁ jagad-dhātā
sva-dhāma pratyapadyata*

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; iti—thus; abhiṣṭūya—offering praise; bhūmānam—to the unlimited Supreme Lord; triḥ—three times; parikramya—circumambulating; pādayoḥ—at His feet; natvā—bowing down; abhīṣṭam—desired; jagat—of the universe; dhātā—the creator; sva-dhāma—to his personal abode; pratyapadyata—returned.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Having thus offered his prayers, Brahmā circumambulated his worshipable Lord, the unlimited Personality of Godhead, three times and then bowed down at His lotus feet. The appointed creator of the universe then returned to his own residence.

PURPORT

Although Lord Brahmā had prayed to take birth as a blade of grass in Vṛndāvana or even in the area surrounding Vṛndāvana, Lord Kṛṣṇa, by His silent response to Brahmā's prayers, indicated that Brahmā should return to his own abode. First Brahmā had to complete his personal devotional service of universal creation; then he could come to Vṛndāvana and get the mercy of the inhabitants there. In other words, a devotee should always be attentive to executing his personal devotional service properly. This is more important than trying to live in the Lord's abode.

TEXT 42

ततोऽनुज्ञाप्य भगवान्

स्वभुवं प्रागवस्थितान्
वत्सान् पुलिनमानिन्ये यथापूर्वसखं स्वकम्

*tato 'nujñāpya bhagavān
sva-bhuvam prāg avasthitān vatsān pulinam āninye
yathā-pūrva-sakham svakam*

SYNONYMS

tataḥ—then; anujñāpya—giving permission; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; sva-bhuvam—to His own son (Brahmā); prāk—from before; avasthitān—situated; vatsān—the calves; pulinam—to the shore of the river; āninye—He brought; yathā-pūrva—just as before; sakham—where the friends were present; svakam—His own.

TRANSLATION

After granting His son Brahmā permission to leave, the Supreme Personality of Godhead took the calves, who were still where they had been a year earlier, and brought them to the riverbank, where He had been taking His meal and where His cowherd boyfriends remained just as before.

PURPORT

The word sva-bhuvam, "to His own son," indicates that Lord Kṛṣṇa forgave the offense Brahmā had committed and treated him with affection, as His son. It is stated in this verse that the original cowherd boyfriends and calves were situated just as before: near the bank of the Yamunā River and in the forest, respectively. Previously the calves had disappeared within the forest and Lord

Kṛṣṇa had gone to search for them. Not finding them, the Lord had returned to the riverbank to discuss the situation with His cowherd boyfriends, but they had also disappeared. Now the cows were once again in the forest and the boyfriends once again on the bank of the river, ready to take their lunch. According to Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī, the calves and boys remained in the forest and on the riverbank, respectively, for one full year. Lord Brahmā did not actually take them away to another place. By the Lord's omnipotent illusory energy, the gopīs and other residents of Vṛndāvana did not notice the calves and boys, nor did the calves and boys notice the passing of a year's time or feel any hunger, cold or thirst. All this was part of the pastime arranged by the Lord's illusory potency. Lord Brahmā thought, "I have kept all the boys and calves of Gokula sleeping on the bed of my mystic potency, and to this very day they have not risen. A similar number of boys and calves have been playing with Kṛṣṇa for one whole year, yet they are different from the ones illusioned by my mystic potency. Who are they? Where did they come from?"

Nothing is invisible to the Supreme Lord. Thus Lord Kṛṣṇa appeared to be searching for the calves and boys only to enact the dramatic pastime of bewildering Lord Brahmā. After Brahmā surrendered and offered prayers, Lord Kṛṣṇa returned to the original boys and calves, who appeared exactly as before, although their size had somewhat increased because of one year's growth.

According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura, since Lord Kṛṣṇa was playing exactly like an innocent young cowherd boy in Vṛndāvana, after four-headed Brahmā offered his prayers the Lord maintained His role as a young cowherd boy and thus remained silent before Brahmā. Kṛṣṇa's silence indicates the following thoughts: "Where did this four-headed Brahmā come from? What is he doing? What are these words he keeps on speaking? I am busy looking for My calves. I am just a cowherd boy and do not understand all this." Lord Brahmā had considered Lord Kṛṣṇa an ordinary cowherd boy and had treated Him as such. After accepting Brahmā's prayers, Kṛṣṇa continued to play as a cowherd boy and thus did not answer the four-headed Brahmā.

Rather, Kṛṣṇa was more interested in rejoining His cowherd boyfriends for the picnic lunch on the bank of the Yamunā River.

TEXT 43

एकस्मिन्नपि यातेऽब्दे
प्राणेशं चान्तरात्मनः
कृष्णमायाहता राजन् क्षणार्धं मेनिरेऽर्भकाः

ekasminn api yāte 'bde prāṇeśam cāntarātmanaḥ kṛṣṇa-māyāhatā rājan kṣaṇārdham menire 'rbhakāḥ

SYNONYMS

ekasmin—one; api—although; yāte—having passed; abde—year; prāṇa-īśam—the Lord of their lives; ca—and; antarā—without; ātmanaḥ—of themselves; kṛṣṇa—of Lord Kṛṣṇa; māyā—by the illusory potency; āhatāḥ—covered; rājan—O King; kṣaṇa-ardham—half a moment; menire—they thought; rbhakāḥ—the boys.

TRANSLATION

O King, although the boys had passed an entire year apart from the Lord of their very lives, they had been covered by Lord Kṛṣṇa's illusory potency and thus considered that year merely half a moment.

TEXT 44

किं किं न विस्मरन्तीह
मायामोहितचेतसः
यन्मोहितं जगत्सर्वम् अभीक्ष्णं विस्मृतात्मकम्

*kiṁ kiṁ na vismarantīha māyā-mohita-cetasaḥ
yan-mohitaṁ jagat sarvam
abhīkṣṇaṁ vismṛtātmakam*

SYNONYMS

kim kim—what indeed; na vismaranti—persons do not forget; iha—in this world; māyā-mohita—bewildered by illusion; cetasaḥ—whose minds; yat—by which; mohitam—bewildered; jagat—the world; sarvam—entire; abhīkṣṇam—constantly; vismṛta-ātmakam—making one forget even one's own self.

TRANSLATION

What indeed is not forgotten by those whose minds are bewildered by the Lord's illusory potency? By that power of Māyā, this entire universe remains in perpetual bewilderment, and in this atmosphere of forgetfulness no one can understand his own identity.

PURPORT

It is clearly stated here that the entire universe is bewildered. Thus even great demigods like Indra and Brahmā are not exempt from the principle of forgetfulness. Since Lord Kṛṣṇa exercised His internal illusory potency over

His cowherd boyfriends and calves, it is not at all astonishing that for one year they could not remember their position. Indeed, by the Lord's external illusory potency the conditioned souls forget their existence not only for one year but for many billions and billions of years as they transmigrate throughout the kingdom of ignorance called the material world.

TEXT 45

ऊचुश्च सुहृदः कृष्णं
स्वागतं तेऽतिरंहसा
नैकोऽप्यभोजि कवल एहीतः साधु भुज्यताम्

*ūcuś ca suhṛdaḥ kṛṣṇam sv-āgatam te 'ti-ramhasā naiko 'py abhoji kavala
ehītaḥ sādhu bhujyatām*

SYNONYMS

ūcuḥ—they spoke; ca—and; suhṛdaḥ—the friends; kṛṣṇam—to Lord Kṛṣṇa; sv-āgatam—have come all the way back; te—You; ati-ramhasā—very quickly; na—not; ekaḥ—one; api—even; abhoji—has been eaten; kavalaḥ—morsel; ehi—please come; itaḥ—here; sādhu—properly; bhujyatām—take Your meal.

TRANSLATION

The cowherd boyfriends said to Lord Kṛṣṇa: You have returned so quickly! We have not eaten even one morsel in Your absence. Please come here and take Your meal without distraction.

PURPORT

The words sv-āgatam te 'ti-ramhasā indicate that the cowherd boys were congratulating Lord Kṛṣṇa for having brought the calves back so quickly from the forest. Now Lord Kṛṣṇa's beloved friends urged Him to sit down properly and eat to His full satisfaction. According to Śrīla Prabhupāda's Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, the cowherd boyfriends felt quite jubilant and were eager to eat with their dear friend, Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 46

ततो हसन् हृषीकेशो
ऽभ्यवहृत्य सहाभकैः
दर्शयंश्चर्मजगरं
न्यवर्तत वनाद् व्रजम्

tato hasan hṛṣīkeśo
'bhyavahṛtya sahārbhakaiḥ darśayaṁś carmājagaram nyavartata vanād vrajam

SYNONYMS

tataḥ—then; hasan—smiling; hṛṣīkeśaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa, the master of everyone's senses; abhyavahṛtya—taking lunch; saha—along with; arbhakaiḥ—the cowherd boys; darśayan—showing; carma—the skin; ājagaram—of the python Aghāsura; nyavartata—He returned; vanāt—from the forest; vrajam—to the village of Vraja.

TRANSLATION

Then Lord Hṛṣīkeśa, smiling, finished His lunch in the company of His cowherd friends. While they were returning from the forest to their homes in Vraja, Lord Kṛṣṇa showed the cowherd boys the skin of the dead serpent Aghāsura.

TEXT 47

बर्हप्रसूनवनधातुविचित्रिताङ्गः
प्रोद्दामवेणुदलशृङ्गरवोत्सवाढ्यः
वत्सान् गृणन्ननुगगीतपवित्रकीर्तिर् गोपीदृगुत्सवदृशिः प्रविवेश गोष्ठम्

barha-prasūna-vana-dhātu-vicitritāṅgaḥ proddāma-veṇu-dala-śṛṅga-ravotsavāḍhyaḥ vatsān gṛṇann anuga-gīta-pavitra-kīrtir gopī-dṛg-utsava-dṛśiḥ praviveśa goṣṭham

SYNONYMS

barha—with peacock feathers; prasūna—flowers; vana-dhātu—and forest minerals; vicitrita—decorated; āṅgaḥ—His transcendental body; proddāma—great; veṇu-dala—a flute made from the branch of a bamboo tree; śṛṅga—of the buffalo horn; rava—by the resounding; utsava—with a festival; āḍhyaḥ—resplendent; vatsān—the calves; gṛṇan—calling; anuga—by His companions; gīta—sung; pavitra—purifying; kīrtiḥ—His glories; gopī—of the cowherd women; dṛk—for the eyes; utsava—a festival; dṛśiḥ—the vision of Him; praviveśa—He entered; goṣṭham—the cow pasture.

TRANSLATION

Lord Kṛṣṇa's transcendental body was decorated with peacock feathers and flowers and painted with forest minerals, and His bamboo flute loudly and festively resounded. As He called out to His calves by name, His cowherd boyfriends purified the whole world by chanting His glories. Thus Lord Kṛṣṇa entered the cow pasture of His father, Nanda Mahārāja, and the sight of His beauty at once produced a great festival for the eyes of all the cowherd women.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī and Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura, the gopīs mentioned here are the elder cowherd ladies such as mother Yaśodā, who loved Kṛṣṇa with parental affection. Kṛṣṇa's cowherd boyfriends were so proud of Kṛṣṇa's wonderful activities that while entering the village they all sang His glories.

TEXT 48

अद्यानेन महाव्यालो
यशोदानन्दसूनुना
हतोऽविता वयं चास्माद् इति बाला व्रजे जगुः

*adyānena mahā-vyālo yaśodā-nanda-sūnunā
hato 'vitā vyaṁ cāsmād
iti bālā vraje jaguḥ*

SYNONYMS

adya—today; anena—by Him; mahā-vyālaḥ—a great serpent; yaśodā—of Yaśodā; nanda—and Mahārāja Nanda; sūnunā—by the son; hataḥ—has been killed; avitāḥ—have been saved; vayam—we; ca—and; asmāt—from that demon; iti—thus; bālāḥ—the boys; vraje—in Vṛndāvana; jaguḥ—sang.

TRANSLATION

As the cowherd boys reached the village of Vraja, they sang, "Today Kṛṣṇa saved us by killing a great serpent!" Some of the boys described Kṛṣṇa as the son of Yaśodā, and others as the son of Nanda Mahārāja.

PURPORT

Actually, Lord Kṛṣṇa had killed the demon Aghāsura one-year earlier, but the boys, bewildered by the mystic potency of Brahmā for one year, did not notice the time passing and thus thought that on that very day Lord Kṛṣṇa had killed the demon Aghāsura and was now returning home with them.

TEXT 49

श्रीराजोवाच
ब्रह्मन् परोद्भवे कृष्णे
इयान् प्रेमा कथं भवेत् योऽभूतपूर्वस्तोकेषु स्वोद्भवेष्वपि कथ्यताम्

śrī-rājovāca

brahman parodbhave kṛṣṇe iyān premā katham bhavet yo 'bhūta-pūrvas tokeṣu svodbhaveṣv api kathyatām

SYNONYMS

śrī-rājā uvāca—the King said; brahman—O brāhmaṇa, Śukadeva; para-udbhave—for the offspring of another; kṛṣṇe—Lord Kṛṣṇa; iyān—so much; premā—love; katham—how; bhavet—can be; yaḥ—which; abhūta-pūrvāḥ—unprecedented; tokeṣu—for the children; sva-udbhaveṣu—their own offspring; api—even; kathyatām—please explain.

TRANSLATION

King Parīkṣit said: O brāhmaṇa, how could the cowherd women have developed for Kṛṣṇa, someone else's son, such unprecedented pure love-love they never felt even for their own children? Please explain this.

TEXT 50

श्रीशुक उवाच
सर्वेषामपि भूतानां
नृप स्वात्मैव वल्लभः
इतरेऽपत्यवित्ताद्यासु तद्वल्लभतयैव हि

*śrī-śuka uvāca
sarveṣām api bhūtānām
nṛpa svātmaiva vallabhah* itare 'patya-vittādyās tad-vallabhatayaiva hi

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; sarveṣām—for all; api—indeed; bhūtānām—created living beings; nṛpa—O King; sva-ātmā—one's own self; eva—certainly; vallabhaḥ—dearest; itare—others; apatya—children; vitta—wealth; ādyāḥ—and so on; tat—of that self; vallabhatayā—based on the dearness; eva hi—indeed.

TRANSLATION

Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: O King, for every created being the dearest thing is certainly his own self. The dearness of everything else—children, wealth and so on—is due only to the dearness of the self.

PURPORT

Sometimes modern thinkers become puzzled when they study the psychology of moral behavior. Although every living entity is inclined toward self-preservation, as stated here, sometimes a person voluntarily sacrifices his own apparent interest through philanthropic or patriotic activities, such as giving his money for the benefit of others or giving his life for the national interest. Such so-called selfless behavior appears to contradict the principle of material self-centeredness and self-preservation.

As explained in this verse, however, a living entity serves his society, nation, family and so on only because these objects of affection represent the expanded concept of false ego. A patriot sees himself as a great servitor of a great nation, and thus he sacrifices his life to gratify his sense of egotism. Similarly, it is common knowledge that a man feels great pleasure by thinking that he is sacrificing everything to please his dear wife and children. A man derives great egotistic pleasure by seeing himself as a selfless well-wisher of his so-called family and community. Thus, to gratify his proud sense of false ego, a man is prepared even to lay down his life. This apparently contradictory behavior is yet another demonstration of the bewilderment of material life, which has neither rhyme nor reason, being a manifestation of gross ignorance of the nonmaterial soul.

TEXT 51

तद्राजेन्द्र यथा स्नेहः
स्वस्वकात्मनि देहिनाम्
न तथा ममतालम्बि- पुत्रवित्तगृहादिषु

*tad rājendra yathā snehaḥ
sva-svakātmani dehinām na tathā mamatālambiputra-vitta-grhādiṣu*

SYNONYMS

tat—therefore; rāja-indra—O best of kings; yathā—as; snehaḥ—the affection; sva-svaka—of each individual; ātmani—for the self; dehinām—of the embodied beings; na—not; tathā—thus; mamatā-ālambi—for that which one identifies with as his possessions; putra—sons; vitta—wealth; grha—homes; ādiṣu—and so on.

TRANSLATION

For this reason, O best of kings, the embodied soul is self-centered: he is more attached to his own body and self than to his so-called possessions like children, wealth and home.

PURPORT

It is now common practice all over the world for a mother to kill her own child within the womb if the birth of that child represents any inconvenience for her. Similarly, grown children eagerly place their elderly parents in lonely institutions rather than be inconvenienced by their presence at home. These and innumerable other examples prove that people in general are more attached to their own body and self, which represent "I-ness," than to their family and other possessions, which represent "my-ness." Although conditioned souls are very proud of their so-called love for society, family and so forth, in reality every conditioned soul is acting on the platform of gross or subtle selfishness.

TEXT 52

देहात्मवादिनां पुंसाम् अपि राजन्यसत्तम
यथा देहः प्रियतमसु तथा न ह्यनु ये च तम्

*dehātma-vādinām puṁsām api rājanya-sattama
yathā dehaḥ priyatamas
tathā na hy anu ye ca tam*

SYNONYMS

deha-ātma-vādinām—who ascribe to the view that the body is the self;

pumsām—for persons; api—indeed; rājanya-sat-tama—O best of kings; yathā—as; dehaḥ—the body; priya-tamaḥ—most dear; tathā—thus; na—not; hi—certainly; anu—relative; ye—which things; ca—and; tam—to that.

TRANSLATION

Indeed, for persons who think the body is the self, O best of kings, those things whose importance lies only in their relationship to the body are never as dear as the body itself.

TEXT 53

देहोऽपि ममताभाक्चेत्
तर्ह्यसौ नात्मवत्प्रियः
यज्जीर्यत्यपि देहेऽस्मिन् जीविताशा बलीयसी

*deho 'pi mamatā-bhāk cet
tarhy asau nātma-vat priyaḥ yaj jīryaty api dehe 'smin jīvitāśā balīyasī*

SYNONYMS

dehaḥ—the body; api—also; mamatā—of possessiveness; bhāk—the focus; cet—if; tarhi—then; asau—that body; na—not; ātma-vat—in the same way as the soul; priyaḥ—dear; yaj—because; jīryati—when it is growing old; api—even; dehe—the body; asmin—this; jīvita-āśā—the desire to remain living; balīyasī—very strong.

TRANSLATION

If a person comes to the stage of considering the body "mine" instead of "me," he will certainly not consider the body as dear as his own self. After all, even as the body is growing old and useless, one's desire to continue living remains strong.

PURPORT

The word mamatā-bhāṅk is very significant here. An ordinary, foolish person thinks, "I am this body." A more discriminating, intelligent person thinks, "This is my body." In the literature and folklore of ordinary people we find the common theme of an old, decrepit person dreaming of obtaining a new, young body. Thus, even ordinary persons pick up the notion of self-realization, instinctively understanding that it is possible for the soul to exist in many different bodies.

As the body of an intelligent person becomes old and useless, he strongly desires to live, even when he knows that his body cannot live much longer. This indicates he is gradually becoming aware that his self is more important than his body. Thus simply the desire for life can indirectly bring one to a preliminary understanding of self-realization. And in this case as well, one's basic attachment is to one's own self and not to that which supposedly belongs to oneself.

It may be pointed out that the entire discussion between King Parīkṣit and Śukadeva Gosvāmī regarding the dearness of one's own self is ultimately meant for broaching the subject of why the cows and cowherd ladies of Vṛndāvana considered Kṛṣṇa more dear than their own selves and certainly more dear than their own offspring. The discussion proceeds as follows.

TEXT 54

तस्मात्प्रियतमः स्वात्मा
सर्वेषामपि देहिनाम्
तदर्थमेव सकलं जगदेतच्चराचरम्

*tasmāt priyatamaḥ svātmā
sarveṣām api dehinām
tat-artham eva sakalam
jagad etac carācaram*

SYNONYMS

tasmāt—therefore; priya-tamaḥ—most dear; sva-ātmā—one's own self; sarveṣām—for all; api—indeed; dehinām—embodied living beings; tat-artham—for the sake of it; eva—certainly; sakalam—all; jagat—the created universe; etat—this; cara-acaram—with its moving and nonmoving entities.

TRANSLATION

Therefore it is his own self that is most dear to every embodied living being, and it is simply for the satisfaction of this self that the whole material creation of moving and nonmoving entities exists.

PURPORT

The word carācaram indicates moving living entities, such as animals, and nonmoving living entities, such as trees. Or the word may also refer to moving possessions, such as one's family and pets, and nonmoving possessions, such as one's house and household paraphernalia.

TEXT 55

कृष्णमेनमवेहि त्वम्
आत्मानमखिलात्मनाम्
जगद्धिताय सोऽप्यत्र देहीवाभाति मायया

kṛṣṇam enam avehi tvam ātmānam akhilātmanām jagad-dhitāya so 'py atra dehīvābhāti māyayā

SYNONYMS

kṛṣṇam—Lord Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead; enam—this; avehi—just try to understand; tvam—you; ātmānam—the Soul; akhila-ātmanām—of all living entities; jagad-dhitāya—for the benefit of the whole universe; saḥ—He; api—certainly; atra—here; dehī—a human being; iva—like; ābhāti—appears; māyayā—by His internal potency.

TRANSLATION

You should know Kṛṣṇa to be the original Soul of all living entities. For the benefit of the whole universe, He has, out of His causeless mercy, appeared as an ordinary human being. He has done this by the strength of His internal potency.

PURPORT

In the Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līla, Chapter Twenty, Text 162, Śrīla Prabhupāda comments on this verse as follows: "Parīkṣit Mahārāja asked Śukadeva Gosvāmī why Kṛṣṇa was so beloved by the residents of Vṛndāvana, who loved Him even more than their own offspring or life itself. At that time, Śukadeva Gosvāmī replied that everyone's ātmā, or soul, is very, very dear, especially to all living entities who have accepted material bodies. However, that ātmā, the spirit soul, is part and parcel of Kṛṣṇa. For this reason, Kṛṣṇa is very dear to every living entity. Everyone's body is very dear to oneself, and one wants to protect the body by all means because within the body the soul is living. Due to the intimate relationship between the soul and the body, the body is important and dear to everyone. Similarly, the soul, being part and parcel of Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Lord, is very, very dear to all living entities. Unfortunately, the soul forgets his constitutional position and thinks he is only the body (dehātma-buddhi). Thus the soul is subjected to the rules and regulations of material nature. When a living entity, by his intelligence, reawakens his attraction for Kṛṣṇa, he can understand that he is not the body but part and parcel of Kṛṣṇa. Thus filled with knowledge, he no longer labors under attachment to the body and everything related to the body (janasya moho 'yam ahaṁ mameti [SB 5.5.8]). Material existence, wherein one thinks, 'I am the body, and this belongs to me,' is also illusory. One must redirect his attraction to Kṛṣṇa. Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam (1.2.7) states,

*vāsudeve bhagavati
bhakti-yogaḥ prayojitaḥ janayaty āśu vairāgyaṁ
jñānaṁ ca yad ahaitukam*

'By rendering devotional service unto the Personality of Godhead, Śrī Kṛṣṇa, one immediately acquires causeless knowledge and detachment from the world.' "

TEXT 56

वस्तुतो जानतामत्र
कृष्णं स्थासु चरिष्णु च
भगवद्रूपमखिलं
नान्यद्वस्त्वह किञ्चन

*vastuto jānatām atra kṛṣṇam sthāśnu carīṣṇu ca bhagavad-rūpam akhilaṁ
nānyad vastv iha kiñcana*

SYNONYMS

vastutaḥ—in fact; jānatām—for those who understand; atra—in this world; kṛṣṇam—Lord Kṛṣṇa; sthāśnu—stationary; carīṣṇu—moving; ca—and; bhagavat-rūpam—the manifest forms of the Personality of Godhead; akhilam—everything; na—nothing; anyat—else; vastu—substance; iha—here; kiñcana—at all.

TRANSLATION

Those in this world who understand Lord Kṛṣṇa as He is see all things, whether stationary or moving, as manifest forms of the Supreme Personality of Godhead. Such enlightened persons recognize no reality apart from the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa.

PURPORT

Everything exists within Lord Kṛṣṇa, and Lord Kṛṣṇa exists within everything. Still, the order of progression is always from the energetic to the expanded energy. Lord Kṛṣṇa is the original identity, from whom all other identities emanate. He is the supreme energetic, from whom all categories and dimensions of energy become manifest. Thus, our personal bodies, self, family, friends, nation, planet, universe and so on are all manifestations of the Supreme Lord, who expands Himself through His personal potencies. Lord Kṛṣṇa is certainly the supreme object of our love and attraction, and other objects, such as body, family and home, should be secondary objects of our affection. Moreover, a close analytic study of the actual situation will reveal that even the secondary objects of love are also manifestations of Lord Kṛṣṇa. The conclusion is that Lord Kṛṣṇa is our only friend and object of love.

In his Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrīla Prabhupāda comments on this verse as follows: "Without being an expansion of Kṛṣṇa, nothing can be attractive. Whatever is attractive within the cosmic manifestation is due to Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa is therefore the reservoir of all pleasure. The active principle of everything is Kṛṣṇa, and highly elevated transcendentalists see everything in connection with Him. In the Caitanya-caritāmṛta it is stated that a mahā-bhāgavata, a highly advanced devotee, sees Kṛṣṇa as the active principle in all movable and immovable living entities. Therefore he sees everything within this cosmic manifestation in relation to Kṛṣṇa."

TEXT 57

सर्वेषामपि वस्तूनां
भावार्थो भवति स्थितः
तस्यापि भगवान् कृष्णः किमतद्वस्तु रूप्यताम्

sarveṣām api vastūnām bhāvārtho bhavati sthitaḥ tasyāpi bhagavān kṛṣṇaḥ kim atad vastu rūpyatām

SYNONYMS

sarveṣām—of all; api—indeed; vastūnām—entities; bhāva-arthaḥ—the original, unmanifested causal phase of material nature; bhavati—is; sthitaḥ—established; tasya—of that unmanifest nature; api—even; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; kim—what; atat—separate from Him; vastu—thing; rūpyatām—may be ascertained.

TRANSLATION

The original, unmanifested form of material nature is the source of all material things, and the source of even that subtle material nature is the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Kṛṣṇa. What, then, could one ascertain to be separate from Him?

TEXT 58

समाश्रिता ये पदपल्लवप्लवं
महत्पदं पुण्ययशो मुरारेः
भवाम्बुधिर्वत्सपदं परं पदं पदं पदं यद्विपदां न तेषाम् samāśritā ye pada-pallava-plavaṁ mahat-padaṁ puṇya-yaśo murāreḥ bhavāmbudhir vatsa-padaṁ paraṁ padaṁ padam padam yad vipadām na teṣām

SYNONYMS

samāśritāḥ—having taken shelter; ye—those who; pada—of the feet; pallava—like flower buds; plavam—which are a boat; mahat—of the total material creation, or of the great souls; padam—the shelter; puṇya—supremely pious; yaśaḥ—whose fame; mura-areḥ—of the enemy of the demon Mura; bhava—of the material existence; ambudhiḥ—the ocean; vatsa-padam—the hoof-print of a calf; param padam—the supreme abode, Vaikuṇṭha; padam padam—at every step; yat—where; vipadām—of material miseries; na—none; teṣām—for them.

TRANSLATION

For those who have accepted the boat of the lotus feet of the Lord, who is the shelter of the cosmic manifestation and is famous as Murāri, the enemy of the Mura demon, the ocean of the material world is like the water contained in a calf's hoof-print. Their goal is paraṁ padam, Vaikuṇṭha, the place where there are no material miseries, not the place where there is danger at every step.

PURPORT

This translation is taken from Śrīla Prabhupāda's commentary on the Bhagavad-gītā As It Is, Chapter Two, Text 51.

According to Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī, this verse summarizes the knowledge presented in this section of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. Lord Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet are described as pallava, flower buds, because they are most tender and of a pinkish hue. According to Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī, the word pallava also indicates that Lord Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet are just like desire trees, which can fulfill all the desires of the Lord's pure devotees. Even exalted devotees like Śrī Nārada, who are themselves the great shelter for the conditioned souls in this universe, personally take shelter of the lotus feet of Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Thus it is natural that when Lord Kṛṣṇa manifested Himself as all the young boys and calves of Vṛndāvana, their parents were more attracted to them than previously. Lord Kṛṣṇa is the reservoir of all pleasure and, being all-attractive, the ultimate object of everyone's love.

TEXT 59

एतत्ते सर्वमाख्यातं
यत्पृष्ठोऽहमिह त्वया
तत्कौमारे हरिकृतं पौगण्डे परिकीर्तितम्

etat te sarvam ākhyātam yat pṛṣṭo 'ham iha tvayā tat kaumāre hari-kṛtam paugaṇḍe parikīrtitam

SYNONYMS

etat—this; te—unto you; sarvam—all; ākhyātam—described; yat—which; pṛṣṭaḥ—requested; aham—I; iha—in this regard; tvayā—by you; tat—that; kaumāre—in His early childhood (up to the end of His fifth year); hari-kṛtam—performed by Lord Hari; paugaṇḍe—in later childhood (beginning with His sixth year); parikīrtitam—glorified.

TRANSLATION

Since you inquired from me, I have fully described to you those activities of Lord Hari that were performed in His fifth year but not celebrated until His sixth.

TEXT 60

एतत्सुहृद्भिश्चरितं मुरारेर अघार्दनं शाद्वलजेमनं च
व्यक्तेतरद्रूपमजोर्वभिष्टवं शृण्वन् गृणन्नेति नरोऽखिलार्थान् etat suhṛdbhiś caritaṁ murārer aghārdanaṁ śādvala-jemaṇaṁ ca vyaktetarad rūpaṁ ajorv-abhiṣṭavaṁ śṛṇvan gṛṇann eti naro 'khilārthān

SYNONYMS

etat—these; suhṛdbhiḥ—along with the cowherd friends; caritaṁ—pastimes; murāreḥ—of Lord Murāri; agha-ardanaṁ—the subduing of the demon Aghāśura; śādvala—on the grass in the forest; jemaṇaṁ—the taking of lunch; ca—and; vyakta-itarat—supramundane; rūpaṁ—the transcendental form of the Lord; aja—by Lord Brahmā; uru—elaborate; abhiṣṭavaṁ—the offering of prayers; śṛṇvan—hearing; gṛṇan—chanting; eti—attains; naraḥ—any person; akhila-arthān—all desirable things.

TRANSLATION

Any person who hears or chants these pastimes Lord Murāri performed with His cowherd friends—the killing of Aghāśura, the taking of lunch on the forest grass, the Lord's manifestation of transcendental forms, and the wonderful prayers offered by Lord Brahmā—is sure to achieve all his spiritual desires.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī, even one who is only inclined to hear and chant the pastimes of Lord Kṛṣṇa will achieve spiritual perfection.

Many devotees seriously engaged in propagating Kṛṣṇa consciousness are often so busy that they cannot chant and hear the pastimes of the Lord to their full satisfaction. However, simply by their intense desire to always chant and hear about Lord Kṛṣṇa, they will achieve spiritual perfection. Of course, as far as possible one should actually vibrate these transcendental pastimes of the Lord.

TEXT 61

एवं विहारैः कौमारैः
कौमारं जहतुर्व्रजे
निलायनैः सेतुबन्धैर् मर्कटोत्प्लवनादिभिः

evam vihāraiḥ kaumāraiḥ kaumāram jahatur vraje nilāyanaiḥ setu-bandhair markaṭotplavanādibhiḥ

SYNONYMS

evam—thus; vihāraiḥ—with pastimes; kaumāraiḥ—of boyhood; kaumāram—the childhood age up to five years; jahatuḥ—they passed; vraje—in the land of Vṛndāvana; nilāyanaiḥ—with sports of chasing about; setu-bandhaiḥ—with the building of bridges; markaṭa-utplavana—with the jumping around of monkeys; ādibhiḥ—and so on.

TRANSLATION

In this way the boys spent their childhood in the land of Vṛndāvana playing hide-and-go-seek, building play bridges, jumping about like monkeys and engaging in many other such games.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī, the word nilāyanaiḥ refers to games such as hide-and-go-seek or cops and robbers. Sometimes the boys would jump around like the monkeys in Lord Rāmacandra's army and then enact the building of the bridge to Śrī Laṅkā by constructing play bridges in lakes or ponds. Sometimes the boys would imitate the pastime of churning the ocean of milk, and sometimes they would play catch with balls. We can find full pleasure in the spiritual world, with the simple condition that everything be performed in pure love of Godhead, Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

*Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C.
Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Fourteenth Chapter of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "Brahmā's Prayers to Lord Kṛṣṇa."*

15. The Killing of Dhenuka, the Ass Demon

This chapter describes how Lord Balarāma and Lord Kṛṣṇa, while tending Their cows in the pastures of Vṛndāvana, killed Dhenukāsura, enabled the residents of Vṛndāvana to eat the fruits of the tāla trees and saved the young cowherds from Kāliya's poison.

Revealing Their boyhood (pauganḍa) phase of pastimes, Rāma and Kṛṣṇa were one day bringing the cows to pasture when They entered an attractive forest decorated with a clear lake. There They began playing forest sports along with Their friends. Pretending to tire, Lord Baladeva laid His head upon the lap of a cowherd boy and rested as Lord Kṛṣṇa helped relieve His elder brother's fatigue by massaging His feet. Then Kṛṣṇa also placed His head on the lap of a cowherd boy to rest, and another cowherd boy massaged His feet. In this way Kṛṣṇa, Balarāma and Their cowherd friends enjoyed various pastimes.

During this play, Śrīdāmā, Subala, Stoka-kṛṣṇa and other cowherd boys described to Rāma and Kṛṣṇa a wicked and irrepressible demon named Dhenuka, who had assumed the form of a jackass and was living in the Tālavana forest near Govardhana Hill. This forest was full of many varieties of sweet fruits. But fearing this demon, no one dared try to relish the taste of those fruits, and thus someone had to kill the demon and all his associates. Lord Rāma and Lord Kṛṣṇa, hearing of the situation, set off for this forest to fulfill the desire of Their companions.

Arriving at the Tālavana, Lord Balarāma shook many fruits out of the palm trees, and as soon as He did so the jackass demon, Dhenuka, ran swiftly to attack Him. But Balarāma grabbed his hind legs with one hand, whirled him around and threw him into the top of a tree, thus slaying him. All of Dhenukāsura's friends, overcome by fury, then rushed to attack, but Rāma and Kṛṣṇa took hold of them one by one, swung them around and killed them, until the disturbance was finally finished. When Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma returned to the cowherd community, Yaśodā and Rohiṇī placed Them on their respective laps. They kissed Their faces, fed Them with finely prepared food and then put Them to bed.

Some days later Lord Kṛṣṇa went with His friends, but without His older brother, to the banks of the Kālindī in order to tend the cows. The cows and cowherd boys became very thirsty and drank some water from the Kālindī. But it had been contaminated with poison, and they all fell unconscious on the riverbank. Kṛṣṇa then brought them back to life by the merciful rain of His glance, and all of them, regaining their consciousness, appreciated His great mercy.

TEXT 1

श्रीशुक उवाच
ततश्च पौगण्डवयःश्रीतौ ब्रजे
बभूवतुस्तौ पशुपालसम्मतौ
गाश्चारयन्तौ सखिभिः समं पदैर् वृन्दावनं पुण्यमतीव चक्रतुः

śrī-śuka uvāca
tataś ca paugaṇḍa-vayaḥ-śrītau vraje babhūvatus tau paśu-pāla-sammatau gāś cārayantau sakhibhiḥ samam padair vṛndāvanam puṇyam atīva cakratuḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; tataḥ—then; ca—and; paugaṇḍa vayaḥ—the age of paugaṇḍa (years six to ten); śrītau—attaining; vraje—in Vṛndāvana; babhūvatuḥ—They (Rāma and Kṛṣṇa) became; tau—the two of Them; paśu-pāla—as cowherds; sammatau—appointed; gāḥ—the cows; cārayantau—tending; sakhibhiḥ samam—along with Their friends; padaiḥ—with the marks of Their feet vṛndāvanam-Śrī Vṛndāvana; puṇyam—auspicious; atīva—extremely, cakratuḥ-They made.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: When Lord Rāma and Lord Kṛṣṇa attained the age of paugaṇḍa [six to ten] while living in Vṛndāvana, the cowherd men allowed Them to take up the task of tending the cows. Engaging thus in the company of

Their friends, the two boys rendered the land of Vṛndāvana most auspicious by imprinting upon it the marks of Their lotus feet.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa wanted to encourage His cowherd boyfriends, who had been swallowed by Aghāsura and then stolen by Lord Brahmā. Therefore the Lord decided to bring them into the palm-tree forest called Tālavana, where there were many delicious ripe fruits. Since Lord Kṛṣṇa's spiritual body had apparently grown slightly in age and strength, the senior men of Vṛndāvana, headed by Nanda Mahārāja, decided to promote Kṛṣṇa from the task of herding calves to the status of a regular cowherd boy. He would now take care of the full-grown cows, bulls and oxen. Out of great affection, Nanda Mahārāja had previously considered Kṛṣṇa too small and immature to take care of full-grown cows and bulls. It is stated in the Kārttika-māhātmya section of the Padma Purāṇa:

*śuklāṣṭamī kārttike tu
smṛtā gopāṣṭamī budhaiḥ tad-dinād vāsudevo 'bhūd
gopāḥ pūrvam tu vatsapaḥ*

"The eighth lunar day of the bright fortnight of the month of Kārttika is known by authorities as Gopāṣṭamī. From that day, Lord Vāsudeva served as a cowherd, whereas previously He had tended the calves."

The word padaiḥ indicates that Lord Kṛṣṇa blessed the earth by walking on her surface with His lotus feet. The Lord wore no shoes or other footgear but walked barefoot in the forest, giving great anxiety to the girls of Vṛndāvana, who feared that His soft lotus feet would be injured.

TEXT 2

तन्माधवो वेणुमुदीरयन् वृतो
गोपैर्गृणद्भिः स्वयशो बलान्वितः पशून् पुरस्कृत्य पशव्यमाविशद् विहर्तुकामः कुसुमाकरं वनम्

tan mādhave veṇum udīrayan vṛto gopair gṛṇadbhiḥ sva-yaśo balānvitaḥ paśūn puraskṛtya paśavyam āviśad vihartu-kāmaḥ kusumākaraṁ vanam

SYNONYMS

tat—thus; mādhavaḥ—Lord Śrī Mādhava; veṇum—His flute; udīrayan—sounding; vṛtaḥ—surrounded; gopaiḥ—by the cowherd boys; gṛṇadbhiḥ—who were chanting; sva-yaśaḥ—His glories; bala-anvitaḥ—accompanied by Lord Balarāma; paśūn—the animals; puraskṛtya—keeping in front; paśavyam—full of nourishment for the cows; āviśat—He entered; vihartu-kāmaḥ—desiring to enjoy pastimes; kusuma-ākaram—rich with flowers; vanam—the forest.

TRANSLATION

Thus desiring to enjoy pastimes, Lord Mādhava, sounding His flute, surrounded by cowherd boys who were chanting His glories, and accompanied by Lord Baladeva, kept the cows before Him and entered the Vṛndāvana forest, which was full of flowers and rich with nourishment for the animals.

PURPORT

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī has explained the various meanings of the word mādhava as follows: Mādhava normally indicates Kṛṣṇa to be "the Lord, who is the consort of the goddess of fortune, Lakṣmī." This name also implies that Lord Kṛṣṇa descended in the dynasty of Madhu. Since the spring season is also known as Mādhava, it is understood that as soon as Lord Kṛṣṇa entered the Vṛndāvana forest, it automatically exhibited all the opulences of spring, becoming filled with flowers, breezes and a celestial atmosphere. Another reason Lord Kṛṣṇa is known as Mādhava is that He enjoys His pastimes in madhu, the taste of conjugal love.

Lord Kṛṣṇa would loudly sound His flute as He entered the forest of Śrī Vṛndāvana, thus giving inconceivable bliss to all the residents of His hometown, Vraja-dhāma. These simple pastimes of playfully entering the forest, playing on the flute and so forth were performed daily in the spiritual land of Vṛndāvana.

TEXT 3

तन्मञ्जुघोषालिमृगद्विजाकुलं
महन्मनःप्रख्यपयःसरस्वता
वातेन जुष्टं शतपत्रगन्धिना
निरीक्ष्य रन्तुं भगवान्मनो दधे

tan mañju-ghoṣāli-mṛga-dvijākulaṁ mahan-manah-prakhya-payah-sarasvatā vātena juṣṭaṁ śata-patra-gandhinā nirīkṣya rantuṁ bhagavān mano dadhe

SYNONYMS

tat—that forest; mañju—charming; ghoṣa—whose sounds; ali—with bees; mṛga—animals; dvija—and birds; ākulam—filled; mahat—of great souls; manah—the minds; prakhya—resembling; payah—whose water;

sarasvatā—with a lake; vātena—by the wind; juṣṭam—served; śata-patra—of hundred-petaled lotuses; gandhinā—with the fragrance; nirīkṣya—observing; rantum—to take pleasure; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; manaḥ—His mind; dadhe—turned.

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Personality of Godhead looked over that forest, which resounded with the charming sounds of bees, animals and birds, and which was enhanced by a lake whose clear water resembled the minds of great souls and by a breeze carrying the fragrance of hundred-petaled lotuses. Seeing all this, Lord Kṛṣṇa decided to enjoy the auspicious atmosphere.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa saw that the Vṛndāvana forest was giving pleasure to all five senses. The bees, birds, and animals made charming sounds that brought sweet pleasure to the ears. The wind was faithfully rendering service to the Lord by blowing throughout the forest, carrying the cool moisture of a transparent lake and thus giving pleasure to the sense of touch. By the sweetness of the wind, even the sense of taste was being stimulated, and the fragrance of lotus flowers was bringing pleasure to the nostrils. And the entire forest was endowed with heavenly beauty, which was giving spiritual bliss to the eyes. Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura has thus explained the significance of this verse.

TEXT 4

स तत्र तत्रारुणपल्लवश्रिया
फलप्रसूनोरुभरेण पादयोः
स्पृशच्छिखान् वीक्ष्य वनस्पतीन्मुदा

स्मयन्निवाहाग्रजमादिपुरुषः

sa tatra tatrāruṇa-pallava-śriyā phala-prasūnoru-bhareṇa pādayoḥ spṛśac chikhān vīkṣya vanaspatīn mudā smayann ivāhāgra-jam ādi-pūruṣaḥ

SYNONYMS

saḥ—He; tatra tatra—all around; aruṇa—reddish; pallava—of their buds; śriyā—with the beauty; phala—of their fruits; prasūna—and flowers; uru-bhareṇa—with the heavy burden; pādayoḥ—at His two feet; spṛśat—touching; śikhān—the tips of their branches; vīkṣya—seeing; vanaspatīn—the lordly trees; mudā—with joy; smayan—laughing; iva—almost; āha—spoke; agra-jam—to His elder brother, Lord Balarāma; ādi-pūruṣaḥ—the primeval Supreme Lord.

TRANSLATION

The primeval Lord saw that the stately trees, with their beautiful reddish buds and their heavy burden of fruits and flowers, were bending down to touch His feet with the tips of their branches. Thus He smiled gently and addressed His elder brother.

PURPORT

The words mudā smayann iva indicate that Lord Kṛṣṇa was in a joking mood. He knew that the trees were actually bowing down to worship Him. But in the following verse the Lord, speaking in a friendly, lighthearted mood, gives the credit to His brother, Balarāma.

TEXT 5

श्रीभगवानुवाच
अहो अमी देववरामरार्चितं
पादाम्बुजं ते सुमनःफलार्हणम्
नमन्त्युपादाय शिखाभिरात्मनस तमोऽपहत्यै तरुजन्म यत्कृतम्

śrī-bhagavān uvāca
aho amī deva-varāmarārcitaṁ pādāmbujaṁ te sumanaḥ-phalārhaṇam namanty upādāya śikhābhir ātmanas tamo-'pahatyai taru-janma yat-kṛtam

SYNONYMS

śrī-bhagavān uvāca—Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa said; aho—oh; amī—these; deva-vara—O best of Lords (Śrī Balarāma); amara—by the immortal demigods; arcitaṁ—worshiped; pāda-ambujam—to the lotus feet; te—of You; sumanaḥ—of flowers; phala—and fruits; arhaṇam—offerings; namanti—they are bowing down; upādāya—presenting; śikhābhiḥ—with their heads; ātmanaḥ—their own; tamaḥ—darkness of ignorance; apahatyai—for the purpose of eliminating; taru-janma—their birth as trees; yat—by which ignorance; kṛtam—created.

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Personality of Godhead said: O greatest of Lords, just see how these trees are bowing their heads at Your lotus feet, which are worshipable by the immortal demigods. The trees are offering You their fruits and flowers to eradicate the dark ignorance that has caused their birth as trees.

PURPORT

The trees of Vṛndāvana were thinking that because of past offenses they had now taken birth as trees and, being immovable, could not accompany Lord Kṛṣṇa in His wanderings throughout the Vṛndāvana area. In fact, all the creatures of Vṛndāvana, including the trees and cows, were great souls who could personally associate with the Supreme Personality of Godhead. But because of ecstatic sentiments of separation, the trees considered themselves in ignorance and thus tried to purify themselves by bowing down at the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma. Lord Kṛṣṇa understanding their mentality, simultaneously glanced at them with affection and praised their devotional service before His older brother, Balarāma.

TEXT 6

एतेऽलिनस्तव यशोऽखिललोकतीर्थं
गायन्त आदिपुरुषानुपथं भजन्ते प्रायो अमी मुनिगणा भवदीयमुख्या गूढं वनेऽपि न जहत्यनघात्मदैवम्

ete 'linas tava yaśo 'khila-loka-tīrtham gāyanta ādi-puruṣānupatham bhajante prāyo amī muni-gaṇā bhavadīya-mukhyā gūḍham vane 'pi na jahaty anaghātma-daivam

SYNONYMS

ete—these; alinaḥ—bees; tava—Your; yaśaḥ—glories; akhila-loka—for all worlds; tīrtham—the place of pilgrimage; gāyantaḥ—are chanting; ādi-puruṣa—O original Personality of Godhead; anupatham—following You along the path; bhajante—they are engaged in worshiping; prāyaḥ—for the most part; amī—these; muni-gaṇāḥ—great sages; bhavadīya—among Your devotees; mukhyāḥ—the most intimate; gūḍham—hidden; vane—within the forest; api—even though; na jahati—they do not abandon; anagha—O sinless one; ātma-daivam—their own worshipable Deity.

TRANSLATION

O original personality, these bees must all be great sages and most elevated devotees of Yours, for they are worshiping You by following You along the path and chanting Your glories, which are themselves a holy place for the entire world. Though You have disguised Yourself within this forest, O sinless one, they refuse to abandon You, their worshipable Lord.

PURPORT

The word gūḍham is significant in this verse. It indicates that although the Supreme Personality of Godhead in His form of Kṛṣṇa or Balarāma appears like an ordinary human being within the material world, great sages always recognize the Lord as the Supreme Absolute Truth. All the transcendental forms of Godhead are eternal and full of bliss and knowledge, exactly the opposite of our material bodies, which are temporary and full of misery and ignorance.

One meaning of the word tīrtha is "the means for crossing beyond material existence." Simply by hearing the glories of the Supreme Lord or by chanting them, one immediately comes to the spiritual platform, beyond material existence. Thus the Lord's transcendental glories are here described as a tīrtha for everyone in the world. The word gāyantaḥ indicates that great sages give up their vows of silence and other selfish processes to glorify the activities of the Supreme Lord. Real silence means to not speak nonsense, to limit one's verbal activities to those sounds, statements and discussions relevant to the loving service of the Supreme Lord.

The word anagha indicates that the Supreme Lord never performs sinful or offensive activities. The word also indicates that the Lord immediately excuses a sin or offense committed by a sincere loving devotee who may accidentally deviate from the Lord's service. In the specific context of this verse, the word anagha indicates that Lord Balarāma was not disturbed by the bees who were constantly following Him (anupatham). The Lord blessed them by saying, "O bees, come into My confidential grove and feel free to taste its fragrance."

TEXT 7

नृत्यन्त्यमी शिखिन ईड्य मुदा हरिण्यः
कुर्वन्ति गोप्य इव ते प्रियमीक्षणेन
सूक्तैश्च कोकिलगणा गृहमागताय धन्या वनौकस इयान् हि सतां निसर्गः

nṛtyanty amī śikhina īḍya mudā hariṇyaḥ kurvanti gopya iva te priyam īkṣaṇena sūktaiś ca kokila-gaṇā gṛham āgatāya dhanyā vanaukasa iyān hi satām nisargaḥ

SYNONYMS

nṛtyanti—are dancing; amī—these; śikhinaḥ—peacocks; īḍya—O worshipable Lord; mudā—with joy; hariṇyaḥ—the female deer; kurvanti—are making; gopyaḥ—the gopīs; iva—as if; te—for You; priyam—gratification; īkṣaṇena—by their glancing; sūktaiḥ—with Vedic prayers; ca—and; kokila-gaṇāḥ—the cuckoos; gṛham—to their home; āgatāya—who has arrived; dhanyāḥ—fortunate; vana-okasaḥ—the residents of the forest; iyān—such; hi—indeed; satām—of saintly personalities; nisargaḥ—the nature.

TRANSLATION

O worshipable one, these peacocks are dancing before You out of joy, these doe are pleasing You with affectionate glances, just as the gopīs do, and these cuckoos are honoring You with Vedic prayers. All these residents of the forest are most fortunate, and their behavior toward You certainly befits great souls receiving another great soul at home.

TEXT 8

धन्येयमद्य धरणी तृणवीरुधस्त्वत्- पादस्पृशो द्रुमलताः करजाभिमृष्टाः नद्योऽद्रयः खगमृगाः सदयावलोकैर् गोप्योऽन्तरेण भुजयोरपि यत्स्पृहा श्रीः

dhanyeyam adya dharaṇī tṛṇa-vīrudhas tvat-pāda-spr̥śo druma-latāḥ karajābhimṛṣṭāḥ nadyo 'drayaḥ khaga-mṛgāḥ sadayāvalokair gopyo 'ntareṇa bhujayor api yat-spr̥hā śrīḥ

SYNONYMS

dhanyā—fortunate; iyam—this; adya—now; dharaṇī—the earth; tṛṇa—her grasses; vīrudhaḥ—and bushes; tvat—Your; pāda—of the feet; spṛśaḥ—receiving the touch; druma—the trees; latāḥ—and creepers; kara-ja—by Your fingernails; abhimṛṣṭāḥ—touched; nadyaḥ—the rivers; adrayaḥ—and mountains; khaga—the birds; mṛgāḥ—and animals; sadaya—merciful; avalokaiḥ—by Your glances; gopyaḥ—the gopīs; antareṇa—in between; bhujayoḥ—Your two arms; api—indeed; yat—for which; spṛhā—maintains the desire; śrīḥ—the goddess of fortune.

TRANSLATION

This earth has now become most fortunate, because You have touched her grass and bushes with Your feet and her trees and creepers with Your fingernails, and because You have graced her rivers, mountains, birds and animals with Your merciful glances. But above all, You have embraced the young cowherd women between Your two arms—a favor hankered after by the goddess of fortune herself.

PURPORT

The word adya, "now," indicates the time of Lord Balarāma and Lord Kṛṣṇa's appearance on the earth. In His form of Varāha, Lord Kṛṣṇa personally saved the earth, and, indeed, the earth is understood to rest perpetually on the potency of Śeṣa. Both Varāha and Śeṣa are expansions of Balarāma, who is Himself an expansion of Lord Kṛṣṇa, the original Personality of Godhead. Lord Kṛṣṇa's statement that "this earth has now become most fortunate" (dhanyeyam adya dharaṇī) indicates that nothing can equal the blessings of the Supreme Personality of Godhead in His personal form as Kṛṣṇa, appearing simultaneously with His plenary expansion, Balarāma. The compound word karajābhimṛṣṭāḥ, "touched by Your fingernails," indicates that as Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma would move through the forest They would pick fruits and flowers from the trees, bushes and creepers and use this paraphernalia in Their pleasure pastimes. Sometimes They would break leaves off the plants and use them with the flowers to decorate Their bodies.

Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma would glance lovingly and mercifully at all the rivers, hills and creatures in Vṛndāvana. But the blessing received by the gopīs—being embraced directly between the Lord's arms—was the supreme benediction, desired even by the goddess of fortune herself. The goddess of fortune, who lives in Vaikuṇṭha on the chest of Lord Nārāyaṇa, once desired to be embraced on the chest of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, and thus she performed severe austerities to achieve this blessing. Śrī Kṛṣṇa informed her that her actual place was in Vaikuṇṭha and that it was not possible for her to dwell upon His chest in Vṛndāvana. Therefore she begged Kṛṣṇa to allow her to remain on His chest in the form of a golden line, and He granted her this benediction. Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura recounts this incident from the Purāṇas.

TEXT 9

श्रीशुक उवाच
एवं वृन्दावनं श्रीमत
कृष्णः प्रीतमनाः पशून्
रेमे सञ्चारयन्नद्रेः सरिद्रोधःसु सानुगः

śrī-śuka uvāca
evam vṛndāvanam śrīmat kṛṣṇaḥ prīta-manāḥ paśūn reme sañcārayann adreḥ
sarid-rodhaḥsu sānugaḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; evam—in this way; vṛndāvanam—with the forest of Vṛndāvana and its inhabitants; śrīmat—beautiful; kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; prīta-manāḥ—being satisfied in His mind; paśūn—the animals; reme—He took pleasure; sañcārayan—making them graze; adreḥ—in the vicinity of the mountain; sarit—of the river; rodhaḥsu—upon the banks; sa-anugaḥ—together with His companions.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Thus expressing His satisfaction with the beautiful forest of Vṛndāvana and its inhabitants, Lord Kṛṣṇa enjoyed tending the cows and other animals with His friends on the banks of the river Yamunā below Govardhana Hill.

TEXTS 10-12

क्वचिद्गायति गायत्सु
मदान्धालिष्वनुव्रतैः उपगीयमानचरितः
पथि सङ्कर्षणान्वितः

अनुजल्पति जल्पन्तं
कलवाक्यैः शुक्रं क्वचित्
क्वचित्सवल्लु कूजन्तम्
अनुकूजति कोकिलम्

क्वचिच्च कालहंसानाम्
अनुकूजति कूजितम्
अभिनृत्यति नृत्यन्तं
बर्हिणं हासयन् क्वचित्

मेघगम्भीरया वाचा
नामभिर्दूरगान् पशून्

क्वचिदाह्वयति प्रीत्या गोगोपालमनोज्ञया

*kvacid gāyati gāyatsu madāndhāliṣv anuvrataiḥ upagīyamāna-caritaḥ
pathi saṅkarṣaṇānvitaḥ*

anujalpati jalpantam kala-vākyaiḥ śukam kvacit kvacit sa-valgu kūjantam anukūjati kokilam

kvacic ca kāla-hamsānām anukūjati kūjitam abhinṛtyati nṛtyantam barhiṇam hāsayan kvacit

*megha-gambhīrayā vācā
nāmabhir dūra-gān paśūn kvacid āhvayati prītyā go-gopāla-manojñayā*

SYNONYMS

kvacit—sometimes; gāyati—He sings; gāyatsu—when they are singing; mada-andha—blinded by intoxication; aliṣu—the bees; anuvrataiḥ—along with His companions; upagīyamāna—being chanted; caritaḥ—His pastimes; pathi—upon the path; saṅkarṣaṇa-anvitaḥ—accompanied by Lord Baladeva; anujalpati—He chatters in imitation; jalpantam—of the chattering; kala-vākyaiḥ—with broken speech; śukam—parrot; kvacit—sometimes; kvacit—sometimes; sa—with; valgu—charming; kūjantam—cuckooing; anukūjati—He imitates the cuckooing; kokilam—of a cuckoo;

kvacit—sometimes; ca—and; kala-haṁsānām—of the swans; anukūjati kūjitam—imitates the cooing; abhinṛtyati—He dances in front of; nṛtyantam—dancing; barhiṇam—a peacock; hāsayan—making laugh; kvacit—sometimes; megha—like clouds; gambhirayā—grave; vācā—with His voice; nāmabhiḥ—by name; dūra-gān—who had strayed far away; paśūn—the animals; kvacit—sometimes; āhvayati—He calls; prītyā—affectionately; go—to the cows; gopāla—and the cowherd boys; manaḥ-jñayā—which (voice) charms the mind.

TRANSLATION

Sometimes the honeybees in Vṛndāvana became so mad with ecstasy that they closed their eyes and began to sing. Lord Kṛṣṇa, moving along the forest path with His cowherd boyfriends and Baladeva, would then respond to the bees by imitating their singing while His friends sang about His pastimes. Sometimes Lord Kṛṣṇa would imitate the chattering of a parrot, sometimes, with a sweet voice, the call of a cuckoo, and sometimes the cooing of swans. Sometimes He vigorously imitated the dancing of a peacock, making His cowherd boyfriends laugh. Sometimes, with a voice as deep as the rumbling of clouds, He would call out with great affection the names of the animals who had wandered far from the herd, thus enchanting the cows and the cowherd boys.

PURPORT

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Lord Kṛṣṇa would joke with His friends, saying, "Just look, this peacock does not know how to dance properly," whereupon the Lord would vigorously imitate the peacock's dancing, causing great laughter among His friends. The bees in Vṛndāvana would drink the sap of the forest flowers, and the combination of this nectar and the association of Śrī Kṛṣṇa made them mad with intoxication. Thus they closed their eyes in ecstasy and expressed their satisfaction by humming. And this humming was also expertly imitated by the Lord.

TEXT 13

चकोरक्रौञ्चचक्राह्व-भारद्वाजांश्च बर्हिणः
अनुरौति स्म सत्त्वानां
भीतवद्द्याघ्रसिंहयोः

cakora-krauñca-cakrāhva-bhāradvājāṁś ca barhiṇaḥ anurauti sma sattvānām bhīta-vad vyāghra-simhayoḥ

SYNONYMS

cakora-krauñca-cakrāhva-bhāradvājān ca—the cakora, krauñca, cakrāhva and bhāradvāja birds; barhiṇaḥ—the peacocks; anurauti sma—He would call out in imitation of; sattvānām—together with the other creatures; bhīta-vat—acting as if afraid; vyāghra-simhayoḥ—of the tigers and lions.

TRANSLATION

Sometimes He would cry out in imitation of birds such as the cakoras, kraui cas, cakrāhvas, bhāradvājas and peacocks, and sometimes He would run away with the smaller animals in mock fear of lions and tigers.

PURPORT

The word bhīta-vat, "as if afraid," indicates that Lord Kṛṣṇa played just like an ordinary boy and ran with the smaller forest creatures in mock fear of the lions and tigers. Actually, in Vṛndāvana, the abode of the Lord, the lions and tigers are not violent, and thus there is no reason to fear them.

TEXT 14

क्वचित्क्रीडापरिश्रान्तं
गोपोत्सङ्गोपबर्हणम्
स्वयं विश्रमयत्यार्यं
पादसंवाहनादिभिः

*kvacit krīḍā-parīśrāntam
gopotsaṅgopabarhaṇam svayam viśramayaty āryam
pāda-saṁvāhanādibhiḥ*

SYNONYMS

kvacit—sometimes; krīḍā—by playing; parīśrāntam—fatigued; gopa—of a cowherd boy; utsaṅga—the lap; upabarhaṇam—using as His pillow; svayam—personally; viśramayati—relieves Him from His fatigue; āryam—His elder brother; pāda-saṁvāhana-ādibhiḥ—by massaging His feet and offering other services.

TRANSLATION

When His elder brother, fatigued from playing, would lie down with His head upon the lap of a cowherd boy, Lord Kṛṣṇa would help Him relax by personally massaging His feet and offering other services.

PURPORT

The word pāda-saṁvāhanādibhiḥ indicates that Lord Kṛṣṇa would massage Balarāma's feet, fan Him and bring Him river water to drink.

TEXT 15

नृत्यतो गायतः क्वापि
वल्गतो युध्यतो मिथः
गृहीतहस्तौ गोपालान्
हसन्तौ प्रशशंसतुः

*nṛtyato gāyataḥ kvāpi
valgato yudhyato mithaḥ grhīta-hastau gopālān hasantau praśaśamsatuḥ*

SYNONYMS

nṛtyataḥ—who were dancing; gāyataḥ—singing; kva api—sometimes; valgataḥ—moving about; yudhyataḥ—fighting; mithaḥ—with one another; grhīta-hastau—holding Their hands together; gopālān—the cowherd boys; hasantau—laughing; praśaśamsatuḥ—They offered praise.

TRANSLATION

Sometimes, as the cowherd boys danced, sang, moved about and playfully fought with each other, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, standing nearby hand in hand, would glorify Their friends' activities and laugh.

TEXT 16

क्वचित्पल्लवतल्पेषु

नियुद्धश्रमकर्षितः
वृक्षमूलाश्रयः शेते गोपोत्सङ्गोपबर्हणः

*kvacit pallava-talpeṣu
niyuddha-śrama-karṣitaḥ vṛkṣa-mūlāśrayaḥ śete gopotsaṅgopabarhaṇaḥ*

SYNONYMS

kvacit—sometimes; pallava—made from new twigs and buds; talpeṣu—upon beds; niyuddha—from the fighting; śrama—by fatigue; karṣitaḥ—worn out; vṛkṣa—of a tree; mūla—at the base; āśrayaḥ—taking shelter; śete—He lay down; gopa-utsaṅga—the lap of a cowherd boy; upabarhaṇaḥ—as His pillow.

TRANSLATION

Sometimes Lord Kṛṣṇa grew tired from fighting and lay down at the base of a tree, resting upon a bed made of soft twigs and buds and using the lap of a cowherd friend as His pillow.

PURPORT

The word pallava-talpeṣu implies that Lord Kṛṣṇa expanded Himself into many forms and lay down upon the many beds of twigs, leaves and flowers hastily constructed by His enthusiastic cowherd friends.

TEXT 17

पादसंवाहनं चक्रुः

केचित्तस्य महात्मनः
अपरे हतपाप्मानो व्यजनैः समवीजयन्

pāda-saṁvāhanam cakruḥ
kecit tasya mahātmanaḥ apare hata-pāpmāno
vyajanaiḥ samavījayan

SYNONYMS

pāda-saṁvāhanam—the massaging of the feet; cakruḥ—did; kecit—some of them; tasya—of Him; mahā-ātmanaḥ—great souls; apare—others; hata-pāpmānaḥ—who were free from all sins; vyajanaiḥ—with fans; samavījayan—perfectly fanned Him.

TRANSLATION

Some of the cowherd boys, who were all great souls, would then massage His lotus feet, and others, qualified by being free of all sin, would expertly fan the Supreme Lord.

PURPORT

The word samavījayan indicates that the cowherd boys fanned the Lord very carefully and expertly, creating gentle and cooling breezes.

TEXT 18

अन्ये तदनुरूपाणि

मनोज्ञानि महात्मनः
गायन्ति स्म महाराज
स्नेहक्लिन्नधियः शनैः

*anye tad-anurūpāṇi manojñāni mahātmanaḥ gāyanti sma mahā-rāja
sneha-klinna-dhiyaḥ śanaiḥ*

SYNONYMS

anye—others; tad-anurūpāṇi—suitable for the occasion; manaḥ-jñāni—attractive to the mind; mahā-ātmanaḥ—of the great personality (Lord Kṛṣṇa); gāyanti sma—they would sing; mahā-rāja—O King Parīkṣit; sneha—by love; klinna—melted; dhiyaḥ—their hearts; śanaiḥ—slowly.

TRANSLATION

My dear King, other boys would sing enchanting songs appropriate to the occasion, and their hearts would melt out of love for the Lord.

TEXT 19

एवं निगूढात्मगतिः स्वमायया
गोपात्मजत्वं चरितैर्विडम्बयन्
रेमे रमालालितपादपल्लवो ग्राम्यैः समं ग्राम्यवदीशचेष्टितः

evam nigūḍhātma-gatiḥ sva-māyayā

gopātmajatvaṁ caritair viḍambayan reme ramā-lālita-pāda-pallavo grāmyaiḥ samam grāmya-vad īśa-ceṣṭitaḥ

SYNONYMS

evam—in this way; nigūḍha—hidden away; ātma-gatiḥ—His personal opulence; sva-māyayā—by His own mystical potency; gopa-ātmajatvam—the status of being the son of a cowherd; caritaiḥ—by His activities; viḍambayan—pretending; reme—He enjoyed; ramā—by the goddess of fortune; lālita—attended; pāda-pallavaḥ—His feet, which are tender like new buds; grāmyaiḥ samam—together with village persons; grāmya-vat—like a village personality; īśa-ceṣṭitaḥ—although also displaying feats unique to the Supreme Lord.

TRANSLATION

In this way the Supreme Lord, whose soft lotus feet are personally attended by the goddess of fortune, concealed His transcendental opulences by His internal potency and acted like the son of a cowherd. Yet even while enjoying like a village boy in the company of other village residents, He often exhibited feats only God could perform.

TEXT 20

श्रीदामा नाम गोपालो
रामकेशवयोः सखा
सुबलस्तोककृष्णाद्या गोपाः प्रेम्णेदमब्रुवन्

śrīdāmā nāma gopālo
rāma-keśavayoḥ sakhā subala-stokakṛṣṇādyā
gopāḥ premṇedam abruvan

SYNONYMS

śrīdāmā nāma—named Śrīdāmā; gopālah—the cowherd boy;
rāma-keśavayoḥ—of Lord Rāma and Lord Kṛṣṇa; sakhā—the friend;
subala-stokakṛṣṇa-ādyāḥ—Subala, Stokakṛṣṇa and others; gopāḥ—cowherd boys; premṇā—with love; idam—this; abruvan—spoke.

TRANSLATION

Once, some of the cowherd boys—Śrīdāmā, the very close friend of Rāma and Kṛṣṇa, along with Subala, Stokakṛṣṇa and others—lovingly spoke the following words.

PURPORT

The word premṇā, "with love," indicates that the request the cowherd boys are about to place before Lord Kṛṣṇa and Lord Balarāma is motivated by love, not personal desire. The cowherd boys were eager for Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma to exhibit Their pastimes of killing demons and to enjoy the delicious fruits of the Tāla forest, and therefore they made the following request.

TEXT 21

राम राम महाबाहो
कृष्ण दुष्टनिर्हण
इतोऽविदूरे सुमहद

वनं तालालिसङ्कुलम्

*rāma rāma mahā-bāho
kṛṣṇa duṣṭa-nibarhaṇa
ito 'vidūre su-mahad
vanam tālāli-saṅkulam*

SYNONYMS

rāma rāma—O Rāma: mahā-bāho—O mighty-armed one; kṛṣṇa—O Kṛṣṇa; duṣṭa-nibarhaṇa—O eliminator of the miscreants; itaḥ—from here; avidūre—not far; su-mahat—very expansive; vanam—a forest; tāla-āli—with rows of palm trees; saṅkulam—filled.

TRANSLATION

[The cowherd boys said:] O Rāma, Rāma, mighty-armed one! O Kṛṣṇa, destroyer of the miscreants! Not far from here is a very great forest filled with rows of palm trees.

PURPORT

As stated in the Śrī Varāha Purāṇa:

*asti govardhanam nāma kṣetram parama-durlabham mathurā-ṣācīme bhāge
adūrād yojana-dvayam*

"Not far from the western side of Mathurā, at a distance of two yojanas [sixteen miles], is the holy place named Govardhana, which is most difficult to attain." It is also stated in the Varāha Purāṇa:

*asti tāla-vanaṁ nāma dhenakāśura-rakṣitam mathurā-pāścīme bhāge
adūrād eka-yojanam*

"Not far from the western side of Mathurā, one yojana away [eight miles], is the forest known as Tālavana, which was guarded by Dhenukāśura." Thus it appears that the Tālavana forest is located midway between Mathurā and Govardhana Hill. The forest of Tālavana is described in the Śrī Hari-vamśa as follows:

sa tu deśaḥ samaḥ snigdhaḥ su-mahān kṛṣṇa-mṛttikaḥ darbha-prāyaḥ sthulī-bhūto loṣṭra-pāṣāṇa-varjitaḥ

"The land there is even, smooth and very expansive. The earth is black, densely covered with darbha grass and devoid of stones and pebbles."

TEXT 22

फलानि तत्र भूरीणि
पतन्ति पतितानि च
सन्ति किन्त्ववरुद्धानि
धेनुकेन दुरात्मना

*phalāni tatra bhūrīṇi patanti patitāni ca
santi kintv avaruddhāni
dhenukena durātmanā*

SYNONYMS

phalāni—the fruits; tatra—there; bhūrīṇi—very many; patanti—are falling; patitāni—have already fallen; ca—and; santi—they are; kintu—however; avaruddhāni—kept under control; dhenukena—by Dhenuka; durātmanā—the evil one.

TRANSLATION

In that Tālavana forest many fruits are falling from the trees, and many are already lying on the ground. But all the fruits are being guarded by the evil Dhenuka.

PURPORT

The demon Dhenuka would not allow anyone to eat the delicious ripe palm fruits of the Tālavana, and Kṛṣṇa's young boyfriends protested this unjust usurpation of the right to enjoy the fruits of a public forest.

TEXT 23

सोऽतिवीर्योऽसुरो राम
हे कृष्ण खररूपधृक्
आत्मतुल्यबलैरन्यैर् ज्ञातिभिर्बहुभिर्वृतः

so 'ti-vīryo 'suro rāma
he kṛṣṇa khara-rūpa-dhṛk ātma-tulya-balair anyair jñātibhir bahubhir vṛtaḥ

SYNONYMS

saḥ—he; ati-vīryaḥ—very powerful; asuraḥ—a demon; rāma—O Rāma; he kṛṣṇa—O Kṛṣṇa; khara-rūpa—the form of an ass; dhṛk—assuming; ātma-tulya—equal to himself; balaiḥ—whose strength; anyaiḥ—with others; jñātibhiḥ—companions; bahubhiḥ—many; vṛtaḥ—surrounded.

TRANSLATION

O Rāma, O Kṛṣṇa! Dhenuka is a most powerful demon and has assumed the form of an ass. He is surrounded by many friends who have assumed a similar shape and who are just as powerful as he.

TEXT 24

तस्मात्कृतनराहाराद्
भीतैर्नृभिरमित्रहन्
न सेव्यते पशुगणैः
पक्षिसङ्घैर्विवर्जितम्

tasmāt kṛta-narāhārād
bhītair nṛbhir amitra-han na sevyate paśu-gaṇaiḥ pakṣi-saṅghair vivarjitam

SYNONYMS

tasmāt—of him; kṛta-nara-āhārāt—who has eaten human beings; bhītaiḥ—who are afraid; nṛbhiḥ—by the human beings; amitra-han—O killer of enemies; na sevyate—is not resorted to; paśu-gaṇaiḥ—by the various animals; pakṣi-saṅghaiḥ—by the flocks of birds; vivarjitam—abandoned.

TRANSLATION

The demon Dhenuka has eaten men alive, and therefore all people and animals are terrified of going to the Tāla forest. O killer of the enemy, even the birds are afraid to fly there.

PURPORT

The cowherd boyfriends of Lord Kṛṣṇa and Lord Balarāma encouraged the two brothers to go at once to the Tāla forest and kill the ass demon. Indeed, here they address the brothers as amitra-han, "killer of the enemy." The cowherd boys were engaged in ecstatic meditation upon the potency of the Supreme Personality of Godhead and reasoned thus: "Kṛṣṇa has already killed terrible demons like Baka and Agha, so what is so special about this obnoxious jackass named Dhenuka, who has become public enemy number one in Vṛndāvana?"

The cowherd boys wanted Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma to kill the demons so that all the pious inhabitants of Vṛndāvana could enjoy the fruits in the Tāla forest. Thus they requested the special favor that the ass demons be killed.

TEXT 25

विद्यन्तेऽभुक्तपूर्वाणि
फलानि सुरभीणि च
एष वै सुरभिर्गन्धो विषूचीनोऽवगृह्यते

vidyante 'bhukta-pūrvāṇi

*phalāni surabhīṇi ca
eṣa vai surabhir gandho
viṣūcīno 'vagṛhyate*

SYNONYMS

vidyante—are present; abhukta-pūrvāṇi—never before tasted; phalāni—fruits; surabhīṇi—fragrant; ca—and; eṣaḥ—this; vai—indeed; surabhiḥ—fragrant; gandhaḥ—aroma; viṣūcīnaḥ—spreading everywhere; avagṛhyate—is perceived.

TRANSLATION

In the Tāla forest are sweet-smelling fruits no one has ever tasted. Indeed, even now we can smell the fragrance of the tāla fruits spreading all about.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī, the sweet fragrance of the tāla fruits was carried by an easterly wind, which is conducive to rain in the Vṛndāvana area. This easterly wind generally blows in the month of Bhādra and thus indicates the excellent ripeness of the fruits, while the fact that the boys could smell them indicates the nearness of the Tāla forest.

TEXT 26

प्रयच्छ तानि नः कृष्ण
गन्धलोभितचेतसाम्
वाञ्छास्ति महती राम गम्यतां यदि रोचते

prayaccha tāni naḥ kṛṣṇa

*gandha-lobhita-cetasām vāñchāsti mahatī rāma
gamyatām yadi rocate*

SYNONYMS

prayaccha—please give; tāni—them; naḥ—to us; kṛṣṇa—O Kṛṣṇa; gandha—by the fragrance; lobhita—made greedy; cetasām—whose minds; vāñchā—the desire; asti—is; mahatī—great; rāma—O Rāma; gamyatām—let us go; yadi—if; rocate—it appears like a good idea.

TRANSLATION

O Kṛṣṇa! Please get those fruits for us. Our minds are so attracted by their aroma! Dear Balarāma, our desire to have those fruits is very great. If You think it's a good idea, let's go to that Tāla forest.

PURPORT

Although neither man nor bird nor beast could even approach the Tāla forest, the cowherd boys had so much faith in Lord Kṛṣṇa and Lord Balarāma that they took it for granted the two Lords could effortlessly kill the sinful ass demons and acquire the delicious tāla fruits. Lord Kṛṣṇa's cowherd boyfriends are exalted, self-realized souls who would not ordinarily become greedy for sweet fruits. In fact, they are simply joking with the Lord and enthusing His pastimes, urging Him to perform unprecedented heroic feats in the Tāla forest. Innumerable demons disturbed the sublime atmosphere of Vṛndāvana during Lord Kṛṣṇa's presence there, and the Lord would kill such demons as a popular daily event.

Since Lord Kṛṣṇa had already killed many demons, on this particular day He decided to give first honors to Lord Balarāma, who would demolish the first demon, Dhenuka. By the words yadi rocate, the cowherd boys indicate that Lord Kṛṣṇa and Lord Balarāma need not kill the demon simply to satisfy them; rather, They should do so only if the Lords Themselves found the concept appealing.

TEXT 27

एवं सुहृद्वचः श्रुत्वा
सुहृत्प्रियचिकीर्षया
प्रहस्य जग्मतुर्गोपैर् वृतौ तालवनं प्रभू

*evam suhṛd-vacaḥ śrutvā
suhṛt-priya-cikīrṣayā prahasya jagmatur gopair
vṛtau tālavanam prabhū*

SYNONYMS

evam—thus; suhṛt—of Their friends; vacaḥ—the words; śrutvā—hearing; suhṛt—to Their friends; priya—pleasure; cikīrṣayā—desiring to give; prahasya—laughing; jagmatuḥ—the two of Them went; gopaiḥ—by the cowherd boys; vṛtau—surrounded; tāla-vanam—to the Tāla forest; prabhū—the two Lords.

TRANSLATION

Hearing the words of Their dear companions, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma laughed and, desiring to please them, set off for the Tālavana surrounded by Their cowherd boyfriends.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa was thinking, "How can a mere ass be so formidable?" And thus He smiled at the petition of His boyfriends. As stated by Lord Kapila in the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam (3.28.32), hāsaṁ harer avanatākhila-loka-tīvra-śokāśru-sāgara-viśoṣaṇam aty-udāram: "The smile and laughter of the Supreme Lord Hari is most magnanimous. Indeed, for those who bow down to the Lord, His smile and laughter dry up the ocean of tears caused by the intense suffering of this world." Thus, to encourage Their boyfriends, Lord Kṛṣṇa and Lord Balarāma smiled, laughed and immediately set out with them for the Tāla forest.

TEXT 28

बलः प्रविश्य बाहुभ्यां
तालान् सम्परिकम्पयन्
फलानि पातयामास मतङ्गज इवौजसा

*balah praviśya bāhubhyām tālān samparikampayan phalāni pātayām āsa
mataṅ-gaja ivaujasā*

SYNONYMS

balah—Balarāma; praviśya—entering; bāhubhyām—with His two arms; tālān—the palm trees; samparikampayan—making shake all around; phalāni—the fruits; pātayām āsa—He made fall; matam-gajah—a maddened elephant; iva—just as; ojasā—by His strength.

TRANSLATION

Lord Balarāma entered the Tāla forest first. Then with His two arms He began forcefully shaking the trees with the power of a maddened elephant, causing the tāla fruits to fall to the ground.

TEXT 29

फलानां पततां शब्दं
निशम्यासुररासभः
अभ्यधावत्क्षितितलं सनगं परिकम्पयन्

phalānām patatām śabdam niśamyāśura-rāsabhaḥ abhyadhāvat kṣiti-talam
sa-nagam parikampayan

SYNONYMS

phalānām—of the fruits; patatām—which are falling; śabdam—the sound; niśamya—hearing; asura-rāsabhaḥ—the demon in the form of a jackass; abhyadhāvat—ran forward; kṣiti-talam—the surface of the earth; sa-nagam—together with the trees; parikampayan—making tremble.

TRANSLATION

Hearing the sound of the falling fruits, the ass demon Dhenuka ran forward to attack, making the earth and trees tremble.

TEXT 30

समेत्य तरसा प्रत्यग्
द्वाभ्यां पद्भ्यां बलं बली
निहत्योरसि काशब्दं मुञ्चन् पर्यसरत्खलः

*sametya tarasā pratyag dvābhyām padbhyām balam balī nihatyorasi kā-śabdam
muñcan paryasarat khalah*

SYNONYMS

sametya—meeting Him; tarasā—swiftly; pratyak—hind; dvābhyām—with the two; padbhyām—legs; balam—Lord Baladeva; balī—the powerful demon; nihatya—striking; urasi—upon the chest; kā-śabdam—an ugly braying sound; muñcan—releasing; paryasarat—ran around; khalah—the jackass.

TRANSLATION

The powerful demon rushed up to Lord Baladeva and sharply struck the Lord's chest with the hooves of his hind legs. Then Dhenuka began to run about, braying loudly.

TEXT 31

पुनरासाद्य संरब्ध

उपक्रोष्टा पराकिस्थतः
चरणावपरौ राजन्
बलाय प्राक्षिपद्रुषा

*punar āsādyā saṁrabdha upakroṣṭā parāk sthitaḥ caraṇāv aṇarau rājan
balāya prākṣipad ruṣā*

SYNONYMS

punaḥ—again; āsādyā—approaching Him; saṁrabdhaḥ—furious; upakroṣṭā—the ass; parāk—with his back toward the Lord; sthitaḥ—standing; caraṇau—two legs; aṇarau—hind; rājan—O King Parīkṣit; balāya—at Lord Balarāma; prākṣipat—he hurled; ruṣā—with anger.

TRANSLATION

Moving again toward Lord Balarāma, O King, the furious ass situated himself with his back toward the Lord. Then, screaming in rage, the demon hurled his two hind legs at Him.

PURPORT

The word upakroṣṭā indicates an ass and also one who is crying out nearby. Thus it is indicated herein that the powerful Dhenuka made horrible, angry sounds.

TEXT 32

स तं गृहीत्वा प्रपदोर्

भ्रामयित्वैकपाणिना
चिक्षेप तृणराजाग्रे भ्रामणत्यक्तजीवितम्

sa taṁ gṛhītvā prapador bhrāmayitvaika-pāṇinā cikṣepa tṛṇa-rājāgre bhrāmaṇa-tyakta-jīvitam

SYNONYMS

saḥ—He; taṁ—him; gṛhītvā—seizing; prapadoḥ—by the hooves; bhrāmayitvā—whirling around; eka-pāṇinā—with a single hand; cikṣepa—He threw; tṛṇa-rāja-agre—into the top of a palm tree; bhrāmaṇa—by the whirling; tyakta—giving up; jīvitam—his life.

TRANSLATION

Lord Balarāma seized Dhenuka by his hooves, whirled him about with one hand and threw him into the top of a palm tree. The violent wheeling motion killed the demon.

TEXT 33

तेनाहतो महातालो
वेपमानो बृहच्छिराः
पार्श्वस्थं कम्पयन् भग्नः स चान्यं सोऽपि चापरम्

*tenāhato mahā-tālo
vepamāno bṛhac-chirāḥ pārśva-stham kampayan bhagnaḥ sa cānyam so 'pi cāparam*

SYNONYMS

tena—by that (body of the dead Dhenukāsura); āhataḥ—struck; mahā-tālaḥ—the great palm tree; vepamānaḥ—trembling; bṛhat-śirāḥ—which had a large top; pārśva-stham—another situated beside it; kampayan—making shake; bhagnaḥ—broken; saḥ—that; ca—and; anyam—another; saḥ—that; api—yet; ca—and; aparam—another.

TRANSLATION

Lord Balarāma threw the dead body of Dhenukāsura into the tallest palm tree in the forest, and when the dead demon landed in the treetop, the tree began shaking. The great palm tree, causing a tree by its side also to shake, broke under the weight of the demon. The neighboring tree caused yet another tree to shake, and this one struck yet another tree, which also began shaking. In this way many trees in the forest shook and broke.

PURPORT

Lord Balarāma threw the demon Dhenuka so violently into the great palm tree that a chain reaction was unleashed, and many towering palm trees shook and then broke with a great crashing sound.

TEXT 34

बलस्य लीलयोत्सृष्ट-

खरदेहहताहताः
तालाश्चकम्पिरे सर्वे महावातेरिता इव

*balasya līlayotsṛṣṭa-khara-deha-hatāhatāḥ
tālāś cakamṣire sarve
mahā-vāteritā iva*

SYNONYMS

balasya—of Lord Balarāma; līlayā—as the pastime; utsṛṣṭa—thrown upward; khara-deha—by the body of the ass; hata-āhatāḥ—which were striking one another; tālāḥ—the palm trees; cakamṣire—shook; sarve—all; mahā-vāta—by a powerful wind; īritāḥ—blown; iva—as if.

TRANSLATION

Because of Lord Balarāma's pastime of throwing the body of the ass demon into the top of the tallest palm tree, all the trees began shaking and striking against one another as if blown about by powerful winds.

TEXT 35

नैतच्चित्रं भगवति
ह्यनन्ते जगदीश्वरे
ओतप्रोतमिदं यस्मिंसु तन्तुष्वङ्गं यथा पटः

*naitac citraṁ bhagavati
hy anante jagad-īśvare ota-protam idaṁ yasmimś tantuṣv aṅga yathā paṭaḥ*

SYNONYMS

na—not; etat—this; citraṁ—surprising; bhagavati—for the Personality of Godhead; hi—indeed; anante—who is the unlimited; jagat-īśvare—the Lord of the the universe; ota-protam—spread out horizontally and vertically; idaṁ—this universe; yasmin—upon whom; tantuṣu—upon its threads; aṅga—my dear Parīkṣit; yathā—just as, paṭaḥ—a cloth.

TRANSLATION

My dear Parīkṣit, that Lord Balarāma killed Dhenukāsura is not such a wonderful thing, considering that He is the unlimited Personality of Godhead, the controller of the entire universe. Indeed, the entire cosmos rests upon Him just as a woven cloth rests upon its own horizontal and vertical threads.

PURPORT

Unfortunate persons cannot appreciate the blissful pastimes of the Supreme Lord. In this connection Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī explains that the Supreme Lord possesses unlimited potency and strength, as expressed here by the word anante. The Lord exhibits a tiny fraction of His power according to the need of a particular situation. Lord Balarāma desired to vanquish the gang of demoniac asses who had unlawfully seized the Tālavana forest, and therefore He exhibited just enough divine opulence to easily kill Dhenukāsura and the other demons.

TEXT 36

ततः कृष्णं च रामं च
ज्ञातयो धेनुकस्य ये
क्रोष्टारोऽभ्यद्रवन् सर्वे संरब्धा हतबान्धवाः

tataḥ kṛṣṇam ca rāmam ca jñātayo dhenukasya ye kroṣṭāro 'bhyadravan sarve saṁrabdhā hata-bāndhavāḥ

SYNONYMS

tataḥ—then; kṛṣṇam—at Lord Kṛṣṇa; ca—and; rāmam—Lord Rāma; ca—and; jñātayaḥ—the intimate companions; dhenukasya—of Dhenuka; ye—who; kroṣṭāraḥ—the asses; abhyadravan—attacked; sarve—all saṁrabdhāḥ—enraged; hata-bāndhavāḥ—their friend having been killed.

TRANSLATION

The other ass demons, close friends of Dhenukāsura, were enraged upon seeing his death, and thus they all immediately ran to attack Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma.

PURPORT

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī makes the following comment on this verse: "It is stated here that the ass demons first attacked Kṛṣṇa and then Balarāma (kṛṣṇam ca rāmam ca). One reason for this is that the demons, having seen the prowess of Lord Balarāma, thought it wise to attack Kṛṣṇa first. Or it may be that out of affection for His elder brother, Lord Kṛṣṇa placed Himself between Balarāma and the ass demons. The words kṛṣṇam ca rāmam ca may also be understood to indicate that Lord Balarāma, out of affection for His younger brother, went to Lord Kṛṣṇa's side.

TEXT 37

तांस्तानापततः कृष्णो
रामश्च नृप लीलया
गृहीतपश्चाच्चरणान्
प्राहिणोत्तृणराजसु

*tāms tān āpatataḥ kṛṣṇo
rāmaś ca nṛpa līlayā gṛhīta-paścāc-caraṇān
prāhiṇot tṛṇa-rājasu*

SYNONYMS

tān tān—all of them, one by one; āpatataḥ—attacking; kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; rāmaḥ—Lord Balarāma; ca—and; nṛpa—O King; līlayā—easily; gṛhīta—seizing; paścāt-caraṇān—their hind legs; prāhiṇot—threw; tṛṇa-rājasu—into the palm trees.

TRANSLATION

O King, as the demons attacked, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma easily seized them one after another by their hind legs and threw them all into the tops of the palm trees.

TEXT 38

फलप्रकरसङ्कीर्णं
दैत्यदेहैर्गतासुभिः
रराज भूः सतालाग्रैर् घनैरिव नभस्तलम्

phala-prakara-saṅkīrṇam
daitya-dehair gatāsubhiḥ rarāja bhūḥ sa-tālāgrair ghanair iva nabhas-talam

SYNONYMS

phala-prakara—with heaps of fruits; saṅkīrṇam—covered; daitya-dehaiḥ—with the bodies of the demons; gata-asubhiḥ—which were lifeless; rarāja—shone forth; bhūḥ—the earth; sa-tāla-agraiḥ—with the tops of the palm trees; ghanaiḥ—with clouds; iva—as; nabhaiḥ-talam—the sky.

TRANSLATION

The earth then appeared beautifully covered with heaps of fruits and with the dead bodies of the demons, which were entangled in the broken tops of the palm trees. Indeed, the earth shone like the sky decorated with clouds.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura, the bodies of the demons were dark, like dark blue clouds, and the large quantity of blood that had flowed from their bodies appeared like bright red clouds. Thus the whole scene was very beautiful. The Supreme Personality of Godhead in His various forms, such as Rāma and Kṛṣṇa, is always transcendental, and when He enacts

His transcendental pastimes the result is always beautiful and transcendental, even when the Lord performs violent acts like killing the stubborn ass demons.

TEXT 39

तयोस्तत्सुमहत्कर्म
निशम्य विबुधादयः
मुमुचुः पुष्पवर्षाणि चक्रुर्वाद्यानि तुष्टुवुः

*tayos tat su-mahat karma niśamya vibudhādayaḥ mumucuḥ puṣpa-varṣāṇi
cakrur vādyāni tuṣṭuvuḥ*

SYNONYMS

tayoḥ—of the two brothers; tat—that; su-mahat—very great; karma—act; niśamya—hearing of; vibudha-ādayaḥ—the demigods and other elevated living beings; mumucuḥ—they released; puṣpa-varṣāṇi—downpours of flowers; cakruḥ—they performed; vādyāni—music; tuṣṭuvuḥ—they offered prayers.

TRANSLATION

Hearing of this magnificent feat of the two brothers, the demigods and other elevated living beings rained down flowers and offered music and prayers in glorification.

PURPORT

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī comments that the demigods, great sages and other exalted beings were all astonished and ecstatic upon seeing the unusually swift and nonchalant way in which Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma killed the very powerful ass demons in the Tāla forest.

TEXT 40

अथ तालफलान्यादन्
मनुष्या गतसाध्वसाः
तृणं च पशवश्चेरुर् हतधेनुककानने

*atha tāla-phalāny ādan manuṣyā gata-sādhvasāḥ tṛṇam ca paśavaś cerur
hata-dhenuka-kānane*

SYNONYMS

atha—then; tāla—of the palm trees; phalāni—the fruits; ādan—ate; manuṣyāḥ—the human beings; gata-sādhvasāḥ—having lost their fear; tṛṇam—upon the grass; ca—and; paśavaḥ—the animals; ceruḥ—grazed; hata—killed; dhenuka—of the demon Dhenuka; kānane—in the forest.

TRANSLATION

People now felt free to return to the forest where Dhenuka had been killed, and without fear they ate the fruits of the palm trees. Also, the cows could now graze freely upon the grass there.

PURPORT

According to the ācāryas, low-class people such as the pulindas ate the fruits of the palm trees, but Kṛṣṇa's cowherd boyfriends considered them undesirable, since they had been tainted with the blood of the asses.

TEXT 41

कृष्णः कमलपत्राक्षः
पुण्यश्रवणकीर्तनः
स्तूयमानोऽनुगैर्गोपैः साग्रजो ब्रजमाव्रजत

kṛṣṇaḥ kamala-patrākṣaḥ
puṇya-śravaṇa-kīrtanaḥ stūyamāno 'nugair gopaiḥ sāgrajo vrajam āvrajat

SYNONYMS

kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa; kamala-patra-akṣaḥ—whose eyes are like lotus petals; puṇya-śravaṇa-kīrtanaḥ—hearing and chanting about whom is the most pious activity; stūyamānaḥ—being glorified; anugaiḥ—by His followers; gopaiḥ—the cowherd boys; sa-agra-jah—together with His elder brother, Balarāma; vrajam—to Vraja; āvrajat—He returned.

TRANSLATION

Then lotus-eyed Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, whose glories are most pious to hear and chant, returned home to Vraja with His elder brother, Balarāma. Along the way, the cowherd boys, His faithful followers, chanted His glories.

PURPORT

When the glories of Śrī Kṛṣṇa are vibrated, both the speakers and the hearers are purified and become pious.

TEXT 42

तं गोरजश्छुरितकुन्तलबद्धबर्ह-वन्यप्रसूनरुचिरेक्षणचारुहासम्
वेणुम्बणन्तमनुगैरुपगीतकीर्तिं गोप्यो दिदृक्षितदृशोऽभ्यगमन् समेताः

tam gorajaś-churita-kuntala-baddha-barha-vanya-prasūna-rucirekṣaṇa-cāru-hāsam veṇum kvaṇantam anugair upagīta-kīrtiṁ gopyo didṛkṣita-dṛśo 'bhyagaman sametāḥ

SYNONYMS

tam—Him; go-rajah—with the dust raised by the cows; churita—smeared; kuntala—within His locks of hair; baddha—placed; barha—a peacock feather; vanya-prasūna—with forest flowers; rucira-īkṣaṇa—charming eyes; cāru-hāsam—and a beautiful smile; veṇum—His flute; kvaṇantam—sounding; anugaiḥ—by His companions; upagīta—being chanted; kīrtiṁ—His glories; gopyaḥ—the gopīs; didṛkṣita—eager to see; dṛśaḥ—their eyes; abhyagaman—came forward; sametāḥ—in a body.

TRANSLATION

Lord Kṛṣṇa's hair, powdered with the dust raised by the cows, was decorated with a peacock feather and forest flowers. The Lord glanced charmingly and smiled beautifully, playing upon His flute while His companions chanted His glories. The gopīs, all together, came forward to meet Him, their eyes very eager to see Him.

PURPORT

Superficially, the gopīs were young married girls, and therefore they would naturally be ashamed and fearful of casting loving glances at a beautiful young boy like Śrī Kṛṣṇa. But Śrī Kṛṣṇa is the Supreme Personality of Godhead, and all living beings are His eternal servants. Thus the gopīs, although the most pure-hearted of all great souls, did not hesitate to come forward and satisfy their love-struck eyes by drinking in the sight of beautiful young Kṛṣṇa. The gopīs also relished the sweet sound of His flute and the enchanting fragrance of His body.

TEXT 43

पीत्वा मुकुन्दमुखसारघमक्षिभृङ्गैः
तापं जहुर्विरहजं व्रजयोषितोऽह्नि
तत्सत्कृतिं समधिगम्य विवेश गोष्ठं सव्रीडहासविनयं यदपाङ्गमोक्षम्

pītvā mukunda-mukha-sāragham akṣi-bhṛṅgais tāpaṁ jahur viraha-jam vraja-yoṣito 'hni tat sat-kṛtiṁ samadhigamya viveśa goṣṭhaṁ savṛṇḍa-hāsa-vinayaṁ yad apāṅga-mokṣam

SYNONYMS

pītvā—drinking; mukunda-mukha—of the face of Lord Mukunda;

sāragham—the honey; akṣi-bhṛṅgaiḥ—with their beelike eyes; tāpam—distress; jahuḥ—gave up; viraha-jam—based on separation; vraja-yoṣitaḥ—the ladies of Vṛndāvana; ahni—during the day; tat—that; sat-kṛtim—offering of respect; samadhigamya—fully accepting; viveśa—He entered; goṣṭham—the cowherd village; sa-vrīḍa—with shame; hāsa—laughter; vinayam—and humbleness; yat—which; apāṅga—of their sidelong glances; mokṣam—the release.

TRANSLATION

With their beelike eyes, the women of Vṛndāvana drank the honey of the beautiful face of Lord Mukunda, and thus they gave up the distress they had felt during the day because of separation from Him. The young Vṛndāvana ladies cast sidelong glances at the Lord—glances filled with bashfulness, laughter and submission—and Śrī Kṛṣṇa, completely accepting these glances as a proper offering of respect, entered the cowherd village.

PURPORT

In Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrīla Prabhupāda describes this incident as follows: "All the gopīs in Vṛndāvana remained very morose on account of Kṛṣṇa's absence. All day they were thinking of Kṛṣṇa in the forest or of Him herding cows in the pasture. When they saw Kṛṣṇa returning, all their anxieties were immediately relieved, and they began to look at His face the way drones hover over the honey of the lotus flower. When Kṛṣṇa entered the village, the young gopīs smiled and laughed. Kṛṣṇa, while playing the flute, enjoyed the beautiful smiling faces of the gopīs."

The Supreme Lord, Śrī Kṛṣṇa, is the supreme master of romantic skills, and thus He expertly exchanged loving feelings with the young cowherd girls of Vṛndāvana. When a chaste young girl is in love, she glances at her beloved with shyness, jubilation and submission. When the beloved accepts her offering of love by receiving her glance and is thus satisfied with her, the loving young girl's heart becomes filled with happiness. These were exactly the romantic exchanges taking place between beautiful young Kṛṣṇa and the loving cowherd girls of Vṛndāvana.

TEXT 44

तयोर्यशोदारोहिण्यौ
पुत्रयोः पुत्रवत्सले
यथाकामं यथाकालं व्यधत्तां परमाशिषः

tayor yaśodā-rohiṇyau
putrayoḥ putra-vatsale yathā-kāmaṁ yathā-kālaṁ vyadhattām paramāśiṣaḥ

SYNONYMS

tayoḥ—to the two; yaśodā-rohiṇyau—Yaśodā and Rohiṇī (the mothers of Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, respectively); putrayoḥ—to their sons; putra-vatsale—who were very affectionate to their sons; yathā-kāmaṁ—in accordance with Their desires; yathā-kālaṁ—in accordance with the time and circumstances; vyadhattām—presented; parama-āśiṣaḥ—first-class enjoyable offerings.

TRANSLATION

Mother Yaśodā and mother Rohiṇī, acting most affectionately toward their two sons, offered all the best things to Them in response to Their every desire and at the various appropriate times.

PURPORT

The word paramāśiṣaḥ indicates the attractive blessings of a loving mother, which include wonderful food, beautiful clothes, jewelry, toys and constant affection. The words yathā-kāmaṁ yathā-kālam indicate that although Yaśodā and Rohiṇī satisfied all the desires of their sons, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, they also properly regulated the boys' activities. In other words, they prepared wonderful food for their children, but they saw to it that the boys ate at the proper time. Similarly, their children would play at the proper time and sleep at the proper time. The word yathā-kāmaṁ does not indicate that the mothers indiscriminately allowed the boys to do whatever They liked, but in the proper, civilized way they showered their blessings upon their children.

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī comments that the mothers loved their sons so much that as they embraced Them they would carefully check all Their limbs to see if They were healthy and strong.

TEXT 45

गताध्वानश्रमौ तत्र
मज्जनोन्मर्दनादिभिः
नीवीं वसित्वा रुचिरां दिव्यस्रग्गन्धमण्डितौ

*gatādhvāna-śramau tatra majjanonmardanādibhiḥ
nīvīm vasitvā rucirām
divya-srag-gandha-maṇḍitau*

SYNONYMS

gata—gone; adhvāna-śramau—whose weariness from being upon the road; tatra—there (in Their home); majjana—by bathing; unmardana—massaging; ādibhiḥ—and so on; nīvīm—in undergarments; vasitvā—being dressed; rucirām—charming; divya—transcendental; srak—with garlands; gandha—and fragrances; maṇḍitau—decorated.

TRANSLATION

By being bathed and massaged, the two young Lords were relieved of the weariness caused by walking on the country roads. Then They were dressed in attractive robes and decorated with transcendental garlands and fragrances.

TEXT 46

जनन्युपहृतं प्राश्य
स्वाद्यन्नमुपलालितौ
संविश्य वरशय्यायां सुखं सुषुपतुर्व्रजे

janany-upahṛtaṁ prāśya
svādy annam upalālitaū saṁviśya vara-śayyāyām
sukhaṁ suṣupatur vraje

SYNONYMS

jananī—by Their mothers; upahṛtaṁ—offered; prāśya—eating fully; svādu—delicious; annam—food; upalālitaū—being pampered; saṁviśya—entering; vara—excellent; śayyāyām—upon bedding; sukham—happily; suṣupatuḥ—the two of Them slept; vraje—in Vraja.

TRANSLATION

After dining sumptuously on the delicious food given Them by Their mothers and being pampered in various ways, the two brothers lay down upon Their excellent beds and happily went to sleep in the village of Vraja.

TEXT 47

एवं स भगवान् कृष्णो
वृन्दावनचरः क्वचित्
ययौ राममृते राजन् कालिन्दीं सखिभिर्वृतः

*evam sa bhagavān kṛṣṇo vṛndāvana-caraḥ kvacit yayau rāmam ṛte rājan
kālindīm sakhibhir vṛtaḥ*

SYNONYMS

evam—thus; saḥ—He; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; kṛṣṇaḥ—Kṛṣṇa; vṛndāvana-caraḥ—wandering, and acting, in Vṛndāvana; kvacit—once; yayau—went; rāmam ṛte—without Lord Balarāma; rājan—O King Parīkṣit; kālindīm—to the river Yamunā; sakhibhiḥ—by His friends; vṛtaḥ—surrounded.

TRANSLATION

O King, the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa thus wandered about the Vṛndāvana area, performing His pastimes. Once, surrounded by His boyfriends, He went without Balarāma to the Yamunā River.

TEXT 48

अथ गावश्च गोपाश्च
निदाघातपपीडिताः
दुष्टं जलं पपुस्तस्यासु तृष्णार्ता विषदूषितम्

atha gāvaś ca gopāś ca nidāghātapa-pīditāḥ duṣṭam jalam papus tasyās tṛṣṇārtā viṣa-dūṣitam

SYNONYMS

atha—then; gāvaḥ—the cows; ca—and; gopāḥ—the cowherd boys; ca—and; nidāgha—of the summer; ātapa—by the glaring sun; pīditāḥ—distressed; duṣṭam—contaminated; jalam—the water; papuḥ—they drank; tasyāḥ—of the river; tṛṣa-ārtāḥ—tormented by thirst; viṣa—by poison; dūṣitam—spoiled.

TRANSLATION

At that time the cows and cowherd boys were feeling acute distress from the glaring summer sun. Afflicted by thirst, they drank the water of the Yamunā River. But it had been contaminated with poison.

TEXTS 49-50

विषाम्भस्तदुपस्पृश्य

दैवोपहतचेतसः
निपेतुर्व्यसवः सर्वे
सलिलान्ते कुरुद्वह

वीक्ष्य तान् वै तथाभूतान्
कृष्णो योगेश्वरेश्वरः
ईक्षयामृतवर्षिण्या स्वनाथान् समजीवयत्

viṣāmbhas tad upaspr̥śya daivopahata-cetasah nipetur vyasavaḥ sarve salilānte kurūdvaha

*vīkṣya tān vai tathā-bhūtān
kṛṣṇo yogeśvareśvaraḥ
īkṣayāmṛta-varṣiṇyā
sva-nāthān samajīvayat*

SYNONYMS

viṣa-ambhaḥ—the poisoned water; tat—that; upaspr̥śya—simply touching; daiva—by the mystic potency of the Personality of Godhead; upahata—lost; cetasah—their consciousness; nipetuḥ—they fell down; vyasavaḥ—lifeless; sarve—all of them; salila-ante—at the edge of the water; kuru-udvaha—O hero of the Kuru dynasty; vīkṣya—seeing; tān—them; vai—indeed; tathā-bhūtān—in such a condition; kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; yoga-īśvara-īśvaraḥ—the master of all masters of yoga; īkṣayā—by His glance; amṛta-varṣiṇyā—which is a shower of nectar; sva-nāthān—those who accepted only Him as their master; samajīvayat—brought back to life.

TRANSLATION

As soon as they touched the poisoned water, all the cows and boys lost their consciousness by the divine power of the Lord and fell lifeless at the water's edge. O hero of the Kurus, seeing them in such a condition, Lord Kṛṣṇa, the master of all masters of mystic potency, felt compassion for these devotees, who had no Lord other than Him. Thus He immediately brought them back to life by showering His nectarean glance upon them.

TEXT 51

ते सम्प्रतीतस्मृतयः
समुत्थाय जलान्तिकात्
आसन् सुविस्मिताः सर्वे वीक्षमाणाः परस्परम्

te sampratīta-smṛtayaḥ samutthāya jalāntikāt āsan su-vismitāḥ sarve vīkṣamāṇāḥ paraṣparam

SYNONYMS

te—they; sampratīta—regaining perfectly; smṛtayaḥ—their memory; samutthāya—rising up; jala-antikāt—from out of the water; āsan—they became; su-vismitāḥ—very surprised; sarve—all; vīkṣamāṇāḥ—looking; paraṣparam—at one another.

TRANSLATION

Regaining their full consciousness, the cows and boys stood up out of the water and began to look at one another in great astonishment.

TEXT 52

अन्वमंसत तद्राजन्
गोविन्दानुग्रहेक्षितम्
पीत्वा विषं परेतस्य पुनरुत्थानमात्मनः

*anvamamsata tad rājan govindānugraheṣitam
pītvā viṣam paretasya
punar utthānam ātmanaḥ*

SYNONYMS

anvamamsata—they subsequently thought; tat—that; rājan—O King Parīkṣit; govinda—of Lord Govinda; anugraha-īkṣitam—due to the merciful glance; pītvā—having drunk; viṣam—poison; paretasya—of those who have lost their lives; punaḥ—once again; utthānam—rising up; ātmanaḥ—on their own.

TRANSLATION

O King, the cowherd boys then considered that although they had drunk poison and in fact had died, simply by the merciful glance of Govinda they had regained their lives and stood up by their own strength.

*Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C.
Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Fifteenth Chapter, of the* 16. Kṛṣṇa Chastises the Serpent Kāliya

This chapter describes Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa's pastime of subduing the serpent Kāliya within the lake adjoining the river Yamunā and His showing mercy to Kāliya in response to the prayers offered by Kāliya's wives, the Nāga-patnīs.

To restore the purity of the Yamunā's waters, which had been contaminated by Kāliya's poison, Lord Kṛṣṇa climbed into a kadamba tree on the riverbank and jumped into the water. Then He began fearlessly playing within the water like a maddened elephant. Kāliya could not tolerate Kṛṣṇa's trespassing upon his personal residence, and the serpent quickly went up to the Lord and bit Him on the chest. When Kṛṣṇa's friends saw this, they fell down on the ground unconscious. At that time all sorts of evil omens appeared in Vraja, such as earth tremors, falling stars and the trembling of various creatures' left limbs.

The residents of Vṛndāvana thought, "Today Kṛṣṇa went to the forest without Balarāma, so we do not know what great misfortune may have befallen Him." Thinking in this way, they traced the path of Kṛṣṇa's footprints to the bank of the Yamunā. Within the water of the lake adjoining the river they saw Lord Kṛṣṇa, the very essence of their lives, enwrapped in the coils of a black snake. The residents thought the three worlds had become empty, and they all prepared to enter the water. But Lord Balarāma checked them, knowing well the power of Kṛṣṇa.

Then Lord Kṛṣṇa, seeing how disturbed His friends and relatives had become, expanded His body greatly and forced the serpent to loosen his grip and release Him. Next the Lord began playfully dancing about on the serpent's hoods. By this wonderful, boisterous dancing, Śrī Kṛṣṇa trampled the serpent's one thousand hoods until his body slackened. Vomiting blood from his mouths, Kāliya finally understood that Kṛṣṇa was the primeval personality, Lord Nārāyaṇa, the spiritual master of all moving and nonmoving creatures, and he took shelter of Him.

Seeing how very weary Kāliya had become, his wives, the Nāga-patnīs, bowed down at Lord Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet. Then they offered Him various prayers in hopes of gaining their husband's freedom: "It is quite fitting that You have brought our cruel husband to this condition. Indeed, by Your anger he has gained great benefit. What piety Kāliya must have amassed in his previous lives! Today he has borne upon his head the dust of the lotus feet of the Personality of Godhead, the attainment of which is difficult for even the mother of the universe, goddess Lakṣmī. Please kindly forgive the offense Kāliya has committed out of ignorance, and allow him to live."

Satisfied by the Nāga-patnīs' prayers, Kṛṣṇa released Kāliya, who slowly regained his sensory and vital powers. Then Kāliya, in a distressed voice, acknowledged the offense he had committed, and finally he offered Kṛṣṇa many prayers and said he was ready to accept His command. Kṛṣṇa told him to leave the Yamunā lake with his family and return to Ramanāka Island.

TEXT 1

श्रीशुक उवाच
विलोक्य दूषितां कृष्णां
कृष्णः कृष्णाहिना विभुः
तस्या विशुद्धिमन्विच्छन् सर्पं तमुदवासयत्

śrī-śuka uvāca

vilokya dūṣitām kṛṣṇām kṛṣṇaḥ kṛṣṇāhinā vibhuḥ tasyā viśuddhim anvicchan sarpaṁ tam udavāsayat

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; vilokya—seeing; dūṣitām—contaminated; kṛṣṇām—the river Yamunā; kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa; kṛṣṇa-ahinā—by the black serpent; vibhuḥ—the almighty Lord; tasyāḥ—of the river; viśuddhim—the purification; anvicchan—desiring; sarpaṁ—serpent; tam—that; udavāsayat—sent away.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, seeing that the Yamunā River had been contaminated by the black snake Kāliya, desired to purify the river, and thus the Lord banished him from it.

TEXT 2

श्रीराजोवाच
कथमन्तर्जलेऽगाधे
न्यगृह्णाद्भगवानहिम्
स वै बहुयुगावासं यथासीद्विप्र कथ्यताम्

śrī-rājovāca
katham antar-jale 'gādhe

*nyagr̥hṇād bhagavān ahim sa vai bahu-yugāvāsam
yathāsīd vipra kathyatām*

SYNONYMS

śrī-rājā uvāca—King Parīkṣit said; katham—how; antaḥ-jale—within the water; agādhe—unfathomable; nyagr̥hṇāt—subdued; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; ahim—the serpent; saḥ—he, Kāliya; vai—indeed; bahu-yuga—for many ages; āvāsam—having residence; yathā—how; āsīt—so became; vipra—O learned brāhmaṇa; kathyatām—please explain.

TRANSLATION

King Parīkṣit inquired: O learned sage, please explain how the Supreme Personality of Godhead chastised the serpent Kāliya within the unfathomable waters of the Yamunā, and how it was that Kāliya had been living there for so many ages.

TEXT 3

ब्रह्मन् भगवतस्तस्य
भूम्नः स्वच्छन्दवर्तिनः
गोपालोदारचरितं कस्तृप्येतामृतं जुषन्

*brahman bhagavatas tasya bhūmnaḥ svacchanda-vartinaḥ gopālodāra-caritaṁ
kas tṛpyetāmṛtaṁ juṣan*

SYNONYMS

brahman—O brāhmaṇa; bhagavataḥ—of the Supreme Lord; tasya—of Him; bhūmnaḥ—the unlimited; sva-chanda-vartinaḥ—who acts according to His own desires; gopāla—as a cowherd boy; udāra—magnanimous; caritam—the pastimes; kaḥ—who; tṛpyeta—can be satiated; amṛtam—such nectar; juṣan—partaking of.

TRANSLATION

O brāhmaëa, the unlimited Supreme Personality of Godhead freely acts according to His own desires. Who could be satiated when hearing the nectar of the magnanimous pastimes He performed as a cowherd boy in Vṛndāvana?

TEXT 4

श्रीशुक उवाच
कालिन्ध्यां कालियस्यासीद्
हृदः कश्चिद्विषाग्निना
श्रप्यमाणपया यस्मिन् पतन्त्युपरिगाः खगाः

śrī-śuka uvāca
kālindyām kālīyasyāsīd hradaḥ kaścid viṣāgninā śrapyamāṇa-payā yasmin patanty upari-gāḥ khagāḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; kālindyām—within the river Yamunā; kāliyasya—of the serpent Kāliya; āsīt—there was; hradaḥ—lake; kaścit—a certain; viṣa—of his poison; agninā—by the fire; śraṇyamāṇa—being heated and boiled; payāḥ—its water; yasmin—into which; patanti—would fall down; upari-gāḥ—traveling above; khagāḥ—the birds.

TRANSLATION

Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Within the river Kālindī [Yamunā] was a lake inhabited by the serpent Kāliya, whose fiery poison constantly heated and boiled its waters. Indeed, the vapors thus created were so poisonous that birds flying over the contaminated lake would fall down into it.

PURPORT

In this regard the ācāryas explain that the Kāliya lake was situated apart from the main current of the river; otherwise the Yamunā's waters would have been poisonous even in cities like Mathurā and in other places farther away.

TEXT 5

विप्रुष्मता विषदोर्मि- मारुतेनाभिमर्शिताः
म्रियन्ते तीरगा यस्य प्राणिनः स्थिरजङ्गमाः

*vipruṣmatā viṣadormimārutenābhimarśitāḥ mriyante tīra-gā yasya
prāṇinaḥ sthira-jaṅgamāḥ*

SYNONYMS

vipruṭ-matā—containing droplets of the water; viṣa-da—poisonous; ūrmi—(having touched) the waves; mārutena—by the wind; abhimarśitāḥ—contacted; mriyante—would die; tīra-gāḥ—present upon the shore; yasya—of which; prāṇinaḥ—all living entities; sthira-jaṅgamāḥ—both nonmoving and moving.

TRANSLATION

The wind blowing over that deadly lake carried droplets of water to the shore. Simply by coming in contact with that poisonous breeze, all vegetation and creatures on the shore died.

PURPORT

The word sthira, "unmoving creatures," refers to various types of vegetation including trees, and jaṅgama refers to moving creatures such as animals, reptiles, birds and insects. Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī has quoted a further description of this lake from the Śrī Hari-vaṁśa (Viṣṇu-parva 11.42, 11.44 and 11.46):

dīrghaṁ yojana-vistāraṁ dustaraṁ tridaśair api gambhīraṁ akṣobhya-jalaṁ niṣkaṁpaṁ iva sāgaraṁ

duḥkhopasarpaṁ tīreṣu sa-sarpair vipulair bilaiḥ viṣāraṇi-bhavaśyāgner dhūmena pariveṣṭitam

*tr̥ṇeṣv api patatsv apsu jvalantam iva tejasā samantād yojanaṁ sāgraṁ
tīreṣv api durāsadam*

"The lake was quite wide—eight miles across at some points—and even the demigods could not cross over it. The water in the lake was very deep and, like the immovable depths of the ocean, could not be agitated. Approaching the lake was difficult, for its shores were covered with holes in which serpents lived. All around the lake was a fog generated by the fire of the serpents' poison, and this powerful fire would at once burn up every blade of grass that happened to fall into the water. For a distance of eight miles from the lake, the atmosphere was most unpleasant."

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī states that by the mystical science of jala-stambha, making solid items out of water, Kālīya had built his own city within the lake.

TEXT 6

तं चण्डवेगविषवीर्यमवेक्ष्य तेन
दुष्टां नदीं च खलसंयमनावतारः कृष्णः कदम्बमधिरुह्य ततोऽतितुङ्गम् आस्फोट्य गाढरशनो न्यपतद्विषोदे

taṁ caṇḍa-vega-viṣa-vīryam avekṣya tena duṣṭāṁ nadīṁ ca khala-saṁyamanāvatāraḥ kṛṣṇaḥ kadambam adhiruhya tato 'ti-tuṅgam āspṛoṭya gāḍha-raśano nyapatad viṣode

SYNONYMS

tam—him, Kāliya; caṇḍa-vega—of fearsome power; viṣa—the poison; vīryam—whose strength; avekṣya—seeing; tena—by him; duṣṭām—contaminated; nadīm—the river; ca—and; khala—the envious demons; saṁyamana—for subduing; avatāraḥ—whose descent from the spiritual world; kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; kadambam—a kadamba tree; adhiruhya—climbing up on; tataḥ—from it; ati-tuṅgam—very high; āsphoṭya—slapping His arms; gāḍha-raśanaḥ—tying His belt firmly; nyapatat—He jumped; viṣa-ude—into the poisoned water.

TRANSLATION

Lord Kṛṣṇa saw how the Kāliya serpent had polluted the Yamunā River with his terribly powerful poison. Since Kṛṣṇa had descended from the spiritual world specifically to subdue envious demons, the Lord immediately climbed to the top of a very high kadamba tree and prepared Himself for battle. He tightened His belt, slapped His arms and then jumped into the poisonous water.

PURPORT

According to the ācāryas, Lord Kṛṣṇa also tied back the locks of His hair as He prepared to do battle with Kāliya.

TEXT 7

सर्पहृदः पुरुषसारनिपातवेग-सङ्क्षोभितोरगविषोच्छ्वसिताम्बुराशिः
पर्यक्प्लुतो विषकषायबिभीषणोर्मिर् धावन्धनुःशतमनन्तबलस्य किं तत्

sarpa-hradaḥ puruṣa-sāra-nipāta-vega-saṅkṣobhitoraga-viṣocchvasitāmbu-rāśiḥ paryak pluto viṣa-kaṣāya-bibhīṣaṇormir dhāvan dhanuḥ-śatam ananta-balasya kim tat

SYNONYMS

sarpa-hradaḥ—the serpent's lake; puruṣa-sāra—of the most exalted Supreme Personality of Godhead; nipāta-vega—by the force of the fall; saṅkṣobhita—completely agitated; uraga—of the snakes; viṣa-ucchvasita—breathed upon with the poison; ambu-rāśiḥ—all of whose water; paryak—on all sides; plutaḥ—flooding; viṣa-kaṣāya—because of the contamination of the poison; bibhīṣaṇa—fearsome; ūrmīḥ—whose waves; dhāvan—flowing; dhanuḥ-śatam—the extent of one hundred bow-lengths; ananta-balasya—for Him whose strength is immeasurable; kim—what; tat—that.

TRANSLATION

When the Supreme Personality of Godhead landed in the serpent's lake, the snakes there became extremely agitated and began breathing heavily, further polluting it with volumes of poison. The force of the Lord's entrance into the lake caused it to overflow on all sides, and poisonous, fearsome waves flooded the surrounding lands up to a distance of one hundred bow-lengths. This is not at all amazing, however, for the Supreme Lord possesses infinite strength.

TEXT 8

तस्य हृदे विहरतो भुजदण्डघूर्ण-वार्धोषमङ्ग वरवारणविक्रमस्य आश्रुत्य तत्स्वसदनाभिभवं निरीक्ष्य

चक्षुःश्रवाः समसरत्तदमृष्यमाणः

tasya hrade viharato bhuja-daṇḍa-ghūrṇa-vār-ghoṣam aṅga vara-vāraṇa-vikramasya āśrutya tat sva-sadanābhibhavam nirīkṣya cakṣuḥ-śravāḥ samasarat tad amṛṣyamāṇaḥ

SYNONYMS

tasya—of Him; hrade—in his lake; viharataḥ—who was playing; bhuja-daṇḍa—by His mighty arms; ghūrṇa—swirled about; vāḥ—of the water; ghoṣam—the resounding; aṅga—my dear King; vara-vāraṇa—like a great elephant; vikramasya—whose prowess; āśrutya—hearing; tat—that; sva-sadana—of his own residence; abhibhavam—the trespassing; nirīkṣya—taking note of; cakṣuḥ-śravāḥ—Kāliya; samasarat—came forward; tat—that; amṛṣyamāṇaḥ—being unable to tolerate.

TRANSLATION

Kṛṣṇa began sporting in Kāliya's lake like a lordly elephant—swirling His mighty arms and making the water resound in various ways. When Kāliya heard these sounds, he understood that someone was trespassing in his lake. The serpent could not tolerate this and immediately came forward.

PURPORT

According to the ācāryas, Lord Kṛṣṇa was producing wonderful musical sounds within the water simply by splashing His hands and arms.

TEXT 9

तं प्रेक्षणीयसुकुमारघनावदातं
श्रीवत्सपीतवसनं स्मितसुन्दरास्यम्
क्रीडन्तमप्रतिभयं कमलोदराङ्घ्रिं सन्दश्य मर्मसु रुषा भुजया चछाद tam prekṣaṇīya-sukumāra-ghanāvadātaṁ śrīvatsa-pīta-vasanaṁ smita-sundarāsyam krīḍantaṁ apratibhayaṁ kamalodarāṅghriṁ sandaśya marmasu ruṣā bhujayā cachāda

SYNONYMS

tam—Him; prekṣaṇīya—attractive to look at; su-kumāra—most delicate; ghana—like a cloud; avadātam—glowing white; śrīvatsa—wearing the Śrīvatsa mark; pīta—and yellow; vasanam—garments; smita—smiling; sundara—beautiful; āsyam—whose face; krīḍantaṁ—playing; apratibhayaṁ—without fear of others; kamala—of a lotus; udara—like the inside; aṅghrim—whose feet; sandaśya—biting; marmasu—upon the chest; ruṣā—with anger; bhujayā—with his snake coils; cachāda—enveloped.

TRANSLATION

Kāliya saw that Śrī Kṛṣṇa, who wore yellow silken garments, was very delicate, His attractive body shining like a glowing white cloud, His chest bearing the mark of Śrīvatsa, His face smiling beautifully and His feet resembling the whorl of a lotus flower. The Lord was playing fearlessly in the water. Despite His wonderful appearance, the envious Kāliya furiously bit Him on the chest and then completely enwrapped Him in his coils.

TEXT 10

तं नागभोगपरिवीतमदृष्टचेष्टम्
आलोक्य तत्प्रियसखाः पशुपा भृशार्ताः कृष्णेऽर्पितात्मसुहृदर्थकलत्रकामा दुःखानुशोकभयमूढधियो निपेतुः

tam nāga-bhoga-parivītam adṛṣṭa-ceṣṭam ālokya tat-priya-sakhāḥ paśupā bhṛśārtāḥ kṛṣṇe 'rpitātma-suhṛd-artha-kalatra-kāmā duḥkhānuśoka-bhaya-mūḍha-dhiyo nipetuḥ

SYNONYMS

tam—Him; nāga—of the serpent; bhoga—within the coils; parivītam—enveloped; adṛṣṭa-ceṣṭam—not exhibiting any movement; ālokya—seeing; tat-priya-sakhāḥ—His dear friends; paśu-pāḥ—the cowherds; bhṛśa-ārtāḥ—greatly disturbed; kṛṣṇe—unto Lord Kṛṣṇa; arpita—offered; ātma—their very selves; su-hṛt—their relations; artha—wealth; kalatra—wives; kāmāḥ—and all objects of desire; duḥkha—by pain; anuśoka—remorse; bhaya—and fear; mūḍha—bewildered; dhiyaḥ—their intelligence; nipetuḥ—they fell down.

TRANSLATION

When the members of the cowherd community, who had accepted Kṛṣṇa as their dearest friend, saw Him enveloped in the snake's coils, motionless, they were greatly disturbed. They had offered Kṛṣṇa everything—their very selves, their families, their wealth, wives and all pleasures. At the sight of the Lord in the clutches of the Kāliya snake, their intelligence became deranged by grief, lamentation and fear, and thus they fell to the ground.

PURPORT

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the cowherd boys, along with some cowherd men and farmers who happened to be in the vicinity and who were also devotees of Kṛṣṇa, fell to the ground just like trees that had been cut at the root.

TEXT 11

गावो वृषा वत्सतर्यः
क्रन्दमानाः सुदुःखिताः
कृष्णे न्यस्तेक्षणा भीता रुदन्त्य इव तस्थिरे

gāvo vṛṣā vatsataryah krandamānāḥ su-duḥkhitāḥ kṛṣṇe nyastekṣaṇā bhītā rudantya iva tasthire

SYNONYMS

gāvaḥ—the cows; vṛṣāḥ—the bulls; vatsataryah—the female calves; krandamānāḥ—crying loudly; su-duḥkhitāḥ—very much distressed; kṛṣṇe—upon Lord Kṛṣṇa; nyasta—fixed; ikṣaṇāḥ—their sight; bhītāḥ—fearful; rudantyaḥ—crying; iva—as if; tasthire—they stood still.

TRANSLATION

The cows, bulls and female calves, in great distress, called out piteously to Kṛṣṇa. Fixing their eyes on Him, they stood still in fear, as if ready to cry but too shocked to shed tears.

TEXT 12

अथ व्रजे महोत्पातासु
त्रिविधा ह्यतिदारुणाः
उत्पेतुर्भुवि दिव्यात्मन्यु आसन्नभयशंसिनः

*atha vraje mahotpātās
tri-vidhā hy ati-dāruṇāḥ utpetur bhuvi divy ātmany āsanna-bhaya-śaṁsinaḥ*

SYNONYMS

atha—then; vraje—in Vṛndāvana; mahā-utpātāḥ—very ominous disturbances; tri-vidhāḥ—of the three varieties; hi—indeed; ati-dāruṇāḥ—most fearsome; utpetuḥ—arose; bhuvi—upon the earth; divi—in the sky; ātmani—in the bodies of living creatures; āsanna—imminent; bhaya—danger; saṁśinaḥ—announcing.

TRANSLATION

In the Vṛndāvana area there then arose all three types of fearful omens—those on the earth, those in the sky and those in the bodies of living creatures—which announced imminent danger.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī, the omens were as follows: on the earth

there were disturbing tremors, in the sky there were meteors falling, and in the bodies of creatures there was shivering, as well as quivering of the left eye and other parts of the body. These omens announce imminent danger.

TEXTS 13-15

तानालक्ष्य भयोद्विग्ना
गोपा नन्दपुरोगमाः
विना रामेण गाः कृष्णं
ज्ञात्वा चारयितुं गतम्

तैर्दुर्निमित्तैर्निधनं
मत्वा प्राप्तमतद्विदः
तत्प्राणास्तन्मनस्कास्ते
दुःखशोकभयातुराः

आबालवृद्धवनिताः
सर्वेऽङ्ग पशुवृत्तयः
निर्जग्मुर्गोकुलादीनाः
कृष्णदर्शनलालसाः

tān ālakṣya bhayodvignā gopā nanda-purogamāḥ vinā rāmeṇa gāḥ kṛṣṇam jñātvā cārayitum gatam

tair durnimittair nidhanam matvā prāptam atad-vidah

tat-prāṇās tan-manaskās te duḥkha-śoka-bhayāturāḥ

*ā-bāla-vṛddha-vanitāḥ sarve 'ṅga paśu-vṛttayaḥ nirjagmur gokulād dīnāḥ
kṛṣṇa-darśana-lālasāḥ*

SYNONYMS

tān—these signs; ālakṣya—seeing; bhaya-udvignāḥ—agitated by fear; gopāḥ—the cowherds; nanda-puraḥ-gamāḥ—headed by Nanda Mahārāja; vinā—without; rāmeṇa—Balarāma; gāḥ—the cows; kṛṣṇam—Kṛṣṇa; jñātvā—understanding; cārayitum—to herd; gatam—gone; taiḥ—from those; durnimittaiḥ—bad omens; nidhanam—destruction; matvā—considering; prāptam—attained; atat-vidaḥ—not knowing His opulences; tat-prāṇāḥ—having Him as their very source of life; tat-manaskāḥ—their minds being absorbed in Him; te—they; duḥkha—by pain; śoka—unhappiness; bhaya—and fear; āturāḥ—overwhelmed; ā-bāla—including the children; vṛddha—old persons; vanitāḥ—and ladies; sarve—all; aṅga—my dear King Parīkṣit; paśu-vṛttayaḥ—behaving as an affectionate cow does toward her calf; nirjagmuḥ—they went out; gokulāt—from Gokula; dīnāḥ—feeling wretched; kṛṣṇa-darśana—for the sight of Lord Kṛṣṇa; lālasāḥ—anxious.

TRANSLATION

Seeing the inauspicious omens, Nanda Mahārāja and the other cowherd men were fearful, for they knew that Kṛṣṇa had gone to herd the cows that day without His elder brother, Balarāma. Because they had dedicated their minds to Kṛṣṇa, accepting Him as their very life, they were unaware of His great power and opulence. Thus they concluded that the inauspicious omens indicated He had met with death, and they were overwhelmed with grief, lamentation and fear. All the inhabitants of Vṛndāvana, including the children, women and elderly persons, thought of Kṛṣṇa just as a cow thinks of her helpless young calf, and thus these poor, suffering people rushed out of the village, intent upon finding Him.

TEXT 16

तांस्तथा कातरान् वीक्ष्य
भगवान्माधवो बलः
प्रहस्य किञ्चिन्नोवाच प्रभावज्ञोऽनुजस्य सः

*tāṁs tathā kātarān vīkṣya
bhagavān mādhave balaḥ prahasya kiñcin novāca prabhāva-jñō 'nujasya saḥ*

SYNONYMS

tān—them; tathā—in such a condition; kātarān—distressed; vīkṣya—seeing; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; mādhavaḥ—the master of all mystic knowledge; balaḥ—Lord Balarāma; prahasya—gently smiling; kiñcit—anything at all; na—did not; uvāca—say; prabhāva-jñāḥ—knowing the power; anujasya—of His younger brother; saḥ—He.

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Lord Balarāma, the master of all transcendental knowledge, smiled and said nothing when He saw the residents of Vṛndāvana in such distress, since He understood the extraordinary power of His younger brother.

PURPORT

Śrī Balarāma is the plenary expansion of Lord Kṛṣṇa and is thus nondifferent from Him. They are, in fact, the same Absolute Truth manifest in separate forms. According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura, Lord Balarāma was laughing because He thought, "Kṛṣṇa never cares to play with Me in My form of Śeṣa Nāga, but now He is playing with this ordinary, mundane snake named Kāliya."

The question may arise as to why Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma allowed Their loving devotees to suffer such great anguish during Kṛṣṇa's temporary imprisonment within the coils of Kāliya. It must be remembered that because the inhabitants of Vṛndāvana were completely liberated souls, they did not experience material emotions. When they saw their beloved Kṛṣṇa in apparent danger, their love for Him intensified to the highest degree, and thus they merged completely into the ecstasy of love for Him. The whole situation has to be seen from the spiritual point of view, or it will not be seen at all.

TEXT 17

तेऽन्वेषमाणा दयितं
कृष्णं सूचितया पदैः
भगवल्लक्षणैर्जग्मुः पदव्या यमुनातटम्

*te 'nveṣamāṇā dayitaṁ kṛṣṇaṁ sūcitayā padaiḥ bhagaval-lakṣaṇair jagmuḥ
padavyā yamunā-taṭam*

SYNONYMS

te—they; anveṣamāṇāḥ—searching out; dayitam—their dearmost; kṛṣṇam—Kṛṣṇa; sūcitayā—(along the path) which was marked; padaiḥ—by His footprints; bhagavat-lakṣaṇaiḥ—the symbolic markings of the Personality of Godhead; jagmuḥ—they went; padavyā—along the path; yamunā-taṭam—to the bank of the Yamunā.

TRANSLATION

The residents hurried toward the banks of the Yamunā in search of their dearmost Kṛṣṇa, following the path marked by His footprints, which bore the unique signs of the Personality of Godhead.

TEXT 18

ते तत्र तत्राब्जयवाङ्कुशाशनि- ध्वजोपपन्नानि पदानि विस्पतेः
मार्गे गवामन्यपदान्तरान्तरे निरीक्षमाणा ययुरङ्ग सत्त्वराः

te tatra tatrābja-yavāṅkuśāśani-dhvajopapannāni padāni viś-pateḥ mārge gavām anya-padāntarāntare nirīkṣamāṇā yayur aṅga satvarāḥ

SYNONYMS

te—they; tatra tatra—here and there; abja—with the lotus flower; yava—barleycorn; aṅkuśa—elephant goad; aśani—thunderbolt; dhvaja—and flag; upapannāni—adorned; padāni—the footprints; viṭ-pateḥ—of Lord Kṛṣṇa, the master of the cowherd community; mārga—upon the path; gavām—of the cows; anya-pada—the other footprints; antara-antare—dispersed among; nirīkṣamāṇāḥ—seeing; yuyuh—they went; aṅga—my dear King; sa-tvarāḥ—rapidly.

TRANSLATION

The footprints of Lord Kṛṣṇa, the master of the entire cowherd community, were marked with the lotus flower, barleycorn, elephant goad, thunderbolt and flag. My dear King Parīkṣit, seeing His footprints on the path among the cows' hoofprints, the residents of Vṛndāvana rushed along in great haste.

PURPORT

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī comments as follows: "Since Lord Kṛṣṇa had passed along the path some time previously, why weren't His footprints, which were surrounded by those of cows, cowherd boys and so on, smudged over and brushed away? Why hadn't His footprints been obliterated by those of the beasts and birds of Vṛndāvana forest? The answer is indicated by the word viś-pati, master of the cowherd community. Since Lord Kṛṣṇa is actually the wealth of all living beings, all the inhabitants of the forest of Vraja would carefully preserve His footprints as great treasures, the very ornaments of the earth. Thus no creature within Vṛndāvana would ever walk upon Lord Kṛṣṇa's footprints."

TEXT 19

अन्तर्हृदे भुजगभोगपरीतमारात् कृष्णं निरीहमुपलभ्य जलाशयान्ते
गोपांश्च मूढधिषणान् परितः पशूंश्च

सङ्क्रन्दतः परमकश्मलमापुरार्ताः

antar hrade bhujaga-bhoga-parītam ārāt kṛṣṇam nirīham upalabhya jalāśayānte gopāṁś ca mūḍha-dhiṣaṇān paritaḥ paśūṁś ca saṅkrandataḥ parama-kaśmalam āpur ārtāḥ

SYNONYMS

antaḥ—within; hrade—the lake; bhujaga—of the serpent; bhoga—within the body; parītam—enveloped; ārāt—from a distance; kṛṣṇam—Lord Kṛṣṇa; nirīham—not moving; upalabhya—seeing; jala-āśaya—the body of water; ante—within; gopān—the cowherd boys; ca—and; mūḍha-dhiṣaṇān—unconscious; paritaḥ—surrounding; paśūn—the animals; ca—and; saṅkrandataḥ—crying out; parama-kaśmalam—the greatest bewilderment; āpuḥ—they experienced; ārtāḥ—being distressed.

TRANSLATION

As they hurried along the path to the bank of the Yamunā River, they saw from a distance that Kṛṣṇa was in the lake, motionless within the coils of the black serpent. They further saw that the cowherd boys had fallen unconscious and that the animals were standing on all sides, crying out for Kṛṣṇa. Seeing all this, the residents of Vṛndāvana were overwhelmed with anguish and confusion.

PURPORT

In their grief and panic, the residents of Vṛndāvana tried to find out whether Kālīya had forcibly dragged young Kṛṣṇa from the shore into the water, or whether Kṛṣṇa had Himself jumped from the shore and fallen into the clutches of the snake. They could not understand anything about the situation, and Kṛṣṇa's cowherd boyfriends, being unconscious, were unable to tell them anything. The cows and calves were crying out for Kṛṣṇa, and thus the whole situation was overwhelming and created a state of shock and panic among the residents of Vṛndāvana.

TEXT 20

गोप्योऽनुरक्तमनसो भगवत्यनन्ते
तत्सौहृदस्मितविलोकगिरः स्मरन्त्यः
ग्रस्तेऽहिना प्रियतमे भृशदुःखतप्ताः शून्यं प्रियव्यतिहृतं ददृशुस्त्रिलोकम्

gopyo 'nurakta-manaso bhagavaty anante tat-sauhṛda-smita-viloka-giraḥ smarantyaḥ graste 'hinā priyatame bhṛśa-duḥkha-taptāḥ śūnyam priya-vyatihṛtam dadṛśus tri-lokam

SYNONYMS

gopyaḥ—the cowherd girls; anurakta-manasaḥ—their minds very much attached to Him; bhagavati—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; anante—the unlimited one; tat—His; sauhṛda—loving; smita—smiling; viloka—glances; giraḥ—and words; smarantyaḥ—remembering; graste—being seized; ahinā—by the serpent; priya-tame—their most dear; bhṛśa—extremely; duḥkha—by pain; taptāḥ—tormented; śūnyam—empty; priya-vyatihṛtam—deprived of their darling; dadṛśuḥ—they saw; tri-lokam—all the three worlds (the entire universe).

TRANSLATION

When the young gopés, whose minds were constantly attached to Kṛṣṇa, the unlimited Supreme Lord, saw that He was now within the grips of the serpent, they remembered His loving friendship, His smiling glances and His talks with them. Burning with great sorrow, they saw the entire universe as void.

TEXT 21

ताः कृष्णमातरमपत्यमनुप्रविष्टां
तुल्यव्यथाः समनुगृह्य शुचः स्रवन्त्यः
तास्ता व्रजप्रियकथाः कथयन्त्य आसन् कृष्णाननेऽर्पितदृशो मृतकप्रतीकाः

tāḥ kṛṣṇa-mātaram apatyam anupraviṣṭāṁ tulya-vyathāḥ samanugṛhya śucaḥ sravantyaḥ tās tā vraja-priya-kathāḥ kathayantya āsan kṛṣṇānane 'rpita-dṛśo mṛtaka-pratīkāḥ

SYNONYMS

tāḥ—those ladies; kṛṣṇa-mātaram—the mother of Kṛṣṇa (Yaśodā); apatyam—upon her son; anupraviṣṭāṁ—fixing her vision; tulya—equally; vyathāḥ—pained; samanugṛhya—holding back firmly; śucaḥ—floods of sorrow; sravantyaḥ—spilling forth; tāḥ tāḥ—each of them; vraja-priya—of the darling of Vraja; kathāḥ—topics; kathayantyaḥ—speaking; āsan—they stood; kṛṣṇa-ānane—unto the face of Lord Kṛṣṇa; arpita—offered; dṛśaḥ—their eyes; mṛtaka—corpses; pratīkāḥ—resembling.

TRANSLATION

Although the elder gopés were feeling just as much distress as she and were pouring forth a flood of sorrowful tears, they had to forcibly hold back Kṛṣṇa's mother, whose consciousness was totally absorbed in her son. Standing like corpses, with their eyes fixed upon His face, these gopés each took turns recounting the pastimes of the darling of Vraja.

TEXT 22

कृष्णप्राणान्निर्विशतो
नन्दादीन् वीक्ष्य तं ह्रदम्
प्रत्यषेधत्स भगवान्
रामः कृष्णानुभाववित्

*kṛṣṇa-prāṇān nirviśato nandādīn vīkṣya taṁ hradam pratyaśedhat sa bhagavān
rāmaḥ kṛṣṇānubhāva-vit*

SYNONYMS

kṛṣṇa-prāṇān—the men whose very life and soul was Kṛṣṇa; nirviśataḥ—entering; nanda-ādīn—headed by Nanda Mahārāja; vīkṣya—seeing; taṁ—that; hradam—lake; pratyaśedhat—forbade; saḥ—He; bhagavān—the all-powerful Lord; rāmaḥ—Balarāma; kṛṣṇa—of Lord Kṛṣṇa; anubhāva—the power; vit—knowing well.

TRANSLATION

Lord Balarāma then saw that Nanda Mahārāja and the other cowherd men, who had dedicated their very lives to Kṛṣṇa, were beginning to enter the serpent's lake. As the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Lord Balarāma fully knew Lord Kṛṣṇa's actual power, and therefore He restrained them.

PURPORT

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that Lord Balarāma checked some of the cowherd men by speaking to them, others by physically holding them and still others by casting upon them His potent smiling glance. Distraught over the situation, they were prepared to give up their lives for Lord Kṛṣṇa by entering the serpent's lake.

TEXT 23

इत्थम्स्वगोकुलमनन्यगतिं निरीक्ष्य
सस्त्रीकुमारमतिदुःखितमात्महेतोः
आज्ञाय मर्त्यपदवीमनुवर्तमानः स्थित्वा मुहूर्तमुदतिष्ठदुरङ्गबन्धात् ittham sva-gokulam ananya-gatiṁ nirīkṣya sa-strī-kumāram ati-duḥkhitam ātma-hetoḥ ājñāya martya-pādavīm anuvartamānaḥ sthitvā muhūrtam udatiṣṭhad uraṅga-bandhāt

SYNONYMS

ittham—in this fashion; sva-gokulam—His own community of Gokula; ananya-gatiṁ—having no other goal or shelter (than Him); nirīkṣya—observing; sa-strī—including the women; kumāram—and children; ati-duḥkhitam—extremely distressed; ātma-hetoḥ—on His account; ājñāya—understanding; martya-pādavīm—the way of mortals; anuvartamānaḥ—imitating; sthitvā—remaining; muhūrtam—for some time;

udatiṣṭhat—He rose up; uraṅga—of the serpent; bandhāt—from the bonds.

TRANSLATION

The Lord remained for some time within the coils of the serpent, imitating the behavior of an ordinary mortal. But when He understood that the women, children and other residents of His village of Gokula were in acute distress because of their love for Him, their only shelter and goal in life, He immediately rose up from the bonds of the Kāliya serpent.

TEXT 24

तत्प्रथ्यमानवपुषा व्यथितात्मभोगसु
त्यक्त्वोन्नमय्य कुपितः स्वफणान् भुजङ्गः
तस्थौ श्वसञ्छ्वसनरन्ध्रविषाम्बरीष-स्तब्धेक्षणोल्मुकमुखो हरिमीक्षमाणः tat-prathyamāna-vapuṣā vyathitātma-bhogas tyaktvonnamayya kupitaḥ sva-phaṇān bhujaṅgaḥ tasthau śvasaṅ chvasana-randhra-viṣāmbarīṣastabdhekṣaṇolmuka-mukho harim īkṣamāṇaḥ

SYNONYMS

tat—of Him, Lord Kṛṣṇa; prathyamāna—expanding; vapuṣā—by the transcendental body; vyathita—pained; ātma—his own; bhogaḥ—serpent body; tyaktvā—giving Him up; unnamayya—raising high; kupitaḥ—angered; sva-phaṇān—his hoods; bhujaṅga—the serpent; tasthau—stood still; śvasan—breathing heavily; śvasana-randhra—his nostrils; viṣa-ambarīṣa—like two vessels for cooking poison; stabdha—fixed; īkṣaṇa—his eyes; ulmuka—like firebrands; mukhaḥ—his face; harim—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; ikṣamāṇaḥ—observing.

TRANSLATION

His coils tormented by the expanding body of the Lord, Kāliya released Him. In great anger the serpent then raised his hoods high and stood still, breathing heavily. His nostrils appeared like vessels for cooking poison, and the staring eyes in his face like firebrands. Thus the serpent looked at the Lord.

TEXT 25

तं जिह्वया द्विशिखया परिलेलिहानं
द्वे सूक्वणी ह्यतिकरालविषाग्निदृष्टिम् क्रीडन्ममुं परिससार यथा खगेन्द्रो बभ्राम सोऽप्यवसरं प्रसमीक्षमाणः

tam jihvayā dvi-śikhayā parilelihānam dve sūkvaṇī hy ati-karāla-viṣāgni-dṛṣṭim krīḍann amum parisasāra yathā khagendro babhrāma so 'py avasaram prasamīkṣamāṇaḥ

SYNONYMS

tam—him, Kāliya; jihvayā—with his tongue; dvi-śikhayā—having two points; parilelihānam—repeatedly licking; dve—his two; sūkvaṇī—lips; hi—indeed; ati-karāla—most terrible; viṣa-agni—full of poisonous fire; dṛṣṭim—whose glance; krīḍan—playing; amum—him; parisasāra—moved around; yathā—just as; khaga-indraḥ—the king of birds, Garuḍa; babhrāma—wandered around; saḥ—Kāliya; api—also; avasaram—the opportunity (to strike);

prasamīkṣamāṇaḥ—carefully looking for.

TRANSLATION

Again and again Kāliya licked his lips with his bifurcated tongues as He stared at Kṛṣṇa with a glance full of terrible, poisonous fire. But Kṛṣṇa playfully circled around him, just as Garuḍa would play with a snake. In response, Kāliya also moved about, looking for an opportunity to bite the Lord.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa moved around the serpent so skillfully that Kāliya could find no opportunity to bite Him. Thus the snake was defeated by Śrī Kṛṣṇa's transcendental agility.

TEXT 26

एवं परिभ्रमहतौजसमुन्नतांसम्
आनम्य तत्पृथुशिरःस्वधिरूढ आद्यः
तन्मूर्धरत्ननिकरस्पर्शतिताम्र-पादाम्बुजोऽखिलकलादिगुरुर्नर्त evam paribhrama-hataujasam unnatāṁsam ānamya tat-pṛthu-śiraḥsv adhirūḍha ādyaḥ tan-mūrdha-ratna-nikara-sparśāti-tāmrapādāmbujo 'khila-kalādi-gurur nanarta

SYNONYMS

evam—in this way; paribhrama—because of the Lord's moving around him; hata—spoiled; ojasam—whose strength; unnata—raised high; āṁsam—whose shoulders; ānamya—making him bend down; tat—his; pṛthu-śiraḥsu—onto the broad heads; adhirūḍhaḥ—having climbed up; ādyah—the ultimate origin of everything; tat—his; mūrdha—on the heads; ratna-nikara—the numerous jewels; sparsa—because of touching; ati-tāmra—very much reddened; pāda-ambujah—whose lotus feet; akhila-kalā—of all arts; ādi-guruḥ—the original spiritual master; nanarta—began to dance.

TRANSLATION

Having severely depleted the serpent's strength with His relentless circling, Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the origin of everything, pushed down Kāliya's raised shoulders and mounted his broad serpentine heads. Thus Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the original master of all fine arts, began to dance, His lotus feet deeply reddened by the touch of the numerous jewels upon the serpent's heads.

PURPORT

Śrī Hari-vaṁśa states, śiraḥ sa kṛṣṇo jagrāha sva-hastenāvanamya: "Kṛṣṇa grabbed Kāliya's head with His hand and forced it to bow down." Most people in this world are quite reluctant to bow down to the Supreme Person, the Absolute Truth. In the contaminated state called material consciousness, we conditioned souls become proud of our insignificant position and are thus reluctant to bow our heads before the Lord. Yet just as Lord Kṛṣṇa forcibly pushed Kāliya's heads down and thus defeated him, the Supreme Lord's energy in the form of irresistible time kills all conditioned souls and thus forces them to bow down their arrogant heads. We should therefore give up the artificial position of material life and become faithful servants of the Supreme Lord, enthusiastically bowing down at His lotus feet.

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura explains that Lord Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet became red like copper because of their contact with the numerous hard jewels upon the heads of Kāliya. Lord Kṛṣṇa, with those glowing reddish feet, then began to demonstrate His artistic skill by dancing on the unsteady, moving surface of the serpent's hoods. This extraordinary demonstration of dancing skill was meant for the pleasure of the young women of Vṛndāvana, who at this phase of their relationship with Kṛṣṇa were seriously falling in love with Him.

TEXT 27

तं नर्तुमुद्यतमवेक्ष्य तदा तदीय-गन्धर्वसिद्धमुनिचारणदेववध्वः
प्रीत्या मृदङ्गपणवानकवाद्यगीत-पुष्पोपहारनुतिभिः सहसोपसेदुः

taṁ nartum udyatam avekṣya tadā tadīya-gandharva-siddha-muni-cāraṇa-deva-vadhvaḥ prītyā mṛdaṅga-ṇavānaka-vādyā-gītapuṣpopahāra-nutibhiḥ sahasopaseduḥ

SYNONYMS

taṁ—Him; nartum—in dancing; udyatam—engaged; avekṣya—taking note of; tadā—then; tadīya—His servants; gandharva-siddha—the Gandharvas and Siddhas; muni-cāraṇa—the sages and the Cāraṇas; deva-vadhvaḥ—the wives of the demigods; prītyā—with great pleasure; mṛdaṅga-ṇava-ānaka—of various kinds of drums; vādyā—with musical accompaniment; gīta—song; puṣpa—flowers; upahāra—other presentations; nutibhiḥ—and prayers; sahasā—immediately; upaseduḥ—arrived.

TRANSLATION

Seeing the Lord dancing, His servants in the heavenly planets—the Gandharvas, Siddhas, sages, Cāraṇas and wives of the demigods—immediately arrived there. With great pleasure they began accompanying the Lord's dancing by playing drums such as mādaṁ gas, paëavas and ānakas. They also made offerings of songs, flowers and prayers.

PURPORT

When the demigods and other residents of higher planetary systems became aware that Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa was personally putting on a wonderful demonstration of the art of dancing, they immediately came to offer their services. Dancing becomes more enjoyable and beautiful to watch when it is accompanied by expert drum-playing, singing and the chanting of prayers. The artistic atmosphere was also enhanced by the showering of a multitude of flowers upon Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, who was blissfully engaged in dancing upon the hoods of the Kāliya serpent.

TEXT 28

यद्यच्छिरो न नमतेऽङ्ग शतैकशीर्ष्णसु
तत्तन्ममर्द खरदण्डधरोऽङ्घ्रिपातैः क्षीणायुषो भ्रमत उल्बणमास्यतोऽसृङ् नस्तो वमन् परमकश्मलमाप नागः yad yac chiro na namate 'ṅga śataika-śīrṣṇas tat tan mamarda khara-daṇḍa-dhara 'ṅghri-pātaiḥ kṣīṇāyuso bhramata ulbaṇam āsyato 'sṛṅ nasto vaman parama-kaśmalam āpa nāgaḥ

SYNONYMS

yat yat—whichever; śiraḥ—heads; na namate—would not bow down; aṅga—my dear King Parīkṣit; śata-eka-śīrṣṇaḥ—of him who had 101 heads; tat

tat—those; mamarda—trampled down; khara—on those who are evil; daṇḍa—punishment; dharaḥ—the Lord who exerts; aṅghri-pātaiḥ—with the blows of His feet; kṣīṇa-āyusaḥ—of Kāliya, whose life was becoming depleted; bhramataḥ—who was still moving about; ulbaṇam—terrible; āsyataḥ—from his mouths; asṛk—blood; nastaḥ—from his nostrils; vaman—vomiting; parama—extreme; kaśmalam—trouble; āpa—experienced; nāgaḥ—the serpent.

TRANSLATION

My dear King, Kāliya had 101 prominent heads, and when one of them would not bow down, Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, who inflicts punishment on cruel wrong-doers, would smash that stubborn head by striking it with His feet. Then, as Kāliya entered his death throes, he began wheeling his heads around and vomiting ghastly blood from his mouths and nostrils. The serpent thus experienced extreme pain and misery.

TEXT 29

तस्याक्षिभिर्गरलमुद्वमतः शिरःसु
यद्यत्समुन्नमति निःश्वसतो रुषोच्चैः
नृत्यन् पदानुनमयन्दमयां बभूव पुष्पैः प्रपूजित इवेह पुमान् पुराणः tasyākṣibhir garalam udvamataḥ śiraḥsu yad yat samunnamati niḥśvasato ruṣoccaiḥ nṛtyan padānunamayan damayāṁ babhūva puṣpaiḥ prapūjita iveha pumān purāṇaḥ

SYNONYMS

tasya—of him; akṣibhiḥ—from the eyes; garalam—poisonous waste; udvamataḥ—who was vomiting; śiraḥsu—among the heads; yat—whichever; samunnamati—would rise up; niḥśvasataḥ—who was breathing; ruṣā—out of anger; uccaiḥ—heavily; nṛtyan—while dancing; padā—with His foot; anunamayan—making bow down; damayām babhūva—He subdued; puṣpaiḥ—with flowers; prapūjitaḥ—being worshiped; iva—indeed; iha—on this occasion; pumān—the Personality of Godhead; purāṇaḥ—original.

TRANSLATION

Exuding poisonous waste from his eyes, Kālīya, would occasionally dare to raise up one of his heads, which would breathe heavily with anger. Then the Lord would dance on it and subdue it, forcing it to bow down with His foot. The demigods took each of these exhibitions as an opportunity to worship Him, the primeval Personality of Godhead, with showers of flowers.

TEXT 30

तच्चित्रताण्डवविरुग्गफणासहस्रो
रक्तं मुखैरुरु वमन्नृप भग्नगात्रः
स्मृत्वा चराचरगुरुं पुरुषं पुराणं नारायणं तमरणं मनसा जगाम

tac-citra-tāṇḍava-virugna-phaṇā-sahasro raktaṁ mukhair uru vaman nṛpa bhagna-gātraḥ smṛtvā carācara-gurum puruṣam purāṇam nārāyaṇam tam araṇam manasā jagāma

SYNONYMS

tat—of Him; citra—amazing; tāṇḍava—by the powerful dancing; virugna—broken; phaṇā-sahasraḥ—his one thousand hoods; raktam—blood; mukhaiḥ—from his mouths; uru—profusely; vaman—vomiting; nṛpa—O King Parīkṣit; bhagna-gātraḥ—his limbs crushed; smṛtvā—remembering; cara-acara—of all moving and nonmoving beings; gurum—the spiritual master; puṛuṣam—the Personality of Godhead; purāṇam—ancient; nārāyaṇam—Lord Nārāyaṇa; tam—to Him; araṇam—for shelter; manasā—within his mind, jagāma—he approached.

TRANSLATION

My dear King Parīkṣit, Lord Kṛṣṇa's wonderful, powerful dancing trampled and broke all of Kāliya's one thousand hoods. Then the serpent, profusely vomiting blood from his mouths, finally recognized Śrī Kṛṣṇa to be the eternal Personality of Godhead, the supreme master of all moving and nonmoving beings, Śrī Nārāyaṇa. Thus within his mind Kāliya took shelter of the Lord.

PURPORT

In Chapter Sixteen of Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrīla Prabhupāda points out that whereas previously Kāliya was vomiting poison, now his poison was exhausted and he began to vomit blood. Thus he had been cleansed of the vile contamination within his heart that had manifested as serpent's venom. The word smṛtvā, "remembering," is very significant here. The wives of Kāliya were actually serious devotees of Lord Kṛṣṇa, and according to the ācāryas they had often tried to convince their husband to surrender to Him. Finally, finding himself in unbearable agony, Kāliya remembered his wives' advice and took shelter of the Lord. Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura explains that Kāliya's archrival had traditionally been Garuḍa, the carrier of Viṣṇu. But now Kāliya realized that he was fighting an opponent who was thousands of times stronger than Garuḍa and who therefore could be only the Supreme Personality of Godhead. Thus Kāliya took shelter of Lord Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 31

कृष्णस्य गर्भजगतोऽतिभरावसन्नं
पाष्णिप्रहारपरिरुग्नफणातपत्रम्
दृष्ट्वाहिमाद्यमुपसेदुरमुष्य पत्न्य आर्ताः क्षथद्वसनभूषणकेशबन्धाः

kṛṣṇasya garbha-jagato 'ti-bharāvasannam pārṣṇi-prahāra-parirugna-phaṇātapatram dṛṣṭvāhim ādyam upasedur amuṣya patnya ārtāḥ ślathad-vasana-bhūṣaṇa-keśa-bandhāḥ

SYNONYMS

kṛṣṇasya—of Lord Kṛṣṇa; garbha—in whose abdomen; jagataḥ—is found the entire universe; ati-bhara—by the extreme weight; avasannam—fatigued; pārṣṇi—of His heels; prahāra—by the striking; parirugna—shattered; phaṇā—his hoods; ātapatram—which were like umbrellas; dṛṣṭvā—seeing; ahim—the serpent; ādyam—the primeval Lord; upaseduḥ—approached; amuṣya—of Kāliya; patnyaḥ—the wives; ārtāḥ—feeling distressed; ślathat—disarrayed; vasana—their clothing; bhūṣaṇa—ornaments; keśa-bandhāḥ—and the locks of their hair.

TRANSLATION

When Kāliya's wives saw how the serpent had become so fatigued from the excessive weight of Lord Kṛṣṇa, who carries the entire universe in His abdomen, and how Kāliya's umbrellalike hoods had been shattered by the striking of Kṛṣṇa's heels, they felt great distress. With their clothing, ornaments and hair scattered in disarray, they then approached the eternal Personality of Godhead.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura, Kāliya's wives had been disgusted with their husband because of his demoniac activities. They had been thinking, "If this atheist is killed by the punishment of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, then let him be killed. We will become widows and engage in the worship of the Supreme Lord." But then the ladies noticed Kāliya's facial expression and other bodily features, and they understood that Kāliya had indeed taken shelter of the Lord within his mind. Seeing that he was manifesting symptoms of humility, remorse, regret and doubt, they thought, "Just see how fortunate we are! Our husband has now become a Vaiṣṇava. Therefore we must now endeavor to protect him." They felt affection for their repentant husband and severe distress because of his miserable position, and thus all together they went into the presence of the Supreme Lord.

TEXT 32

तास्तं सुविग्रमनसोऽथ पुरस्कृतार्भाः कायं निधाय भुवि भूतपतिं प्रणेमुः साध्व्यः कृताञ्जलिपुटाः शमलस्य भर्तुर्

मोक्षेप्सवः शरणदं शरणं प्रपन्नाः

tās taṁ su-vigna-manaso 'tha puraskṛtārbhāḥ kāyaṁ nidhāya bhuvi bhūta-patiṁ praṇemuḥ sādhvyaḥ kṛtāñjali-putāḥ śamalasya bhartur mokṣepsavaḥ śaraṇa-dam śaraṇaṁ prapannāḥ

SYNONYMS

tāḥ—they, the wives of Kāliya; taṁ—to Him; su-vigna—very much agitated; manasaḥ—their minds; atha—then; paraḥ-kṛta—placing in front; arbhāḥ—their children; kāyaṁ—their bodies; nidhāya—putting; bhuvi—upon the ground; bhūta-patiṁ—to the Lord of all creatures; praṇemuḥ—they bowed down; sādhvyaḥ—the saintly ladies; kṛta-añjali-putāḥ—folding their hands in supplication; śamalasya—who was sinful; bhartuḥ—of their husband; mokṣa—the liberation; īpsavaḥ—desiring; śaraṇa-dam—He who grants shelter; śaraṇaṁ—for shelter; prapannāḥ—they approached.

TRANSLATION

Their minds very much disturbed, those saintly ladies placed their children before them and then bowed down to the Lord of all creatures, laying their bodies flat upon the ground. They desired the liberation of their sinful husband and the shelter of the Supreme Lord, the giver of ultimate shelter, and thus they folded their hands in supplication and approached Him.

TEXT 33

नागपत्न्य ऊचुः
न्याय्यो हि दण्डः कृतकिल्बिषेऽस्मिंस

तवावतारः खलनिग्रहाय
रिपोः सुतानामपि तुल्यदृष्टिर् धत्से दमं फलमेवानुशंसन्

*nāga-ṣatnya ūcuḥ
nyāyyo hi daṇḍaḥ kṛta-kilbiṣe 'smimś tavāvatāraḥ khala-nigrahāya ripoḥ sutānām api tulya-dṛṣṭir dhatse damam phalam evānuśamsan*

SYNONYMS

nāga-ṣatnyaḥ ūcuḥ—the wives of the serpent said; nyāyyaḥ—fair and just; hi—indeed; daṇḍaḥ—punishment; kṛta-kilbiṣe—to him who has committed offense; asmin—this person; tava—Your; avatāraḥ—descent into this world; khala—of the envious; nigrahāya—for the subjugation; ripoḥ—to an enemy; sutānām—to Your own sons; api—also; tulya-dṛṣṭiḥ—having equal vision; dhatse—You give; damam—punishment; phalam—the ultimate result; eva—indeed; anuśamsam—considering.

TRANSLATION

The wives of the Kāliya serpent said: The punishment this offender has been subjected to is certainly just. After all, You have incarnated within this world to curb down envious and cruel persons. You are so impartial that You look equally upon Your enemies and Your own sons, for when You impose a punishment on a living being You know it to be for his ultimate benefit.

TEXT 34

अनुग्रहोऽयं भवतः कृतो हि नो
दण्डोऽसतां ते खलु कल्मषापहः
यद्वन्दशूकत्वममुष्य देहिनः क्रोधोऽपि तेऽनुग्रह एव सम्मतः

anugraho 'yam bhavataḥ kṛto hi no daṇḍo 'satām te khalu kalmaṣāpahaḥ yad dandaśūkatvam amuṣya dehinaḥ krodho 'pi te 'nugraha eva sammataḥ

SYNONYMS

anugrahaḥ—mercy; ayam—this; bhavataḥ—by You; kṛtaḥ—done; hi—indeed; naḥ—to us; daṇḍaḥ—punishment; asatām—of the evil; te—by You; khalu—indeed; kalmaṣa-apahaḥ—the dispelling of their contamination; yat—because; dandaśūkatvam—the condition of appearing as a serpent; amuṣya—of this Kāliya; dehinaḥ—the conditioned soul; krodhaḥ—anger; api—even; te—Your; anugrahaḥ—as mercy; eva—actually; sammataḥ—is accepted.

TRANSLATION

What You have done here is actually mercy for us, since the punishment You give to the wicked certainly drives away all their contamination. Indeed, because this conditioned soul, our husband, is so sinful that he has assumed the body of a serpent, Your anger toward him is obviously to be understood as Your mercy.

PURPORT

Śrīla Madhvācārya points out in this connection that when a pious person suffers in this world, he realizes, "The punishment the Supreme Lord is meting out to me is actually His causeless mercy." Envious persons, however, even after being punished by the Lord for their purification, continue to envy Him and be resentful, and this attitude is the reason for their continued failure to understand the Absolute Truth.

TEXT 35

तपः सुतप्तं किमनेन पूर्वं
निरस्तमानेन च मानदेन
धर्मोऽथ वा सर्वजनानुकम्पया यतो भवांस्तुष्यति सर्वजीवः

tapah sutaptaṁ kim anena pūrvam nirasta-mānena ca māna-dena dharmo 'tha vā sarva-janānukampayā yato bhavāṁs tuṣyati sarva-jīvaḥ

SYNONYMS

tapah—austerity; su-taptaṁ—properly performed; kim—what; anena—by this Kāliya; pūrvam—in previous lives; nirasta-mānena—being free from false pride; ca—and; māna-dena—giving respect to others; dharmah—religious duty; atha vā—or else; sarva-jana—to all persons; anukampayā—with compassion; yataḥ—by which; bhavān—Your good self; tuṣyati—is satisfied; sarva-jīvaḥ—the source of life for all beings.

TRANSLATION

Did our husband carefully perform austerities in a previous life, with his mind free of pride and full of respect for others? Is that why You are pleased with him? Or did he in some previous existence carefully execute religious duties with compassion for all living beings, and is that why You, the life of all living beings, are now satisfied with Him?

PURPORT

In this regard Śrīla Prabhupāda comments in his Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Chapter Sixteen: "The Nāga-patnīs confirm that one cannot come in contact with Kṛṣṇa without having executed pious activities in devotional service in one's previous lives. As Lord Caitanya advised in His Śikṣāṣṭaka, one has to execute devotional service by humbly chanting the Hare Kṛṣṇa mantra, thinking oneself lower than the straw in the street and not expecting honor for oneself but offering all kinds of honor to others. The Nāga-patnīs were astonished that, although Kāliya had the body of a serpent as the result of grievous sinful activities, at the same time he was in contact with the Lord to the extent that the Lord's lotus feet were touching his hoods. Certainly this was not the ordinary result of pious activities. These two contradictory facts astonished them."

TEXT 36

कस्यानुभावोऽस्य न देव विद्महे
तवाङ्घ्रिरेणुस्पर्शधिकारः यद्वाञ्छया श्रीर्ललनाचरत्तपो विहाय कामान् सुचिरं धृतव्रता

kasyānubhāvo 'sya na deva vidmahe tavāṅghri-reṇu-sparaśādhikāraḥ yad-vāñchayā śrīr lalanācarat tapo

vihāya kāmān su-ciram dhṛta-vratā

SYNONYMS

kasya—of what; anubhāvaḥ—a result; asya—of the serpent (Kāliya); na—not; deva—my Lord; vidmahe—we know; tava—Your; aṅghri—of the lotus feet; reṇu—of the dust; sparaśa—for touching; adhikāraḥ—qualification; yat—for which; vāñchayā—with the desire; śrīḥ—the goddess of fortune; lalanā—(the topmost) woman; ācarat—performed; tapah—austerity; vihāya—giving up; kāmān—all desires; su-ciram—for a long time; dhṛta—upheld; vratā—her vow.

TRANSLATION

O Lord, we do not know how the serpent Kāliya has attained this great opportunity of being touched by the dust of Your lotus feet. For this end, the goddess of fortune performed austerities for centuries, giving up all other desires and taking austere vows.

TEXT 37

न नाकपृष्ठं न च सार्वभौमं
न पारमेष्ठ्यं न रसाधिपत्यम्
न योगसिद्धीरपुनर्भवं वा वाञ्छन्ति यत्पादरजःप्रपन्नाः

na nāka-prṣṭhaṁ na ca sārva-bhaumaṁ na pārameṣṭhyaṁ na rasādhipatyam na yoga-siddhīr apunar-bhavaṁ vā vāñchanti yat-pāda-rajah-prapannāḥ

SYNONYMS

na—not; nāka-prṣṭham—heaven; na ca—nor; sārva-bhaumam—supreme sovereignty; na—not; pārameṣṭhyam—the topmost position of Brahmā; na—not; rasa-adhipatyam—rulership over the earth; na—not; yoga-siddhīḥ—the perfections of yogic practice; apunaḥ-bhavam—freedom from rebirth; vā—or; vāñchanti—desire; yat—whose; pāda—of the lotus feet; rajaḥ—the dust; prapañnāḥ—those who have attained.

TRANSLATION

Those who have attained the dust of Your lotus feet never hanker for the kingship of heaven, limitless sovereignty, the position of Brahmā or rulership over the earth. They are not interested even in the perfections of yoga or in liberation itself.

TEXT 38

तदेष नाथाप दुरापमन्यैस्
तमोजनिः क्रोधवशोऽप्यहीशः
संसारचक्रे भ्रमतः शरीरिणो यदिच्छतः स्याद्विभवः समक्षः

tad eṣa nāthāpa durāpam anyais tamo-janiḥ krodha-vaśo 'py ahīśaḥ saṁsāra-cakre bhramataḥ śarīriṇo yad-icchataḥ syād vibhavaḥ samakṣaḥ

SYNONYMS

tat—that; eṣaḥ—this Kāliya; nātha—O Lord; āpa—has achieved; durāpam—difficult to achieve; anyaiḥ—by others; tamaḥ-janiḥ—who was born in the mode of ignorance; krodha-vaśaḥ—who was under the sway of anger; api—even; ahi-īśaḥ—the king of serpents; saṁsāra-cakre—within the cycle of material existence; bhramataḥ—wandering; śarīriṇaḥ—for the embodied living entity; yat—by which (dust of Your lotus feet); icchataḥ—who has material desires; syāt—manifests; vibhavaḥ—all opulences; samakṣaḥ—before his eyes.

TRANSLATION

O Lord, although this Kāliya, the king of the serpents, has taken birth in the mode of ignorance and is controlled by anger, he has achieved that which is difficult for others to achieve. Embodied souls, who are full of desires and are thus wandering in the cycle of birth and death, can have all benedictions manifested before their eyes simply by receiving the dust of Your lotus feet.

PURPORT

It is very rare for a conditioned soul to free himself from the contamination of illusion and thus become established in perfect consciousness of the Absolute Truth. And yet this benediction was achieved by the serpent Kāliya because the Lord personally danced upon the serpent's hoods with His lotus feet. Although we conditioned souls may not receive the mercy of having the Lord dance on our head, we can receive the dust of the lotus feet of the Absolute through the Lord's representative, the bona fide spiritual master, and thus go back home, back to Godhead, forever freed from the misery and ignorance of the mundane universe.

TEXT 39

नमस्तुभ्यं भगवते

पुरुषाय महात्मने
भूतावासाय भूताय पराय परमात्मने

*namas tubhyam bhagavate
puruṣāya mahātmane bhūtāvāsāya bhūtāya
parāya paramātmane*

SYNONYMS

namaḥ—obeisances; tubhyam—to You; bhagavate—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; puruṣāya—who are present within as the Supersoul; mahā-ātmane—who are all-pervasive; bhūta-āvāsāya—who are the shelter of the material elements (beginning with the ethereal sky); bhūtāya—who exist even prior to the creation; parāya—to the supreme cause; parama-ātmane—who are beyond all material cause.

TRANSLATION

We offer our obeisances unto You, the Supreme Personality of Godhead. Although present in the hearts of all living beings as the Supersoul, You are all-pervasive. Although the original shelter of all created material elements, You exist prior to their creation. And although the cause of everything, You are transcendental to all material cause and effect, being the Supreme Soul.

PURPORT

The beautiful Sanskrit poetry of this verse should be chanted out loud for the transcendental pleasure of the reciter and the hearer.

TEXT 40

ज्ञानविज्ञाननीधये
ब्रह्मणेऽनन्तशक्तये
अगुणायविकाराय नमस्ते प्राकृताय च

*jñāna-vijñāna-nīdhaye
brahmaṇe 'nanta-śaktaye
aguṇāyāvikārāya
namas te prākṛtāya ca*

SYNONYMS

jñāna—of consciousness; vijñāna—and spiritual potency; nīdhaye—to the ocean; brahmaṇe—to the Absolute Truth; ananta-śaktaye—whose potencies are unlimited; aguṇāya—to Him who is never affected by the qualities of matter; avikārāya—who does not undergo any material transformation; namah—obeisances; te—unto You; prākṛtāya—to the prime mover of material nature; ca—and.

TRANSLATION

Obeisances unto You, the Absolute Truth, who are the reservoir of all transcendental consciousness and potency and the possessor of unlimited energies. Although completely free of material qualities and transformations, You are the prime mover of material nature.

PURPORT

Those who consider themselves intellectual, philosophic or rational should carefully note here that the Absolute Truth, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, is the ocean of all knowledge and consciousness. Thus surrendering unto the Supreme Lord does not entail giving up the method of rationally comprehending reality. Rather, one merges into the ocean of rational, logical comprehension. The Supreme Lord is the perfection of all sciences and all forms of knowledge, and only envious and trivial minds would deny this obvious fact.

TEXT 41

कालाय कालनाभाय
कालावयवसाक्षिणे
विश्वाय तदुपद्रष्ट्रे तत्कर्त्रे विश्वहेतवे

*kālāya kāla-nābhāya kālāvayava-sākṣiṇe
viśvāya tad-upadraṣṭre
tat-kartre viśva-hetave*

SYNONYMS

kālāya—unto time; kāla-nābhāya—unto Him who is the shelter of time; kāla-avayava—of the various phases of time; sākṣiṇe—to the witness; viśvāya—to the form of the universe; tad-upadraṣṭre—to the observer of it; tat-kartre—to the creator of it; viśva—of the universe; hetave—to the total cause.

TRANSLATION

Obeisances unto You, who are time itself, the shelter of time and the witness of time in all its phases. You are the universe, and also its separate observer. You are its creator, and also the totality of all its causes.

PURPORT

The Supreme Personality of Godhead, although appearing in different incarnations, can never be limited by time, since He is time itself, the shelter of time, and the witness of time in all its phases.

TEXTS 42-43

भूतमात्रेन्द्रियप्राण-मनोबुद्ध्याशयात्मने
त्रिगुणेनाभिमानेन
गूढस्वात्मानुभूतये

नमोऽनन्ताय सूक्ष्माय
कूटस्थाय विपश्चिते
नानावादानुरोधाय वाच्यवाचकशक्तये

*bhūta-mātrendriya-prāṇamano-buddhy-āśayātmane tri-guṇenābhimānena
gūḍha-svātmānubhūtaye
namo 'nantāya sūkṣmāya
kūṭa-sthāya vipāścite*

nānā-vādānurodhāya
vācya-vācaka-śaktaye

SYNONYMS

bhūta—of the physical elements; mātra—the subtle basis of perception; indriya—the senses; prāṇa—the vital air of life; manaḥ—the mind; buddhi—the intelligence; āśaya—and of material consciousness; ātmane—to the ultimate soul; tri-guṇena—by the three modes of material nature; abhimānena—by false identification; gūḍha—who causes to become covered over; sva—one's own; ātma—of the self; anubhūta—perception; namaḥ—obeisances; anantāya—to the unlimited Lord; sūkṣmāya—to the supremely subtle; kūṭa-sthāya—who is fixed in the center; vipaścīte—to the omniscient one; nānā—various; vāda—philosophies; anurodhāya—who sanctions; vācya—of expressed ideas; vācaka—and expressing words; śaktaye—who possesses the potencies.

TRANSLATION

Obeisances unto You, who are the ultimate soul of the physical elements, of the subtle basis of perception, of the senses, of the vital air of life, and of the mind, intelligence and consciousness. By Your arrangement the infinitesimal spirit souls falsely identify with the three modes of material nature, and their perception of their own true self thus becomes clouded. We offer our obeisances unto You, the unlimited Supreme Lord, the supremely subtle one, the omniscient Personality of Godhead, who are always fixed in unchanging transcendence, who sanction the opposing views of different philosophies, and who are the power upholding expressed ideas and the words that express them.

TEXT 44

नमः प्रमाणमूलाय
कवये शास्त्रयोनये
प्रवृत्ताय निवृत्ताय निगमाय नमो नमः

*namaḥ pramāṇa-mūlāya
kavaye śāstra-yonaye pravṛttāya nivṛttāya
nigamāya namo namaḥ*

SYNONYMS

namaḥ—obeisances; pramāṇa—of authoritative evidence; mūlāya—to the basis; kavaye—to the author; śāstra—of the revealed scripture; yonaye—to the source; pravṛttāya—which encourages sense gratification; nivṛttāya—which encourages renunciation; nigamāya—to Him who is the origin of both kinds of scripture; namaḥ namaḥ—repeated obeisances.

TRANSLATION

We offer our obeisances again and again to You, who are the basis of all authoritative evidence, who are the author and ultimate source of the revealed scriptures, and who have manifested Yourself in those Vedic literatures encouraging sense gratification as well as in those encouraging renunciation of the material world.

PURPORT

If we did not have the powers of perception and cognition, evidence could not be transmitted, and if we had no tendency to believe in particular modes of evidence, persuasion could not take place. All of these processes—perception, cognition, persuasion and transmission—take place through the various potencies of the Supreme Lord. The Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa is Himself the greatest scholar and intellectual being. He manifests the transcendental scriptures within the hearts of great devotees like Brahmā and Nārada, and in addition He incarnates as Vedavyāsa, the compiler of all Vedic knowledge. In multifarious ways the Lord generates a variety of religious scriptures, which gradually bring the conditioned souls through the various phases of re-entry into the kingdom of God.

TEXT 45

नमः कृष्णाय रामाय
वसुदेवसुताय च
प्रद्युम्नायानिरुद्धाय
सात्वतां पतये नमः

*namaḥ kṛṣṇāya rāmāya
vasudeva-sutāya ca
pradyumnāyāniruddhāya
sātvatām pataye namaḥ*

SYNONYMS

namaḥ—obeisances; kṛṣṇāya—to Lord Kṛṣṇa; rāmāya—to Lord Rāma; vasudeva-sutāya—the son of Vasudeva; ca—and; pradyumnāya—to Lord Pradyumna; aniruddhāya—to Lord Aniruddha; sātvatām—of the devotees; pataye—to the Lord; namaḥ—obeisances.

TRANSLATION

We offer our obeisances to Lord Kṛṣṇa and Lord Rāma, the sons of Vasudeva, and to Lord Pradyumna and Lord Aniruddha. We offer our respectful obeisances unto the master of all the saintly devotees of Viṣṇu.

TEXT 46

नमो गुणप्रदीपाय
गुणात्मच्छादनाय च
गुणवृत्त्युपलक्ष्याय गुणद्रष्ट्रे स्वसंविदे

*namo guṇa-pradīpāya
guṇātma-cchādanāya ca
guṇa-vṛtty-upalakṣyāya
guṇa-draṣṭre sva-saṁvide*

SYNONYMS

namaḥ—obeisances; guṇa-pradīpāya—to Him who manifests various qualities; guṇa—by the material modes; ātma—Himself; chādanāya—who disguises; ca—and; guṇa—of the modes; vṛtti—by the functioning; upalakṣyāya—who can be ascertained; guṇa-draṣṭre—to the separate witness of the material modes; sva—to His own devotees; saṁvide—who is known.

TRANSLATION

Obeisances to You, O Lord, who manifest varieties of material and spiritual qualities. You disguise Yourself with the material qualities, and yet the functioning of those same material qualities ultimately reveals Your existence. You stand apart from the material qualities as a witness and can be fully known only by Your devotees.

PURPORT

The word guṇa conveys various meanings: the three basic qualities of material nature, i.e., goodness, passion and ignorance; excellent qualities one manifests because of piety and spiritual achievement; or the internal senses, such as the mind and intelligence. The word pradīpāya means "unto Him who manifests or illumines." Thus here the Nāga-patnīs are addressing the Supreme Lord as "He who manifests all material and spiritual qualities and who causes the living entities to be conscious." One can see the Lord by going beyond the screen of material nature, and therefore He is called guṇātma-cchādanāya. If one methodically and intelligently studies the functioning of the material qualities, he will ultimately conclude that there is a Supreme Personality of Godhead and that He exhibits His illusory potency to bewilder those who do not surrender unto Him.

The Lord is never affected by the modes of nature, being their witness, and thus He is called guṇa-draṣṭre. The word sva indicates "one's own," and thus sva-samvide means that Lord Kṛṣṇa can be known only by His own people, the devotees, and also that ultimately only the Lord can know Himself perfectly. Therefore we should take Lord Kṛṣṇa's instructions in Bhagavad-gītā and immediately come to the right conclusion: full surrender to the Lord's lotus feet. Thus we should humbly glorify the Lord, following the example of the Nāga-patnīs.

TEXT 47

अव्याकृतविहाराय
सर्वव्याकृतसिद्धये
हृषीकेश नमस्तेऽस्तु

मुनये मौनशीलिने

*avyākṛta-vihārāya
sarva-vyākṛta-siddhaye hṛṣīkeśa namas te 'stu
munaye mauna-śīline*

SYNONYMS

avyākṛta-vihārāya—to Him whose glories are unfathomable; sarva-vyākṛta—the creation and manifestation of all things; siddhaye—to Him who can be understood as existent on the basis of; hṛṣīka-īśa—O motivator of the senses; namaḥ—obeisances; te—unto You, astu-let there be; munaye—to the silent; mauna-śīline—to Him who acts in silence.

TRANSLATION

O Lord Hṛṣīkeśa, master of the senses, please let us offer our obeisances unto You, whose pastimes are inconceivably glorious. Your existence can be inferred from the necessity for a creator and revealer of all cosmic manifestations. But although Your devotees can understand You in this way, to the nondevotees You remain silent, absorbed in self-satisfaction.

TEXT 48

परावरगतिज्ञाय
सर्वाध्यक्षाय ते नमः
अविधाय च विश्वाय तद्गच्छेऽस्य च हेतवे

*parāvara-gati-jñāya
sarvādhyakṣāya te namaḥ aviśvāya ca viśvāya
tad-draṣṭre 'sya ca hetave*

SYNONYMS

para-avara—of all things, both superior and inferior; gati—the destinations; jñāya—to Him who knows; sarva—of all things; adhyakṣāya—to the regulator; te—You; namaḥ—our obeisances; aviśvāya—to Him who is distinct from the universe; ca—and; viśvāya—in whom the illusion of material creation manifests; tad-draṣṭre—to the witness of such illusion; asya—of this world; ca—and; hetave—to the root cause.

TRANSLATION

Obeisances unto You, who know the destination of all things, superior and inferior, and who are the presiding regulator of all that be. You are distinct from the universal creation, and yet You are the basis upon which the illusion of material creation evolves, and also the witness of this illusion. Indeed, You are the root cause of the entire world.

PURPORT

The words para and avara indicate superior, subtle elements and inferior, gross ones. The words also indicate superior personalities—devotees of the Lord—and inferior personalities, who are unaware of the glories of God. Lord Kṛṣṇa knows the destiny of all superior and inferior entities, animate and inanimate, and as the Supreme Absolute Truth He remains in His unique position above everything, as indicated by the word sarvādhyakṣāya.

TEXT 49

त्वं ह्यस्य जन्मस्थितिसंयमान् विभो
गुणैरनीहोऽकृतकालशक्तिधृक् तत्तत्स्वभावान् प्रतिबोधयन् सतः समीक्षयामोघविहार ईहसे

tvam hy asya janma-sthiti-saṁyamān vibho guṇair anīho 'kṛta-kāla-śakti-dhṛk tat-tat-svabhāvān pratibodhayan sataḥ samīkṣayāmogha-vihāra īhase

SYNONYMS

tvam—You; hi—indeed; asya—of this universe; janma-sthiti-saṁyamān—the creation, maintenance and destruction; vibho—O almighty Lord; guṇaiḥ—by the modes of nature; anīhaḥ—although uninvolved in any material endeavor; akṛta—beginningless; kāla-śakti—of the potency of time; dhṛk—the holder; tat-tat—of each of the modes; sva-bhāvān—the distinctive characteristics; pratibodhayan—awakening; sataḥ—which are already present in their dormant state; samīkṣayā—by Your glance; amogha-vihāraḥ—whose playful activities are impeccable; īhase—You act.

TRANSLATION

O almighty Lord, although You have no reason to become involved in material activity, still You act through Your eternal potency of time to arrange for the creation, maintenance and destruction of this universe. You do this by awakening the distinct functions of each of the modes of nature, which before the creation lie dormant. Simply by Your glance You perfectly execute all these activities of cosmic control in a sporting mood.

PURPORT

Sceptics may question why the Supreme Lord has created the material world, which is full of birth, maintenance and death. Here the Nāga-patnīs point out that the Lord's pastimes are amogha, beyond any discrepancy. Śrī Kṛṣṇa actually desires that all conditioned souls live with Him in His eternal kingdom, but those forgetful souls who are inimical to their loving relationship with God must go to the material world and be subjected to the conditions of time. The fortunate conditioned souls are startled into remembrance of their actual position as loving servants of the Lord, and from within the heart the Lord then encourages them to come back home, back to Godhead, where time is conspicuous by its absence and where eternal, blissful existence supersedes the dramatic but disturbing functions of cosmic creation and annihilation.

TEXT 50

तस्यैव तेऽमूस्तनवस्त्रिलोक्यां
शान्ता अशान्ता उत मूढयोनयः
शान्ताः प्रियास्ते ह्यधुनावितुं सतां स्थातुश्च ते धर्मपरीप्सयेहतः

tasyaiva te 'mūs tanavas tri-lokyām śāntā aśāntā uta mūḍha-yonayaḥ śāntāḥ priyās te hy adhunāvitum satām sthātuś ca te dharma-parīpsayehataḥ

SYNONYMS

tasya—of Him; eva—indeed; te—of You; amūḥ—these; tanavaḥ—material bodies; tri-lokyām—throughout the three worlds; śāntāḥ—peaceful (in the mode of goodness); aśāntāḥ—not peaceful (in the mode of passion); uta—and also; mūḍha-yonayaḥ—born in ignorant species; śāntāḥ—the peaceful persons in the mode of goodness; priyāḥ—dear; te—to You; hi—certainly; adhunā—now; avitum—to protect; satām—of the saintly devotees; sthātuḥ—who are present; ca—and; te—of You; dharma—their principles of religion; parīpsayā—with the desire of maintaining; ihataḥ—who is acting.

TRANSLATION

Therefore all material bodies throughout the three worlds—those that are peaceful, in the mode of goodness; those that are agitated, in the mode of passion; and those that are foolish, in the mode of ignorance—all are Your creations. Still, those living entities whose bodies are in the mode of goodness are especially dear to You, and it is to maintain them and protect their religious principles that You are now present on the earth.

TEXT 51

अपराधः सकृद्भर्त्रा
सोढव्यः स्वप्रजाकृतः क्षन्तुमर्हसि शान्तात्मन् मूढस्य त्वामजानतः

aparādhāḥ sakṛd bhartrā soḍhavyaḥ sva-prajā-kṛtaḥ kṣantum arhasi śāntātman mūḍhasya tvām ajānataḥ

SYNONYMS

aparādhah—the offense; sakṛt—just once; bhartrā—by the master; sodhavyah—should be tolerated; sva-prajā—by Your own subject; kṛtaḥ—committed; kṣantum—to tolerate; arhasi—it is befitting for You; śānta-ātman—O You who are always peaceful; mūḍhasya—of the foolish one; tvām—You; ajānataḥ—who does not understand.

TRANSLATION

At least once, a master should tolerate an offense committed by his child or subject. O supreme peaceful Soul, You should therefore forgive our foolish husband, who did not understand who You are.

PURPORT

Because of their extreme anxiety, in this verse Kāliya's wives mention the same idea twice: that the Supreme Lord should kindly forgive their foolish husband. The Supreme Lord is śāntātmā, the supreme peaceful Soul, and therefore the Nāga-patnīs suggest it would be proper for Him to overlook, at least this once, the great offense committed by the ignorant Kāliya.

TEXT 52

अनुगृहीष्व भगवन्
प्राणांस्त्यजति पन्नगः
स्त्रीणां नः साधुशोच्यानां
पतिः प्राणः प्रदीयताम्

anugṛhṇīṣva bhagavan
prāṇāṁs tyajati pannagaḥ strīṇāṁ naḥ sādhu-śocyānāṁ

patiḥ prāṇaḥ pradīyatām

SYNONYMS

anugṛhṇīṣva—please show mercy; bhagavan—O Supreme Lord; prāṇān—his life airs; tyajati—is giving up; pannagaḥ—the serpent; strīṇām—for women; naḥ—us; sādhū-śocyānām—who are to be pitied by saintly personalities; patiḥ—the husband; prāṇaḥ—life itself; pradīyatām—should be given back.

TRANSLATION

O Supreme Lord, please be merciful. It is proper for the saintly to feel compassion for women like us. This serpent is about to give up his life. Please give us back our husband, who is our life and soul.

TEXT 53

विधेहि ते किङ्करीणाम्
अनुष्ठेयं तवाज्ञया
यच्छ्रद्धयानुतिष्ठन् वै मुच्यते सर्वतो भयात्

vidhehi te kiṅkarīṇām
anuṣṭheyam tavājñayā
yac-chraddhayānutiṣṭhan vai mucyate sarvato bhayāt

SYNONYMS

vidhehi—please order; te—Your; kiṅkarīṇām—by the maidservants; anuṣṭheyam—what should be done; tava—Your; ājñayā—by the command;

yat—which; śraddhayā—with faith; anutiṣṭhan—executing; vai—certainly; mucyate—one will become freed; sarvataḥ—from all; bhayāt—fear.

TRANSLATION

Now please tell us, Your maidservants, what we should do. Certainly anyone who faithfully executes Your order is automatically freed from all fear.

PURPORT

The surrender of Kāliya's wives was now complete, and Lord Kṛṣṇa immediately gave them His mercy, as described in the following verses.

TEXT 54

श्रीशुक उवाच
इत्थं स नागपत्नीभिर्
भगवान् समभिष्टुतः
मूर्च्छितं भग्नशिरसं विससर्जाङ्घ्रिकुट्टनैः

śrī-śuka uvāca
itthaṁ sa nāga-patnībhir bhagavān samabhiṣṭutaḥ mūrcchitaṁ bhagna-śīrasaṁ visasarjāṅghri-kuṭṭanaiḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; itthaṁ—in this way; saḥ—He,

Lord Kṛṣṇa; nāga-patnībhiḥ—by the wives of Kāliya; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; samabhiṣṭutaḥ—fully praised; mūrcchitam—who was unconscious; bhagna-śirasam—his heads crushed; visasarja—He let go; aṅghri-kuṭṭanaiḥ—by the striking of His feet.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Thus praised by the Nāga-patnīs, the Supreme Personality of Godhead released the serpent Kāliya, who had fallen unconscious, his heads battered by the striking of the Lord's lotus feet.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura, Lord Kṛṣṇa, upon reaching His decision, immediately jumped down from Kāliya's hoods and stood before the serpent and his wives. We should remember that when Lord Kṛṣṇa executed these pastimes, He was just a young village boy in Vṛndāvana.

TEXT 55

प्रतिलब्धेन्द्रियप्राणः
कालियः शनकैर्हरिम्
कृच्छ्रात्समुच्छ्वसन्दीनः कृष्णं प्राह कृताञ्जलिः

pratilabdhendriya-prāṇaḥ kāliyaḥ śanakair harim kṛcchrāt samucchvasan dīnaḥ kṛṣṇam prāha kṛtāñjaliḥ

SYNONYMS

pratilabdha—regaining; indriya—the function of his senses; prāṇaḥ—and his vital force; kāliyaḥ—Kāliya; śanakaiḥ—gradually; harim—to the Supreme Personality of Godhead; kṛcchrāt—with difficulty; samucchvasan—breathing loudly; dīnaḥ—wretched; kṛṣṇam—to Lord Kṛṣṇa; prāha—spoke; kṛta-añjaliḥ—in humble submission.

TRANSLATION

Kāliya slowly regained his vital force and sensory functions. Then, breathing loudly and painfully, the poor serpent addressed Lord Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, in humble submission.

TEXT 56

कालिय उवाच
वयं खलाः सहोत्पत्त्या
तमसा दीर्घमन्यवः
स्वभावो दुस्त्यजो नाथ लोकानां यदसद्ग्रहः

kāliya uvāca
vayaṁ khalāḥ sahotpattyā tamasā dīrgha-manyavaḥ svabhāvo dustyajo nātha lokānām yad asad-grahaḥ

SYNONYMS

kāliyaḥ uvāca—Kāliya said; vayam—we; khalāḥ—envious; saha utpattyā—by our very birth; tāmasāḥ—of ignorant nature; dīrgha-manyavaḥ—constantly angry; svabhāvaḥ—one's material nature; dustyajaḥ—is very difficult to give up; nātha—O Lord; lokānām—for ordinary persons; yat—because of which; asat—of the unreal and impure; grahaḥ—the acceptance.

TRANSLATION

The serpent Kāliya said: Our very birth as a snake has made us envious, ignorant and constantly angry. O my Lord, it is so difficult for people to give up their conditioned nature, by which they identify with that which is unreal.

PURPORT

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī points out that because of his wretched condition, Kāliya was unable to compose original prayers to the Lord, and thus he paraphrased some of the prayers offered by his wives. The word asad-graha indicates that a conditioned soul seizes upon impermanent and impure things such as his own body, the bodies of others, and other countless varieties of material sense objects. The ultimate result of such material attachment is frustration, disappointment and anguish—a fact that has now become crystal clear to the poor serpent Kāliya.

TEXT 57

त्वया सृष्टमिदं विश्वं
धातर्गुणविसर्जनम्
नानास्वभाववीर्यौजो- योनिबीजाशयाकृति

tvayā sṛṣṭam idaṁ viśvaṁ dhātar guṇa-visoarjanam nānā-svabhāva-vīryaujoyoni-bījāśayākṛti

SYNONYMS

tvayā—by You; sṛṣṭam—created; idaṁ—this; viśvaṁ—universe; dhātaḥ—O supreme provider; guṇa—of the material modes; visoarjanam—the variegated creation; nānā—various; sva-bhāva—personal natures; vīrya—varieties of sensory strength; ojaḥ—and physical strength; yoni—wombs; bīja—seeds; āśaya—mentalities; ākṛti—and forms.

TRANSLATION

O supreme creator, it is You who generate this universe, composed of the variegated arrangement of the material modes, and in the process You manifest various kinds of personalities and species, varieties of sensory and physical strength, and varieties of mothers and fathers with variegated mentalities and forms.

PURPORT

Commenting on this verse, Śrīla Madhvācārya has quoted the Nārada Purāṇa as follows: "From Hiraṇyagarbha, Brahmā, comes the second creation of this universe, but the universe is primarily created by Viṣṇu Himself. Viṣṇu is thus the primary creator, and four-headed Brahmā is merely the secondary creator."

TEXT 58

वयं च तत्र भगवन्

सर्पा जात्युरुमन्यवः
कथं त्यजामस्त्वन्मायां दुस्त्यजां मोहिताः स्वयम्

vayaṁ ca tatra bhagavan sarṣā jāty-uru-manyavaḥ katham tyajāmas tvan-māyām dustyajām mohitāḥ svayam

SYNONYMS

vayam—we; ca—and; tatra—within that material creation; bhagavan—O Supreme Personality of Godhead; sarṣāḥ—serpents; jāti—by species; uru-manyavaḥ—too much absorbed in anger; katham—how; tyajāmaḥ—we can give up; tvan-māyām—Your illusory potency; dustyajām—which is impossible to give up; mohitāḥ—bewildered; svayam—on our own.

TRANSLATION

O Supreme Personality of Godhead, among all the species within Your material creation, we serpents are by nature always enraged. Being thus deluded by Your illusory energy, which is very difficult to give up, how can we possibly give it up on our own?

PURPORT

Kāliya is here indirectly begging for the Lord's mercy, realizing that on his own he can never become free from illusion and suffering. Only by surrendering to the Lord and obtaining His mercy can one be released from the painful conditions of material life.

TEXT 59

भवान् हि कारणं तत्र
सर्वज्ञो जगदीश्वरः
अनुग्रहं निग्रहं वा मन्यसे तद्विधेहि नः

*bhavān hi kāraṇam tatra sarva-jñō jagad-īśvaraḥ anugrahaṁ nigrahaṁ vā
manyase tad vidhehi naḥ*

SYNONYMS

bhavān—Your good self; hi—certainly; kāraṇam—the cause; tatra—in that matter (the removal of illusion); sarva-jñāḥ—the knower of everything; jagat-īśvaraḥ—the supreme controller of the universe; anugraham—favor; nigraham—punishment; vā—or; manyase—(whatever) You consider; tat—that; vidhehi—arrange; naḥ—for us.

TRANSLATION

O Lord, since You are the omniscient Lord of the universe, You are the actual cause of freedom from illusion. Please arrange for us whatever You consider proper, whether it be mercy or punishment.

TEXT 60

श्रीशुक उवाच
इत्याकर्ण्य वचः प्राह

भगवान् कार्यमानुषः
नात्र स्थेयं त्वया सर्प
समुद्रं याहि मा चिरम्
स्वज्ञात्यपत्यदाराढ्यो गोनृभिर्भुज्यते नदी

śrī-śuka uvāca
ity ākarṇya vacaḥ prāha bhagavān kārya-mānuṣaḥ nātra stheyam tvayā sarpa samudram yāhi mā ciram sva-jñāty-apatya-dārāḍhyo go-nṛbhir bhujyate nadī

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; iti—thus; ākarṇya—hearing; vacaḥ—these words; prāha—then spoke; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; kārya-mānuṣaḥ—who was acting like a human being; na—not; atra—here; stheyam—should remain; tvayā—you; sarpa—My dear serpent; samudram—to the ocean; yāhi—go; mā ciram—without delay; sva—your own; jñāti—by the companions; apatya—children; dāra—and wife; āḍhyaḥ—adequately accompanied; go—by the cows; nṛbhiḥ—and the humans; bhujyate—let it be enjoyed; nadī—the river Yamunā.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: After hearing Kāliya's words, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, who was acting the role of a human being, replied: O serpent, you may not remain here any longer. Go back to the ocean immediately, accompanied by your retinue of children, wives, other relatives and friends. Let this river be enjoyed by the cows and humans.

TEXT 61

य एतत्संस्मरेन्मर्त्यसु
तुभ्यं मदनुशासनम्
कीर्तयन्नुभयोः सन्ध्योर् न युष्मद्भयमाप्नुयात्

ya etat saṁsmaren martyas tubhyaṁ mad-anuśāsanam kīrtayann ubhayoḥ sandhyor na yuṣmad bhayam āpnuyāt

SYNONYMS

yaḥ—who; etat—this; saṁsmaret—remembers; martyaḥ—a mortal; tubhyam—to you; mat—My; anuśāsanam—command; kīrtayan—chanting; ubhayoḥ—at both; sandhyoḥ—junctures of the day; na—not; yuṣmat—from you; bhayam—fear; āpnuyāt—obtains.

TRANSLATION

If a mortal being attentively remembers My command to you—to leave Vṛndāvana and go to the ocean—and narrates this account at sunrise and sunset, he will never be afraid of you.

TEXT 62

योऽस्मिन् स्नात्वा मदाक्रीडे
देवादींस्तर्पयेज्जलैः
उपोष्य मां स्मरन्नर्चेत् सर्वपापैः प्रमुच्यते *yo 'smin snātvā mad-ākrīḍe devādīṁs tarpayej jalaiḥ upoṣya mām smarann arcet

sarva-pāpaiḥ pramucyate*

SYNONYMS

yaḥ—who; asmin—in this (Kāliya's lake in the Yamunā River); snātvā—bathing; mad-ākrīḍe—the place of My pastime; deva-ādīn—the demigods and other worshipable personalities; tarpayet—gratifies; jalaiḥ—with the water (of that lake); upoṣya—observing a fast; mām—Me; smaran—remembering; arcet—performs worship; sarva-pāpaiḥ—from all sinful reactions; pramucyate—he becomes freed.

TRANSLATION

If one bathes in this place of My pastimes and offers the water of this lake to the demigods and other worshipable personalities, or if one observes a fast and duly worships and remembers Me, he is sure to become free from all sinful reactions.

PURPORT

According to the ācāryas, the Lord spoke this verse to make it clear to Kāliya that he could by no means remain in the Yamunā lake. Although the Lord had mercifully pardoned the serpent and ordered him to go to the ocean with all his associates, Kāliya should not even consider requesting to remain in the lake, because it was now to become a holy place for spiritual pilgrims.

TEXT 63

द्वीपं रमणकं हित्वा
ह्रदमेतमुपाश्रितः
यद्भयात्स सुपर्णस्त्वां नाद्यान्मत्पादलाञ्छितम्

dvīpaṁ ramaṇakaṁ hitvā hṛadam etam upāśritaḥ yad-bhayāt sa suparṇas tvāṁ nādyān mat-pāda-lāñchitam

SYNONYMS

dvīpaṁ—the great island; ramaṇakam—named Ramaṇaka; hitvā—abandoning; hṛadam—the small lake; etam—this; upāśritaḥ—taken shelter of; yat—of whom; bhayāt—because of the fear; saḥ—that; suparṇaḥ—Garuḍa; tvām—you; na adyāt—will not eat; mat-pāda—with My feet; lāñchitam—marked.

TRANSLATION

Out of fear of Garuḍa, you left Ramaṇaka Island and came to take shelter of this lake. But because you are now marked with My footprints, Garuḍa will no longer try to eat you.

TEXT 64

श्रीऋषिरुवाच
मुक्तो भगवता राजन्
कृष्णेनाद्भुतकर्मणा
तं पूजयामास मुदा नागपत्न्यश्च सादरम्

śrī-ṛṣir uvāca
mukto bhagavatā rājan
kṛṣṇenādbhuta-karmaṇā
taṁ pūjayām āsa mudā
nāga-patnyaś ca sādaram

SYNONYMS

śrī-ṛṣiḥ uvāca—the sage (Śukadeva) said; muktaḥ—freed; bhagavatā—by the Supreme Personality of Godhead; rājan—O King Parīkṣit; kṛṣṇena—by Lord Kṛṣṇa; adbhuta-karmaṇā—whose activities are very wonderful; taṁ—Him; pūjayām āsa—worshiped; mudā—with pleasure; nāga—of the serpent; patnyaḥ—the wives; ca—and; sa-ādaram—with reverence.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī continued: My dear King, having been released by Lord Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, whose activities are wonderful, Kālīya joined his wives in worshiping Him with great joy and reverence.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura comments as follows on this verse: "The word adbhuta-karmaṇā indicates the Lord's wonderful activities of saving the residents of Vṛndāvana from Kāliya, saving Kāliya himself from Garuḍa, and bestowing grace upon both the victims of violence and the committer of that violence." The word kṛṣṇena, "by Kṛṣṇa," indicates that because Kāliya's wives were great devotees of the Lord and offered Him loving affection, Kṛṣṇa withdrew (karṣaṇam) both Kāliya's offense against the Lord's devotee Garuḍa and that against the residents of Vṛndāvana, who were very dear to Him.

TEXTS 65-67

दिव्याम्बरस्रङ्मणिभिः
पराध्यैरपि भूषणैः
दिव्यगन्धानुलेपैश्च
महत्योत्पलमालया

पूजयित्वा जगन्नाथं
प्रसाद्य गरुडध्वजम्
ततः प्रीतोऽभ्यनुज्ञातः
परिक्रम्याभिवन्द्य तम्

सकलत्रसुहृत्पुत्रो
द्वीपमब्धेर्जगाम ह
तदैव सामृतजला
यमुना निर्विषाभवत्
अनुग्रहाद्भगवतः क्रीडामानुषरूपिणः

divyāmbara-sraṇ-maṇibhiḥ parārdhyair api bhūṣaṇaiḥ divya-gandhānulepaiś ca mahatyotpala-mālayā

pūjayitvā jagan-nātham prasādyā garuḍa-dhvajam tataḥ prīto 'bhyanujñātaḥ parikramyābhivandya tam

*sa-kalatra-suhṛt-putro dvīpam abdher jagāma ha tadaiva sāmṛta-jalā yamunā nirviṣābhavat anugrahād bhagavataḥ
krīḍā-mānuṣa-rūpiṇaḥ*

SYNONYMS

divya—divine; ambara—with clothing; sraṇ—garlands; maṇibhiḥ—and jewels; para-ardhyaiḥ—most valuable; api—also; bhūṣaṇaiḥ—ornaments; divya—divine; gandha—with scents; anulepaiḥ—and ointments; ca—as well; mahatyā—fine; utpala—of lotuses; mālayā—with a garland; pūjayitvā—worshiping; jagat-nātham—the Lord of the universe; prasādyā—satisfying; garuḍa-dhvajam—Him whose flag is marked with the emblem of Garuḍa; tataḥ—then; prītaḥ—feeling happy; abhyanujñātaḥ—given permission to leave; parikramya—circumambulating; abhivandya—offering obeisances; tam—to Him; sa—along with; kalatra—his wives; suhṛt—friends; putraḥ—and children; dvīpam—to the island; abdheḥ—in the sea; jagāma—he went; ha—indeed; tadā eva—at that very moment; sa-amṛta—nectarean; jalā—her water; yamunā—the river Yamunā; nirviṣā—free from poison; abhavat—she became; anugrahāt—by the mercy; bhagavataḥ—of the Supreme Personality of Godhead; krīḍā—for pleasure pastimes; mānuṣa—humanlike;

rūpiṇaḥ—manifesting a form.

TRANSLATION

Kāliya worshiped the Lord of the universe by offering Him fine garments, along with necklaces, jewels and other valuable ornaments, wonderful scents and ointments, and a large garland of lotus flowers. Having thus pleased the Lord, whose flag is marked with the emblem of Garuḍa, Kāliya felt satisfied. Receiving the Lord's permission to leave, Kāliya circumambulated Him and offered Him obeisances. Then, taking his wives, friends and children, he went to his island in the sea. The very moment Kāliya left, the Yamunā was immediately restored to her original condition, free from poison and full of nectarean water. This happened by the mercy of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, who was manifesting a humanlike form to enjoy His pastimes.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura has commented extensively on this verse. To explain the word maṇibhiḥ—"(Kāliya worshiped the Lord) with jewels"—the ācārya has quoted from the Śrī Rādhā-kṛṣṇa-gaṇoddeśa-dīpikā, by Rūpa Gosvāmī, as follows:

kaustubhākhyo maṇir yena praviśya hradam auragam kāliya-preyasi-vṛndahastair ātmopahāritaḥ

"The Lord had made His Kaustubha gem enter the serpent's lake, and then He arranged for it to be presented to Himself by the hands of Kāliya's wives." In other words, because Lord Kṛṣṇa wanted to act just like an ordinary human being, He made the transcendental Kaustubha gem invisible and caused it to enter within Kāliya's treasury. Then when the appropriate moment came for Kāliya to worship the Lord with many different jewels and ornaments, the serpent's wives, unaware of the Lord's transcendental trick, presented Him with the Kaustubha gem, thinking it was simply one of the jewels in their possession.

The ācārya has further commented that the reason Lord Kṛṣṇa is described in this verse as garuḍa-dhvaja, "He whose flag is marked by the symbol of His carrier, Garuḍa," is that Kāliya also desired to become Lord Kṛṣṇa's carrier. Garuḍa and the serpents are originally related as brothers, and therefore Kāliya wanted to indicate to Lord Kṛṣṇa, "If You ever have to go to a distant place, You should also think of me as Your personal carrier. I am the servant of Your servant, and in the wink of an eye I can travel hundreds of millions of yojanas." Thus the Purāṇas narrate that in the course of Lord Kṛṣṇa's eternal cycle of pastimes, when Kāmsa orders the Lord to come to Mathurā, He sometimes goes there mounted upon Kāliya.

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Sixteenth Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "Kṛṣṇa Chastises the Serpent Kāliya."

17. The History of Kāliya

This chapter describes how Kāliya left the island of the snakes and how the sleeping residents of Vṛndāvana were saved from a forest fire.

When King Parīkṣit inquired about Kāliya's leaving Ramanaka Island, the abode of the serpents, and about why Garuḍa acted inimically toward him, Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī replied as follows: All the serpents on the island were afraid of being devoured by Garuḍa. To placate him, every month they would leave various offerings for him at the foot of a banyan tree. But Kāliya, puffed-up as he was with false pride, would eat these offerings himself. Hearing of this, Garuḍa became furious and went to kill Kāliya, whereupon the snake began biting the great bird. Garuḍa fiercely beat him with his wing, sending Kāliya fleeing for his life to a lake adjoining the Yamunā River.

Prior to the above incident, Garuḍa had once come to the Yamunā and started eating some fish. Saubhari Ṛṣi had tried to stop him, but Garuḍa, agitated by hunger, had refused to heed the sage's prohibitions, and in response the sage had cursed Garuḍa that if he ever came there again he would immediately die. Kāliya had heard of this, and thus he lived there without fear. In the end, however, he was driven out by Śrī Kṛṣṇa.

When Lord Balarāma and all the residents of Vṛndāvana saw Śrī Kṛṣṇa rise up out of the lake, beautifully decorated with many different gems and ornaments, they embraced Him in great pleasure. The spiritual masters, priests and learned brāhmaṇas then told Nanda Mahārāja, the king of the cowherds, that although his son had been caught in the grips of Kāliya, it was by the king's good fortune that He was now free again.

Because the people of Vṛndāvana were quite worn out by hunger, thirst and fatigue, they spent that night on the banks of the Yamunā. In the middle of the night, a fire happened to blaze up within the forest, which had become dry during the hot season. As the fire surrounded the sleeping inhabitants of Vṛndāvana, they suddenly awoke and rushed to Śrī Kṛṣṇa for protection. Then the unlimitedly powerful Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, seeing His dear relatives and friends so distressed, immediately swallowed up the terrible forest fire.

TEXT 1

श्रीराजोवाच
नागालयं रमणकं

कथं तत्याज कालियः
कृतं किं वा सुपर्णस्य तेनैकेनासमञ्जसम्

śrī-rājavāca
nāgālayaṁ ramaṇakam katham tatyāja kāliyaḥ kṛtaṁ kiṁ vā suparṇasya tenaikenāsamañjasam

SYNONYMS

śrī-rājā uvāca—the King said; nāga—of the serpents; ālayam—the residence; ramaṇakam—the island named Ramaṇaka; katham—why; tatyāja—gave up; kāliyaḥ—Kāliya; kṛtam—was made; kiṁ vā—and why; suparṇasya—of Garuḍa; tena—with him, Kāliya; ekena—alone; asamañjasam—enmity.

TRANSLATION

[Having thus heard how Lord Kṛṣṇa chastised Kāliya,] King Parīkṣit inquired: Why did Kāliya leave Ramaṇaka Island, the abode of the serpents, and why did Garuḍa become so antagonistic toward him alone?

TEXTS 2-3

श्रीशुक उवाच
उपहार्यैः सर्पजनैर्
मासि मासीह यो बलिः
वानस्पत्यो महाबाहो

नागानां प्राङ्निरूपितः

स्वं स्वं भागं प्रयच्छन्ति
नागाः पर्वणि पर्वणि
गोपीथायात्मनः सर्वे सुपर्णाय महात्मने

śrī-śuka uvāca
upahāryaiḥ sarpa-janair
māsi māsiha yo baliḥ vānaspatyo mahā-bāho
nāgānām prāṇ-nirūpitaḥ

svam svam bhāgam prayacchanti nāgāḥ parvaṇi parvaṇi gopīthāyātmanaḥ sarve suparṇāya mahātmane

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; upahāryaiḥ—who were qualified to make offerings; sarpa-janaiḥ—by the serpent race; māsi māsi—each month; iha—here (in Nāgālaya); yaḥ—which; baliḥ—offering of tribute; vānaspatyaḥ—at the base of a tree; mahā-bāho—O mighty-armed Parīkṣit; nāgānām—for the serpents; prāk—previously; nirūpitaḥ—ordained; svam svam—each his own; bhāgam—portion; prayacchanti—they present; nāgāḥ—the serpents; parvaṇi parvaṇi—once each month; gopīthāya—for the protection; ātmanaḥ—of themselves; sarve—all of them; suparṇāya—to Garuḍa; mahā-ātmane—the powerful .

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: To avoid being eaten by Garuḍa, the serpents had previously made an arrangement with him whereby they would each make a monthly offering of tribute at the base of a tree. Thus every month on schedule, O mighty-armed King Parīkṣit, each serpent would duly make his offering to that powerful carrier of Viṣṇu as a purchase of protection.

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī has given an alternate explanation of this verse. Upahāryaiḥ may also be translated as "by those who are to be eaten," and sarpa-janaiḥ as "those human beings who were dominated by or who belonged to the serpent race." According to this reading, a group of human beings had fallen under the control of the serpents and were prone to be eaten by them. To avoid this, the human beings would make a monthly offering to the serpents, who in turn would offer a portion of that offering to Garuḍa so that he would not eat them. The particular translation given above is based on the commentary of Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī and the translation by Śrīla Prabhupāda in his Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead. In any case, all the ācāryas agree that the serpents purchased protection from Garuḍa.

TEXT 4

विषवीर्यमदाविष्टः
काद्रवेयस्तु कालियः
कदर्थीकृत्य गरुडं स्वयं तं बुभुजे बलिम्

viṣa-vīrya-madāviṣṭaḥ

*kādraveyas tu kāliyaḥ kadarthī-kṛtya garuḍam
svayam tam bubhuje balim*

SYNONYMS

viṣa—because of his poison; vīrya—and his strength; mada—in intoxication; āviṣṭaḥ—absorbed; kādraveyaḥ—the son of Kadru; tu—on the other hand; kāliyaḥ—Kāliya; kadarthī-kṛtya—disregarding; garuḍam—Garuḍa; svayam—himself; tam—that; bubhuje—ate; balim—the offering.

TRANSLATION

Although all the other serpents were dutifully making offerings to Garuḍa, one serpent—the arrogant Kāliya, son of Kadru—would eat all these offerings before Garuḍa could claim them. Thus Kāliya directly defied the carrier of Lord Viṣṇu.

TEXT 5

तच्छ्रुत्वा कुपितो राजन्
भगवान् भगवत्प्रियः
विजिघांसुर्महावेगः कालियं समपाद्रवत्

tac chrutvā kupito rājan bhagavān bhagavat-priyaḥ vijighāmsur mahā-vegaḥ kāliyam samapādravat

SYNONYMS

tat—that; śrutvā—hearing; kupitaḥ—angered; rājan—O King; bhagavān—the powerful Garuḍa; bhagavat-priyaḥ—the dear devotee of the Supreme Personality of Godhead; vijighāṃsuḥ—desiring to kill; mahā-vegaḥ—the greatly swift; kāliyam—to Kāliya; samupādravat—he rushed.

TRANSLATION

O King, the greatly powerful Garuḍa, who is very dear to the Supreme Lord, became angry when he heard of this. Desiring to kill Kāliya, he rushed toward the serpent with tremendous speed.

PURPORT

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the word mahā-vega indicates that the great speed of Garuḍa cannot be checked by anyone.

TEXT 6

तमापतन्तं तरसा विषायुधः
प्रत्यभ्ययादुत्थितनैकमस्तकः
दद्भिः सुपर्णं व्यदशद्ददायुधः करालजिह्वोच्छ्वसितोग्रलोचनः

tam āpatantaṁ tarasā viṣāyudhaḥ pratyabhyayād utthita-naika-mastakaḥ dadbhiḥ suparṇaṁ vyadaśad dad-āyudhaḥ karāla-jihrocchvasitogra-locanaḥ

SYNONYMS

tam—him, Garuḍa; āpatantam—attacking; tarasā—swiftly; viṣa—of poison; āyudhaḥ—who possessed the weapon; prati—towards; abhyayāt—ran; utthita—raised; na eka—many; mastakaḥ—his heads; dadbhiḥ—with his fangs; suparṇam—Garuḍa; vyadaśat—he bit; dat-āyudhaḥ—whose fangs were weapons; karāla—fearsome; jihvā—his tongues; ucchvasita—expanded; ugra—and terrible; locanaḥ—his eyes.

TRANSLATION

As Garuḍa swiftly fell upon him, Kāliya, who had the weapon of poison, raised his numerous heads to counterattack. Showing his ferocious tongues and expanding his horrible eyes, Kāliya then bit Garuḍa with the weapons of his fangs.

PURPORT

The ācāryas explain that Kāliya used his weapon of poison at a distance by spitting venom upon his enemy and at short range by biting him with his terrible fangs.

TEXT 7

तं तार्क्ष्यपुत्रः स निरस्य मन्युमान्
प्रचण्डवेगो मधुसूदनासनः
पक्षेण सव्येन हिरण्यरोचिषा जघान कद्रुसुतमुग्रविक्रमः

taṁ tārṁśya-putraḥ sa nirasya manyumān

pracaṇḍa-vego madhusūdanāśanaḥ pakṣeṇa savyena hiraṇya-rociṣā jaghāna kadru-sutam ugra-vikramaḥ

SYNONYMS

tam—him, Kāliya; tārṣya-putraḥ—the son of Kaśyapa; saḥ—he, Garuḍa; nirasya—warding off; manyu-mān—full of anger; pracaṇḍa-vegaḥ—moving with terrible swiftness; madhusūdana-āśanaḥ—the carrier of Lord Madhusūdana, Kṛṣṇa; pakṣeṇa—with his wing; savyena—left; hiraṇya—like gold; rociṣā—the effulgence of which; jaghāna—he struck; kadru-sutam—the son of Kadru (Kāliya); ugra—mighty; vikramaḥ—his prowess.

TRANSLATION

The angry son of Tārṣya moved with overwhelming speed in repelling Kāliya's attack. That terribly powerful carrier of Lord Madhusūdana struck the son of Kadru with his left wing, which shone like gold.

TEXT 8

सुपर्णपक्षाभिहतः
कालियोऽतीव विह्वलः
हृदं विवेश कालिन्द्यासु तदगम्यं दुरासदम्

*suparṇa-pakṣābhihataḥ kāliyo 'tīva vihvalaḥ hṛdaṁ viveśa kālindyās
tad-agamyam durāsadam*

SYNONYMS

suparṇa—of Garuḍa; pakṣa—by the wing; abhihataḥ—beaten; kāliyaḥ—Kāliya; atīva—extremely; viḥvalaḥ—distraught; hradam—a lake; viveśa—he entered; kālindyāḥ—of the river Yamunā; tat-agamyam—unapproachable by Garuḍa; durāsadam—difficult to enter.

TRANSLATION

Beaten by Garuḍa's wing, Kāliya was extremely distraught, and thus he took shelter of a lake adjoining the river Yamunā. Garuḍa could not enter this lake. Indeed, he could not even approach it.

TEXT 9

तत्रैकदा जलचरं
गरुडो भक्ष्यमीप्सितम्
निवारितः सौभरिणा प्रसह्य क्षुधितोऽहरत

tatraikadā jala-caram
garuḍo bhakṣyam īpsitam nivāritaḥ saubhariṇā
prasahya kṣudhito 'harat

SYNONYMS

tatra—there (in that lake); ekadā—once; jala-caram—an aquatic creature; garuḍaḥ—Garuḍa; bhakṣyam—his proper food; īpsitam—desired; nivāritaḥ—forbidden; saubhariṇā—by Saubhari Muni; prasahya—taking courage; kṣudhitaḥ—feeling hunger; aharat—he took.

TRANSLATION

In that very lake Garuḍa had once desired to eat a fish-fish being, after all, his normal food. Although forbidden by the sage Saubhari, who was meditating there within the water, Garuḍa took courage and, feeling hungry, seized the fish.

PURPORT

Śukadeva Gosvāmī is now explaining why Garuḍa could not approach the lake in the Yamunā River. It is the nature of birds to eat fish, and thus, by the arrangement of the Lord, the great bird Garuḍa does not commit any offense by nourishing himself with fish. On the other hand, Saubhari Muni's forbidding a much greater personality to eat his normal food did constitute an offense. According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura, Saubhari committed two offenses: first, he dared to give an order to a supremely exalted soul like Garuḍa, and second, he obstructed Garuḍa from satisfying his desire.

TEXT 10

मीनान् सुदुःखितान्दृष्ट्वा
दीनान्मीनपतौ हते
कृपया सौभरिः प्राह तत्रत्यक्षेममाचरन्

mīnān su-duḥkhitān dṛṣṭvā
dīnān mīna-patau hate kṛpayā saubhariḥ prāha

tatratya-kṣemam ācaran

SYNONYMS

mīnān—the fish; su-duḥkhitān—most unhappy; dṛṣṭvā—seeing; dīnān—wretched; mīna-patau—the lord of the fish; hate—being killed; kṛpayā—out of compassion; saubhariḥ—Saubhari; prāha—spoke; tatratya—for those living there; kṣemam—the welfare; ācaran—trying to enact .

TRANSLATION

Seeing how the unfortunate fish in that lake had become most unhappy at the death of their leader, Saubhari uttered the following curse under the impression that he was mercifully acting for the benefit of the lake's residents.

PURPORT

In this regard Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura explains that when our so-called compassion does not tally with the order of the Supreme Lord, it merely causes a disturbance. Because Saubhari had forbidden Garuḍa's coming to that lake, Kāliya moved in and made his headquarters there, and this spelled doom for all the lake's residents.

TEXT 11

अत्र प्रविश्य गरुडो
यदि मत्स्यान् स खादति
सद्यः प्राणैर्वियुज्येत सत्यमेतद् ब्रवीम्यहम्

atra praviśya garuḍo

yadi matsyān sa khādati sadyaḥ prāṇair viyujyeta satyam etad bravīmy aham

SYNONYMS

atra—in this lake; praviśya—entering; garuḍaḥ—Garuḍa; yadi—if; matsyān—the fish; saḥ—he; khādati—eats; sadyaḥ—immediately; prāṇaiḥ—of his force of life; viyujyeta—will become deprived; satyam—truthfully; etat—this; bravīmi—am speaking; aham—I.

TRANSLATION

If Garuḍa ever again enters this lake and eats the fish here, he will immediately lose his life. What I am saying is the truth.

PURPORT

The ācāryas explain in this regard that because of Saubhari Muni's material attachment and affection for a fish, he failed to see the situation from the spiritual viewpoint. The Ninth Canto of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam describes his falldown for this offense. Because of false pride, Saubhari Muni lost his power of austerity, and with it his spiritual beauty and happiness. When Garuḍa came to the Yamunā, Saubhari Muni thought, "Although he may be a personal associate of the Supreme Lord, I will still curse him and even kill him if he disobeys my order." Such an offensive attitude against an exalted Vaiṣṇava will certainly destroy one's auspicious position in life.

As the Ninth Canto describes, Saubhari Muni married many beautiful women, and suffered greatly in their association. But because he had once become glorious by taking shelter of the Yamunā River in Śrī Vṛndāvana, he was ultimately delivered.

TEXT 12

तत्कालियः परं वेद
नान्यः कश्चन लेलिहः
अवात्सीङ्गरुडाद्भीतः कृष्णेन च विवासितः

tat kāliyaḥ paraṁ veda nānyaḥ kaścana lelihaḥ avātsīd garuḍād bhītaḥ kṛṣṇena ca vivāsitaḥ

SYNONYMS

tam—that; kāliyaḥ—Kāliya; paraṁ—only; veda—knew; na—not; anyaḥ—other; kaścana—any; lelihaḥ—serpent; avātsīt—he dwelt; garuḍāt—of Garuḍa; bhītaḥ—afraid; kṛṣṇena—by Kṛṣṇa; ca—and; vivāsitaḥ—expelled.

TRANSLATION

Of all the serpents, only Kāliya came to know of this affair, and in fear of Garuḍa he took up residence in that Yamunā lake. Later Lord Kṛṣṇa drove him out.

TEXTS 13-14

कृष्णं हृदाद्विनिष्क्रान्तं
दिव्यस्रगन्धवाससम्
महामणिगणाकीर्णं

जाम्बूनदपरिष्कृतम्

उपलभ्योत्थिताः सर्वे

लब्धप्राणा इवासवः

प्रमोदनिभृतात्मानो

गोपाः प्रीत्याभिरेभिरे

kṛṣṇam hradād viniṣkrāntam divya-srag-gandha-vāśasam mahā-maṇi-gaṇākīrṇam jāmbūnada-pariṣkṛtam

*upalabhyotthitāḥ sarve labdha-prāṇā ivāśavaḥ pramoda-nibhṛtātmāno
gopāḥ prītyābhirebhire*

SYNONYMS

kṛṣṇam—Lord Kṛṣṇa; hradāt—from out of the lake; viniṣkrāntam—rising up; divya—divine; srag—wearing garlands; gandha—fragrances; vāśasam—and garments; mahā-maṇi-gaṇa—by many fine jewels; ākīrṇam—covered; jāmbūnada—with gold; pariṣkṛtam—decorated; upalabhya—seeing; utthitāḥ—rising up; sarve—all of them; labdha-prāṇāḥ—which have regained their vital force; iva—just as; śavaḥ—senses; pramoda—with joy; nibhṛta-ātmānaḥ—being filled; gopāḥ—the cowherds; prītyā—with affection; abhirebhire—embraced Him.

TRANSLATION

[Resuming his description of Kṛṣṇa's chastisement of Kāliya, Śukadeva

Gosvāmī continued:] Kṛṣṇa rose up out of the lake wearing divine garlands, fragrances and garments, covered with many fine jewels, and decorated with gold. When the cowherds saw Him they all stood up immediately, just like an unconscious person's senses coming back to life. Filled with great joy, they affectionately embraced Him.

TEXT 15

यशोदा रोहिणी नन्दो
गोप्यो गोपाश्च कौरव
कृष्णं समेत्य लब्धेहा आसन् शुष्का नगा अपि

*yaśodā rohiṇī nando
gopyo gopāś ca kaurava kṛṣṇam sametya labdhehā
āsan śuṣkā nagā api*

SYNONYMS

yaśodā rohiṇī nandaḥ—Yaśodā, Rohiṇī and Nanda Mahārāja; gopyaḥ—the cowherd ladies; gopāḥ—the cowherd men; ca—and; kaurava—O Parīkṣit, descendant of Kuru; kṛṣṇam—Lord Kṛṣṇa; sametya—meeting; labdha—having regained; ihāḥ—their conscious functions; āsan—they became; śuṣkāḥ—dried up; nagāḥ—the trees; api—even.

TRANSLATION

Having regained their vital functions, Yaśodā, Rohiṇī, Nanda and all the other cowherd women and men went up to Kṛṣṇa. O descendant of Kuru, even the dried-up trees came back to life.

TEXT 16

रामश्चाच्युतमालिङ्ग्य
जहासास्यानुभाववित्
प्रेम्णा तमङ्कमारोप्य
पुनः पुनरुदैक्षत
गावो वृषा वत्सतयो लेभिरे परमां मुदम् *rāmaś cācyutam āliṅgya jahāsāsyānubhāva-vit preṃṇā tam aṅkam āropya punaḥ punar udaikṣata gāvo vṛṣā vatsataryo

lebhire paramām mudam*

SYNONYMS

rāmaḥ—Lord Balarāma; ca—and; acyutam—Kṛṣṇa, the infallible Supreme Personality of Godhead; āliṅgya—embracing, jahāsa—laughed; asya—His; anubhāva-vit—knowing well the omnipotence; preṃṇā—out of love; tam—Him; aṅkam—up on His own lap; āropya—raising; punaḥ punaḥ—again and again; udaikṣata—looked upon; gāvaḥ—the cows; vṛṣāḥ—the bulls; vatsataryaḥ—the female calves; lebhire—they attained; paramām—supreme; mudam—pleasure.

TRANSLATION

Lord Balarāma embraced His infallible brother and laughed, knowing well the extent of Kṛṣṇa's potency. Out of great feelings of love, Balarāma lifted Kṛṣṇa up on His lap and repeatedly looked at Him. The cows, bulls and young female calves also achieved the highest pleasure.

TEXT 17

नन्दं विप्राः समागत्य
गुरवः सकलत्रकाः
ऊचुस्ते कालियग्रस्तो दिष्ट्या मुक्तस्तवात्मजः

*nandaṁ viprāḥ samāgatya guravaḥ sa-kalatrakāḥ ūcus te kāliya-grasto
diṣṭyā muktas tavātmajaḥ*

SYNONYMS

nandaṁ—to Nanda Mahārāja; viprāḥ—the brāhmaṇas; samāgatya—coming up; guravaḥ—respectable personalities; sa-kalatrakāḥ—along with their wives; ūcuḥ—said; te—they; kāliya-grastaḥ—seized by Kāliya; diṣṭyā—by Providence; muktaḥ—freed; tava—your; ātma-jāḥ—son.

TRANSLATION

All the respectable brāhmaṇas, together with their wives, came forward to greet Nanda Mahārāja. They said to him, "Your son was in the grips of Kāliya, but by the grace of Providence He is now free."

TEXT 18

देहि दानं द्विजातीनां
कृष्णनिर्मुक्तिहेतवे
नन्दः प्रीतमना राजन् गाः सुवर्णं तदादिशत्

*dehi dānam dvi-jātīnām kṛṣṇa-nirmukti-hetave nandaḥ prīta-manā rājan
gāḥ suvarṇam tadādiśat*

SYNONYMS

dehi—you should give; dānam—charity; dvi-jātīnām—to the brāhmaṇas; kṛṣṇa-nirmukti—the safety of Kṛṣṇa; hetave—for the purpose of; nandaḥ—Nanda Mahārāja; prīta-manāḥ—satisfied within his mind; rājan—O King Parikṣit; gāḥ—cows; suvarṇam—gold; tadā—then; ādiśat—gave.

TRANSLATION

The brāhmaṇas then advised Nanda Mahārāja, "To assure that your son Kṛṣṇa will always be free from danger, you should give charity to the brāhmaṇas." With a satisfied mind, O King, Nanda Mahārāja then very gladly gave them gifts of cows and gold.

TEXT 19

यशोदापि महाभागा
नष्टलब्धप्रजा सती

परिष्वज्याङ्गमारोप्य मुमोचाश्रुकलां मुहुः

*yaśodāpi mahā-bhāgā
naṣṭa-labdha-prajā satī pariṣvajyāṅkam āropya mumocāśru-kalām muhuḥ*

SYNONYMS

yaśodā—mother Yaśodā; api—and; mahā-bhāgā—the greatly fortunate; naṣṭa—having lost; labdha—and regained; prajā—her son; satī—the chaste lady; pariṣvajya—embracing; aṅkam—upon her lap); āropya—raising; mumoca—she released; aśru—of tears; kalām—a torrent; muhuḥ—repeatedly.

TRANSLATION

The greatly fortunate mother Yaśodā, having lost her son and then regained Him, placed Him on her lap. That chaste lady cried constant torrents of tears as she repeatedly embraced Him.

TEXT 20

तां रात्रिं तत्र राजेन्द्र क्षुत्तृङ्ग्यां श्रमकर्षिताः ऊषुर्व्रयौकसो गावः कालिन्द्या उपकूलतः

*tām rātrim tatra rājendra
kṣut-tṛḍbhyām śrama-karṣitāḥ*

ūṣur vrayaukaso gāvaḥ kālindyā upakūlataḥ

SYNONYMS

tām—that; rātrim—night; tatra—there; rāja-indra—O most exalted of kings; kṣut-tṛḍbhyām—by hunger and thirst; śrama—and by fatigue; karṣitāḥ—weakened; ūṣuḥ—they remained; vraja-okasaḥ—the people of Vṛndāvana; gāvaḥ—and the cows; kālindyāḥ—of the Yamunā; upakūlataḥ—near the shore.

TRANSLATION

O best of kings [Parīkṣit], because the residents of Vṛndāvana were feeling very weak from hunger, thirst and fatigue, they and the cows spent the night where they were, lying down near the bank of the Kālindī.

PURPORT

Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī points out that although the people were weak from hunger and thirst, they did not drink the milk from the cows present there because they feared it had been contaminated by the serpent's poison. The residents of Vṛndāvana were so overjoyed to get back their beloved Kṛṣṇa that they did not want to go back to their houses. They wanted to stay with Kṛṣṇa on the bank of the Yamunā so that they could continuously see Him. Thus they decided to take rest near the riverbank.

TEXT 21

तदा शुचिवनोद्भूतो
दावाग्निः सर्वतो व्रजम्

सुप्तं निशीथ आवृत्य प्रदग्धुमुपचक्रमे

tadā śuci-vanodbhūto dāvāgniḥ sarvato vrajam suptam niśītha āvṛtya pradagdhum upacakrame

SYNONYMS

tadā—then; śuci—of the summer; vana—in the forest; udbhūtaḥ—arising; dāva-agniḥ—a conflagration; sarvataḥ—on all sides; vrajam—the people of Vṛndāvana; suptam—sleeping; niśīthe—in the middle of the night; āvṛtya—surrounding; pradagdhum—to burn; upacakrame—began.

TRANSLATION

During the night, while all the people of Vṛndāvana were asleep, a great fire blazed up within the dry summer forest. The fire surrounded the inhabitants of Vraja on all sides and began to scorch them.

PURPORT

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī and Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura have commented that perhaps a loyal friend of Kāliya had assumed the form of a forest fire to avenge his friend, or perhaps the forest fire was manifest by a demon who was a follower of Kāṁsa's.

TEXT 22

तत उत्थाय सम्भ्रान्ता

दह्यमाना व्रजौकसः
कृष्णं ययुस्ते शरणं मायामनुजमीश्वरम्

*tata utthāya sambhrāntā dahyamānā vrajaukaśaḥ kṛṣṇam yayus te śaraṇam
māyā-manujam īśvaram*

SYNONYMS

tataḥ—then; utthāya—waking up; sambhrāntāḥ—agitated; dahyamānāḥ—about to be burned; vraja-okasaḥ—the people of Vraja; kṛṣṇam—to Kṛṣṇa; yayuh—went; te—they; śaraṇam—for shelter; māyā—by His potency; manujam—appearing like a human being; īśvaram—the Supreme Personality of Godhead.

TRANSLATION

Then the residents of Vṛndāvana woke up, extremely disturbed by the great fire threatening to burn them. Thus they took shelter of Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Lord, who by His spiritual potency appeared like an ordinary human being.

PURPORT

The śruti, or Vedic mantras, state, svarūpa-bhūtayā nitya-śaktyā māyākhyayā: "The Lord's eternal potency named māyā is innate in His original form." Thus within the eternal spiritual body of the Supreme Lord there is infinite potency, which effortlessly manipulates all existence according to the omniscient desire of the Absolute Truth. The residents of Vṛndāvana took shelter of Kṛṣṇa, thinking, "This blessed boy will certainly be empowered by God to save us." They remembered the words of the sage Garga Muni, spoken at the birth ceremony of Lord Kṛṣṇa: anena sarva-durgāṇi yūyam añjas tariṣyatha. "By His power you will easily be able to cross over all obstacles." (SB 10.8.16) Therefore the residents of Vṛndāvana, who had full faith in Kṛṣṇa, took shelter of the Lord in hopes of being saved from the impending disaster threatened by the forest fire.

TEXT 23

कृष्ण कृष्ण महाभग
हे रामामितविक्रम
एष घोरतमो वह्निः
तावकान् ग्रसते हि नः

*kṛṣṇa kṛṣṇa mahā-bhaga
he rāmāmita-vikrama eṣa ghoratamo vahnis
tāvakān grasate hi naḥ*

SYNONYMS

kṛṣṇa—O Kṛṣṇa; kṛṣṇa—O Kṛṣṇa; mahā-bhāga—O Lord of all opulence; he rāma—O Lord Balarāma, source of all happiness; amita-vikrama—You whose power is unlimited; eṣaḥ—this; ghora-tamaḥ—most terrible; vahniḥ—fire; tāvakān—who are Yours; grasate—is devouring; hi—indeed; naḥ—us.

TRANSLATION

[Vṛndāvana's residents said:] Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa, O Lord of all opulence! O Rāma, possessor of unlimited power! This most terrible fire is about to devour us,

Your devotees!

TEXT 24

सुदुस्तरान्नः स्वान् पाहि कालाग्नेः सुहृदः प्रभो
न शक्नुमस्त्वच्चरणं सन्त्यक्तुमकुतोभयम्

su-dustarān naḥ svān pāhi kālāgneḥ suhṛdaḥ prabho na śaknumas tvac-caraṇaṁ santyaaktum akuto-bhayam

SYNONYMS

su-dustarāt—from the insurmountable; naḥ—us; svān—Your own devotees; pāhi—please protect; kāla-agneḥ—from the fire of death; suhṛdaḥ—Your true friends; prabho—O supreme master; na śaknumaḥ—we are incapable; tvac-caraṇam—Your feet; santyaaktum—to give up; akutaḥ-bhayam—which drive away all fear.

TRANSLATION

O Lord, we are Your true friends and devotees. Please protect us from this insurmountable fire of death. We can never give up Your lotus feet, which drive away all fear.

PURPORT

The residents of Vṛndāvana told Kṛṣṇa, "If this deadly fire overcomes us, we will be separated from Your lotus feet, and this is unbearable for us. Therefore, just so that we can go on serving Your lotus feet, please protect us."

TEXT 25

इत्थं स्वजनवैक्लव्यं
निरीक्ष्य जगदीश्वरः
तमग्निमपिबत्तीव्रम् अनन्तोऽनन्तशक्तिधृक्

*ittham sva-jana-vaiklavyam nirīkṣya jagad-īśvaraḥ tam agnim apibat tīvram
ananto 'nanta-śakti-dhṛk*

SYNONYMS

ittham—in this manner; sva-jana—of His own devotees; vaiklavyam—the disturbed condition; nirīkṣya—seeing; jagad-īśvaraḥ—the Lord of the universe; tam—that; agnim—fire; apibat—drank; tīvram—terrible; anantaḥ—the unlimited Lord; ananta-śakti-dhṛk—the possessor of unlimited potencies.

TRANSLATION

Seeing His devotees so disturbed, Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the infinite Lord of the universe and possessor of infinite power, then swallowed the terrible forest fire.

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Seventeenth Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "The History of Kāliya."

18. Lord Balarāma Slays the Demon Pralamba

The killing of Pralambāsura is described in this chapter. While playing happily in Vṛndāvana, Lord Baladeva climbed up on the shoulders of the demon Pralamba and struck his head with His fist, destroying him.

Śrī Vṛndāvana, where Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma enacted Their pastimes, was even during the summer decorated with all the qualities of spring. At that time Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa would become absorbed in various sports, surrounded by Balarāma and all the cowherd boys. One day they were intently dancing, singing and playing when a demon named Pralamba entered their midst, disguised as a cowherd boy. The omniscient Lord Kṛṣṇa saw through the disguise, but even as He thought of how to kill the demon, He treated him as a friend.

Kṛṣṇa then suggested to His young friends and Baladeva that they play a game involving contending parties. Taking the role of leaders, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma divided the boys into two groups and determined that the losers would have to carry the winners on their shoulders. Thus when Śrīdāmā and Vṛṣabha, members of Balarāma's party, were victorious, Kṛṣṇa and another boy in His party carried them on their shoulders. Pralambāsura thought that the unconquerable Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa would be too great an opponent to contend with, so the demon fought with Balarāma instead and was defeated. Taking Lord Balarāma on his back, Pralambāsura began to walk away very swiftly. But Balarāma became as heavy as Mount Sumeru, and the demon, unable to carry Him, had to reveal his true, demoniac form. When Balarāma saw this terrible form, He struck the demon a ferocious blow on the head with His fist. This blow shattered Pralambāsura's head just as lightning bolts hurled by the king of the demigods shatter mountains. The demon repeatedly vomited blood and then fell upon the ground. When the cowherd boys saw Lord Balarāma return, they joyfully embraced and congratulated Him as the demigods showered garlands of flowers from the heavens and glorified Him.

TEXT 1

श्रीशुक उवाच
अथ कृष्णः परिवृतो
ज्ञातिभिर्मुदितात्मभिः
अनुगीयमानो न्यविशद् व्रजं गोकुलमण्डितम्

*śrī-śuka uvāca
atha kṛṣṇaḥ parivṛto jñātibhir muditātmabhiḥ anugīyamāno nyaviśad vrajaṁ gokula-maṇḍitam*

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; atha—next; kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; parivṛtaḥ—surrounded; jñātibhiḥ—by His companions; mudita-ātmabhiḥ—who were joyful by nature; anugīyamānaḥ—His glories being chanted; nyaviśat—entered; vrajaṁ—Vraja; go-kula—by the herds of cows; maṇḍitam—decorated.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Surrounded by His blissful companions, who constantly chanted His glories, Śrī Kṛṣṇa then entered the village of Vraja, which was decorated with herds of cows.

TEXT 2

व्रजे विक्रीडतोरेवं
गोपालच्छद्ममायया
ग्रीष्मो नामर्तुरभवन् नातिप्रेयाञ्छरीरिणाम्

*vraje vikrīḍator evaṁ gopāla-cchadma-māyayā grīṣmo nāmartur abhavan
nāti-preyāñ charīriṇām*

SYNONYMS

vraje—in Vṛndāvana; vikrīḍatoḥ—while the two of Them were sporting; evam—in this way; gopāla—as cowherd boys; cchadma—of the disguise; māyayā—by the illusion; grīṣmaḥ—summer; nāma—thus designated; ṛtuḥ—the season; abhavat—came about; na—not; ati-preyān—very much favored; śarīriṇām—by embodied beings.

TRANSLATION

While Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma were thus enjoying life in Vṛndāvana in the guise of ordinary cowherd boys, the summer season gradually appeared. This season is not very pleasing to embodied souls.

PURPORT

In Chapter Eighteen, of Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrīla Prabhupāda comments as follows: "The summer season in India is not very much welcomed because of the excessive heat, but in Vṛndāvana everyone was pleased because summer there appeared just like spring."

TEXT 3

स च वृन्दावनगुणैर्
वसन्त इव लक्षितः
यत्रास्ते भगवान् साक्षाद् रामेण सह केशवः

*sa ca vṛndāvana-guṇair vasanta iva lakṣitaḥ yatrāste bhagavān sākṣād
rāmeṇa saha keśavaḥ*

SYNONYMS

saḥ—this (hot season); ca—nevertheless; vṛndāvana—of Śrī Vṛndāvana; guṇaiḥ—by the transcendental qualities; vasantaḥ—springtime; iva—as if; lakṣitaḥ—manifesting symptoms; yatra—in which (Vṛndāvana); āste—remains; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; sākṣāt—personally; rāmeṇa saha—together with Lord Balarāma; keśavaḥ—Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa.

TRANSLATION

Nevertheless, because the Supreme Personality of Godhead was personally staying in Vṛndāvana along with Balarāma, summer manifested the qualities of spring. Such are the features of the land of Vṛndāvana.

TEXT 4

यत्र निर्झरनिर्ह्राद-निवृत्तस्वनझिल्लिकम्
शश्वत्तच्छीकरर्जिष-द्रुममण्डलमण्डितम्

yatra nirjhara-nirhrāda-nivṛtta-svana-jhillikam śaśvat tac-chīkararjīṣa-druma-maṇḍala-maṇḍitam

SYNONYMS

yatra—in which (Vṛndāvana); nirjhara—of the waterfalls; nirhrāda—by the resounding; nivṛtta—stopped; svana—the sound; jhillikam—of the crickets; śaśvat—constant; tac—of those (waterfalls); śīkara—by the drops of water; rjīṣa—moistened; druma—of trees; maṇḍala—with the groups; maṇḍitam—decorated.

TRANSLATION

In Vṛndāvana, the loud sound of waterfalls covered the crickets' noise, and clusters of trees constantly moistened by spray from those waterfalls beautified the entire area.

PURPORT

This and the following three verses describe how Vṛndāvana manifested the features of spring, even during the summer season.

TEXT 5

सरित्सरःप्रस्रवणोर्मिवायुना
कह्लारकञ्जोत्पलरेणुहारिणा
न विद्यते यत्र वनौकसां दवो निदाघवह्न्यर्कभवोऽतिशाद्वले

*sarit-saraḥ-prasravaṇormi-vāyunā kahlāra-kañjotpala-reṇu-hāriṇā na vidyate yatra vanaukasām davo
nidāgha-vahny-arka-bhavo 'ti-śādvale*

SYNONYMS

sarit—of the rivers; saraḥ—and the lakes; prasravaṇa—(coming into contact with) the currents; ūrmī—and waves; vāyunā—by the wind; kahlāra-kañja-utpala—of the kahlāra, kañja and utpala lotuses; reṇu—the pollen; hāriṇā—which was taking away; na vidyate—there was not; yatra—in which; vana-okasām—for the residents of the forest; davaḥ—tormenting heat; nidāgha—of the summer season; vahni—by forest fires; arka—and the sun; bhavaḥ—generated; ati-śādvale—where there was an abundance of green grass.

TRANSLATION

The wind wafting over the waves of the lakes and flowing rivers carried away the pollen of many varieties of lotuses and water lilies and then cooled the entire Vṛndāvana area. Thus the residents there did not suffer from the heat generated by the blazing summer sun and seasonal forest fires. Indeed, Vṛndāvana was abundant with fresh green grass.

TEXT 6

अगाधतोयह्रदिनीतटोर्मिभिर्
द्रवत्पुरीष्याः पुलिनैः समन्ततः
न यत्र चण्डांशुकरा विषोल्बणा भुवो रसं शद्वलितं च गृह्णते

agādha-toya-hradinī-taṭormibhir dravat-purīṣyāḥ pulinaiḥ samantataḥ na yatra caṇḍāmśu-karā viṣolbāṇā bhuvo rasam śādvalitam ca gṛhṇate

SYNONYMS

agādha—very deep; toya—whose water; hradinī—of the rivers; taṭa—upon the shores; ūrmibhiḥ—by the waves; dravat—liquefied; purīṣyāḥ—whose mud; pulinaiḥ—by the sandy banks; samantataḥ—on all sides; na—not; yatra—upon which; caṇḍa—of the sun; āmśu-karāḥ—the rays; viṣa—like poison; ulbāṇāḥ—fierce; bhuvaḥ—of the earth; rasam—the juice; śādvalitam—the greenness; ca—and; gṛhṇate—take away.

TRANSLATION

With their flowing waves the deep rivers drenched their banks, making them damp and muddy. Thus the rays of the sun, which were as fierce as poison, could not evaporate the earth's sap or parch its green grass.

TEXT 7

वनं कुसुमितं श्रीमन्
नदच्चित्रमृगद्विजम्
गायन्मयूरभ्रमरं कूजत्कोकिलसारसम्

*vanam kusumitam śrīman nada-citra-mṛga-dvijam gāyan mayūra-bhramaram
kūjat-kokila-sārasam*

SYNONYMS

vanam—the forest; kusumitam—full of flowers; śrīmat—very beautiful; nadat—making sounds; citra—variegated; mṛga—animals; dvijam—and birds; gāyan—singing; mayūra—peacocks; bhramaram—and bees; kūjat—cooing; kokila—cuckoos; sārasam—and cranes.

TRANSLATION

Flowers beautifully decorated the forest of Vṛndāvana, and many varieties of animals and birds filled it with sound. The peacocks and bees sang, and the cuckoos and cranes cooed.

TEXT 8

क्रीडिष्यमाणस्तत्कर्षणो
भगवान् बलसंयुतः
वेणुं विरणयन् गोपैर्

गोधनैः संवृतोऽविशत्

krīdiṣyamāṇas tat kṛṣṇo bhagavān bala-saṁyutaḥ veṇum viraṇayan gopaiḥ go-dhanaiḥ saṁvṛto 'viśat

SYNONYMS

krīdiṣyamāṇaḥ—intending to play; tat—that (Vṛndāvana forest); kṛṣṇaḥ—Kṛṣṇa; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; bala-saṁyutaḥ—accompanied by Balarāma; veṇum—His flute; viraṇayan—sounding; gopaiḥ—by the cowherd boys; go-dhanaiḥ—and the cows, who are their wealth; saṁvṛtaḥ—surrounded; aviśat—He entered.

TRANSLATION

Intending to engage in pastimes, Lord Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, accompanied by Lord Balarāma and surrounded by the cowherd boys and the cows, entered the forest of Vṛndāvana as He played His flute.

TEXT 9

प्रवालबर्हस्तबक-स्रग्धातुकृतभूषणाः
रामकृष्णादयो गोपा ननृतुर्युधुर्जगुः

pravāla-barha-stabaka-srag-dhātu-kṛta-bhūṣaṇāḥ

*rāma-kṛṣṇādayo gopā
nanṛtur yuyudhur jaguḥ*

SYNONYMS

pravāla—newly grown leaves; barha—peacock feathers; stabaka—bunches of small flowers; srak—garlands; dhātu—and colored minerals; kṛta-bhūṣaṇāḥ—wearing as their ornaments; rāma-kṛṣṇa-ādayaḥ—headed by Lord Balarāma and Lord Kṛṣṇa; gopāḥ—the cowherd boys; nanṛtuḥ—danced; yuyudhuḥ—fought; jaguḥ—sang.

TRANSLATION

Decorating themselves with newly grown leaves, along with peacock feathers, garlands, clusters of flower buds, and colored minerals, Balarāma, Kṛṣṇa and Their cowherd friends danced, wrestled and sang.

TEXT 10

कृष्णस्य नृत्यतः केचिज्
जगुः केचिदवादयन्
वेणुपाणितलैः शृङ्गैः प्रशशंसुरथापरे

*kṛṣṇasya nṛtyataḥ kecij
jaguḥ kecid avādayan veṇu-pāṇitalaiḥ śṛṅgaiḥ praśaśamsur athāpare*

SYNONYMS

kṛṣṇasya nṛtyataḥ—while Kṛṣṇa was dancing; kecit—some of them; jaguḥ—sang; kecit—some; avādayan—accompanied musically; veṇu—with flutes; pāṇi-talaiḥ—and hand cymbals; śṛṅgaiḥ—with buffalo horns; praśaśamsuḥ—offered praise; atha—and; āpare—others.

TRANSLATION

As Kṛṣṇa danced, some of the boys accompanied Him by singing, and others by playing flutes, hand cymbals and buffalo horns, while still others praised His dancing.

PURPORT

Wanting to encourage Śrī Kṛṣṇa, some of the cowherd boys openly praised His dancing.

TEXT 11

गोपजातिप्रतिच्छन्ना
देवा गोपालरूपिणौ
ईडिरे कृष्णरामौ च नटा इव नटं नृप

gopa-jāti-praticchannā
devā gopāla-rūpiṇau īdire kṛṣṇa-rāmau ca naṭā iva naṭam nṛpa

SYNONYMS

gopa-jāti—as members of the cowherd community; praticchannāḥ—disguised;

devāḥ—demigods; gopāla-rūpiṇau—who had assumed the forms of cowherd boys; īdire—they worshiped; kṛṣṇa-rāmau—Lord Kṛṣṇa and Lord Rāma; ca—and; naṭāḥ—professional dancers; iva—just as; naṭam—another dancer; nṛpa—O King.

TRANSLATION

O King, demigods disguised themselves as members of the cowherd community and, just as dramatic dancers praise another dancer, worshiped Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, who were also appearing as cowherd boys.

TEXT 12

भ्रमणैर्लङ्घनैः क्षेपैर्
आस्फोटनविकर्षणैः
चिक्रीडतुर्नियुद्धेन
काकपक्षधरौ क्वचित्

bhramaṇair laṅghanaiḥ kṣepair āsphoṭana-vikarṣaṇaiḥ cikrīḍatur niyuddhena
kāka-pakṣa-dharau kvacit

SYNONYMS

bhramaṇaiḥ—with whirling about; laṅghanaiḥ—jumping; kṣepaiḥ—throwing; āsphoṭana—slapping; vikarṣaṇaiḥ—and dragging; cikrīḍatuḥ—They (Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma) played; niyuddhena—with fighting; kāka-pakṣa—the locks of hair on the sides of Their heads; dharau—holding; kvacit—sometimes.

TRANSLATION

Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma played with their cowherd boyfriends by whirling about, leaping, hurling, slapping and fighting. Sometimes Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma would pull the hair on the boys' heads.

PURPORT

The ācāryas have explained this verse as follows: The word bhramaṇaiḥ indicates that the boys, pretending they were machines, would sometimes whirl about until they became dizzy. They would also sometimes jump about (laṅghanaiḥ). The word kṣepaiḥ indicates that sometimes they would hurl objects like balls or stones and that sometimes they would grab each other by the arms and throw one another about. Āsphoṭana means that sometimes they would slap one another's shoulders or backs, and vikarṣaṇaiḥ indicates they would drag one another about in the midst of their play. By the word niyuddhena arm wrestling and other types of friendly fighting are indicated, and the word kāka-pakṣa-dharau means that Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma would sometimes grab the hair on the other boys' heads in a playful manner.

TEXT 13

क्वचिन्नृत्यत्सु चान्येषु
गायकौ वादकौ स्वयम्
शशंसतुर्महाराज
साधु साध्विति वादिनौ

*kvacin nṛtyatsu cānyeṣu
gāyakau vādakau svayam*

*śaśaṁsatur mahā-rāja
sādhu sādhu iti vādinau*

SYNONYMS

kvacit—sometimes; nṛtyatsu—while they were dancing; ca—and; anyeṣu—others; gāyakau—the two of Them (Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma) singing; vādakau—both playing musical instruments; svayam—Themselves; śaśaṁsatuh—They praised; mahā-rāja—O great King; sādhu sādhu iti—"very good, very good"; vādinau—speaking.

TRANSLATION

While the other boys were dancing, O King, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma would sometimes accompany them with song and instrumental music, and sometimes the two Lords would praise the boys, saying, "Very good! Very good!"

TEXT 14

क्वचिद्विल्वैः क्वचित्कुम्भैः क्वचामलकमुष्टिभिः
अस्पृश्यनेत्रबन्धाद्यैः क्वचिन्मृगखगेहया

kvacid bilvaiḥ kvacit kumbhaiḥ kvacāmalaka-muṣṭibhiḥ asprśya-netra-bandhādyaiḥ kvacin mṛga-khagehayā

SYNONYMS

kvacit—sometimes; bilvaiḥ—with bilva fruits; kvacit—sometimes; kumbhaiḥ—with kumbha fruits; kvaca—and sometimes; āmalaka-muṣṭibhiḥ—with palmfuls of āmalaka fruits; asprśya—with games such as trying to touch one another; netra-bandha—trying to identify another when one is blindfolded; ādyaiḥ—and so on; kvacit—sometimes; mṛga—like animals; khaga—and birds; ihayā—acting.

TRANSLATION

Sometimes the cowherd boys would play with bilva or kumbha fruits, and sometimes with handfuls of āmalaka fruits. At other times they would play the games of trying to touch one another or of trying to identify somebody while one is blindfolded, and sometimes they would imitate animals and birds.

PURPORT

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that the word ādyaiḥ, "by other such sports," indicates such games as chasing one another and building bridges. Another pastime would occur at noon, while Lord Kṛṣṇa was taking rest. Nearby, the young cowherd girls would be passing by, singing, and Kṛṣṇa's boyfriends would pretend to inquire from them about the price of milk. Then the boys would steal yogurt and other items from them and run away. Kṛṣṇa, Balarāma and Their friends would also play games in which they would cross the river in boats.

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura further explains that the boys would play with fruits by throwing a few in the air and then throwing others to try to hit them. The word netra-bandha indicates a game in which one boy would approach a blindfolded boy from behind and place his palms over the blindfolded boy's eyes. Then, simply by the feel of his palms, the blindfolded boy would have to guess who the other boy was. In all such games the boys put up stakes for the winner, such as flutes or walking sticks. Sometimes the boys would imitate the various fighting methods of the forest animals, and at other times they would chirp like birds.

TEXT 15

क्वचिच्च दर्दुरप्लावैर्
विविधैरुपहासकैः
कदाचित्स्यन्दोलिकया कर्हिचिन्नृपचेष्टया

*kvacic ca dardura-plāvair vividhair upahāsakaiḥ kadācit syandolikayā
karhicit nṛpa-ceṣṭayā*

SYNONYMS

kvacit—sometimes; ca—and; dardura—like frogs; plāvaiḥ—with jumping; vividhaiḥ—various; upahāsakaiḥ—with jokes; kadācit—sometimes; syandolikayā—with riding in swings; karhicit—and sometimes; nṛpa-ceṣṭayā—with pretending to be kings.

TRANSLATION

They would sometimes jump around like frogs, sometimes play various jokes, sometimes ride in swings and sometimes imitate monarchs.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura explains the word nṛpa-ceṣṭayā as follows: In Vṛndāvana there was a particular place on the riverbank where people who wanted to cross the Yamunā would pay a small tax. At times the cowherd boys would assemble in this area and prevent the young girls of Vṛndāvana from crossing the river, insisting that they had to pay a customs duty first. Such activities were full of joking and laughter.

TEXT 16

एवं तौ लोकसिद्धाभिः
क्रीडाभिश्चैरतुर्वने
नद्यद्रिद्रोणिकुञ्जेषु काननेषु सरःसु च

evam tau loka-siddhābhiḥ krīḍābhiś ceratur vane nady-adri-droṇi-kuñjeṣu kānaneṣu saraḥsu ca

SYNONYMS

evam—in this way; tau—the two of Them, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma; loka-siddhābhiḥ—which are well known in human society; krīḍābhiḥ—with games; ceratuḥ—They wandered; vane—in the forest; nadī—among the rivers; adri—mountains; droṇi—valleys; kuñjeṣu—and groves; kānaneṣu—in the smaller forests; saraḥsu—along the lakes; ca—and.

TRANSLATION

In this way Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma played all sorts of well-known games as They wandered among the rivers, hills, valleys, bushes, trees and lakes of Vṛndāvana.

TEXT 17

पशूंश्चारयतोर्गोपैसु
तद्वने रामकृष्णयोः
गोपरूपी प्रलम्बोऽगाद् असुरस्तज्जिहीर्षया

*paśūṁś cārayator gopais tad-vane rāma-kṛṣṇayoḥ gopa-rūpī pralambo 'gād
asuras taj-jihīṛṣayā*

SYNONYMS

paśūn—the animals; cārayatoḥ—while the two of Them were herding; gopaiḥ—along with the cowherd boys; tad-vane—in that forest, Vṛndāvana; rāma-kṛṣṇayoḥ—Lord Rāma and Lord Kṛṣṇa; gopa-rūpī—assuming the form of a cowherd boy; pralambaḥ—Pralamba; agāt—came; asuraḥ—the demon; tat—Them; jihīṛṣayā—with the desire of kidnapping.

TRANSLATION

While Rāma, Kṛṣṇa and Their cowherd friends were thus tending the cows in that Vṛndāvana forest, the demon Pralamba entered their midst. He had assumed the form of a cowherd boy with the intention of kidnapping Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma.

PURPORT

Having described how Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma acted just like ordinary boys, Śukadeva Gosvāmī will now reveal one of the Lord's transcendental pastimes that is beyond the range of human activity. According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura, the demon Pralamba disguised himself as a particular cowherd boy who on that day had remained at home with duties to perform.

TEXT 18

तं विद्वानपि दाशार्हो
भगवान् सर्वदर्शनः
अन्वमोदत तत्सख्यं वधं तस्य विचिन्तयन्

*taṁ vidvān api dāśārha
bhagavān sarva-darśanaḥ anvamodata tat-sakhyam vadham tasya vicintayan*

SYNONYMS

taṁ—him, Pralambāsura; vidvān—knowing quite well; api—even though; dāśārhaḥ—the descendant of Daśārha; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; sarva-darśanaḥ—the omniscient; anvamodata—accepted; tat—with him; sakhyam—friendship; vadham—the killing; tasya—of him; vicintayan—meditating upon.

TRANSLATION

Since the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa, who had appeared in the Daśārha dynasty, sees everything, He understood who the demon was. Still, the Lord pretended to accept the demon as a friend, while at the same time seriously considering how to kill him.

TEXT 19

तत्रोपाहूय गोपालान्
कृष्णः प्राह विहारवित्
हे गोपा विहरिष्यामो द्वन्द्वीभूय यथायथम्

*tatropāhūya gopālān
kṛṣṇaḥ prāha vihāra-vit
he gopā vihariṣyāmo
dvandvī-bhūya yathā-yatham*

SYNONYMS

tatra—thereupon; upāhūya—calling; gopālān—the cowherd boys; kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; prāha—spoke; vihāra-vit—the knower of all sports and games; he gopā—O cowherd boys; vihariṣyāmaḥ—let us play, dvandvī-bhūya—dividing into two groups; yathā-yatham—suitably.

TRANSLATION

Kṛṣṇa, who knows all sports and games, then called together the cowherd boys and spoke as follows: "Hey cowherd boys! Let's play now! We'll divide ourselves into two even teams."

PURPORT

The word yathā-yatham means that Kṛṣṇa naturally wanted the two teams to be evenly matched so that there would be a good game. In addition to the pleasure of sporting, the purpose of the game was to kill the demon Pralamba.

TEXT 20

तत्र चक्रुः परिवृढौ
गोपा रामजनार्दनौ
कृष्णसङ्घट्टिनः केचिद् आसन् रामस्य चापरे

*tatra cakruḥ parivṛḍhau
gopā rāma-janārdanau
kṛṣṇa-saṅghaṭṭinaḥ kecid
āsan rāmasya cāpare*

SYNONYMS

tatra—in that game; cakruḥ—they made; parivṛḍhau—the two leaders; gopāḥ—the cowherd boys; rāma-janārdanau—Lord Balarāma and Kṛṣṇa; kṛṣṇa-saṅghaṭṭinaḥ—members of Kṛṣṇa's party; kecit—some of them; āsan—became; rāmasya—of Balarāma; ca—and; apare—others.

TRANSLATION

The cowherd boys chose Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma as the leaders of the two parties. Some of the boys were on Kṛṣṇa's side, and others joined Balarāma.

TEXT 21

आचेरुर्विविधाः क्रीडा
वाह्यवाहकलक्षणाः

यत्रारोहन्ति जेतारो वहन्ति च पराजिताः

*ācerur vividhāḥ kṛīḍā
vāhya-vāhaka-lakṣaṇāḥ yatrārohanti jetāro
vahanti ca parājitāḥ*

SYNONYMS

āceruḥ—they performed; vividhāḥ—various; kṛīḍāḥ—sports; vāhya—by the carried; vāhaka—the carrier; lakṣaṇāḥ—characterized; yatra—in which; ārohanti—climb; jetāraḥ—the winners; vahanti—carry; ca—and; parājitāḥ—the defeated.

TRANSLATION

The boys played various games involving carriers and passengers. In these games the winners would climb up on the backs of the losers, who would have to carry them.

PURPORT

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī quotes the following relevant verse from the Viṣṇu Purāṇa (5.9.12):

*hariṇākrīḍanaṁ nāma
bāla-kṛīḍaṇakaṁ tataḥ prakṛīḍatā hi te sarve
dvau dvau yugapad utpatan*

"They then played the childhood game known as hariṇākrīḍanam, in which each boy paired off with an opponent and all the boys simultaneously attacked their respective rivals."

TEXT 22

वहन्तो वाह्यमानाश्च
चारयन्तश्च गोधनम्
भाण्डीरकं नाम वटं
जग्मुः कृष्णपुरोगमाः

*vahanto vāhyamānāś ca cārayantaś ca go-dhanam bhāṇḍīrakam nāma vaṭam
jagmuḥ kṛṣṇa-purogamāḥ*

SYNONYMS

vahantaḥ—carrying; vāhyamānāḥ—being carried; ca—and;
cārayantaḥ—tending; ca—also; go-dhanam—the cows; bhāṇḍīrakam nāma—named Bhāṇḍīraka; vaṭam—to the banyan tree; jagmuḥ—they went;
kṛṣṇa-puraḥ-gamāḥ—led by Lord Kṛṣṇa.

TRANSLATION

Thus carrying and being carried by one another, and at the same time tending the cows, the boys followed Kṛṣṇa to a banyan tree known as Bhāṇḍīraka.

PURPORT

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī quotes the following verses from Śrī Harivaṁśa (Viṣṇu-parva 11.18-22), which describe the banyan tree:

dadarśa vipulodagraśākhinām śākhinām varam sthitam dharanyām meghābham nibidam dala-saṅcayaiḥ

*gaganārdhocchritākāram parvatābhoga-dhāriṇam nīla-citrāṅga-varṇaiś ca
sevitam bahubhiḥ khagaiḥ*

*phalaiḥ pravālaiś ca ghanaiḥ sendracāpa-ghanopamam bhavanākāra-viṭapam
latā-putra-sumaṇḍitam*

*viśāla-mūlāvanatam pāvanāmbhoda-dhāriṇam ādhipatyam ivānyeṣām
tasya deśasya śākhinām*

*kurvāṇam śubha-karmāṇam nirāvarṣam anātapam nyagrodham parvatāgrābham
bhāṇḍīram nāma nāmataḥ*

"They saw that best of all trees, which had many long branches. With its dense covering of leaves, it resembled a cloud sitting on the earth. Indeed, its form was so large that it appeared like a mountain covering half the sky. Many birds with charming blue wings frequented that great tree, whose dense fruits and leaves made it seem like a cloud accompanied by a rainbow or like a house decorated with creepers and flowers. It spread its broad roots downward and carried upon itself the sanctified clouds. That banyan tree was like the lordly master of all other trees in that vicinity, as it performed the all-auspicious functions of warding off the rain and the heat of the sun. Such was the appearance of that nyagrodha tree known as Bhāṇḍīra, which seemed just like the peak of a great mountain."

TEXT 23

रामसङ्घट्टिनो यर्हि
श्रीदामवृषभादयः
क्रीडायां जयिनस्तांस्तान्
ऊहुः कृष्णादयो नृप

rāma-saṅghaṭṭino yarhi śrīdāma-vṛṣabhādayaḥ krīḍāyām jayinas tāms tān ūhuḥ kṛṣṇādayo nṛpa

SYNONYMS

rāma-saṅghaṭṭinaḥ—the members of Lord Balarāma's party; yarhi—when; śrīdāma-vṛṣabha-ādayaḥ—Śrīdāmā, Vṛṣabha and others (such as Subala); krīḍāyām—in the games; jayinaḥ—victorious; tān tān—each of them; ūhuḥ—carried; kṛṣṇa-ādayaḥ—Kṛṣṇa and the members of His party; nṛpa—O King.

TRANSLATION

My dear King Parīkṣit, when Śrīdāmā, Vṛṣabha and the other members of Lord Balarāma's party were victorious in these games, Kṛṣṇa and His followers had to carry them.

TEXT 24

उवाह कृष्णो भगवान्
श्रीदामानं पराजितः
वृषभं भद्रसेनस्तु प्रलम्बो रोहिणीसुतम्

*uvāha kṛṣṇo bhagavān śrīdāmānaṁ parājitaḥ vṛṣabhaṁ bhadrasenas tu
pralamba rohiṇī-sutam*

SYNONYMS

uvāha—carried; kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; śrīdāmānam—His devotee and friend Śrīdāmā; parājitaḥ—being defeated; vṛṣabham—Vṛṣabha; bhadrasenaḥ—Bhadrasena; tu—and; pralambaḥ—Pralamba; rohiṇī-sutam—the son of Rohiṇī (Balarāma) .

TRANSLATION

Defeated, the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa carried Śrīdāmā. Bhadrasena carried Vṛṣabha, and Pralamba carried Balarāma, the son of Rohiṇī.

PURPORT

One may ask how Bhagavān, the Supreme Lord, can be defeated by His boyfriends. The answer is that in His original form, God has a most playful nature and occasionally enjoys submitting to the strength or desire of His loving friends. A father may sometimes playfully fall down on the ground when struck by his beloved little child. These acts of love give pleasure to all parties. Thus Śrīdāmā agreed to ride on Lord Kṛṣṇa's shoulders to please his beloved friend, who happened to be Bhagavān, the Supreme Personality of Godhead.

TEXT 25

अविषह्यं मन्यमानः
कृष्णं दानवपुङ्गवः
वहन्द्रुततरं प्रागाद् अवरोहणतः परम्

*aviṣahyaṁ manyamānaḥ
kṛṣṇaṁ dānava-puṅgavaḥ vahan drutataraṁ prāgād avarohaṇataḥ param*

SYNONYMS

aviṣahyam—invincible; manyamānaḥ—considering; kṛṣṇam—Lord Kṛṣṇa; dānava-puṅgavaḥ—that foremost demon; vahan—carrying; druta-taram—very quickly; prāgāt—he went off; avarohaṇataḥ param—beyond the place marked for climbing down.

TRANSLATION

Considering Lord Kṛṣṇa invincible, that foremost demon [Pralamba] quickly carried Balarāma far beyond the spot where he was supposed to put his passenger down.

PURPORT

Pralamba wanted to carry Balarāma out of Lord Kṛṣṇa's sight so that he could cruelly attack Him.

TEXT 26

तमुद्वहन्धरणिधरेन्द्रगौरवं
महासुरो विगतरयो निजं वपुः
स आस्थितः पुरटपरिच्छदो बभौ तडिद्द्युमानुडुपतिवाडिवाम्बुदः tam udvahan dharaṇi-dharendra-gauravam mahāsuro vigata-rayo nijam vapuḥ sa āsthitaḥ puraṭa-paricchado babhau taḍid-dyumān uḍupati-vāḍ ivāmbudaḥ

SYNONYMS

tam—Him, Lord Baladeva; udvahan—carrying high; dharaṇi-dhara-indra—like the king of the mountains, Sumeru; gauravam—whose weight; mahā-asuraḥ—the great demon; vigata-rayah—losing his momentum; nijam—his original; vapuḥ—body; saḥ—he; āsthitaḥ—becoming situated in; puraṭa—golden; paricchadaḥ—having ornaments; babhau—he shone; taḍit—like lightning; dyu-mān—flashing; uḍu-pati—the moon; vāḍ—carrying; iva—just as; ambu-daḥ—a cloud.

TRANSLATION

As the great demon carried Balarāma, the Lord became as heavy as massive Mount Sumeru, and Pralamba had to slow down. He then resumed his actual form—an effulgent body that was covered with golden ornaments and that resembled a cloud flashing with lightning and carrying the moon.

PURPORT

Here the demon Pralamba is compared to a cloud, his golden ornaments to lightning within that cloud, and Lord Balarāma to the moon shining through it. Great demons can assume various forms by exerting their mystic power, but when the Lord's spiritual potency curtails their power, they can no longer maintain an artificial form and must again manifest their actual, demoniac body. Lord Balarāma suddenly became as heavy as a great mountain, and although the demon tried to carry Him high on his shoulders, he could not go on.

TEXT 27

निरीक्ष्य तद्वपुरलमम्बरे चरत्
प्रदीप्तदृग्भ्रुकुटितटोग्रदंष्ट्रकम्
ज्वलच्छिखं कटककिरीटकुण्डल-त्विषाद्भुतं हलधर ईषदत्रसत्

nirīkṣya tad-vapur alam ambare carat pradīpta-dṛg bhru-kuṭi-taṭogra-daṁṣṭrakam jvalac-chikhaṁ kaṭaka-kirīṭa-kuṇḍala-tviṣādbhutaṁ haladhara īṣad atrasat

SYNONYMS

nirīkṣya—seeing; tat—of Pralambāsura; vapuḥ—the body; alam—quickly; ambare—in the sky; carat—moving; pradīpta—blazing; dṛk—his eyes; bhru-kuṭi—of his frown upon his eyebrows; taṭa—on the edge; ugra—terrible; daṁṣṭrakam—his teeth; jvalat—fiery; śikham—hair; kaṭaka—of his armlets; kirīṭa—crown; kuṇḍala—and earrings; tviṣā—by the effulgence; adbhutam—astonishing; hala-dharaḥ—Lord Balarāma, the carrier of the plow weapon; iṣat—a little; atrasat—became frightened.

TRANSLATION

When Lord Balarāma, who carries the plow weapon, saw the gigantic body of the demon as he moved swiftly in the sky—with his blazing eyes, fiery hair, terrible teeth reaching toward his scowling brows, and an amazing effulgence generated by his armlets, crown and earrings—the Lord seemed to become a little frightened.

PURPORT

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains Lord Baladeva's so-called fear as follows: Balarāma was playfully acting out the role of an ordinary cowherd boy, and to maintain the mood of this pastime He appeared slightly disturbed by the horrible demoniac body. Also because the demon had appeared as a cowherd boyfriend of Kṛṣṇa's and because Kṛṣṇa had accepted him as a friend, Baladeva was slightly apprehensive about killing him. Balarāma could also have been worried that since this cowherd boy was actually a demon in disguise, at that very moment another such demon might have been attacking Lord Kṛṣṇa Himself. Thus the omniscient and omnipotent Supreme Lord Balarāma exhibited the pastime of becoming slightly nervous in the presence of the horrible demon Pralamba.

TEXT 28

अथागतस्मृतिरभयो रिपुं बलो
विहाय सार्थमिव हरन्तमात्मनः
रुषाहनच्छिरसि दृढेन मुष्टिना
सुराधिपो गिरिमिव वज्ररंहसा

athāgata-smṛtir abhayo ripuṁ balo vihāya sārtham iva harantam ātmanaḥ ruṣāhanac chirasi dṛḍhena muṣṭinā surādhipo girim iva vajra-ramhasā

SYNONYMS

atha—then; āgata-smṛtiḥ—remembering Himself; abhayaḥ—without fear; ripum—His enemy; balah—Lord Balarāma; vihāya—leaving aside; sārtham—the company; iva—indeed; harantam—kidnapping; ātmanaḥ—Himself; ruṣā—angrily; ahanat—He struck; śirasi—upon the head; dṛḍhena—hard; muṣṭinā—with His fist; sura-adhipaḥ—the king of the demigods, Indra; girim—a mountain; iva—just as; vajra—of his thunderbolt weapon; ramhasā—with the swiftness.

TRANSLATION

Remembering the actual situation, the fearless Balarāma understood that the demon was trying to kidnap Him and take Him away from His companions. The Lord then became furious and struck the demon's head with His hard fist, just as Indra, the king of the demigods, strikes a mountain with his thunderbolt weapon.

PURPORT

Lord Balarāma's powerful fist came crashing down upon the demon's head, just as a huge lightning bolt comes crashing into a mountain, cracking its stone surface into pieces. The words vihāya sārtham iva may also be divided vihāyasā artham iva, meaning that the demon was flying in the sky on the cosmic path, vihāyas, with the purpose of carrying off Balarāma, who was his artham, or object of pursuit.

TEXT 29

स आहतः सपदि विशीर्णमस्तको
मुखाद्वमन् रुधिरमपस्मृतोऽसुरः महारवं व्यसुरपतत्समीरयन् गिरिर्यथा मघवत आयुधाहतः

sa āhataḥ sapadi viśīrṇa-mastako mukhād vaman rudhiram apasmṛto 'suraḥ mahā-ravaṁ vyasur apatat samīrayan girir yathā maghavata āyudhāhataḥ

SYNONYMS

saḥ—he, Pralambāsura; āhataḥ—struck; sapadi—at once; viśīrṇa—split; mastakaḥ—his head; mukhāt—from his mouth; vaman—vomiting; rudhiram—blood; apasmṛtaḥ—unconscious; asuraḥ—the demon; mahā-ravam—a great noise; vyasuḥ—lifeless; apatat—he fell; samīrayan—sounding; giriḥ—a mountain; yathā—as; maghavataḥ—of Lord Indra; āyudha—by the weapon; āhataḥ—hit.

TRANSLATION

Thus smashed by Balarāma's fist, Pralamba's head immediately cracked open. The demon vomited blood from his mouth and lost all consciousness, and then with a great noise he fell lifeless on the ground, like a mountain devastated by Indra.

TEXT 30

दृष्ट्वा प्रलम्बं निहतं
बलेन बलशालिना
गोपाः सुविस्मिता आसन्
साधु साध्विति वादिनः

*dṛṣṭvā pralambam nihatam
balena bala-śālinā
gopāḥ su-vismitā āsan
sādhū sādhv iti vādināḥ*

SYNONYMS

dṛṣṭvā—seeing; pralambam—Pralambāśura; nihatam—killed; balena—by Lord Balarāma; bala-śālinā—who is by nature very powerful; gopāḥ—the cowherd boys; su-vismitāḥ—most astonished; āsan—became; sādhū sādhū—"very wonderful, very wonderful"; iti—these words; vādināḥ—speaking.

TRANSLATION

The cowherd boys were most astonished to see how the powerful Balarāma had killed the demon Pralamba, and they exclaimed, "Excellent! Excellent!"

TEXT 31

आशिषोऽभिगृणन्तस्तं
प्रशंसुस्तदर्हणम्
प्रेत्यागतमिवालिङ्ग्य प्रेमविह्वलचेतसः

*āśiṣo 'bhigṛṇantas taṁ praśaśamsus tad-arhaṇam pretyāgatam ivāliṅgya
prema-vihvala-cetasah*

SYNONYMS

āśiṣah—benedictions; abhigṛṇantah—offering profusely; taṁ—to Him; praśaśamsuḥ—they praised; tad-arhaṇam—Him who was worthy of such; pretya—having died; āgatam—come back; iva—as if; āliṅgya—embracing; prema—out of love; vihvala—overwhelmed; cetasah—their minds.

TRANSLATION

They offered Balarāma profuse benedictions and then glorified Him, who deserves all glorification. Their minds overwhelmed with ecstatic love, they embraced Him as if He had come back from the dead.

TEXT 32

पापे प्रलम्बे निहते
देवाः परमनिर्वृताः

अभ्यवर्षन् बलं माल्यैः शशंसुः साधु साध्विति

*pāpe pralambe nihate
devāḥ parama-nirvṛtāḥ abhyavarṣan balam māl्यaiḥ śaśaṁsuḥ sādhu sādhv iti*

SYNONYMS

pāpe—the sinful; pralambe—Pralambāsura; nihate—being killed; devāḥ—the demigods; parama—extremely; nirvṛtāḥ—satisfied; abhyavarṣan—showered; balam—Lord Balarāma; māl्यaiḥ—with flower garlands; śaśaṁsuḥ—they offered prayers; sādhu sādhu iti—crying "excellent, excellent."

TRANSLATION

The sinful Pralamba having been killed, the demigods felt extremely happy, and they showered flower garlands upon Lord Balarāma and praised the excellence of His deed.

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Eighteenth Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "Lord Balarāma Slays the Demon Pralamba."

19. Swallowing the Forest Fire

This chapter describes how Lord Kṛṣṇa saved the cows and the cowherd boys from a great fire in the Muñjāraṇya forest.

One day the cowherd boys became absorbed in sporting and allowed the cows to wander into a dense forest. Suddenly a forest fire blazed up, and to escape its flames the cows took refuge in a grove of sharp canes. When the cowherd boys missed their animals, they went searching for them, following their hoofprints and the trail of blades of grass and other plants they had trampled or had broken with their teeth. Finally the boys found the cows and removed them from the cane forest, but by that time the forest fire had grown strong and was threatening both the boys and the cows. Thus the cowherd boys took shelter of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the master of all mystic power, who told them to close their eyes. They did so, and in a moment He had swallowed up the fierce forest fire and brought them all back to the Bhāṇḍīra tree mentioned in the last chapter. Seeing this wonderful display of mystic potency, the cowherd boys thought Kṛṣṇa must be a demigod, and they began to praise Him. Then they all returned home.

TEXT 1

श्रीशुक उवाच
क्रीडासक्तेषु गोपेषु
तद्गावो दूरचारिणीः
स्वैरं चरन्त्यो विविशुस् तृणलोभेन गह्वरम्

śrī-śuka uvāca
kṛīḍāsakteṣu gopeṣu
tad-gāvo dūra-cāriṇiḥ
svairam carantyo viviśus

tṛṇa-lobhena gahvaram

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; krīḍā—in their playing; āsakteṣu—while they were completely absorbed; gopeṣu—the cowherd boys; tat-gāvaḥ—their cows; dūra-cāriṇīḥ—wandering far away; svairam—independently; carantyaḥ—grazing; viviśuḥ—they entered; tṛṇa—for grass; lobhena—out of greed; gahvaram—a dense forest.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: While the cowherd boys were completely absorbed in playing, their cows wandered far away. They hungered for more grass, and with no one to watch them they entered a dense forest.

TEXT 2

अजा गावो महिष्यश्च
निर्विशन्त्यो वनाद्वनम्
ईषीकाटवीं निर्विविशुः क्रन्दन्त्यो दावतर्षिताः

ajā gāvo mahiṣyaś ca
nirviśantyo vanād vanam īṣikāṭavīm nirviviśuḥ krandantyo dāva-tarṣitāḥ

SYNONYMS

ajāḥ—the goats; gāvaḥ—the cows; mahiṣyaḥ—the buffalo; ca—and;

nirviśantyaḥ—entering; vanāt—from one forest; vanam—to another forest; iṣikā-aṭavīm—a forest of canes; nirviviśuḥ—they entered; krandantyaḥ—crying out; dāva—because of a forest fire; tarṣitāḥ—thirsty .

TRANSLATION

Passing from one part of the great forest to another, the goats, cows and buffalo eventually entered an area overgrown with sharp canes. The heat of a nearby forest fire made them thirsty, and they cried out in distress.

TEXT 3

तेऽपश्यन्तः पशून् गोपाः
कृष्णरामादयस्तदा
जातानुतापा न विदुर् विचिन्वन्तो गवां गतिम्

te 'paśyantaḥ paśūn gopāḥ
kṛṣṇa-rāmādayas tadā jātānutāpā na vidur
vicinvanto gavām gatim

SYNONYMS

te—they; apaśyantaḥ—not seeing; paśūn—the animals; gopāḥ—the cowherd boys; kṛṣṇa-rāma-ādayaḥ—led by Kṛṣṇa and Rāma; tadā—then; jāta-anutāpāḥ—feeling remorse; na viduḥ—they did not know; vicinvantaḥ—searching out; gavām—of the cows; gatim—the path.

TRANSLATION

Not seeing the cows before them, Kṛṣṇa, Rāma and Their cowherd friends suddenly felt repentant for having neglected them. The boys searched all around, but could not discover where they had gone.

TEXT 4

तृणैस्तत्खुरदच्छिन्नैर्
गोष्पदैरङ्कितैर्गवाम्
मार्गमन्वगमन् सर्वे नष्टाजीव्या विचेतसः

tṛṇais tat-khura-dac-chinnair goṣ-ṭadair aṅkitair gavām mārgam anvagaman sarve naṣṭājīvyā vicetasah

SYNONYMS

tṛṇaiḥ—by the blades of grass; tat—of those cows; khura—by the hooves; dat—and the teeth; chinnaiḥ—which were broken; goṣ-ṭadaiḥ—with the hoofprints; aṅkitaiḥ—(by places in the ground) which were marked; gavām—of the cows; mārgam—the path; anvagaman—they followed; sarve—all of them; naṣṭa-ājīvyāḥ—having lost their livelihood; vicetasah—in anxiety.

TRANSLATION

Then the boys began tracing out the cows' path by noting their hoofprints and the blades of grass the cows had broken with their hooves and teeth. All the cowherd boys were in great anxiety because they had lost their source of livelihood.

TEXT 5

मुञ्जाटव्यां भ्रष्टमार्गं
क्रन्दमानं स्वगोधनम्
सम्प्राप्य तृषिताः श्रान्ताः ततस्ते सन्न्यवर्तयन्

muñjāṭavyām bhraṣṭa-mārgam krandamānam sva-godhanam samprāpya tṛṣitāḥ śrāntāḥ tatas te sannyavartayan

SYNONYMS

muñjā-ṭavyām—in the Muñjā forest; bhraṣṭa-mārgam—who had lost their way; krandamānam—crying; sva—their own; go-dhanam—cows (and other animals); samprāpya—finding; tṛṣitāḥ—who were thirsty; śrāntāḥ—and tired; tataḥ—then; te—they, the cowherd boys; sannyavartayan—turned them all back.

TRANSLATION

Within the Muñjā forest the cowherd boys finally found their valuable cows, who had lost their way and were crying. Then the boys, thirsty and tired, herded the cows onto the path back home.

TEXT 6

ता आहूता भगवता
मेघगम्भीरया गिरा
स्वनाम्नां निनदं श्रुत्वा प्रतिनेदुः प्रहर्षिताः

*tā āhūtā bhagavatā
megha-gambhīrayā girā sva-nāmnām ninadam śrutvā pratineduḥ praharṣitāḥ*

SYNONYMS

tāḥ—they; āhūtāḥ—called; bhagavatā—by the Supreme Personality of Godhead; megha-gambhīrayā—as deep as a cloud; girā—with His voice; sva-nāmnām—of their own names; ninadam—the sound; śrutvā—hearing; pratineduḥ—they replied; praharṣitāḥ—greatly enlivened.

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Personality of Godhead called out to the animals in a voice that resounded like a rumbling cloud. Hearing the sound of their own names, the cows were overjoyed and called out to the Lord in reply.

TEXT 7

ततः समन्ताद्बधूमकेतुर्
यदृच्छयाभूत्क्षयकृद्वनौकसाम्
समीरितः सारथिनोल्बणोल्मुकैर्

विलेलिहानः स्थिरजङ्गमान्महान्

tataḥ samantād dava-dhūmaketur yadṛcchayābhūt kṣaya-kṛd vanaukasām samīritaḥ sārathinolbaṇolmukair vilelihānaḥ sthira-jaṅgamān mahān

SYNONYMS

tataḥ—then; samantāt—on all sides; dava-dhūmaketuḥ—a terrible forest fire; yadṛcchayā—suddenly; abhūt—appeared; kṣaya-kṛt—threatening destruction; vana-okasām—for all those present in the forest; samīritaḥ—driven; sārathinā—by its chariot driver, the wind; ulbaṇa—terrible; ulmukaiḥ—with meteorlike sparks; vilelihānaḥ—licking; sthira-jaṅgamān—all moving and nonmoving creatures; mahān—very great.

TRANSLATION

Suddenly a great forest fire appeared on all sides, threatening to destroy all the forest creatures. Like a chariot driver, the wind swept the fire onward, and terrible sparks shot in all directions. Indeed, the great fire extended its tongues of flame toward all moving and nonmoving creatures.

PURPORT

Just as Kṛṣṇa, Balarāma and the cowherd boys were about to take their cows back home, the forest fire previously mentioned raged out of control and surrounded all of them.

TEXT 8

तमापतन्तं परितो दवाग्निं
गोपाश्च गावः प्रसमीक्ष्य भीताः
ऊचुश्च कृष्णं सबलं प्रपन्ना
यथा हरिं मृत्युभयार्दिता जनाः

tam āpatantam parito davāgnim gopāś ca gāvaḥ prasamīkṣya bhītāḥ ūcuś ca kṛṣṇam sa-balam prapannā yathā harim mṛtyu-bhayārditā janāḥ

SYNONYMS

tam—that; āpatantam—setting upon them; paritaḥ—on all sides; dava-agnim—the forest fire; gopāḥ—the cowherd boys; ca—and; gāvaḥ—the cows; prasamīkṣya—intensely watching; bhītāḥ—afraid; ūcuḥ—they addressed; ca—and; kṛṣṇam—Lord Kṛṣṇa; sa-balam—and Lord Balarāma; prapannāḥ—taking shelter; yathā—as; harim—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; mṛtyu—of death; bhaya—by fear; arditāḥ—troubled; janāḥ—persons.

TRANSLATION

As the cows and cowherd boys stared at the forest fire attacking them on all sides, they became fearful. The boys then approached Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma for shelter, just as those who are disturbed by fear of death approach the Supreme Personality of Godhead. The boys addressed Them as follows.

TEXT 9

कृष्ण कृष्ण महावीर

हे रामामोघ विक्रम
दावाग्निना दह्यमानान्
प्रपन्नांस्त्रातुमर्हथः

*kṛṣṇa kṛṣṇa mahā-vīra
he rāmāmogha vikrama dāvāgninā dahyamānān prapannāṁs trātum arhathaḥ*

SYNONYMS

kṛṣṇa kṛṣṇa—O Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa; mahā-vīra—O most powerful one; he rāma—O Rāma; amogha-vikrama—You whose prowess is never thwarted; dāva-agninā—by the forest fire; dahyamānān—who are being burned; prapannān—who are surrendered; trātum arhathaḥ—please save.

TRANSLATION

[The cowherd boys said:] O Kṛṣṇa ! Kṛṣṇa! Most powerful one ! O Rāma!
You whose prowess never fails! Please save Your devotees, who are about to be burned by this forest fire and have come to take shelter of You!

TEXT 10

नूनं त्वद्वान्धवाः कृष्ण
न चार्हन्त्यवसादितुम् वयं हि सर्वधर्मज्ञ त्वन्नाथास्त्वत्परायणाः

nūnam tvad-bāndhavāḥ kṛṣṇa na cārhanṭy avasāditum vayaṁ hi sarva-dharma-jña tvam-nāthāś tvat-parāyaṇāḥ

SYNONYMS

nūnam—certainly; tvat—Your; bāndhavāḥ—friends; kṛṣṇa—our dear Śrī Kṛṣṇa; na—never; ca—and; arhanṭi—deserve; avasāditum—to suffer destruction; vayaṁ—we; hi—moreover; sarva-dharma-jña—O perfect knower of the nature of all beings; tvat-nāthāḥ—having You as our Lord; tvat-parāyaṇāḥ—devoted to You.

TRANSLATION

Kṛṣṇa! Certainly Your own friends shouldn't be destroyed. O knower of the nature of all things, we have accepted You as our Lord, and we are souls surrendered unto You!

TEXT 11

श्रीशुक उवाच
वचो निशम्य कृपणं
बन्धूनां भगवान् हरिः
निमीलयत मा भैष्ट लोचनानीत्यभाषत

*śrī-śuka uvāca
vaco niśamya kṛpaṇam
bandhūnām bhagavān hariḥ*

nimīlayata mā bhaiṣṭa locanānīty abhāṣata

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; vacaḥ—the words; niśamya—hearing; kṛpaṇam—pitiful; bandhūnām—of His friends; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; hariḥ—Hari; nimīlayata—just close; mā bhaiṣṭa—do not be afraid; locanāni—your eyes; iti—thus; abhāṣata—He spoke.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Hearing these pitiful words from His friends, the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa told them, "Just close your eyes and do not be afraid."

PURPORT

This verse clearly reveals the simple, sublime relationship between Kṛṣṇa and His pure devotees. The Absolute Truth, the supreme almighty Lord, is actually a young, blissful cowherd boy named Kṛṣṇa. God is youthful, and His mentality is playful. When He saw that His beloved friends were terrified of the forest fire, He simply told them to close their eyes and not be afraid. Then Lord Kṛṣṇa acted, as described in the next verse.

TEXT 12

तथेति मीलिताक्षेषु
भगवानग्निमुल्बणम्
पीत्वा मुखेन तान् कृच्छ्राद्

योगाधीशो व्यमोचयत्

*tatheti militākṣeṣu
bhagavān agnim ulbaṇam pītvā mukhena tān kṛcchrāt yogādhīśo vyamocayat*

SYNONYMS

tathā—all right; iti—thus speaking; mīlita—closing; akṣeṣu—their eyes; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; agnim—the fire; ulbaṇam—terrible; pītvā—drinking; mukhena—with His mouth; tān—them; kṛcchrāt—from the danger; yoga-adhīśaḥ—the supreme controller of all mystic power; vyamocayat—delivered .

TRANSLATION

"All right," the boys replied, and immediately closed their eyes. Then the Supreme Lord, the master of all mystic power, opened His mouth and swallowed the terrible fire, saving His friends from danger.

PURPORT

The cowherd boys were suffering from extreme fatigue, hunger and thirst, and were about to be consumed by a horrible forest fire. All this is indicated here by the word kṛcchrāt.

TEXT 13

ततश्च तेऽक्षीण्युन्मील्य
पुनर्भाण्डीरमापिताः

निशम्य विस्मिता आसन्न
आत्मानं गाश्च मोचिताः

*tataś ca te 'kṣīṇy unmīlya punar bhāṇḍīram āpitāḥ niśamya vismitā āsann
ātmānaṁ gāś ca mocitāḥ*

SYNONYMS

tataḥ—then; ca—and; te—they; akṣīṇi—their eyes; unmīlya—opening; punaḥ—again; bhāṇḍīram—to Bhāṇḍīra; āpitāḥ—brought; niśamya—seeing; vismitāḥ—amazed; āsan—they became; ātmānam—themselves; gāḥ—the cows; ca—and; mocitāḥ—saved.

TRANSLATION

The cowherd boys opened their eyes and were amazed to find not only that they and the cows had been saved from the terrible fire but that they had all been brought back to the Bhāṇḍīra tree.

TEXT 14

कृष्णस्य योगवीर्यं तद्
योगमायानुभावितम्
दावाग्नेरात्मनः क्षेमं वीक्ष्य ते मेनिरेऽमरम्

*kṛṣṇasya yoga-vīryaṁ tad
yoga-māyānubhāvitam*

dāvāgner ātmanaḥ kṣemaṁ vīkṣya te menire 'maram

SYNONYMS

kṛṣṇasya—of Lord Kṛṣṇa; yoga-vīryam—the mystic power; tat—that; yoga-māyā—by His internal power of illusion; anubhāvitam—effected; dāva-agneḥ—from the forest fire; ātmanaḥ—of themselves; kṣemaṁ—the deliverance; vīkṣya—seeing; te—they; menire—thought; amaram—a demigod.

TRANSLATION

When the cowherd boys saw that they had been saved from the forest fire by the Lord's mystic power, which is manifested by His internal potency, they began to think that Kṛṣṇa must be a demigod.

PURPORT

The cowherd boys of Vṛndāvana simply loved Kṛṣṇa as their only friend and exclusive object of devotion. To increase their ecstasy, Kṛṣṇa displayed to them His mystic potency and saved them from a terrible forest fire.

The cowherd boys could never give up their ecstatic loving friendship with Kṛṣṇa. Therefore, rather than considering Kṛṣṇa to be God, after they saw His extraordinary power they thought that perhaps He was a demigod. But since Lord Kṛṣṇa was their beloved friend, they were on the same level with Him, and thus they thought that they too must be demigods. In this way Kṛṣṇa's cowherd friends became overwhelmed with ecstasy.

TEXT 15

गाः सन्निवर्त्य सायाह्ने

सहरामो जनार्दनः
वेणुं विरणयन् गोष्ठम् अगाद्रोपैरभिष्टुतः

*gāḥ sannivartya sāyāhne
saha-rāmaḥ janārdanaḥ veṇum virañayan goṣṭham
agād gopair abhiṣṭutaḥ*

SYNONYMS

gāḥ—the cows; sannivartya—turning back; sāya-ahne—in the late afternoon; saha-rāmaḥ—together with Lord Balarāma; janārdanaḥ—Śrī Kṛṣṇa; veṇum—His flute; virañayan—playing in a specific way; goṣṭham—to the cowherd village; agāt—He went; gopaiḥ—by the cowherd boys; abhiṣṭutaḥ—being praised.

TRANSLATION

It was now late in the afternoon, and Lord Kṛṣṇa, accompanied by Balarāma, turned the cows back toward home. Playing His flute in a special way, Kṛṣṇa returned to the cowherd village in the company of His cowherd friends, who chanted His glories.

TEXT 16

गोपीनां परमानन्द
आसीद्गोविन्ददर्शने
क्षणं युगशतमिव

यासां येन विनाभवत्

*gopīnām paramānanda
āśīd govinda-darśane kṣaṇam yuga-śatam iva
yāsām yena vinābhavat*

SYNONYMS

gopīnām—for the young cowherd girls; parama-ānandaḥ—the greatest happiness; āśīt—arose; govinda-darśane—in seeing Govinda; kṣaṇam—a moment; yuga-śatam—a hundred millenniums; iva—just as; yāsām—for whom; yena—whom (Kṛṣṇa); vinā—without; abhavat—became.

TRANSLATION

The young gopīs took the greatest pleasure in seeing Govinda come home, since for them even a moment without His association seemed like a hundred ages.

PURPORT

After saving the cowherd boys from the blazing forest fire, Kṛṣṇa saved the cowherd girls from the blazing fire of separation from Him. The gopīs, headed by Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, have the greatest love for Kṛṣṇa, and even a single moment's separation from Him seems like millions of years to them. The gopīs are the greatest devotees of God, and their specific pastimes with Kṛṣṇa will be described later in this work.

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Nineteenth Chapter of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "Swallowing the Forest Fire."

20. The Rainy Season and Autumn in Vṛndāvana

To enhance the description of Lord Kṛṣṇa's pastimes, Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī describes in this chapter the beauty of Vṛndāvana during autumn and the rainy season. In the course of his presentation he gives various charming instructions in metaphorical terms.

TEXT 1

श्रीशुक उवाच
तयोस्तदद्भुतं कर्म
दावाग्नेर्मोक्षमात्मनः
गोपाः स्त्रीभ्यः समाचख्युः प्रलम्बवधमेव च

śrī-śuka uvāca
tayos tad adbhutaṁ karma dāvāgner mokṣam ātmanaḥ gopāḥ strībhyaḥ samācakhyuḥ pralamba-vadham eva ca

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; tayoḥ—of the two of Them, Lord Kṛṣṇa and Lord Balarāma; tat—that; adbhutam—amazing; karma—action;

dāva-agneḥ—from the forest fire; mokṣam—the deliverance; ātmanaḥ—of themselves; gopāḥ—the cowherd boys; strībhyaḥ—to the ladies; samācakhyuḥ—they described in detail; pralamba-vadham—the killing of Pralambāsura; eva—indeed; ca—also.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: To the ladies of Vṛndāvana, the cowherd boys then related in full detail Kṛṣṇa's and Balarāma's wonderful activities of delivering them from the forest fire and killing the demon Pralamba.

TEXT 2

गोपवृद्धाश्च गोप्यश्च
तदुपाकर्ण्य विस्मिताः
मेनिरे देवप्रवरौ कृष्णरामौ व्रजं गतौ

gopa-vṛddhāś ca gopyaś ca
tad upākarnya vismitāḥ menire deva-pravarau
kṛṣṇa-rāmau vrajaṁ gatau

SYNONYMS

gopa-vṛddhāḥ—the elder cowherd men; ca—and; gopyaḥ—the cowherd ladies; ca—also; tad—that; upākarnya—hearing; vismitāḥ—surprised; menire—they considered; deva-pravarau—two eminent demigods; kṛṣṇa-rāmau—the brothers Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma; vrajaṁ—to Vṛndāvana; gatau—come.

TRANSLATION

The elder cowherd men and ladies were amazed to hear this account, and they concluded that Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma must be exalted demigods who had appeared in Vṛndāvana.

TEXT 3

ततः प्रावर्तत प्रावृट्
सर्वसत्त्वसमुद्भवा
विद्योतमानपरिधिर् विस्फूर्जितनभस्तला

*tataḥ prāvartata prāvṛṭ
sarva-sattva-samudbhavā vidyotamāna-paridhir visphūrjita-nabhas-talā*

SYNONYMS

tataḥ—then; prāvartata—began; prāvṛṭ—the rainy season; sarva-sattva—of all living beings; samudbhavā—the source of generation; vidyotamāna—flashing with lightning; paridhiḥ—its horizon; visphūrjita—agitated (by thunder); nabhaḥ-talā—the sky.

TRANSLATION

Then the rainy season began, giving life and sustenance to all living beings. The sky began to rumble with thunder, and lightning flashed on the horizon.

TEXT 4

सान्द्रनीलाम्बुदैर्व्योम
सविद्युत्स्तनयित्नुभिः
अस्पष्टज्योतिराच्छन्नं
ब्रह्मेव सगुणं बभौ

sāndra-nīlāmbudair vyoma sa-vidyut-stanayitnubhiḥ aspaṣṭa-jyotir ācchannam brahmeva sa-guṇam babhau

SYNONYMS

sāndra—dense; nīla—blue; ambudaiḥ—by the clouds; vyoma—the sky; sa-vidyut—along with lightning; stanayitnubhiḥ—and thunder; aspaṣṭa—diffuse; jyotiḥ—its illumination; ācchannam—covered; brahma—the spirit soul; iva—as if; sa-guṇam—with the material qualities of nature; babhau—was manifest.

TRANSLATION

The sky was then covered by dense blue clouds accompanied by lightning and thunder. Thus the sky and its natural illumination were covered in the same way that the spirit soul is covered by the three modes of material nature.

PURPORT

Lightning is compared to the mode of goodness, thunder to the mode of passion, and clouds to the mode of ignorance. Thus the cloudy sky at the onset of the rainy season is analogous to the pure spirit soul when he becomes disturbed by the modes of nature, for at that time he is covered and his original brilliant nature is only dimly reflected through the haze of the material qualities.

TEXT 5

अष्टौ मासान्निपीतं यद्
भूम्याश्चोदमयं वसु
स्वगोभिर्मोक्तुमारेभे पर्जन्यः काल आगते

aṣṭau māsān nipītaṁ yad bhūmyāś coda-mayaṁ vasu sva-gobhir moktum ārebhe parjanyaḥ kāla āgate

SYNONYMS

aṣṭau—eight; māsān—during months; nipītaṁ—drunk; yat—which: bhūmyāḥ—of the earth; ca—and; uda-mayaṁ—consisting of water; vasu—the wealth; sva-gobhiḥ—by his own rays; moktum—to release; ārebhe—began; parjanyaḥ—the sun; kāle—the proper time; āgate—when it arrived.

TRANSLATION

With its rays, the sun had for eight months drunk up the earth's wealth in the form of water. Now that the proper time had arrived, the sun began releasing this accumulated wealth.

PURPORT

The ācāryas compare the sun's evaporating the earth's wealth of water to a king's collecting taxes. In Chapter Twenty, of Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrīla Prabhupāda explains this analogy as follows: "Clouds are accumulated water drawn from the land by the sunshine. Continually for eight months the sun evaporates all kinds of water from the surface of the globe, and this water is accumulated in the shape of clouds, which are distributed as water when there is need. Similarly, a government exacts various taxes from the citizens, such as income tax and sales tax, which the citizens are able to pay by their different material activities: agriculture, trade, industry and so on. This taxation is compared to the sun's drawing water from the earth. When there is again need of water on the surface of the globe, the same sunshine converts the water into clouds and distributes it all over the globe. Similarly, the taxes collected by the government must be distributed to the people again, as educational work, public work, sanitation work and so on. This is very essential for a good government. The government should not simply exact taxes for useless squandering; the tax collection should be utilized for the public welfare of the state."

TEXT 6

तडिद्वन्तो महामेघाश्
चण्डश्चसन वेपिताः
प्रीणनं जीवनं ह्यस्य मुमुचुः करुणा इव

*taḍidvanto mahā-meghāś
caṇḍa -śvasana -vepitāḥ prīṇanaṁ jīvanaṁ hy asya mumucuḥ karuṇā iva*

SYNONYMS

taḍit-vantaḥ—displaying lightning; mahā-meghāḥ—the great clouds; caṇḍa—fierce; śvasana—by the wind; vepitāḥ—shaken; prīṇanam—the gratification; jīvanam—their life (their water); hi—indeed; asya—of this world; mumucuḥ—they released; karuṇāḥ—merciful personalities; iva—just as.

TRANSLATION

Flashing with lightning, great clouds were shaken and swept about by fierce winds. Just like merciful persons, the clouds gave their lives for the pleasure of this world.

PURPORT

Just as great, compassionate personalities sometimes give their lives or wealth for the happiness of society, the rain clouds poured down their rain upon the parched earth. Although the clouds were thus dissipated, they freely provided rainfall for the happiness of the earth.

In Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrīla Prabhupāda comments as follows on this verse: "During the rainy season, there are strong winds blustering all over the country and carrying clouds from one place to another to distribute water. When water is urgently needed after the summer season, the clouds are just like a rich man who, in times of need, distributes his money even by exhausting his whole treasury. So the clouds exhaust themselves by distributing water all over the surface of the globe.

"Then Mahārāja Daśaratha, the father of Lord Rāmacandra, used to fight with his enemies, it was said that he approached them just like a farmer uprooting unnecessary plants and trees. And when there was need of giving charity, he used to distribute money exactly as the cloud distributes rain. The distribution of rain by clouds is so sumptuous that it is compared to the distribution of wealth by a great, munificent person. The clouds' downpour is so sufficient that the rains even fall on rocks and hills and on the oceans and seas, where there is no need for water. A cloud is like a charitable person who opens his treasury for distribution and does not discriminate whether the charity is needed or not. He gives in charity openhandedly."

Metaphorically speaking, the lightning in rain clouds is the light by which they see the distressed condition of the earth, and the blowing winds are their heavy breathing, such as that found in a distressed person. Distressed to see the condition of the earth, the clouds tremble in the wind like a compassionate person. Thus they pour down their rain.

TEXT 7

तपःकृशा देवमीढा
आसीद्वर्षीयसी मही
यथैव काम्यतपससु
तनुः सम्प्राप्य तत्फलम्

*tapah-kṛśā deva-mīdhā āsīd varṣīyasī mahī yathaiva kāmya-tapasas
tanuḥ samprāpya tat-phalam*

SYNONYMS

tapah-kṛśā—emaciated by the summer heat; deva-mīdhā—mercifully sprinkled by the god of rain; āsīt—became; varṣīyasī—fully nourished; mahī—the earth; yathā eva—just as; kāmya—based on sense gratification; tapasaḥ—of one whose austerities; tanuḥ—the body; samprāpya—after obtaining; tat—of those austere practices; phalam—the fruit.

TRANSLATION

The earth had been emaciated by the summer heat, but she became fully nourished again when moistened by the god of rain. Thus the earth was like a person whose body has been emaciated by austerities undergone for a material purpose, but who again becomes fully nourished when he achieves the fruit of those austerities.

PURPORT

In Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrīla Prabhupāda comments on this verse as follows: "Before the rainfall, the whole surface of the globe becomes almost depleted of all kinds of energies and appears very lean. After the rainfall, the whole surface of the earth becomes green with vegetation and appears very healthy and strong. Here, a comparison is made to the person undergoing austerities for fulfillment of a material desire. The flourishing condition of the earth after a rainy season is compared to the fulfillment of material desires. Sometimes, when a country is subjugated by an undesirable government, persons and parties undergo severe penances and austerities to get control of the government, and when they attain control they flourish by giving themselves generous salaries. This also is like the flourishing of the earth in the rainy season. Actually, one should undergo severe austerities and penances only to achieve spiritual happiness. In the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam it is recommended that tapasya, or austerities, should be accepted only for realizing the Supreme Lord. By accepting austerity in devotional service, one regains his spiritual life, and as soon as one regains his spiritual life, he enjoys unlimited spiritual bliss. But if someone undertakes austerities and penances for some material gain, then, as stated in the Bhagavad-gītā, the results are temporary and are desired only by persons of less intelligence. "

TEXT 8

निशामुखेषु खद्योतास्
तमसा भान्ति न ग्रहाः
यथा पापेन पाषण्डा न हि वेदाः कलौ युगे

*niśā-mukheṣu khadyotās tamasā bhānti na grahāḥ yathā pāpena pāṣaṇḍā
na hi vedāḥ kalau yuge*

SYNONYMS

niśā-mukheṣu—during the moments of evening twilight; khadyotāḥ—the glowworms; tamasā—because of the darkness; bhānti—shine; na—not; grahāḥ—the planets; yathā—as; pāpena—because of sinful activities; pāṣaṇḍāḥ—atheistic doctrines; na—and not; hi—certainly; vedāḥ—the Vedas; kalau yuge—in the age of Kali.

TRANSLATION

In the evening twilight during the rainy season, the darkness allowed the glowworms but not the stars to shine forth, just as in the age of Kali the predominance of sinful activities allows atheistic doctrines to overshadow the true knowledge of the Vedas.

PURPORT

Śrīla Prabhupāda comments as follows: "During the rainy season, in the evening there are many glowworms visible about the tops of trees, hither and thither, and they glitter just like lights. But the luminaries of the sky, the stars and the moon, are not visible. Similarly, in the age of Kali, persons who are atheists or miscreants become very prominently visible, whereas persons who are actually following the Vedic principles for spiritual emancipation are practically obscured. This age, Kali-yuga, is compared to the cloudy season of the living entities. In this age, real knowledge is covered by the influence of the material advancement of civilization. The cheap mental speculators, atheists and manufacturers of so-called religious principles become prominent like the glowworms, whereas persons strictly following the Vedic principles, or scriptural injunctions, become covered by the clouds of this age.

"People should learn to take advantage of the actual luminaries of the sky—the sun, moon and stars—instead of the glowworms' light. Actually, the glowworms cannot give any light in the darkness of night. As clouds sometimes clear, even in the rainy season, and the moon, stars and sun become visible, so even in this Kali-yuga there are sometimes advantages. The Vedic movement of Lord Caitanya—the distribution of the chanting of the Hare Kṛṣṇa mantra—is understood in this way. People seriously anxious to find real life should take advantage of this movement instead of looking toward the so-called light of mental speculators and atheists."

TEXT 9

श्रुत्वा पर्जन्यनिनदं
मण्डुकाः ससृजुर्गिरः
तूष्णीं शयानाः प्राग्यद्वद् ब्राह्मणा नियमात्यये

*śrutvā parjanya-ninadam
maṇḍukāḥ sasṛjur girāḥ tūṣṇīm śayānāḥ prāg yadvad brāhmaṇā niyamātyaye*

SYNONYMS

śrutvā—hearing; parjanya—of the rain clouds; ninadam—the resounding; maṇḍukāḥ—the frogs; saṣṛjuḥ—emitted; giraḥ—their sounds; tūṣṇīm—silently; śayānāḥ—lying; prāk—previously; yadvat—just as; brāhmaṇāḥ—brāhmaṇa students; niyama-atyaye—after finishing their morning duties.

TRANSLATION

The frogs, who had all along been lying silent, suddenly began croaking when they heard the rumbling of the rain clouds, in the same way that brāhmaṇa students, who perform their morning duties in silence begin reciting their lessons when called by their teacher.

PURPORT

Śrīla Prabhupāda comments, "After the first rainfall, when there is a thundering sound in the clouds, all the frogs begin to croak, like students suddenly engaged in reading their studies. Students are generally supposed to rise early in the morning. They do not usually arise of their own accord, however, but only when there is a bell sounded in the temple or in the cultural institution. By the order of the spiritual master they immediately rise, and after finishing their morning duties they sit down to study the Vedas or chant Vedic mantras. Similarly, everyone is sleeping in the darkness of Kali-yuga, but when there is a great ācārya, by his calling only everyone takes to the study of the Vedas to acquire actual knowledge."

TEXT 10

आसन्नोत्पथगामिन्यः

क्षुद्रनद्योऽनुशुष्यतीः
पुंसो यथास्वतन्त्रस्य देहद्रविण सम्पदः

āsann utpatha-gāminyaḥ kṣudra-nadyo 'anuśuṣyatīḥ puṁso yathāsvatantrasya deha-draviṇa -sampadaḥ

SYNONYMS

āsan—they became; utpatha-gāminyaḥ—strayed from their courses; kṣudra—insignificant; nadyaḥ—the rivers; anuśuṣyatīḥ—drying up; puṁsaḥ—of a person; yathā—as; asvatantrasya—who is not independent (that is, who is under the control of his senses); deha—the body; draviṇa—physical property; sampadaḥ—and riches.

TRANSLATION

With the advent of the rainy season, the insignificant streams, which had become dry, began to swell and then strayed from their proper courses, like the body, property and money of a man controlled by the urges of his senses.

PURPORT

Śrīla Prabhupāda comments, "During the rainy season, many small ponds, lakes and rivulets become filled with water; otherwise the rest of the year they remain dry. Similarly, materialistic persons are dry, but sometimes, when they are in a so-called opulent position, with a home or children or a little bank balance, they appear to be flourishing, but immediately afterwards they become dry again, like the small rivulets and ponds. The poet Vidyāpati said that in the society of friends, family, children, wife and so on, there is certainly some pleasure, but that pleasure is compared to a drop of water in the desert. Everyone is hankering after happiness, just as in the desert everyone is hankering after water. If in the desert there is a drop of water, the water is there, of course, but the benefit from that drop of water is very insignificant. In our materialistic way of life, we are hankering after an ocean of happiness, but in the form of society, friends and mundane love we are getting no more than a drop of water. Our satisfaction is never achieved, as the small rivulets, lakes and ponds are never filled with water in the dry season."

TEXT 11

हरिता हरिभिः शष्पैर्
इन्द्रगोपैश्च लोहिता
उच्छिलीन्द्रकृतच्छाया नृणां श्रीरिव भूरभूत

*haritā haribhiḥ śaṣpair indragopaiś ca lohitā ucchilīndhra-kṛta-cchāyā
nṛṇām śrīr iva bhūr abhūt*

SYNONYMS

haritāḥ—greenish; haribhiḥ—which is green; śaṣpaiḥ—because of the newly grown grass; indragopaiḥ—because of the indragopa insects; ca—and; lohitā—reddish; ucchilīndhra—by the mushrooms; kṛta—afforded; chāyā—shelter; nṛṇām—of men; śrīḥ—the opulence; iva—just as; bhūḥ—the earth; abhūt—became.

TRANSLATION

The newly grown grass made the earth emerald green, the indragopa insects added a reddish hue, and white mushrooms added further color and circles of shade. Thus the earth appeared like a person who has suddenly become rich.

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī comments that the word nṛṇām indicates men of the royal order. Thus the colorful display of dark green fields decorated with bright red insects and white mushroom umbrellas can be compared to a royal parade displaying the military strength of a king.

TEXT 12

क्षेत्राणि शस्यसम्पद्भिः
कर्षकाणां मुदं ददुः
मानिनामनुतापं वै दैवाधीनमजानताम्

kṣetrāṇi śaśya-sampadbhiḥ karṣakāṇām mudam daduḥ māninām anutāpaṁ vai daivādhīnam ajānatām

SYNONYMS

kṣetrāṇi—the fields; śaśya-sampadbhiḥ—with their wealth of grains; karṣakāṇām—to the farmers; mudam—joy; daduḥ—gave; māninām—to others who are falsely proud; anutāpaṁ—remorse; vai—indeed; daiva-adhīnam—the control of destiny; ajānatām—not understanding.

TRANSLATION

With their wealth of grains, the fields gave joy to the farmers. But those fields created remorse in the hearts of those who were too proud to engage in farming and who failed to understand how everything is under the control of the Supreme.

PURPORT

It is common for people living in large cities to become miserable and disgusted when there is ample rainfall. They do not understand or have forgotten that the rain is nourishing the crops they will eat. Although they certainly enjoy eating, they do not appreciate that with the rain the Supreme Lord is feeding not only human beings but also plants, animals and the earth itself.

Modern, sophisticated people often look down their noses at those engaged in agricultural work. In fact, in American slang, a simple, unintelligent person is sometimes called "a farmer." There are also government agencies that restrict agricultural production because certain capitalists fear the effect on market prices. Because of various artificial and manipulative practices in modern governments, we find widespread food shortages throughout the world—even in the United States, among the poverty-stricken—and at the same time we find the governments paying farmers not to plant crops. Sometimes these governments throw huge amounts of food into the ocean. Thus the administration of the arrogant and ignorant, those who are too proud to obey the laws of God or too ignorant to recognize them, will always cause frustration among the people, whereas a God conscious government will provide abundance and happiness for all.

TEXT 13

जलस्थलौकसः सर्वे
नववारिनिषेवया
अबिभ्रन् रुचिरं रूपं यथा हरिनिषेवया

*jala-sthalaukaṣaḥ sarve nava-vāri-niṣevayā
abibhṛan ruciraṁ rūpaṁ
yathā hari-niṣevayā*

SYNONYMS

jala—of the water; sthala—and the land; okaṣaḥ—the residents; sarve—all; nava—new; vāri—of the water; niṣevayā—by taking recourse; abibhṛan—they took on; ruciram—attractive; rūpaṁ—form; yathā—just as; hari-niṣevayā—by rendering devotional service to the Supreme Personality of Godhead.

TRANSLATION

As all creatures of the land and water took advantage of the newly fallen rainwater, their forms became attractive and pleasing, just as a devotee becomes beautiful by engaging in the service of the Supreme Lord.

PURPORT

Śrīla Prabhupāda comments as follows: "We have practical experience of this with our students in the International Society for Krishna Consciousness. Before becoming students, they were dirty-looking, although they had naturally beautiful personal features; but due to having no information of Kṛṣṇa consciousness they appeared very dirty and wretched. Since they have taken to Kṛṣṇa consciousness, their health has improved, and by following the rules and regulations they have increased their bodily luster. When they are dressed with saffron-colored cloth, with tilaka on their foreheads and beads in their hands and on their necks, they look exactly as if they have come directly from Vaikuṇṭha."

TEXT 14

सरिद्धिः सङ्गतः सिन्धुश्च
चुक्षोभ श्वसनोर्मिमान्
अपक्वयोगिनश्चित्तं कामाक्तं गुणयुग्यथा

saridbhiḥ saṅgataḥ sindhuś cukṣobha śvasanormimān apakva-yoginaś cittam kāmakṭam guṇa-yug yathā

SYNONYMS

saridbhiḥ—with the rivers; saṅgataḥ—on account of meeting; sindhuḥ—the ocean; cukṣobha—became agitated; śvasana—blown by the wind; ūrmi-mān—having waves; apakva—immature; yoginaḥ—of a yogī; cittam—the mind; kāma-aktam—tainted with lust; guṇa-yuk—maintaining connection with objects of sense gratification; yathā—just as.

TRANSLATION

Where the rivers joined the ocean it became agitated, its waves blown about by the wind, just as the mind of an immature yogī becomes agitated because he is still tainted by lust and attached to the objects of sense gratification.

TEXT 15

गिरयो वर्षधाराभिर्
हन्यमाना न विव्यथुः
अभिभूयमाना व्यसनैर् यथाधोक्षजचेतसः

girayo varṣa-dhārābhir hanyamānā na vivyathuḥ abhibhūyamānā vyaśanair yathādhokṣaja-cetasah

SYNONYMS

girayaḥ—the mountains; varṣa-dhārābhiḥ—by the rain-bearing clouds; hanyamānāḥ—being struck; na vivyathuḥ—did not shake; abhibhūyamānāḥ—being attacked; vyaśanaiḥ—by dangers; yathā—as; adhokṣaja-cetasah—those whose minds are absorbed in the Supreme Lord.

TRANSLATION

Just as devotees whose minds are absorbed in the Personality of Godhead remain peaceful even when attacked by all sorts of dangers, the mountains in the rainy season were not at all disturbed by the repeated striking of the rain-bearing clouds.

PURPORT

When splashed by torrents of rain, the mountains are not shaken; rather, they are cleansed of dirt and become resplendent and beautiful. Similarly, an advanced devotee of the Supreme Lord is not shaken from his devotional program by disturbing conditions, which instead cleanse his heart of the dust of attachment to this world. Thus the devotee becomes beautiful and resplendent by tolerating difficult conditions. In fact, a devotee accepts all reverses in life as the mercy of Lord Kṛṣṇa, realizing that all suffering is due to the sufferer's own previous misdeeds.

TEXT 16

मार्गा बभूवुः सन्दिग्धासु
तृणैश्छन्ना ह्यसंस्कृताः
नाभ्यस्यमानाः श्रुतयो द्विजैः कालेन चाहताः

mārgā babhūvuḥ sandigdhās tṛṇaiś channā hy asaṁskṛtāḥ nābhyasyamānāḥ śrutayo dvijaiḥ kālena cāhatāḥ

SYNONYMS

mārgāḥ—the roads; babhūvuḥ—became; sandigdhāḥ—obscured; tṛṇaiḥ—by grass; channāḥ—covered over; hi—indeed; asaṁskṛtāḥ—not cleansed; na abhyasyamānāḥ—not being studied; śrutayaḥ—the scriptures; dvijaiḥ—by the brāhmaṇas; kālena—by the effects of time; ca—and; āhatāḥ—corrupted.

TRANSLATION

During the rainy season the roads, not being cleansed, became covered with grass and debris and were thus difficult to make out. These roads were like religious scriptures that brāhmaëas no longer study and that thus become corrupted and covered over with the passage of time.

TEXT 17

लोकबन्धुषु मेघेषु
विद्युतश्चलसौहृदाः
स्थैर्यं न चक्रुः कामिन्यः पुरुषेषु गुणिष्विव

loka-bandhuṣu megheṣu vidyutaś cala-sauhṛdāḥ sthairyaṁ na cakruḥ kāmīnyāḥ puruṣeṣu guṇiṣv iva

SYNONYMS

loka—of all the world; bandhuṣu—who are the friends; megheṣu—among the clouds; vidyutaḥ—the lightning; cala-sauhṛdāḥ—fickle in their friendship; sthairyam—steadiness; na cakruḥ—did not maintain; kāmīnyāḥ—lusty women; puruṣeṣu—among men; guṇiṣu—who are virtuous; iva—as.

TRANSLATION

Though the clouds are the well-wishing friends of all living beings, the lightning, fickle in its affinities, moved from one group of clouds to another, like lusty women unfaithful even to virtuous men.

PURPORT

Śrīla Prabhupāda comments, "During the rainy season, lightning appears in one group of clouds and then immediately in another group of clouds. This phenomenon is compared to a lusty woman who does not fix her mind on one man. A cloud is compared to a qualified person because it pours rain and gives sustenance to many people; a man who is qualified similarly gives sustenance to many living creatures, such as family members or many workers in business. Unfortunately, his whole life can be disturbed by a wife who divorces him; when the husband is disturbed, the whole family is ruined, the children are dispersed or the business is closed, and everything is affected. It is therefore recommended that a woman desiring to advance in Kṛṣṇa consciousness peacefully live with a husband and that the couple not separate under any condition. The husband and wife should control sex indulgence and concentrate their minds on Kṛṣṇa consciousness so their life may be successful. After all, in the material world a man requires a woman, and a woman requires a man. When they are combined, they should live peacefully in Kṛṣṇa consciousness and should not be restless like the lightning flashing from one group of clouds to another."

TEXT 18

धनुर्वियति माहेन्द्रं
निर्गुणं च गुणिन्यभात्
व्यक्ते गुणव्यतिकरे ऽगुणवान् पुरुषो यथा

*dhanur viyati māhendram
nirguṇam ca guṇiny abhāt*

vyakte guṇa-vyatikare
'guṇavān puruṣo yathā

SYNONYMS

dhanuḥ—the bow (rainbow); viyati—within the sky; māhā-indram—of Lord Indra; nirguṇam—without qualities (or without a bowstring); ca—although; guṇini—within the sky, which has definite qualities like sound; abhāt—appeared; vyakte—within the manifest material nature; guṇa-vyatikare—which consists of the interactions of material qualities; aguṇa-vān—He who has no contact with material qualities; puruṣaḥ—the Supreme Personality; yathā—just as.

TRANSLATION

When the curved bow of Indra [the rainbow] appeared in the sky, which had the quality of thundering sound, it was unlike ordinary bows because it did not rest upon a string. Similarly, when the Supreme Lord appears in this world, which is the interaction of the material qualities, He is unlike ordinary persons because He remains free from all material qualities and independent of all material conditions.

PURPORT

Śrīla Prabhupāda comments as follows: "Sometimes, in addition to the roaring thunder of the clouds, there is an appearance of a rainbow, which stands as a bow without a string. Usually, a bow stays in the curved position because it is tied at its two ends by the bowstring; but in the rainbow there is no such string, and yet it rests in the sky so beautifully. Similarly, when the Supreme Personality of Godhead descends to this material world, He appears just like an ordinary human being, but He is not resting on any material condition. In the Bhagavad-gītā, the Lord says that He appears by His internal potency, which is free from the bondage of the external potency. What is bondage for the ordinary creature is freedom for the Personality of Godhead."

TEXT 19

न रराजोदुपश्छन्नः
स्वज्योत्स्नाराजितैर्घनैः
अहंमत्या भासितया स्वभासा पुरुषो यथा

*na rarājoḍupaś channaḥ sva-jyotsnā-rājitaḥ ghanaiḥ aham-matyā bhāsitayā
sva-bhāsā puruṣo yathā*

SYNONYMS

na rarāja—did not shine forth; uḍupaḥ—the moon; channaḥ—covered; sva-jyotsnā—by its own light; rājitaḥ—which are illuminated; ghanaiḥ—by the clouds; aham-matyā—by false ego; bhāsitayā—which is illuminated; sva-bhāsā—by his own luster; puruṣaḥ—the living entity; yathā—as.

TRANSLATION

During the rainy season the moon was prevented from appearing directly by the covering of the clouds, which were themselves illumined by the moon's rays. Similarly, the living being in material existence is prevented from appearing directly by the covering of the false ego, which is itself illumined by the consciousness of the pure soul.

PURPORT

The analogy given here is excellent. During the rainy season we cannot see the moon in the sky, because the moon is covered by clouds. These clouds, however, are radiant with the glow of the moon's own rays. Similarly, in our conditioned, material existence we cannot directly perceive the soul, because our consciousness is covered by the false ego, which is the false identification with the material world and the material body. Yet it is the soul's own consciousness that illumines the false ego.

As the Gītā describes, the energy of the soul is consciousness, and when this consciousness manifests through the screen of false ego, it appears as dull, material consciousness, in which there is no direct vision of the soul or God. In the material world, even great philosophers ultimately resort to hazy ambiguities when speaking about the Absolute Truth, just as the cloudy sky manifests only in a dull and indirect way the iridescent light of the moon.

In material life, our false ego is often enthusiastic, hopeful and apparently aware of various material affairs, and such consciousness encourages us to push on in material existence. But in truth we are merely experiencing the dull reflection of our original, pure consciousness, which is Kṛṣṇa consciousness—direct perception of the soul and God. Not realizing that the false ego merely hampers and dulls our real, spiritual consciousness, which is fully enlightened and blissful, we mistakenly think that material consciousness is full of knowledge and happiness. This is comparable to thinking that the luminous clouds are lighting up the night sky, while in fact it is the moonshine that illumines the sky, and the clouds that merely dull and hamper the moonshine. The clouds appear luminous because they are filtering and impeding the brilliant rays of the moon. Similarly, at times material consciousness appears pleasurable or enlightened because it is screening or filtering the original, blissful and enlightened consciousness coming directly from the soul. If we can understand the ingenious analogy given in this verse, we can easily advance in Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 20

मेघागमोत्सवा हृष्टाः
प्रत्यनन्दञ्छिखण्डिनः
गृहेषु तप्तनिर्विण्णा यथाच्युतजनागमे

meghāgamotsavā hr̥ṣṭāḥ pratyanandañ chikhaṇḍinaḥ gr̥heṣu tapta-nirviṇṇā yathācyuta-janāgame

SYNONYMS

megha—of clouds; āgama—because of the arrival; utsavāḥ—who celebrate a festival; hr̥ṣṭāḥ—becoming joyful; pratyanandan—they cried out in greeting; śikhaṇḍinaḥ—the peacocks; gr̥heṣu—within their homes; tapta—those who are distressed; nirviṇṇāḥ—and then become happy; yathā—just as; acyuta—of the infallible Personality of Godhead; jana—of the devotees; āgame—upon the arrival.

TRANSLATION

The peacocks became festive and cried out a joyful greeting when they saw the clouds arrive, just as people distressed in household life feel pleasure when the pure devotees of the infallible Supreme Lord visit them.

PURPORT

After the dry summer season, the peacocks become jubilant with the arrival of the first thundering rain clouds, and thus they dance in great happiness. Śrīla Prabhupāda comments, "We have practical experience that many of our students were dry and morose previous to their coming to Kṛṣṇa consciousness, but having come in contact with devotees they are now dancing like jubilant peacocks."

TEXT 21

पीत्वापः पादपाः पद्भिर्
आसन्नानात्ममूर्तयः
प्राक्क्षामास्तपसा श्रान्ता यथा कामानुसेवया

*pītvāpaḥ pādapāḥ padbhir āsan nānātmā-mūrtayaḥ prāk kṣāmās tapasā śrāntā
yathā kāmānusevayā*

SYNONYMS

pītvā—having drunk; āpaḥ—water; pāda-pāḥ—the trees; padbhiḥ—with their feet; āsan—assumed; nānā—various; ātma-mūrtayaḥ—bodily features; prāk—previously; kṣāmāḥ—emaciated; tapasā—by austerities; śrāntāḥ—fatigued; yathā—as; kāma-anusevayā—by enjoying acquired desired objects.

TRANSLATION

The trees had grown thin and dry, but after they drank the newly fallen rainwater through their feet, their various bodily features blossomed. Similarly, one whose body has grown thin and weak from austerity again exhibits his healthy bodily features upon enjoying the material objects gained through that austerity.

PURPORT

The word pāda means foot, and pā means drinking. Trees are called pādapa because they drink through their roots, which are likened to feet. Upon drinking the newly fallen rainwater, the trees in Vṛndāvana began to manifest new leaves, sprouts and blossoms, and they thus enjoyed new growth. Similarly, materialistic persons often perform severe austerities to acquire the object of their desire. For example, politicians in America undergo grueling austerities while traveling about the countryside campaigning for election. Businessmen also will often deny personal comfort to make their business successful. Such austere persons, upon acquiring the fruits of their austerity, again become healthy and satisfied, like trees eagerly drinking rainwater after enduring the austerity of a dry, hot summer.

TEXT 22

सरःस्वशान्तरोधःसु
न्यूषुरङ्गापि सारसाः
गृहेष्वशान्तकृत्येषु ग्राम्या इव दुराशयाः

saraḥsv aśānta-rodhaḥsu
nyūṣur aṅgāpi sārasāḥ grheṣv aśānta-kṛtyeṣu
grāmyā iva durāśayāḥ

SYNONYMS

saraḥsu—upon the lakes; aśānta—disturbed; rodhaḥsu—whose banks; nyūṣuḥ—continued to dwell; aṅga—my dear King; api—indeed; sārasāḥ—the cranes; gr̥heṣu—in their homes; aśānta—feverish; kṛtyeṣu—where activities are performed; grāmyāḥ—materialistic men; iva—indeed; durāśayāḥ—whose minds are contaminated.

TRANSLATION

The cranes continued dwelling on the shores of the lakes, although the shores were agitated during the rainy season, just as materialistic persons with contaminated minds always remain at home, despite the many disturbances there.

PURPORT

During the rainy season there are often mud slides around the shores of lakes, and thorny hushes, stones and other debris sometimes accumulate there. Despite all these inconveniences, ducks and cranes continue meandering around the lakeshores. Similarly, innumerable painful occurrences are always disturbing family life, but a materialistic man never even considers leaving his family in the hands of his grown sons and going away for spiritual improvement. He regards such an idea as shocking and uncivilized, because he is completely ignorant of the Absolute Truth and his relationship to that Truth.

TEXT 23

जलौघैर्निरभिद्यन्त

सेतवो वर्षतीश्वरे
पाषण्डिनामसद्वादैर् वेदमार्गाः कलौ यथा

*jalaughair nirabhidhyanta setavo varṣatīśvare pāṣaṇḍinām asat-vādair
veda-mārgāḥ kalau yathā*

SYNONYMS

jala-oghaiḥ—by the floodwater; nirabhidhyanta—became broken; setavaḥ—the dikes; varṣati—when he is showering rain; īśvare—Lord Indra; pāṣaṇḍinām—of the atheists; asat-vādaiḥ—by the false theories; veda-mārgāḥ—the paths of the Vedas; kalau—in the Kali-yuga; yathā—as.

TRANSLATION

When Indra sent forth his rains, the floodwaters broke through the irrigation dikes in the agricultural fields, just as in the Kali-yuga the atheists' false theories break down the boundaries of Vedic injunctions.

TEXT 24

व्यमुञ्चन् वायुभिर्नुन्ना
भूतेभ्यश्चामृतं घनाः
यथाशिषो विस्पतयः काले काले द्विजेरिताः

*vyamuñcan vāyubhir nunnā bhūtebhyaś cāmṛtaṁ ghanāḥ yathāśiṣo viś-patayaḥ
kāle kāle dvijeritāḥ*

SYNONYMS

vyamuñcan—they released; vāyubhiḥ—by the winds; nunnāḥ—impelled; bhūtebhyaḥ—to all living beings; ca—and; amṛtaṁ—their nectarean water; ghanāḥ—the clouds; yathā—as; āśiṣaḥ—charitable benedictions; viś-patayaḥ—kings; kāle kāle—from time to time; dvija—by the brāhmaṇas; īritāḥ—encouraged.

TRANSLATION

The clouds, impelled by the winds, released their nectarean water for the benefit of all living beings, just as kings, instructed by their brāhmaëa priests, dispense charity to the citizens.

PURPORT

Śrīla Prabhupāda comments, "In the rainy season, the clouds, tossed by the wind, deliver water that is welcomed like nectar. When the Vedic followers, the brāhmaṇas, inspire rich men like kings and the wealthy mercantile community to give charity in the performance of great sacrifices, the distribution of such wealth is also nectarean. The four sections of human society, namely the brāhmaṇas, the kṣatriyas, the vaiśyas and the śūdras, are meant to live peacefully in a cooperative mood; this is possible when they are guided by expert Vedic brāhmaṇas who perform sacrifices and distribute wealth equally."

TEXT 25

एवं वनं तद्वर्षिष्ठं
पक्वखर्जुरजम्बुमत
गोगोपालैर्वृतो रन्तुं सबलः प्राविशद्भरिः

*evam vanam tad varṣiṣṭham pakva-kharjura-jambumat go-gopālair vṛto rantum
sa-balaḥ prāviśad dhariḥ*

SYNONYMS

evam—thus; vanam—forest; tad—that; varṣiṣṭham—most resplendent; pakva—ripe; kharjura—dates; jambu—and jambu fruits; mat—having; go—by the cows; gopālaiḥ—and the cowherd boys; vṛtaḥ—surrounded; rantum—with the purpose of playing; sa-balaḥ—accompanied by Lord Balarāma; prāviśat—He entered; hariḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa.

TRANSLATION

When the Vṛndāvana forest had thus become resplendent, filled with ripe dates and jambu fruits, Lord Kṛṣṇa, surrounded by His cows and cowherd boyfriends and accompanied by Śrī Balarāma, entered that forest to enjoy.

TEXT 26

धेनवो मन्दगामिन्य
ऊधोभारेण भूयसा
ययुर्भगवताहूता

द्रुतं प्रीत्या स्नुतस्तनाः

*dhenavo manda-gāminya ūdho-bhāreṇa bhūyasā yayur bhagavatāhūtā
drutaṁ prītyā snuta-stanāḥ*

SYNONYMS

dhenavaḥ—the cows; manda-gāminyaḥ—moving slowly; ūdhaḥ—of their udders; bhāreṇa—because of the weight; bhūyasā—very great; yayuḥ—they went; bhagavatā—by the Lord; āhūtāḥ—being called; drutam—quickly; prītyā—out of affection; snuta—wet; stanāḥ—their udders.

TRANSLATION

The cows had to move slowly because of their weighty milk bags, but they quickly ran to the Supreme Personality of Godhead as soon as He called them, their affection for Him causing their udders to become wet.

PURPORT

Śrīla Prabhupāda comments, "The cows, being fed by new grasses, became very healthy, and their milk bags were all very full. When Lord Kṛṣṇa called them by name, they immediately came to Him out of affection, and in their joyful condition the milk flowed from their bags."

TEXT 27

वनौकसः प्रमुदिता
वनराजीर्मधुच्युतः

जलधारा गिरेर्नादाद् आसन्ना ददृशे गुहाः *vanaukaṣaḥ pramuditā

vana-rājīr madhu-cyutaḥ jala-dhārā girer nādād
āsannā dadṛśe guhāḥ*

SYNONYMS

vana-okasaḥ—the aborigine girls of the forest; pramuditāḥ—joyful;
vana-rājīḥ—the trees of the forest; madhu-cyutaḥ—dripping sweet sap; jala-dhārāḥ—waterfalls; gireḥ—on the mountains; nādāt—from their resounding; āsannāḥ—nearby; dadṛśe—He observed; guhāḥ—caves.

TRANSLATION

The Lord saw the joyful aborigine girls of the forest, the trees dripping sweet sap, and the mountain waterfalls, whose resounding indicated that there were caves nearby.

TEXT 28

क्वचिद्वनस्पतिक्रोडे
गुहायां चाभिवर्षति
निर्विश्य भगवान् रेमे कन्दमूलफलाशनः

kvacid vanaspati-kroḍe guhāyām cābhivarṣati

*nirviśya bhagavān reme
kanda-mūla-phalāśanaḥ*

SYNONYMS

kvacit—sometimes; vanaspati—of a tree; kroḍe—in the hollow; guhāyām—in a cave; ca—or; abhivarṣati—when it was raining; nirviśya—entering; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; reme—enjoyed; kanda-mūla—roots; phala—and fruits; aśanaḥ—eating.

TRANSLATION

When it rained, the Lord would sometimes enter a cave or the hollow of a tree to play and to eat roots and fruits.

PURPORT

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that during the rainy season bulbs and roots are very tender and palatable, and Lord Kṛṣṇa would eat them along with wild fruits found in the forest. Lord Kṛṣṇa and His young boyfriends would sit in the hollow of a tree or within a cave and enjoy pastimes while waiting for the rain to stop.

TEXT 29

दध्योदनं समानीतं
शिलायां सलिलान्तिके
सम्भोजनीयैर्बुभुजे गोपैः सङ्कर्षणान्वितः

dadhy-odanam samānītaṁ

śilāyām salilāntike sambhojanīyair bubhuje gopaiḥ saṅkarṣaṇānvitaḥ

SYNONYMS

dadhi-odanam—boiled rice mixed with yogurt; samānītam—sent; śilāyām—on a stone; salila-antike—near the water; sambhojanīyaiḥ—who would take meals with Him; bubhuje—He ate; gopaiḥ—together with the cowherd boys; saṅkarṣaṇa-anvitaḥ—in the company of Lord Balarāma.

TRANSLATION

Lord Kṛṣṇa would take His meal of boiled rice and yogurt, sent from home, in the company of Lord Saṅkarṣaṇa and the cowherd boys who regularly ate with Him. They would all sit down to eat on a large stone near the water.

TEXTS 30-31

शाद्वलोपरि संविश्य
चर्वतो मीलितेक्षणान्
तृप्तान् वृषान् वत्सतरान्
गाश्च स्वोधोभरश्रमाः

प्रावृट्श्रियं च तां वीक्ष्य
सर्वकालसुखावहाम्
भगवान् पूजयां चक्रे आत्मशक्त्युपबृंहिताम्

*śādvalopari samviśya carvato mīltekṣaṇān
tṛptān vṛṣān vatsatarān
gāś ca svodho-bhara-śramāḥ prāvṛṭ-śriyaṁ ca tām vīkṣya sarva-kāla-sukhāvahām bhagavān pūjayām cakre
ātma-śakty-upabṛṁhitām*

SYNONYMS

śādvala—a grassy patch; upari—upon; samviśya—sitting; carvataḥ—who were grazing; mīlita—closed; īkṣaṇān—their eyes; tṛptān—satisfied; vṛṣān—the bulls; vatsatarān—the calves; gāḥ—the cows; ca—and; sva—their own; ūdhaḥ—of the milk bags; bhara—by the weight; śramāḥ—fatigued; prāvṛṭ—of the rainy season; śriyaṁ—the opulence; ca—and; tām—that; vīkṣya—seeing; sarva-kāla—always; sukha—pleasure; āvahām—giving; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; pūjayām cakre—honored; ātma-śakti—from His internal potency; upabṛṁhitām—expanded.

TRANSLATION

Lord Kṛṣṇa watched the contented bulls, calves and cows sitting on the green grass and grazing with closed eyes, and He saw that the cows were tired from the burden of their heavy milk bags. Thus observing the beauty and opulence of Vṛndāvana's rainy season, a perennial source of great happiness, the Lord offered all respect to that season, which was expanded from His own internal potency.

PURPORT

The lush beauty of the rainy season in Vṛndāvana is meant to enhance the pleasure pastimes of Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Thus, to set the scene for the Lord's loving affairs, His internal potency makes all the arrangements described in this chapter.

TEXT 32

एवं निवसतोस्तस्मिन्
रामकेशवयोर्व्रजे
शरत्समभवद्व्यभ्रा
स्वच्छाम्ब्वपरुषानिला

evam nivasatos tasmin rāma-keśavayor vraje śarat samabhavat vyabhrā svacchāmbv-aparuṣānilā

SYNONYMS

evam—in this manner; nivasatoḥ—while the two of Them were dwelling; tasmin—in that; rāma-keśavayoḥ—Lord Rāma and Lord Keśava; vraje—in Vṛndāvana; śarat—the fall season; samabhavat—became fully manifest; vyabhrā—free from clouds in the sky; svaccha-ambu—in which the water was clear; aparuṣa-anilā—and the wind was gentle.

TRANSLATION

While Lord Rāma and Lord Keśava were thus dwelling in Vṛndāvana, the fall season arrived, when the sky is cloudless, the water clear and the wind gentle.

TEXT 33

शरदा नीरजोत्पत्त्या
नीराणि प्रकृतिं ययुः
भ्रष्टानामिव चेतांसि पुनर्योगनिषेवया

*śaradā nīrajotpattyā
nīrāṇi prakṛtiṁ yayuḥ bhraṣṭānām iva cetāṁsi
punar yoga-niṣevayā*

SYNONYMS

śaradā—by the effect of the autumn season; nīraja—the lotus flowers; utpattyā—which regenerates; nīrāṇi—the bodies of water; prakṛtiṁ—to their natural state (of cleanliness); yayuḥ—returned; bhraṣṭānām—of those who are fallen; iva—just as; cetāṁsi—the minds; punaḥ—once again; yoga—of devotional service; niṣevayā—by practice.

TRANSLATION

The autumn season, which regenerated the lotus flowers, also restored the various bodies of water to their original purity, just as the process of devotional service purifies the minds of the fallen yogīs when they return to it.

TEXT 34

व्योम्नोऽब्धं भूतशाबल्यं
भुवः पङ्कमपां मलम्

शरज्जहाराश्रमिणां कृष्णे भक्तिर्यथाशुभम्

*vyomno 'bbhram bhūta-śābalyam bhuvah paṅkam apām malam śarat jahārāśramiṇām
kṛṣṇe bhaktir yathāśubham*

SYNONYMS

vyomnaḥ—in the sky; ap-bhram—the clouds; bhūta—of the animals; śābalyam—the crowded condition; bhuvah—of the earth; paṅkam—the muddy covering; apām—of the water; malam—the contamination; śarat—the autumn season; jahāra—removed; āśramiṇām—of the members of the four different spiritual orders of human society; kṛṣṇe—for Lord Kṛṣṇa; bhaktiḥ—devotional service; yathā—just as; āśubham—all inauspiciousness.

TRANSLATION

Autumn cleared the sky of clouds, let the animals get out of their crowded living conditions, cleaned the earth of its covering of mud, and purified the water of contamination, in the same way that loving service rendered to Lord Kṛṣṇa frees the members of the four spiritual orders from their respective troubles.

PURPORT

Every human being must perform the prescribed duties corresponding to one of the four spiritual orders of life. These divisions are 1) celibate student life, brahmacarya; 2) married life, gṛhastha; 3) retired life, vānaprastha; and 4) renounced life, sannyāsa. A brahmacārī must perform many menial duties during his student life, but as he becomes advanced in loving service to Kṛṣṇa, his superiors recognize his spiritual status and elevate him to higher duties. The innumerable obligations performed on behalf of wife and children constantly harass a householder, but as he becomes advanced in loving service to Kṛṣṇa, he is automatically elevated by the laws of nature to more enjoyable, spiritual occupations, and he somehow minimizes material duties.

Those in the vānaprastha, or retired, order of life also perform many duties, and these can also be replaced by ecstatic loving service to Kṛṣṇa. Similarly, renounced life has many natural difficulties, not the least of which is that sannyāsīs, or renounced men, are inclined to meditate on the impersonal aspect of the Absolute Truth. As stated in the Bhagavad-gītā (12.5), kleśo 'dhikataras teṣām avyaktāsakta-cetasām: "For those whose minds are attached to the unmanifested, impersonal feature of the Lord, advancement is exceedingly painful." But as soon as a sannyāsī takes to preaching the glories of Kṛṣṇa in every town and village, his life becomes a blissful sequence of beautiful spiritual realizations.

In the autumn season the sky returns to its natural blue color. The vanishing of the clouds is like the vanishing of troublesome duties in brahmacārī life. Just after summer comes the rainy season, when the animals sometimes become disturbed by the torrential storms and thus huddle together. But the autumn season signals the time for the animals to go to their respective areas and live more peacefully. This represents a householder's becoming free from the harassment of family duties and being able to devote more of his time to spiritual responsibilities, which are the real goal of life both for himself and his family. The removal of the muddy layer on the earth is like the removal of the inconveniences of vānaprastha life, and the purification of the water is like the sanctification of sannyāsa life by one's preaching the glories of Kṛṣṇa without sex desire.

TEXT 35

सर्वस्वं जलदा हित्वा
विरेजुः शुभ्रवर्चसः
यथा त्यक्तैषणाः शान्ता मुनयो मुक्तकिल्बिषाः

sarva-svaṁ jaladā hitvā virejuḥ śubhra-varcasaḥ yathā tyaktaiṣaṇāḥ śāntā munayo mukta-kilbiṣāḥ

SYNONYMS

sarva-svam—everything they possess; jala-dāḥ—the clouds; hitvā—having given up; virejuḥ—shone forth; śubhra—pure; varcasaḥ—their effulgence; yathā—just as; tyakta-eṣaṇāḥ—who have given up all desires; śāntāḥ—pacified; munayaḥ—sages; mukta-kilbiṣāḥ—freed from evil propensities.

TRANSLATION

The clouds, having given up all they possessed, shone forth with purified effulgence, just like peaceful sages who have given up all material desires and are thus free of all sinful propensities.

PURPORT

When the clouds are filled with water, they are dark and cover the sun's rays, just as the material mind of an impure man covers the soul shining within. But when the clouds pour down their rain, they become white and then brilliantly reflect the shining sun, just as a man who gives up all material desires and sinful propensities becomes purified and then brilliantly reflects his own soul and the Supreme Soul within.

TEXT 36

गिरयो मुमुचुस्तोयं
क्वचिन्न मुमुचुः शिवम्
यथा ज्ञानामृतं काले ज्ञानिनो ददते न वा

*girayo mumucus toyam
kvacin na mumucuḥ śivam yathā jñānāmṛtaṁ kāle
jñānino dadate na vā*

SYNONYMS

girayaḥ—the mountains; mumucuḥ—released; toyam—their water; kvacit—sometimes; na mumucuḥ—they did not release; śivam—pure; yathā—just as; jñāna—of transcendental knowledge; amṛtam—the nectar; kāle—at the appropriate time; jñāninaḥ—experts in spiritual knowledge; dadate—bestow; na vā—or not.

TRANSLATION

During this season the mountains sometimes released their pure water and sometimes did not, just as experts in transcendental science sometimes give the nectar of transcendental knowledge and sometimes do not.

PURPORT

The first part of this chapter described the rainy season, and the second part has been dealing with the autumn season, which begins when the rain stops. During the rainy season water always flows from the mountains, but during the autumn the water sometimes flows and sometimes does not. Similarly, great saintly teachers sometimes speak expansively on spiritual knowledge, and sometimes they are silent. The self-realized soul is closely in touch with the Supreme Soul, and according to His desires a competent spiritual scientist may or may not describe the Absolute Truth, depending on the specific circumstances.

TEXT 37

नैवाविदन् क्षीयमाणं
जलं गाधजलेचराः
यथायुरन्वहं क्षय्यं नरा मूढाः कुटुम्बिनः

*naivāvidan kṣīyamāṇam jalam gādha-jale-carāḥ yathāyur anv-aham kṣayyam
narā mūḍhāḥ kuṭumbinaḥ*

SYNONYMS

na—not; eva—indeed; avidan—appreciated; kṣīyamāṇam—diminishing; jalam—the water; gādha-jale—in shallow water; carāḥ—those who move; yathā—as; āyuh—their life span; anu-aham—every day; kṣayyam—diminishing; narāḥ—men; mūḍhāḥ—foolish; kuṭumbinaḥ—living with family members.

TRANSLATION

The fish swimming in the increasingly shallow water did not at all understand that the water was diminishing, just as foolish family men cannot see how the time they have left to live is diminishing with every passing day.

PURPORT

After the rainy season the water gradually goes down, but stupid fish do not understand this; thus they are often stranded on the lakeshores and riverbanks. Similarly, those infatuated with family life do not understand that the remainder of their life is constantly decreasing; thus they fail to perfect their Kṛṣṇa consciousness and are stranded in the cycle of birth and death.

TEXT 38

गाधवारिचरास्तापम्
अविन्दञ्छरदर्कजम्
यथा दरिद्रः कृपणः
कुटुम्ब्यविजितेन्द्रियः

gādhā-vāri-carās tāpam avindañ charad-arka-jam yathā daridraḥ kṛpaṇaḥ kuṭumby avijitendriyaḥ

SYNONYMS

gādhā-vāri-carāḥ—those who were moving in shallow water; tāpam—suffering; avindan—experienced; śarat-arka-jam—due to the sun in the autumn season;

yathā—as; daridraḥ—a poor person; kṛpaṇaḥ—miserly; kuṭumbī—absorbed in family life; avijita-indriyaḥ—who has not controlled the senses.

TRANSLATION

Just as a miserly, poverty-stricken person overly absorbed in family life suffers because he cannot control his senses, the fish swimming in the shallow water had to suffer the heat of the autumn sun.

PURPORT

Although, as described in the previous verse, unintelligent fish are not aware of the diminishing water, one may think these fish are still happy according to the old proverb "Ignorance is bliss." But even the ignorant fish are scorched by the autumn sun. Similarly, although an attached family man may consider his ignorance of spiritual life blissful, he is constantly disturbed by the problems of family life, and, indeed, his uncontrolled senses lead him into a situation of unrelieved anguish.

TEXT 39

शनैः शनैर्जहुः पङ्कं
स्थलान्यामं च वीरुधः
यथाहंममतां धीराः शरीरादिष्वनात्मसु

śanaiḥ śanair jahuḥ paṅkaṁ sthalāny āmaṁ ca vīrudhaḥ yathāhaṁ-mamatāṁ dhīrāḥ śarīrādiṣv anātmasu

SYNONYMS

śanaiḥ śanaiḥ—very gradually; jahuḥ—gave up; pañkam—their mud; sthalāni—the places of land; āmam—their unripe condition; ca—and; vīrudhaḥ—the plants; yathā—as; aham-mamatām—egotism and possessiveness; dhīrāḥ—sober sages; śarīra-ādiṣu—focused upon the material body and other external objects; anātmasu—which are completely distinct from the real self.

TRANSLATION

Gradually the different areas of land gave up their muddy condition and the plants grew past their unripe stage, in the same way that sober sages give up egotism and possessiveness. These are based on things different from the real self—namely, the material body and its by-products.

PURPORT

The word ādiṣu in this verse indicates the by-products of the body, such as children, home and wealth.

TEXT 40

निश्चलाम्बुरभूतूष्णीं
समुद्रः शरदागमे
आत्मन्युपरते सम्यङ् मुनिर्व्युपरतागमः

niścalāmbur abhūt tūṣṇīm
samudraḥ śarad-āgame ātmany uparate samyañ

munir vyuparatāgamaḥ

SYNONYMS

niścala—motionless; ambuḥ—its water; abhūt—became; tūṣṇīm—quiet; samudraḥ—the ocean; śarat—of the fall season; āgame—with the coming; ātmani—when the self; uparate—has desisted from material activities; samyak—completely; munīḥ—a sage; vyuparata—giving up; āgamaḥ—recitation of the Vedic mantras.

TRANSLATION

With the arrival of autumn, the ocean and the lakes became silent, their water still, just like a sage who has desisted from all material activities and given up his recitation of Vedic mantras.

PURPORT

One recites ordinary Vedic mantras for material promotion, mystic power and impersonal salvation. But when a sage is completely free of personal desire, he vibrates the transcendental glories of the Supreme Lord exclusively.

TEXT 41

केदारेभ्यस्त्वपोऽगृह्णन्
कर्षका दृढसेतुभिः
यथा प्राणैः स्रवज्ज्ञानं
तन्निरोधेन योगिनः

kedārebhyas tv apo 'grhṇan karṣakā dṛḍha-setubhiḥ

yathā prāṇaiḥ sravaj jñānam tan-nirodhena yoginaḥ

SYNONYMS

kedārebhyaḥ—from the flooded fields of rice paddy; tu—and; apaḥ—the water; agr̥hṇan—took; karṣakāḥ—the farmers; dṛḍha—strong; setubhiḥ—with dikes; yathā—as; prāṇaiḥ—through the senses; sravat—flowing out; jñānam—consciousness; tat—of those senses; nirodhena—by the strict control; yoginaḥ—yogīs.

TRANSLATION

In the same way that the practitioners of yoga bring their senses under strict control to check their consciousness from flowing out through the agitated senses, the farmers erected strong mud banks to keep the water within their rice fields from draining out.

PURPORT

Śrīla Prabhupāda comments, "In autumn, farmers save the water within the fields by building strong walls so that the water contained within the field cannot run out. There is hardly any hope for new rainfall; therefore they want to save whatever is in the field. Similarly, a person who is actually advanced in self-realization protects his energy by controlling the senses. It is advised that after the age of fifty, one should retire from family life and conserve the energy of the body for utilization in the advancement of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Unless one is able to control the senses and engage them in the transcendental loving service of Mukunda, there is no possibility of salvation."

TEXT 42

शरदर्कांशुजांस्तापान्
भूतानामुदुपोऽहरत्
देहाभिमानजं बोधो मुकुन्दो ब्रजयोषिताम्

*śarat-arkāṁśu-jāṁs tāpān bhūtānām uḍupo 'harat dehābhimāna-jam bodho
mukundo vraja-yoṣitām*

SYNONYMS

śarat-arka—of the autumn sun; amśu—from the rays; jān—generated; tāpān—suffering; bhūtānām—of all creatures; uḍupaḥ—the moon; aharat—has taken away; deha—with the material body; abhimāna-jam—based on false identification; bodhaḥ—wisdom; mukundaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; vraja-yoṣitām—of the women of Vṛndāvana.

TRANSLATION

The autumn moon relieved all creatures of the suffering caused by the sun's rays, just as wisdom relieves a person of the misery caused by his identifying with his material body and as Lord Mukunda relieves Vṛndāvana's ladies of the distress caused by their separation from Him.

TEXT 43

खमशोभत निर्मेघं
शरद्विमलतारकम्

सत्त्वयुक्तं यथा चित्तं शब्दब्रह्मार्थदर्शनम्

*kham aśobhata nirmegham śarat-vimala-tārakam sattva-yuktam yathā cittam
śabda-brahmārtha-darśanam*

SYNONYMS

kham—the sky; aśobhata—shone brilliantly; nirmegham—free from clouds; śarat—in the fall; vimala—clear; tārakam—and starry; sattva-yuktam—endowed with (spiritual) goodness; yathā—just as; cittam—the mind; śabda-brahma—of the Vedic scripture; artha—the purport; darśanam—which directly experiences.

TRANSLATION

Free of clouds and filled with clearly visible stars, the autumn sky shone brilliantly, just like the spiritual consciousness of one who has directly experienced the purport of the Vedic scriptures.

PURPORT

The clear and starry autumn sky can also be compared to the pure heart of the devotee. The spiritual nature is always brilliant, clean and blissful, and this spiritual nature, called vaikuṇṭha, immediately satisfies all the desires of the soul. This is the secret of Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 44

अखण्डमण्डलो व्योम्नि
रराजोदुगणैः शशी
यथा यदुपतिः कृष्णो वृष्णिचक्रावृतो भुवि

*akhaṇḍa-maṇḍalo vyomni rarājodu-gaṇaiḥ śaśī yathā yadu-patiḥ kṛṣṇo
vṛṣṇi-cakrāvṛto bhuvi*

SYNONYMS

akhaṇḍa—unbroken; maṇḍalaḥ—its sphere; vyomni—in the sky; rarāja—shone forth; udu-gaṇaiḥ—along with the stars; śaśī—the moon; yathā—as; yadu-patiḥ—the master of the Yadu dynasty; kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; vṛṣṇi-cakra—by the circle of Vṛṣṇis; āvṛtaḥ—surrounded; bhuvi—upon the earth.

TRANSLATION

The full moon shone in the sky, surrounded by stars, just as Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the Lord of the Yadu dynasty, shone brilliantly on the earth, surrounded by all the Vṛṣṇis.

PURPORT

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī explains that in Vṛndāvana the full moon is eternally risen, and this full moon is like the full manifestation of the Absolute Truth, Śrī Kṛṣṇa. When He was manifest on earth, Lord Kṛṣṇa was surrounded by prominent members of the Vṛṣṇi dynasty such as Nanda, Upananda, Vasudeva and Akrūra.

TEXT 45

आश्लिष्य समशीतोष्णं
प्रसूनवनमारुतम्
जनास्तापं जहुर्गोप्यो न कृष्णहतचेतसः

*āśliṣya sama-śītoṣṇam prasūna-vana-mārutam
janās tāpam jahur gopyo
na kṛṣṇa-hṛta-cetasah*

SYNONYMS

āśliṣya—embracing; sama—equal; śīta-uṣṇam—between cold and heat; prasūna-vana—of the forest of flowers; mārutam—the wind; janāḥ—the people in general; tāpam—suffering; jahur—were able to abandon; gopyaḥ—the gopīs; na—not; kṛṣṇa—by Lord Kṛṣṇa; hṛta—stolen; cetasah—whose hearts.

TRANSLATION

Except for the gopīs, whose hearts had been stolen by Kṛṣṇa, the people could forget their suffering by embracing the wind coming from the flower-filled forest. This wind was neither hot nor cold.

TEXT 46

गावो मृगाः खगा नार्यः

पुष्पिण्यः शरदाभवन
अन्वीयमानाः स्ववृषैः फलैरीशक्रिया इव

gāvo mṛgāḥ khagā nāryaḥ puṣpiṇyaḥ śaradābhavan anvīyamānāḥ sva-vṛṣaiḥ phalair īśa-kriyā iva

SYNONYMS

gāvaḥ—the cows; mṛgāḥ—the female deer; khagāḥ—the female birds; nāryaḥ—the women; puṣpiṇyaḥ—in their fertile periods; śaradā—because of the autumn; abhavan—became; anvīyamānāḥ—followed; sva-vṛṣaiḥ—by their respective mates; phalaiḥ—by good results; īśa-kriyāḥ—activities performed in service to the Supreme Lord; iva—as.

TRANSLATION

By the influence of the autumn season, all the cows, doe, women and female birds became fertile and were followed by their respective mates in search of sexual enjoyment, just as activities performed for the service of the Supreme Lord are automatically followed by all beneficial results.

PURPORT

Śrīla Prabhupāda comments, "On the arrival of the autumn season, all the cows, deer, birds and females in general become pregnant, because in that season generally all the husbands become impelled by sex desire. This is exactly like the transcendentalists who, by the grace of the Supreme Lord, are bestowed with the benediction of their destinations in life. Śrīla Rūpa Gosvāmī has instructed in his Upadeśāmṛta that one should perform devotional service with great enthusiasm, patience and conviction and should follow the rules and regulations, keep oneself clean from material contamination and stay in the association of devotees. By following these principles, one is sure to achieve the desired result of devotional service. For he who patiently follows the regulative principles of devotional service, the time will come when he will achieve the result, as the wives reap results by becoming pregnant."

TEXT 47

उदहृष्यन् वारिजानि
सूर्योत्थाने कुमुद्विना
राज्ञा तु निर्भया लोका यथा दस्यून् विना नृप

*udahr̥ṣyan vārijāni
sūryotthāne kumud vinā rājñā tu nirbhayā lokā
yathā dasyūn vinā nṛpa*

SYNONYMS

udahr̥ṣyan—blossomed abundantly; vāri-jāni—the lotuses; sūrya—the sun; utthāne—when it had arisen; kumud—the night-blooming kumud lotus; vinā—except; rājñā—because of the presence of a king; tu—indeed; nirbhayāḥ—fearless; lokāḥ—the populace; yathā—as; dasyūn—the thieves; vinā—except for; nṛpa—O King.

TRANSLATION

O King Parīkṣit, when the autumn sun rose, all the lotus flowers blossomed happily, except the night-blooming kumut, just as in the presence of a strong ruler everyone becomes fearless, except the thieves.

TEXT 48

पुरग्रामेष्वाग्रयणैर्
इन्द्रियैश्च महोत्सवैः
बभौ भूः पक्वशष्याढ्या कलाभ्यां नितरां हरेः

pura-grāmeṣv āgrayaṇair indriyaiś ca mahotsavaiḥ babhau bhūḥ pakva-śaṣyāḍhyā kalābhyāṁ nitarāṁ hareḥ

SYNONYMS

pura—in the towns; grāmeṣu—and villages; āgrayaṇaiḥ—with performances of the Vedic sacrifice for tasting the first grains of the new harvest; indriyaiḥ—with other (worldly) celebrations; ca—and; mahā-utsavaiḥ—great celebrations; babhau—shone; bhūḥ—the earth; pakva—ripe; śaṣya—with her grains; āḍhyā—rich; kalā—she who is the expansion of the Lord; ābhyām—with those two (Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma); nitarām—very much; hareḥ—of the Supreme Personality of Godhead.

TRANSLATION

In all the towns and villages people held great festivals, performing the Vedic fire sacrifice for honoring and tasting the first grains of the new harvest, along with similar celebrations that followed local custom and tradition. Thus the earth, rich with newly grown grain and especially beautified by the presence of Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, shone beautifully as an expansion of the Supreme Lord.

PURPORT

The word āgrayaṇaiḥ refers to a particular authorized Vedic sacrifice, and the word indriyaiḥ refers to folk ceremonies that have somewhat worldly objectives.

Śrīla Prabhupāda comments as follows: "During autumn, the fields become filled with ripened grains. At that time, the people become happy over the harvest and observe various ceremonies, such as Navāṇṇa—the offering of new grains to the Supreme Personality of Godhead. The new grains are first offered to the Deities in various temples, and all are invited to take sweet rice made with these new grains. There are other religious ceremonies and methods of worship, particularly in Bengal, where the greatest of all such ceremonies is held, called Durgā-pūjā."

TEXT 49

वणिङ्मुनिनृपस्नाता
निर्गम्यार्थान् प्रपेदिरे
वर्षरुद्धा यथा सिद्धाः स्वपिण्डान् काल आगते

vaṇiṅ-muni-nṛpa-snātā
nirgamyārthān prapedire varṣa-ruddhā yathā siddhāḥ

sva-piṇḍān kāla āgate

SYNONYMS

vaṇik—the merchants; muni—renunciant sages; nṛpa—kings; snātāḥ—and brahmacārī students; nirgamya—going out; arthān—their desired objects; prapedire—obtained; varṣa—by the rain; ruddhāḥ—checked; yathā—as; siddhāḥ—perfected persons; sva-piṇḍān—the forms they aspire for; kāle—when the time; āgate—has come.

TRANSLATION

The merchants, sages, kings and brahmacārī students, kept in by the rain, were at last free to go out and attain their desired objects, just as those who achieve perfection in this life can, when the proper time comes, leave the material body and attain their respective forms.

PURPORT

Śrīla Prabhupāda comments, "In Vṛndāvana the autumn season was very beautiful then because of the presence of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma. The mercantile community, the royal order and the great sages were free to move to achieve their desired benedictions. Similarly, the transcendentalists, when freed from the encagement of the material body, also achieved their desired goal. During the rainy season, the mercantile community cannot move from one place to another and so do not get their desired profit. Nor can the royal order go from one place to another to collect taxes from the people. As for saintly persons who must travel to preach transcendental knowledge, they also are restrained by the rainy season. But during the autumn, all of them leave their confines. In the case of the transcendentalist, be he a jñānī, a yogī or a devotee, because of the material body he cannot actually enjoy spiritual achievement. But as soon as he gives up the body, or after death, the jñānī merges into the spiritual effulgence of the Supreme Lord, the yogī transfers himself to the various higher planets, and the devotee goes to the planet of the Supreme Lord, Goloka Vṛndāvana, or the Vaikuṇṭhas, and thus enjoys his eternal spiritual life."

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A . C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Twentieth Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "The Rainy Season and Autumn in Vṛndāvana."

21. The Gopīs Glorify the Song of Kṛṣṇa's Flute

This chapter describes how Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa entered the enchanting forest of Vṛndāvana upon the arrival of autumn, and the praises the young cowherd girls sang when they heard the vibration of His flute.

As Lord Kṛṣṇa, Lord Balarāma and Their cowherd friends entered the forest to graze the cows, Kṛṣṇa began playing His flute. The gopīs heard the enchanting flute-song and understood that Kṛṣṇa was entering the forest. Then they narrated to each other the Lord's various activities.

The gopīs declared, "To see Lord Kṛṣṇa playing His flute while taking the cows to pasture is the highest perfection for the eyes. What pious activities has this flute performed that enable him to freely drink the nectar of Śrī Kṛṣṇa's lips-a blessing we cowherd girls find difficult to achieve? Hearing the song of Kṛṣṇa's flute, the peacocks dance, and all the other creatures become stunned when they see them. Demigoddesses traveling through the sky in their airplanes are vexed by Cupid, and their garments become loose. The ears of the cows stand on end as they drink the nectar of this flute-song, and their calves simply stand stunned, the milk they have been drinking from their mothers' udders still in their mouths. The birds take shelter of the branches of the trees and close their eyes, listening to the song of Kṛṣṇa's flute with rapt attention. The flowing rivers become perturbed by conjugal attraction for Kṛṣṇa and, stopping their flow, embrace Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet with the arms of their waves, while the clouds serve as parasols to shade Kṛṣṇa's head from the hot sun. The aborigine women of the Śābara race, seeing the grass stained by the red kuṅkuma adorning the Lord's lotus feet, smear this vermilion powder upon their breasts and faces to alleviate the distress created by Cupid. Govardhana Hill offers grass and various kinds of fruits and bulbous roots in worship of Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa. All the nonmoving living beings take on the characteristics of moving creatures, and the moving living beings become stationary. These things are all very wonderful."

TEXT 1

श्रीशुक उवाच
इत्थं शरत्स्वच्छजलं
पद्माकरसुगन्धिना
न्यविशद्वायुना वातं स गोगोपालकोऽच्युतः

śrī-śuka uvāca
itthaṁ śarat-svaccha-jalam padmākara-sugandhinā nyaviśad vāyunā vātaṁ
sa -go-gopālako 'cyutaḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; ittham—in this way; śarat—of the fall season; svaccha—clear; jalam—having water; padma-ākara—from the lake filled with lotus flowers; su-gandhinā—with the sweet fragrance; nyaviśat—He entered; vāyunā—by the breeze; vātam—ventilated; sa—with; go—the cows; gopālakaḥ—and the cowherd boys; acyutaḥ—the infallible Supreme Personality of Godhead.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Thus the Vṛndāvana forest was filled with transparent autumnal waters and cooled by breezes perfumed with the fragrance of lotus flowers growing in the clear lakes. The infallible Lord, accompanied by His cows and cowherd boyfriends, entered that Vṛndāvana forest.

TEXT 2

कुसुमितवनराजिशुष्मिभृङ्ग
द्विजकुलघुष्टसरःसरिन्महीध्रम्
मधुपतिरवगाह्य चारयन् गाः सहपशुपालबलश्रुकूज वेणुम्

kusumita-vanarāji-śuṣmi-bhṛṅga dvija-kula-ghuṣṭa-saraḥ-sarin-mahīdhram madhupatir avagāhya cārayan gāḥ saha-paśu-pāla-balaś cukūja veṇum

SYNONYMS

kusumita—flowering; vana-rāji—among the groups of trees; śuṣmi—maddened; bhṛṅga—with bees; dvija—of birds; kula—and flocks;

ghuṣṭa—resounding; saraḥ—its lakes; sarit—rivers; mahīdhram—and hills; madhu-patiḥ—the Lord of Madhu (Kṛṣṇa); avagāhya—entering; cārayan—while tending; gāḥ—the cows; saha-paśu-pāla-balaḥ—in the company of the cowherd boys and Lord Balarāma; cukūja—vibrated; veṇum—His flute.

TRANSLATION

The lakes, rivers and hills of Vṛndāvana resounded with the sounds of maddened bees and flocks of birds moving about the flowering trees. In the company of the cowherd boys and Balarāma, Madhupati [Śrī Kṛṣṇa] entered that forest, and while herding the cows He began to vibrate His flute.

PURPORT

As suggested by the words cukūja veṇum, Lord Kṛṣṇa skillfully blended the sound of His flute with the lovely sounds of Vṛndāvana's multicolored birds. Thus an irresistible, heavenly vibration was created.

TEXT 3

तद् व्रजस्त्रिय आश्रुत्य
वेणुगीतं स्मरोदयम्
काश्चित्परोक्षं कृष्णस्य स्वसखीभ्योऽन्ववर्णयन्

tad vraja-striya āśrutya
veṇu-gītaṁ smarodayam kāścit paroṣaṁ kṛṣṇasya
sva-sakhībhyo 'nvavarṇayan

SYNONYMS

tat—that; vraja-striyaḥ—the ladies in the cowherd village; āśrutya—hearing; veṇu-gītam—the song of the flute; smara-udayam—which gives rise to the influence of Cupid; kāścit—some of them; parokṣam—privately; kṛṣṇasya—about Kṛṣṇa; sva-sakhībhyaḥ—to their intimate companions; anvavarṇayan—described.

TRANSLATION

When the young ladies in the cowherd village of Vraja heard the song of Kṛṣṇa's flute, which arouses the influence of Cupid, some of them privately began describing Kṛṣṇa's qualities to their intimate friends.

TEXT 4

तद्वर्णयितुमारब्धाः
स्मरन्त्यः कृष्णचेष्टितम्
नाशकन् स्मरवेगेन
विक्षिप्तमनसो नृप

tad varṇayitum ārabdhāḥ smarantyaḥ kṛṣṇa-ceṣṭitam nāśakan smara-vegena vikṣipta-manaso nṛpa

SYNONYMS

tat—that; varṇayitum—to describe; ārabdhāḥ—beginning; smarantyaḥ—remembering; kṛṣṇa-ceṣṭitam—the activities of Kṛṣṇa; na

aśakan—they were incapable; smara-vegena—by the force of Cupid; vikṣipta—agitated; manasaḥ—whose minds; nṛpa—O King Parīkṣit.

TRANSLATION

The cowherd girls began to speak about Kṛṣṇa, but when they remembered His activities, O King, the power of Cupid disturbed their minds, and thus they could not speak.

TEXT 5

बर्हापीडं नटवरवपुः कर्णयोः कर्णिकारं
बिभ्रद्वासः कनककपिशं वैजयन्तीं च मालाम्
रन्ध्रान् वेणोरधरसुधयापूरयन् गोपवृन्दैर् वृन्दारण्यं स्वपदरमणं प्राविशद्गीतकीर्तिः barhāpīḍam naṭa-vara-vapuḥ karṇayoḥ karṇikāram bibhrad vāsaḥ kanaka-kapiśam vaijayantīm ca mālām randhrān veṇor adhara-sudhayāpūrayan gopa-vṛndair vṛndāraṇyam sva-pada-ramaṇam prāviśad gīta-kīrtiḥ

SYNONYMS

barha—a peacock feather; āpīḍam—as the decoration of His head; naṭa-vara—of the best of dancers; vapuḥ—the transcendental body; karṇayoḥ—on the ears; karṇikāram—a particular kind of blue lotuslike flower; bibhrat—wearing; vāsaḥ—garments; kanaka—like gold; kapiśam—yellowish; vaijayantīm—named Vaijayantī; ca—and; mālām—the garland; randhrān—the holes; veṇoḥ—of His flute; adhara—of His lips; sudhayā—with the nectar; āpūrayan—filling up; gopa-vṛndaiḥ—by the cowherd boys;

vṛndā-araṇyam—the forest of Vṛndāvana; sva-pada—because of the marks of His lotus feet; ramaṇam—enchanting; prāviśat—He entered; gīta—being sung; kīrtiḥ—His glories.

TRANSLATION

Wearing a peacock-feather ornament upon His head, blue karēikāra flowers on His ears, a yellow garment as brilliant as gold, and the Vaijayantī garland, Lord Kṛṣṇa exhibited His transcendental form as the greatest of dancers as He entered the forest of Vṛndāvana, beautifying it with the marks of His footprints. He filled the holes of His flute with the nectar of His lips, and the cowherd boys sang His glories.

PURPORT

The gopīs remembered all the transcendental qualities of Kṛṣṇa mentioned in this verse. Kṛṣṇa's artful way of dressing and the beautiful blue flowers placed over His ears excited the gopīs' romantic desires, and as He poured the nectar of His lips into His flute, they simply lost themselves in ecstatic love for Him.

TEXT 6

इति वेणुरवं राजन्
सर्वभूतमनोहरम्
श्रुत्वा ब्रजस्त्रियः सर्वा वर्णयन्त्योऽभिरेभिरे

iti veṇu-ravaṁ rājan
sarva-bhūta-manoharam

śrutvā vraja-striyaḥ sarvā varṇayantyo 'bhirebhire

SYNONYMS

iti—thus; veṇu-ravam—the vibration of the flute; rājan—O King Parīkṣit; sarva-bhūta—of all living beings; manaḥ-haram—stealing the minds; śrutvā—hearing; vraja-striyaḥ—the ladies standing in the village of Vraja; sarvāḥ—all of them; varṇayantyaḥ—engaged in describing; abhirebhire—embraced one another.

TRANSLATION

O King, when the young ladies in Vraja heard the sound of Kṛṣṇa's flute, which captivates the minds of all living beings, they all embraced one another and began describing it.

PURPORT

The word iti here indicates that after becoming speechless by remembering Kṛṣṇa, the cowherd damsels then regained their composure and were thus able to ecstatically describe the sound of Kṛṣṇa's flute. As a few gopīs began to exclaim, and the other gopīs realized that they shared the same ecstatic love within their hearts, all of them started embracing one another, overwhelmed with conjugal love for young Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 7

श्रीगोप्य ऊचुः
अक्षण्वतां फलमिदं न परं विदामः
सख्यः पशूननविवेशयतोर्वयस्यैः

वक्त्रं ब्रजेशसुतयोरनवेणुजुष्टं यैर्वा निपीतमनुरक्तकटाक्षमोक्षम्

śrī-gopya ūcuḥ
akṣaṇvatām phalam idam na param vidāmaḥ sakhyaḥ paśūn anuviveśayator vayasyaiḥ vaktram vrajeśa-sutayor anaveṇu-juṣṭam yair vā nipītam anurakta-kaṭākṣa-mokṣam

SYNONYMS

śrī-gopyaḥ ūcuḥ—the gopīs said; akṣaṇvatām—of those who have eyes; phalam—the fruit; idam—this; na—not; param—other; vidāmaḥ—we know; sakhyaḥ—O friends; paśūn—the cows; anuviveśayatoḥ—causing to enter one forest after another; vayasyaiḥ—with Their friends of the same age; vaktram—the faces; vraja-īśa—of Mahārāja Nanda; sutayoḥ—of the two sons; anu-veṇu-juṣṭam—possessed of flutes; yaiḥ—by which; vā—or; nipītam—imbibed; anurakta—loving; kaṭa-akṣa—glances; mokṣam—giving off.

TRANSLATION

The cowherd girls said: O friends, those eyes that see the beautiful faces of the sons of Mahārāja Nanda are certainly fortunate. As these two sons enter the forest, surrounded by Their friends, driving the cows before Them, They hold Their flutes to Their mouths and glance lovingly upon the residents of Vṛndāvana. For those who have eyes, we think there is no greater object of vision.

PURPORT

This translation is quoted from Śrīla Prabhupāda's Caitanya-caritāmṛta

(Ādi-līlā 4.155).

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura has commented as follows: "The gopīs meant to say, 'O friends, if you simply remain in the shackles of family life in this material world, what will you ever get to see? The creator has granted us these eyes, so let us see the most wonderful thing there is to see, Kṛṣṇa.' "

The gopīs were aware that their mothers or other elder persons might hear their romantic words and disapprove, and thus they said, akṣaṇvatām phalam: "To see Kṛṣṇa is the goal for all persons and not simply ourselves." In other words, the gopīs indicated that since Kṛṣṇa is the supreme object of love for everyone, why couldn't they also love Him in spiritual ecstasy?

According to the ācāryas, a different gopī spoke this and each of the following verses (through Text 19).

TEXT 8

चूतप्रवालबर्हस्तबकोत्पलाब्ज
मालानुपृक्तपरिधानविचित्रवेशौ
मध्ये विरेजतुरलं पशुपालगोष्ठ्यां रङ्गे यथा नटवरौ क्वच गायमानौ

cūta-pravāla-barha-stabakotpalābja mālānupṛkta-paridhāna-vicitra-veśau madhye virejatur alaṁ paśu-pāla-goṣṭhyāṁ raṅge yathā naṭa-varau kvaca gāyamānau

SYNONYMS

cūta—of a mango tree; pravāla—with young sprouts; barha—peacock feathers; stabaka—bunches of flowers; utpala—lotuses; abja—and lilies; mālā—with garlands; anupṛkta—touched; paridhāna—Their garments; vicitra—with great variety; veśau—being dressed; madhye—in the midst; virejatuḥ—the two of Them shone forth; alam—magnificently; paśu-pāla—of the cowherd boys; goṣṭhyām—within the assembly; raṅge—upon a stage; yathā—just as; naṭa-varau—two most excellent dancers; kvaca—sometimes; gāyamānau—Themselves singing.

TRANSLATION

Dressed in a charming variety of garments, upon which Their garlands rest, and decorating Themselves with peacock feathers, lotuses, lilies, newly grown mango sprouts and clusters of flower buds, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma shine forth magnificently among the assembly of cowherd boys. They look just like the best of dancers appearing on a dramatic stage, and sometimes They sing.

PURPORT

The gopīs continue singing their ecstatic song as they remember the pastimes of Lord Kṛṣṇa. The gopīs wanted to go to the forest where Kṛṣṇa was performing His pastimes and, while remaining concealed, peer through the leaves of the creepers and see the wonder of Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma dancing and singing with Their boyfriends. This was their desire, but because they could not go, they sang this song in ecstatic love.

TEXT 9

गोप्यः किमाचरदयं कुशलं स्म वेणुर्
दामोदराधरसुधामपि गोपिकानाम्
भुङ्क्ते स्वयं यदवशिष्टरसं हृदिन्यो हृष्यत्वचोऽश्रु मुमुचुस्तरवो यथार्यः gopyaḥ kim ācarad ayam kuśalam sma veṇur dāmodarādhara-sudhām api gopikānām bhuṅkte svayam yad avaśiṣṭa-rasam hradinyo hṛṣyat-tvaco 'śru mumucus taravo yathāryaḥ

SYNONYMS

gopyaḥ—O gopīs; kim-what; ācarat—performed; ayam—this; kuśalam—auspicious activities; sma—certainly; veṇuḥ—the flute; dāmodara—of Kṛṣṇa; adhara-sudhām—the nectar of the lips; api—even; gopikānām—which is owed to the gopīs; bhuṅkte-enjoys; svayam—independently; yat—from which; avaśiṣṭa—remaining; rasam—the taste only; hradinyaḥ—the rivers; hṛṣyat—feeling jubilant; tvacaḥ—whose bodies; aśru—tears; mumucuḥ—shed; taravaḥ—the trees; yathā—exactly like; āryāḥ—old forefathers.

TRANSLATION

My dear gopēs, what auspicious activities must the flute have performed to enjoy the nectar of Kṛṣṇa's lips independently and leave only a taste for us gopēs, for whom that nectar is actually meant! The forefathers of the flute, the bamboo trees, shed tears of pleasure. His mother, the river on whose bank the bamboo was born, feels jubilation, and therefore her blooming lotus flowers are standing like hair on her body.

PURPORT

This translation is quoted from Śrīla Prabhupāda's Caitanya-caritāmṛta (Antya 16.140).

In the guise of releasing flowing sap, the bamboo trees are actually crying tears of ecstasy upon seeing their child become an exalted devotee-flute of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrī Kṛṣṇa.

Sanātana Gosvāmī gives an alternate explanation: The trees are crying because they are unhappy at not being able to play with Kṛṣṇa themselves. One may object that the trees in Vṛndāvana should not lament for that which is impossible for them to obtain, just as a beggar certainly doesn't lament because he is forbidden to meet the king. But the trees are actually just like intelligent persons who suffer when they cannot obtain the goal of life. Thus the trees are crying because they cannot get the nectar of Kṛṣṇa's lips.

TEXT 10

वृन्दावनं सखि भुवो वितनोति कीर्तति
यद्देवकीसुतपदाम्बुजलब्धलक्ष्मि
गोविन्दवेणुमनु मत्तमयूरनृत्यं प्रेक्ष्याद्रिसान्वरतान्यसमस्तसत्त्वम् vṛndāvanam sakhi bhuvo vitanoti kīrtim yat devakī-suta-padāmbuja-labdha-lakṣmi govinda-veṇum anu matta-mayūra-nṛtyam prekṣyādri-sānv-avaratānya-samasta-sattvam

SYNONYMS

vṛndāvanam—Vṛndāvana; sakhi—O friend; bhuvaḥ—of the earth; vitanioti—spreads; kīrtim—the glories; yat—because; devakī-suta—of the son of Devakī; pada-ambuja—from the lotus feet; labdha—received; lakṣmi—the treasure; govinda-veṇum—the flute of Govinda; anu—upon hearing; matta—maddened; mayūra—of the peacocks; nṛtyam—in which there is the dancing; prekṣya—seeing; adri-sānu—upon the peaks of the hills; avarata—stunned; anya—other; samasta—all; sattvam—creatures.

TRANSLATION

O friend, Vṛndāvana is spreading the glory of the earth, having obtained the treasure of the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa, the son of Devakī. The peacocks dance madly when they hear Govinda's flute, and when other creatures see them from the hilltops, they all become stunned.

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī explains that because activities such as those described in this verse do not occur in any other world, the earth is unique. In fact, the earth's glories are being spread by wonderful Vṛndāvana because it is the place of Kṛṣṇa's pastimes.

The name Devakī also refers to mother Yaśodā, as stated in the Bṛhad-viṣṇu Purāṇa:

*dve nāmnī nanda-bhāryāyā yaśodā devakīti ca
ataḥ sakhyam abhūt tasya
devakyā śauri-jāyayā*

"The wife of Nanda had two names, Yaśodā and also Devakī. Therefore it was natural that she [the wife of Nanda] develop friendship with Devakī, the wife of Śauri [Vasudeva]."

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura explains kṛṣṇa-līlā as follows: "In Vṛndāvana, the peacocks request Kṛṣṇa, 'Govinda, please make us dance.' Thus Kṛṣṇa plays His flute, and they surround Him in a circle and dance in time with the rhythm of His melody. And while standing in the midst of their dancing, He also sings and dances. Then those peacocks, who are fully satisfied with His musical performance, out of gratitude offer for His pleasure their own divine feathers. In the usual manner of musical performers, Kṛṣṇa gladly accepts these presentations and places a feather upon the turban atop His head. Gentle animals such as deer and doves greatly relish the transcendental entertainment presented by Kṛṣṇa, and to get a good view they flock to the peaks of hills. Then, as they watch the breathtaking program, they become stunned in ecstasy."

Śrīla Sanātana Gosvāmī comments that because in Vṛndāvana Kṛṣṇa goes barefoot and can thus directly mark the earth with the symbols of His lotus feet, that transcendental land is even more glorious than Vaikuṇṭha, where Viṣṇu wears slippers.

TEXT 11

धन्याः स्म मूढगतयोऽपि हरिण्य एता
या नन्दनन्दनमुपात्तविचित्रवेशम्
आकर्ण्य वेणुरणितं सहकृष्णसाराः पूजां दधुर्विरचितां प्रणयावलोकैः dhanyāḥ sma mūḍha-gatayo 'pi hariṇya etā yā nanda-nandanam upātta-vicitra-veśam ākarmaṇya veṇu-raṇitam saha-kṛṣṇa-sārāḥ pūjām dadhur viracitām praṇayāvalokaiḥ

SYNONYMS

dhanyāḥ—fortunate, blessed; sma—certainly; mūḍha-gatayaḥ—having taken birth in an ignorant animal species; api—although; hariṇyaḥ—she-deer; etāḥ—these; yāḥ—who; nanda-nandanam—the son of Mahārāja Nanda; upātta-vicitra-veśam—dressed very attractively; ākarmaṇya—hearing; veṇu-raṇitam—the sound of His flute; saha-kṛṣṇa-sārāḥ—accompanied by the black deer (their husbands); pūjām dadhuḥ—they worshiped; viracitām—performed; praṇaya-avalokaiḥ—by their affectionate glances.

TRANSLATION

Blessed are all these foolish deer because they have approached Mahārāja Nanda's son, who is gorgeously dressed and is playing on His flute. Indeed, both the doe and the bucks worship the Lord with looks of love and affection.

PURPORT

This translation is quoted from Śrīla Prabhupāda's Caitanya-caritāmṛta (Madhya 17.36).

According to the ācāryas, the gopīs were thinking as follows: "The female deer can approach Kṛṣṇa along with their husbands because Kṛṣṇa is the ultimate object of affection for the male deer. Because of their affection for Kṛṣṇa, they are encouraged by seeing their wives attracted to Him and thus consider their household lives fortunate. Indeed, they become joyful upon seeing how their wives are searching after Kṛṣṇa, and, following along, they urge their wives to go to the Lord. On the other hand, our husbands are jealous of Kṛṣṇa, and because of their lack of devotion to Him they cannot even stand to smell His fragrance. Therefore what is the use of our lives?"

TEXT 12

कृष्णं निरीक्ष्य वनितोत्सवरूपशीलं
श्रुत्वा च तत्कणितवेणुविविक्तगीतम्
देव्यो विमानगतयः स्मरनुन्नसारा भ्रश्यत्प्रसूनकबरा मुमुहुर्विनीव्यः kṛṣṇaṁ nirīkṣya vanitotsava-rūpa-śīlaṁ śrutvā ca tat-kvaṇita-veṇu-vivikta-gītaṁ devyo vimāna-gatayaḥ smara-nunna-sārā bhraśyat-prasūna-kabarā mumuhur vinīvyah

SYNONYMS

kṛṣṇam—Lord Kṛṣṇa; nirīkṣya—observing; vanitā—for all women; utsava—a festival; rūpa—whose beauty; śīlam—and character; śrutvā—hearing; ca—and; tat—by Him; kvaṇita—vibrated; veṇu—of the flute; vivikta—clear; gītam—song; devyaḥ—the wives of the demigods; vimāna-gatayaḥ—traveling in their airplanes; smara—by Cupid; nunna—agitated; sārāḥ—their hearts; bhraśyat—slipping; prasūna-kabarāḥ—the flowers tied in their hair; mumuhuh—they became bewildered; vinīvyah—their belts loosening.

TRANSLATION

Kṛṣṇa's beauty and character create a festival for all women. Indeed, when the demigods' wives flying in airplanes with their husbands catch sight of Him and hear His resonant flute-song, their hearts are shaken by Cupid, and they become so bewildered that the flowers fall out of their hair and their belts loosen.

PURPORT

In Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrīla Prabhupāda comments: "[This verse indicates] that the transcendental sound of the flute of Kṛṣṇa extended to all corners of the universe. Also, it is significant that the gopīs knew about the different kinds of airplanes flying in the sky."

In fact, even while sitting on the laps of their demigod husbands, the demigoddesses became agitated by hearing the sounds of Kṛṣṇa's flute. Thus the gopīs thought that they themselves should not be blamed for their ecstatic conjugal attraction for Kṛṣṇa, who after all was a cowherd boy from their own village and thus a natural object of their love. If even demigoddesses became mad after Kṛṣṇa, how could poor, earthly cowherd girls from Kṛṣṇa's own village avoid having their hearts completely conquered by His loving glances and the sounds of His flute?

The gopīs also considered that the demigods, although noting their wives' attraction to Kṛṣṇa, did not become envious. The demigods are actually very refined in culture and intelligence, and therefore when flying in their airplanes they regularly take their wives along to see Kṛṣṇa. The gopīs thought, "Our husbands, on the other hand, are envious. Therefore even the inferior deer are better off than we, and the demigoddesses are also very fortunate, whereas we poor human beings in an intermediate position are most unfortunate."

TEXT 13

गावश्च कृष्णमुखनिर्गतवेणुगीत
पीयूषमुत्तभितकर्णपुटैः पिबन्त्यः
शावाः स्नुतस्तनपयःकवलाः स्म तस्थुर गोविन्दमात्मनि दृशाश्रुकलाः स्पृशन्त्यः

gāvaś ca kṛṣṇa-mukha-nirgata-veṇu-gīta pīyūṣam uttabhita-karṇa-ṭṭaiḥ pibantyaḥ śāvāḥ snuta-stana-payah-kavalāḥ sma tasthur govindam ātmani dṛśāśru-kalāḥ spṛśantyaḥ

SYNONYMS

gāvaḥ—the cows; ca—and; kṛṣṇa-mukha—from the mouth of Lord Kṛṣṇa; nirgata—emitted; veṇu—of the flute; gīta—of the song; pīyūṣam—the nectar; uttabhita—raised high; karṇa—with their ears; ṭṭaiḥ—which were acting as vessels; pibantyaḥ—drinking; śāvāḥ—the calves; snuta—exuding; stana—from their udders; payah—the milk; kavalāḥ—whose mouthfuls; sma—indeed; tasthuḥ—stood still; govindam—Lord Kṛṣṇa; ātmani—within their minds; dṛśā—with their vision; aśru-kalāḥ—their eyes full of tears; spṛśantyaḥ—touching.

TRANSLATION

Using their upraised ears as vessels, the cows are drinking the nectar of the flute-song flowing out of Kṛṣṇa's mouth. The calves, their mouths full of milk from their mothers' moist nipples, stand still as they take Govinda within themselves through their tear-filled eyes and embrace Him within their hearts.

TEXT 14

प्रायो बताम्ब विहगा मुनयो वनेऽस्मिन्
कृष्णेक्षितं तदुदितं कलवेणुगीतम्
आरुह्य ये द्रुमभुजान् रुचिरप्रवालान्
शृण्वन्ति मीलितदृशो विगतान्यवाचः

prāyo batāmba vihaḡā munayo vane 'smin kṛṣṇekṣitam tad-uditam kala-veṇu-gītam āruhya ye druma-bhujān rucira-pravālān śṛṇvanti mīlita-dṛśo vigatānya-vācaḥ

SYNONYMS

prāyaḥ—almost; bata—certainly; amba—O mother; vihaḡāḥ—the birds; munayaḥ—great sages; vane—in the forest; asmin—this; kṛṣṇa-īkṣitam—in order to see Kṛṣṇa; tat-uditam—created by Him; kala-veṇu-gītam—sweet vibrations made by playing the flute; āruhya—rising; ye—who;

druma-bhujān—to the branches of the trees; rucira-pravālān—having beautiful creepers and twigs; śṛṇvanti—they hear; mīlita-dṛśaḥ—closing their eyes; vigata-anyā-vācaḥ—stopping all other sounds.

TRANSLATION

O mother, in this forest all the birds have risen onto the beautiful branches of the trees to see Kṛṣṇa. With closed eyes they are simply listening in silence to the sweet vibrations of His flute, and they are not attracted by any other sound. Surely these birds are on the same level as great sages.

PURPORT

The birds resemble sages because they live in the forest, keep their eyes closed, observe silence and remain motionless. Significantly, it is stated here that even great sages become maddened by the sound of Kṛṣṇa's flute, which is a completely spiritual vibration.

The word rucira-pravālān indicates that even the branches of the trees are transformed in ecstasy when struck by the vibration of Kṛṣṇa's flute-song. Indra, Brahmā, Śiva and Viṣṇu, being primordial gods, travel throughout the universe and have extensive knowledge of the science of music, and yet even these great personalities have never heard or composed music like that which emanates from Kṛṣṇa's flute. Indeed, the birds are so moved by the blissful sound that in their ecstasy they close their eyes and cling to the branches to avoid falling off the trees.

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura explains that the gopīs would sometimes address each other as amba, "mother."

TEXT 15

नद्यस्तदा तदुपधार्य मुकुन्दगीतम्

आवर्तलक्षितमनोभवभग्नवेगाः
आलिङ्गनस्थगितमूर्मिभुजैर्मुरारेर् गृह्णन्ति पादयुगलं कमलोपहाराः nadyas tadā tad upadhārya mukunda-gītam āvarta-lakṣita-manobhava-bhagna-vegāḥ āliṅgana-sthagitam ūrmi-bhujair murārer grhṇanti pāda-yugalam kamalopahārāḥ

SYNONYMS

nadyaḥ—the rivers; tadā—then; tat—that; upadhārya—perceiving; mukunda—of Lord Kṛṣṇa; gītam—the song of His flute; āvarta—by their whirlpools; lakṣita—manifest; manaḥ-bhava—by their conjugal desire; bhagna—broken; vegāḥ—their currents; āliṅgana—by their embrace; sthagitam—held stationary; ūrmi-bhujaiḥ—by the arms of their waves; murāreḥ—of Lord Murāri; grhṇanti—they seize; pāda-yugalam—the two lotus feet; kamala-upahārāḥ—carrying offerings of lotus flowers.

TRANSLATION

When the rivers hear the flute-song of Kṛṣṇa, their minds begin to desire Him, and thus the flow of their currents is broken and their waters are agitated, moving around in whirlpools. Then with the arms of their waves the rivers embrace Murāri's lotus feet and, holding on to them, present offerings of lotus flowers.

PURPORT

Even such sacred bodies of water as the Yamunā and the Mānasa-gaṅgā are enchanted by the flute-song, and thus they are disturbed by conjugal attraction for young Kṛṣṇa. The gopīs are implying that since many different types of living beings are overwhelmed by conjugal love for Kṛṣṇa, why should the gopīs be criticized for their intense desire to serve Kṛṣṇa in the conjugal relationship?

TEXT 16

दृष्ट्वातपे ब्रजपशून् सह रामगोपैः
सञ्चारयन्तमनु वेणुमुदीरयन्तम्
प्रेमप्रवृद्ध उदितः कुसुमावलीभिः सख्युर्व्यधात्स्ववपुषाम्बुद आतपत्रम्

dṛṣṭvātape vraja-paśūn saha rāma-gopaiḥ sañcārayantam anu veṇum udīrayantam prema-pravṛddha uditaḥ kusumāvalibhiḥ sakhyur vyadhāt sva-vapuṣāmbuda ātapatram

SYNONYMS

dṛṣṭvā—seeing; ātape—in the full heat of the sun; vraja-paśūn—the domestic animals of Vraja; saha—together with; rāma-gopaiḥ—Lord Balarāma and the cowherd boys; sañcārayantam—herding together; anu—repeatedly; veṇum—His flute; udīrayantam—loudly playing; prema—out of love; pravṛddhaḥ—expanded; uditaḥ—rising high; kusuma-āvalibhiḥ—(with droplets of water vapor, which are like) groups of flowers; sakhyuḥ—for his friend; vyadhāt—he constructed; sva-vapuṣā—out of his own body; ambudaḥ—the cloud; ātapatram—an umbrella.

TRANSLATION

In the company of Balarāma and the cowherd boys, Lord Kṛṣṇa is continually vibrating His flute as He herds all the animals of Vraja, even under the full heat of the summer sun. Seeing this, the cloud in the sky has expanded himself out of love. He is rising high and constructing out of his own body, with its multitude of flower-like droplets of water, an umbrella for the sake of his friend.

PURPORT

Śrīla Prabhupāda states in his Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead: "The scorching heat of the autumn sunshine was sometimes intolerable, and therefore the clouds in the sky appeared in sympathy above Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma and Their boyfriends while They engaged in blowing Their flutes. The clouds served as a soothing umbrella over Their heads just to make friendship with Kṛṣṇa."

TEXT 17

पूर्णाः पुलिन्द्य उरुगायपदाब्जराग
श्रीकुङ्कुमेन दयितास्तनमण्डितेन
तद्दर्शनस्मररुजस्तृणरूषितेन
लिम्पन्त्य आननकुचेषु जहुस्तदाधिम pūrṇāḥ pulindya urugāya-padābja-rāga śrī-kuṅkumena dayitā-stana-maṇḍitena tad-darśana-smara-rujas tṛṇa-rūṣitena limpantya ānana-kuceṣu jahus tad-ādhim

SYNONYMS

pūrṇāḥ—fully satisfied; pulindyaḥ—the wives of the Śabara tribe; urugāya—of Lord Kṛṣṇa; pada-abja—from the lotus feet; rāga—of reddish color; śrī-kuṅkumena—by the transcendental kuṅkuma powder; dayitā—of His girlfriends; stana—the breasts; maṇḍitena—which had decorated; tat—of that; darśana—by the sight; smara—of Cupid; rujaḥ—feeling the torment; tṛṇa—upon the blades of grass; rūṣitena—attached; limpantyaḥ—smearing; ānana—upon their faces; kuceṣu—and breasts; jahuḥ—they gave up; tat—that; ādhim—mental pain.

TRANSLATION

The aborigine women of the Vṛndāvana area become disturbed by lust when they see the grass marked with reddish kuṇ kuma powder. Endowed with the color of Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet, this powder originally decorated the breasts of His beloveds, and when the aborigine women smear it on their faces and breasts, they feel fully satisfied and give up all their anxiety.

PURPORT

Śrīla Prabhupāda explains this verse as follows: "The wanton aborigine girls also became fully satisfied when they smeared their faces and breasts with the dust of Vṛndāvana, which was reddish from the touch of Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet. The aborigine girls had very full breasts, and they were also very lusty, but when their lovers felt their breasts, they were not very satisfied. When they came out into the midst of the forest, they saw that while Kṛṣṇa was walking, some of the leaves and creepers of Vṛndāvana turned reddish from the kuṅkuma powder that fell from His lotus feet. His lotus feet were held by the gopīs on their breasts, which were also smeared with kuṅkuma powder, but when Kṛṣṇa traveled in the Vṛndāvana forest with Balarāma and His boyfriends, the reddish powder fell on the ground of the Vṛndāvana forest. So the lusty aborigine girls, while looking toward Kṛṣṇa playing His flute, saw the reddish kuṅkuma on the ground and immediately took it and smeared it over their faces and breasts. In this way they became fully satisfied, although they were not satisfied when their lovers touched their breasts. All material lusty desires can be immediately satisfied if one comes in contact with Kṛṣṇa consciousness."

TEXT 18

हन्तायमद्रिरबला हरिदासवर्यो
यद्रामकृष्णचरणस्पर्शप्रमोदः मानं तनोति सहगोगणयोस्तयोर्यत् पानीयसूयवसकन्दरकन्दमूलैः

hantāyam adrīr abalā hari-dāsa-vāryō yad rāma-kṛṣṇa-caraṇa-sparśa-pramodaḥ mānaṁ tanoti saha-go-gaṇayos tayoṛ yat pānīya-sūyavasa-kandara-kandamūlaiḥ

SYNONYMS

hanta—oh; ayam—this; adrīḥ—hill; abalāḥ—O friends; hari-dāsa-vāryaḥ—the best among the servants of the Lord; yat—because; rāma-kṛṣṇa-caraṇa—of the lotus feet of Lord Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma; sparśa—by the touch; pramodaḥ—jubilant; mānam—respect; tanoti—offers; saha—with; go-gaṇayoḥ—the cows, calves and cowherd boys; tayoḥ—to Them (Śrī Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma); yat—because; pānīya—with drinking water; sūyavasa—very soft grass; kandara—caves; kanda-mūlaiḥ—and edible roots.

TRANSLATION

Of all the devotees, this Govardhana Hill is the best! O my friends, this hill supplies Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, along with Their calves, cows and cowherd friends, with all kinds of necessities—water for drinking, very soft grass, caves, fruits, flowers and vegetables. In this way the hill offers respects to the Lord. Being touched by the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, Govardhana Hill appears very jubilant.

PURPORT

This translation is quoted from Śrīla Prabhupāda's Caitanya-caritāmṛta (Madhya 18.34).

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura explains the opulence of Govardhana Hill as follows: Pānīya refers to the fragrant, cool water from the Govardhana waterfalls, which Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma drink and use to wash Their feet and mouths. Govardhana also offers other beverages, such as honey, mango juice and pīlu juice. Sūyavasa indicates dūrvā grass, used to make the religious offering of arghya. Govardhana also has grass that is fragrant, soft and conducive to the strong growth of cows and increased production of milk. Thus this grass is used for feeding the transcendental herds. Kandara refers to the caves where Kṛṣṇa, Balarāma and Their friends play, sit and lie down. These caves give pleasure when the weather is too hot or too cold, or when it is raining. Govardhana also features soft roots for eating, jewels for ornamenting the body, flat places for sitting, and lamps and mirrors in the form of smooth stones, glistening water and other natural substances.

TEXT 19

गा गोपकैरनुवनं नयतोरुदार
वेणुस्वनैः कलपदैस्तनुभृत्सु सख्यः
अस्पन्दनं गतिमतां पुलकस्तरुणां निर्योगपाशकृतलक्षणयोर्विचित्रम्

gā gopakair anu-vanam nayator udāra veṇu-svanaiḥ kala-padaiḥ tanu-bhṛtsu sakhyaḥ aspandanam gati-matām pulakas taruṇām niryoga-pāśa-kṛta-lakṣaṇayor vicitram

SYNONYMS

gāḥ—the cows; gopakaiḥ—with the cowherd boys; anu-vanam—to each forest; nayatoḥ—leading; udāra—very liberal; veṇu-svanaiḥ—by the vibrations of the Lord's flute; kala-padaiḥ—having sweet tones; tanubhṛtsu—among the living entities; sakhyaḥ—O friends; aspandanam—the lack of movement; gati-matām—of those living entities that can move; pulakaḥ—the ecstatic jubilation; taruṇam—of the otherwise nonmoving trees; niryoga-pāśa—the ropes for binding the rear legs of the cows; kṛta-lakṣaṇayoḥ—of those two (Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma), who are characterized by; vicitram—wonderful.

TRANSLATION

My dear friends, as Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma pass through the forest with Their cowherd friends, leading Their cows, They carry ropes to bind the cows' rear legs at the time of milking. When Lord Kṛṣṇa plays on His flute, the sweet music causes the moving living entities to become stunned and the nonmoving trees to tremble with ecstasy. These things are certainly very wonderful.

PURPORT

Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma would sometimes wear Their cowherding ropes on Their heads and sometimes carry them on Their shoulders, and thus They were beautifully decorated with all the equipment of cowherd boys.

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura explains that the ropes of Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma are made of yellow cloth and have clusters of pearls at both ends. Sometimes They wear these ropes around Their turbans, and the ropes thus become wonderful decorations.

TEXT 20

एवंविधा भगवतो
या वृन्दावनचारिणः
वर्णयन्त्यो मिथो गोप्यः क्रीडास्तन्मयतां ययुः

*evam-vidhā bhagavato
yā vṛndāvana-cāriṇaḥ varṇayantyo mitho gopyaḥ krīḍās tan-mayatām yayuḥ*

SYNONYMS

evam-vidhāḥ—such; bhagavataḥ—of the Supreme Personality of Godhead; yāḥ—which; vṛndāvana-cāriṇaḥ—who was wandering in the Vṛndāvana forest; varṇayantyaḥ—engaged in describing; mithaḥ—among one another; gopyaḥ—the gopīs; krīḍaḥ—the pastimes; tat-mayatām—fullness in ecstatic meditation upon Him; yayuḥ—they attained.

TRANSLATION

Thus narrating to one another the playful pastimes of the Supreme Personality of Godhead as He wandered about in the Vṛndāvana forest, the gopīs became fully absorbed in thoughts of Him.

PURPORT

In this regard Śrīla Prabhupāda comments, "This is the perfect example of Kṛṣṇa consciousness: to somehow or other remain always engrossed in thoughts of Kṛṣṇa. The vivid example is always present in the behavior of the gopīs; therefore Lord Caitanya declared that no one can worship the Supreme Lord by any method that is better than the method of the gopīs. The gopīs were not born in very high brāhmaṇa or kṣatriya families; they were born in the families of vaiśyas, and not in big mercantile communities but in the families of cowherd men. They were not very well educated, although they heard all sorts of knowledge from the brāhmaṇas, the authorities of Vedic knowledge. The gopīs' only purpose was to remain always absorbed in thoughts of Kṛṣṇa."

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A . C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Twenty-first Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "The Gopīs Glorify the Song of Kṛṣṇa's Flute."

22. Kṛṣṇa Steals the Garments of the Unmarried Gopīs

This chapter describes how the marriageable daughters of the cowherd men worshiped Kātyāyanī to get Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa as their husband, and how Kṛṣṇa stole the garments of the young girls and gave the girls benedictions.

During the month of Mārgaśīrṣa, every day early in the morning the young daughters of the cowherds would take one another's hands and, singing of Kṛṣṇa's transcendental qualities, go to the Yamunā to bathe. Desiring to obtain Kṛṣṇa as their husband, they would then worship the goddess Kātyāyanī with incense, flowers and other items.

One day, the young gopīs left their garments on the shore as usual and began playing in the water while chanting of Lord Kṛṣṇa's activities. Suddenly Kṛṣṇa Himself came there, took away all the garments and climbed a nearby kadamba tree. Wanting to tease the gopīs, Kṛṣṇa said, "I understand how fatigued you gopīs are from your austerities, so please come onto the shore and take back your clothes."

The gopīs then pretended to become angry and said the cold water of the Yamunā was giving them great pain. If Kṛṣṇa did not give them back their garments, they said, they would inform King Kāṁsa of all that had happened. But if He did give the clothes back, they would willingly carry out His orders in the mood of humble servants.

Śrī Kṛṣṇa replied that He had no fear of King Kāṁsa, and that if the girls really intended to follow His command and be His maidservants they should each immediately come onto the shore and take their respective garments. The girls, trembling from the cold, climbed out of the water with their two hands covering their private parts. Kṛṣṇa, who felt great affection for them, again spoke: "Because while executing a vow you bathed in the water naked, you have committed an offense against the demigods, and to counteract it you should offer obeisances with joined palms. Then your vow of austerity will achieve its full result."

The gopīs followed this instruction and, folding their hands in respect, offered obeisances to Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Satisfied, He gave them back their clothing. But the young girls had become so attracted to Him that they could not leave. Understanding their minds, Kṛṣṇa said that He knew they had worshiped Kātyāyanī to get Him as their husband. Because they had offered their hearts to Him, their desires would never again become tainted by the mood of materialistic enjoyment, just as fried barleycorns can no longer grow into shoots. Next autumn, He told them, their most cherished desire would be fulfilled.

Then the gopīs, fully satisfied, returned to Vraja, and Śrī Kṛṣṇa and His cowherd friends went off to a distant place to graze the cows.

Sometime later, when the boys felt disturbed by the great heat of summer, they took shelter at the base of a tree that stood just like an umbrella. The Lord then said that the life of a tree is most excellent, for even while feeling pain a tree continues to protect others from heat, rain, snow and so on. With its leaves, flowers, fruits, shade, roots, bark, wood, fragrance, sap, ashes, pulp and sprouts, a tree fulfills the desires of everyone. This kind of life is ideal. Indeed, said Kṛṣṇa, the perfection of life is to act with one's vital energy, wealth, intelligence and words for the benefit of all.

After the Lord had glorified the trees in this way, the entire company went to the Yamunā, where the cowherd boys let the cows drink the sweet water and also drank some themselves.

TEXT 1

श्रीशुक उवाच
हेमन्ते प्रथमे मासि
नन्दव्रजकमारिकाः
चेरुर्हविष्यं भुञ्जानाः
कात्यायन्यर्चनव्रतम्

śrī-śuka uvāca
hemante prathame māsi nanda-vraja-kamārikāḥ cerur haviṣyam bhuñjānāḥ kātyāyany-arcana-vratam

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; hemante—during the winter; prathame—in the first; māsi—month; nanda-vraja—of the cowherd village of Nanda Mahārāja; kumārikāḥ—the unmarried young girls; ceruḥ—performed; haviṣyam—unseasoned khichrī; bhuñjānāḥ—subsisting on; kātyāyanī—of the goddess Kātyāyanī; arcana-vratam—the vow of worship.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: During the first month of the winter season, the young unmarried girls of Gokula observed the vow of worshiping goddess Kātyāyanī. For the entire month they ate only unsiced khichrī.

PURPORT

The word hemante refers to the month of Mārgaśīrṣa—from approximately the middle of November to the middle of December, according to the Western calendar. In Chapter Twenty-two, of Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrīla Prabhupāda comments that the gopīs "first ate haviṣyānna, a kind of food prepared by boiling together mung dhāl and rice without any spices or turmeric. According to Vedic injunction, this kind of food is recommended to purify the body before one enacts a ritualistic ceremony."

TEXTS 2-3

आप्लुत्याम्भसि कालिन्द्या
जलान्ते चोदितेऽरुणे
कृत्वा प्रतिकृतिं देवीम्
आनर्चुर्नृप सैकतीम्

गन्धैर्माल्यैः सुरभिभिर्
बलिभिर्धूपदीपकैः

उच्चावचैश्चोपहारैः प्रवालफलतण्डुलैः

āplutyāmbhasi kālindyā jalānte codite 'aruṇe kṛtvā pratikṛtiṁ devīm ānarcur nṛpa saikatīm

*gandhair mālyaiḥ surabhibhir balibhir dhūpa-dīpakaiḥ uccāvacaiś copahāraiḥ
pravāla-phala-taṇḍulaiḥ*

SYNONYMS

āplutya—bathing; ambhasi—in the water; kālindyāḥ—of the Yamunā; jala-ante—on the shore of the river; ca—and; udite—as was arising; aruṇe—the dawn; kṛtvā—making; prati-kṛtiṁ—a deity; devīm—the goddess; ānarcuḥ—they worshiped; nṛpa—O King Parikṣit; saikatīm—made of earth; gandhaiḥ—with sandalwood pulp and other fragrant articles; mālyaiḥ—with garlands; surabhibhiḥ—fragrant; balibhiḥ—with gifts; dhūpa-dīpakaiḥ—with incense and lamps; ucca-avacaiḥ—opulent and also simple; ca—and; upahāraiḥ—with presentations; pravāla—newly grown leaves; phala—fruit; taṇḍulaiḥ—and betel nuts.

TRANSLATION

My dear King, after they had bathed in the water of the Yamunā just as the sun was rising, the gopés made an earthen deity of goddess Durgā on the riverbank. Then they worshiped her with such aromatic substances as sandalwood pulp, along with other items both opulent and simple, including lamps, fruits, betel nuts, newly grown leaves, and fragrant garlands and incense.

PURPORT

The word balibhiḥ in this verse indicates offerings of clothing, ornaments, food and so on.

TEXT 4

कात्यायनि महामाये
महायोगिन्यधीश्वरि
नन्दगोपसुतं देवि
पतिं मे कुरु ते नमः
इति मन्त्रं जपन्त्यस्ताः पूजां चक्रुः कुमारिकाः

*kātyāyani mahā-māye
mahā-yoginy adhīśvari nanda-gopa-sutaṁ devi patiṁ me kuru te namaḥ iti mantraṁ japantyaś tāḥ
pūjāṁ cakruḥ kamārikāḥ*

SYNONYMS

kātyāyanī—O goddess Kātyāyanī; mahā-māye—O great potency; mahā-yoginī—O possessor of great mystic power; adhīśvari—O mighty controller; nanda-gopa-sutaṁ—the son of Mahārāja Nanda; devi—O goddess; patiṁ—the husband; me—my; kuru—please make; te—unto you; namaḥ—my obeisances; iti—with these words; mantram—the hymn; japantyaḥ—chanting; tāḥ—they; pūjām—worship; cakruḥ—performed; kumārikāḥ—the unmarried girls.

TRANSLATION

Each of the young unmarried girls performed her worship while chanting the following mantra. "O goddess Kātyāyanī, O great potency of the Lord, O possessor of great mystic power and mighty controller of all, please make the son of Nanda Mahārāja my husband. I offer my obeisances unto you."

PURPORT

According to various ācāryas, the goddess Durgā mentioned in this verse is not the illusory energy of Kṛṣṇa called Maya but rather the internal potency of the Lord known as Yoga-māyā. The distinction between the internal and external, or illusory, potency of the Lord is described in the Nārada-pañcarātra, in the conversation between Śruti and Vidyā:

*jānāty ekāparā kāntam saivā durgā tad-ātmikā yā parā paramā śaktir
mahā-viṣṇu-svarūpiṇī*

*yasyā vijñāna-mātreṇa parāṇām paramātmanaḥ
mahūrtād deva-devasya
prāptir bhavati nānyathā*

*ekeyam prema-sarvasva svabhāvā gokuleśvarī anayā su-labho jñeya
ādi-devo 'khileśvaraḥ*

*asyā āvārika-śaktir mahā-māyākhileśvarī
yayā mugdaṁ jagat sarvaṁ
sarve dehābhimāninaḥ*

"The Lord's inferior potency, known as Durgā, is dedicated to His loving service. Being the Lord's potency, this inferior energy is nondifferent from Him. There is another, superior potency, whose form is on the same spiritual level as that of God Himself. Simply by scientifically understanding this supreme potency, one can immediately achieve the Supreme Soul of all souls, who is the Lord of all lords. There is no other process to achieve Him. That supreme potency of the Lord is known as Gokuleśvarī, the goddess of Gokula. Her nature is to be completely absorbed in love of God, and through Her one can easily obtain the primeval God, the Lord of all that be. This internal potency of the Lord has a covering potency, known as Mahā-māyā, who rules the material world. In fact she bewilders the entire universe, and thus everyone within the universe falsely identifies himself with the material body."

From the above we can understand that the internal and external, or superior and inferior, potencies of the Supreme Lord are personified as Yoga-māyā and Mahā-māyā, respectively. The name Durgā is sometimes used to refer to the internal, superior potency, as stated in the Pañcarātra: "In all mantras used to worship Kṛṣṇa, the presiding deity is known as Durgā." Thus in the transcendental sound vibrations glorifying and worshiping the Absolute Truth, Kṛṣṇa, the presiding deity of the particular mantra or hymn is called Durgā. The name Durgā therefore refers also to that personality who functions as the internal potency of the Lord and who is thus on the platform of śuddha-sattva, pure transcendental existence. This internal potency is understood to be Kṛṣṇa's sister, known also as Ekānamśā or Subhadrā. This is the Durgā who was worshiped by the gopīs in Vṛndāvana. Several ācāryas have pointed out that ordinary people are sometimes bewildered and think that the names Mahā-māyā and Durgā refer exclusively to the external potency of the Lord.

Even if we accept hypothetically that the gopīs were worshiping the external Māyā, there is no fault on their part, since in their pastimes of loving Kṛṣṇa they were acting as ordinary members of society. Śrīla Prabhupāda comments in this regard: "The Vaiṣṇavas generally do not worship any demigods. Śrīla Narottama dāsa Ṭhākura has strictly forbidden all worship of the demigods for anyone who wants to advance in pure devotional service. Yet the gopīs, who are beyond compare in their affection for Kṛṣṇa, were seen to worship Durgā. The worshipers of demigods also sometimes mention that the gopīs also worshiped goddess Durgā, but we must understand the purpose of the gopīs. Generally, people worship goddess Durgā for some material benediction. Here, the gopīs could adopt any means to satisfy or serve Kṛṣṇa. That was the superexcellent characteristic of the gopīs. They worshiped goddess Durgā completely for one month in order to have Kṛṣṇa as their husband. Every day they prayed for Kṛṣṇa, the son of Nanda Mahārāja, to become their husband."

The conclusion is that a sincere devotee of Kṛṣṇa will never imagine any material quality to exist in the transcendental gopīs, who are the most exalted devotees of the Lord. The only motivation in all their activities was simply to love and satisfy Kṛṣṇa, and if we foolishly consider their activities to be mundane in any way, it will be impossible for us to understand Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 5

एवं मासं व्रतं चेरुः कुमार्यः कृष्णचेतसः
भद्रकालीं समानर्चुर भूयान्नन्दसुतः पतिः

evam māsam vratam ceruḥ kumāryaḥ kṛṣṇa-cetasaḥ bhadrakālīm samānarcur bhūyān nanda-sutaḥ patiḥ

SYNONYMS

evam—in this manner; māsam—an entire month; vratam—their vow; ceruḥ—they executed; kumāryaḥ—the girls; kṛṣṇa-cetasaḥ—their minds absorbed in Kṛṣṇa; bhadra-kālīm—the goddess Kātyāyanī; samānarcuḥ—they properly worshiped; bhūyāt—may He become; nanda-sutaḥ—the son of King Nanda; patiḥ—my husband.

TRANSLATION

Thus for an entire month the girls carried out their vow and properly worshiped the goddess Bhadrakālī, fully absorbing their minds in Kṛṣṇa and meditating upon the following thought: "May the son of King Nanda become my husband."

TEXT 6

ऊषस्युत्थाय गोत्रैः स्वैर
अन्योन्याबद्धबाहवः
कृष्णमुच्चैर्जगुर्यान्त्यः कालिन्द्यां स्नातुमन्वहम्

ūṣasy utthāya gotraiḥ svair anyonyābaddha-bāhavaḥ kṛṣṇam uccair jagur yāntyāḥ

kālindiyām snātum anvaham

SYNONYMS

ūṣasi—at dawn; utthāya—rising; gotraiḥ—by their names; svaiḥ—proper; anyonya—one with another; ābaddha—holding; bāhavaḥ—their hands; kṛṣṇam—in glorification of Kṛṣṇa; uccaiḥ—loudly; jaguḥ—they sang; yāntyah—while going; kālindiyām—to the Yamunā; snātum—in order to bathe; anu-aham—each day.

TRANSLATION

Each day they rose at dawn. Calling out to one another by name, they all held hands and loudly sang the glories of Kṛṣṇa while going to the Kālindī to take their bath.

TEXT 7

नद्याः कदाचिदागत्य
तीरे निक्षिप्य पूर्ववत्
वासांसि कृष्णं गायन्त्यो विजहुः सलिले मुदा

nadyāḥ kadācid āgatya
tīre nikṣipya pūrva-vat vāsāṁsi kṛṣṇam gāyantyo
vijahruḥ salile mudā

SYNONYMS

nadyāḥ—of the river; kadācit—once; āgatya—coming; tīre—to the shore;

nikṣīpya—throwing down; pūrva-vat—as previously; vāsāmsi—their clothing; kṛṣṇam—about Kṛṣṇa; gāyantyah—singing; vijahruḥ—they played; salile—in the water; mudā—with pleasure.

TRANSLATION

One day they came to the riverbank and, putting aside their clothing as they had done before, happily played in the water while singing the glories of Kṛṣṇa.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura, this incident occurred on the day the young gopīs completed their vow, which was a full-moon day. To celebrate the successful completion of their vow, the girls invited young Rādhārāṇī—the daughter of Vṛṣabhānu and the special object of their affection—along with other important gopīs, and brought them all to the river to bathe. Their playing in the water was meant to serve as the avabhṛtha-snāna, the ceremonial bath taken immediately upon the completion of a Vedic sacrifice.

Śrīla Prabhupāda comments as follows: "It is an old system among Indian girls and women that when they take bath in the river they place their garments on the bank and dip into the water completely naked. The portion of the river where the girls and women take bath was strictly prohibited to any male, and this is still the system. The Supreme Personality of Godhead, knowing the minds of the unmarried young gopīs, awarded them their desired objective. They had prayed for Kṛṣṇa to become their husband, and Kṛṣṇa wanted to fulfill their desires."

TEXT 8

भगवांस्तदभिप्रेत्य

कृष्णो योगेश्वरेश्वरः
वयस्यैरावृतस्तत्र गतस्तत्कर्मसिद्धये

*bhagavāms tad abhipretya
kṛṣṇo yogeśvareśvaraḥ
vayasyair āvṛtas tatra
gatas tat-karma-siddhaye*

SYNONYMS

bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; tat—that; abhipretya—seeing; kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; yoga-īśvara-īśvaraḥ—the master of all masters of mystic power; vayasyaiḥ—by young companions; āvṛtaḥ—surrounded; tatra—there; gataḥ—went; tat—of those girls; karma—the ritualistic activities; siddhaye—for assuring the result.

TRANSLATION

Lord Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead and master of all masters of mystic yoga, was aware of what the gopīs were doing, and thus He went there surrounded by His young companions to award the gopīs the perfection of their endeavor.

PURPORT

As the master of all masters of mystic power, Lord Kṛṣṇa could easily understand the desires of the gopīs, and He could also fulfill them. The gopīs, like all young girls from respectable families, considered the embarrassment of appearing naked before a young boy to be worse than giving up their lives. Yet Lord Kṛṣṇa made them come out of the water and bow down to Him. Although the bodily forms of the gopīs were all fully developed, and although Kṛṣṇa met them in a secluded place and brought them fully under His control, because the Lord is completely transcendental there was not a trace of material desire in His mind. Lord Kṛṣṇa is the ocean of transcendental bliss, and He wanted to share His bliss with the gopīs on the spiritual platform, completely free of ordinary lust.

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura explains that the companions of Kṛṣṇa mentioned here were mere toddlers two or three years old. They were completely naked and were unaware of the difference between male and female. When Kṛṣṇa went out to herd the cows, they followed Him because they were so attached to Him that they could not bear to be without His association.

TEXT 9

तासां वासांस्युपादाय
नीपमारुह्य सत्वरः
हसद्भिः प्रहसन् बालैः परिहासमुवाच ह

*tāsām vāsāṁsy upādāya
nīpam āruhya satvaraḥ hasadbhiḥ prahasan bālaiḥ parihāsam uvāca ha*

SYNONYMS

tāsām—of those girls; vāsāṁsi—the garments; upādāya—taking; nīpam—a kadamba tree; āruhya—climbing; satvaraḥ—quickly; hasadbhiḥ—who were laughing; prahasan—Himself laughing loudly; bālaiḥ—with the boys;

parihāsam—joking words; uvāca ha—He spoke.

TRANSLATION

Taking the girls' garments, He quickly climbed to the top of a kadamba tree. Then, as He laughed loudly and His companions also laughed, He addressed the girls jokingly.

TEXT 10

अत्रागत्याबलाः कामं
स्वं स्वं वासः प्रगृह्यताम्
सत्यं ब्रवाणि नो नर्म यद्यूयं व्रतकर्षिताः

*atrāgatyābalāḥ kāmam
svam svam vāsaḥ pragṛhyatām satyam bravāṇi no narma
yad yūyam vrata-karṣitāḥ*

SYNONYMS

atra—here; āgatyā—coming; abalāḥ—O girls; kāmam—as you wish; svam svam—each your own; vāsaḥ—clothing; pragṛhyatām—please take; satyam—the truth; bruvāṇi—I am speaking; na—not; u—rather; narma—jest; yat—because; yūyam—you; vrata—by your vow of austerity; karṣitāḥ—fatigued.

TRANSLATION

[Lord Kṛṣṇa said:] My dear girls, you may each come here as you wish and take back your garments. I'm telling you the truth and am not joking with you, since I see you're fatigued from executing austere vows.

TEXT 11

न मयोदितपूर्वं वा
अनृतं तदिमे विदुः
एकैकशः प्रतीच्छध्वं सहैवेति सुमध्यमाः

*na mayodita-pūrvam vā anṛtaṁ tad ime viduḥ ekaikaśaḥ pratīcchadhvam
sahaiveti su-madhyamāḥ*

SYNONYMS

na—never; mayā—by Me; udita—spoken; pūrvam—previously; vai—definitely; anṛtam—anything false; tat—that; ime—these young boys; viduḥ—know; eka-ekaśaḥ—one by one; pratīcchadhvam—pick out (your garments); saha—or all together; eva—indeed; iti—thus; su-madhyamāḥ—O slender-waisted girls.

TRANSLATION

I have never before spoken a lie, and these boys know it. Therefore, O slender-waisted girls, please come forward, either one by one or all together, and pick out your clothes.

TEXT 12

तस्य तत्क्ष्वेलितं दृष्ट्वा
गोप्यः प्रेमपरिप्लुताः
व्रीडिताः प्रेक्ष्य चान्योन्यं जातहासा न निर्ययुः

tasya tat kṣvelitaṁ dṛṣṭvā gopyaḥ prema-pariplutāḥ vrīḍitāḥ prekṣya cānyonyam jāta-hāsā na niryayuh

SYNONYMS

tasya—His; tat—that; kṣvelitam—joking behavior; dṛṣṭvā—seeing; gopyaḥ—the gopīs; prema-pariplutāḥ—fully immersed in pure love of Godhead; vrīḍitāḥ—embarrassed; prekṣya—glancing; ca—and; anyonyam—upon one another; jāta-hāsāḥ—beginning to laugh; na niryayuh—they did not come out.

TRANSLATION

Seeing how Kṛṣṇa was joking with them, the gopīs became fully immersed in love for Him, and as they glanced at each other they began to laugh and joke among themselves, even in their embarrassment. But still they did not come out of the water.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura explains this verse as follows:

"The gopīs were from most respectable families, and they might have argued with Kṛṣṇa: 'Why don't You simply leave our clothes on the bank of the river and go away?'

"Kṛṣṇa might have replied, 'But there are so many of you that some of the girls might take clothes belonging to another.'

"The gopīs would reply, 'We are honest and never steal anything. We never touch another's property.'

"Then Kṛṣṇa would say, 'If that's true, then simply come and get your clothes. What is the difficulty?'

"When the gopīs saw Kṛṣṇa's determination, they were filled with loving ecstasy. Although embarrassed, they were overjoyed to receive such attention from Kṛṣṇa. He was joking with them as if they were His wives or girlfriends, and the gopīs' only desire was to achieve such a relationship with Him. At the same time, they were embarrassed to be seen naked by Him. But still they could not help laughing at His joking words and even began to joke among themselves, one gopī urging another, 'Go ahead, you go first, and let us see if Kṛṣṇa plays any tricks on you. Then we will go later.' "

TEXT 13

एवं ब्रुवति गोविन्दे
नर्मणाक्षिप्तचेतसः
आकण्ठमग्नाः शीतोदे वेपमानास्तमब्रुवन

*evam bruvati govinde narmanākṣipta-cetasah
ā-kaṇṭha-magnāḥ śītode vepamānās tam abruvan*

SYNONYMS

evam—thus; bruvati—speaking; govinde—Lord Govinda; narmaṇā—by His joking words; ākṣipta—agitated; cetasaḥ—their minds; ā-kaṇṭha—up to their necks; magnāḥ—submerged; śīta—cold; ude—in the water; vepamānāḥ—shivering; tam—to Him; abruvan—they spoke.

TRANSLATION

As Śrī Govinda spoke to the gopīs in this way, His joking words completely captivated their minds. Submerged up to their necks in the cold water, they began to shiver. Thus they addressed Him as follows.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura gives the following example of joking between Kṛṣṇa and the gopīs.

Kṛṣṇa: O birdlike girls, if you do not come here, then with these garments caught in the branches I will make a swing and a hammock. I need to lie down, since I have spent the entire night awake and am now becoming sleepy.

Gopīs: Our dear cowherd boy, Your cows, greedy for grass, have gone into a cave. So You must quickly go there to herd them back on the proper path.

Kṛṣṇa: Come now, My dear cowherd girls, you must quickly go from here to Vraja and perform your household duties. Don't become a disturbance to your parents and other elders.

Gopīs: Our dear Kṛṣṇa, we will not go home for an entire month, for it is by the order of our parents and other elders that we are executing this vow of fasting, the Kātyāyanī-vrata.

Kṛṣṇa: .My dear austere ladies, I too, by the strength of seeing you, have now developed a surprising mood of detachment from family life. I wish to stay here for a month and execute the vow of dwelling in the clouds. And if you show mercy to Me, I can come down from here and observe the vow of fasting in your company.

The gopīs were completely captivated by Kṛṣṇa's joking words, but out of shyness they submerged themselves in the water up to their necks. Shaking from the cold, they addressed Kṛṣṇa as follows.

TEXT 14

मानयं भोः कृथास्त्वां तु
नन्दगोपसुतं प्रियम्
जानीमोऽङ्ग व्रजश्लाघ्यं देहि वासांसि वेपिताः

mānayaṁ bhoḥ kṛthāś tvāṁ tu nanda-gopa-sutaṁ priyam jānīmo 'ṅga vraja-ślāghyaṁ dehi vāsāṁsi vepitāḥ

SYNONYMS

mā—do not; anayam—injustice; bhoḥ—our dear Kṛṣṇa; kṛthāḥ—do; tvām—You; tu—on the other hand; nanda-gopa—of Mahārāja Nanda; sutam—the son; priyam—loved; jānīmaḥ—we know; aṅga—O dear one; vraja-ślāghyam—renowned throughout Vraja; dehi—please give; vāsāṁsi—our garments; vepitāḥ—(to us) who are shivering.

TRANSLATION

[The gopīs said:] Dear Kṛṣṇa, don't be unfair! We know that You are the respectable son of Nanda and that You are honored by everyone in Vraja. You are also very dear to us. Please give us back our clothes. We are shivering in the cold water.

TEXT 15

श्यामसुन्दर ते दास्यः
करवाम तवोदितम्
देहि वासांसि धर्मज्ञ नो चेद्राज्ञे ब्रुवाम हे

*śyāmasundara te dāsyah karavāma tavoditam
dehi vāsāṁsi dharma-jña
no ced rājñe bruvāma he*

SYNONYMS

śyāmasundara—O Lord Śyāmasundara; te—Your; dāsyah—maidservants; karavāma—we shall do; tava—by You; uditam—what is spoken; dehi—please give; vāsāṁsi—our clothing; dharma-jña—O knower of religion; na—not; u—indeed; cet—if; rājñe—to the king; bruvāmaḥ—we shall tell; he—O Kṛṣṇa.

TRANSLATION

O Śyāmasundara, we are Your maidservants and must do whatever You say. But give us back our clothing. You know what the religious principles are, and if You don't give us our clothes we will have to tell the king. Please!

TEXT 16

श्रीभगवानुवाच
भवत्यो यदि मे दास्यो
मयोक्तं वा करिष्यथ
अत्रागत्य स्ववासांसि
प्रतीच्छत शुचिस्मिताः
नो चेन्नाहं प्रदास्ये किं क्रुद्धो राजा करिष्यति

*śrī-bhagavān uvāca
bhavatyo yadi me dāsyo mayoktaṁ vā kariṣyatha atrāgatya sva-vāsāṁsi pratīcchata śuci-smitāḥ no cen nāhaṁ pradāsyē kiṁ
kruddho rājā kariṣyati*

SYNONYMS

śrī-bhagavān uvāca—the Supreme Personality of Godhead said; bhavatyah—you; yadi—if; me—My; dāsyah—servants; mayā—by Me; uktam—what has been spoken; vā—or; kariṣyatha—you will do; atra—here; āgatya—coming; sva-vāsāṁsi—your own garments; pratīcchata—pick out; śuci—fresh; smitāḥ—whose smiles; na u—not; cet—if; na—not; aham—I ; pradāsyē—will give; kim—what; kruddhaḥ—angry; rājā—the king; kariṣyati—will be able to do.

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Personality of Godhead said: If you girls are actually My maidservants, and if you will really do what I say, then come here with your innocent smiles and let each girl pick out her clothes. If you don't do what I say, I won't give them back to you. And even if the king becomes angry, what can he do?

PURPORT

Śrīla Prabhupāda comments, "When the gopīs saw that Kṛṣṇa was strong and determined, they had no alternative but to abide by His order."

TEXT 17

ततो जलाशयात्सर्वा
दारिकाः शीतवेपिताः
पाणिभ्यां योनिमाच्छाद्य प्रोत्तेरुः शीतकर्षिताः

*tato jalāśayāt sarvā dārikāḥ śīta-vepitāḥ pāṇibhyām yonim ācchādyā
protteruḥ śīta-karśitāḥ*

SYNONYMS

tataḥ—then; jala-āśayāt—out of the river; sarvāḥ—all; dārikāḥ—the young girls; śīta-vepitāḥ—shivering from the cold; pāṇibhyām—with their hands; yonim—their pubic area; ācchādyā—covering; protteruḥ—they came up; śīta-karśitāḥ—pained by the cold.

TRANSLATION

Then, shivering from the painful cold, all the young girls rose up out of the water, covering their pubic area with their hands.

PURPORT

The gopīs had assured Kṛṣṇa that they were His eternal servants and would do whatever He said, and thus they were now defeated by their own words. If they delayed any longer, they thought, some other man might come along, and this would be unbearable for them. The gopīs loved Kṛṣṇa so much that even in that awkward situation their attachment to Him was increasing more and more, and they were very eager to stay in His company. Thus they did not even consider drowning themselves in the river because of the embarrassing situation.

They concluded that they could do nothing but go forward to their beloved Kṛṣṇa, putting aside their embarrassment. Thus the gopīs assured each other that there was no alternative and rose up out of the water to meet Him.

TEXT 18

भगवानाहता वीक्ष्य
शुद्ध भावप्रसादितः
स्कन्धे निधाय वासांसि प्रीतः प्रोवाच सस्मितम्

bhagavān āhatā vīkṣya śuddha -bhāva-prasāditāḥ skandhe nidhāya vāsāmsi prītaḥ provāca sa-smitam

SYNONYMS

bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; āhatāḥ—struck; vikṣya—seeing; śuddha—pure; bhāva—by their loving affection; prasāditāḥ—satisfied; skandhe—upon His shoulder; nidhāya—placing; vāsāmsi—their garments; prītaḥ—lovingly; provāca—spoke; sa-smitam—while smiling.

TRANSLATION

When the Supreme Lord saw how the gopīs were struck with embarrassment, He was satisfied by their pure loving affection. Putting their clothes on His shoulder, the Lord smiled and spoke to them with affection.

PURPORT

Śrīla Prabhupāda comments, "The gopīs' simple presentation was so pure that Lord Kṛṣṇa immediately became pleased with them. All the unmarried gopīs who prayed to Kātyāyanī to have Kṛṣṇa as their husband were thus satisfied. A woman cannot be naked before any male except her husband. The unmarried gopīs desired Kṛṣṇa as their husband, and He fulfilled their desire in this way."

For aristocratic girls like the gopīs, standing naked before a young boy was worse than death, and yet they decided to give up everything for the pleasure of Lord Kṛṣṇa. He wanted to see the power of their love for Him, and He was completely satisfied by their unalloyed devotion.

TEXT 19

यूयं विवस्त्रा यदपो धृतव्रता
व्यगाहतैतत्तदु देवहेलनम्

बद्ध्वाञ्जलिं मूर्धन्यपनुत्तयेऽहसः कृत्वा नमोऽधोवसनं प्रगृह्यताम्

yūyam vivastrā yad apo dhṛta-vratā vyagāhataitad tad u deva-helanam baddhvāñjalim mūrdhny āpanuttaye 'mhasaḥ kṛtvā namo 'dho-vasanam pragṛhyatām

SYNONYMS

yūyam—you; vivastrāḥ—naked; yad—because; apaḥ—in the water; dhṛta-vratāḥ—while executing a Vedic ritualistic vow; vyagāhata—bathed; etat tat—this; u—indeed; deva-helanam—an offense against Varuṇa and the other gods; baddhvā añjalim—with palms joined together; mūrdhni—upon your heads; āpanuttaye—for counteracting; mhasaḥ—your sinful action; kṛtvā namaḥ—paying obeisances; adhāḥ-vasanam—your lower garments; pragṛhyatām—please take back.

TRANSLATION

[Lord Kṛṣṇa said:] You girls bathed naked while executing your vow, and that is certainly an offense against the demigods. To counteract your sin you should offer obeisances while placing your joined palms above your heads. Then you should take back your lower garments.

PURPORT

Kṛṣṇa wanted to see the full surrender of the gopīs, and thus He ordered them to offer obeisances with their palms joined above their heads. In other words, the gopīs could no longer cover their bodies. We should not foolishly think that Lord Kṛṣṇa is an ordinary lusty boy enjoying the naked beauty of the gopīs. Kṛṣṇa is the Supreme Absolute Truth, and He was acting to fulfill the loving desire of the young cowherd girls of Vṛndāvana. In this world we would certainly become lusty in a situation like this. But to compare ourselves to God is a great offense, and because of this offense we will not be able to understand Kṛṣṇa's transcendental position, for we will wrongly take Him to be materially conditioned like ourselves. To lose transcendental sight of Kṛṣṇa is certainly a great disaster for one trying to relish the bliss of the Absolute Truth.

TEXT 20

इत्यच्युतेनाभिहितं व्रजाबला
मत्वा विवस्त्राप्लवनं व्रतच्युतिम्
तत्पूर्तिकामास्तदशेषकर्मणां साक्षात्कृतं नेमुरवद्यमृग्यतः

ity acyutenābhihitam vrajābalā matvā vivastrāplavanam vrata-cyutim tat-pūrti-kāmās tad-aśeṣa-karmaṇām sākṣāt-kṛtam nemur avadya-mṛgyataḥ

SYNONYMS

iti—in these words; acyutena—by the infallible Supreme Lord; abhihitam—indicated; vraja-abalāḥ—the girls of Vraja; matvā—considering; vivastra—naked; āplavanam—the bathing; vraja-cyutim—a falldown from their vow; tat-pūrti—the successful completion of that; kāmāḥ—intently desiring; tat—of that performance; aśeṣa-karmaṇām—and of unlimited other pious activities; sākṣāt-kṛtam—to the directly manifest fruit; nemuḥ—they offered their obeisances; avadya-mṛk—the cleanser of all sins; yataḥ—because.

TRANSLATION

Thus the young girls of Vṛndāvana, considering what Lord Acyuta had told them, accepted that they had suffered a falldown from their vow by bathing naked in the river. But they still desired to successfully complete their vow, and since Lord Kṛṣṇa is Himself the ultimate result of all pious activities, they offered their obeisances to Him to cleanse away all their sins.

PURPORT

The transcendental position of Kṛṣṇa consciousness is clearly described here. The gopīs decided that it was better to renounce their so-called family tradition and traditional morality and simply surrender unto the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa. This does not mean that the Kṛṣṇa consciousness movement advocates immoral activities. In fact, the devotees of ISKCON practice the highest standard of restraint and morality, but at the same time we recognize the transcendental position of Kṛṣṇa. Lord Kṛṣṇa is God and therefore has no material desire to enjoy young girls in sexual affairs. As will be seen in this chapter, Lord Kṛṣṇa was not at all attracted to enjoying the gopīs; rather He was attracted to their love and wanted to satisfy them.

The greatest offense is to imitate the activities of Lord Kṛṣṇa. In India there is a group called prākṛta-sahajiyā, who imitate these affairs of Kṛṣṇa and try to enjoy naked young girls in the name of worshiping Kṛṣṇa. The ISKCON movement sternly rejects this mockery of religion, because the greatest offense is for a human being to ludicrously imitate the Supreme Personality of Godhead. In the ISKCON movement there are no cheap incarnations, and it is not possible for a devotee of this movement to promote himself to the position of Kṛṣṇa.

Five hundred years ago Kṛṣṇa appeared as Lord Caitanya Mahāprabhu, who practiced strict celibacy throughout His student life and at the age of twenty-four took sannyāsa, a lifelong vow of celibacy. Caitanya Mahāprabhu rigidly avoided contact with women in order to carry out His vow of loving service to Kṛṣṇa. When Kṛṣṇa personally appeared five thousand years ago, He exhibited these wonderful pastimes, which attract our attention. We should not become envious or shocked when we hear that God can perform such pastimes. Our shock is due to our ignorance, because if we tried to perform these activities our bodies would be afflicted by lust. Lord Kṛṣṇa, however, is the Supreme Absolute Truth and is therefore never disturbed by any material desire whatsoever. Thus, this incident—in which the gopīs gave up normal standards of morality and, raising their hands to their head, bowed down in compliance with Kṛṣṇa's order—is an example of pure devotional surrender and not a discrepancy in religious principles.

In fact, the gopīs' surrender is the perfection of all religion, as Śrīla Prabhupāda describes in Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead: "The gopīs were all simple souls, and whatever Kṛṣṇa said, they took to be true. In order to be freed from the wrath of Varuṇadeva, as well as to fulfill the desired end of their vows and ultimately to please their worshipable Lord, Kṛṣṇa, they immediately abided by His order. Thus they became the greatest lovers of Kṛṣṇa, and His most obedient servitors.

"Nothing can compare to the Kṛṣṇa consciousness of the gopīs. Actually the gopīs did not care for Varuṇa or any other demigod; they only wanted to satisfy Kṛṣṇa."

TEXT 21

तास्तथावनता दृष्ट्वा
भगवान्देवकीसुतः
वासांसि ताभ्यः प्रायच्छत् करुणस्तेन तोषितः

*tās tathāvanatā dṛṣṭvā
bhagavān devakī-sutaḥ
vāsāmsi tābhyaḥ prāyacchat karuṇas tena toṣitaḥ*

SYNONYMS

tāḥ—then; tathā—thus; avanatāḥ—bowed down; dṛṣṭvā—seeing; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; devakī-sutaḥ—Kṛṣṇa, the son of Devakī; vāsāmsi—the garments; tābhyaḥ—to them; prāyacchat—He returned; karuṇaḥ—compassionate; tena—by that act; toṣitaḥ—satisfied .

TRANSLATION

Seeing them bow down like that, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, the son of Devakī, gave them back their garments, feeling compassionate toward them and satisfied by their act.

TEXT 22

दृढं प्रलब्धास्त्रपया च हापिताः
प्रस्तोभिताः क्रीडनवच्च कारिताः
वस्त्राणि चैवापहतान्यथाप्यमुं ता नाभ्यसूयन् प्रियसङ्गनिर्वृताः dṛḍham pralabdhās trapayā ca hāpitāḥ prastobhitāḥ krīḍana-vac ca kārītāḥ vastrāṇi caivāpahṛtāny athāpy amum tā nābhyasūyan priya-saṅga-nirvṛtāḥ

SYNONYMS

dr̥ḍham—thoroughly; pralabdhāḥ—cheated; trapayā—of their shame; ca—and; hāpitāḥ—deprived; prastobhitāḥ—laughed at; krīḍana-vat—just like toy dolls; ca—and; kāritāḥ—made to act; vastrāṇi—their clothing; ca—and; eva—indeed; apahṛtāni—stolen; atha api—nevertheless; amum—toward Him; tāḥ—they; na abhyasūyan—did not feel inimical; priya—of their beloved; saṅga—by the association; nirvṛtāḥ—joyful.

TRANSLATION

Although the gopīs had been thoroughly cheated, deprived of their modesty, ridiculed and made to act just like toy dolls, and although their clothing had been stolen, they did not feel at all inimical toward Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Rather, they were simply joyful to have this opportunity to associate with their beloved.

PURPORT

Śrīla Prabhupāda comments, "This attitude of the gopīs is described by Lord Caitanya Mahāprabhu when he prays, 'My dear Lord Kṛṣṇa, You may embrace Me or trample Me under Your feet, or You may make Me brokenhearted by never being present before Me. Whatever You like, You can do, because You have complete freedom to act. But in spite of all of Your dealings, You are My Lord eternally, and I have no other worshipable object.' This is the attitude of the gopīs toward Kṛṣṇa."

TEXT 23

परिधाय स्ववासांसि
प्रेष्ठसङ्गमसञ्जिताः

गृहीतचित्ता नो चेलुस तस्मिन्नलज्जायितेक्षणाः

*paridhāya sva-vāsāṁsi preṣṭha-saṅgama-sajjitāḥ grhīta-cittā no celus
tasmin lajjāyitekṣaṇāḥ*

SYNONYMS

paridhāya—putting on; sva-vāsāṁsi—their own garments; preṣṭha—of their beloved; saṅgama—by this association; sajjitāḥ—becoming completely attached to Him; grhīta—taken away; cittāḥ—whose minds; na—could not; u—indeed; celuḥ—move; tasmin—upon Him; lajjāyita—full of shyness; īkṣaṇāḥ—whose glances.

TRANSLATION

The gopés were addicted to associating with their beloved Kṛṣṇa, and thus they became captivated by Him. Thus, even after putting their clothes on they did not move. They simply remained where they were, shyly glancing at Him.

PURPORT

By association with their beloved Kṛṣṇa, the gopīs had become more attached to Him than ever. Just as Kṛṣṇa had stolen their clothes, He had also stolen their minds and their love. The gopīs interpreted the whole incident as proof that Kṛṣṇa was also attached to them. Otherwise, why would He have gone to the trouble of playing with them in this way? Because they thought that Kṛṣṇa was now attached to them, they glanced at Him with shyness, and being stunned by the rising of their ecstatic love, they could not move from where they stood. Kṛṣṇa had overcome their shyness and forced them to come out of the water naked, but now, having dressed properly, they again became shy in His presence. In fact, this incident increased their humbleness before Kṛṣṇa. They did not want Kṛṣṇa to see them staring at Him, but they cautiously took the opportunity to glance at the Lord.

TEXT 24

तासां विज्ञाय भगवान्
स्वपादस्पर्शकाम्यया
धृतव्रतानां सङ्कल्पम् आह दामोदरोऽबलाः

*tāsām vijñāya bhagavān
sva-pāda-sparśa-kāmyayā dhṛta-vratānām saṅkalpam
āha dāmodaro 'balāḥ*

SYNONYMS

tāsām—of these girls; vijñāya—understanding; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; sva-pāda—of His own feet; sparśa—for the touch; kāmyayā—with the desire; dhṛta-vratānām—who had taken their vow; saṅkalpam—the motivation; āha—spoke; dāmodaraḥ—Lord Dāmodara; abalāḥ—to the girls.

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Lord understood the determination of the gopīs in executing their strict vow. The Lord also knew that the girls desired to touch His lotus feet, and thus Lord Dāmodara, Kṛṣṇa, spoke to them as follows.

TEXT 25

सङ्कल्पो विदितः साध्व्यो
भवतीनां मदर्चनम्
मयानुमोदितः सोऽसौ सत्यो भवितुमर्हति

*saṅkalpo viditaḥ sādhyo bhavatīnām mad-arcanam mayānumoditaḥ so 'sau
satyo bhavitum arhati*

SYNONYMS

saṅkalpaḥ—the motivation; viditaḥ—understood; sādhvyaḥ—O pious girls; bhavatīnām—your; mat-arcanam—worship of Me; mayā—by Me; anumoditaḥ—approved of; saḥ asau—that; satyaḥ—true; bhavitum—to become; arhati—must.

TRANSLATION

[Lord Kṛṣṇa said:] O saintly girls, I understand that your real motive in this austerity has been to worship Me. That intent of yours is approved of by Me, and indeed it must come to pass.

PURPORT

Just as Kṛṣṇa is free of all impure desire, so are the gopīs. Their attempt to gain Kṛṣṇa as their husband was therefore motivated not by a desire for personal sense gratification but by their overwhelming desire to serve Kṛṣṇa and to please Him. Because of their intense love, the gopīs did not see Kṛṣṇa as God but rather as the most wonderful boy in all creation, and being beautiful young girls, they desired only to please Him by loving service. Lord Kṛṣṇa understood the pure desire of the gopīs and was thus satisfied. The Lord could certainly not be satisfied by ordinary lust, but He was moved by the intense loving devotion of the cowherd girls of Vṛndāvana.

TEXT 26

न मय्यावेशितधियां
कामः कामाय कल्पते
भर्जिता क्वथिता धानाः
प्रायो बीजाय नेशते

*na mayy āveśita-dhiyām
kāmaḥ kāmāya kalpate bharjitā kvathitā dhānāḥ
prāyo bījāya neśate*

SYNONYMS

na—not; mayi—in Me; āveśita—fully absorbed; dhiyām—of those whose consciousness; kāmaḥ—desire; kāmāya—to material lust; kalpate—leads; bharjitāḥ—burned; kvathitāḥ—cooked; dhānāḥ—grains; prāyaḥ—for the most part; bījāya—new growth; na iṣyate—are not capable of causing.

TRANSLATION

The desire of those who fix their minds on Me does not lead to material desire for sense gratification, just as barleycorns burned by the sun and then cooked can no longer grow into new sprouts.

PURPORT

The words mayy āveśita-dhiyām are very significant here. Unless one has achieved an advanced degree of devotion, one cannot fix the mind and intelligence on Kṛṣṇa, since Kṛṣṇa is pure spiritual existence. Self-realization is a state not of desirelessness but rather of purified desire, wherein one desires only the pleasure of Lord Kṛṣṇa. The gopīs were certainly attracted to Kṛṣṇa in a mood of conjugal love, and yet, having fixed their minds and indeed their entire existence completely on Kṛṣṇa, their conjugal desire could never manifest as material lust; rather, it became the most exalted form of love of Godhead ever seen within the universe.

TEXT 27

याताबला व्रजं सिद्धा
मयेमा रंस्यथा क्षपाः
यदुद्दिश्य व्रतमिदं चेरुरार्यार्चनं सतीः

*yātābalā vrajaṁ siddhā mayemā raṁsyathā kṣapāḥ yad uddiśya vratam idaṁ
cerur āryārcanaṁ satīḥ*

SYNONYMS

yāta—go now; abalāḥ—My dear girls; vrajaṁ—to Vraja; siddhāḥ—having achieved your desire; mayā—with Me; imāḥ—these; raṁsyatha—you will enjoy; kṣapāḥ—the nights; yat—which; uddiśya—having in mind;

vrataṁ—vow; idaṁ—this; ceruḥ—you executed; āryā—of goddess Kātyāyanī; arcanam—the worship; satīḥ—being pure.

TRANSLATION

Go now, girls, and return to Vraja. Your desire is fulfilled, for in My company you will enjoy the coming nights. After all, this was the purpose of your vow to worship goddess Kātyāyanī, O pure-hearted ones.

TEXT 28

श्रीशुक उवाच
इत्यादिष्टा भगवता
लब्धकामाः कुमारिकाः
ध्यायन्त्यस्तत्पदाम्भोजम् कृच्छ्रान्निर्विविशुव्रजम्

śrī-śuka uvāca
ity ādiṣṭā bhagavatā
labdha-kāmāḥ kumārikāḥ dhyāyantyas tat-padāmbhojam kṛcchrān nirviviśur vrajam

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; iti—thus; ādiṣṭāḥ—instructed; bhagavatā—by the Supreme Personality of Godhead; labdha—having obtained; kāmāḥ—their desire; kumārikāḥ—the young girls; dhyāyantyaḥ—meditating; tat—His; pada-ambhojam—upon the lotus feet; kṛcchrāt—with difficulty; nirviviśuḥ—they returned; vrajam—to the cowherd village.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Thus instructed by the Supreme Personality of Godhead, the young girls, their desire now fulfilled, could bring themselves only with great difficulty to return to the village of Vraja, meditating all the while upon His lotus feet.

PURPORT

The gopīs' desire was fulfilled because Lord Kṛṣṇa had agreed to act as their husband. A young girl can never spend the night with any man except her husband, and thus when Kṛṣṇa agreed to engage the girls in the nocturnal rāsa dance during the coming autumn season, in effect He was agreeing to reciprocate their love for Him in the role of a husband.

TEXT 29

अथ गोपैः परिवृतो
भगवान्देवकीसुतः
वृन्दावनाद्गतो दूरं चारयन् गाः सहाग्रजः

*atha gopaiḥ parivṛto
bhagavān devakī-sutaḥ
vṛndāvanād gato dūraṁ
cārayan gāḥ sahāgrajaḥ*

SYNONYMS

atha—some time later; gopaiḥ—by the cowherd boys; parivṛtaḥ—surrounded; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; devakī-sutaḥ—the son of Devakī; vṛndāvanāt—from Vṛndāvana; gataḥ—He went; dūram—a distance; cārayan—grazing; gāḥ—the cows; saha-agrajaḥ—together with His brother Balarāma.

TRANSLATION

Some time later Lord Kṛṣṇa, the son of Devakī, surrounded by His cowherd friends and accompanied by His elder brother, Balarāma, went a good distance away from Vṛndāvana, herding the cows.

PURPORT

Having described how Lord Kṛṣṇa stole the garments of the young gopīs, Śukadeva Gosvāmī now begins introducing the description of Lord Kṛṣṇa's blessings upon the wives of some ritualistic brāhmaṇas.

TEXT 30

निदघार्कातपे तिग्मे
छायाभिः स्वाभिरात्मनः
आतपत्रायितान् वीक्ष्य द्रुमानाह व्रजौकसः

nidaghārkātape tigme
chāyābhiḥ svābhir ātmanaḥ ātapatrāyitān vīkṣya
drumān āha vrajaukasah

SYNONYMS

nidāgha—of the hot season; arka—of the sun; ātape—in the heat; tigme—fierce; chayabhiḥ—with the shade; svābhiḥ—their own; ātmanaḥ—for Himself; ātapatrāyitān—serving as umbrellas; vīkṣya—observing; drumān—the trees; aha—He said; vraja-okasaḥ—to the boys of Vraja.

TRANSLATION

Then the sun's heat became intense, Lord Kṛṣṇa saw that the trees were acting as umbrellas by shading Him, and thus He spoke as follows to His boyfriends.

TEXTS 31-32

हे स्तोककृष्ण हे अंशो
श्रीदामन् सुबलार्जुन
विशाल वृषभौजस्विन्
देवप्रस्थ वरूथप

पश्यतैतान्महाभागान्
परार्थैकान्तजीवितान्
वातवर्षातपहिमान् सहन्तो वारयन्ति नः

he stoka-kṛṣṇa he aṁśo
śrīdāman subalārjuna viśāla vṛṣabhaujasvin

devaprastha varūthapa paśyataitān mahā-bhāgān parārthaikānta-jīvitān vāta-varṣātaṇa-himān
sahanto vārayanti naḥ

SYNONYMS

he stoka-kṛṣṇa—O Stoka Kṛṣṇa; he aṁśu—O Aṁśu; śrīdāman subala arjuna—O Śrīdāmā, Subala and Arjuna; viśāla vṛṣabha ojasvin—O Viśāla, Vṛṣabha and Ojasvī; devaprastha varūthapa—O Devaprastha and Varūthapa; paśyata—just see; etān—these; mahā-bhāgān—most fortunate; para-artha—for the benefit of others; ekānta—exclusively; jīvitān—whose life; vāta—the wind; varṣa—rain; ātaṇa—heat of the sun; himān—and snow; sahantaḥ—tolerating; vārayanti—keep off; naḥ—for us.

TRANSLATION

[Lord Kṛṣṇa said:] O Stoka Kṛṣṇa and Aṁśu, O Śrīdāmā, Subala and Arjuna, O Vṛṣabha, Ojasvī, Devaprastha and Varūthapa, just see these greatly fortunate trees, whose lives are completely dedicated to the benefit of others. Even while tolerating the wind, rain, heat and snow, they protect us from these elements.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa was preparing to bestow His mercy on the wives of the hard-hearted ritualistic brāhmaṇas, and in these verses the Lord indicates that even trees who are dedicated to the welfare of others are superior to brāhmaṇas who are not. Certainly the members of the Kṛṣṇa consciousness movement should soberly study this point.

TEXT 33

अहो एषां वरं जन्म
सर्व प्राण्युपजीवनम्
सुजनस्येव येषां वै विमुखा यान्ति नार्थिनः

*aho eṣāṁ varam janma
sarva -prāṇy-upajīvanam su-janasyeva yeṣāṁ vai vimukhā yānti nārthinaḥ*

SYNONYMS

aho—oh, just see; eṣāṁ—of these trees; varam—superior; janma—birth; sarva—for all; prāṇi—living entities; upajīvanam—who provide maintenance; su-janasya iva—like a great personality; yeṣāṁ—from whom; vai—certainly; vimukhāḥ—disappointed; yānti—go away; na—never; arthinaḥ—those who are asking for something.

TRANSLATION

Just see how these trees are maintaining every living entity! Their birth is successful. Their behavior is just like that of great personalities, for anyone who asks anything from a tree never goes away disappointed.

PURPORT

This translation is quoted from Śrīla Prabhupāda's Caitanya-caritāmṛta (Ādi 9.46).

TEXT 34

पत्रपुष्पफलच्छाया- मूलवल्कलदारुभिः
गन्धनिर्यासभस्मास्थि- तोकमैः कामान् वितन्वते

patra-puṣpa-phala-cchāyāmūla-valkala-dārubhiḥ gandha-niryāsa-bhasmāsthi-tokmaiḥ kāmān vitanvate

SYNONYMS

patra—by their leaves; puṣpa—flowers; phala—fruits; chāyā—shade; mūla—roots; valkala—bark; dārubhiḥ—and wood; gandha—by their fragrance; niryāsa—sap; bhasma—ashes; asthi—pulp; tokmaiḥ—and young shoots; kāmān—desirable things; vitānvate—they award.

TRANSLATION

These trees fulfill one's desires with their leaves, flowers and fruits, their shade, roots, bark and wood, and also with their fragrance, sap, ashes, pulp and shoots.

TEXT 35

एतावज्जन्मसाफल्यं
देहिनामिह देहिषु

प्राणैरर्थैर्धिया वाचा श्रेयआचरणं सदा

etāvaj janma-sāphalyam dehinām iha dehiṣu prāṇair arthair dhiyā vācā śreya-ācaraṇam sadā

SYNONYMS

etāvat—up to this; janma—of birth; sāphalyam—perfection; dehinām—of every living being; iha—in this world; dehiṣu—toward those who are embodied; prāṇaiḥ—by life; arthaiḥ—by wealth; dhiyā—by intelligence; vācā—by words; śreyaḥ—eternal good fortune; ācaraṇam—acting practically; sadā—always.

TRANSLATION

It is the duty of every living being to perform welfare activities for the benefit of others with his life, wealth, intelligence and words.

PURPORT

This translation is quoted from Śrīla Prabhupāda's Caitanya-caritāmṛta (Ādi 9.42).

TEXT 36

इति प्रवालस्तबक-फलपुष्पदलोत्करैः

तरूणां नम्रशाखानां
मध्यतो यमुनां गतः

iti pravāla-stabakaphala-puṣpa-dalotkaraiḥ tarūṇām namra-śākhānām madhyato yamunām gataḥ

SYNONYMS

iti—thus speaking; pravāla—of new branches; stabaka—by the clusters; phala—of fruit; puṣpa—flowers; dala—and leaves; utkaraiḥ—by the abundance; tarūṇām—of the trees; namra—bowed down; śākhānām—whose branches; madhyataḥ—from within the midst; yamunām—the Yamunā River; gataḥ—He came upon.

TRANSLATION

Thus moving among the trees, whose branches were bent low by their abundance of twigs, fruits, flowers and leaves, Lord Kṛṣṇa came to the Yamunā River.

TEXT 37

तत्र गाः पाययित्वापः
सुमृष्टाः शीतलाः शिवाः
ततो नृप स्वयं गोपाः कामं स्वादु पपुर्जलम्

tatra gāḥ pāyayitvāpaḥ

*su-mṛṣṭāḥ śītalāḥ śivāḥ tato nṛpa svayam gopāḥ
kāmaṁ svādu papur jalam*

SYNONYMS

tatra—there; gāḥ—the cows; pāyayitvā—making drink; apaḥ—the water; su-mṛṣṭāḥ—very clear; śītalāḥ—cool; śivāḥ—wholesome; tataḥ—then; nṛpa—O King Parīkṣit; svayam—themselves; gopāḥ—the cowherd boys; kāmaṁ—freely; svādu—sweet-tasting; papur—they drank; jalam—the water.

TRANSLATION

The cowherd boys let the cows drink the clear, cool and wholesome water of the Yamunā. O King Parīkṣit, the cowherd boys themselves also drank that sweet water to their full satisfaction.

TEXT 38

तस्या उपवने कामं
चारयन्तः पशून्प
कृष्णरामावुपागम्य क्षुधार्ता इदमब्रवन्

*tasyā upavane kāmaṁ cārayantaḥ paśūn nṛpa
kṛṣṇa-rāmāv upāgamya
kṣudh-ārtā idam abravan*

SYNONYMS

tasyāḥ—along the Yamunā; upavane—within a small forest; kāmam—here and there, as they wished; cārayantaḥ—tending; paśūn—the animals; nṛpa—O King; kṛṣṇa-rāmau—Lord Kṛṣṇa and Lord Rāma; upāgamyā—approaching; kṣut-ārtāḥ—disturbed by hunger; idam—this; abruvan—they (the cowherd boys) said.

TRANSLATION

Then, O King, the cowherd boys began herding the animals in a leisurely way within a small forest along the Yamunā. But soon they became afflicted by hunger and, approaching Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, spoke as follows.

PURPORT

Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī explains that the cowherd boys were concerned that Kṛṣṇa would be hungry, and thus they feigned their own hunger so that Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma would make suitable arrangements to eat.

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A . C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Twenty-second Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "Kṛṣṇa Steals the Garments of the Unmarried Gopīs."

23. The Brāhmaṇas' Wives Blessed

This chapter describes how Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, after inducing the cowherd boys to beg for food, showed mercy to the wives of some brāhmaṇas performing a sacrifice and made the brāhmaṇas themselves feel remorse.

When the cowherd boys became very hungry, they asked Śrī Kṛṣṇa about obtaining food, and He sent them to beg some from a group of brāhmaṇas who were performing a sacrifice nearby. But these brāhmaṇas ignored the boys, thinking Śrī Kṛṣṇa an ordinary human being. The boys returned disappointed, but the Lord sent them off again, advising them to ask the brāhmaṇas' wives for the food. These ladies had heard of Kṛṣṇa's transcendental qualities and were very much attached to Him. Thus as soon as they learned He was nearby, they went to Him in great haste, bringing all four varieties of food. In this way they offered themselves to Śrī Kṛṣṇa.

Kṛṣṇa told the women that while one can develop transcendental love for Him by seeing His Deity form in the temple, meditating upon Him and chanting His glories, one cannot achieve this result simply by being in His physical presence. He advised them that since they were housewives, their particular duty was to help their husbands perform sacrifices. He therefore instructed them to return to their homes.

When the ladies went back home, their brāhmaṇa husbands at once felt remorse, and they lamented, "For anyone inimical to Kṛṣṇa, his three births-seminal, brahminical and sacrificial-are all condemned. On the other hand, these womenfolk, who have not undergone the purificatory processes of the brahminical class or performed any austerity or pious rituals, have through devotion for Kṛṣṇa easily cut off the bondage of death.

"Since Lord Kṛṣṇa's every desire is completely fulfilled, His begging for food was simply an act of mercy toward us brāhmaṇas. All the fruits of Vedic sacrifice-and indeed all things on earth-are His opulences, yet out of ignorance we could not appreciate this fact."

Having spoken thus, all the brāhmaṇas offered their obeisances to Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, hoping to counteract their offense. Nonetheless, out of fear of King Kāṁsa they did not go to see the Lord in person.

TEXT 1

श्रीगोप ऊचुः
राम राम महाबाहो
कृष्ण दुष्टनिबर्हण
एषा वै बाधते क्षुन्नस तच्छान्तिं कर्तुमर्हथः

*śrī-gopa ūcuḥ
rāma rāma mahā-bāho
kṛṣṇa duṣṭa-nibarhaṇa
eṣā vai bādhate kṣun nas tac-chāntim kartum arhathaḥ*

SYNONYMS

śrī-gopāḥ ūcuḥ—the cowherd boys said; rāma rāma—O Lord Rāma, Lord Rāma; mahā-bāho—O mighty-armed one; kṛṣṇa—O Lord Kṛṣṇa; duṣṭa—of the wicked; nibarhaṇa—O destroyer; eṣā—this; vai—indeed; bādhate—is causing distress; kṣut—hunger; naḥ—to us; tat-śāntim—its counteraction; kartum arhathaḥ—You ought to do.

TRANSLATION

The cowherd boys said: O Rāma, Rāma, mighty-armed one! O Kṛṣṇa, chastiser of the wicked ! We are being harassed by hunger, and You should do something about it.

PURPORT

The cowherd boys jokingly implied that since Śrī Kṛṣṇa is the subduer of all bad things, the Lord should subdue their hunger by arranging for them to eat. In this statement by the cowherd boys, we observe the intimate loving friendship they enjoyed with the Supreme Personality of Godhead.

TEXT 2

श्रीशुक उवाच
इति विज्ञापितो गोपैर्
भगवान्देवकीसुतः
भक्ताया विप्रभार्यायाः प्रसीदन्निदमब्रवीत्

śrī-śuka uvāca
iti vijñāpito gopair
bhagavān devakī-sutaḥ
bhaktāyā vipra-bhāryāyāḥ prasīdann idam abravīt

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; iti—thus; vijñāpitaḥ—informed; gopaiḥ—by the cowherd boys; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; devakī-sutaḥ—the son of Devakī; bhaktāyāḥ—His devotees; vipra-bhāryāyāḥ—the wives of the brāhmaṇas; prasīdan—desiring to satisfy; idam—this; abravīt—He spoke.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Thus entreated by the cowherd boys, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, the son of Devakī, replied as follows, desiring to please certain of His devotees who were brāhmaṇas' wives.

TEXT 3

प्रयात देवयजनं
ब्राह्मणा ब्रह्मवादिनः
सत्रमाङ्गिरसं नाम ह्यासते स्वर्गकाम्यया

*prayāta deva-yajanaṁ
brāhmaṇā brahma-vādinah satram āṅgirasam nāma
hy āsate svarga-kāmyayā*

SYNONYMS

prayāta—please go; deva-yajanaṁ—to the sacrificial arena; brāhmaṇāḥ—brāhmaṇas; brahma-vādinah—followers of the Vedic injunctions; satram—a sacrifice; āṅgirasam nāma—known as Āṅgirasa; hi—indeed; āsate—they are now performing; svarga-kāmyayā—with the motive of promotion to heaven.

TRANSLATION

[Lord Kṛṣṇa said:] Please go to the sacrificial arena where a group of brāhmaṇas, learned in the Vedic injunctions, are now performing the Āṅgirasa sacrifice to gain promotion to heaven.

TEXT 4

तत्र गत्वौदनं गोपा
याचतास्मद्विसर्जिताः कीर्तयन्तो भगवत आर्यस्य मम चाभिधाम्

*tatra gatvaudanam gopā yācatāsmad-visarjitāḥ kīrtayanto bhagavata
āryasya mama cābhidhām*

SYNONYMS

tatra—there; gatvā—going; odanam—food; gopāḥ—My dear cowherd boys; yācata—just request; asmat—by Us; visarjitāḥ—dispatched; kīrtayantaḥ—announcing; bhagavataḥ—of the Supreme Lord; āryasya—the elder; mama—My; ca—also; abhidhām—name.

TRANSLATION

When you go there, My dear cowherd boys, simply request some food.
Declare to them the name of My elder brother, the Supreme Lord Balarāma, and also My name, and explain that you have been sent by Us.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa encouraged His boyfriends to request charity without being embarrassed. In case the boys felt they had no right to personally approach such respectable brāhmaṇas, the Lord told them to mention the names of Balarāma and Kṛṣṇa, the holy names of God.

TEXT 5

इत्यादिष्टा भगवता
गत्वा याचन्त ते तथा
कृताञ्जलिपुटा विप्रान्
दण्डवत्पतिता भुवि

*ity ādiṣṭā bhagavatā
gatvā yācanta te tathā kṛtāñjali-putā viprān
daṇḍa-vat patitā bhuvi*

SYNONYMS

iti—in these words; ādiṣṭaḥ—ordered; bhagavatā—by the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa; gatvā—going; yācanta—begged; te—they; tathā—in that manner; kṛta-añjali-putāḥ—joining their palms in humble supplication; viprān—to the brāhmaṇas; daṇḍa-vat-like sticks; patitāḥ—falling; bhuvi—upon the ground.

TRANSLATION

Thus instructed by the Supreme Personality of Godhead, the cowherd boys went there and submitted their request. They stood before the brāhmaëas with palms joined in supplication and then fell flat on the ground to offer respect.

TEXT 6

हे भूमिदेवाः शृणुत
कृष्णस्यादेशकारिणः
प्राप्ताञ्जनीत भद्रं वो

गोपान्नो रामचोदितान्

*he bhūmi-devāḥ śṛṇuta kṛṣṇasyādeśa-kāriṇaḥ prāptāñ jānīta bhadram vo
gopān no rāma-coditān*

SYNONYMS

he bhūmi-devāḥ—O earthly gods; śṛṇuta—please hear us; kṛṣṇasya ādeśa—of the order of Kṛṣṇa; kāriṇaḥ—the executors; prāptān—arrived; jānīta—please recognize; bhadram—all good; vaḥ—unto you; gopān—cowherd boys; naḥ—us; rāma-coditān—sent by Lord Rāma.

TRANSLATION

[The cowherd boys said:] O earthly gods, please hear us. We cowherd boys are executing the orders of Kṛṣṇa, and we have been sent here by Balarāma. We wish all good for you. Please acknowledge our arrival.

PURPORT

The term bhūmi-devāḥ, "gods on earth," refers here to the brāhmaṇas, who are supposed to closely represent the will of the Supreme Lord. The philosophy of Kṛṣṇa consciousness is not a primitive polytheistic doctrine holding that human beings on the earth are gods. Rather, it is a science that traces the descent of authority from the Absolute Truth Himself, Śrī Kṛṣṇa. The authority and power of God naturally extend along with the extension of His creation, and on the earth the Lord's will and authority are represented by purified, enlightened men called brāhmaṇas.

This account will illustrate that the ritualistic brāhmaṇas approached by the cowherd boys were not at all properly enlightened and thus could not appreciate the position of Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma or that of Their intimate associates. In fact, this pastime exposes the pretentious position of so-called brāhmaṇas who are not faithful devotees of the Supreme Lord.

TEXT 7

गाश्चारयन्तावविदूर ओदनं
रामाच्युतौ वो लषतो बुभुक्षितौ
तयोर्द्विजा ओदनमर्थिनोर्यदि श्रद्धा च वो यच्छत धर्मवित्तमाः

gāś cārayantāv avidūra odanam rāmācyutau vo laṣato bubhukṣitau tayor dvijā odanam arthinor yadi śraddhā ca vo yacchata dharma-vittamāḥ

SYNONYMS

gāḥ—Their cows; cārayantau—grazing; avidūre—not far away; odanam—food; rāma-acyutau—Lord Rāma and Lord Acyuta; vaḥ—from you; laṣataḥ—are desiring; bubhukṣitau—being hungry; tayoḥ—for Them; dvijāḥ—O brāhmaṇas; odanam-food; arthinoḥ—begging; yadi—if; śraddhā—any faith; ca—and; vaḥ—on your part; yacchata—please give; dharma-vit-tamāḥ—O best knowers of the principles of religion.

TRANSLATION

Lord Rāma and Lord Acyuta are tending Their cows not far from here. They are hungry and want you to give Them some of your food. Therefore, O brāhmaëas, O best of the knowers of religion, if you have faith please give some food to Them.

PURPORT

The cowherd boys doubted the generosity of the brāhmaṇas, and thus they used the word bubhuksiṭau, meaning that Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma were hungry. The boys expected the brāhmaṇas to know the Vedic injunction annasya kṣuditaṁ pātram: "Anyone who is hungry is a fit candidate for receiving food in charity." But if the brāhmaṇas would not recognize the authority of Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, their title dvija would be taken to mean merely "born from two parents" (dvi-from two, ja-born) rather than "twice-born." When the brāhmaṇas did not respond to the cowherd boys' initial request, the boys addressed the brāhmaṇas, with a slight trace of sarcasm, as dharma-vit-tamāḥ, "O best of the knowers of religion."

TEXT 8

दीक्षायाः पशुसंस्थायाः
सौत्रामण्याश्च सत्तमाः
अन्यत्र दीक्षितस्यापि नान्नमश्नन् हि दुष्यति

dikṣāyāḥ paśu-saṁsthāyāḥ sautrāmaṇyāś ca sattamāḥ anyatra dikṣitasyāpi
nānnam aśnan hi duṣyati

SYNONYMS

dikṣāyāḥ—beginning with the initiation for a sacrifice;
paśu-saṁsthāyāḥ—until sacrificing the animal; sautrāmaṇyāḥ—outside of the sacrifice known as Sautrāmaṇi; ca—and; sat-tamāḥ—O purest ones; anyatra—elsewhere; dīkṣitasya—of one who has been initiated for the sacrifice; api—even; na—not; annam—food; aśnan—eating; hi—indeed; duṣyati—creates offense.

TRANSLATION

Except during the interval between the initiation of the performer of a sacrifice and the actual sacrifice of the animal, O most pure brāhmaëas, it is not contaminating for even the initiated to partake of food, at least in sacrifices other than the Sautrāmaṇi.

PURPORT

The cowherd boys anticipated the possible objection from the brāhmaṇas that they couldn't give the boys any food because they themselves had not yet eaten, and that a priest initiated to perform a sacrifice should not eat. Therefore the boys humbly informed the brāhmaṇas about various technicalities of ritualistic sacrifice. The cowherd boys were not unaware of the formalities of Vedic culture, but their real intention was simply to render loving service to Lord Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 9

इति ते भगवद्याज्ज्ञां
शृण्वन्तोऽपि न शुश्रुवुः
क्षुद्राशा भूरिकर्माणो बालिशा वृद्धमानिनः

iti te bhagavad-yācñām

śṛṇvanto 'pi na śuśruvuh kṣudrāśā bhūri-karmāṇo
bāliśā vṛddha-māninaḥ

SYNONYMS

iti—thus; te—they, the brāhmaṇas; bhagavat—of the Supreme Personality of Godhead; yācñām—the supplication; śṛṇvantaḥ—hearing; api—although; na śuśruvuh—they did not hear; kṣudra-āśāḥ—full of petty desire; bhūri-karmāṇaḥ—entangled in elaborate ritualistic activities; bāliśāḥ—childish fools; vṛddha-māninaḥ—presuming themselves to be wise men.

TRANSLATION

The brāhmaëas heard this supplication from the Supreme Personality of Godhead, yet they refused to pay heed. Indeed, they were full of petty desires and entangled in elaborate rituals. Though presuming themselves advanced in Vedic learning, they were actually inexperienced fools.

PURPORT

These childish brāhmaṇas were full of petty desires, such as the desire to attain to material heaven, and therefore they could not recognize the golden transcendental opportunity offered them by the arrival of Kṛṣṇa's personal boyfriends. Presently, throughout the world, people are madly pursuing material advancement and thus cannot hear the message of the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa that is being broadcast through the missionary activities of the Kṛṣṇa consciousness movement. Times have hardly changed, and proud, materialistic priests are still prevalent on the earth.

TEXTS 10-11

देशः कालः पृथग्द्रव्यं
मन्त्रतन्त्रत्विजोऽग्नयः
देवता यजमानश्च
ऋतुर्धर्मश्च यन्मयः

तं ब्रह्म परमं साक्षाद्
भगवन्तमधोक्षजम्
मनुष्यदृष्ट्या दुष्प्रज्ञा मर्त्यात्मानो न मेनिरे

*deśaḥ kālaḥ pṛthag dravyam mantra-tantrartvijo 'gnayaḥ
devatā yajamānaś ca
kratur dharmaś ca yan-mayaḥ tam brahma paramam sākṣād bhagavantam adhokṣajam manuṣya-dṛṣṭyā duṣprajñā martyātmāno na menire*

SYNONYMS

deśaḥ—the place; kālaḥ—time; pṛthag dravyam—particular items of paraphernalia; mantra—Vedic hymns; tantra—prescribed rituals; ṛtvijaḥ—priests; agnayaḥ—sacrificial fires; devatāḥ—the presiding demigods; yajamānaḥ—the performer of the sacrifice; ca—and; kratuḥ—the offering; dharmaḥ—the invisible power of fruitive results; ca—and; yat—whom; mayaḥ—constituting; tam—Him; brahma paramam—the Supreme Absolute Truth; sākṣāt—directly manifest; bhagavantam—the Personality of Godhead;

adhokṣajam—who is transcendental to material senses; manuṣya-dṛṣṭyā—seeing Him as an ordinary man; duṣprajñāḥ—perverted in their intelligence; martya-ātmānaḥ—falsely identifying themselves with the material body; na menire—they did not properly honor.

TRANSLATION

Although the ingredients of sacrificial performance—the place, time, particular paraphernalia, mantras, rituals, priests, fires, demigods, performer, offering and the as yet unseen beneficial results—are all simply aspects of His opulences, the brāhmaëas saw Lord Kṛṣṇa as an ordinary human because of their perverted intelligence. They failed to recognize that He is the Supreme Absolute Truth, the directly manifest Personality of Godhead, whom the material senses cannot ordinarily perceive. Thus bewildered by their false identification with the mortal body, they did not show Him proper respect.

PURPORT

The ritualistic brāhmaṇas could not understand why the sacrificial food should be offered to Lord Kṛṣṇa, whom they considered an ordinary human being. Just as a person with rose-colored glasses sees the entire world as rose-colored, a conditioned soul with mundane vision sees even God Himself as mundane and thus loses the opportunity to go back home, back to Godhead.

TEXT 12

न ते यदोमिति प्रोचुर
न नेति च परन्तप
गोपा निराशाः प्रत्येत्य

तथोचुः कृष्णरामयोः

na te yad om iti procur na neti ca parantapa gopā nirāśāḥ pratyetya
tathocūḥ kṛṣṇa-rāmayoḥ

SYNONYMS

na—not; te—they; yat—when; om—"so be it"; iti—thus; procur—did speak;
na—not; na—"no"; iti—thus; ca—either; parantapa—O chastiser of the enemies, Parīkṣit Mahārāja; gopāḥ—the cowherd boys; nirāśāḥ—discouraged; pratyetya—returning; tathā—thus; ūcūḥ—described; kṛṣṇa-rāmayoḥ—to Lord Kṛṣṇa and Lord Rāma.

TRANSLATION

When the brāhmaëas failed to reply even with a simple yes or no, O chastiser of the enemy [Parīkṣit], the cowherd boys returned disappointed to Kṛṣṇa and Rāma and reported this to Them.

TEXT 13

तदुपाकर्ण्य भगवान्
प्रहस्य जगदीश्वरः
व्याजहार पुनर्गोपान्
दर्शयन्लौकिकीं गतिम्

tad upākarṇya bhagavān
prahasya jagad-īśvaraḥ

*vyājahāra punar goṇān
darśayan laukikīm gatim*

SYNONYMS

tat—that; upākarṇya—hearing; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; prahasya—laughing; jagat-īśvaraḥ—the controller of the entire universe; vyājahāra—addressed; punaḥ—again; goṇān—the cowherd boys; darśayan—showing; laukikīm—of the ordinary world; gatim—the way.

TRANSLATION

Hearing what had happened, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, the Lord of the universe, simply laughed. Then He again addressed the cowherd boys, showing them the way men act in this world.

PURPORT

By laughing, Lord Kṛṣṇa indicated to the cowherd boys that they need not be angry at the ritualistic brāhmaṇas but should understand that one who begs will often be refused.

TEXT 14

मां ज्ञापयत पत्नीभ्यः
ससङ्कर्षणमागतम्
दास्यन्ति काममन्नं वः स्निग्धा मय्युषिता धिया

mām jñāpayata patnībhyaḥ sa-saṅkarṣaṇam āgatam

dāsyanti kāmam annam vaḥ snigdhā mayy uṣitā dhiyā

SYNONYMS

mām—Me; jñāpayata—please announce; patnībhyaḥ—to the wives; sa-saṅkarṣaṇam—together with Lord Balarāma; āgatam—arrived; dāsyanti—they will give; kāmam—as much as you desire; annam—food; vaḥ—to you; snigdhāḥ—affectionate; mayi—in Me; uṣitāḥ—residing; dhiyā—with their intelligence.

TRANSLATION

[Lord Kṛṣṇa said:] Tell the wives of the brāhmaṇas that I have come here with Lord Saṅkarṣaṇa. They will certainly give you all the food you want, for they are most affectionate toward Me and, indeed, with their intelligence reside in Me alone.

PURPORT

While physically the wives of the brāhmaṇas remained at home, within their minds they resided in the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa because of intense affection for Him. Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura explains that the reason Lord Kṛṣṇa did not have the cowherd boys tell the brāhmaṇas' wives He was hungry is that He knew this would severely distress these devoted ladies. Simply out of affection for Lord Kṛṣṇa, however, the wives would be happy to give all the food requested of them. They would not heed their husbands' prohibitions, since they resided within the Lord through their transcendental intelligence.

TEXT 15

गत्वाथ पत्नीशालायां
दृष्ट्वासीनाः स्वलङ्कृताः
नत्वा द्विजसतीर्गोपाः प्रश्रिता इदमब्रुवन्

*gatvātha patnī-śālāyām
dṛṣṭvāsīnāḥ sv-alāṅkṛtāḥ natvā dvija-satīr gopāḥ praśritā idam abruvan*

SYNONYMS

gatvā—going; atha—then; patnī-śālāyām—in the house of the wives of the brāhmaṇas; dṛṣṭvā—seeing them; asīnāḥ—sitting; su-alāṅkṛtāḥ—nicely ornamented; natvā—bowing down to offer obeisances; dvija-satīḥ—to the chaste wives of the brāhmaṇas; gopāḥ—the cowherd boys; praśritāḥ—humbly; idam—this; abruvan—spoke.

TRANSLATION

The cowherd boys then went to the house where the brāhmaëas' wives were staying. There the boys saw those chaste ladies sitting, nicely decorated with fine ornaments. Bowing down to the brāhmaëa ladies, the boys addressed them in all humility.

TEXT 16

नमो वो विप्रपत्नीभ्यो
निबोधत वचांसि नः

इतोऽविदूरे चरता कृष्णेनेहेषिता वयम्

*namo vo vipra-patnībhyo nibodhata vacāṁsi naḥ ito 'vidūre caratā
kṛṣṇeneheṣitā vayam*

SYNONYMS

namaḥ—obeisances; vaḥ—unto you; vipra-patnībhyāḥ—the wives of the brāhmaṇas; nibodhata—please hear; vacāṁsi—words; naḥ—our; itaḥ—from here; avidūre—not distant; caratā—who is going; kṛṣṇena—by Lord Kṛṣṇa; iha—here; iṣitāḥ—sent; vayam—we.

TRANSLATION

[The cowherd boys said:] Obeisances unto you, O wives of the learned brāhmaṇas. Kindly hear our words. We have been sent here by Lord Kṛṣṇa, who is passing by not far from here.

TEXT 17

गाश्चारयन् स गोपालैः
सरामो दूरमागतः
बुभुक्षितस्य तस्यान्नं
सानुगस्य प्रदीयताम्

*gāś cārayan sa goṇālaiḥ
sa-rāmo dūram āgataḥ*

bubhukṣitasya tasyānnaṁ sānugasya pradīyatām

SYNONYMS

gāḥ—the cows; cārayan—tending; saḥ—He; gopālaiḥ—in the company of the cowherd boys; sa-rāmaḥ—together with Lord Balarāma; dūram—from far away; āgataḥ—has come; bubhukṣitasya—who is hungry; tasya—for Him; annam—food; sa-anugasya—together with His companions; pradīyatām—should be given.

TRANSLATION

He has come a long way with the cowherd boys and Lord Balarāma, tending the cows. Now He is hungry, so some food should be given for Him and His companions.

TEXT 18

श्रुत्वाच्युतमुपायातं
नित्यं तद्दर्शनोत्सुकाः
तत्कथाक्षिप्तमनसो बभूवुर्जातसम्भ्रमाः

śrutvācyutam upāyātām nityaṁ tad-darśanotsukāḥ tat-kathākṣipta-manaso babhūvur jāta-sambhramāḥ

SYNONYMS

śrutvā—hearing; acyutam—Lord Kṛṣṇa; upāyātam—come nearby; nityam—constantly; tat-darśana—for the sight of Him; utsukāḥ—eager; tat-kathā—by descriptions of Him; ākṣpita—enchanted; manasaḥ—their minds; babhūvuḥ—they became; jāta-sambhramāḥ—excited.

TRANSLATION

The wives of the brāhmaëas were always eager to see Kṛṣṇa, for their minds had been enchanted by descriptions of Him. Thus as soon as they heard that He had come, they became very excited.

TEXT 19

चतुर्विधं बहुगुणम्
अन्नमादाय भाजनैः
अभिसस्रुः प्रियं सर्वाः समुद्रमिव निम्नगाः

catur-vidham bahu-guṇam
annam ādāya bhājanaiḥ abhisasruḥ priyam sarvāḥ samudram iva nimnagāḥ

SYNONYMS

catur-vidham—of the four varieties (that which is chewed, that which is drunk, that which is licked and that which is sucked); bahu-guṇam—endowed with many rich tastes and fragrances; annam—food; ādāya—bringing; bhājanaiḥ—in large vessels; abhisasruḥ—they went forward; priyam—to their beloved; sarvāḥ—all of them; samudram—to the ocean; iva—just as;

nimna-gāḥ—the rivers.

TRANSLATION

Taking along in large vessels the four kinds of foods, full of fine tastes and aromas, all the ladies went forth to meet their beloved, just as rivers flow toward the sea.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura explains that the wives of the brāhmaṇas experienced conjugal feelings toward Kṛṣṇa, as if He were their paramour; thus they could not be checked as they rushed to see Him.

TEXT 20-21

निषिध्यमानाः पतिभिर्
भ्रातृभिर्बन्धुभिः सुतैः
भगवत्युत्तमश्लोके
दीर्घश्रुत धृताशयाः

यमुनोपवनेऽशोक
नवपल्लवमण्डिते
विचरन्तं वृतं गोपैः साग्रजं ददृशुः स्त्रियः

niṣidhyamānāḥ patibhir bhrātr̥bhir bandhubhiḥ sutaiḥ bhagavaty uttama-śloke

dīrgha-śruta -dhṛtāśayāḥ

*yamunopavane 'śoka nava-pallava-maṇḍite vicarantam vṛtam gopaiḥ
sāgrajam dadṛśuḥ striyaḥ*

SYNONYMS

niṣidhyamānāḥ—being forbidden; patibhiḥ—by their husbands; bhrātr̥bhiḥ—by their brothers; bandhubhiḥ—by other relatives; sutaiḥ—and by their sons; bhagavati—directed toward the Supreme Personality of Godhead; uttama-śloke—who is praised with transcendental hymns; dīrgha—for a long time; śruta—because of hearing; dhṛta—acquired; āśayāḥ—whose expectations; yamunā-upavane—in a garden along the river Yamunā; aśoka-nava-pallava—by the buds of the aśoka trees; maṇḍite—decorated; vicarantam—wandering; vṛtam—surrounded; gopaiḥ—by the cowherd boys; sa-agrajam—together with His elder brother; dadṛśuḥ—they saw; striyaḥ—the ladies.

TRANSLATION

Although their husbands, brothers, sons and other relatives tried to forbid them from going, their hope of seeing Kṛṣṇa, cultivated by extensive hearing of His transcendental qualities, won out. Along the river Yamunā, within a garden decorated with buds of açoka trees, they caught sight of Him strolling along in the company of the cowherd boys and His elder brother, Balarāma.

TEXT 22

श्यामं हिरण्यपरिधिं वनमाल्यबर्ह-धातुप्रवालनटवेषमनव्रतांसे

विन्यस्तहस्तमितरेण धुनानमब्जं कर्णोत्पलालककपोलमुखाब्जहासम् śyāmam hiraṇya-paridhim vanamālya-barhadhātu-pravāla-naṭa-veṣam anavratāmse vinyasta-hastam itareṇa dhunānam abjam karṇotpalālaka-kapola-mukhābja-hāsam

SYNONYMS

śyāmam—dark blue in complexion; hiraṇya—golden; paridhim—whose garment; vana-mālya—with a forest garland; barha—peacock feather; dhātu—colored minerals; pravāla—and sprigs of buds; naṭa—like a dancer upon the stage; veṣam—dressed; anuvrata—of a friend; amse—upon the shoulder; vinyasta—placed; hastam—His hand; itareṇa—with the other; dhunānam—twirling; abjam—a lotus; karṇa—upon His ears; utpala—lilies; alaka-kapola—with hair extending over His cheeks; mukha-abja—upon His lotuslike face; hāsam—having a smile.

TRANSLATION

His complexion was dark blue and His garment golden. Wearing a peacock feather, colored minerals, sprigs of flower buds, and a garland of forest flowers and leaves, He was dressed just like a dramatic dancer. He rested one hand upon the shoulder of a friend and with the other twirled a lotus. Lilies graced His ears, His hair hung down over His cheeks, and His lotuslike face was smiling.

TEXT 23

प्रायःश्रुतप्रियतमोदयकर्णपूरैर्

यस्मिन्निमग्नमनसस्तमथाक्षिरन्दैः
अन्तः प्रवेश्य सुचिरं परिरभ्य तापं प्राज्ञं यथाभिमतयो विजहुर्नरेन्द्र prāyaḥ-śruta-priyatamodaya-karṇa-pūrain yasmin nimagna-manasas tam athākṣi-randraiḥ antaḥ praveśya su-ciraṁ parirabhya tāpaṁ prājñam yathābhimatayo vijahur narendra

SYNONYMS

prāyaḥ—repeatedly; śruta—heard; priya-tama—of their dearmost; udaya—the glories; karṇa-pūraiḥ—which were the ornaments of their ears; yasmin—in whom; nimagna—submerged; manasaḥ—their minds; tam—Him; atha—then; akṣi-randhraiḥ—through the apertures of their eyes; antaḥ—within; praveśya—making enter; su-ciraṁ—for a long time; parirabhya—embracing; tāpaṁ—their distress; prājñam—the inner consciousness; yathā—as; abhimatayaḥ—the functions of false ego; vijahuḥ—they gave up; nara-indra—O ruler of men.

TRANSLATION

O ruler of men, for a long time those brāhmaëa ladies had heard about Kṛṣṇa, their beloved, and His glories had become the constant ornaments of their ears. Indeed, their minds were always absorbed in Him. Through the apertures of their eyes they now forced Him to enter within their hearts, and then they embraced Him within for a long time. In this way they finally gave up the pain of separation from Him, just as sages give up the anxiety of false ego by embracing their innermost consciousness.

TEXT 24

तास्तथा त्यक्तसर्वाशाः
प्राप्ता आत्मदिदृक्षया
विज्ञायाखिलदृग्द्रष्टा प्राह प्रहसिताननः

*tās tathā tyakta-sarvāśāḥ prāptā ātma-didṛkṣayā vijñāyākhila-dṛg-draṣṭā
prāha prahasitānanaḥ*

SYNONYMS

tāḥ—those ladies; tathā—in such a state; tyakta-sarva-āśāḥ—having given up all material desires; prāptāḥ—arrived; ātma-didṛkṣayā—with the desire of seeing Himself; vijñāya—understanding; akhila-dṛk—of the vision of all creatures; draṣṭā—the seer; prāha—He spoke; prahasita-ānanaḥ—with a smile upon His face.

TRANSLATION

Lord Kṛṣṇa, who witnesses the thoughts of all creatures, understood how those ladies had abandoned all worldly hopes and come there simply to see Him. Thus He addressed them as follows with a smile upon His face.

TEXT 25

स्वागतं वो महाभागा
आस्यतां करवाम किम्

यन्नो दिदृक्षया प्राप्ता उपपन्नमिदं हि वः

*svāgatam vo mahā-bhāgā āsyatām karavāma kim yan no didṛkṣayā prāptā
upapannam idam hi vaḥ*

SYNONYMS

su-āgatam—auspicious welcome; vaḥ—for you; mahā-bhāgāḥ—O fortunate ladies; āsyatām—please come sit; karavāma—I can do, kim-what; yat—because; naḥ—Us; didṛkṣayā—with the desire of seeing; prāptāḥ—you have come; upapannam—fitting; idam—this; hi—certainly; vaḥ—on your part.

TRANSLATION

[Lord Kṛṣṇa said:] Welcome, O most fortunate ladies. Please sit down and make yourselves comfortable. What can I do for you? That you have come here to see Me is most appropriate.

PURPORT

Just as Śrī Kṛṣṇa welcomed the gopīs who came to dance with Him at night, He similarly welcomed the brāhmaṇas' wives, whose pure love for Him was proved by their overcoming many hindrances to see the Lord. The word upapannam indicates that although these ladies had rejected their husbands' orders, their behavior was not at all inappropriate, since their husbands had obviously tried to obstruct their loving service to Lord Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 26

नन्वद्धा मयि कुर्वन्ति
कुशलाः स्वार्थदर्शिनः
अहैतुक्यव्यवहितां भक्तिमात्मप्रिये यथा

nanv addhā mayi kurvanti kuśalāḥ svārtha-darśinaḥ ahaituky avyavahitām bhaktim ātma-priye yathā

SYNONYMS

nanu—certainly; addhā—directly; mayi—unto Me; kurvanti—they perform; kuśalāḥ—those who are expert; sva-artha—their own true benefit; darśinaḥ—who perceive; ahaitukī—unmotivated; avyavahitām—uninterrupted; bhaktim—devotional service; ātma—to the soul; priye—who am most dear; yathā—properly.

TRANSLATION

Certainly expert personalities, who can see their own true interest, render unmotivated and uninterrupted devotional service directly unto Me, for I am most dear to the soul.

PURPORT

The Supreme Lord informed the brāhmaṇas' wives that not only they but all people who recognize their true self-interest take to the spiritual process of loving service to the Lord. Lord Kṛṣṇa is ātma-priya, the real object of love for everyone. Although each individual has his own taste and freedom, ultimately every living being is a spiritual spark of the Supreme Personality of Godhead; thus everyone's primary loving attraction is constitutionally meant for Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Loving service to the Lord should be ahaitukī, without personal motive, and avyavahitā, unobstructed by mental speculation, selfish desire or any quirk of time and circumstance.

TEXT 27

प्राणबुद्धिमनःस्वात्म
दारापत्यधनादयः
यत्सम्पर्कात्प्रिया आसंसु ततः को न्वपरः प्रियः

prāṇa-buddhi-manah-svātma dārāpatya-dhanādayaḥ yat-samparkāt priyā āsaṁs tataḥ ko nv aparāḥ priyaḥ

SYNONYMS

prāṇa—one's vital force; buddhi—intelligence; manah—mind; sva—relatives; ātma—body; dāra—wife; apatya—children; dhana—wealth; ādayaḥ—and so forth; yat—with which (self); samparkāt—because of contact; priyāḥ—dear; āsan—have become; tataḥ—than that; kaḥ—what; nu—indeed; aparāḥ—other; priyaḥ—dear object.

TRANSLATION

It is only by contact with the self that one's vital breath, intelligence, mind, friends, body, wife, children, wealth and so on are dear. Therefore what object can possibly be more dear than one's own self?

PURPORT

The word yat-samparkāt in this verse refers to contact with the individual self and ultimately with the Supreme Self, the Lord, who is the origin of the individual living being. By developing Kṛṣṇa consciousness, one automatically becomes self-realized, and thus one's vital strength, intelligence, mind, relatives, body, family and wealth all become enhanced and brilliant by the central influence of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. This happens because Kṛṣṇa consciousness is the optimum efficient conjunction of the individual self, who is pure consciousness, with the Supreme Self and supreme consciousness, Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 28

तद्यात देवयजनं
पतयो वो द्विजातयः
स्वसत्रं पारयिष्यन्ति युष्माभिर्गृहमेधिनः

*tad yāta deva-yajanaṁ patayo vo dvijātayaḥ
sva-satram pārayiṣyanti
yuṣmābhir gṛha-medhinaḥ*

SYNONYMS

tat—therefore; yāta—go; deva-yajanaṁ—to the sacrificial arena; patayaḥ—the husbands; vaḥ—your; dvi-jātayaḥ—the brāhmaṇas; sva-satram—their own sacrifices; pārayiṣyanti—will be able to finish; yuṣmābhiḥ—together with you;

gṛha-medhinaḥ—the householders.

TRANSLATION

You should thus return to the sacrificial arena, because your husbands, the learned brāhmaëas, are householders and need your assistance to finish their respective sacrifices.

TEXT 29

श्रीपत्न्य ऊचुः
मैवं विभोऽर्हति भवान् गदितुं न्रशंसं
सत्यं कुरुष्व निगमं तव पदमूलम्
प्राप्ता वयं तुलसिदाम पदावसृष्टं केशैर्निवोदुमतिलङ्घ्य समस्तबन्धून्

śrī-patnya ūcuḥ
maivam vibho 'rhati bhavān gaditum nr-śamsam satyam kuruṣva nigamaṁ tava pada-mūlam prāptā vayaṁ tulasi-dāma padāvasṛṣṭam keśair nivoḍhum atilaṅghya samasta-bandhūn

SYNONYMS

śrī-patnyaḥ ūcuḥ—the wives of the brāhmaṇas said; mā—not; evam—like this; vibho—O almighty Lord; arhati—ought; bhavān—You; gaditum—to speak; nṛ-śamsam—harshly; satyam—true; kuruṣva—please make; nigamam—the promise given in the revealed scripture; tava—Your; pāda-mūlam—the base of the lotus feet; prāptāḥ—having obtained; vayaṁ—we; tulasi-dāma—the garland of tulasī leaves; padā—by Your foot; avasṛṣṭam—neglectfully kicked away; keśaiḥ—upon our hair; nivoḍhum—in order to carry; atilaṅghya—rejecting; samasta—all; bandhūn—relations.

TRANSLATION

The wives of the brāhmaṇas replied: O almighty one, please do not speak such cruel words. Rather, You should fulfill Your promise that You always reciprocate with Your devotees in kind. Now that we have attained Your lotus feet, we simply wish to remain here in the forest so we may carry upon our heads the garlands of tulasī leaves You may neglectfully kick away with Your lotus feet. We are ready to give up all material relationships.

PURPORT

Here the brāhmaṇas' wives are saying something similar to what the gopīs say at the beginning of the rāsa dance (SB 10.29.31), when Lord Kṛṣṇa tells them to go home as well. Like this verse, the gopīs' statement begins with the words maivam vibho 'rhati bhavān gaditum nṛ-śamsam.

Nigama refers to the Vedic literature, which states that one who surrenders at the lotus feet of the Lord does not return to this material world. Thus the brāhmaṇas' wives appealed to the Lord that since they had surrendered to Him, it was unfair for Him to order them to return to their materialistic husbands.

According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura, Lord Kṛṣṇa might have pointed out to the brāhmaṇas' wives, "You young ladies are members of the aristocratic brāhmaṇa community, so how can you surrender at the feet of a mere cowherd boy?"

To this the ladies might have replied, "Since we have already surrendered at Your lotus feet, and since we desire to become Your servants, we are obviously not maintaining a false identification as members of the so-called brāhmaṇa community. You can easily ascertain this from our words."

Lord Kṛṣṇa might have replied, "I am a cowherd boy, and My proper maidservants and girlfriends are the cowherd girls, the gopīs. "

The wives might have answered, "True, let them be so. Let them shine forth if You are embarrassed in front of Your relatives to make brāhmaṇa ladies Your maidservants. We certainly don't want to embarrass You. We will not go to Your village but will rather remain in Vṛndāvana, like presiding deities of the forest. We simply desire to perfect our lives by even a slight trace of connection with You."

Thus by the spiritual insight of Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura, we learn that the brāhmaṇas' wives offered to remain at a distance and simply take the tulasī leaves that would fall from the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa or be crushed by the feet of His girlfriends when He would embrace them.

The ladies offered to carry these tulasī leaves upon their heads. Thus renouncing the desire to become Kṛṣṇa's intimate girlfriends or maidservants (a position they knew was difficult to achieve), the young brāhmaṇa ladies begged to remain in Vṛndāvana forest. If the Lord had then asked "Then what will your family members say?" they would have replied "We have already transcended our so-called relatives because we are seeing You, the Supreme Lord, face to face."

TEXT 30

गृह्णन्ति नो न पतयः पितरौ सुता वा
न भ्रातृबन्धुसुहृदः कुत एव चान्ये तस्माद्भवत्प्रपदयोः पतितात्मनां नो
नान्या भवेद्गतिररिन्दम तद्विधेहि grhṇanti no na patayaḥ pitarau sutā vā na bhrātr-bandhu-suhṛdaḥ kuta eva cānye tasmād bhavat-prapadayoḥ patitātmanām no

nānyā bhaved gatiṁ arindama tad vidhehi

SYNONYMS

grhṇanti—they will accept; naḥ—us; na—not; patayaḥ—our husbands; pitarau—fathers; sutāḥ—sons; vā—or; na—not; bhrātr—brothers; bandhu—other relatives; suhṛdaḥ—and friends; kutaḥ—how then; eva—indeed; ca—and; anye—other people; tasmāt—therefore; bhavat—Your; prapadayoḥ—at the tips of the lotus feet; patita—fallen; ātmanām—whose bodies; naḥ—for us; na—not; anyā—any other; bhavet—there can be; gatiḥ—destination; arim-dama—O chastiser of enemies; tat—that; vidhehi—kindly bestow upon us.

TRANSLATION

Our husbands, fathers, sons, brothers, other relatives and friends will no longer take us back, and how could anyone else be willing to give us shelter? Therefore, since we have thrown ourselves at Your lotus feet and have no other destination, please, O chastiser of enemies, grant our desire.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura comments as follows: "From their very youth the brāhmaṇas' wives had heard about Lord Kṛṣṇa's beauty, qualities and sweetness from the womenfolk of Vṛndāvana village, and also from the flower ladies, the betel-nut sellers and others. Consequently they always felt ecstatic love for Kṛṣṇa and were indifferent to their household duties. Their husbands, seeing them as deviant, doubted them and avoided dealing with them as far as possible. Now the wives of the brāhmaṇas were ready to formally reject their so-called families and neighbors, and out of great agitation they were crying and placing their heads upon Lord Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet, offering obeisances. In this way, with choking voices, they spoke the above verse. They begged that Lord Kṛṣṇa bestow upon them the benediction that He be their only destination, that He, the chastiser of enemies, subdue all their enemies—those difficulties obstructing them from attaining the Lord."

The wives of the brāhmaṇas simply wanted to serve Lord Kṛṣṇa, and this is pure Kṛṣṇa consciousness in ecstatic love of Godhead.

TEXT 31

श्रीभगवानुवाच
पतयो नाभ्यसूयेरन्
पितृभ्रातृसुतादयः
लोकाश्च वो मयोपेता देवा अप्यनुमन्वते

śrī-bhagavān uvāca
patayo nābhyasūyeran
pitṛ-bhrāṭṛ-sutādayaḥ
lokāś ca vo mayopetā
devā apy anumanvate

SYNONYMS

śrī-bhagavān uvāca—the Supreme Personality of Godhead said; patayaḥ—your husbands; na abhyasūyeran—will not feel inimical; pitṛ-bhrāṭṛ-suta-ādayaḥ—your fathers, brothers, sons and others; lokāḥ—the general populace; ca—also; vaḥ—toward you; mayā—by Me; upetāḥ—advised; devāḥ—the demigods; api—even; anumanvate—regard favorably.

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Personality of Godhead replied: Rest assured that your husbands will not be inimical toward you, nor will your fathers, brothers, sons, other relatives or the general populace. I will personally advise them of the situation. Indeed, even the demigods will express their approval.

TEXT 32

न प्रीतयेऽनुरागाय
ह्यङ्गसङ्गो नृणामिह
तन्मनो मयि युञ्जाना
अचिरान्मामवाप्स्यथ

*na prītaye 'nurāgāya
hy aṅga-saṅgo nṛṇām iha tan mano mayi yuñjānā
acirān mām avāpsyatha*

SYNONYMS

na—not; prītaye—for satisfaction; anurāgāya—for loving attraction; hi—certainly; aṅga-saṅgaḥ—physical association; nṛṇām—for people; iha—in this world; tat—therefore; manaḥ—your minds; mayi—upon Me; yuñjānāḥ—fixing; acirāt—very quickly; mām—Me; avāpsyatha—you will achieve.

TRANSLATION

For you to remain in My bodily association would certainly not please people in this world, nor would it be the best way for you to increase your love for Me. Rather, you should fix your minds on Me, and very soon you will achieve Me.

PURPORT

The Lord pointed out that people in general would not appreciate a loving affair between Lord Kṛṣṇa, who superficially was appearing as a cowherd boy, and the wives from the brāhmaṇa community. Also, the brāhmaṇa ladies' own devotion and love would increase most efficiently in separation. In other words, it would be best all around if they continued to fix their minds on Lord Kṛṣṇa and thus went on with the process they had been practicing throughout their lives. The Lord and His bona fide representative, the spiritual master, expertly engage the Lord's devotees in different types of service so that all of them can quickly return to His lotus feet.

TEXT 33

श्रवणाद्दर्शनाद्ध्यानान्
मयि भावोऽनुकीर्तनात्
न तथा सन्निकर्षेण
प्रतियात ततो गृहान्

*śravaṇād darśanād dhyānān
mayi bhāvo 'nukīrtanāt
na tathā sannikarṣeṇa
pratiyāta tato gṛhān*

SYNONYMS

śravaṇāt—by hearing; darśanāt—by seeing the Deity form; dhyānāt—by meditation; mayi—for Me; bhāvaḥ—love; anukīrtanāt—by chanting My names and qualities; na—not; tathā—in the same way; sannikarṣeṇa—by literal proximity; pratiyāta—return; tataḥ—therefore; gṛhān—to your homes.

TRANSLATION

It is by hearing about Me, seeing My Deity form, meditating upon Me and chanting My names and glories that love for Me develops, not by physical proximity. Therefore please go back to your homes.

TEXT 34

श्रीशुक उवाच
इत्युक्ता द्विजपत्न्यस्ता
यज्ञवाटं पुनर्गताः
ते चानसूयवस्ताभिः स्त्रीभिः सत्रमपारयन्

śrī-śuka uvāca
ity uktā dvija-patnyas tā yajña-vāṭam punar gatāḥ te cānasūyavas tābhiḥ
strībhiḥ satram apārayan

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; iti—with these words; uktāḥ—spoken to; dvija-patnyaḥ—the wives of the brāhmaṇas; tāḥ—they; yajña-vāṭam—to the place of sacrifice; punaḥ—again; gatāḥ—went; te—they, their husbands; ca—and; anasūyavaḥ—not inimical; tābhiḥ—together with them; strībhiḥ—their wives; satram—the sacrificial performance; apārayan—they completed.

TRANSLATION

Śrīla Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Thus instructed, the wives of the brāhmaṇas returned to the place of sacrifice. The brāhmaṇas did not find any fault with their wives, and together with them they finished the sacrifice.

PURPORT

The wives of the brāhmaṇas obeyed Lord Kṛṣṇa's order and returned to the sacrificial arena of their husbands, whereas the gopīs, although ordered by Kṛṣṇa to go home, remained in the forest to dance with Him through the full-moon night. Both the gopīs and the brāhmaṇas' wives achieved pure love of Godhead.

TEXT 35

तत्रैका विधृता भर्त्रा
भगवन्तं यथाश्रुतम्
हृदोपगुह्य विजहौ
देहं कर्मानुबन्धनम्

tatraikā vidhṛtā bhartrā
bhagavantam yathā-śrutam hṛdopaguhya vijahau
deham karmānubandhanam

SYNONYMS

tatra—there; ekā—one of them; vidhṛtā—held back by force; bhartrā—by her husband; bhagavantam—the Supreme Lord, Śrī Kṛṣṇa; yathā-śrutam—as she heard about Him from the others; hṛdā—within her heart; upaguhya—embracing; vijahau—she gave up; deham—her material body; karma-anubandhanam—which is simply the basis of bondage to material activity.

TRANSLATION

One of the ladies had been forcibly kept back by her husband. When she heard the others describe the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa, she embraced Him within her heart and gave up her material body, the basis of bondage to material activity.

PURPORT

The lady described here was especially devoted to Lord Kṛṣṇa. Upon giving up her material body, she immediately attained a spiritual body and left the sacrificial arena to join the Supreme Personality of Godhead.

TEXT 36

भगवानपि गोविन्दसु
तेनैवान्नेन गोपकान्
चतुर्विधेनाशयित्वा स्वयं च बुभुजे प्रभुः

*bhagavān api govindas tenaivānnena gopakān catur-vidhenāśayitvā
svayaṁ ca bubhuje prabhuḥ*

SYNONYMS

bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; api—moreover; govindaḥ—Lord Govinda; tena—with that; eva—very same; annena—food; gopakān—the cowherd boys; catuḥ-vidhena—of four varieties; aśayitvā—feeding; svayam—Himself; ca—and; bubhuje—partook; prabhuḥ—the Almighty.

TRANSLATION

Govinda, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, fed the cowherd boys with that food of four varieties. Then the all-powerful Lord Himself partook of the preparations.

TEXT 37

एवं लीलानरवपुर
न्नलोकमनुशीलयन्
रेमे गोगोपगोपीनां
रमयन् रूपवाक्कृतैः

evam līlā-nara-vapur
nr-lokam anuśīlayan reme go-gopa-gopīnām
ramayan rūpa-vāk-kṛtaiḥ

SYNONYMS

evam—in this manner; līlā—for pastimes; nara—appearing as a human being; vapuḥ—whose transcendental body; nṛ-lokam—human society;

anuśīlayan—imitating; reme—He took pleasure; go—the cows; gopa—cowherd boys; gopīnām—the cowherd girls; ramayan—pleasing; rūpa—with His beauty; vāk—words; kṛtaiḥ—and actions.

TRANSLATION

Thus the Supreme Lord, appearing like a human being to perform His pastimes, imitated the ways of human society. He enjoyed pleasing His cows, cowherd boyfriends and cowherd girlfriends with His beauty, words and actions.

TEXT 38

अथानुस्मृत्य विप्रास्ते
अन्वतप्यन् कृतागसः
यद्विश्वेश्वरयोर्याज्ञाम् अहन्म नृविडम्बयोः

athānusmṛtya viprās te anvatapyan kṛtāgasah
yad viśveśvarayor yācñām ahanma nṛ-viḍambayoḥ

SYNONYMS

atha—then; anusmṛtya—coming to their senses; viprāḥ—the brāhmaṇas; te—they; anvatapyan—felt great remorse; kṛta-agasaḥ—having committed sinful offenses; yat—because; viśva-īśvarayoḥ—of the two Lords of the universe, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma; yācñām—the humble supplication; ahanma—we transgressed; nṛ-viḍambayoḥ—of those who were deceptively appearing as human beings.

TRANSLATION

The brāhmaëas then came to their senses and began to feel great remorse. They thought, "We have sinned, for we have denied the request of the two Lords of the universe, who deceptively appeared as ordinary human beings."

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa and Lord Balarāma did not try to deceive the brāhmaṇas: They straightforwardly requested food from them. Rather, the brāhmaṇas deceived themselves, as indicated by the Sanskrit word nṛ-viḍambayoḥ, which means that Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma are bewildering for an ordinary human being who considers Them also to be human. Still, because the wives of the brāhmaṇas were great devotees of the Lord, the foolish brāhmaṇas received spiritual benefit and finally came to their senses.

TEXT 39

दृष्ट्वा स्त्रीणां भगवति
कृष्णे भक्तिमलौकिकीम्
आत्मानं च तया हीनम् अनुतप्ता व्यगर्हयन्

*dṛṣṭvā strīṇāṁ bhagavati kṛṣṇe bhaktim alaukikīm ātmānaṁ ca tayā hīnam
anutaptā vyagarhayan*

SYNONYMS

dr̥ṣṭvā—observing; strīṇām—of their wives; bhagavati—for the Supreme Personality of Godhead; kṛṣṇe—Śrī Kṛṣṇa; bhaktim—the pure devotion; alaukikīm—transcendental to this world; ātmānam—themselves; ca—and; tayā—of that; hīnam—devoid; anutaptāḥ—lamenting; vyagarhayan—they condemned.

TRANSLATION

Taking note of their wives' pure, transcendental devotion for Lord Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, and seeing their own lack of devotion, the brāhmaëas felt most sorrowful and began to condemn themselves.

TEXT 40

धिगजन्म नस्त्रिवृत्तद्
धिग्रतं धिग्बहुज्ञताम्
धिककुलं धिक्रियादाक्ष्यं विमुखा ये त्वधोक्षजे

dhig janma nas tri-vṛt yat tad dhig vrataṁ dhig bahu-jñatām dhik kulaṁ dhik kriyā-dākṣyaṁ vimukhā ye tv adhokṣaje

SYNONYMS

dhik—to hell; janma—with the birth; naḥ—our; tri-vṛt—threefold (the first from the physical parents, the second at the time of brahminical initiation, and the third at the time of initiation into the performances of Vedic sacrifice); yat tat—whatever; dhik—to hell; vrataṁ—with our vow (of celibacy); dhik—to hell; bahu-jñatām—with our extensive knowledge; dhik—to hell; kulam—with our aristocratic lineage; dhik—to hell; kriyā-dākṣyam—with our expertise in ritualistic activities; vimukhaḥ—inimical; ye—who; tu—however; adhokṣaje—to the transcendental Personality of Godhead.

TRANSLATION

[The brāhmaṇas said:] To hell with our threefold birth, our vow of celibacy and our extensive learning! To hell with our aristocratic background and our expertise in the rituals of sacrifice! These are all condemned because we were inimical to the transcendental Personality of Godhead.

PURPORT

As explained in the definitions above, the words tri-vṛḍ janma, or "threefold birth," refer to 1) physical birth, 2) brahminical initiation and 3) initiation into the performance of Vedic sacrifice. Everything is useless if one is ignorant of the Absolute Truth, the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 41

नूनं भगवतो माया
योगिनामपि मोहिनी
यद्वयं गुरवो नृणां स्वार्थे मुह्यामहे द्विजाः

nūnaṁ bhagavato māyā

yoginām api mohinī
yad vyaṁ guravo nṛṇām
svārthe muhyāmahe dvijāḥ

SYNONYMS

nūnam—indeed; bhagavataḥ—of the Supreme Lord; māyā—the illusory potency; yoginām—for great mystics; api—even; mohinī—is bewildering; yat—since; vyaṁ—we; guravaḥ—the spiritual masters; nṛṇām—of society in general; sva-arthe—about our own real interest; muhyāmahe—have become bewildered; dvijāḥ—brāhmaṇas.

TRANSLATION

The illusory potency of the Supreme Lord certainly bewilders even the great mystics, what to speak of us. As brāhmaëas we are supposed to be the spiritual masters of all classes of men, yet we have been bewildered about our own real interest.

TEXT 42

अहो पश्यत नारीणाम् अपि कृष्णे जगद्गुरौ
दुरन्तभावं योऽविध्यन्
मृत्युपाशान् गृहाभिधान्

aho paśyata nārīṇām
api kṛṣṇe jagad-gurau duranta-bhāvaṁ yo 'vidhyan
mṛtyu-pāśān gṛhābhidhān

SYNONYMS

aho paśyata—just see; nārīṇām—of these women; api—even; kṛṣṇe—for Lord Kṛṣṇa; jagat-gurau—the spiritual master of the entire universe; duranta—unlimited; bhāvam—the devotion; yaḥ—which; avidhyat—has broken; mṛtyu—of death; pāśān—the bonds; gṛha-abhidhān—known as family life.

TRANSLATION

Just see the unlimited love these women have developed for Lord Kṛṣṇa, the spiritual master of the entire universe! This love has broken for them the very bonds of death—their attachment to family life.

PURPORT

Superficially, the husbands, fathers, fathers-in-law and so on were the ladies' gurus, or teachers. Yet the women had become perfect in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, whereas the men had fallen into the darkness of Ignorance.

According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura, upon returning home the ladies showed transcendental ecstatic symptoms, such as trembling of the body, shedding of tears, standing of the bodily hairs on end, discoloration of the complexion, crying out "O pleasure of my life, O Kṛṣṇa!" with faltering words, and so forth.

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī goes on to state that while one may object that it is not fitting for a woman to love anyone other than her husband, here the husbands themselves point out that they are gurus only in imitation of the Supreme Lord, who is jagad-guru, the universal teacher and spiritual master. The husbands noted that the women, having perfected their transcendental attachment for Kṛṣṇa, did not have even a trace of attachment left for home, husband, children and so forth. Therefore from that day on the husbands accepted those ladies as their worshipable spiritual masters and no longer thought of them as their wives or property.

TEXTS 43-44

नासां द्विजातिसंस्कारो
न निवासो गुरावपि
न तपो नात्ममीमांसा
न शौचं न क्रियाः शुभाः

तथापि ह्युत्तमःश्लोके
कृष्णे योगेश्वरेश्वरे
भक्तिर्दृढा न चास्माकं संस्कारादिमतामपि

nāsāṁ dvijāti-saṁskāro na nivāso gurāv api na tapo nātma-mīmāṁsā na śaucam na kriyāḥ śubhāḥ

tathāpi hy uttamaḥ-śloke kṛṣṇe yogeśvareśvare bhaktir dṛḍhā na cāsmākaṁ saṁskārādimatām api

SYNONYMS

na—there is not; āsām—on their part; dvijāti-saṁskāraḥ—the purificatory rituals pertaining to the twice-born classes of society; na—nor; nivāsaḥ—residence; gaurau—in the āśrama of a spiritual master (that is, training as a brahmacārī); api—even; na—no; tapah—execution of austerities; na—no; ātma-mīmāṃsā—philosophical inquiry into the reality of the self; na—no; śaucam—rituals of cleanliness; na—no; kriyāḥ—ritualistic activities; śubhāḥ—pious; tathā api—nevertheless; hi—indeed; uttamaḥ-śloke—whose glories are chanted by the exalted mantras of the Vedas; kṛṣṇe-for Lord Kṛṣṇa; yoga-īśvara-īśvare—the supreme master of all masters of mystic power; bhaktiḥ—pure devotional service; dṛḍhā—firm; na—not; ca—on the other hand; asmākam—of us; saṁskāra-ādi-matām—who possess such purification and so forth; api—even though.

TRANSLATION

These women have never undergone the purificatory rites of the twice-born classes, nor have they lived as brahmacārīs in the ācrama of a spiritual master, nor have they executed austerities, speculated on the nature of the self, followed the formalities of cleanliness or engaged in pious rituals. Nevertheless, they have firm devotion for Lord Kṛṣṇa, whose glories are chanted by the exalted hymns of the Vedas and who is the supreme master of all masters of mystic power. We, on the other hand, have no such devotion for the Lord, although we have executed all these processes.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī, the husbands were not aware that their wives had occasionally associated with residents of Vṛndāvana, such as the flower ladies, and had heard about the beauty and qualities of Kṛṣṇa. The brāhmaṇas were astonished at their wives' loving devotion for Lord Kṛṣṇa, not realizing that this devotion had developed as a result of hearing and chanting about the Lord in the association of His pure devotees.

TEXT 45

ननु स्वार्थविमूढानां
प्रमत्तानां गृहेहया
अहो नः स्मारयामास गोपवाक्यैः सतां गतिः

*nanu svārtha-vimūḍhānām pramattānām gṛhehayā aho naḥ smārayām āsa
gopa-vākyaiḥ satām gatiḥ*

SYNONYMS

nanu—indeed; sva-artha—about their own true benefit; vimūḍhānām—who were bewildered; pramattānām—who were intoxicated; gṛha-īhayā—with their household endeavors; aho—ah; naḥ—us; smārayām āsa—He reminded about; gopa-vākyaiḥ—by the words of cowherds; satām—of the transcendental souls; gatiḥ—the ultimate destination .

TRANSLATION

Indeed, infatuated as we are with our household affairs, we have deviated completely from the real aim of our life. But now just see how the Lord, through the words of these simple cowherd boys, has reminded us of the ultimate destination of all true transcendentalists.

TEXT 46

अन्यथा पूर्णकामस्य
कैवल्याद्यशिषां पतेः

ईशितव्यैः किमस्माभिर् ईशस्यैतद्विडम्बनम्

anyathā pūrṇa-kāmasya kaivalyādy-aśiṣām pateḥ īśitavyaiḥ kim asmābhir īśasyaitad viḍambanam

SYNONYMS

anyathā—otherwise; pūrṇa-kāmasya—of Him whose every possible desire is fulfilled; kaivalya—of liberation; ādi—and others; āśiṣām—benedictions; pateḥ—the master; īśitavyaiḥ—with those who are meant to be controlled; kim—what; asmābhir—with us; īśasya—of Him who is the absolute controller; etat—this; viḍambanam—pretense.

TRANSLATION

Otherwise, why would the supreme controller—whose every desire is already fulfilled and who is the master of liberation and all other transcendental benedictions—enact this pretense with us, who are always to be controlled by Him?

PURPORT

Although Lord Kṛṣṇa is the Absolute Truth, He humbly sent His cowerd boyfriends to beg food from the brāhmaṇas. In so doing, He exposed the brāhmaṇas' foolish arrogance and established the glories of His own transcendental beauty by attracting their very wives to surrender at His lotus feet.

TEXT 47

हित्वान्यान् भजते यं श्रीः
पादस्पर्शाशयासकृत
स्वात्मदोषापवर्गेण तद्याच्चा जनमोहिनी

hitvānyān bhajate yaṁ śrīḥ pāda-sparśāśayāsakṛt svātma-doṣāpavargeṇa
tad-yācñā jana-mohinī

SYNONYMS

hitvā—giving up; anyān—others; bhajate—worships; yaṁ—which Lord; śrīḥ—the goddess of fortune; pāda-sparśa—for the touch of His lotus feet; āśayā—with the desire; asakṛt—constantly; sva-ātma—of herself; doṣa—the faults (of fickleness and pride); apavargeṇa—putting aside; tat—His; yācñā—begging; jana—ordinary humans; mohinī—bewildering.

TRANSLATION

Hoping for the touch of His lotus feet, the goddess of fortune perpetually worships Him alone, leaving aside all others and renouncing her pride and fickleness. That He begs is certainly astonishing to everyone.

PURPORT

The supreme master of the goddess of fortune herself obviously does not have to beg for food, as pointed out here by the brāhmaṇas, who are finally manifesting real spiritual intelligence.

TEXTS 48-49

देशः कालः पृथग्द्रव्यं
मन्त्रतन्त्रत्विजोऽग्नयः
देवता यजमानश्च
ऋतुर्धर्मश्च यन्मयः

स एव भगवान् साक्षाद्
विष्णुर्योगेश्वरेश्वरः
जातो यदुष्वित्याशृण्म ह्यपि मूढा न विद्महे

*deśaḥ kālaḥ pṛthag dravyaṁ
mantra-tantrartvijo 'gnayaḥ
devatā yajamānaś ca
kratur dharmaś ca yan-mayaḥ*

*sa eva bhagavān sākṣād viṣṇur yogeśvareśvaraḥ jāto yaduṣv ity āśṛṇma
hy api mūḍhā na vidmahe*

SYNONYMS

deśaḥ—the place; kālaḥ—time; pṛthag dravyam—particular items of paraphernalia; mantra—Vedic hymns; tantra—prescribed rituals; ṛtvijaḥ—priests; agnayaḥ—and the sacrificial fires; devatā—the presiding demigods; yajamānaḥ—the performer; ca—and; kratuḥ—the offering; dharmaḥ—the pious reaction; ca—and; yat—whom; mayaḥ—constituting;

saḥ—He; eva—indeed; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; sākṣāt—directly; viṣṇuḥ—Lord Viṣṇu; yoga-īśvara-īśvaraḥ—the Lord of all mystic controllers; jātaḥ—taken birth; yaduṣu—among the Yadu dynasty; iti—thus; āśṛṇma—we have heard; hi—certainly; api—nevertheless; mūḍhāḥ—foolish; na vidmahe—we could not understand.

TRANSLATION

All the aspects of sacrifice—the auspicious place and time, the various items of paraphernalia, the Vedic hymns, the prescribed rituals, the priests and sacrificial fires, the demigods, the patron of the sacrifice, the sacrificial offering and the pious results obtained—all are simply manifestations of His opulences. Yet even though we had heard that the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Viṣṇu, the Lord of all mystic controllers, had taken birth in the Yadu dynasty, we were so foolish that we could not recognize Śrī Kṛṣṇa to be none other than Him.

TEXT 50

तस्मै नमो भगवते
कृष्णायाकुण्ठमेधसे
यन्मायामोहितधियो
भ्रमामः कर्मवर्त्मसु

tasmai namo bhagavate
kṛṣṇāyākunṭha-medhase yan-māyā-mohita-dhiyo
bhramāmaḥ karma-vartmasu

SYNONYMS

tasmai—unto Him; namaḥ—obeisances; bhagavate—unto the Supreme Personality of Godhead; kṛṣṇāya—Lord Kṛṣṇa; akunṭha-medhase—whose intelligence is never restricted; yat-māyā—by whose illusory potency; mohita—bewildered; dhiyaḥ—whose minds; bhramāmaḥ—we are wandering; karma-vartmasu—upon the paths of fruitive activity.

TRANSLATION

Let us offer our obeisances unto Lord Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead. His intelligence is never bewildered, whereas we, confused by His power of illusion, are simply wandering about on the paths of fruitive work.

TEXT 51

स वै न आद्यः पुरुषः
स्वमायामोहितात्मनाम्
अविज्ञतानुभावानां
क्षन्तुमर्हत्यतिक्रमम्

sa vai na ādyaḥ puruṣaḥ
sva-māyā-mohitātmanām avijñatānubhāvānām
kṣantum arhaty atikramam

SYNONYMS

saḥ—He; vai—indeed; naḥ—our; ādyaḥ—the primeval Lord; puruṣaḥ—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; sva-māyā-mohita-ātmanām—of those whose minds have been bewildered by His illusory potency; avijñāta—who did not understand; anubhāvānām—His influence; kṣantum—to forgive; arhati—should; atikramam—the offense.

TRANSLATION

We were bewildered by Lord Kṛṣṇa's illusory potency and thus could not understand His influence as the original Personality of Godhead. Now we hope He will kindly forgive our offense.

TEXT 52

इति स्वाघमनुस्मृत्य
कृष्णे ते कृतहेलनाः
दिदृक्षवो ब्रजमथ कंसाद्धीता न चाचलन्

iti svāgham anusmṛtya
kṛṣṇe te kṛta-helanāḥ didṛkṣavo vrajam atha
kaṁsād bhītā na cācalan

SYNONYMS

iti—thus; sva-aghama—their own offense; anusmṛtya—thinking back upon; kṛṣṇe—against Lord Kṛṣṇa; te—they; kṛta-helanāḥ—having shown contempt; didṛkṣavaḥ—wishing to see; vrajam—to the village of Nanda Mahārāja; atha—then; kaṁsāt—of Kāṁsa; bhītāḥ—afraid; na—not; ca—and; acalan—they went.

TRANSLATION

Thus reflecting on the sin they had committed by neglecting Lord Kṛṣṇa, they became very eager to see Him. But being afraid of King Kāṁsa, they did not dare go to Vraja.

PURPORT

Realizing their offense against Lord Kṛṣṇa, and finally appreciating His almighty position, the brāhmaṇas naturally wanted to rush to Vraja and surrender at the lotus feet of the Lord. But they were afraid that Kāṁsa would certainly kill them when his spies reported that they had gone to Kṛṣṇa. The brāhmaṇas' wives were absorbed in ecstatic Kṛṣṇa consciousness and thus went to Kṛṣṇa anyway, just as the gopīs, simply to dance with the Lord, traveled in the dead of night through a forest inhabited by wild animals. But the brāhmaṇas were not on such an advanced platform of Kṛṣṇa consciousness and thus, overcome by fear of Kāṁsa, could not see the Lord face to face.

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A . C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Twenty-third Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "The Brāhmaṇas' Wives Blessed."

24. Worshipping Govardhana Hill

In this chapter Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa crushes the pride of Indra by prohibiting a sacrifice intended for him and initiating a substitute sacrifice in worship of Govardhana Hill.

When Śrī Kṛṣṇa saw the cowherd men busily preparing for a sacrifice to Indra, He inquired about it from their king, Nanda. Nanda explained that the rain given by Indra enables all living entities to maintain their lives, and therefore this sacrifice would be executed to satisfy him. Kṛṣṇa responded, "It is because of karma alone that living entities take their birth in a certain body, experience varieties of happiness and suffering in that body, and then give it up as the karma pertaining to it runs out. Thus it is karma alone that is our enemy, our friend, our guru and our lord, and Indra can do nothing to alter the happiness and distress of anyone, for everyone is tightly bound by his karmic reactions. The material modes of goodness, passion and ignorance bring about the creation, maintenance and destruction of this world. The clouds give forth rain when they are impelled by the mode of passion, and cowherds prosper by protecting the cows. Furthermore, the cowherds' proper residence is in the forest and on the hills. Therefore you should offer worship to the cows, the brāhmaṇas and Govardhana Hill."

After Kṛṣṇa spoke thus, He arranged for the cowherd men to worship Govardhana with the paraphernalia collected for the sacrifice to Indra. He then assumed a huge, unprecedented transcendental form and devoured all the food and other offerings presented to Govardhana. As He did so He proclaimed to the cowherd community that although they had worshiped Indra for so long, he had never appeared in person, whereas Govardhana himself had now manifested before their eyes and eaten their offerings of foodstuffs. Therefore they should all now offer obeisances to Govardhana Hill. Then Lord Kṛṣṇa joined the cowherds in offering obeisances to His own newly assumed form.

TEXT 1

श्रीशुक उवाच

भगवानपि तत्रैव
बलदेवेन संयुतः
अपश्यन्निवसन् गोपान्
इन्द्रयागकृतोद्यमान्

śrī-śuka uvāca
bhagavān api tatraiva baladevena saṁyutaḥ apaśyan nivasan gopān
indra-yāga-kṛtodyamān

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; api—also; tatra eva—in that same place; baladevena—by Lord Balarāma; saṁyutaḥ—joined; apaśyat—saw; nivasan—staying; gopān—the cowherd men; indra—for Indra, the King of heaven; yāga—for the sake of a sacrifice; kṛta—making; udyamān—great endeavor.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: While staying in that very place with His brother Baladeva, Lord Kṛṣṇa happened to see the cowherd men busily arranging for a sacrifice to Indra.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī and other ācāryas, the words tatra eva in this verse indicate that Lord Kṛṣṇa stayed in the village of the brāhmaṇas whose wives had satisfied Him by their devotion. Thus He gave His mercy to those brāhmaṇas as well as to their chaste wives, who had no one to associate with except their husbands. In that place the cowherd men, headed by Lord Kṛṣṇa's father, Nanda Mahārāja, were somehow or other preparing an elaborate sacrifice to Lord Indra, and Lord Kṛṣṇa reacted as follows.

TEXT 2

तदभिज्ञोऽपि भगवान्
सर्वात्मा सर्वदर्शनः
प्रश्रयावनतोऽपृच्छद् वृद्धान्नन्दपुरोगमान्

*tad-abhijño 'pi bhagavān
sarvātmā sarva-darśanaḥ
praśrayāvanato 'pṛcchad vṛddhān nanda-purogamān*

SYNONYMS

tat-abhijñāḥ—being in full knowledge about it; api—although; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; sarva-ātmā—the Supersoul within everyone's heart; sarva-darśanaḥ—the omniscient Personality of Godhead; praśraya-avanataḥ—bowing down humbly; apṛcchat—He inquired; vṛddhān—from the elders; nanda-puraḥ-gamān—headed by Mahārāja Nanda.

TRANSLATION

Being the omniscient Supersoul, the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa already understood the situation, yet He still humbly inquired from the elders, headed by His father, Nanda Mahārāja.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa was eager to enact His pastime of lifting Govardhana Hill and defeating the false pride of Indra, and thus He cleverly inquired from His father about the imminent sacrifice.

TEXT 3

कथ्यतां मे पितः कोऽयं
सम्भ्रमो व उपागतः
किं फलं कस्य वोद्देशः केन वा साध्यते मखः

*kathyatām me pitaḥ ko 'yaṁ sambhramo va upāgataḥ kiṁ phalaṁ kasya voddeśaḥ
kena vā sādhyate makhaḥ*

SYNONYMS

kathyatām—let it be explained; me—to Me; pitaḥ—My dear father; kaḥ—what; ayam—this; sambhramaḥ—flurry of activity; vaḥ—upon you; upāgataḥ—come; kim—what; phalam—the consequence; kasya—for whose; vā—and; uddeśaḥ—sake; kena—by what means; vā—and; sādhyate—is to be accomplished; makhaḥ—this sacrifice.

TRANSLATION

[Lord Kṛṣṇa said:] My dear father, kindly explain to Me what this great endeavor of yours is all about. What is it meant to accomplish? If this is a ritual sacrifice, then for whose satisfaction is it intended and by what means is it going to be executed?

TEXT 4

एतद् ब्रूहि महान् कामो
मह्यं शुश्रूषवे पितः
न हि गोप्यं हि सधूनां
कृत्यं सर्वात्मनामिह
अस्त्यस्वपरदृष्टीनाम् अमित्रोदास्तविद्विषाम्

etat brūhi mahān kāmo mahyam śuśrūṣave pitaḥ na hi gopyam hi sadhūnām kṛtyam sarvātmanām iha asty asva-para-dṛṣṭīnām amitrodāsta-vidviṣām

SYNONYMS

etat—this; brūhi—please speak; mahān—great; kāmaḥ—desire; mahyam—to Me; śuśrūṣave—who am ready to hear faithfully; pitaḥ—O father; na—not; hi—indeed; gopyam—to be kept secret; hi—certainly; sadhūnām—of saintly persons; kṛtyam—the activities; sarva-ātmanām—who see everyone as equal to themselves; iha—in this world; asti—there is; asva-para-dṛṣṭīnām—who do not distinguish between what is their own and what is another's; amitra-udāsta-vidviṣām—who do not distinguish between friends, neutral parties and enemies.

TRANSLATION

Please tell Me about it, O father. I have a great desire to know and am ready to hear in good faith. Certainly, no secrets are to be kept by saintly personalities, who see all others as equal to themselves, who have no conception of "mine" or "another's" and who do not consider who is a friend, who is an enemy and who is neutral.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa's father might have thought that his son was a mere child and thus could not properly question the validity of a Vedic sacrifice. But the Lord's clever statement here would certainly have convinced Nanda that Śrī Kṛṣṇa was making a serious, not a whimsical, inquiry and that a serious answer should thus be given.

TEXT 5

उदासीनोऽरिवद्वर्ज्य आत्मवत्सुहृदुच्यते

udāsīno 'ri-vad varjya
ātma-vat suhṛd ucyate

SYNONYMS

udāsīnaḥ—one who is indifferent; ari-vat—just like an enemy; varjyaḥ—is to be avoided; ātma-vat—like one's own self; suhṛt—a friend; ucyate—is said to be.

TRANSLATION

One who is neutral may be avoided like an enemy, but a friend should be considered like one's own self.

PURPORT

Even if Nanda Mahārāja did not see friends, enemies and neutral parties as entirely equal, Lord Kṛṣṇa, being Nanda Mahārāja's son, was certainly a most trustworthy friend and should therefore not be left out of intimate discussions. In other words, Nanda Mahārāja might have thought that as a householder he could not act on the highest saintly platform, and thus Lord Kṛṣṇa furnished additional reasons why His father should trust Him and reveal the entire purpose of the sacrifice.

According to Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī, Nanda Mahārāja stood silent, doubting his position of parental aloofness, since Garga Muni had predicted that his son would be "equal to Nārāyaṇa in His qualities," and the young boy had already conquered and killed many powerful demons.

TEXT 6

ज्ञत्वाज्ञात्वा च कर्माणि
जनोऽयमनुतिष्ठति
विदुषः कर्मसिद्धिः स्याद् यथा नाविदुषो भवेत्

*jñatvājñātvā ca karmāṇi
jano 'yam anutiṣṭhati viduṣaḥ karma-siddhiḥ syād*

yathā nāviduṣo bhavet

SYNONYMS

jñātvā—understanding; ajñātvā—not understanding; ca—also; karmāṇi—activities; janaḥ—the common people; ayam—these; anutiṣṭhati—perform; viduṣaḥ—for one who is wise; karma-siddhiḥ—achievement of the intended goal of activity; syāt—arises; yathā—as; na—not; aviduṣaḥ—for one who is foolish; bhavet—occurs.

TRANSLATION

When people in this world perform activities, sometimes they understand what they are doing and sometimes they don't. Those who know what they are doing achieve success in their work, whereas ignorant people do not.

PURPORT

The Lord here informs His father that people should perform a particular ceremony or activity only after thoroughly understanding it through discussion with friends. We should not be blind followers of tradition. If a person doesn't even know what he's doing, how can he be successful in his work? This, essentially, is the Lord's argument in this verse. Since Śrī Kṛṣṇa, as the young child of Nanda, would naturally be expected to show enthusiasm for His father's religious activities, it was the father's duty to give the son a thorough explanation of the ceremony.

TEXT 7

तत्र तावत्क्रियायोगो
भवतां किं विचारितः

अथ वा लौकिकस्तन्मे
पृच्छतः साधु भण्यताम्

tatra tāvat kriyā-yogo bhavatām kim vicāritaḥ atha vā laukikas tan me pṛcchataḥ sādhu bhaṇyatām

SYNONYMS

tatra tāvat—that being the case; kriyā-yogaḥ—this fruitive endeavor; bhavatām—of yours; kim—whether; vicāritaḥ—learned from the scriptures; atha vā—or else; laukikaḥ—of ordinary custom; tat—that; me—to Me; pṛcchataḥ—who am inquiring; sādhu—clearly; bhaṇyatām—it should be explained.

TRANSLATION

Such being the case, this ritualistic endeavor of yours should be clearly explained to Me. Is it a ceremony based on scriptural injunction, or simply a custom of ordinary society?

TEXT 8

श्रीनन्द उवाच
पर्जन्यो भगवानिन्द्रो
मेघास्तस्यात्ममूर्तयः
तेऽभिवर्षन्ति भूतानां

प्रीणनं जीवनं पयः

*śrī-nanda uvāca
parjanyaḥ bhagavān indro meghās tasyāṭma-mūrtayaḥ te 'bhivarṣanti bhūtānām
prīṇanam jīvanam payaḥ*

SYNONYMS

śrī-nandaḥ uvāca—Śrī Nanda Mahārāja said; parjanyaḥ—the rain; bhagavān—the great lord; indraḥ—Indra; meghāḥ—the clouds; tasya—his; ātma-mūrtayaḥ—personal representatives; te—they; abhivarṣanti—directly give rain; bhūtānām—for all living entities; prīṇanam—the gratification; jīvanam—the life-giving force; payāḥ—(like) milk.

TRANSLATION

Nanda Mahārāja replied: The great Lord Indra is the controller of the rain. The clouds are his personal representatives, and they directly provide rainwater, which gives happiness and sustenance to all creatures.

PURPORT

Without clean rainwater, the earth could not possibly provide food or drink for anyone, nor could there be cleanliness. Thus it would be difficult to overestimate the value of rain.

TEXT 9

तं तात वयमन्ये च

वार्मुचां पतिमीश्वरम्
द्रव्यैस्तद्रेतसा सिद्धैर् यजन्ते क्रतुभिर्नराः

taṁ tāta vayam anye ca vārmucāṁ patim īśvaram dravyais tad-retasā siddhair yajante kratubhir narāḥ

SYNONYMS

taṁ—him; tāta—my dear son; vayam—we; anye—others; ca—also; vāḥ-mucām—of the clouds; patim—the master; īśvaram—the powerful controller; dravyaiḥ—with various items; tat-retasā—by his liquid discharge; siddhaiḥ—produced; yajante—they worship; kratubhiḥ—by fire sacrifices; narāḥ—men.

TRANSLATION

Not only we, my dear son, but also many other men worship him, the lord and master of the rain-giving clouds. We offer him grain and other paraphernalia of worship produced through his own discharge in the form of rain.

PURPORT

Nanda Mahārāja patiently tried to explain the "facts of life" to his young son, Śrī Kṛṣṇa, but in fact Nanda and all the residents of Vṛndāvana would learn an astonishing lesson, as explained in this chapter.

TEXT 10

तच्छेषेणोपजीवन्ति
त्रिवर्गफलहेतवे
पुंसां पुरुषकाराणां पर्जन्यः फलभावनः

tac-cheṣeṇopajīvanti
tri-varga-phala-hetave puṁsām puruṣa-kārāṇām
parjanyaḥ phala-bhāvanaḥ

SYNONYMS

tat—of that sacrifice; śeṣeṇa—by the remnants; upajīvanti—they sustain their lives; tri-varga—consisting of the three aims of human life (religiosity, economic development and sense gratification); phala-hetave—for the sake of fruit; puṁsām—for persons; puruṣa-kārāṇām—engaged in human endeavor; parjanyaḥ—Lord Indra; phala-bhāvanaḥ—the means of effecting the intended goals.

TRANSLATION

By accepting the remnants of sacrifices performed to Indra, people sustain their lives and accomplish the threefold aims of religiosity, economic development and sense gratification. Thus Lord Indra is the agent responsible for the fruitive success of industrious people.

PURPORT

One might object that people sustain themselves by farming, industry and so on. But as previously mentioned, all human and nonhuman endeavor depends on food and drink, which cannot be produced without ample rain. By the word tri-varga Nanda further points out that the prosperity achieved through sacrifice for Indra is meant not merely for sense gratification but also for religiosity and economic development. Unless people are well fed, it is difficult for them to execute their duties, and without performance of duty, it is very difficult to be religious.

TEXT 11

य एनं विसृजेद्धर्मं
परम्पर्यागतं नरः
कामाद् द्वेषाद्भयाल्लोभात् स वै नाप्नोति शोभनम्

ya enam visṛjed dharmam paramparyāgataṁ naraḥ kāmad dveṣād bhayāl lobhāt sa vai nāpnoti śobhanam

SYNONYMS

yaḥ—anyone who; enam—this; visṛjet—rejects; dharmam—the religious principle; paramparya—from traditional authority; āgataṁ—received; naraḥ—a person; kāmāt—because of lust; dveṣāt—because of enmity; bhayāt—because of fear; lobhāt—or because of greed; saḥ—he; vai—certainly; na āpnoti—cannot achieve; śobhanam—auspiciousness.

TRANSLATION

This religious principle is based on sound tradition. Anyone who rejects it out of lust, enmity, fear or greed will certainly fail to achieve good fortune.

PURPORT

If a person neglects his religious duties because of lust, envy, fear or greed, his life will never be brilliant or perfect.

TEXT 12

श्रीशुक उवाच
वचो निशम्य नन्दस्य
तथान्येषां व्रजौकसाम्
इन्द्राय मन्युं जनयन् पितरं प्राह केशवः

śrī-śuka uvāca
vaco niśamya nandasya tathānyeṣāṁ vrajaukasām indrāya manyum janayan
pitaram prāha keśavaḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; vacaḥ—the words; niśamya—hearing; nandasya—of Mahārāja Nanda; tathā—and also; anyeṣām—of the others; vraja-okasām—the residents of Vraja; indrāya—in Lord Indra; manyum—anger; janayan—generating; pitaram—to His father; prāha—spoke; keśavaḥ—Lord Keśava.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: When Lord Keśava [Kṛṣṇa] heard the statements of His father, Nanda, and other senior residents of Vraja, He addressed His father as follows, to arouse anger in Lord Indra.

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī explains that Lord Kṛṣṇa's intention was not simply to insult a demigod, but rather to knock down the great mountain of false pride that had arisen within the Lord's tiny servant, who was supposed to represent the Lord as Indra. By lifting Govardhana Hill Lord Kṛṣṇa would thus initiate a blissful annual festival called Govardhana-pūjā, and He would further enjoy the pleasant pastime of dwelling for several days beneath the hill with all His loving devotees.

TEXT 13

श्रीभगवानुवाच
कर्मणा जायते जन्तुः
कर्मणैव प्रलीयते
सुखं दुःखं भयं क्षेमं कर्मणैवाभिपद्यते

śrī-bhagavān uvāca
karmaṇā jāyate jantuh
karmaṇaiva pralīyate sukhaṁ duḥkhaṁ bhayaṁ kṣemaṁ karmaṇaivābhipadyate

SYNONYMS

śrī-bhagavān uvāca—the Supreme Personality of Godhead said; karmaṇā—by the force of karma; jāyate—takes birth; jantuḥ—the living entity; karmaṇā—by karma; eva—alone; pralīyate—he meets his destruction; sukham—happiness; duḥkham—unhappiness; bhayam—fear; kṣemam—security; karmaṇā eva—by karma alone; abhipadyate—are obtained.

TRANSLATION

Lord Kṛṣṇa said: It is by the force of karma that a living entity takes birth, and it is by karma alone that he meets his destruction. His happiness, distress, fear and sense of security all arise as the effects of karma.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa minimized the importance of the demigods by speaking the philosophy known as Karma-vāda or Karma-mīmāṃsā, which, basically, is atheism with a belief in reincarnation. According to this philosophy, there are subtle laws of nature that reward or punish us according to how we act: "As you sow, so shall you reap." In a future life one reaps the fruit of his present work, and this is the sum and substance of reality. Lord Kṛṣṇa, being God Himself, could hardly be a serious proponent of this mediocre philosophy. In the role of a young boy He was simply teasing His pure devotees by preaching it.

Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī points out that Lord Kṛṣṇa was thinking, "Why are these eternal associates of Mine, appearing as My father and other relatives and friends, so caught up in this worship of Indra?" Thus although the Lord's main purpose was to take away the false pride of Indra, He also wanted to remind His eternal devotees that they need not divert their attention to other so-called gods, since in fact His devotees were already living with the Supreme Absolute Truth, the almighty Lord Himself.

TEXT 14

अस्ति चेदीश्वरः कश्चित्
फलरूप्यन्यकर्मणाम्
कर्तारं भजते सोऽपि
न ह्यकर्तुः प्रभुर्हि सः

asti ced īśvaraḥ kaścit phala-rūpy anya-karmaṇām kartāraṁ bhajate so 'pi na hy akartuḥ prabhur hi saḥ

SYNONYMS

asti—there is; ced—if hypothetically; īśvaraḥ—a supreme controller; kaścit—someone; phala-rūpī—serving to award fruitive results; anya-karmaṇām—of the activities of other persons; kartāram—the performer of activity; bhajate—depends upon; saḥ—He; api—even; na—not; hi—after all; akartuḥ—of one who performs no activity; prabhuḥ—the master; hi—certainly; saḥ—He.

TRANSLATION

Even if there is some supreme controller who awards all others the results of their activities, He must also depend upon a performer's engaging in activity. After all, there is no question of being the bestower of fruitive results unless fruitive activities have actually been performed.

PURPORT

Here Lord Kṛṣṇa argues that if there is a supreme controller, He must depend on a performer of activity to reciprocate with and must therefore also be subject to the laws of karma, being obliged to award happiness and distress to conditioned souls according to the laws of good and evil.

This superficial argument neglects the obvious point that the laws of nature that prescribe the good and bad results of pious and impious acts are themselves creations of the all-good Supreme Lord. Being the creator and sustainer of these laws, the Lord is not subject to them. Furthermore, the Lord is not dependent on the work of the conditioned souls, since He is satisfied and complete within Himself. Out of His all-merciful nature He awards the results appropriate to our activities. That which we call destiny, fate or karma is an elaborate and subtle system of rewards and punishments meant for gradually encouraging conditioned souls to evolve to the stage of perfect consciousness, which is their original, constitutional nature.

The Supreme Personality of Godhead has so dexterously formulated and applied the laws of material nature governing punishment and reward for human behavior that the living being is discouraged from sin and encouraged toward goodness without suffering any significant interference with his free will as an eternal soul.

In contrast to the material nature, the Lord exhibits His essential nature in the spiritual world, where He reciprocates the eternal love of His pure devotees. Such loving affairs are based completely on the mutual freedom of the Lord and His devotees, not on a mechanical reciprocation of coinciding selfish interests. The Supreme Lord, assisted by His pure devotees, repeatedly offers the conditioned souls of this world the opportunity to give up their bizarre attempt at exploiting the material universe and go back home, back to Godhead, for an eternal life of bliss and knowledge. Considering all these points, the atheistic arguments given here by Lord Kṛṣṇa in a playful mood are not to be taken seriously.

TEXT 15

किमिन्द्रेणेह भूतानां
स्वस्वकर्मानुवर्तिनाम्
अनीशेनान्यथा कर्तुं स्वभावविहितं नृणाम्

*kim indreṇeha bhūtānām
sva-sva-karmānuvartinām anīśenānyathā kartum
svabhāva-vihitam nṛṇām*

SYNONYMS

kim—what; indreṇa—with Indra; iha—here; bhūtānām—for living entities; sva-sva—each their own; karma—of fruitive action; anuvartinām—who are experiencing the consequences; anīśena—(Indra) who is incapable; anyathā—otherwise; kartum—to make; svabhāva—by their conditioned natures; vihitam—that which is ordained; nṛṇām—for men.

TRANSLATION

Living beings in this world are forced to experience the consequences of their own particular previous work. Since Lord Indra cannot in any way change the destiny of human beings, which is born of their own nature, why should people worship him?

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa's argument here is not a negation of free will. If one accepts the existence of karma as a system of laws awarding reactions for our present activities, then we ourselves, according to our nature, will decide our future. Our happiness and distress in this life have already been adjudicated and fixed according to our previous activities, and not even the demigods can change that. They must award us the prosperity or poverty, sickness or health, happiness or distress due us by our previous work. However, we still retain the freedom to select a pious or impious mode of activity in this life, and the choice we make will determine our future suffering and enjoyment.

For example, if I was pious in my last life, in this life the demigods may award me great material wealth. But I am free to spend my riches for good or for bad purposes, and my choice will determine my future life. Thus, although no one can change the karmic results due him in this life, everyone still retains his free will, by which he determines what his future situation will be. Lord Kṛṣṇa's argument here is quite interesting; however, it neglects the overriding consideration that we are all eternal servants of God and must satisfy Him by all that we do.

TEXT 16

स्वभावतन्त्रो हि जनः
स्वभावमनुवर्तते
स्वभावस्थमिदं सर्वं सदेवासुरमानुषम्

*svabhāva-tantro hi janah svabhāvam anuvartate svabhāva-stham idaṁ sarvaṁ
sa-devāsura-mānuṣam*

SYNONYMS

svabhāva—of his conditioned nature; tantraḥ—under the control; hi—indeed; janah—a person; svabhāvam—his nature; anuvartate—he follows;

svabhāva-stham—based on conditioned propensities; idam—this world; sarvam—entire; sa—together with; deva—the demigods; asura—the demons; mānuṣam—and humankind.

TRANSLATION

Every individual is under the control of his own conditioned nature, and thus he must follow that nature. This entire universe, with all its demigods, demons and human beings, is based on the conditioned nature of the living entities.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa here elaborates upon the argument given in the previous verse. Since everything depends on svabhāva, or one's conditioned nature, why bother worshiping God or the demigods? This argument would be sublime if svabhāva, or conditioned nature, were all-powerful. But unfortunately it is not. There is a supreme controller and we must worship Him, as Lord Kṛṣṇa will emphatically reveal in this chapter of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. For now, however, He is content to tease His relatives.

TEXT 17

देहानुच्चावचाञ्जन्तुः
प्राप्योत्सृजति कर्मणा
शत्रुर्मित्रमुदासीनः
कर्मैव गुरुरीश्वरः

dehān uccāvacāñ jantuh prāpyotsrjati karmaṇā

śatrur mitram udāsīnaḥ karmaiva gurur īśvaraḥ

SYNONYMS

dehān—material bodies; ucca-avacān—high-and low-class; jantuḥ—the conditioned living entity; prāpya—obtaining; utsṛjati—gives up; karmaṇā—by the reactions of his material activities; śatruḥ—his enemy; mitram—friend; udāsīnaḥ—and neutral party; karma—material work: eva-alone; guruḥ—his spiritual master; īśvaraḥ—his lord.

TRANSLATION

Because it is karma that causes the conditioned living entity to accept and then give up different high-and low-grade material bodies, this karma is his enemy, friend and neutral witness, his spiritual master and controlling lord.

PURPORT

Even the demigods are bound and limited by the laws of karma. That Indra himself is subordinate to the laws of karma is explicitly stated in the Brahma-saṁhitā (5.54): yas tv indra-gopam atha vendram aho sva-karma-bandhānurūpa-phala-bhājanam ātanoti. The Supreme Lord, Govinda, awards all creatures the appropriate results of their work. This is as true for mighty Indra, the lord of the material heavens, as it is for the germ called indra-gopa. The Bhagavad-gītā (7.20) also states, kāmais tais tair hr̥ta-jñānāḥ prapadyante 'nya-devatāḥ. Only those who have lost their intelligence because of various material desires surrender unto demigods rather than worship the Supreme Lord. In fact, the demigods cannot award benefits to anyone independently, as stated by Lord Kṛṣṇa in the Gītā: mayaiva vihitān hi tān. All benefits are ultimately issued by the Lord Himself.

Thus it is not altogether incorrect to say that demigod worship is useless, since even the demigods are under the laws of karma. In fact, this is the case. But Lord Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Absolute Truth, is not subordinate to the law of karma; rather, He can independently offer or withhold His favor. This is confirmed in the verse from the Brahma-saṁhitā quoted above, the third line of which is karmāṇi nirdahati kintu ca bhakti-bhājām: [Bs. 5.54] "The Supreme Lord burns up all the accumulated karma of those engaged in His loving service." Not only is Lord Kṛṣṇa above the laws of material action and reaction, but He can immediately dissolve these laws for anyone who satisfies Him through loving service. Thus the almighty God is supreme in absolute freedom, and by surrendering to Him we can escape the bonds of karma and stop accepting their dismal rule as supreme.

TEXT 18

तस्मात्सम्पूजयेत्कर्म
स्वभावस्थः स्वकर्मकृत
अन्जसा येन वर्तेत तदेवास्य हि दैवतम्

tasmāt sampūjayet karma
svabhāva-sthaḥ sva-karma-kṛt anjasā yena varteta tad evāsyā hi daivatam

SYNONYMS

tasmāt—therefore; sampūjayet—one should fully worship; karma—his prescribed activity; svabhāva—in the position corresponding to his own conditioned nature; sthaḥ—remaining; sva-karma—his own prescribed duty; kṛt—performing; añjasā—without difficulty; yena—by which; varteta—one lives; tat—that; eva—certainly; asya—his; hi—indeed; daivatam—worshipable deity.

TRANSLATION

Therefore one should seriously worship work itself. A person should remain in the position corresponding to his nature and should perform his own duty. Indeed, that by which we may live nicely is really our worshipable deity.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa here proposes the modern if absurd philosophy that our work or occupation is really God and that we should therefore simply worship our work. Upon close scrutiny, we observe that our work is nothing more than the interaction of the material body with material nature, as Lord Kṛṣṇa Himself states~ in a more serious mood, in the Bhagavad-gītā (3.28): guṇā guṇeṣu vartanta. Karma-mīmāṃsā philosophy accepts that good activity in this life will give us a better next life. If this is true, there must be some type of conscious soul different from the body. And if that is the case, why should a transcendental soul worship the interaction of the temporary body with material nature? If the words sampūjayet karma here mean that one should worship the laws of karma governing our activities, then one may astutely ask what it means to worship laws and, indeed, what might be the origin of such laws and who is maintaining them. To say that laws have created or are maintaining the world is a meaningless proposition, since there is nothing about the nature of a law that indicates it could generate the existential situation it is supposed to govern. In fact, worship is meant for Kṛṣṇa Himself, and this real conclusion will be clearly revealed in this chapter.

TEXT 19

आजीव्यैकतरं भावं
यस्त्वन्यमुपजीवति
न तस्माद्विन्दते क्षेमं जारान्नार्यसती यथा

*ājīvyaiikataram bhāvaṁ
yas tv anyam upajīvati na tasmād vindate kṣemaṁ
jārān nāry asatī yathā*

SYNONYMS

ājīvyā—sustaining his life; ekataram—one; bhāvam—entity; yaḥ—who; tu—but; anyam—another; upajīvati—resorts to; na—not; tasmāt—from that one; vindate—gains; kṣemaṁ—real benefit; jārāt—from a paramour; nārī—a woman; asatī—who is unchaste; yathā—as.

TRANSLATION

If one thing is actually sustaining our life but we take shelter of something else, how can we achieve any real benefit? We would be like an unfaithful woman, who can never achieve any actual benefit by consorting with her paramour.

PURPORT

The word kṣemaṁ means actual prosperity, not merely the accumulation of money. Here Lord Kṛṣṇa boldly argues that just as a woman can never achieve actual dignity or enlightenment from an illicit lover, the residents of Vṛndāvana will never be happy by neglecting the real source of their prosperity and worshiping Indra instead. According to Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī, the audacity that child Kṛṣṇa displayed before His father and other elders should be understood as an exhibition of transcendental anger aroused when He saw His eternal devotees worshipping an insignificant demigod.

TEXT 20

वर्तेत ब्रह्मणा विप्रो
राजन्यो रक्षया भुवः
वैश्यस्तु वार्तया जीवेच्च छूद्रस्तु द्विजसेवया

varteta brahmaṇā vipro rājanyo rakṣayā bhuvah vaiśyas tu vārtayā jīvec chūdras tu dvija-sevayā

SYNONYMS

varteta—lives; brahmaṇā—by the Vedas; viprah—the brāhmaṇa; rājanyaḥ—the member of the ruling class; rakṣayā—by protection; bhuvah—of the earth; vaiśyaḥ—the vaiśya; tu—on the other hand; vārtayā—by trade; jīvet—lives; śūdraḥ—the śūdra; tu—and; dvija-sevayā—by serving the twice-born brāhmaṇas, kṣatriyas and vaiśyas.

TRANSLATION

The brāhmaëa maintains his life by studying and teaching the Vedas, the member of the royal order by protecting the earth, the vaiçya by trade, and the çüdra by serving the higher, twice-born classes.

PURPORT

After glorifying karma, or work, Lord Kṛṣṇa now explains what He means by prescribed duties born of one's nature. He was not referring to any whimsical activity, but rather to the religious duties prescribed in the varṇāśrama, or Vedic social system.

TEXT 21

कृषिवाणिज्यगोरक्षा
कुसीदं तूर्यमुच्यते
वार्ता चतुर्विधा तत्र वयं गोवृत्तयोऽनिशम्

kṛṣi-vāṇijya-go-rakṣā
kusīdam tūryam ucyate vārtā catur-vidhā tatra vayaṁ go-vṛttayo 'niśam

SYNONYMS

kṛṣi—farming; vāṇijya—commerce; go-rakṣā—and protecting cows; kusīdam—banking; tūryam—the fourth; ucyate—is said; vārtā—the occupational duty; catur-vidhā—fourfold; tatra—among these; vayaṁ—we; go-vṛttayaḥ—engaged in protecting the cows; aniśam—without cessation.

TRANSLATION

The occupational duties of the vaīçya are conceived in four divisions: farming, commerce, cow protection and moneylending. Out of these, we as a community are always engaged in cow protection.

TEXT 22

सत्त्वं रजस्तम इति
स्थित्युत्पत्त्यन्तहेतवः
रजसोत्पद्यते विश्वम् अन्योन्यं विविधं जगत्

*sattvaṁ rajas tama iti
sthity-utpatty-anta-hetavaḥ rajasotpadyate viśvam
anyonyaṁ vividhaṁ jagat*

SYNONYMS

sattvam—goodness; rajaḥ—passion; tamaḥ—and ignorance; iti—thus; sthiti—of maintenance; utpatti—creation; anta—and destruction; hetavaḥ—the causes; rajasā—by the mode of passion; utpadyate—is generated; viśvam—this universe; anyonyaṁ—by combination of male and female; vividham—becomes variegated; jagat—the world.

TRANSLATION

The causes of creation, maintenance and destruction are the three modes of nature—namely goodness, passion and ignorance. In particular, the mode of passion creates this universe and through sexual combination causes it to become full of variety.

PURPORT

Anticipating the possible objection that a livelihood based on cows certainly depends on Lord Indra, who supplies rain, Lord Kṛṣṇa here introduces a mechanistic theory of existence known as atheistic Sāṅkhya. The tendency to attribute exclusive causality to the apparently mechanistic functions of nature is an old tendency indeed. Five thousand years ago Lord Kṛṣṇa referred to a doctrine already well known in human society.

TEXT 23

रजसा चोदिता मेघा
वर्षन्त्यम्बूनि सर्वतः
प्रजास्तैरेव सिध्यन्ति महेन्द्रः किं करिष्यति

rajasā coditā meghā varṣanty ambūni sarvataḥ prajāś tair eva sidhyanti mahendraḥ kiṁ kariṣyati

SYNONYMS

rajasā—by passion; coditāḥ—impelled; meghāḥ—the clouds; varṣanti—pour down; ambūni—their water; sarvataḥ—everywhere; prajāḥ—the population; taiḥ—by that water; eva—simply; sidhyanti—maintain their existence; mahā-indraḥ—the great Indra; kim—what; kariṣyati—can do.

TRANSLATION

Impelled by the material mode of passion, the clouds pour down their rain everywhere, and by this rain all creatures gain their sustenance. What has the great Indra to do with this arrangement?

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa continues His mechanistic explanation of existence, concluding mahendraḥ kim kariṣyati: "Who needs the great Indra, since the rain, sent by the clouds, which in turn are impelled by the mode of passion, is actually producing everyone's food?" The word sarvataḥ indicates that the clouds magnanimously send their rain even on the ocean, rocks and barren land, where there is no apparent necessity for such sweet water.

TEXT 24

न नः पुरोजनपदा
न ग्रामा न गृहा वयम्
वनौकसस्तात नित्यं वनशैलनिवासिनः

na naḥ purojanapadā
na grāmā na grhā vayam vanaukasas tāta nityam vana-śaila-nivāsinah

SYNONYMS

na—not; naḥ—for us; puraḥ—the cities; jana-padāḥ—developed inhabited area; na—not; grāmāḥ—villages; na—not; grhāḥ—living in permanent homes; vayam—we; vana-okasaḥ—dwelling in the forests; tāta—My dear father; nityam—always; vana—in the forests; śaila—and on the hills; nivāsinah—living.

TRANSLATION

My dear father, our home is not in the cities or towns or villages. Being forest dwellers, we always live in the forest and on the hills.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa here points out that the residents of Vṛndāvana should recognize their relationship with Govardhana Hill and with the forests of Vṛndāvana, and not worry about a distant demigod like Indra. Having concluded His argument, Lord Kṛṣṇa makes a radical proposal in the following verse.

TEXT 25

तस्माद्गवां ब्राह्मणानाम्
अद्रेश्वारभ्यतां मखः
य इन्द्रयागसम्भारास् तैरयं साध्यतां मखः

tasmād gavām brāhmaṇānām adreś cārabhyatām makhaḥ ya indra-yāga-sambhārās tair ayaṁ sādhyatām makhaḥ

SYNONYMS

tasmāt—therefore; gavām—of the cows; brāhmaṇānām—of the brāhmaṇas; adreḥ—and of the hill (Govardhana); ca—also; ārabhyatām—let it begin; makhaḥ—the sacrifice; ye—which; indra-yāga—for the sacrifice to Indra;

sambhārāḥ—the ingredients; taiḥ—by them; ayam—this; sādhyatām—may it be carried out; makhaḥ—the sacrifice.

TRANSLATION

Therefore may a sacrifice for the pleasure of the cows, the brāhmaëas and Govardhana Hill begin! With all the paraphernalia collected for worshipping Indra, let this sacrifice be performed instead.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa is famous as go-brāhmaṇa-hita, the well-wishing friend of the cows and the brāhmaṇas. Lord Kṛṣṇa specifically included the local brāhmaṇas in His proposal because He is always devoted to those who are devoted to the godly Vedic culture.

TEXT 26

पच्यन्तां विविधाः पाकाः
सूपान्ताः पायसादयः
संयावापूपशष्कुल्यः सर्वदोहश्च गृह्यताम्

pacyantām vividhāḥ pākāḥ sūpāntāḥ pāyasādayaḥ saṁyāvāpūpa-śaṣkulyaḥ
sarva-dohaś ca gr̥hyatām

SYNONYMS

pacyantām—let the people cook; vividhāḥ—many varieties; pākāḥ—of cooked foods; sūpa-antāḥ—ending with liquid vegetable preparations; pāyasa-ādayaḥ—beginning with sweet rice; saṁyāva-āpūpa—fried and baked cakes; śaṣkulyaḥ—large, round cakes made from rice flour; sarva—all; dohaḥ—what is obtained by milking the cows; ca—and; gṛhyatām—let it be taken.

TRANSLATION

Let many different kinds of food be cooked, from sweet rice to vegetable soups! Many kinds of fancy cakes, both baked and fried, should be prepared. And all the available milk products should be taken for this sacrifice.

PURPORT

The word sūpa indicates bean broth and also liquid vegetables. Thus to celebrate the Govardhana-pūjā, Lord Kṛṣṇa called for hot preparations such as soup, cold preparations like sweet rice, and all types of milk products.

TEXT 27

हूयन्तामग्नयः सम्यग्
ब्राह्मणैर्ब्रह्मवादिभिः
अन्नं बहुगुणं तेभ्यो देयं वो धेनुदक्षिणाः

*hūyantām agnayaḥ samyag brāhmaṇair brahma-vādibhiḥ annam bahu-guṇam tebhyo
deyam vo dhenu-dakṣiṇāḥ*

SYNONYMS

hūyantām—should be invoked; agnayaḥ—the sacrificial fires; samyak—in the proper manner; brāhmaṇaiḥ—by the brāhmaṇas; brahma-vādibhiḥ—who are learned in the Vedas; annam—food; bahu-guṇam—well prepared; tebhyaḥ—to them; deyam—should be given; vaḥ—by you; dhenu-dakṣiṇāḥ—cows and other gifts as remuneration.

TRANSLATION

The brāhmaëas who are learned in the Vedic mantras must properly invoke the sacrificial fires. Then you should feed the priests with nicely prepared food and reward them with cows and other gifts.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī, Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa instructed His father and other residents of Vṛndāvana in the technical details of this Vedic sacrifice to assure the quality of the sacrifice and also to inspire Nanda and the others with faith in the concept of such a sacrifice. Thus the Lord mentioned that there must be orthodox brāhmaṇas, regular sacrificial fires and proper distribution of charity. And things were to be done in the order given by the Lord.

TEXT 28

अन्येभ्यश्चाश्वचाण्डाल-पतितेभ्यो यथार्हतः
यवसं च गवां दत्त्वा

गिरये दीयतां बलिः

*anyebhyaś cāśva-cāṇḍāla-patitebhyo yathārhataḥ yavasam ca gavām dattvā
giraye dīyatām baliḥ*

SYNONYMS

anyebhyaḥ—to the others; ca—also; āśva-cāṇḍāla—even down to the dogs and the dog-eaters; patitebhyaḥ—to such fallen persons; yathā—as; arhataḥ—is proper in each case; yavasam—grass; ca—and; gavām—to the cows; dattvā—having given; giraye—to the mountain called Govardhana; dīyatām—should be presented; baliḥ—respectful offerings.

TRANSLATION

After giving the appropriate food to everyone else, including such fallen souls as dogs and dog-eaters, you should give grass to the cows and then present your respectful offerings to Govardhana Hill.

TEXT 29

स्वलङ्कृता भुक्तवन्तः
स्वनुलिप्ताः सुवाससः
प्रदक्षिणां च कुरुत गोविप्रानलपर्वतान्

*sv-alāṅkṛtā bhuktavantah
sv-anuliptāḥ su-vāsasaḥ*

pradakṣiṇām ca kuruta go-viprānala-parvatān

SYNONYMS

su-alan̄kṛtāḥ—handsomely adorned; bhuktavantaḥ—having eaten to your satisfaction; su-anuliptāḥ—anointed with auspicious sandalwood pulp; su-vāsasaḥ—wearing fine garments; pradakṣiṇām—circumambulation; ca—and; kuruta—you should perform; go—of the cows; vipra—the brāhmaṇas; anala—the sacrificial fires; parvatān—and the hill, Govardhana.

TRANSLATION

After everyone has eaten to his satisfaction, you should all dress and decorate yourselves handsomely, smear your bodies with sandalwood paste and then circumambulate the cows, the brāhmaëas, the sacrificial fires and Govardhana Hill.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa wanted all the human beings and even the animals to eat nice bhagavat-prasādam, sanctified foods offered to the Lord. To enthuse His relatives with a festive mood, He requested them to dress beautifully with fine clothes and ornaments and to refresh their bodies with luxurious sandalwood paste. The essential activity, however, was the circumambulation of the holy brāhmaṇas, cows, sacrificial fires and especially Govardhana Hill.

TEXT 30

एतन्मम मतं तात
क्रियतां यदि रोचते

अयं गोब्राह्मणाद्रीणां मह्यं च दयितो मखः

*etan mama matam tāta kriyatām yadi rocate
ayam go-brāhmaṇādrīṇām
mahyam ca dayito makhaḥ*

SYNONYMS

etat—this; mama—My; matam—idea; tāta—O father; kriyatām—may it be carried out; yadi—if; rocate—it is pleasing; ayam—this; go-brāhmaṇa-adrīṇām—for the cows, brāhmaṇas and Govardhana Hill; mahyam—for Me; ca—also; dayitaḥ—cherished; makhaḥ—sacrifice.

TRANSLATION

This is My idea, O father, and you may carry it out if it appeals to you. Such a sacrifice will be very dear to the cows, the brāhmaëas and Govardhana Hill, and also to Me.

PURPORT

Whatever is pleasing to the brāhmaṇas, the cows and the Supreme Lord Himself is auspicious and beneficial for the entire world. Spiritually blind "modern" people do not understand this and instead adopt a "scientific" approach to life that is rapidly destroying the entire earth.

TEXT 31

श्रीशुक उवाच

कालात्मना भगवता
शक्रदर्पजिघांसया
प्रोक्तं निशम्य नन्दाद्याः साध्वगृह्णन्त तद्वचः

śrī-śuka uvāca
kālātmanā bhagavatā
śakra-darpa-jighāmsayā proktaṁ niśamya nandādyāḥ sādhv agrhṇanta tad-vacaḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; kāla-ātmanā—manifesting as the force of time; bhagavatā—by the Supreme Personality of Godhead; śakra—of Indra; darpa—the pride; jighāmsayā—with a desire to destroy; proktaṁ—what was spoken; niśamya—hearing; nanda-ādyāḥ—Nanda and the other elder cowherd men; sādhv—as excellent; agrhṇanta—they accepted; tat-vacaḥ—His words.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Lord Kṛṣṇa, who is Himself powerful time, desired to destroy the false pride of Lord Indra. When Nanda and the other senior men of Vṛndāvana heard Śrī Kṛṣṇa's statement, they accepted His words as proper.

TEXTS 32-33

तथा च व्यदधुः सर्वं
यथाह मधुसूदनः

वाचयित्वा स्वस्त्ययनं
तद्रव्येण गिरिद्विजान्

उपहृत्य बलीन् सम्यग्
आदृता यवसं गवाम्
गोधनानि पुरस्कृत्य
गिरिं चक्रुः प्रदक्षिणम्

*tathā ca vyadadhuḥ sarvaṁ yathāha madhusūdanaḥ vācayitvā svasty-ayanam tat-dravyeṇa giri-dvijān upahr̥tya balīn samyag ādṛtā yavasam gavām go-dhanāni puraskṛtya
giriṁ cakruḥ pradakṣiṇam*

SYNONYMS

tathā—thus; ca—and; vyadadhuḥ—they executed; sarvaṁ—everything; yathā—as; āha—He spoke; madhusūdanaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; vācayitvā—making (the brāhmaṇas) recite; svasti-ayanam—the auspicious chants; tat-dravyeṇa—with the paraphernalia intended for Indra's sacrifice; giri—to the hill; dvijān—and the brāhmaṇas; upahr̥tya—offering; balīn—the presentations of tribute; samyak—all together; ādṛtāḥ—respectfully; yavasam—grass; gavām—to the cows; go-dhanāni—the bulls, cows and calves; puraskṛtya—placing in front; giriṁ—of the hill; cakruḥ—they performed; pradakṣiṇam—circumambulation.

TRANSLATION

The cowherd community then did all that Madhusūdana had suggested. They arranged for the brāhmaëas to recite the auspicious Vedic mantras, and using the paraphernalia that had been intended for Indra's sacrifice, they presented offerings to Govardhana Hill and the brāhmaëas with reverential respect. They also gave grass to the cows. Then, placing the cows, bulls and calves in front of them, they circumambulated Govardhana.

PURPORT

The residents of Vṛndāvana were simply devoted to Lord Kṛṣṇa; that was the sum and substance of their existence. Being the Lord's eternal associates, they were ultimately not concerned with Lord Indra or ritualistic sacrifice, and they were certainly not interested in the mechanistic philosophy that Kṛṣṇa had just spoken to them. They simply loved Kṛṣṇa, and out of intense affection they did exactly what He had requested.

Their simple loving mentality was not small-mindedness or ignorance, since they were devoted to the Supreme Absolute Truth, who contains within Himself all existence. Thus the residents of Vṛndāvana constantly experienced the highest, essential truth underlying all other truths—and that is Śrī Kṛṣṇa Himself, the cause of all causes and that which sustains the existence of all that exists. The residents of Vṛndāvana were overwhelmed in loving service to that Supreme Absolute Truth; therefore they were the most fortunate, most intelligent and most pragmatic of all living beings.

TEXT 34

अनांस्यनडुद्युक्तानि
ते चारुह्य स्वलङ्कृताः

गोप्यश्च कृष्णवीर्याणि गायन्त्यः सद्विजाशिषः

anāmsy anaḍut-yuktāni te cāruhya sv-alaṅkṛtāḥ gopyaś ca kṛṣṇa-vīryāṇi gāyantyāḥ sa-dvijāśiṣaḥ

SYNONYMS

anāmsi—wagons; anaḍut-yuktāni—yoked with oxen; te—they; ca—and; āruhya—riding; su-alaṅkṛtāḥ—nicely ornamented; gopyaḥ—the cowherd women; ca—and; kṛṣṇa-vīryāṇi—the glories of Lord Kṛṣṇa; gāyantyāḥ—singing; sa—together with; dvija—of the brāhmaṇas; āśiṣaḥ—the benedictions.

TRANSLATION

As the beautifully ornamented cowherd ladies followed along, riding on wagons drawn by oxen, they sang the glories of Lord Kṛṣṇa, and their songs mingled with the brāhmaëas' chanting of benedictions.

TEXT 35

कृष्णस्त्वन्यतमं रूपं
गोपविश्रम्भणं गतः
शैलोऽस्मीति ब्रुवन् भूरि बलिमादद् बृहद्वपुः

kṛṣṇas tv anyatamaṁ rūpaṁ

*gopa-viśrambhaṇam gataḥ śailo 'smīti bruvan bhūri
balim ādad bṛhad-vapuḥ*

SYNONYMS

kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; tu—and then; anyatamam—another; rūpam—transcendental form; gopa-viśrambhaṇam—for generating the faith of the cowherds; gataḥ—assumed; śailaḥ—the mountain; asmi—I am, iti—these words; bruvan—saying; bhūri—abundant; balim—the offerings; ādat—He devoured; bṛhat-vapuḥ—in His huge form.

TRANSLATION

Kṛṣṇa then assumed an unprecedented, huge form to instill faith in the cowherd men. Declaring "I am Govardhana Mountain!" He ate the abundant offerings.

PURPORT

In Chapter Twenty-four of Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrīla Prabhupāda writes, "When everything was complete, Kṛṣṇa assumed a great transcendental form and declared to the inhabitants of Vṛndāvana that He was Himself Govardhana Hill in order to convince the devotees that Govardhana Hill and Kṛṣṇa are identical. Then Kṛṣṇa began to eat all the food offered there. The identity of Kṛṣṇa and Govardhana Hill is still honored, and great devotees take rocks from Govardhana Hill and worship them exactly as they worship the Deity of Kṛṣṇa in the temples. The followers of the Kṛṣṇa consciousness movement may therefore collect small rocks or pebbles from Govardhana Hill and worship them at home, because this worship is as good as Deity worship."

Lord Kṛṣṇa had induced the residents of Vṛndāvana to assume a significant risk on His behalf. He convinced them to neglect a sacrifice to what is, after all, the powerful government of the universe and to worship a hill called Govardhana instead. The cowherd community did all this simply out of love for Kṛṣṇa, and now to convince them that their decision was correct, Lord Kṛṣṇa appeared in an unprecedented, huge transcendental form and demonstrated that He Himself was Govardhana Hill.

TEXT 36

तस्मै नमो व्रजजनैः
सह चक्र आत्मनात्मने
अहो पश्यत शैलोऽसौ
रूपी नोऽनुग्रहं व्यधात्

*tasmai namo vraja-janaiḥ saha cakra ātmanātmane aho paśyata śailo 'sau
rūpī no 'nugrahaṁ vyadhāt*

SYNONYMS

tasmai—to Him; namaḥ—obeisances; vraja-janaiḥ—with the people of Vraja; saha—together; cakre—He made; ātmanā—by Himself; ātmane—to Himself; aho—ah; paśyata—just see; śailaḥ—hill; asau—this; rūpī—manifest in person; naḥ—upon us; anugrahaṁ—mercy; vyadhāt—has bestowed.

TRANSLATION

Together with the people of Vraja, the Lord bowed down to this form of Govardhana Hill, thus in effect offering obeisances to Himself. Then He said,

"Just see how this hill has appeared in person and bestowed mercy upon us!

PURPORT

It is clear from this verse that Lord Kṛṣṇa had expanded Himself and was appearing in His normal form among the festival-goers of Vṛndāvana while simultaneously manifesting Himself as the great form of Govardhana Hill. Thus, in His form as a child, Kṛṣṇa led the residents of Vṛndāvana in bowing down to His new incarnation as Govardhana Hill, and to all He pointed out the great mercy bestowed by this divine form of Govardhana. Lord Kṛṣṇa's amazing transcendental activities were certainly in keeping with the festive atmosphere.

TEXT 37

एषोऽवजानतो मर्त्यान्
कामरूपी वनौकसः
हन्ति ह्यस्मै नमस्यामः शर्मणे आत्मनो गवाम्

*eṣo 'vajānato martyān
kāma-rūpī vanaukaśaḥ
hanti hy asmai namasyāmaḥ
śarmaṇe ātmano gavām*

SYNONYMS

eṣaḥ—this one; avajānataḥ—those who are neglectful; martyān—mortals; kāma-rūpī—assuming any form at will (such as that of the snakes who live upon the hill); vana-okasaḥ—residents of the forest; hanti—will kill; hi—certainly; asmai—to him; namasyāmaḥ—let us pay our obeisances;

śarmaṇe—for the protection; ātmanaḥ—of ourselves; gavām—and of the cows.

TRANSLATION

"This Govardhana Hill, assuming any form he wishes, will kill any residents of the forest who neglect him. Therefore let us pay our obeisances to him for the safety of ourselves and our cows."

PURPORT

Kāma-rūpī indicates that the form of Govardhana can manifest as poisonous snakes, wild animals, falling rocks and so on, all of which are competent to kill a human being.

According to Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī, the Lord presented six theoretical points in this chapter: 1) that karma alone is sufficient to determine one's destiny; 2) that one's conditioned nature is the supreme controller; 3) that the modes of nature are the supreme controller; 4) that the Supreme Lord is simply a dependent aspect of karma; 5) that He is under the control of karma; and 6) that one's occupation is the actual worshipable deity.

The Lord presented these arguments not because He believed them but rather because He wanted to stop the impending sacrifice to Indra and divert it to Himself in the form of Govardhana Hill. In this way the Lord desired to agitate that falsely proud demigod.

TEXT 38

इत्यद्रिगोद्विजमखं
वासुदेवप्रचोदिताः
यथा विधाय ते गोपा

सहकृष्णा व्रजं ययुः

*ity adri-go-dvija-makham vāsudeva-pracoditāḥ yathā vidhāya te gopā
saha-kṛṣṇā vrajam yayuḥ*

SYNONYMS

iti—in this manner; adri—to Govardhana Hill; go—the cows; dvija—and the brāhmaṇas; makham—the great sacrifice; vāsudeva—by Lord Kṛṣṇa; pracoditāḥ—urged; yathā—properly; vidhāya—executing; te—they; gopāḥ—the cowherds; saha-kṛṣṇāḥ—together with Lord Kṛṣṇa; vrajam—to Vraja; yayuḥ—they went.

TRANSLATION

The members of the cowherd community, having thus been inspired by Lord Vāsudeva to properly execute the sacrifice to Govardhana Hill, the cows and the brāhmaṇas, returned with Lord Kṛṣṇa to their village, Vraja.

PURPORT

Although the Govardhana-pūjā was performed in a blissful and successful way, the matter was hardly finished. Lord Indra is, after all, tremendously powerful, and he received the news of the Govardhana sacrifice with burning anger. What ensued will be described in the following chapter.

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Twenty-fourth Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "Worshiping Govardhana Hill."

25. Lord Kṛṣṇa Lifts Govardhana Hill

This chapter describes how Lord Indra was overcome by anger when the residents of Vraja canceled his sacrifice, how he tried to punish them by sending forth a devastating rainfall to Vṛndāvana, and how Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa protected Gokula by lifting Govardhana Hill and for seven days using it as an umbrella to ward off the rain.

Indra, angered at the disruption of the sacrifice meant for him and falsely presuming himself the supreme controller, said, "People often give up the pursuit of transcendental knowledge-the means for self-realization-and imagine that they can cross over the ocean of material existence by mundane fruitive sacrifices. Similarly, these cowherd men have become intoxicated by pride and have offended me by taking shelter of an ignorant, ordinary child-Kṛṣṇa."

To remove this supposed pride of the residents of Vraja, Indra sent the clouds known as Sāṁvartaka, whose function is to facilitate the destruction of the world. He sent them to harass the Vrajavāsīs with downpours of rain and hail. The cowherd community was very disturbed by this and approached Kṛṣṇa for shelter. Understanding that this trouble was the work of Indra, Kṛṣṇa decided to smash to pieces Indra's false prestige, and thus He lifted Govardhana Hill with one hand. He then invited the entire cowherd community to take shelter in the dry space beneath the mountain. For seven successive days He held up the hill, until Indra finally understood Kṛṣṇa's mystic power and ordered the clouds to withdraw.

When the cowherd villagers emerged from beneath the mountain, Kṛṣṇa put Govardhana Hill back in its proper place. The cowherds were in ecstasy, showing loving symptoms such as flowing tears and bodily hairs standing on end. They embraced Kṛṣṇa and offered Him benedictions according to their respective positions, while the demigods in heaven rained down flowers and sang the Lord's praises.

TEXT 1

श्रीशुक उवाच
इन्द्रस्तदात्मनः पूजां
विज्ञाय विहतां नृप
गोपेभ्यः कृष्णनाथेभ्यो नन्दादिभ्यश्चुकोप ह

śrī-śuka uvāca
indras tadātmanaḥ pūjām vijñāya vihatām nṛpa gopebhyaḥ kṛṣṇa-nāthebhyo nandādibhyaś cukopa ha

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; indraḥ—Lord Indra; tadā—then; ātmanaḥ—his own; pūjām—worship; vijñāya—understanding; vihatām—diverted; nṛpa—O King (Parīkṣit); gopebhyaḥ—at the cowherds; kṛṣṇa-nāthebhyaḥ—who took Kṛṣṇa as their Lord; nanda-ādibhyaḥ—headed by Nanda Mahārāja; cukopa ha—he became angry.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: My dear King Parīkṣit, when Indra understood that his sacrifice had been put aside, he became furious with Nanda Mahārāja and the other cowherd men, who were accepting Kṛṣṇa as their Lord.

PURPORT

At the very beginning of this chapter Śukadeva Gosvāmī reveals the foolishness of Indra and the absurdity of his anger. Indra was frustrated because the residents of Vṛndāvana accepted Śrī Kṛṣṇa as their Lord. But the simple fact is that Śrī Kṛṣṇa is the Lord, not only of the residents of Vṛndāvana but of all that exists, including Indra himself. Thus Indra's petulant reaction was ridiculous. As the common saying goes, "Pride goes before a fall."

TEXT 2

गणं सांवर्तकं नाम
मेघानां चान्तकारीणाम्
इन्द्रः प्रचोदयत्क्रुद्धो वाक्यं चाहेशमान्युत

gaṇam sām̐vartakam nāma meghānām cānta-kāriṇām indraḥ pracodayat kruddho vākyaṁ cāheśa-māny uta

SYNONYMS

gaṇam—the group; sām̐vartakam nāma—named Sām̐vartaka; meghānām—of clouds; ca—and; anta-kāriṇām—who effect the end of the universe; indraḥ—Indra; pracodayat—sent forth; kruddhaḥ—angry; vākyaṁ—words; ca—and; āha—spoke; īśa-mānī—falsely thinking himself the supreme controller; uta—indeed.

TRANSLATION

Angry Indra sent forth the clouds of universal destruction, known as Sāṁvartaka. Imagining himself the supreme controller, he spoke as follows.

PURPORT

The word īśa-mānī here is very significant. Indra arrogantly considered himself to be the Lord, and thus he exhibited the typical attitude of a conditioned soul. Many thinkers in the twentieth century have noted the exaggerated sense of individual prestige characteristic of our culture; indeed, writers have even coined the phrase "the me generation." Everyone in this world is more or less guilty of the syndrome called īśa-māna, or proudly considering oneself the Lord.

TEXT 3

अहो श्रीमदमाहात्म्यं
गोपानां काननौकसाम्
कृष्णं मर्त्यमुपाश्रित्य ये चक्रुर्देवहेलनम्

aho śrī-mada-māhātmyam gopānām kānanaukasām kṛṣṇam martyam upāśritya ye cakrur deva-helanam

SYNONYMS

aho—just see; śrī—because of opulence; mada—of intoxication; māhātmyam—the great extent; gopānām—of the cowherds; kānana—in the forest; okasām—who dwell; kṛṣṇam—Kṛṣṇa; martyam—an ordinary human; upāśritya—taking shelter of; ye—who; cakruḥ—have committed; deva—against the demigods; helanam—offense.

TRANSLATION

[Indra said:] Just see how these cowherd men living in the forest have become so greatly intoxicated by their prosperity! They have surrendered to an ordinary human being, Kṛṣṇa, and thus they have offended the gods.

PURPORT

Of course, Indra was really saying that the cowherd men had offended him, Indra, by taking shelter of Kṛṣṇa, whom Indra considered to be martya, a mortal. This was certainly a gross miscalculation on Indra's part.

TEXT 4

यथादृढैः कर्ममयैः
क्रतुभिर्नामनौनिभैः
विद्यामान्वीक्षिकीं हित्वा तितीर्षन्ति भवार्णवम्

yathādṛḍhaiḥ karma-mayaiḥ kratubhir nāma-nau-nibhaiḥ vidyām ānvīkṣikīm hitvā titīrṣanti bhavārṇavam

SYNONYMS

yathā—as; adṛḍhaiḥ—which are inadequate; karma-mayaiḥ—based on fruitive activity; kratubhiḥ—by ritual sacrifices; nāma—in name only; nau-nibhaiḥ—which serve as boats; vidyām—knowledge; ānvīkṣikīm—spiritual; hitvā—abandoning; titīrṣanti—they try to cross beyond; bhava-arṇavam—the ocean of material existence.

TRANSLATION

Their taking shelter of Kṛṣṇa is just like the foolish attempt of men who abandon transcendental knowledge of the self and instead try to cross over the great ocean of material existence in the false boats of fruitive, ritual sacrifices.

TEXT 5

वाचालं बालिशं स्तब्धम्
अज्ञं पण्डितमानिनम्
कृष्णं मर्त्यमुपाश्रित्य
गोपा मे चक्रुरप्रियम्

vācālaṁ bāliṣaṁ stabdham
ajñaṁ paṇḍita-māninam kṛṣṇaṁ martyam upāśritya
gopā me cakrur apriyam

SYNONYMS

7-overtalkative; bāliṣaṁ—child; stabdham—arrogant; ajñaṁ—foolish; paṇḍita-māninam—thinking Himself wise; kṛṣṇaṁ—Kṛṣṇa; martyam—a human being; upāśritya—taking shelter of; gopāḥ—the cowherds; me—against me; cakruḥ—have acted; apriyam—unfavorably.

TRANSLATION

These cowherd men have acted inimically toward me by taking shelter of this ordinary human being, Kṛṣṇa, who thinks Himself very wise but who is simply a foolish, arrogant, overtalkative child.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī, through the insults of Indra Goddess Sarasvatī is actually praising Kṛṣṇa. The ācārya explains: "Vācālam means 'one who can speak according to Vedic authority.' Bāliśam means 'free from pretension, just like a child.' Stabdham means that He bows down to no one because there is no one for Him to offer homage to, ajñam means that there is nothing more for Him to know because He is omniscient, paṇḍita-māninam means that He is highly honored by the knowers of the Absolute Truth, and kṛṣṇam means He is the Supreme Absolute Truth, whose transcendental form is full of eternity and ecstasy. Martyam means that although He is the Absolute Truth, He nevertheless appears in this world as a human being out of affection for His devotees."

Indra wanted to rebuke Kṛṣṇa as vācālam because the Lord had presented many audacious arguments in the line of Karma-mīmāṃsā and Sāṅkhya philosophy even though He did not accept these arguments; thus Indra called the Lord bāliśa, "foolish." Indra called Him stabdha because He had spoken boldly even in the presence of His own father. Thus although Indra attempted to criticize Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the Lord's transcendental character is in fact impeccable, and this chapter will demonstrate how Indra came to recognize the position of the Lord.

TEXT 6

एषां श्रियावलिप्तानां
कृष्णेनाध्मापितात्मनाम्
धुनुत श्रीमदस्तम्भं पशून्नायत सङ्क्षयम्

*eṣām śriyāvaliptānām
kṛṣṇenādhmāpitātmanām dhunuta śrī-mada-stambham
paśūn nayata saṅkṣayam*

SYNONYMS

eṣām—of them; śriyā—by their opulences; avaliptānām—who are intoxicated; kṛṣṇena—by Kṛṣṇa; ādhmāpita—fortified; ātmanām—whose hearts; dhunuta—remove; śrī—based on their wealth; mada—being maddened; stambham—their false pride; paśūn—their animals; nayata—bring; saṅkṣayam—to destruction.

TRANSLATION

[To the clouds of destruction King Indra said:] The prosperity of these people has made them mad with pride, and their arrogance is backed up by Kṛṣṇa. Now go and remove their pride and bring their animals to destruction.

PURPORT

It is clear from this verse that the residents of Vṛndāvana had become highly prosperous simply by protecting cows, since Indra wanted to destroy their so-called pride based on wealth by killing their animals. Well-tended cows produce large quantities of milk, from which come cheese, butter, yogurt, ghee and so on. These foods are delicious by themselves and also enhance other foods, such as fruits, vegetables and grains. Bread and vegetables are delicious with butter, and fruit is especially appetizing when mixed with cream or yogurt. Dairy products are always desirable in civilized society, and the surplus can be traded for many valuable commodities. Thus, simply by a Vedic dairy enterprise, the residents of Vṛndāvana were wealthy, healthy and happy, even in the material sense, and most of all they were eternal associates of the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 7

अहं चैरावतं नागम्
आरुह्यानुव्रजे व्रजम्
मरुद्गणैर्महावेगैर् नन्दगोष्ठजिघांसया

*aham cairāvataṁ nāgam āruhyānuvraje vrajam marud-gaṇair mahā-vegair
nanda-goṣṭha-jighāṁsayā*

SYNONYMS

aham—I; ca—also; airāvataṁ—named Airāvata; nāgam—my elephant; āruhya—riding; anuvraje—will follow along; vrajam—to Vraja; marut-gaṇaiḥ—accompanied by the wind-gods; mahā-vegaiḥ—who move with great power; nanda-goṣṭha—the cowherd community of Nanda Mahārāja; jighāṁsayā—with the intent of destroying.

TRANSLATION

I will follow you to Vraja, riding on my elephant Airāvata and taking with me the swift and powerful wind-gods to decimate the cowherd village of Nanda Mahārāja.

PURPORT

The Sāṁvartaka clouds were frightened by Indra's powerful mood and thus carried out his order, as described in the following verse.

TEXT 8

श्रीशुक उवाच
इत्थं मघवताज्ञप्ता
मेघा निर्मुक्तबन्धनाः
नन्दगोकुलमासारैः पीडयामासुरोजसा

śrī-śuka uvāca
itthaṁ maghavatājñaptā meghā nirmukta-bandhanāḥ nanda-gokulam āsāraiḥ
pīḍayām āsur ojasā

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; itthaṁ—in this manner; maghavatā—by Indra; ājñaptāḥ—ordered; meghāḥ—the clouds; nirmukta-bandhanāḥ—released from their bonds (although they were supposed to be kept in check until the time for the destruction of the world); nanda-gokulam—the cowherd pastures of Nanda Mahārāja; āsāraiḥ—by great downpours of rain; pīḍayām āsuḥ—they tormented; ojasā—with all their power.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: On Indra's order the clouds of universal destruction, released untimely from their bonds, went to the cowherd pastures of Nanda Mahārāja. There they began to torment the inhabitants by powerfully pouring down torrents of rain upon them.

PURPORT

The Sāṁvartaka clouds could cover the entire earth with a single vast ocean. With great strength, these clouds began flooding the simple land of Vraja.

TEXT 9

विद्योतमाना विद्युद्भिः
स्तनन्तः स्तनयित्नुभिः
तीव्रैर्मरुद्गणैर्नुन्ना
ववृषुर्जलशर्कराः

vidyotamānā vidyudbhiḥ
stanantaḥ stanayitnubhiḥ tīvrair marud-gaṇair nunnā vavṛṣur jala-śarkarāḥ

SYNONYMS

vidyotamānāḥ—being illuminated; vidyudbhiḥ—by bolts of lightning; stanantaḥ—roaring; stanayitnubhiḥ—with thunder; tīvraiḥ—fearsome; marut-gaṇaiḥ—by the wind-gods; nunnāḥ—propelled; vavṛṣuḥ—they poured down; jala-śarkarāḥ—hailstones.

TRANSLATION

Propelled by the fearsome wind-gods, the clouds blazed with lightning bolts and roared with thunder as they hurled down hailstones.

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī explains that the word marud-gaṇaiḥ indicates the seven great winds, such as Āvaha, who presides over the region of Bhuvārloka, and Pravaha, who holds the planets in their places.

TEXT 10

स्थूणास्थूला वर्षधारा
मुञ्चत्स्वभ्रेष्वभीक्षणशः
जलौघैः प्लाव्यमाना भूर् नादृश्यत नतोन्नतम्

sthūṇā-sthūlā varṣa-dhārā muñcatsv abhreṣv abhīkṣṇaśaḥ jalaughaiḥ plāvyamānā bhūr nādrśyata natoṇnatam

SYNONYMS

sthūṇā—like columns; sthūlāḥ—massive; varsa-dhārāḥ—downpours of rain; muñcatsu—releasing; abhreṣu—the clouds; abhikṣṇaśaḥ—incessantly; jala-oghaiḥ—by the flood of water; plāvyamānā—being submerged; bhūḥ—the earth; na adṛśyata—could not be seen; nataunnatam—low or high.

TRANSLATION

As the clouds released torrents of rain as thick as massive columns, the earth was submerged in the flood, and high ground could no longer be distinguished from low.

TEXT 11

अत्यासारातिवातेन
पशवो जातवेपनाः
गोपा गोप्यश्च शीतार्ता गोविन्दं शरणं ययुः

aty-āsārāti-vātena
paśavo jāta-vepanāḥ
gopā gopyaś ca śītārtā
govindam śaraṇam yayuḥ

SYNONYMS

ati-āsāra—by the excessive rainfall; ati-vātena—and the excessive wind; paśavaḥ—the cows and other animals; jāta-vepanāḥ—trembling; gopāḥ—the cowherd men; gopyaḥ—the cowherd ladies; ca—also; śīta—by the cold;

ārtāḥ—distressed; govindam—to Lord Govinda; śaraṇam—for shelter; yayuh—they went.

TRANSLATION

The cows and other animals, shivering from the excessive rain and wind, and the cowherd men and ladies, pained by the cold, all approached Lord Govinda for shelter.

TEXT 12

शिरः सुतांश्च कायेन
प्रच्छाद्यासारपीडिताः
वेपमाना भगवतः
पादमूलमुपाययुः

*śiraḥ sutāṁś ca kāyena pracchādyāsāra-pīditāḥ vepamānā bhagavataḥ
pāda-mūlam upāyayuh*

SYNONYMS

śiraḥ—their heads; sutān—their children; ca—and; kāyena—by their bodies; pracchādyā—covering; āsāra-pīditāḥ—distressed by the rainfall; vepamānāḥ—trembling; bhagavataḥ—of the Supreme Personality of Godhead; pāda-mūlam—the base of the lotus feet; upāyayuh—they approached .

TRANSLATION

Trembling from the distress brought about by the severe rainfall, and trying to cover their heads and calves with their own bodies, the cows approached the lotus feet of the Supreme Personality of Godhead.

TEXT 13

कृष्ण कृष्ण महाभाग
त्वन्नाथं गोकुलं प्रभो
त्रातुमर्हसि देवान्नः
कुपिताद्भक्तवत्सल

*kṛṣṇa kṛṣṇa mahā-bhāga
tvan-nātham gokulam prabho trātum arhasi devān naḥ kupitād bhakta-vatsala*

SYNONYMS

kṛṣṇa kṛṣṇa—O Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa; mahā-bhaga—O all-fortunate one; tvan-nātham—whose master is Yourself; go-kulam—the community of cows; prabho—O Lord; trātum arhasi—kindly protect; devāt—from the demigod Indra; naḥ—us; kupitāt—who is angry; bhakta-vatsala—O You who are very affectionate to Your devotees.

TRANSLATION

[The cowherd men and women addressed the Lord:] Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa, O most fortunate one, please deliver the cows from the wrath of Indra! O Lord, You are so affectionate to Your devotees. Please save us also.

PURPORT

At the time of Lord Kṛṣṇa's birth, Garga Muni had predicted, anena sarva-durgāṇi yūyam añjas tariṣyathā (SB 10.8.16): "By His grace you will easily cross beyond all difficulties." The residents of Vṛndāvana were confident that in such a great emergency Lord Śrī Nārāyaṇa would empower Kṛṣṇa to protect them. They accepted Kṛṣṇa as everything, and Kṛṣṇa reciprocated their love.

TEXT 14

शिलावर्षातिवातेन
हन्यमानमचेतनम्
निरीक्ष्य भगवान्मेने कुपितेन्द्रकृतं हरिः

śilā-varṣāti-vātena
hanyamānam acetanam nirīkṣya bhagavān mene kupitendra-kṛtaṁ hariḥ

SYNONYMS

śilā—of (hail)stones; varṣa—by the rain; ati-vātena—and by the extreme wind ; hanyamānam—being attacked; acetanam—unconscious; nirīkṣya—seeing; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; mene—considered; kupita—angry; indra—by Indra; kṛtam—done; hariḥ—Lord Hari.

TRANSLATION

Seeing the inhabitants of His Gokula rendered practically unconscious by the onslaught of hail and blasting wind, the Supreme Lord Hari understood that this was the work of angry Indra.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura explains that the severe distress Indra apparently inflicted upon the residents of Vṛndāvana was an arrangement made by Śrī Kṛṣṇa's pastime potency to enhance the loving dealings between the residents and the Lord. The ācārya gives the analogy that for a hungry person, the pain of hunger increases the happiness he feels when he finally eats excellent food, and thus hunger can be said to enhance the pleasure of eating. Similarly, the residents of Vṛndāvana, although not experiencing ordinary, material anxiety, felt a type of distress at the activities of Indra and thus intensified their meditation on Kṛṣṇa. When the Lord finally acted, the result was wonderful.

TEXT 15

अपत्त्वत्युल्बणं वर्षम्
अतिवातं शिलामयम्
स्वयागे विहतेऽस्माभिरू इन्द्रो नाशाय वर्षति

apartv aty-ulbaṇam varṣam ati-vātaṁ śilā-mayam
sva-yāge vihate 'smābhir
indro nāśāya varṣati

SYNONYMS

apa-ṛtu—out of season; ati-ulbaṇam—unusually fierce; varṣam—rain;

ati-vātam—accompanied by great wind; śilā-mayam—full of hailstones; sva-yage—his sacrifice; vihate—having been stopped; asmābhiḥ—by Ourselves; indraḥ—King Indra; nāśāya—for destruction; varṣati—is raining.

TRANSLATION

[Śrī Kṛṣṇa said to Himself:] Because We have stopped his sacrifice, Indra has caused this unusually fierce, unseasonable rain, together with terrible winds and hail.

TEXT 16

तत्र प्रतिविधिं सम्यग्
आत्मयोगेन साधये
लोकेशमानिनां मौढ्याद् धनिष्ये श्रीमदं तमः

tatra pratividhiṁ samyag
ātma-yogena sādhave lokeśa-māninām mauḍhyād dhaniṣye śrī-madam tamaḥ

SYNONYMS

tatra—in that regard; prati-vidhim—counteracting measures; samyak—properly; ātma-yogena—by My mystic power; sādhave—I shall arrange; loka-īśa—lords of the world; māninām—of those who falsely consider themselves; mauḍhyāt—out of foolishness; haniṣye—I shall defeat; śrī-madam—their pride in opulence; tamaḥ—the ignorance.

TRANSLATION

By My mystic power I will completely counteract this disturbance caused by Indra. Demigods like Indra are proud of their opulence, and out of foolishness they falsely consider themselves the Lord of the universe. I will now destroy such ignorance.

TEXT 17

न हि सद्भावयुक्तानां
सुराणामीशविस्मयः
मत्तोऽसतां मानभङ्गः प्रशमायोपकल्पते

na hi sad-bhāva-yuktānām surāṇām īśa-vismayaḥ matto 'satām māna-bhaṅgaḥ praśamāyopakalpate

SYNONYMS

na—not; hi—certainly; sat-bhāva—with the mode of goodness; yuktānām—who are endowed; surāṇām—of the demigods; īśa—as controlling lords; vismayaḥ—false identification; mattaḥ—by Me; asatām—of the impure; māna—of the false prestige; bhaṅgaḥ—the eradication; praśamāya—for relieving them; upakalpate—is intended.

TRANSLATION

Since the demigods are endowed with the mode of goodness, the false pride of considering oneself the Lord should certainly not affect them. When I break the false prestige of those bereft of goodness, My purpose is to bring them relief.

PURPORT

The demigods are supposed to be sad-bhāva-yukta, endowed with spiritual existence, since they are deputed servants of the Supreme Lord. In the Bhagavad-gītā (4.24) it is stated:

brahmārpaṇam brahma havir brahmāgnau brahmaṇā hutam brahmaiva tena gantavyam brahma-karma-samādhinā

"That which is duly offered to the Lord becomes spiritualized." The demigods engage in the devotional service of the Lord by managing various departments of cosmic administration. Therefore as demigods, or as servants of the Lord, their existence is pure (sad-bhāva). When the demigods fail to live up to the high position given them by the Lord and deviate from proper behavior, they are not acting as demigods but rather as conditioned souls.

Māna, or false prestige, is certainly an anxiety-ridden burden for the conditioned soul. A falsely proud person is not truly peaceful or satisfied, because his understanding of himself is false and inflated. When a servant of the Lord becomes asat, or irreligious, the Lord saves him from impiety by breaking the false prestige that has led him to be offensive or sinful. As stated by the Lord Himself, yasyāham anuḡṛhṇāmi hariṣye tad-dhanam śanaiḥ: [SB 10.88.8] "I give My blessings to a person by taking away his so-called opulence."

Of course, the advanced stage of devotional service to the Lord, as described by Rūpa Gosvāmī, is yukta-vairāgya, utilizing the opulence of this world to execute the Lord's mission. Obviously the things of this world can be used wonderfully to spread the glories of God and to create a godly society, and a more advanced devotee will not be seduced by material paraphernalia but will dutifully and honestly engage it solely for the pleasure of the Lord. In this particular case, Lord Indra forgot that he was a humble servant of God, and Lord Kṛṣṇa therefore arranged to bring this bewildered demigod to his senses.

TEXT 18

तस्मान्मच्छरणं गोष्ठं
मन्नाथं मत्परिग्रहम्
गोपाये स्वात्मयोगेन
सोऽयं मे व्रत आहितः

*tasmān mac-charaṇam goṣṭham man-nātham mat-parigraham gopāye svātma-yogena
so 'yam me vrata āhitaḥ*

SYNONYMS

tasmāt—therefore; mat-śaraṇam—having taken shelter of Me; goṣṭham—the cowherd community; mat-nātham—who have Me as their master; mat-parigraham—My own family; gopāye—I shall protect; sva-ātma-yogena—by My personal mystic power; saḥ ayam—this; me—by Me; vrataḥ—vow; āhitaḥ—has been taken.

TRANSLATION

I must therefore protect the cowherd community by My transcendental potency, for I am their shelter, I am their master, and indeed they are My own family. After all, I have taken a vow to protect My devotees.

PURPORT

The word mac-charaṇam indicates not only that Lord Kṛṣṇa was the sole shelter for the vraja-jana, the people of Vṛndāvana, but also that Lord Kṛṣṇa had established His home among them. Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura quotes from the Anekārtha-varga dictionary, śaraṇam grha-rakṣitroḥ: "The word śaraṇam can represent either home or protector." The residents of Vṛndāvana adopted Kṛṣṇa as their beloved child, friend, lover and life itself, and the Lord reciprocated their feelings. Thus Śrī Kṛṣṇa lived among these fortunate people, moving in their houses and fields; naturally He would protect such intimate devotees from all types of danger.

TEXT 19

इत्युक्तवैकेन हस्तेन
कृत्वा गोवर्धनाचलम्
दधार लीलया विष्णुश्च छत्राकमिव बालकः

ity uktvaikena hastena
kṛtvā govardhanācalam dadhāra līlayā viṣṇuś
chatrākam iva bālakaḥ

SYNONYMS

iti—thus; uktvā—having spoken; ekena—with one; hastena—hand; kṛtvā—taking; govardhana-acalam—Govardhana Hill; dadhāra—He held it; līlayā—very easily; viṣṇuḥ—Lord Viṣṇu; chatrākam—a mushroom; iva—just as; bālakaḥ—a child.

TRANSLATION

Having said this, Lord Kṛṣṇa, who is Viṣṇu Himself, picked up Govardhana Hill with one hand and held it aloft just as easily as a child holds up a mushroom.

PURPORT

It is confirmed in the Hari-varṇśa that Śrī Kṛṣṇa picked up the Govardhana Mountain with His left hand: sa dhṛtaḥ saṅgato meghair giriḥ savyena pāṇinā. "With His left hand He picked up that mountain, which was touching the clouds." According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura, when Lord Kṛṣṇa was preparing to lift Govardhana Hill, a partial expansion of His Yogamāyā potency named Samhārikī temporarily removed all the rain from the sky so that as He ran very swiftly from the porch of His house to the mountain, neither His turban nor other garments became wet.

TEXT 20

अथाह भगवान् गोपान्
हेऽम्ब तात व्रजौकसः
यथोपजोषं विशत गिरिगर्तं सगोधनाः

*athāha bhagavān gopān
he 'mba tāta vrajaukaśaḥ yathopajoṣaṁ viśata
giri-gartaṁ sa-go-dhanāḥ*

SYNONYMS

atha—then; āha—addressed; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; gopān—the cowherds; he—O; amba—mother; tāta—O father; vraja-okasaḥ—O residents of Vraja; yathā-upajoṣam—as suits your pleasure; viśata—please enter; giri—this hill; gartam—the empty space below; sa-godhanāḥ—together with your cows.

TRANSLATION

The Lord then addressed the cowherd community: O Mother, O Father, O residents of Vraja, if you wish you may now come under this hill with your cows.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura provides the following insight in this regard: Ordinarily a large cowherd community, which included many thousands of cows, calves, bulls and so on, could not fit under the base of a medium-sized hill like Śrī Govardhana. However, because the hill was in ecstasy, being touched by the hand of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, it acquired inconceivable power and even felt the hundreds of deadly thunderbolts thrown upon its back by angry Indra to be offerings of soft, fragrant flowers. At times Śrī Govardhana was not even aware that the thunderbolts were striking. From the Hari-vaṁśa the ācārya has also quoted Śrī Kṛṣṇa Himself as saying, traī-lokyam apy utsahate rakṣitum kiṁ punar vrajam: "Śrī Govardhana can give shelter to all the three worlds, what to speak of the simple land of Vraja."

When Indra's attack began and Kṛṣṇa lifted the hill, the deer, wild hogs, and other animals and birds standing on the hill's flanks climbed up to its peaks, and even they did not experience the slightest distress.

TEXT 21

न त्रास इह वः कार्यो
मद्धस्ताद्रिनिपातनात्
वातवर्षभयेनालं तत्त्राणं विहितं हि वः

*na trāsa iha vaḥ kāryo mad-dhastādrī-nipātanāt vāta-varṣa-bhayenālam
tat-trāṇam vihitam hi vaḥ*

SYNONYMS

na—not; trāsaḥ—fear; iha—in this matter; vaḥ—by you; kāryaḥ—should be felt; mat-hasta—from My hand; adri—of the mountain; nipātanāt—of the falling; vāta—of the wind; varṣa—and the rain; bhayena—with fear; alam—enough; tat-trāṇam—the deliverance from that; vihitam—has been provided; hi—certainly; vaḥ—for you.

TRANSLATION

You should have no fear that this mountain will fall from My hand. And don't be afraid of the wind and rain, for your deliverance from these afflictions has already been arranged.

TEXT 22

तथा निर्विविशुर्गतं

कृष्णाश्वासितमानसः
यथावकाशं सधनाः सब्रजाः सोपजीविनः

*tathā nirviviśur gartam kṛṣṇāśvāsita-mānasaḥ yathāvakāśam sa-dhanāḥ
sa-vrajāḥ sopajīvināḥ*

SYNONYMS

tathā—thus; nirviviśuḥ—they entered; gartam—the hollow; kṛṣṇa—by Lord Kṛṣṇa; āśvāsita—pacified; mānasaḥ—their minds; yathā-avakāśam—comfortably; sa-dhanāḥ—with their cows; sa-vrajāḥ—and with their wagons; sa-upajīvināḥ—together with their dependents (such as their servants and brāhmaṇa priests).

TRANSLATION

Their minds thus pacified by Lord Kṛṣṇa, they all entered beneath the hill, where they found ample room for themselves and all their cows, wagons, servants and priests, and for all other members of the community as well.

PURPORT

All the domestic animals of Vṛndāvana were brought beneath Govardhana Hill for shelter.

TEXT 23

क्षुत्तृड्यथां सुखापेक्षां

हित्वा तैर्ब्रजवासिभिः
वीक्ष्यमाणो दधाराद्रिं सप्ताहं नाचलत्पदात्

kṣut-tr̥ḍ-vyathām sukhāpekṣām hitvā tair vraja-vāsibhiḥ vīkṣyamāṇo dadhārādrim saptāhaṁ nācalat padāt

SYNONYMS

kṣut—of hunger; tr̥ḍ—and thirst; vyathām—the pain; sukha—of personal happiness; apekṣām—all consideration; hitvā—putting aside; taiḥ—by them; vraja-vāsibhiḥ—the residents of Vraja; vīkṣyamāṇaḥ—being glanced upon; dadhāra—He held; adrim—the mountain; sapta-aham—for seven days; na acalat—He did not move; padāt—from that place .

TRANSLATION

Lord Kṛṣṇa, forgetting hunger and thirst and putting aside all considerations of personal pleasure, stood there holding up the hill for seven days as the people of Vraja gazed upon Him.

PURPORT

According to the Viṣṇu Purāṇa,

*vrajaika-vāsibhir harṣa-vismitākṣair niṛīkṣitaiḥ gopa-gopī-janair hṛṣṭaiḥ prīti-visphāritekṣaṇaiḥ
saṁstūyamāna-caritaiḥ*

kṛṣṇaḥ śailam adhārayat

"Lord Kṛṣṇa held up the mountain while His praises were chanted by the residents of Vraja, all of whom now had the opportunity to dwell together with Him, and who glanced at Him with joyful and amazed eyes. Thus the cowherd men and women were all elated, and out of loving affection they opened their eyes wide."

By continuously drinking the nectar of the beauty and sweetness of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the residents of Vṛndāvana felt no hunger, thirst or fatigue, and Lord Kṛṣṇa, by seeing their beautiful forms, also forgot about eating, drinking and sleeping. Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura points out that seven days of continuous rain from the Sāṁvartaka clouds failed to flood the district of Mathurā because the Supreme Lord, simply by His potency, immediately dried up the water as it fell to the ground. Thus Kṛṣṇa's lifting of Govardhana Hill is full of fascinating details and has for thousands of years remained one of His most famous pastimes.

TEXT 24

कृष्णयोगानुभावं तं
निशम्येन्द्रोऽतिविस्मितः
निस्तम्भो भ्रष्टसङ्कल्पः स्वान्मेघान् सन्न्यवारयत्

kṛṣṇa-yogānubhāvaṁ taṁ niśamyendro 'ti-vismitaḥ nistambho bhraṣṭa-saṅkalpaḥ svān meghān sannyaavārayat

SYNONYMS

kṛṣṇa—of Lord Kṛṣṇa; yoga—of the mystic power; anubhāvam—the influence; tam—that; niśamya—seeing; indraḥ—Lord Indra; ati-vismitaḥ—most amazed; nistambhaḥ—whose false pride was brought down; bhraṣṭa—ruined; saṅkalpaḥ—whose determination; svān—his own; meghān—clouds; sannyavārayat—stopped.

TRANSLATION

When Indra observed this exhibition of Lord Kṛṣṇa's mystic power, he became most astonished. Pulled down from his platform of false pride, and his intentions thwarted, he ordered his clouds to desist.

TEXT 25

खं व्यभ्रमुदितादित्यं
वातवर्षं च दारुणम्
निशम्योपरतं गोपान्
गोवर्धनधरोऽब्रवीत्

kham vyabhram uditādityam vāta-varṣam ca dāruṇam niśamyoparataṁ gopān govardhana-dharo 'bravīt

SYNONYMS

kham—the sky; vi-abhram—empty of clouds; udita—arisen; ādityam—with the sun; vāta-varṣam—the wind and rain; ca—and; dāruṇam—fierce;

niśamya—seeing; uparatam—ceased; gopān—to the cowherds; govardhana-dharaḥ—the lifter of Govardhana Hill; abravīt—spoke.

TRANSLATION

Seeing that the fierce wind and rain had now ceased, the sky had become clear of rainclouds, and the sun had risen, Lord Kṛṣṇa, the lifter of Govardhana Hill, spoke to the cowherd community as follows.

TEXT 26

निर्यात त्यजत त्रासं
गोपाः सस्त्रीधनार्भकाः
उपारतं वातवर्षं व्युदप्रायाश्च निम्नगाः

niryāta tyajata trāsaṁ gopāḥ sa-stri-dhanārbhakāḥ upārataṁ vāta-varṣaṁ
vyuda-prāyāś ca nimnagāḥ

SYNONYMS

niryāta—please go out; tyajata—give up; trāsaṁ—your fear; gopāḥ—O cowherd men; sa—together with; stri—your women; dhana—property; arbhakāḥ—and children; upārataṁ—finished; vāta-varṣaṁ—the wind and rain; vi-uda—without water; prāyāḥ—practically; ca—and; nimnagāḥ—the rivers.

TRANSLATION

[Lord Kṛṣṇa said:] My dear cowherd men, please go out with your wives, children and possessions. Give up your fear. The wind and rain have stopped, and the rivers' high waters have subsided.

TEXT 27

ततस्ते निर्ययुर्गोपाः
स्वं स्वमादाय गोधनम्
शकटोढोपकरणं
स्त्रीबालस्थविराः शनैः

*tatas te niryayur gopāḥ svam svam ādāya go-dhanam śakaṭoḍhopakaraṇam
strī-bāla-sthavirāḥ śanaiḥ*

SYNONYMS

tataḥ—then; te—they; niryayur—went out; gopāḥ—the cowherd men; svam svam—each his own; ādāya—taking; go-dhanam—their cows; śakaṭa—upon their wagons; ūḍha—loaded; upakaraṇam—their paraphernalia; strī—the women; bāla—children; sthavirāḥ—and old people; śanaiḥ—slowly.

TRANSLATION

After collecting their respective cows and loading their paraphernalia into their wagons, the cowherd men went out. The women, children and elderly persons gradually followed them.

TEXT 28

भगवानपि तं शैलं
स्वस्थाने पूर्ववत्प्रभुः
पश्यतां सर्वभूतानां
स्थापयामास लीलया

bhagavān api taṁ śailam sva-sthāne pūrva-vat prabhuḥ paśyatām sarva-bhūtānām sthāpayām āsa līlayā

SYNONYMS

bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; api—and; taṁ—that; śailam—hill; sva-sthāne—upon its place; pūrva-vat—as originally; prabhuḥ—the almighty Lord; paśyatām—while they were looking on; sarva-bhūtānām—all the living creatures; sthāpayām āsa—He put; līlayā—with ease.

TRANSLATION

While all living creatures looked on, the Supreme Personality of Godhead put down the hill in its original place, just as it had stood before.

TEXT 29

तं प्रेमवेगान्निर्भृता ब्रजौकसो
यथा समीयुः परिरम्भणादिभिः
गोप्यश्च सस्नेहमपूजयन्मुदा

दध्यक्षताद्भिर्युजुः सदाशिषः

tam prema-vegān nirbhṛtā vrajaukaso yathā samīyuh parirambhaṇādibhiḥ gopyaś ca sa-sneham apūjayan mudā dadhy-akṣatādbhir yuyujuh sad-āśiṣaḥ

SYNONYMS

tam—to Him; prema—of their pure love; vegāt—by the force; nirbhṛtāḥ—fulfilled; vraja-okasaḥ—the residents of Vraja; yathā—each according to his position; samīyuh—came forward; parirambhaṇa-ādibhiḥ—with embracing and so forth; gopyaḥ—the cowherd ladies; ca—and; sa-sneham—with great affection; apūjayan—showed their respect; mudā—joyfully; dadhi—with yogurt; akṣata—unbroken grains; adbhiḥ—and water; yuyujuh—they presented; sat—excellent; āśiṣaḥ—benedictions.

TRANSLATION

All the residents of Vṛndāvana were overwhelmed with ecstatic love, and they came forward and greeted Śrī Kṛṣṇa according to their individual relationships with Him—some embracing Him, others bowing down to Him, and so forth. The cowherd women presented water mixed with yogurt and unbroken barleycorns as a token of honor, and they showered auspicious benedictions upon Him.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura explains that each of the residents of Vṛndāvana regarded Kṛṣṇa in his own way—as an inferior, younger member of the community; as an equal; or as a superior—and they dealt with Him accordingly. Kṛṣṇa's superiors offered auspicious benedictions, lovingly smelled His head, kissed Him, rubbed His arms and fingers, and inquired with parental affection as to whether He was tired or pained. Kṛṣṇa's equals laughed or joked with Him, and those who were younger fell at His feet, massaged His feet, and so on.

The word ca in this verse indicates that the wives of the brāhmaṇas joined with the cowherd ladies to offer auspicious items like yogurt and unbroken grains. Lord Kṛṣṇa received benedictions such as this: "May You subdue the wicked, protect the decent people, give pleasure to Your parents and be enriched with all wealth and opulence."

TEXT 30

यशोदा रोहिणी नन्दो
रामश्च बलिनां वरः
कृष्णमालिङ्ग्य युयुजुर आशिषः स्नेहकातराः

*yaśodā rohiṇī nando
rāmaś ca balinām varaḥ kṛṣṇam āliṅgya yuyujur
āśiṣaḥ sneha-kātarāḥ*

SYNONYMS

yaśodā—mother Yaśodā; rohiṇī—Rohiṇī; nandaḥ—Nanda Mahārāja; rāmaḥ—Balarāma; ca—also; balinām—of the strong; varaḥ—the greatest; kṛṣṇam—Kṛṣṇa; āliṅgya—embracing; yuyujur—they all offered; āśiṣaḥ—benedictions; sneha—by their affection for Him; kātarāḥ—beside themselves.

TRANSLATION

Mother Yaśodā, mother Rohiṇī, Nanda Mahārāja and Balarāma, the greatest of the strong, all embraced Kṛṣṇa. Overwhelmed with affection, they offered Him their blessings.

TEXT 31

दिवि देवगणाः सिद्धाः
साध्या गन्धर्वचारणाः
तुष्टुवुर्ममुचुस्तुष्टाः पुष्पवर्षाणि पार्थिव

*divi deva-gaṇāḥ siddhāḥ sādhya gandharva-cāraṇāḥ tuṣṭuvur mumucus tuṣṭāḥ
puṣpa-varṣāṇi pāṛthiva*

SYNONYMS

divi—in the heavens; deva-gaṇāḥ—the demigods; siddhāḥ—the Siddhas; sādhyaḥ—the Sādhya; gandharva-cāraṇāḥ—the Gandharvas and Cāraṇas; tuṣṭuvuḥ—they recited the Lord's praises; mumucuḥ—they released; tuṣṭāḥ—being satisfied; puṣpa-varṣāṇi—downpours of flowers; pāṛthiva—O King (Parīkṣit).

TRANSLATION

In the heavens, O King, all the demigods, including the Siddhas, Sādhya, Gandharvas and Cāraṇas, sang the praises of Lord Kṛṣṇa and showered down flowers in great satisfaction.

PURPORT

The demigods in heaven were just as jubilant as the residents of Vṛndāvana, and thus a great universal festival took place.

TEXT 32

शङ्खदुन्दुभयो नेदुर
दिवि देवप्रचोदिताः
जगुर्गन्धर्वपतयस् तुम्बुरुप्रमुखा नृप

*śaṅkha-duṇḍubhayo nedur
divi deva-pracoditāḥ
jagur gandharva-patayas
tumburu-pramukhā nṛpa*

SYNONYMS

śaṅkha—conchshells; duṇḍubhayāḥ—and kettledrums; neduḥ—resounded; divi—in the heavenly planets; deva-pracoditāḥ—played by the demigods; jaguḥ—sang; gandharva-patayaḥ—the chiefs of the Gandharvas; tumburu-pramukhāḥ—led by Tumburu; nṛpa—my dear King.

TRANSLATION

My dear Parīkṣit, the demigods in heaven resoundingly played their conchshells and kettledrums, and the best of the Gandharvas, led by Tumburu, began to sing.

TEXT 33

ततोऽनुरक्तैः पशुपैः परिश्रितो
राजन् स्वगोष्ठं सबलोऽब्रजद्धरिः
तथाविधान्यस्य कृतानि गोपिका गायन्त्य ईयुर्मुदिता हृदिस्पृशः tato 'nuraktaiḥ paśupaiḥ pariśrito rājan sva-goṣṭham sa-balo 'vrajad dhariḥ tathā-vidhāny asya kṛtāni gopikā gāyantya īyur muditā hṛdi-sprśaḥ

SYNONYMS

tataḥ—then; anuraktaiḥ—loving; paśu-paiḥ—by the cowherd boys; pariśritaḥ—surrounded; rājan—O King; sva-goṣṭham—to the place where He was tending His own cows; sa-balaḥ—together with Lord Balarāma; avrajat—went off; hariḥ—Kṛṣṇa; tathā-vidhāni—such as this (lifting of Govardhana); asya—of Him; kṛtāni—the activities; gopikāḥ—the cowherd girls; gāyantyaḥ—singing; īyur—they went; muditāḥ—happily; hṛdi-sprśaḥ—of Him who touched them within their hearts.

TRANSLATION

Surrounded by His loving cowherd boyfriends and Lord Balarāma, Kṛṣṇa then went off to the place where He had been tending His cows. The cowherd girls returned to their homes, singing joyfully about the lifting of Govardhana Hill and other glorious deeds performed by Lord Kṛṣṇa, who had so deeply touched their hearts.

PURPORT

Before returning to their homes, the gopīs shared intimate association with their lover, Śrī Kṛṣṇa, by exchanging secret glances. Ordinarily they could not publicly talk about Kṛṣṇa, since they were chaste young girls in a religious village, but now they took advantage of this wonderful exhibition by the Lord and freely sang of His beautiful qualities. It is natural that a young man wants to do something wonderful in the presence of a beautiful young girl. The gopīs were the most beautiful and pure-hearted young girls, and Śrī Kṛṣṇa performed the most wonderful activities in their presence. Thus He entered deep within their tender hearts, enlivening their eternal devotion to Him.

*Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C.
Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Twenty-fifth Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "Lord Kṛṣṇa Lifts Govardhana Hill."*

26. Wonderful Kṛṣṇa

In this chapter Nanda Mahārāja describes Kṛṣṇa's opulences to the cowherd men, as Nanda had heard of them from Garga Muni.

The cowherd men, unaware of Lord Kṛṣṇa's power, were amazed to see His various extraordinary activities. The men approached Nanda Mahārāja and told him that after seeing how Kṛṣṇa, a boy only seven years old, had lifted a mountain, and how He had previously killed the demoness Pūtanā and generated extreme attraction in the hearts of everyone in Vṛndāvana, the men had become doubtful and bewildered about how Śrī Kṛṣṇa could possibly have taken birth in the unsuitable environment of a cowherd community. Nanda replied by relating to them what Garga Muni had told him about Śrī Kṛṣṇa.

Garga Muni had said that in the previous three ages Nanda's boy had manifested Himself in white, red and yellow forms, whereas now, in the Dvāpara age, He had assumed His darkish-blue form, kṛṣṇa-rūpa. Because He descended as the son of Vasudeva, one of His many names is Vāsudeva, and He has innumerable other names indicating His many qualities and activities.

Garga Muni had predicted that Kṛṣṇa would prevent all sorts of catastrophes in Gokula, spread unlimited auspiciousness, and increase the ecstasy of the cowherd men and women. In a previous age He had provided protection for the saintly brāhmaṇas when they were harassed by low-class dacoits and there was no proper ruler in society. As the demons in the higher planets can never defeat the demigods who have Lord Viṣṇu on their side, no enemy can ever defeat those who love Kṛṣṇa. In His affinity for His devotees and in His opulence and power, Kṛṣṇa is just like Lord Nārāyaṇa Himself.

Overjoyed and awestruck by Garga Muni's statements, the cowherd men concluded that Kṛṣṇa must be an empowered representative of the Supreme Lord, Nārāyaṇa. Thus they worshiped Him and Nanda Mahārāja.

TEXT 1

श्रीशुक उवाच
एवंविधानि कर्माणि
गोपाः कृष्णस्य वीक्ष्य ते
अतद्वीर्यविदः प्रोचुः समभ्येत्य सुविस्मिताः

śrī-śuka uvāca
evam-vidhāni karmāṇi

gopāḥ kṛṣṇasya vīkṣya te atad-vīrya-vidaḥ procuḥ samabhyetya su-vismitāḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; evam-vidhāni—like this; karmāṇi—activities; gopāḥ—the cowherd men; kṛṣṇasya—of Lord Kṛṣṇa; vīkṣya—seeing; te—they; atat-vīrya-vidaḥ—unable to understand His power; procuḥ—they spoke; samabhyetya—approaching (Nanda Mahārāja); su-vismitāḥ—very astonished.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: The cowherd men were astonished when they saw Kṛṣṇa's activities, such as lifting Govardhana Hill. Unable to understand His transcendental potency, they approached Nanda Mahārāja and spoke as follows.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura explains this verse as follows: "During Lord Kṛṣṇa's pastime of lifting Śrī Govardhana Hill, the cowherd men simply enjoyed the spiritual bliss of the Lord's activities without analyzing them. But afterwards, when they had returned to their homes, perplexity arose within their hearts. Thus they thought, 'Now we have directly seen child Kṛṣṇa lift Govardhana Hill, and we remember how He killed Pūtanā and other demons, extinguished the forest fire, and so on. At the time, we thought that these extraordinary acts occurred because of a benediction from the brāhmaṇas or because of Nanda Mahārāja's great fortune, or that perhaps this boy had achieved the mercy of Lord Nārāyaṇa and was thus empowered by Him.

" 'But all these presumptions are false, because an ordinary seven-year old boy could never hold up the king of mountains for seven whole days. Kṛṣṇa is not a human being. He must be the Supreme Lord Himself.

" 'But on the other hand, child Kṛṣṇa loves it when we coddle Him, and He becomes morose when we—His uncles and well-wishers, simply worldly cowherd men—do not give Him attention. He appears to become hungry and thirsty, steals yogurt and milk, sometimes plays tricks, tells lies, chatters childishly and tends the calves. If He is actually the Supreme Lord, why would He do these things? Don't they indicate that He is an ordinary human child?

" 'We are totally unable to establish the truth of His identity. Therefore let us go and inquire from the highly intelligent King of Vraja, Nanda Mahārāja, and he shall free us from our doubts.' "

According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura, the cowherd men thus made up their minds, and then they entered Nanda Mahārāja's great assembly hall and questioned him as described in the following verse.

TEXT 2

बालकस्य यदेतानि
कर्माण्यत्यद्भुतानि वै
कथमर्हत्यसौ जन्म ग्राम्येष्वात्मजुगुप्सितम्

*bālakasya yad etāni karmāṇy aty-adbhutāni vai katham arhaty asau janma
grāmyeṣv ātma-juguṣitam*

SYNONYMS

bālakasya—of the boy; yad—because; etāni—these; karmāṇi—activities; ati-adbhutāni—most amazing; vai—certainly; katham—how; arhati—should deserve; asau—He; janma—birth; grāmyeṣu—among worldly men; ātma—for Himself; jugupsitam—contemptible.

TRANSLATION

[The cowherd men said:] Since this boy performs such extraordinary activities, how could He warrant a birth among worldly men like us—a birth that for Him would seem contemptible?

PURPORT

An ordinary living being cannot avoid unpleasant circumstances, but the supreme controller can always make perfect arrangements for His pleasure.

TEXT 3

यः सप्तहायनो बालः
करेणैकेन लीलया
कथं बिभ्रद्विरिवरं पुष्करं गजराडिव

yaḥ sapta-hāyano bālaḥ kareṇaikena līlayā katham bibhrad giri-varam puṣkaram gaja-rāḍ iva

SYNONYMS

yaḥ—who; sapta-hāyanaḥ—seven years of age; bālaḥ—a boy; kareṇa—with a hand; ekena—one; līlayā—playfully; katham—how; bibhrat—He held up; giri-varam—the best of mountains, Govardhana; puṣkaram—a lotus flower;

gaja-rāṭ—a mighty elephant; iva—as.

TRANSLATION

How could this seven-year-old boy playfully hold up the great hill
Govardhana with one hand, just as a mighty elephant holds up a lotus flower?

TEXT 4

तोकेनामीलिताक्षेण
पूतनाया महौजसः
पीतः स्तनः सह प्राणैः कालेनेव वयस्तनोः

tokenāmilitākṣeṇa
pūtanāyā mahaujasah
pītaḥ stanaḥ saha prāṇaiḥ kāleneva vayas tanoḥ

SYNONYMS

tokena—by the young child; ā-milita—almost closed; akṣeṇa—whose eyes;
pūtanāyāḥ—of the witch Pūtanā; mahā-ojasah—whose power was very great;
pītaḥ—drunk; stanaḥ—the breast; saha—along with; prāṇaiḥ—her life air; kālena—by the force of time; iva—as; vayaḥ—the life span; tanoḥ—of a material body.

TRANSLATION

As a mere infant who had hardly yet opened His eyes, He drank the breast milk of the powerful demoness Pūtanā and then sucked out her very life air as well, just as the force of time sucks out the youth of one's body.

PURPORT

The word vayaḥ in this verse indicates youth or life span in general. With irresistible power, time takes away our life, and that time is actually Lord Kṛṣṇa Himself. Thus in the case of the powerful witch Pūtanā, Lord Kṛṣṇa accelerated the time process and within an instant withdrew the duration of her life. Here the cowherd men mean to say, "How could a mere infant who could barely open His eyes so easily kill a very powerful demoness?"

TEXT 5

हिन्वतोऽधः शयानस्य
मास्यस्य चरणवुदक्
अनोऽपतद्विपर्यस्तं रुदतः प्रपदाहतम्

*hinvato 'dhaḥ śayānasya māsyasya caraṇāv udak ano 'patad viparyastam
rudataḥ prapadāhatam*

SYNONYMS

hinvataḥ—moving; adhaḥ—beneath; śayānasya—of Him who was lying; māsyasya—the child only a few months old; caraṇau—His two feet; udak—upwards; anaḥ—the cart; apatat—fell; viparyastam—turned upside-down; rudataḥ—of Him who was crying; prapada—by the tip of the foot; āhatam—struck.

TRANSLATION

Once, when only three months old, little Kṛṣṇa was crying and kicking up His feet as He lay beneath a huge cart. Then the cart fell and turned upside-down simply because it was struck by the tip of His toe.

TEXT 6

एकहायन आसीनो
ह्रियमाणो विहायसा
दैत्येन यस्तृणावर्तम् अहन् कण्ठग्रहातुरम्

*eka-hāyana āsīno
hriyamāṇo vihāyasā
daityena yas tṛṇāvartam
ahan kaṇṭha-grahāturam*

SYNONYMS

eka-hāyanaḥ—one year old; āsīnaḥ—sitting; hriyamāṇaḥ—being taken away; vihāyasā—in the sky; daityena—by the demon; yaḥ—who; tṛṇāvartam—named Tṛṇāvarta; ahan—killed; kaṇṭha—his neck; graha—by being seized; āturam—tormented.

TRANSLATION

At the age of one, while sitting peacefully He was taken up into the sky by the demon Tṛṇāvarta. But baby Kṛṣṇa grabbed the demon's neck, causing him great pain, and thus killed him.

PURPORT

The cowherd men, who loved Kṛṣṇa as an ordinary child, were astonished by all these activities. A newborn infant cannot ordinarily kill a powerful witch, and one would hardly think that a one-year-old baby could kill a demon who has kidnapped him and carried him up into the sky. But Kṛṣṇa did all of these wonderful things, and the cowherd men were enhancing their love for Him by remembering and discussing His activities.

TEXT 7

क्वचिद्वैयङ्गवस्तैन्ये
मात्रा बद्ध उदूखले
गच्छन्नर्जुनयोर्मध्ये बाहुभ्यां तावपातयत्

*kvacid dhaiyaṅgava-stainye mātrā baddha udūkhale gacchann arjunayor madhye
bāhubhyāṁ tāv apātayat*

SYNONYMS

kvacit—once; haiyaṅgava—butter; stainye—engaged in stealing; mātrā—by His mother; baddhaḥ—bound up; udūkhale—to a large mortar; gacchan—moving; arjunayoḥ—the twin arjuna trees; madhye—between; bāhubhyām—by His hands; tau apātayat—He made them fall.

TRANSLATION

Once, His mother tied Him with ropes to a mortar because she had caught Him stealing butter. Then, crawling on His hands, He dragged the mortar between a pair of arjuna trees and pulled them down.

PURPORT

The two arjuna trees were old and thick, and they towered above little Kṛṣṇa's courtyard. Nevertheless, they were pulled down quite easily by the naughty child.

TEXT 8

वने सञ्चारयन् वत्सान्
सरामो बालकैर्वृतः
हन्तुकामं बकं दोभ्यां मुखतोऽरिमपाटयत्

*vane sañcārayan vatsān
sa-rāmo bālakair vṛtaḥ hantu-kāmaṁ bakaṁ dorbhyāṁ mukhato 'rim apāṭayat*

SYNONYMS

vane—in the forest; sañcārayan—grazing; vatsān—the calves; sarāmaḥ—together with Lord Balarāma; bālakaiḥ—by the cowherd boys; vṛtaḥ—surrounded; hantu-kāmaṁ—desiring to kill; bakam—the demon Baka; dorbhyām—with His arms; mukhataḥ—from the mouth; arim—the enemy;

apāṭayat—tore apart.

TRANSLATION

Another time, when Kṛṣṇa was tending the calves in the forest together with Balarāma and the cowherd boys, the demon Bakāsura came with the intention of killing Kṛṣṇa. But Kṛṣṇa seized this inimical demon by the mouth and tore him apart.

TEXT 9

वत्सेषु वत्सरूपेण
प्रविशन्तं जिघांसया
हत्वा न्यपातयत्तेन
कपित्थानि च लीलया

vatseṣu vatsa-rūpeṇa
praviśantaṁ jighāṁsayā hatvā nyapāṭayat tena kapitthāni ca līlayā

SYNONYMS

vatseṣu—among the calves; vatsa-rūpeṇa—appearing as if another calf; praviśantaṁ—who had entered; jighāṁsayā—wanting to kill; hatvā—killing him; nyapāṭayat—He made to fall; tena—by him; kapitthāni—the kapittha fruits; ca—and; līlayā—as a sport.

TRANSLATION

Desiring to kill Kṛṣṇa, the demon Vatsa disguised himself as a calf and entered among Kṛṣṇa's calves. But Kṛṣṇa killed the demon and, using his body, enjoyed the sport of knocking kapittha fruits down from the trees.

TEXT 10

हत्वा रासभदैतेयं
तद्वन्धूंश्च बलान्वितः
चक्रे तालवनं क्षेमं परिपक्वफलान्वितम्

hatvā rāsabha-daiteyam tad-bandhūṁś ca balānvitaḥ cakre tāla-vanam kṣemam paripakva-phalānvitam

SYNONYMS

hatvā—killing; rāsabha—who appeared as a jackass; daiteyam—the descendant of Diti; tad-bandhūn—the demon's companions; ca—and; bala-anvitaḥ—accompanied by Balarāma; cakre—He made; tāla-vanam—the Tālavana forest; kṣemam—auspicious; paripakva—fully ripened; phala—with fruits; anvitam—filled.

TRANSLATION

Together with Lord Balarāma, Kṛṣṇa killed the jackass demon and all his friends, thereby securing the safety of the Tālavana forest, which abounded with fully ripened palm fruits.

PURPORT

Long, long ago, the powerful demons Hiraṇyakaśipu and Hiraṇyākṣa were born of the goddess Diti. Therefore demons are commonly called daiteyas or daityas, meaning "descendants of Diti." Dhenukāsura, the ass demon, terrorized the Tāla forest with his friends, but Śrī Kṛṣṇa and Śrī Balarāma killed them just as modern governments kill terrorists who harass innocent people.

TEXT 11

प्रलम्बं घातयित्वोग्रं
बलेन बलशालिना
अमोचयद् व्रजपशून्
गोपांश्चारण्यवह्निः

pralambaṁ ghātayitvogaṁ
balena bala-śālinā
amocayat vraja-paśūn
gopāṁś cāraṇya-vahnitaḥ

SYNONYMS

pralambam—the demon named Pralamba; ghāyayitvā—arranging to be killed; ugram—terrible; balena—by Lord Balarāma; bala-śālinā—who is very powerful; amocayat—He liberated; vraja-paśūn—the animals of Vraja; gopān—the cowherd boys; ca—and; āraṇya—of the forest; vahnitaḥ—from the fire.

TRANSLATION

After arranging for the mighty Lord Balarāma to kill the terrible demon Pralamba, Kṛṣṇa saved Vraja's cowherd boys and their animals from a forest fire.

TEXT 12

आशीविषतमाहीन्द्रं
दमित्वा विमदं ह्रदात्
प्रसह्योद्वास्य यमुनां
चक्रेऽसौ निर्विषोदकाम्

*āśī-viṣatamāhīndram
damitvā vimadam hradāt prasahyodvāsya yamunām
cakre 'sau nirviṣodakām*

SYNONYMS

āśī—of his fangs; viṣa-tama—having the most powerful poison; ahi—of the snakes; indram—the chief; damitvā—subduing; vimadam—whose pride was removed; hradāt—from the lake; prasahya—by force; udvāsya—sending him away; yamunām—the river Yamunā; cakre—made; asau—He; nirviṣa—free from poison; udakām—its water.

TRANSLATION

Kṛṣṇa chastised the most poisonous serpent, Kāliya, and after humbling him He drove him forcibly from the lake of the Yamunā. In this way the Lord made the water of that river free of the snake's powerful poison.

TEXT 13

दुस्त्यजश्चानुरागोऽस्मिन्
सर्वेषां नो व्रजौकसाम् नन्द ते तनयेऽस्मासु तस्याप्यौत्पत्तिकः कथम्

dustyajaś cānurāgo 'smīn sarveṣāṁ no vrajaukasām nanda te tanaye 'smāsu tasyāpy autpattikaḥ katham

SYNONYMS

dustyajaḥ—impossible to give up; ca—and; anurāgaḥ—loving affection; asmin—for Him; sarveṣāṁ—on the part of all; naḥ—us; vraja-okasām—the residents of Vraja; nanda—dear Nanda Mahārāja; te—your; tanaye—for the son; asmāsu—toward us; tasya—on His part; api—also; autpattikaḥ—natural; katham—how.

TRANSLATION

Dear Nanda, how is it that we and all the other residents of Vraja cannot give up our constant affection for your son? And how is it that He is so spontaneously attracted to us?

PURPORT

The very word kṛṣṇa means "the all-attractive one." The residents of Vṛndāvana could not give up their constant love (anurāga) for Lord Kṛṣṇa. Their attitude toward Him was not particularly theistic, because they were unsure whether He was God or not. But He attracted all their love precisely because as God He is the all-attractive person, the supreme object of our love.

The cowherd men also asked, "How is it that young Kṛṣṇa feels such constant love for us?" In fact the Supreme Lord loves all living beings, who are eternally His children. At the end of the Bhagavad-gītā, Lord Kṛṣṇa dramatically declares His affection for Arjuna and urges Arjuna to reciprocate that love by surrendering to Him. Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu, in His prayers to Lord Kṛṣṇa, states, etādṛṣī tava kṛpā bhagavan mamāpi durdaivam īdṛśam ihājani nānurāgaḥ: "My Lord, You are so merciful toward Me, but I am so unfortunate that love for You has not awakened within Me." (Śikṣāṣṭaka 2) In this statement Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu also uses the word anurāga. Our misfortune is that we cannot reciprocate the anurāga, or loving affection, that the Lord feels for us. Although we are infinitesimal and insignificant and the Lord is infinitely attractive, somehow we do not give Him our love. We must accept responsibility for this foolish decision, since to surrender to God or not is the essential expression of our free will.

The Kṛṣṇa consciousness movement provides an efficient, systematic program to help conditioned souls revive their original, blissful consciousness, which is love of God, Kṛṣṇa consciousness. The intricacies of Kṛṣṇa consciousness are so wonderful that even Kṛṣṇa's eternal associates, the residents of Vṛndāvana, are astonished by them, as shown by these verses.

TEXT 14

क्व सप्तहायनो बालः
क्व महाद्रिविधारणम्
ततो नो जायते शङ्का व्रजनाथ तवात्मजे

*kva sapta-hāyano bālaḥ
kva mahādri-vidhāraṇam tato no jāyate śaṅkā
vraja-nātha tavātmaje*

SYNONYMS

kva—where, in comparison; sapta-hāyanaḥ—seven years old; bālaḥ—this boy; kva—where; mahā-adri—of the great mountain; vidhāraṇam—the lifting; tataḥ—thus; naḥ—for us; jāyate—arises; śaṅkā—doubt; vraja-nātha—O master of Vraja; tava—your; ātmaje—concerning the son.

TRANSLATION

On the one hand this boy is only seven years old, and on the other we see that He has lifted the great hill Govardhana. Therefore, O King of Vraja, a doubt about your son arises within us.

TEXT 15

श्रीनन्द उवाच
श्रूयतां मे वचो गोपा
व्येतु शङ्का च वोऽर्भके
एनम्कुमारमुद्दिश्य गर्गो मे यदुवाच ह

*śrī-nanda uvāca
śrūyatāṁ me vaco gopā vyetu śaṅkā ca vo 'rbhake
enam kumāram uddiśya*

gargo me yad uvāca ha

SYNONYMS

śrī-nandaḥ uvāca—Śrī Nanda Mahārāja said; śrūyatām—please hear; me—my; vacāḥ—words; gopāḥ—my dear cowherd men; vyetu—let it go away; śaṅkā—the doubt; ca—and; vaḥ—your; arbhake—concerning the boy; enam—this; kumāram—to the child; uddiśya—referring; gargaḥ—the sage Garga; me—to me; yat—which; uvāca—spoke; ha—in the past.

TRANSLATION

Nanda Mahārāja replied: O cowherd men, just hear my words and let all your doubts concerning my son be gone. Some time ago Garga Muni spoke to me as follows about this boy.

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī comments, "The words previously heard from Gargācārya awakened Nanda Mahārāja to the truth about Kṛṣṇa, and thus, by Nanda's constantly remembering His activities, all thoughts about their being impossible ceased in him. Now he is instructing the cowherd men with these same words."

TEXT 16

वर्णास्त्रयः किलास्यासन्
गृह्णतोऽनुयुगं तनूः
शुक्लो रक्तस्तथा पीत इदानीं कृष्णतां गतः

varṇās trayah kilāsyāsan grhṇato 'nu-yugam tanūḥ śuklo raktas tathā pīta idānīm kṛṣṇatām gataḥ

SYNONYMS

varṇāḥ trayah—three colors; kila—indeed; asya—by your son Kṛṣṇa; āsan—were assumed; grhṇataḥ—accepting; anu-yugam tanūḥ—transcendental bodies according to the different yugas; śuklaḥ—sometimes white; raktaḥ—sometimes red; tathā—as well as; pītaḥ—sometimes yellow; idānīm kṛṣṇatām gataḥ—at the present moment He has assumed a blackish color.

TRANSLATION

[Garga Muni had said:] Your son Kṛṣṇa appears as an incarnation in every millennium. In the past He assumed three different colors—white, red and yellow—and now He has appeared in a blackish color.

PURPORT

This and the next six verses (17 through 22) are taken from the eighth chapter of this canto, in which Garga Muni instructs Nanda Mahārāja about Nanda's son Kṛṣṇa. The translations found herein for these verses are based on those of His Divine Grace A.C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda. In Chapter Eight, where the verses originally appear, the reader will find extensive purports by Śrīla Prabhupāda.

TEXT 17

प्रागयं वसुदेवस्य

क्वचिज्जातस्तवात्मजः
वासुदेव इति श्रीमान्
अभिज्ञाः सम्प्रचक्षते

*prāgayam vasudevasya
kvacij jātas tavātmajaḥ vāsudeva iti śrīmān
abhijñāḥ sampracakṣate*

SYNONYMS

prāk—before; ayam—this child; vasudevasya—of Vasudeva; kvacit—sometimes; jātaḥ—was born; tava—your; ātmajaḥ—Kṛṣṇa, who has taken birth as your child; vāsudevaḥ—therefore He may be given the name Vāsudeva; iti—thus; śrīmān—very beautiful; abhijñāḥ—those who are learned; sampracakṣate—also say that Kṛṣṇa is Vāsudeva.

TRANSLATION

For many reasons, this beautiful son of yours sometimes appeared previously as the son of Vasudeva. Therefore, those who are learned sometimes call this child Vāsudeva.

TEXT 18

बहूनि सन्ति नामानि
रूपाणि च सुतस्य ते
गुण कर्मानुरूपाणि

तान्यहं वेद नो जनाः

*bahūni santi nāmāni rūpāṇi ca sutasya te guṇa -karmānurūpāṇi
tāny ahaṁ veda no janāḥ*

SYNONYMS

bahūni—various; santi—there are; nāmāni—names; rūpāṇi—forms; ca—also; sutasya—of the son; te—your; guṇa-karma-anurūpāṇi—according to His attributes and activities; tāni—them; aham—I; veda—know; na u janāḥ—not ordinary persons.

TRANSLATION

For this son of yours there are many forms and names according to His transcendental qualities and activities. These are known to me, but people in general do not understand them.

TEXT 19

एष वः श्रेय आधास्यद्
गोपगोकुलनन्दनः
अनेन सर्वदुर्गाणि यूयमञ्जस्तरिष्यथ

*eṣa vaḥ śreya ādhāsyad
gopa-gokula-nandanah
anena sarva-durgāṇi*

yūyam añjas tariṣyatha

SYNONYMS

eṣaḥ—this child; vaḥ—for all of you people; śreyaḥ ādhāsyat—will act all-auspiciously; gopa-gokula-nandanaḥ—just like a cowherd boy born in a family of cowherd men as the son of the estate of Gokula; anena—by Him; sarva-durgāṇi—all kinds of miserable conditions; yūyam—all of you; añjaḥ—easily; tariṣyatha—will overcome.

TRANSLATION

To increase the transcendental bliss of the cowherd men of Gokula, this child will always act auspiciously for you. And by His grace only, you will surpass all difficulties.

TEXT 20

पुरानेन व्रजपते
साधवो दस्युपीडिताः
अराजके रक्ष्यमाणा
जिग्युर्दस्यून् समेधिताः

purānena vraja-pate sādhavo dasyu-pīḍitāḥ arājake rakṣyamāṇā
jigyur dasyūn samedhitāḥ

SYNONYMS

purā—formerly; anena—by Kṛṣṇa; vraja-pate—O King of Vraja;

sādhavaḥ—those who were honest; dasyu-pīḍitāḥ—being disturbed by rogues and thieves; arājake—when there was an irregular government; rakṣyamāṇāḥ—were protected; jigyuh—conquered; dasyūn—the rogues and thieves; samedhitāḥ—flourished.

TRANSLATION

O Nanda Mahārāja, as recorded in history, when there was an irregular, incapable government, Indra having been dethroned, and when honest people were being harassed and disturbed by thieves, this child appeared in order to curb the rogues and to protect the people and enable them to flourish.

TEXT 21

य एतस्मिन्महाभागे
प्रीतिं कुर्वन्ति मानवाः
नारयोऽभिभवन्त्येतान्
विष्णुपक्षानिवासुराः

ya etasmin mahā-bhāge
prītiṁ kurvanti mānavāḥ nārayo 'bhibhavanty etān viṣṇu-pakṣān ivāsurāḥ

SYNONYMS

ye—those persons who; etasmin—unto this child; mahā-bhāge—most auspicious; prītiṁ—affection; kurvanti—execute; mānavāḥ—such persons; na—not; arayaḥ—their enemies; abhibhavanti—do overcome; etān—those who are attached to Kṛṣṇa; viṣṇu-pakṣān—the demigods, who always have

Lord Viṣṇu on their side; iva—like; asurāḥ—the demons.

TRANSLATION

Demons cannot harm the demigods, who always have Lord Viṣṇu on their side. Similarly, any person or group attached to all-auspicious Kṛṣṇa cannot be defeated by enemies

PURPORT

Śrīla Prabhupāda has especially indicated in this connection that just as Lord Kṛṣṇa's associates could not be defeated by Kāṁsa, so His modern-day devotees will not be defeated by their demoniac opponents, nor will the Lord's devotees be defeated by the internal enemies—the lusty, materialistic senses.

TEXT 22

तस्मान्नन्द कुमारोऽयं
नारायणसमो गुणैः
श्रिया कीर्त्यानुभावेन
तत्कर्मसु न विस्मयः

*tasmān nanda kumāro 'yaṁ nārāyaṇa-samo guṇaiḥ śriyā kīrtyānubhāvena
tat-karmasu na vismayah*

SYNONYMS

tasmāt—therefore; nanda—O Nanda Mahārāja; kumārah—child; ayaṁ—this; nārāyaṇa-samah—is as good as Nārāyaṇa; guṇaiḥ—by His qualities; śriyā—by His opulence; kīrtyā—especially by His name and fame; anubhāvena—and by His influence; tat—His; karmasu—concerning the activities; na—there is no; vismayaḥ—surprise.

TRANSLATION

Therefore, O Nanda Mahārāja, this child of yours is as good as Nārāyaṇa. In His transcendental qualities, opulence, name, fame and influence, He is exactly like Nārāyaṇa. Thus you should not be astonished by His activities.

PURPORT

Nanda here reports to the cowherd men the concluding remarks of Garga Muni, who spoke at the secret birth ceremony of Lord Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 23

इत्यद्धा मां समादिश्य
गर्गे च स्वगृहं गते
मन्ये नारायणस्यांशं कृष्णमक्लिष्टकारिणम्

ity addhā mām samādiśya
garge ca sva-grham gate manye nārāyaṇasyāṁśam kṛṣṇam akliṣṭa-kāriṇam

SYNONYMS

iti—thus speaking; addhā—directly; mām—me; samādiśya—advising; garge—Gargācārya; ca—and; sva-grham—to his home; gate—going; manye—I consider; nārāyaṇasya—of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Nārāyaṇa; aṁśam—an empowered expansion; kṛṣṇam—Kṛṣṇa; akliṣṭa-kāriṇam—who keeps us free from misery.

TRANSLATION

[Nanda Mahārāja continued:] After Garga Ṛṣi spoke these words to me and returned home, I began to consider that Kṛṣṇa, who keeps us free from trouble, is actually an expansion of Lord Nārāyaṇa.

TEXT 24

इति नन्दवचः श्रुत्वा
गर्गगीतं तं ब्रजौकसः
मुदिता नन्दमानर्चुः कृष्णं च गतविस्मयाः

*iti nanda-vacaḥ śrutvā garga-gītaṁ taṁ vraja-ukasaḥ muditā nandam ānarcuḥ
kṛṣṇaṁ ca gata-vismayāḥ*

SYNONYMS

iti—thus; nanda-vacaḥ—the words of Nanda Mahārāja; śrutvā—hearing; garga-gītaṁ—the statements of Garga Ṛṣi; vraja-okasaḥ—the residents of Vraja; muditāḥ—enlivened; nandam—Nanda Mahārāja; ānarcuḥ—they honored; kṛṣṇam—Lord Kṛṣṇa; ca—and; gata—gone; vismayāḥ—their perplexity.

TRANSLATION

[Śukadeva Gosvāmī continued:] Having heard Nanda Mahārāja relate the statements of Garga Muni, the residents of Vṛndāvana became enlivened. Their perplexity was gone, and they worshiped Nanda and Lord Kṛṣṇa with great respect.

PURPORT

Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī explains that in this verse the word ānarcuḥ indicates that the residents of Vṛndāvana honored Nanda and Kṛṣṇa with such offerings as fragrances, garlands and garments brought from their homes. Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura adds that the residents of Vṛndāvana honored Nanda and Kṛṣṇa with loving offerings of jewels and gold coins. Apparently, Lord Kṛṣṇa was playing in the forest when this conversation took place, so when He returned home the residents of Vṛndāvana encouraged Him by decorating Him with beautiful yellow garments, necklaces, armlets, earrings and crowns, and by shouting, "All glories, all glories to the jewel of Vṛndāvana!"

TEXT 25

देवे वर्षति यज्ञविप्लवरुषा वज्रास्मवर्षानिलैः
सीदत्पालपशुस्त्रियात्मशरणं दृष्ट्वानुकम्प्युत्स्मयनुत्पाट्यैककरेण शैलमबलो
लीलोच्छिलीन्ध्रं यथा
बिभ्रद्गोष्ठमपान्महेन्द्रमदभित्प्रीयान्न इन्द्रो गवाम् deve varṣati yajña-viplava-ruṣā vajrāsma-varṣānilaiḥ sīdat-pāla-paśu-striy ātma-śaraṇaṁ dṛṣṭvānukampy utsmayan utpāṭyaika-kareṇa śailam abalo līlocchilīndhraṁ yathā bibhrad goṣṭham apān mahendra-mada-bhit prīyān na indro gavām

SYNONYMS

deve—when the demigod Indra; varṣati—caused rain; yajña—of his sacrifice; viplava—due to the disturbances; ruṣā—out of anger; vajra—with lightning bolts; aśma-varṣa—hail; anilaiḥ—and winds; sīdat—suffering; pāla—the cowherds; paśu—animals; stri—and women; ātma—Himself; śaraṇam—being their only shelter; dṛṣṭvā—seeing; anukampī—very compassionate by nature; utsmayan—smiling broadly; utpāṭya—picking up; eka-kareṇa—in one hand; śailam—the hill, Govardhana; abalaḥ—a small child; līlā—in play; ucchilindhram—a mushroom; yathā—just as; bibhrat—He held; goṣṭham—the cowherd community; apāt—He protected; mahā-indra—of King Indra; mada—of the false pride; bhit—the destroyer; prīyāt—may He be satisfied; naḥ—with us; indraḥ—the Lord; gavām—of the cows.

TRANSLATION

Indra became angry when his sacrifice was disrupted, and thus he caused rain and hail to fall on Gokula, accompanied by lightning and powerful winds, all of which brought great suffering to the cowherds, animals and women there. When Lord Kṛṣṇa, who is by nature always compassionate, saw the condition of those who had only Him as their shelter, He smiled broadly and lifted Govardhana Hill with one hand, just as a small child picks up a mushroom to play with it. Holding up the hill, He protected the cowherd community. May He, Govinda, the Lord of the cows and the destroyer of Indra's false pride, be pleased with us.

PURPORT

The word indra means "lord" or "king." Thus in this verse Kṛṣṇa is pointedly called indro gavām, "the Lord of the cows." In fact, He is the real Indra, the real ruler, of everyone, and the demigods are merely His servants, representing His supreme will.

It is apparent from this and the previous verses in this chapter that Lord Kṛṣṇa's lifting of Govardhana Hill made quite an impression on the simple cowherd men of Vṛndāvana, and they repeatedly remembered this feat. Certainly anyone who soberly and objectively considers the activities of young Kṛṣṇa will surrender to Him and become His eternal devotee in loving devotional service. That is the rational conclusion one should come to after reading this chapter.

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Twenty-sixth Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "Wonderful Kṛṣṇa."

27. Lord Indra and Mother Surabhi Offer Prayers

This chapter describes how the Surabhi cow and Indra, having seen the amazing power of Lord Kṛṣṇa, performed a bathing ceremony for Him.

Ashamed of having attacked Vṛndāvana with a violent storm, Indra secretly came before Lord Kṛṣṇa, offered obeisances and praised Him. Indra stated that although Śrī Kṛṣṇa is never caught in the current of material illusion, which is born of ignorance, He nevertheless accepts a humanlike body and performs various activities to establish religious principles and chastise the wicked. By this means He crushes the false prestige of those who presume themselves great controllers. Indra went on to declare that Kṛṣṇa is the father, guru and Lord of all living entities, and that in the form of time He is the agent of their punishment.

Satisfied with Indra's prayers, Śrī Kṛṣṇa told him that He had stopped the indra-yajña so that Indra, puffed up as he was with false pride, would remember the Lord. Persons intoxicated by material opulence never see Him standing before them with the rod of punishment in His hand. Therefore if Lord Kṛṣṇa desires the actual good fortune of some person, He brings him down from his position of opulence.

Lord Kṛṣṇa ordered Indra to return to his proper position in heaven and to serve there without egotism. Indra, along with the cow Surabhi, then performed a bathing ceremony for Kṛṣṇa, using the water of the heavenly Ganges and the milk of mother Surabhi. Indra and the cow took this opportunity to bestow upon the Lord the name Govinda, and the demigods showered flowers and recited various prayers.

TEXT 1

श्रीशुक उवाच
गोवर्धने धृते शैले
आसाराद्रक्षिते व्रजे
गोलोकादाव्रजत्कृष्णं सुरभिः शक्र एव च

śrī-śuka uvāca
govardhane dhṛte śaile
āsārād rakṣite vraje go-lokād āvrajaṭ kṛṣṇaṁ surabhiḥ śakra eva ca

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; govardhane—Govardhana; dhr̥te—having been held; śaile—the hill; āsārāt—from the rainfall; rakṣite—having been protected; vraje—Vraja; go-lokāt—from the planet of the cows; *āvraja*t—came; kṛṣṇam—to Kṛṣṇa; surabhiḥ—mother Surabhi; śakraḥ—Indra; eva—also; ca—and.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: After Kṛṣṇa had lifted Govardhana Hill and thus protected the inhabitants of Vraja from the terrible rainfall, Surabhi, the mother of the cows, came from her planet to see Kṛṣṇa. She was accompanied by Indra.

PURPORT

The word go-lokāt here indicates the material planet called Goloka which is filled with exceptional cows. Surabhi went joyfully to see Lord Kṛṣṇa, but Indra went fearfully. As indicated by this verse, Lord Kṛṣṇa had to adopt extraordinary measures to protect His Vṛndāvana associates from Indra's obnoxious and offensive attack. Certainly Indra was ashamed, and also nervous about his future. Having acted improperly, he had fearfully gone to seek the shelter of Lord Brahmā, who then ordered him to take along Surabhi from the material Goloka planet and go to see Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 2

विविक्त उपसङ्गम्य
ब्रीडीतः कृतहेलनः
पस्पर्श पादयोरेनं

किरीटेनार्कवर्चसा

*vivikta upasaṅgamyā
vrīḍitaḥ kṛta-helanaḥ pasparśa pādayor enam kirīṭenārka-varcasā*

SYNONYMS

vivikte—in a solitary place; upasaṅgamyā—approaching; vrīḍitaḥ—ashamed; kṛta-helanaḥ—having committed offense; pasparśa—he touched; pādayoḥ—upon His feet; enam—Him; kirīṭena—with his helmet; arka—like the sun; varcasā—the effulgence of which.

TRANSLATION

Indra was very ashamed of having offended the Lord. Approaching Him in a solitary place, Indra fell down and lay his helmet, whose effulgence was as brilliant as the sun, upon the Lord's lotus feet.

PURPORT

The specific "solitary place" where Indra approached Śrī Kṛṣṇa is mentioned by the sage Śrī Vaiśampāyana in the Hari-vamśa (Viṣṇu-parva 19.3): sa dadarśopaviṣṭam vai govardhana-śilā-tale. "He saw Him [Kṛṣṇa] sitting at the base of Govardhana Hill."

From the commentaries of the ācāryas we understand that Lord Kṛṣṇa wanted to provide a solitary meeting for Indra so that he would not be further humiliated. Indra came to surrender and beg forgiveness, and the Lord allowed him to do so privately.

TEXT 3

दृष्टश्रुतानुभावोऽस्य
कृष्णस्यामिततेजसः
नष्टत्रिलोकेशमद इदमाह कृताञ्जलिः

*dr̥ṣṭa-śrutānubhāvo 'sya kṛṣṇasyāmita-tejasaḥ naṣṭa-tri-lokeśa-mada
idam āha kṛtāñjaliḥ*

SYNONYMS

dr̥ṣṭa—seen; śruta—heard; anubhāvaḥ—the power; asya—of this; kṛṣṇasya—Lord Kṛṣṇa; amita—immeasurable; tejasaḥ—whose potencies; naṣṭa—destroyed; tri-loka—of the three worlds; īśa—of being the lord; madaḥ—his intoxication; idam—these words; āha—spoke; kṛta-añjaliḥ—joining his palms in supplication.

TRANSLATION

Indra had now heard of and seen the transcendental power of omnipotent Kṛṣṇa, and his false pride in being the lord of the three worlds was thus defeated. Holding his hands together in supplication, he addressed the Lord as follows.

TEXT 4

इन्द्र उवाच

विशुद्धसत्त्वं तव धाम शान्तं
तपोमयं ध्वस्तरजस्तमस्कम्
मायामयोऽयं गुणसम्प्रवाहो न विद्यते ते ग्रहणानुबन्धः

indra uvāca
viśuddha-sattvaṁ tava dhāma śāntaṁ tapo-mayaṁ dhvasta-rajas-tamaskam māyā-mayo 'yaṁ guṇa-sampravāho na vidyate te grahaṇānubandhaḥ

SYNONYMS

indraḥ uvāca—Indra said; viśuddha-sattvam—manifesting transcendental goodness; tava—Your; dhāma—form; śāntam—changeless; tapāḥ-mayam—full of knowledge; dhvasta—destroyed; rajaḥ—the mode of passion; tamaskam—and the mode of ignorance; māyā-mayaḥ—based on illusion; ayam—this; guṇa—of the modes of material nature; sampravāhaḥ—the great flux; na vidyate—is not present; te—within You; agrahaṇa-ignorance; anubandhaḥ-which is due to.

TRANSLATION

King Indra said: Your transcendental form, a manifestation of pure goodness, is undisturbed by change, shining with knowledge and devoid of passion and ignorance. In You does not exist the mighty flow of the modes of material nature, which is based on illusion and ignorance.

PURPORT

The great Bhāgavatam commentator Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī has masterfully explained the Sanskrit elements of this profound verse.

The Sanskrit word dhāma has several meanings: a) dwelling place, house, abode and so on; b) a favorite thing or person; delight; or pleasure; c) form or appearance; d) power, strength, majesty, glory, splendor or light.

Concerning the first set of meanings, the Vedānta-sūtra states that the Absolute Truth is the source and resting place of all existence, and in the first verse of the Bhāgavatam that Absolute Truth is said to be Kṛṣṇa. Although Lord Kṛṣṇa exists in His own dhāma, or abode, called Kṛṣṇaloka, He Himself is the abode of all existence, as Arjuna confirms in the Bhagavad-gītā, where he addresses Kṛṣṇa as param dhāma, "the supreme abode."

The very name Kṛṣṇa indicates the all-attractive person, and thus Lord Kṛṣṇa, the source of all beauty and pleasure, is certainly "the favorite thing or person; delight; and pleasure." Ultimately these terms can refer only to Kṛṣṇa.

Dhāma also refers to form or appearance, and as Indra offered these prayers he was in fact directly seeing the form of Kṛṣṇa before him.

As clearly explained in the Vedic literature, Lord Kṛṣṇa's power, strength, majesty, splendor and effulgence are all contained within His transcendental body and thus attest to the infinite glories of the Lord.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī has brilliantly summarized all these meanings of the word dhāma by giving the Sanskrit term svarūpa as a synonym. The word svarūpa means "one's own form or shape" and also "one's own condition, character or nature." Since Lord Kṛṣṇa, being pure spirit, is nondifferent from His body, there is absolutely no difference between the Lord and His visible form. By contrast, in this material world we conditioned souls are all distinctly different from our bodies, whether those bodies be male, female, black, white or whatever. All of us are eternal souls, different from our temporary, flimsy bodies.

When the word svarūpa is applied to us, it especially indicates our spiritual form, because our "own form" is in fact our "own condition, character or nature" eternally. Thus the liberated condition in which one's outward form is one's deepest spiritual nature is called svarūpa. Primarily, however, this term refers to the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrī Kṛṣṇa. This is all indicated in this verse by the words tava dhāma, as explained by Śrīdhara Svāmī.

Śrīdhara Svāmī has explained that here the word śāntam means "always in the same form." Śāntam can also mean "undisturbed, free from passion, or purified." According to Vedic philosophy, all change in this world is caused by the influence of passion and ignorance. The passionate mode is creative, and the ignorant mode is destructive, whereas the mode of goodness, sattva, is serene and sustaining. In many ways this verse emphasizes that Lord Kṛṣṇa is free from the modes of nature. The words viśuddha-sattvam, śāntam, dhvasta-rajastamaskam and guṇa-sampravāho na vidyate te all indicate this. Unlike Kṛṣṇa, we change from one body to another because of our involvement with the modes of nature; the various transformations of material forms are impelled by the modes of nature, which are themselves set in motion by the influence of time. Therefore one who is free from the material modes of nature is changeless and eternally satisfied in blissful spiritual existence. Thus the word śāntam indicates that the Lord is undisturbed by change, since He is free from the material modes of nature.

According to this verse, the powerful flow of the material modes of nature—namely passion, stupidity and mundane piety—are based on agrahaṇa, which Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī has translated as "ignorance." Since the Sanskrit root grah means "to take, accept, grasp or comprehend," agrahaṇa means "grasp" exactly in the sense of "to grasp an idea or fact." Therefore agrahaṇa here means one's failure to understand one's spiritual position, and this failure causes one to fall into the violent currents of material existence.

An additional meaning of the word agrahaṇa is derived when it is divided into the compound agra-haṇa. Agra means "the first, top or best," and haṇa means "killing." The best part of our existence is the pure soul, which is eternal, in contradistinction to the temporary, material body and mind. Thus one who chooses material existence over Kṛṣṇa consciousness is in fact killing the best part of himself, the soul, which in its pure state can enjoy Kṛṣṇa consciousness unlimitedly.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī has translated tapo-mayam as "full of knowledge." The word tapas, generally indicating "austerity," is derived from the Sanskrit verb tap, whose meaning can be summarized as indicating the various functions of the sun. Tap means "to burn, to shine, to heat and so on." The Supreme Lord is eternally perfect, and therefore here tapo-mayam does not indicate that His transcendental body is meant for austerities, since austerities are performed by conditioned souls to purify themselves or to acquire a particular power. An omnipotent, perfect being neither purifies Himself nor acquires power: He is eternally pure and all-powerful. Therefore Śrīdhara Svāmī has intelligently understood that in this case the word tapas refers to the illuminating function of the sun and thus indicates that the Lord's self-effulgent body is omniscient. Light is a common symbol of knowledge. The Lord's spiritual effulgence does not merely illuminate physically, as in the case of a candle or light bulb; more importantly, the Lord's body illuminates our consciousness with perfect knowledge because the Lord's effulgence is itself perfect knowledge.

We offer our respectful obeisances at the lotus feet of Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī and thank him for his enlightening comments on this verse.

TEXT 5

कुतो नु तद्धेतव ईश तत्कृता
लोभादयो येऽबुधलिङ्गभावाः
तथापि दण्डं भगवान् बिभर्ति धर्मस्य गुप्त्यै खलनिग्रहाय

kuto nu tad-dhetava īśa tat-kṛtā lobhādayo ye 'budha-liṅga-bhāvāḥ tathāpi daṇḍam bhagavān bibharti

dharmasya guptyai khala-nigrahāya

SYNONYMS

kutaḥ—how; nu—certainly; tat—of that (existence of the material body); hetavaḥ—the causes; īśa—O Lord; tat-kṛtāḥ—produced by one's connection with the material body; lobha-ādayaḥ—greed and so forth; ye—which; abudha—of an ignorant person; linga-bhāvāḥ—symptoms; tathā api—nevertheless; daṇḍam—punishment; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; bibharti—wields; dharmasya—of the principles of religion; guptyai—for the protection; khala—of wicked persons; nigrahāya—for the chastisement.

TRANSLATION

How, then, could there exist in You the symptoms of an ignorant person—such as greed, lust, anger and envy—which are produced by one's previous involvement in material existence and which cause one to become further entangled in material existence? And yet as the Supreme Lord You impose punishment to protect religious principles and curb down the wicked.

PURPORT

This complex philosophical statement by Indra may be analyzed as follows: In the first line of this verse, Indra refers to the main idea expressed at the end of the previous verse—namely, that the great currents of material existence, which are based on ignorance, cannot possibly exist within the Supreme Lord. The words tad-dhetavaḥ and tat-kṛtāḥ indicate that something causes the modes of nature to manifest, and that they in turn become the cause of that which caused them. In the second line of this verse, we find that it is material feelings such as greed, lust, envy and anger that cause the modes of nature to manifest and that are themselves caused by the modes of nature.

The explanation of this seeming paradox is as follows: When the conditioned soul decides to associate with the material qualities, he becomes contaminated by those qualities. As stated in the Gītā (13.22), kāraṇaṁ guṇa-saṅgo 'sya sad-asad-yoni-janmasu. For example, in the presence of a seductive woman, a man may give in to his lower instincts and try to enjoy sex with her. By his deciding to associate with the lower qualities of nature, those qualities manifest in him very powerfully. He is overwhelmed with lust and driven to try again and again to satisfy his burning desire. Because his mind has been infected by lust, all that he does, thinks and speaks will be influenced by his strong attachment to sex. In other words, by choosing to associate with the lusty qualities of nature, he has caused them to powerfully manifest within himself, and eventually those lusty qualities themselves will cause him to accept another material body suitable for affairs governed by those qualities.

The lower qualities, such as lust, greed, anger and envy, are abudha-liṅga-bhāvāḥ, symptoms of ignorance. Indeed, as indicated by Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī in his commentary, the manifestation of the modes of nature is synonymous with the manifestation of a particular material body. It is clearly explained throughout the Vedic literature that the conditioned soul receives a particular body, gives it up and then accepts another simply because of his involvement with the modes of nature (kāraṇaṁ guṇa-saṅgo 'sya [Bg. 13.22]). Thus to say that one is participating in the modes of nature is to say that one is accepting particular types of bodies suitable for the particular material qualities one is involved with.

An ignorant bystander might have simplistically interpreted Kṛṣṇa's pastime of lifting Govardhana Hill as follows: The residents of Vṛndāvana were obliged by Vedic principles to make certain offerings to the god of heaven, Indra. Child Kṛṣṇa, ignoring the position of Indra, usurped these offerings and took them for His own pleasure. When Indra tried to punish Kṛṣṇa and His associates, the Lord frustrated Indra's attempt, humiliated him, and exhausted his pride and resources.

But this superficial interpretation is refuted in this verse. Here Lord Indra addresses Śrī Kṛṣṇa as bhagavān, indicating that He is not an ordinary child but in fact God. Therefore Kṛṣṇa's punishing Indra was part of His mission of protecting religious principles and curbing down the envious; it was not a display of material anger or of greed for the offerings meant for Indra. Śrī Kṛṣṇa is pure spiritual existence, and His simple, sublime desire is to engage all living beings in the perfect, blissful life of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Kṛṣṇa's desire to make us Kṛṣṇa conscious is not egotistical, since ultimately Kṛṣṇa is everything and Kṛṣṇa consciousness is objectively the best consciousness. Lord Indra is really the humble servant of Kṛṣṇa, a fact he is now beginning to remember.

TEXT 6

पिता गुरुस्त्वं जगतामधीशो
दुरत्ययः काल उपात्तदण्डः
हिताय चेच्छातनुभिः समीहसे मानं विधुन्वन् जगदीशमानिनाम्

pitā gurus tvam jagatām adhīśo duratyayaḥ kāla upātta-daṇḍaḥ hitāya cecchā-tanubhiḥ samīhase mānaṁ vidhunvan jagad-īśa-māninām

SYNONYMS

pitā—the father; guruḥ—the spiritual master; tvam—You; jagatām—of the entire universe; adhīśaḥ—the supreme controller; duratyayaḥ—insurmountable; kālaḥ—time; upātta—wielding; daṇḍaḥ—punishment; hitāya—for the benefit; ca—and; icchā—assumed by Your own free will; tanubhiḥ—by Your transcendental forms; samīhase—You endeavor; mānam—the false pride; vidhunvan—eradicating; jagat-īśa—lords of the universe; māninām—of those who presume themselves to be.

TRANSLATION

You are the father and spiritual master of this entire universe, and also its supreme controller. You are insurmountable time, imposing punishment upon the sinful for their own benefit. Indeed, in Your various incarnations, selected by Your own free will, You act decisively to remove the false pride of those who presume themselves masters of this world.

PURPORT

The word hitāya is significant here. Lord Kṛṣṇa protects religion and chastises the wicked for the benefit of the entire universe. Foolish and faithless pseudopriests criticize God for punishing the living entities through the actions of nature. But whether Lord Kṛṣṇa punishes them indirectly through nature or directly in His incarnations, as mentioned here, He has a perfect right to do so because He is the father, spiritual master and supreme ruler of the entire universe. Another way He curbs down the false attempts of the conditioned souls to establish the kingdom of God without God is through His feature as insurmountable time. It is said, "Spare the rod and spoil the child." That is a fact, and it is actually the Lord's mercy that He takes the trouble to rectify our misbehavior, although faithless persons criticize the Lord's fatherly vigilance.

TEXT 7

ये मद्विधाज्ञा जगदीशमानिनस्
त्वां वीक्ष्य कालेऽभयमाशु तन्मदम्
हित्वार्यमार्गं प्रभजन्त्यपस्मया

ईहा खलानामपि तेऽनुशासनम्

ye mad-vidhājñā jagad-īśa-māninas tvām vīkṣya kāle 'bhayam āśu tan-madam hitvārya-mārgam prabhajanty apasmayā ihā khalānām api te 'nuśāsanam

SYNONYMS

ye—those who; mat-vidha—like me; ajñāḥ—foolish persons; jagat-īśa—as lords of the universe; māninaḥ—falsely identifying themselves; tvām—You; vīkṣya—seeing; kāle—at time (of fear); abhayam—fearless; āśu—quickly; tat—their; madam—false pride; hitvā—abandoning; ārya—of devotees progressing in spiritual life; mārgam—the path; prabhajanti—they take to fully; apa-smayāḥ—free of pride; ihā—the activity; khalānām—of the wicked; api—indeed; te—by You; anuśāsanam—the instruction.

TRANSLATION

Even fools like me, who proudly think themselves universal lords, quickly give up their conceit and directly take to the path of the spiritually progressive when they see You are fearless even in the face of time. Thus You punish the mischievous only to instruct them.

PURPORT

History is filled with examples of the supreme authority breaking the conceit of foolish men. Modern world leaders proudly fight one another, placing the common people in unprecedented jeopardy. Similarly Indra, proud of his apparently illustrious position, dared to threaten the lives of the innocent residents of Vṛndāvana with terrible weapons, until his arrogance was curbed by the dynamic response of the Supreme Lord.

Nowadays, governments in the Western countries tend to be elected democratically, and thus the mass of people become identified with the destiny of their leaders. When the proud leaders engage in violence, the people who elected them bear the brunt of such belligerent decisions. Thus the people in the democratic nations of the world should elect Kṛṣṇa conscious leaders, who will establish an administration consonant with the laws of God. If they fail to do so, their materialistic leaders, oblivious of the will of the Supreme Lord, will undoubtedly be chastised by cataclysmic events, and the people who elected such leaders, being responsible for their leaders' acts, will share in the suffering.

It is ironic that in modern democracies not only do the leaders consider themselves universal controllers, but the mass of people, considering the leaders merely their representatives rather than the representatives of God, also consider themselves, as a people, to be the controllers of their nation. Thus the chastisement mentioned in this verse has become unprecedentedly applicable to people in general in the modern world.

Modern man should not simply make himself a lesson of nature by falling down from his proud position; rather he should submissively execute the will of the all-attractive Personality of Godhead, the Absolute Truth, Śrī Kṛṣṇa, and usher in a new era of sanity, tranquillity and widespread enlightenment.

TEXT 8

स त्वं ममैश्वर्यमदप्लुतस्य कृतागसस्तेऽविदुषः प्रभावम्
क्षन्तुं प्रभोऽथार्हसि मूढचेतसो मैवं पुनर्भून्मतिरीश मेऽसती

sa tvam mamaīśvarya-mada-plutasya

kṛtāgasas te 'viduṣaḥ prabhāvam kṣantum prabho 'thārhasi mūḍha-cetaso maivam punar bhūn matir īśa me 'satī

SYNONYMS

saḥ—He; tvam—Yourself; mama—of me; aiśvarya—of rulership; mada—in the intoxication; plutasya—who is submerged; kṛta—having committed; āgasah—sinful offense; te—Your; aviduṣaḥ—not knowing; prabhāvam—the transcendental influence; kṣantum—to forgive; prabho—O master; atha—therefore; arhasi—You should; mūḍha—foolish; cetasaḥ—whose intelligence; mā—never; evam—thus; punaḥ—again; bhūt—may it be; matih—consciousness; īśa—O Lord; me—my; asatī—impure.

TRANSLATION

Engrossed in pride over my ruling power, ignorant of Your majesty, I offended You. O Lord, may You forgive me. My intelligence was bewildered, but let my consciousness never again be so impure.

PURPORT

Although Lord Kṛṣṇa protected the residents of Vraja by lifting Govardhana Hill, He had not yet punished Indra himself, and Indra feared that at any moment Śrī Kṛṣṇa might call the son of Vivasvān, Yamarāja, who punishes impudent persons who defy the laws of God.

Indra was quite fearful and thus begged the Lord's forgiveness on the plea that he could be purified only by Kṛṣṇa's mercy—that he was too stubborn to learn a good lesson through mere punishment.

In fact, despite Indra's humility in this case, his heart was not completely purified. Later on in this canto we find that when Lord Kṛṣṇa once took a pārijāta flower from Indra's kingdom, poor Indra again reacted violently against the Supreme Personality of Godhead. Thus, we should aspire to go back to our eternal home in the kingdom of Kṛṣṇa, and should not become entangled in the imperfect life of the material gods.

TEXT 9

तवावतारोऽयमधोक्षजेह
भुवो भराणामुरुभारजन्मनाम्
चमूपतीनामभवाय देव भवाय युष्मच्चरणानुवर्तिनाम्

tavāvatāro 'yam adhokṣajeha bhuvo bharāṇām uru-bhāra-janmanām camū-patīnām abhavāya deva bhavāya yuṣmac-caraṇānuvartinām

SYNONYMS

tava—Your; avatāraḥ—descent; ayam—this; adhokṣaja—O transcendental Lord; iha—into this world; bhuvaḥ—of the earth; bharāṇām—who constitute a great burden; uru-bhāra—to many disturbances; janmanām—who have given rise; camū-patīnām—of military leaders; abhavāya—for the destruction; deva—O Supreme Personality of Godhead; bhavāya—for the auspicious benefit; yuṣmat—Your; caraṇa—lotus feet; anuvartinām—of those who serve.

TRANSLATION

You descend into this world, O transcendent Lord, to destroy the warlords who burden the earth and create many terrible disturbances. O Lord, you simultaneously act for the welfare of those who faithfully serve Your lotus feet.

PURPORT

This verse utilizes an attractive poetic device. Lord Kṛṣṇa's descent into the world is said to be for the abhava, literally "nonexistence" or "destruction," of the demoniac warlords, and simultaneously for the bhava, or "existence, prosperity," of those who faithfully serve the Lord's lotus feet.

True existence, indicated here by the word bhava, is sac-cid-ānanda, eternal and full of bliss and knowledge. To an uninformed observer, it may appear that Śrī Kṛṣṇa is simply rewarding His followers and punishing His enemies the way any ordinary person might do. This specific doubt about the Lord is raised extensively in the Sixth Canto in connection with Kṛṣṇa's taking the side of the faithful demigods against the faithless demons in a particular cosmic war. In that canto the Vaiṣṇava authorities clearly explain that in fact Lord Kṛṣṇa is the father and Lord of all living beings and that all His activities are therefore meant for the benefit of all existence. Lord Kṛṣṇa does not really cause the nonexistence of anyone; rather He curbs the foolish, destructive, material ways of those who defy the laws of God. These laws are created to ensure the prosperity, harmony and happiness of the entire creation, and their violation is an unjustifiable disturbance.

Certainly Indra hoped that Lord Kṛṣṇa would count him among the devotees and not the demons, although considering Indra's actions one might doubt where his loyalties actually lay. Indra was aware of this possible doubt and thus, as we find in the next verse, he tried his best to surrender to the Supreme Lord.

TEXT 10

नमस्तुभ्यं भगवते
पुरुषाय महात्मने

वासुदेवाय कृष्णाय
सात्वतां पतये नमः

*namas tubhyam bhagavate
puruṣāya mahātmāne vāsudevāya kṛṣṇāya
sātvatām pataye namaḥ*

SYNONYMS

namaḥ—obeisances; tubhyam—unto You; bhagavate—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; puruṣāya—the Lord dwelling within the hearts of all; mahā-ātmāne—the great Soul; vāsudevāya—to Him who dwells everywhere; kṛṣṇāya—Śrī Kṛṣṇa; sātvatām—of the Yadu dynasty; pataye—to the master; namaḥ—obeisances.

TRANSLATION

Obeisances unto You, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, the great Soul, who are all-pervading and who reside in the hearts of all. My obeisances unto You, Kṛṣṇa, the chief of the Yadu dynasty.

TEXT 11

स्वच्छन्दोपात्तदेहाय
विशुद्धज्ञानमूर्तये
सर्वस्मै सर्वबीजाय सर्वभूतात्मने नमः

*svacchandopātta-dehāya viśuddha-jñāna-mūrtaye sarvasmai sarva-bījāya
sarva-bhūtātmane namaḥ*

SYNONYMS

sva—of His own (devotees); chanda—according to the desire; upātta—who assumes; dehāya—His transcendental bodies; viśuddha—perfectly pure; jñāna—knowledge; mūrtaye—whose form; sarvasmai—to Him who is everything; sarva-bījāya—who is the seed of all; sarva-bhūta—of all created beings; ātmane—who is the indwelling Soul; namaḥ—obeisances.

TRANSLATION

Unto Him who assumes transcendental bodies according to the desires of His devotees, unto Him whose form is itself pure consciousness, unto Him who is everything, who is the seed of everything and who is the Soul of all creatures, I offer my obeisances.

PURPORT

We could hardly construe from the first line of this verse that God is somehow impersonal but assumes a personal material body. It is clearly said here that the Lord assumes different forms according to svacchanda—according to His own desire or according to the desires of His devotees. An impersonal God could hardly reciprocate with the personal desires of Its devotees, nor could an impersonal God Himself have desires, since desire is characteristic of personality. Therefore, the Lord's manifesting different forms in a personal way, responding to personal desires, indicates that He is eternally a person and manifests His different transcendental bodies as an expression of His own eternal nature.

The word viśuddha-jñāna-mūrtaye is most significant. Mūrti means the form of the Deity, and it is specifically stated here that the Lord's form is itself completely pure consciousness. Consciousness is the primary spiritual element, distinct from any of the material elements, and even distinct from the subtle or psychological material elements—mundane mind, intelligence and false ego—which are simply a psychic covering over pure consciousness. Since the Lord's form is made of pure consciousness, it can hardly be understood as a material body like the mortal bags of flesh and bones we carry around in this world.

In the last two lines of this verse, there is poetic emphasis on the word sarva, "everything." The Lord is everything: He is the seed of everything and He is the Soul of every creature. Therefore, let us join with Indra in offering our obeisances to the Lord.

TEXT 12

मयेदं भगवन् गोष्ठ-नाशयासारवायुभिः
चेष्टितं विहते यज्ञे मानिना तीव्रमन्युना

*mayedaṁ bhagavan goṣṭha-nāśāyāsāra-vāyubhiḥ ceṣṭitaṁ vihate yajñe
māninā tīvra-manyunā*

SYNONYMS

mayā—by me; idaṁ—this; bhagavan—O Lord; goṣṭha—of Your cowherd community; nāśāya—for the destruction; āsāra—by hard rain; vāyubhiḥ—and wind; ceṣṭitam—enacted; vihate—when it was disrupted; yajñe—my sacrifice; māninā—(by me) who was falsely proud; tīvra—fierce; manyunā—whose anger.

TRANSLATION

My dear Lord, when my sacrifice was disrupted I became fiercely angry because of false pride. Thus I tried to destroy Your cowherd community with severe rain and wind.

TEXT 13

त्वयेशानुगृहीतोऽस्मि
ध्वस्तस्तम्भो वृथोद्यमः
ईश्वरं गुरुमात्मानं
त्वामहं शरणं गतः

tvayeśānugrṛhīto 'smi dhvasta-stambho vṛthodyamaḥ īśvaraṁ gurum ātmānaṁ
tvām ahaṁ śaraṇaṁ gataḥ

SYNONYMS

tvayā—by You; īśa—O Lord; anugrṛhītaḥ—shown mercy; asmi—I am; dhvasta—shattered; stambhaḥ—my false pride; vṛthā—fruitless; udyamaḥ—my attempt; īśvaram—the Supreme Lord; gurum—the spiritual master; ātmānam—the true Self; tvām—to You; aham—I; śaraṇam—for shelter; gataḥ—have come.

TRANSLATION

O Lord, You have shown mercy to me by shattering my false pride and defeating my attempt [to punish Vṛndāvana]. To You, the Supreme Lord, spiritual master and Supreme Soul, I have now come for shelter.

TEXT 14

श्रीशुक उवाच
एवं सङ्कीर्तितः कृष्णो
मघोना भगवानमुमु
मेघगम्भीरया वाचा
प्रहसन्निदमब्रवीत्

śrī-śuka uvāca
evam saṅkīrtitaḥ kṛṣṇo maghonā bhagavān amum
megha-gambhīrayā vācā
prahasann idam abravīt

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; evam—in this manner; saṅkīrtitaḥ—glorified; kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; maghonā—by Indra; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; amum—to him; megha—like the clouds; gambhīrayā—grave; vācā—with words; prahasan—smiling; idam—the following; abravīt—spoke.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Thus glorified by Indra, Lord Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, smiled and then spoke to him as follows in a voice resonant like the clouds.

PURPORT

Although in this pastime Lord Kṛṣṇa appeared to be a small boy, the words megha-gambhīrayā vācā indicate that He spoke to Indra with the deep, resonant voice of the Supreme Lord.

TEXT 15

श्रीभगवानुवाच
मया तेऽकारि मघवन्
मखभङ्गोऽनुगृहता
मदनुस्मृतये नित्यं मत्तस्येन्द्रश्रिया भृशम्

śrī-bhagavān uvāca
mayā te 'kāri maghavan
makha-bhaṅgo 'nugṛhṇatā mad-anusmṛtaye nityam mattasyendra-śriyā bhṛśam

SYNONYMS

śrī-bhagavān uvāca—the Supreme Personality of Godhead said; mayā—by Me; te—unto you; akāri—has been done; maghavan—My dear Indra; makha—of your sacrifice; bhaṅgaḥ—the stopping; anugṛhṇatā—acting to show mercy to you; mat-anusmṛtaye—for the sake of remembrance of Me; nityam—constant;

mattasya—of one intoxicated; indra-śriyā—with the opulence of Indra; bhṛśam—greatly.

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Personality of Godhead said: My dear Indra, it was out of mercy that I stopped the sacrifice meant for you. You were greatly intoxicated by your opulence as King of heaven, and I wanted you to always remember Me.

PURPORT

According to Śrīdhara Svāmī, Indra and Lord Kṛṣṇa here exchange a heart-to-heart talk. Indra revealed his mind to the Lord, and now Lord Kṛṣṇa similarly reveals His own intention.

In Text 11 of this chapter, Indra emphatically declared that Lord Kṛṣṇa is in fact everything, and thus, according to Indra's own criteria, forgetting Lord Kṛṣṇa is clearly a state of insanity. When the Supreme Lord reminds us of His supreme existence, He is not proudly advertising Himself like a mundane politician or entertainer. The Lord is self-satisfied in His own infinite existence and is trying, lovingly, to bring us back to our own perfect existence as His eternal associates.

From God's point of view even the mighty King of heaven, Indra, is a mere child—and a naughty child at that—and thus the Lord, being a caring father, punished His child and brought him back to the sanity of Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 16

मामैश्वर्यश्रीमदान्धो
दण्ड पाणिं न पश्यति
तं भ्रंशयामि सम्पद्भ्यो

यस्य चेच्छाम्यनुग्रहम्

*mām aiśvarya-śrī-madāndho daṇḍa pāṇim na paśyati taṁ bhraṁśayāmi sampadbhyo
yasya cecchāmy anugraham*

SYNONYMS

mām—Me; aiśvarya—of his power; śrī—and opulence; mada—by the intoxication; andhaḥ—rendered blind; daṇḍa—with the rod of punishment; pāṇim—in My hand; na paśyati—one does not see; taṁ—him; bhraṁśayāmi—I make fall; sampadbhyaḥ—from his material assets; yasya—for whom; ca—and; icchāmi—I desire; anugraham—benefit.

TRANSLATION

A man blinded by intoxication with his power and opulence cannot see Me nearby with the rod of punishment in My hand. If I desire his real welfare, I drag him down from his materially fortunate position.

PURPORT

One may argue, "God should desire everyone's real welfare; therefore why should Lord Kṛṣṇa state in this verse that He removes the intoxicating opulence of one who is about to receive His mercy, rather than simply stating that He will remove everyone's opulence and bless everyone?" On the other hand, we may point out that irrevocable death occurs for everyone, and thus Lord Kṛṣṇa does take away everyone's opulence and everyone's false pride. However, if we apply the Lord's statement to events within one's immediate life, before death, we may refer to Kṛṣṇa's statement in the Bhagavad-gītā (4.11): ye yathā mām prapadyante tāṁs tathaiva bhajāmy aham. "As people surrender to Me, I reward them accordingly." Lord Kṛṣṇa desires everyone's welfare, but when He says here yasya cecchāmy anugraham, "for one whose welfare I desire," it is understood that the Lord refers to those who by their own activities and thoughts have manifested a desire to achieve spiritual benefit. Lord Kṛṣṇa wants everyone to be happy in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, but when He sees that a specific person also desires spiritual happiness, the Lord especially desires it for that person. This is a natural act of reciprocation consistent with the Lord's statement samo 'haṁ sarva-bhūteṣu: "I am equal in My attitude to all living beings." (Bg. 9.29)

TEXT 17

गम्यतां शक्र भद्रं वः
क्रियतां मेऽनुशासनम्
स्थीयतां स्वाधिकारेषु युक्तैर्वः स्तम्भवर्जितैः

gamyatām śakra bhadram vaḥ kriyatām me 'nuśāsanam sthīyatām svādhikāreṣu yuktair vaḥ stambha-varjitaiḥ

SYNONYMS

gamyatām—you may go; śakra—O Indra; bhadram—good fortune; vaḥ—unto you; kriyatām—you should execute; me—My; anuśāsanam—order; sthīyatām—you may remain; sva—in your own; adhikāreṣu—responsibilities; yuktaiḥ—soberly engaged; vaḥ—you; stambha—false pride; varjitaiḥ—devoid of.

TRANSLATION

Indra, you may now go. Execute My order and remain in your appointed position as King of heaven. But be sober, without false pride.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa here addresses Indra in the plural form (vaḥ) because this grave instruction was meant to be a lesson for all the demigods.

TEXT 18

अथाह सुरभिः कृष्णम्
अभिवन्द्य मनस्विनी
स्वसन्तानैरुपामन्त्र्य गोप रूपिणमीश्वरम्

athāha surabhiḥ kṛṣṇam
abhivandya manasvinī
sva-santānair upāmantrya
gopa-rūpiṇam īśvaram

SYNONYMS

atha—then; āha—spoke; surabhiḥ—the mother of the cows, Surabhi; kṛṣṇam—to Kṛṣṇa; abhivandya—offering respects; manasvinī—peaceful in mind; sva-santānaiḥ—together with her progeny, the cows; upāmantrya—begging for His attention; gopa-rūpiṇam—appearing as a cowherd boy; īśvaram—the Supreme Lord.

TRANSLATION

Mother Surabhi, along with her progeny, the cows, then offered her obeisances to Lord Kṛṣṇa. Respectfully requesting His attention, the gentle lady addressed the Supreme Personality of Godhead, who was present before her as a cowherd boy.

PURPORT

The statement here that the heavenly cow Surabhi approached Lord Kṛṣṇa along with her progeny (sva-santānaiḥ) is a reference to the transcendental cows who play with Lord Kṛṣṇa in Vṛndāvana. Although Lord Kṛṣṇa's cows are transcendental, the heavenly cow Surabhi affectionately saw them, as indeed Lord Kṛṣṇa Himself did, as related to her. Since Lord Kṛṣṇa was appearing in the form of a cowherd boy, the whole situation was quite congenial, and Surabhi took the opportunity to offer the following prayers.

TEXT 19

सुरभिरुवाच
कृष्ण कृष्ण महायोगिन्
विश्वात्मन् विश्वसम्भव
भवता लोकनाथेन सनाथा वयमच्युत

surabhir uvāca
kṛṣṇa kṛṣṇa mahā-yogin
viśvātman viśva-sambhava bhavatā loka-nāthena

sa-nāthā vayam acyuta

SYNONYMS

surabhiḥ uvāca—Surabhi said; kṛṣṇa kṛṣṇa—O Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa; mahā yogin—O greatest of mystics; viśva-ātman—O Soul of the universe; viśva-sambhava—O origin of the universe; bhavatā—by You; loka nāthena—the master of the world; sa-nāthāḥ—having a master; vayam—we; acyuta—O infallible one.

TRANSLATION

Mother Surabhi said: O Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa, greatest of mystics! O Soul and origin of the universe! You are the master of the world, and by Your grace, O infallible Lord, we have You as our master.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura points out here that mother Surabhi is feeling great ecstasy as she repeats the words "Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa." Kṛṣṇa lifted Govardhana Hill by His mystic power and thus protected the cows of Vṛndāvana, whereas her so-called master, Indra, had tried to kill them. Thus Surabhi now clearly understands that it is not the demigods but rather the Supreme God, Kṛṣṇa Himself, who is her real master forever.

TEXT 20

त्वं नः परमकं दैवं
त्वं न इन्द्रो जगत्पते
भवाय भव गोविप्र देवानां ये च साधवः

tvam naḥ paramakam daivam tvam na indro jagat-pate bhavāya bhava go-vipra devānām ye ca sād havaḥ

SYNONYMS

tvam—You; naḥ—our; paramakam—supreme; daivam—worshipable Deity; tvam—You; naḥ—our; indraḥ—Lord Indra; jagat-pate—O master of the universe; bhavāya—for the welfare; bhava—please be; go—of the cows; vipra—the brāhmaṇas; devānām—and the demigods; ye—who; ca—and;
sād havaḥ—saintly persons.

TRANSLATION

You are our worshipable Deity. Therefore, O Lord of the universe, for the benefit of the cows, the brāhmaēas, the demigods and all other saintly persons, please become our Indra.

PURPORT

The Supreme Lord is self-sufficient: He can do everything Himself. The Lord appointed one of His innumerable children to the position of Indra, the lord of the cosmic heaven. But Indra abused his authority, and now Surabhi requests Lord Kṛṣṇa, the Absolute Truth, to directly become her Lord, her Indra. We should carefully perform our duties without false pride; thus we will not become obsolete and embarrassed, as in the present case of King Indra, who actually attacked Lord Kṛṣṇa and His Vṛndāvana devotees.

TEXT 21

इन्द्रं नस्त्वाभिषेक्ष्यामो

ब्रह्मणा चोदिता वयम्
अवतीर्णोऽसि विश्वात्मन् भूमेर्भारापनुत्तये

indram nas tvābhiṣekṣyāmo brahmaṇā coditā vayam avatīrṇo 'si viśvātman bhūmer bhārāpanuttaye

SYNONYMS

indram—as Indra; naḥ—our; tvā—to You; abhiṣekṣyāmaḥ—we shall perform the bathing ceremony of coronation; brahmaṇā—by Lord Brahmā; coditāḥ—ordered; vayam—we; avatīrṇaḥ asi—You have descended; viśva-ātman—O Soul of the universe; bhūmeḥ—of the earth; bhāra—the burden; apanuttaye—in order to alleviate.

TRANSLATION

As ordered by Lord Brahmā, we shall perform Your bathing ceremony to coronate You as Indra. O Soul of the universe, You descend to this world to relieve the burden of the earth.

PURPORT

Surabhi makes it quite clear in this verse that she has had enough of the leadership of imperfect demigods like Purandara (Indra), and now she is determined to directly serve the Supreme Lord. Since Brahmā has ordered her, her attempt to coronate Lord Kṛṣṇa as her personal Lord is authorized by higher authority. Moreover, Lord Kṛṣṇa Himself comes down to the earth to relieve the burden of self-destructive, mundane administration, and thus it is perfectly consistent with the Lord's own purpose that He become the Lord of Surabhi. Since the Lord rules millions of universes, He can certainly take care of mother Surabhi.

In fact, Surabhi wanted to bathe the Lord for her own purification, and she earnestly makes her proposal to Viśvātmā, the Soul of the universe, Śrī Kṛṣṇa.

TEXTS 22-23

शृङ्गशुक उवाच
एवं कृष्णमुपामन्त्र्य
सुरभिः पयसात्मनः
जलैराकाशगङ्गाया
ऐरावतकरोद्धृतैः

इन्द्रः सुरर्षिभिः साकं
चोदितो देवमातृभिः
अभ्यसिञ्चत दाशार्हं गोविन्द इति चाभ्यधात

śṛī-śuka uvāca
evam kṛṣṇam upāmantrya surabhiḥ payasātmanaḥ jalair ākāśa-gaṅgāyā airāvata-karoddhṛtaiḥ indraḥ surarṣibhiḥ sākam codito deva-mātr̥bhiḥ abhyasiñcata dāśārham

govinda iti cābhyadhāt

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; evam—thus; kṛṣṇam—Lord Kṛṣṇa; upāmantrya—requesting; surabhiḥ—mother Surabhi; payasā—with milk; ātmanaḥ—her own; jalaiḥ—with the water; ākāśa-gaṅgāyāḥ—of the Ganges flowing through the heavenly region (known as the Mandākinī); airāvata—of Indra's carrier, the elephant Airāvata; kara—by the trunk; uddhṛtaiḥ—carried; indraḥ—Lord Indra; sura—by the demigods; ṛṣibhiḥ—and the great sages; sākam—accompanied; coditaḥ—inspired; deva—of the demigods; māṭṛbhiḥ—by the mothers (headed by Aditi); abhyasiñcata—he bathed; dāśārham—Lord Kṛṣṇa, the descendant of King Daśārha; govindaḥ iti—as Govinda; ca—and; abhyadhāt—he named the Lord.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Having thus appealed to Lord Kṛṣṇa, mother Surabhi performed His bathing ceremony with her own milk, and Indra, ordered by Aditi and other mothers of the demigods, anointed the Lord with heavenly Gaṅgā water from the trunk of Indra's elephant carrier, Airāvata. Thus, in the company of the demigods and great sages, Indra coronated Lord Kṛṣṇa, the descendant of Daśārha, and gave Him the name Govinda.

PURPORT

According to the ācāryas, because Indra was embarrassed by his blunder of attacking Vṛndāvana, he was reluctant to worship the Lord. Therefore the heavenly mothers, such as Aditi, encouraged him to go ahead and do so. Feeling authorized by the encouragement of demigods less offensive than he, Indra then bathed the Lord. Indra discovered that the beautiful cowherd boy named Kṛṣṇa is indeed the Supreme Personality of Godhead.

TEXT 24

तत्रागतास्तुम्बुरुनारदादयो
गन्धर्वविद्याधरसिद्धचारणाः
जगुर्यशो लोकमलापहं हरेः सुराङ्गनाः सन्ननृतुर्मुदान्विताः tatrāgatās tumburu-nāradādayo gandharva-vidyādhara-siddha-cāraṇāḥ jagur yaśo loka-malāpaham hareḥ surāṅganāḥ sannanṛtur mudānvitāḥ

SYNONYMS

tatra—to that place; āgatāḥ—coming; tumburu—the Gandharva named Tumburu; nārada—Nārada Muni; ādayaḥ—and other demigods; gandharva-vidyādhara-siddha-cāraṇāḥ—the Gandharvas, Vidyādharas, Siddhas and Cāraṇas; jaguḥ—sang; yaśaḥ—the glories; loka—of the entire world; mala—the contamination; apaham—which eradicate; hareḥ—of Lord Hari; sura—of the demigods; aṅganāḥ—the wives; sannanṛtuḥ—danced together; mudā anvitāḥ—filled with joy.

TRANSLATION

Tumburu, Nārada and other Gandharvas, along with the Vidyādharas, Siddhas and Cāraṇas, came there to sing the glories of Lord Hari, which purify the entire world. And the wives of the demigods, filled with joy, danced together in the Lord's honor.

TEXT 25

तं तुष्टुवुर्देवनिकायकेतवो
ह्यवाकिरंश्चाद्भुतपुष्पवृष्टिभिः
लोकाः परां निर्वृतिमाप्नुवंस्त्रयो गावस्तदा गामनयन् पयोद्रुताम्

taṁ tuṣṭuvur deva-nikāya-ketavo hy avākiraṁś cādbhuta-puṣpa-vṛṣṭibhiḥ lokāḥ parāṁ nirvṛtim āpnuvaṁs trayo gāvas tadā gām anayan payo-drutām

SYNONYMS

taṁ—Him; tuṣṭuvuḥ—praised; deva-nikāya—of all the demigods; ketavaḥ—the most eminent; hi—indeed; avākiran—they covered Him; ca—and; adbhuta—amazing; puṣpa—of flowers; vṛṣṭibhiḥ—with showers; lokāḥ—the worlds; parām—supreme; nirvṛtim—satisfaction; āpnuvan—experienced; trayaḥ—three; gāvaḥ—the cows; tadā—then; gām—the earth; anayan—brought; payāḥ—with their milk; drutām—to saturation.

TRANSLATION

The most eminent demigods chanted the praises of the Lord and scattered wonderful showers of flowers all around Him. All three worlds felt supreme satisfaction, and the cows drenched the surface of the earth with their milk.

PURPORT

The word ketavaḥ means, literally, "banners." The leading demigods are the emblems, or banners, of the demigod race, and they took the lead in glorifying the Lord and covering Him with an amazing shower of multicolored, fragrant flowers.

TEXT 26

नानारसौघाः सरितो
वृक्षा आसन्मधुस्रवाः
अकृष्टपच्यौषधयो
गिरयोऽबिभ्रनुन्मणीन्

*nānā-rasaughāḥ sarito
vṛkṣā āsan madhu-sravāḥ akṛṣṭa-pacyauśadhayo
girayo 'bibhṛan un maṇīn*

SYNONYMS

nānā—various; rasa—liquids; oghāḥ—flooding; saritaḥ—the rivers; vṛkṣāḥ—the trees; āsan—became; madhu—with sweet sap; sravāḥ—flowing; akṛṣṭa—even without cultivation; pacya—ripened; ośadhayaḥ—the plants; girayaḥ—the mountains; abibhṛan—carried; ut—above the ground; maṇīn—jewels.

TRANSLATION

Rivers flowed with various kinds of tasty liquids, trees exuded honey, edible plants came to maturity without cultivation, and hills gave forth jewels formerly hidden in their interiors.

TEXT 27

कृष्णेऽभिषिक्त एतानि
सर्वाणि कुरुनन्दन
निर्वैराण्यभवंस्तात क्रूराण्यपि निसर्गतः

*kṛṣṇe 'bhiṣikta etāni sarvāṇi kuru-nandana nirvairāṇy abhavaṁs tāta
krūrāṇy api nisargataḥ*

SYNONYMS

kṛṣṇe—Lord Kṛṣṇa; abhiṣikte—having been bathed; etāni—these; sarvāṇi—all; kuru-nandana—O beloved of the Kuru dynasty; nirvairāṇi—free from enmity; abhavan—became; tāta—my dear Parīkṣit; krūrāṇi—vicious; api—although; nisargataḥ—by nature.

TRANSLATION

O Parīkṣit, beloved of the Kuru dynasty, upon the ceremonial bathing of Lord Kṛṣṇa, all living creatures, even those cruel by nature, became entirely free of enmity.

PURPORT

Those corrupted by a type of sophisticated cynicism may mock these descriptions of a paradisiacal world situation effected simply by worshiping the Supreme Lord. Unfortunately, modern man has created a hell on earth in his cynical rejection of heaven on earth, which is actually possible through Kṛṣṇa consciousness. The situation described here, created simply by the auspicious bathing ceremony of the Lord, is an authentic historical incident. Since history repeats itself, there is hope that the Kṛṣṇa consciousness movement may again bring the world community to the brilliant reality of self-realized existence.

TEXT 28

इति गोगोकुलपतिं
गोविन्दमभिषिच्य सः
अनुज्ञातो ययौ शक्रो वृतो देवादिभिर्दिवम्

*iti go-gokula-patim
govindam abhiṣicya saḥ anujñāto yayau śakro
vṛto devādibhir divam*

SYNONYMS

iti—thus; go—of the cows; go-kula—and of the community of cowherds; patim—the master; govindam—Lord Kṛṣṇa; abhiṣicya—bathing; saḥ—he, Indra; anujñātaḥ—given permission; yayau—went; śakraḥ—King Indra; vṛtaḥ—surrounded; deva-ādibhiḥ—by the demigods and others; divam—to heaven.

TRANSLATION

After he had ceremonially bathed Lord Govinda, who is the master of the cows and the cowherd community, King Indra took the Lord's permission and, surrounded by the demigods and other higher beings, returned to his heavenly abode.

*Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C.
Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Twenty-seventh Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "Lord Indra and Mother Surabhi Offer Prayers."*

28. Kṛṣṇa Rescues Nanda Mahārāja from the Abode of Varuṇa

This chapter describes how Lord Kṛṣṇa brought Nanda Mahārāja back from the abode of Varuṇa and how the cowherd men saw Vaikuṇṭha.

The king of the cowherds, Nanda Mahārāja, observed the prescribed fast on the eleventh day of the lunar month and then considered how to break his fast properly on the twelfth day. By circumstance only a few more minutes remained, and so he decided to take his bath at the very end of the night, although astrologically that was an inauspicious time. Thus he entered the water of the Yamunā. A servant of Varuṇa, the demigod of the ocean, noticed Nanda Mahārāja entering the water at a time forbidden by scripture and took him away to the demigod's abode. In the early morning the cowherd men unsuccessfully searched for Nanda, but Lord Kṛṣṇa immediately understood the situation and went to see Varuṇa. Varuṇa worshiped Kṛṣṇa with great and variegated festivity. Afterwards he begged the Lord to forgive his servant for having foolishly arrested the king of the cowherds.

Nanda was amazed to see the influence Śrī Kṛṣṇa exerted in the court of Varuṇadeva, and after returning home he described his experiences to his friends and relatives. They all thought Kṛṣṇa must be the Supreme Personality of Godhead Himself and wanted to see His supreme abode. Thereupon the omniscient Personality of Godhead arranged for them to bathe in the same lake where Akrūra would have his vision of the Absolute Truth. There the Lord revealed to them Brahmaloḥa, which is realized by great sages in their mystic trance.

TEXT 1

श्रीबादरायणिरुवाच
एकादश्यां निराहारः
समभ्यर्च्य जनार्दनम्
स्नातुं नन्दस्तु कालिन्ध्यां द्वादश्यां जलमाविशत्

*śrī-bādarāyaṇir uvāca
ekādaśyām nirāhāraḥ samabhyarcya janārdanam snātum nandas tu kālindyām dvādaśyām jalam āviśat*

SYNONYMS

śrī-bādarāyaṇiḥ uvāca—Śrī Bādarāyaṇi (Śukadeva Gosvāmī) said; ekādaśyām—on Ekādaśī (the eleventh day of the lunar month); nirāhāraḥ—fasting; samabhyarcya—having worshiped; janārdanam—Lord Janārdana, the Supreme Personality of Godhead; snātum—in order to bathe (before breaking the fast at its prescribed completion); nandaḥ—Nanda Mahārāja; tu—but; kālindyām—in the river Yamunā; dvādaśyām—on the twelfth day; jalam—the water; āviśat—entered.

TRANSLATION

Śrī Bādarāyaṇi said: Having worshiped Lord Janārdana and fasted on the Ekādaśī day, Nanda Mahārāja entered the water of the Kālindī on the Dvādaśī to take his bath.

TEXT 2

तं गृहीत्वानयद्भृत्यो
वरुणस्यासुरोऽन्तिकम्
अवज्ञायासुरीं वेलां प्रविष्टमुदकं निशि

*taṁ grhītvānayaḍ bhṛtyo varuṇasyāsuro 'ntikam avajñāyāsūrīm velām
praviṣṭam udakam niśi*

SYNONYMS

tam—him; grhītvā—seizing; anayat—brought; bhṛtyaḥ—a servant; varuṇasya—of Varuṇa, the lord of the sea; asuraḥ—demon; antikam—to the presence (of his master); avajñāya—who had disregarded; āsurīm—the inauspicious ; velām—time; praviṣṭam—having entered ; udakam—the water; niśi—during the night.

TRANSLATION

Because Nanda Mahārāja entered the water in the dark of night, disregarding that the time was inauspicious, a demoniac servant of Varuṇa seized him and brought him to his master.

PURPORT

Nanda Mahārāja was intent on breaking his fast during the Dvādaśī day, of which there remained only a few minutes. Thus he entered the water to bathe at an inauspicious time, before the first dawn light.

The servant of Varuṇa who arrested Nanda Mahārāja is stated here to be an asura, or demon, for obvious reasons. First, the servant was foolishly ignorant of Nanda Mahārāja's position as the pastime father of the Supreme Absolute Truth. Also, Nanda Mahārāja's intention was to carry out the injunctions of scripture; therefore Varuṇa's servant should not have arrested Nanda on the technical grounds that he bathed in the Yamunā at an inauspicious time. Later in this chapter Varuṇa himself will say, ajānatā māmakena mūḍhena: "This was done by my ignorant servant, who is a fool." This foolish servant did not understand the position of Kṛṣṇa or Nanda Mahārāja or devotional service to the Lord.

In conclusion, it is clear that Lord Kṛṣṇa wanted to give His personal audience to Varuṇa and simultaneously accomplish other didactic purposes. Thus this wonderful pastime will now unfold.

TEXT 3

चुक्रुशुस्तमपश्यन्तः कृष्ण रामेति गोपकाः
भगवांस्तदुपश्रुत्य
पितरं वरुणाहतम्
तदन्तिकं गतो राजन्

स्वानामभयदो विभुः

*cukruśus tam apaśyantaḥ kṛṣṇa rāmeti gopakāḥ bhagavāms tad upaśrutya pitaraṁ varuṇāhṛtam tad-antikaṁ gato rājan
svānām abhaya-do vibhuḥ*

SYNONYMS

cukruśuḥ—they called out loudly; tam—him, Nanda; apaśyantaḥ—not seeing; kṛṣṇa—O Kṛṣṇa; rāma—O Rāma; iti—thus; gopakāḥ—the cowherd men; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord, Kṛṣṇa; tat—that; upaśrutya—hearing; pitaram—His father; varuṇa—by Varuṇa; āhṛtam—taken away; tat—of Varuṇa; antikam—to the presence; gataḥ—went; rājan—my dear King Parīkṣit; svānām—of His own devotees; abhaya—of fearlessness; daḥ—the giver; vibhuḥ—the almighty Lord.

TRANSLATION

O King, not seeing Nanda Mahārāja, the cowherd men loudly cried out, "O Kṛṣṇa! O Rāma!" Lord Kṛṣṇa heard their cries and understood that His father had been captured by Varuṇa. Therefore the almighty Lord, who makes His devotees fearless, went to the court of Varuṇadeva.

PURPORT

Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura explains that when Nanda Mahārāja went to bathe in the river, he was accompanied by several cowherd men. When Nanda did not come out of the water, they began to cry out, and Lord Kṛṣṇa immediately came there. Understanding the situation, Śrī Kṛṣṇa entered the water and went to the court of the demigod Varuṇa, determined to free His father and the other cowherd men from fear of a mere demigod.

TEXT 4

प्राप्तं वीक्ष्य हृषीकेशं
लोकपालः सपर्यया
महत्या पूजयित्वाह तद्दर्शनमहोत्सवः

*prāptam vīkṣya hṛṣīkeśam loka-pālaḥ saparyayā mahatyā pūjayitvāha
tad-darśana-mahotsavaḥ*

SYNONYMS

prāptam—arrived; vīkṣya—seeing; hṛṣīkeśam—Lord Kṛṣṇa, the controller of the senses; loka—of that planet (the watery regions); pālaḥ—the presiding deity (Varuṇa); saparyayā—with respectful offerings; mahatyā—elaborate; pūjayitvā—worshiping; āha—spoke; tad—of Lord Kṛṣṇa; darśana—from the sight; mahā—great; utsavaḥ—jubilant pleasure.

TRANSLATION

Seeing that the Lord, Hṛṣīkeśa, had arrived, the demigod Varuṇa worshiped Him with elaborate offerings. Varuṇa was in a state of great jubilation upon seeing the Lord, and he spoke as follows.

TEXT 5

श्रीवरुण उवाच
अद्य मे निभृतो देहो
ऽद्यैवार्थोऽधिगतः प्रभो
त्वत्पादभाजो भगवन् अवापुः पारमध्वनः

śrī-varuṇa uvāca
adya me nibhṛto deho
'dyaivārtho 'dhigataḥ prabho tvat-pāda-bhājo bhagavann avāpuḥ pāram adhvanah

SYNONYMS

śrī-varuṇaḥ uvāca—Śrī Varuṇa said; adya—today; me—by me; nibhṛtaḥ—is carried successfully; dehaḥ—my material body; adya—today; eva—indeed; arthaḥ—the goal of life; adhigataḥ—is experienced; prabho—O Lord; tvat—Your; pāda—the lotus feet; bhājaḥ—those who serve; bhagavan—O Supreme Personality; avāpuḥ—have achieved; pāram—the state of transcendence; adhvanah—of the path (of material existence) .

TRANSLATION

Śrī Varuṇa said: Now my body has fulfilled its function. Indeed, now the goal of my life is achieved, O Lord. Those who accept Your lotus feet, O Personality of Godhead, can transcend the path of material existence.

PURPORT

Varuṇa ecstatically exclaims here that since he has now seen the infinitely gorgeous body of Lord Kṛṣṇa, the trouble of assuming a material body has now been supremely justified. Indeed, the artha, the goal or real value of Varuṇa's life, has now been achieved. Because Lord Kṛṣṇa's form is transcendental, those who accept His lotus feet go beyond the boundary of material existence, and thus only the spiritually unaware would presume that the Lord's lotus feet are material.

TEXT 6

नमस्तुभ्यं भगवते
ब्रह्मणे परमात्मने
न यत्र श्रूयते माया लोकसृष्टिविकल्पना

*namas tubhyaṁ bhagavate brahmaṇe paramātmāne na yatra śrūyate māyā
loka-sṛṣṭi-vikalpanā*

SYNONYMS

namaḥ—obeisances; tubhyaṁ—unto You; bhagavate—unto the Supreme Personality of Godhead; brahmaṇe—the Absolute Truth; parama-ātmāne—the Supreme Soul; na—not; yatra—in whom; śrūyate—is heard of; māyā—the illusory, material energy; loka—of this world; sṛṣṭi—the creation; vikalpanā—which arranges.

TRANSLATION

My obeisances unto You, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, the Absolute Truth, the Supreme Soul, within whom there is no trace of the illusory energy, which orchestrates the creation of this world.

PURPORT

The word śrūyate is significant here. Śruti, or Vedic literature, consists of authorized statements made by the Lord Himself or His enlightened representatives. Thus neither the Lord nor recognized spiritual authorities would ever say that within the Absolute Truth, the Personality of Godhead, there is the fault of illusion. Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī points out that the word brahmaṇe here indicates the Lord is full in Himself, and that the term paramātmāne indicates He is the controller of all living entities.

Thus within the supreme being, complete in Himself and omnipotent, we do not find any jurisdiction of the material, illusory energy.

TEXT 7

अजानता मामकेन
मूढेनाकार्यवेदिना
आनीतोऽयं तव पिता तद्भवान् क्षन्तुमर्हति

*ajānatā māmakena mūḍhenākārya-vedinā
ānīto 'yaṁ tava pitā
tad bhavān kṣantum arhati*

SYNONYMS

ajānatā—by one who was ignorant; māmakena—by my servant; mūḍhena—foolish; akārya-vedinā—not knowing his proper duty; ānītaḥ—was brought; ayam—this person; tava—Your; pitā—father; tat—that; bhavān—Your good self; kṣantum arhati—should please forgive.

TRANSLATION

Your father, who is sitting here, was brought to me by a foolish, ignorant servant of mine who did not understand his proper duty. Therefore, please forgive us.

PURPORT

The word ayam, "this one here," clearly indicates that Kṛṣṇa's father, Nanda Mahārāja, was present as Varuṇa was speaking. In fact, Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura states that Varuṇa had seated Śrī Nanda on a jeweled throne and had personally worshiped him out of respect.

Technically, Nanda Mahārāja was correct in entering the water just before sunrise. The following explanation is given by Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī in his commentary on the first verse of this chapter: After an especially short Ekādaśī, measuring only eighteen hours, about six hours of the lunar day in which the fast had to be broken, namely the Dvādaśī, had already expired before the dawn. Since at sunrise the proper time for breaking the fast would have passed, Nanda Mahārāja decided to enter the water at an otherwise inauspicious time.

Of course, Varuṇa's servant should have been aware of these technical details, which are meant for strict followers of the Vedic rituals. Above and beyond that, Nanda Mahārāja was acting as the Supreme Lord's father and was therefore a most sacred person, beyond the touch of insignificant cosmic bureaucrats like the foolish servant of Varuṇa.

TEXT 8

ममाप्यनुग्रहं कृष्ण
कर्तुमर्हस्यशेषदृक्
गोविन्द नीयतामेष पिता ते पितृवत्सल

*mamāpy anugrahaṁ kṛṣṇa kartum arhasy aśeṣa-dṛk govinda nīyatām eṣa
pitā te pitṛ-vatsala*

SYNONYMS

mama—to me; api—even; anugraham—mercy; kṛṣṇa—O Lord Kṛṣṇa; kartum arhasi—please do; aśeṣa—of everything; dṛk—O You who see; govinda—O Govinda; nīyatām—may he be taken; eṣaḥ—this; pitā—father; te—Your; pitṛ-vatsala—O You who are most affectionate to Your parents.

TRANSLATION

O Kṛṣṇa, O seer of everything, please give Your mercy even to me. O Govinda, You are most affectionate to Your father. Please take him home.

TEXT 9

श्रीशुक उवाच
एवं प्रसादितः कृष्णो
भगवानीश्वरेश्वरः
आदायागात्स्वपितरं

बन्धूनां चावहन्मुदम्

*śrī-śuka uvāca
evam prasāditah kṛṣṇo bhagavān īśvareśvaraḥ ādāyāgāt sva-pitaram
bandhūnām cāvahan mudam*

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; evam—thus; prasāditah—satisfied; kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; īśvara—of all controllers; īśvaraḥ—the supreme controller; ādāya—taking; agāt—went; sva-pitaram—His father; bandhūnām—to His relatives; ca—and; āvahan—bringing; mudam—pleasure.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Thus satisfied by Lord Varuṇa, Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Lord of lords, took His father and returned home, where their relatives were overjoyed to see them.

PURPORT

In this pastime, Lord Kṛṣṇa gives a sublime demonstration of His position as the Supreme Lord of all lords. Varuṇa, the demigod of the seas, is most powerful, yet he was happy to worship even Lord Kṛṣṇa's father, what to speak of Kṛṣṇa Himself.

TEXT 10

नन्दस्त्वतीन्द्रियं दृष्ट्वा लोकपालमहोदयम्
कृष्णे च सन्नतिं तेषां ज्ञातिभ्यो विस्मितोऽब्रवीत्

*nandas tv atīndriyaṁ dṛṣṭvā loka-pāla-mahodayam
kṛṣṇe ca sannatiṁ teṣāṁ jñātibhyo vismito 'bravīt*

SYNONYMS

nandaḥ—Nanda Mahārāja; tu—and; atīndriyam—not seen before; dṛṣṭvā—seeing; loka-pāla—of the controlling deity of the (ocean) planet, Varuṇa; mahā-udayam—the great opulence; kṛṣṇe—unto Kṛṣṇa; ca—and; sannatiṁ—the offering of obeisances; teṣāṁ—by them (Varuṇa and his followers); jñātibhyaḥ—to his friends and relatives; vismitaḥ—amazed; abravīt—spoke.

TRANSLATION

Nanda Mahārāja had been astonished to see for the first time the great opulence of Varuṇa, the ruler of the ocean planet, and also to see how Varuṇa and his servants had offered such humble respect to Kṛṣṇa. Nanda described all this to his fellow cowherd men.

TEXT 11

ते चौत्सुक्यधियो राजन्
मत्वा गोपास्तमीश्वरम्

अपि नः स्वगतिं सूक्ष्माम् उपाधास्यदधीश्वरः

te cautsukya-dhiyo rājan matvā gopās tam īśvaram api naḥ sva-gatiṁ sūkṣmām upādhāsyad adhīśvaraḥ

SYNONYMS

te—they; ca—and; autsukya—full of eagerness; dhiyaḥ—their minds; rājan—O King Parīkṣit; matvā—thinking; gopāḥ—the cowherd men; tam—Him; īśvaram—the Supreme Lord; api—perhaps; naḥ—to us; sva-gatiṁ—His own abode; sūkṣmām—transcendental; upādhāsyat—is going to bestow; adhīśvaraḥ—the supreme controller.

TRANSLATION

[Hearing about Kṛṣṇa's pastimes with Varuṇa,] the cowherd men considered that Kṛṣṇa must be the Supreme Lord, and their minds, O King, were filled with eagerness. They thought, "Will the Supreme Lord bestow upon us His transcendental abode?"

PURPORT

The cowherd men were filled with excitement upon hearing how Kṛṣṇa had gone to the abode of Varuṇa to rescue His father. Suddenly realizing that they were in fact dealing with the Supreme Personality of Godhead, they joyfully conjectured among themselves about their auspicious destination after finishing their present life.

TEXT 12

इति स्वानां स भगवान्
विज्ञायाखिलदृक्स्वयम्
सङ्कल्पसिद्धये तेषां कृपयैतदचिन्तयत्

iti svānām sa bhagavān vijñāyākhila-dṛk svayam saṅkalpa-siddhaye teṣām kṛpayaitad acintayat

SYNONYMS

iti—such; svānām—of His personal devotees; saḥ—He; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; vijñāya—understanding; akhila-dṛk—the seer of everything; svayam—Himself; saṅkalpa—of the imagined desire; siddhaye—for the realization; teṣām—their; kṛpayā—compassionately; etat—this (as follows in the next verse); acintayat—thought.

TRANSLATION

Because He sees everything, Lord Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, automatically understood what the cowherd men were conjecturing. Wanting to show His compassion to them by fulfilling their desires, the Lord thought as follows.

TEXT 13

जनो वै लोक एतस्मिन्

अविद्याकामकर्मभिः
उच्चावचासु गतिषु न वेद स्वां गतिं भ्रमन्

*jano vai loka etasminn avidyā-kāma-karmabhiḥ uccāvacāsu gatiṣu
na veda svām gatiṁ bhraman*

SYNONYMS

janaḥ—people; vai—certainly; loke—in the world; etasmin—this; avidyā—without knowledge; kāma—because of desires; karmabhiḥ—by activities; ucca—among superior; avacāsu—and inferior; gatiṣu—destinations; na veda—does not recognize; svām—his own; gatiṁ—destination; bhraman—wandering.

TRANSLATION

[Lord Kṛṣṇa thought:] Certainly people in this world are wandering among higher and lower destinations, which they achieve through activities performed according to their desires and without full knowledge. Thus people do not know their real destination.

PURPORT

Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī has elaborately explained how this verse applies to the eternally liberated residents of Śrī Vṛndāvana, the Lord's abode. One of the fundamental philosophical principles of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam is the distinction between two types of illusion, Yoga-māyā and Mahā-māyā, the spiritual and material states of existence, respectively. Although Kṛṣṇa is God, the omnipotent, omniscient Supreme Being, His intimate associates in the spiritual world love Him so much that they see Him as their beloved child, friend, lover and so on. So that their ecstatic love can transcend the boundaries of mere reverence, they forget that Kṛṣṇa is the Supreme God of all the universes, and thus their pure, intimate love expands unlimitedly. One may consider their activities of treating Kṛṣṇa as a helpless child, a handsome boyfriend, or a playmate to be a manifestation of avidyā, ignorance of Lord Kṛṣṇa's position as God, but the residents of Vṛndāvana are in fact ignoring the secondary majesty of Kṛṣṇa and focusing intensely on His infinite beauty, which is the essence of His existence.

In fact, describing Lord Kṛṣṇa as the supreme controller and God is almost a type of political analysis, referring as it does to a hierarchy of power and control. Such analysis of levels of power and hierarchies of rule is significant in a context in which one entity is not fully surrendered, in love, to a higher entity. In other words, control becomes visible, or is consciously felt as control, when there is resistance to that control. To cite a simple example: A pious, law-abiding citizen sees a policeman as a friend and well-wisher, whereas a criminal sees him as a threatening symbol of punishment. Those who are enthusiastic about government policies feel not that the government is controlling them but rather that it is helping them.

Thus Lord Kṛṣṇa is seen as a "controller," and hence as "the Supreme God," by those who are not fully enchanted by His beauty and pastimes. Those fully in love with Lord Kṛṣṇa focus on His sublime, attractive features and, because of the nature of their relationship with Him, do not much notice His controlling power.

A simple proof that the residents of Vraja have transcended lower states of God consciousness rather than failed to attain them is the fact that throughout the pastimes of the Lord they often "remember" that Kṛṣṇa is God. Usually they are astonished at this remembrance, having been fully absorbed in seeing Kṛṣṇa as their friend, lover and so on.

The word kāma is conventionally used to indicate a material desire, or else a spiritual desire so intense that it becomes somehow analogous to intense material desires. Still, the fundamental distinction remains: material desire is selfish and self-gratificatory; spiritual desire is free of selfishness, being wholly for the pleasure of the other, the Lord. Thus the residents of Vṛndāvana executed their daily activities solely for the pleasure of their beloved Kṛṣṇa.

It should be remembered that the entire purpose of Kṛṣṇa's descent into this world is to attract living beings back home, back to Godhead. Two things are required for this: that His pastimes display the beauty of spiritual perfection, and that they somehow seem relevant and hence interesting to the conditioned souls of this world. The Bhāgavatam often states that Lord Kṛṣṇa plays just like a youthful actor, and He undoubtedly engages His eternal devotees in the dramatic presentation. Thus Lord Kṛṣṇa here muses to Himself that people in this world certainly do not know their ultimate destination, and with an obvious touch of the facetious He also thinks in this way about His own eternally liberated associates, who were playing in this world like ordinary members of a cowherd village.

Apart from the double meaning obviously present in this verse when it is applied to Kṛṣṇa's liberated associates, Kṛṣṇa here makes an entirely direct and pointedly critical observation about ordinary people. When applied to conditioned souls who are actually wandering throughout the universe, His statement that people are acting out of ignorance and lust is not mitigated by any deeper, spiritual meaning. People in general are simply ignorant, and they do not seriously consider their ultimate destination. As usual, Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa is able to say many profound and complex things in a few simple words. How fortunate we are that God is not a dry field of energy, a transcendent, effulgent blob, or nothing at all—as various people would have it. In fact, He is the most wonderful Personality of Godhead, full of absolute personal qualities, and certainly whatever we can do, He can do better, as evidenced by His brilliant way of speaking.

TEXT 14

इति सञ्चिन्त्य भगवान्
महाकारुणिको हरिः
दर्शयामास लोकं स्वं गोपानां तमसः परम्

*iti sañcintya bhagavān
mahā-kāruṇiko hariḥ darśayām āsa lokam svam gopānām tamasaḥ param*

SYNONYMS

iti—in these words; sañcintya—considering to Himself; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; mahā-kāruṇikaḥ—the most merciful; hariḥ—Lord Hari; darśayām āsa—showed; lokam—the planet, Vaikuṇṭha; svam—His own; gopānām—to the cowherd men; tamasaḥ—material darkness; param—beyond.

TRANSLATION

Thus deeply considering the situation, the all-merciful Supreme Personality of Godhead Hari revealed to the cowherd men His abode, which is beyond material darkness.

PURPORT

It is clear from this verse that the Absolute Truth dwells in His own eternal abode. Everyone of us tries to live as comfortably as possible, surrounding ourselves with peace and beauty. How can we, in the name of "logic," begrudge the Supreme Lord, our creator, the supremely beautiful and comfortable abode known by people in general as the kingdom of God?

TEXT 15

सत्यं ज्ञानमनन्तं यद्
ब्रह्मज्योतिः सनातनम्
यद्धि पश्यन्ति मुनयो गुणापाये समाहिताः

satyaṁ jñānam anantaṁ yad brahma-jyotiḥ sanātanam yad dhi paśyanti munayo guṇāpāye samāhitāḥ

SYNONYMS

satyam—indestructible; jñānam—knowledge; anantam—unlimited;
yat—which; brahma—the absolute; jyotiḥ—effulgence; sanātanam—eternal;
yat—which; hi—indeed; paśyanti—see; munayaḥ—sages; guṇa—the modes of material nature; apāye—when they subside; samāhitāḥ—absorbed in trance.

TRANSLATION

Lord Kṛṣṇa revealed the indestructible spiritual effulgence, which is unlimited, conscious and eternal. Sages see that spiritual existence in trance, when their consciousness is free of the modes of material nature.

PURPORT

In Text 14 Lord Kṛṣṇa revealed to the residents of Vṛndāvana His own abode, the spiritual planet of Kṛṣṇaloka. This and innumerable other Vaikuṇṭha planets float in an infinite ocean of spiritual light called the brahmajyoti. That spiritual light is in fact the spiritual sky, which Kṛṣṇa also, quite naturally, revealed to the residents of Vṛndāvana. For example, if we want to show the moon to a child, we say, "Look up in the sky. See the moon over there in the sky." Similarly, Lord Kṛṣṇa revealed the vast spiritual sky to the residents of Vṛndāvana, but as emphasized in Text 14 and in the following text, 16, the actual destination of the Lord's associates was His own spiritual planet.

TEXT 16

ते तु ब्रह्महृदन्नीता
मग्नाः कृष्णेन चोद्धृताः
ददृशुर्ब्रह्मणो लोकं यत्राक्रूरोऽध्यगात्पुरा

te tu brahma-hradam nītā magnāḥ kṛṣṇena coddhṛtāḥ dadṛśuḥ brahmaṇo lokam yatrākrūro 'dhyagāt purā

SYNONYMS

te—they; tu—and; brahma-hradam—to the lake known as Brahma-hrada; nītāḥ—brought; magnāḥ—submerged; kṛṣṇena—by Kṛṣṇa; ca—and; uddhṛtāḥ—lifted out; dadṛśuḥ—they saw; brahmaṇaḥ—of the Absolute Truth; lokam—the transcendental planet; yatra—where; akrūraḥ—Akrūra; adhyagāt—saw; purā—previously.

TRANSLATION

The cowherd men were brought by Lord Kṛṣṇa to the Brahma-hrada, made to submerge in the water, and then lifted up. From the same vantage point that Akrūra saw the spiritual world, the cowherd men saw the planet of the Absolute Truth.

PURPORT

The unlimited extension of spiritual light, called the brahmajyoti in Text 15, is compared to a lake called Brahma-hrada. Lord Kṛṣṇa submerged the cowherd men in that lake in the sense that He submerged them in the awareness of the impersonal Brahman. But then, as indicated by the word uddhṛtāḥ, He lifted them up to a higher understanding, that of the Personality of Godhead in His own planet. As clearly stated here, dadṛśur brahmaṇo lokam: They saw, just as Akrūra did, the transcendental abode of the Absolute Truth.

The evolution of consciousness may be briefly summarized as follows: In ordinary consciousness we perceive and are attracted to the variety of material things. Rising to the first stage of spiritual consciousness, we transcend material variety and focus instead on the undifferentiated One, which lies behind and gives existence to the many. Finally, rising to Kṛṣṇa consciousness, we find that the absolute, spiritual One contains its own eternal variety. In fact, since this world is a mere shadow of eternal existence, we would expect to find spiritual variety within the One, and indeed we do find it in the sacred text of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam.

Astute readers may note that the pastime involving Akrūra takes place later in the Bhāgavatam, after the present affair with the cowherd men. The reason Śukadeva Gosvāmī says Akrūra saw Vaikuṇṭha purā, "previously," is that all these incidents took place many years before the conversation between Śukadeva Gosvāmī and Mahārāja Parīkṣit.

TEXT 17

नन्दादयस्तु तं दृष्ट्वा
परमानन्दनिवृताः
कृष्णं च तत्र च्छन्दोभिः स्तूयमानं सुविस्मिताः

nandādayas tu taṁ dṛṣṭvā paramānanda-nivṛtāḥ kṛṣṇaṁ ca tatra cchandobhiḥ stūyamānaṁ su-vismitāḥ

SYNONYMS

nanda-ādayaḥ—the cowherd men headed by Nanda Mahārāja; tu—and; taṁ—that; dṛṣṭvā—seeing; parama—supreme; ānanda—by ecstasy; nivṛtāḥ—overwhelmed with joy; kṛṣṇaṁ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; ca—and; tatra—there; cchandobhiḥ—by the Vedic hymns; stūyamānaṁ—being praised; su—very much; vismitāḥ—surprised.

TRANSLATION

Nanda Mahārāja and the other cowherd men felt the greatest happiness when they saw that transcendental abode. They were especially amazed to see Kṛṣṇa Himself there, surrounded by the personified Vedas, who were offering Him prayers.

PURPORT

Although the residents of Vṛndāvana considered themselves ordinary persons, Lord Kṛṣṇa wanted them to know of their extraordinary good fortune. Thus, within a lake in the Yamunā River the Lord showed them His personal abode. The cowherd men were amazed to see that the kingdom of God had exactly the same spiritual atmosphere as their own earthly Vṛndāvana and that, just as in their Vṛndāvana Lord Kṛṣṇa was personally present, in their unique vision He was present as the Lord of the spiritual world.

As Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura points out, these verses emphasize that Lord Kṛṣṇa did not merely show the cowherd men a sample Vaikuṇṭha planet but that He specifically revealed His Kṛṣṇaloka, the greatest of eternal abodes and the natural home of the residents of Vṛndāvana, who loved Kṛṣṇa more than anyone else did.

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C. Bhaktivedānta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Twenty-eighth Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "Kṛṣṇa Rescues Nanda Mahārāja from the Abode of Varuṇa."

29. Kṛṣṇa and the Gopīs Meet for the Rāsa Dance

This chapter describes how Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, intending to enjoy the rāsa dance, engaged in arguments and counterarguments with the gopīs. Then there is a description of the beginning of the rāsa dance and the Lord's pastime of disappearing from the midst of the gopīs.

Remembering the promise He had made to the gopīs when He had stolen their clothes, Lord Kṛṣṇa employed His Yogamāyā potency and manifested within Himself the desire to enjoy pastimes during an autumn night. Thus He began to play His flute. When the gopīs heard the flute's sound, the impulses of Cupid were violently aroused within them, and they immediately abandoned all their household duties and hastily went to Kṛṣṇa. All the gopīs had purely spiritual bodies, but when some of the gopīs' husbands and other family members stopped the young girls from going, Lord Kṛṣṇa arranged for them to temporarily exhibit material bodies, which they then left at the sides of their husbands. In this way they deceived their relatives and went off to meet Kṛṣṇa.

When the gopīs came before Lord Kṛṣṇa, He asked, "Why have you come? It is not good for you to travel to such a place in the dead of the night, for this forest is full of violent creatures. Your husbands and children will soon come searching after you to bring you home and engage you again in your household duties. After all, the prime religious duty of a woman is to serve her husband and children. For a respectable woman to consort with a paramour is totally contemptible and sure to obstruct her progress to heaven. Moreover, one develops pure love for Me not by physical proximity but by hearing topics connected with Me, by viewing My Deity form in the temple, by meditating upon Me and by faithfully chanting My glories. Therefore, all of you would do best to return home."

The gopīs were crestfallen to hear this, and after crying a little they replied, with a bit of anger, "It is very unfair for You to reject young girls who have abandoned everything in their lives and come to You with the exclusive desire to serve You. By serving our husbands and children we receive only pain, whereas by serving You, the dearest Soul of all living beings, we will perfectly fulfill the true religious duty of the self. What woman will not deviate from her prescribed duties as soon as she hears Your flute song and sees Your form, which enchants the three worlds? Just as the Supreme Lord Viṣṇu protects the demigods, You destroy the unhappiness of the people of Vṛndāvana. Therefore You should immediately relieve the torment we have felt because of separation from You." Wanting to please the gopīs, Lord Kṛṣṇa, who is always satisfied in Himself, responded to their appeals by playing with them in various pastimes. But when this show of attention made them a little proud, He humbled them by suddenly disappearing from the arena of the rāsa dance.

TEXT 1

श्रीबादरायणिरुवाच
भगवानपि ता रातृईः
शारदोत्फुल्लमल्लिकाः
वीक्ष्य रन्तुं मनश्चक्रे योगमायामुपाश्रितः

śrī-bādarāyaṇir uvāca
bhagavān api tā rātrīḥ śāradotphulla-mallikāḥ vīkṣya rantum manaś cakre yoga-māyām upāśritaḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī-bādarāyaṇir uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva, the son of Śrīla Bādarāyaṇa Vedavyāsa, said; bhagavān—Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead; api—although; tāḥ—those; rātrīḥ—nights; śārada—of autumn; utphulla—blossoming; mallikāḥ—the jasmine flowers; vīkṣya—seeing; rantum—to enjoy love; manaḥ cakre—He made up His mind; yogamāyām—His spiritual potency that makes the impossible possible; upāśritaḥ—resorting to.

TRANSLATION

Śrī Bādarāyaṇi said: Śrī Kṛṣṇa is the Supreme Personality of Godhead, full in all opulences, yet upon seeing those autumn nights scented with blossoming jasmine flowers, He turned His mind toward loving affairs. To fulfill His purposes He employed His internal potency.

PURPORT

As we begin the famous narration of Lord Kṛṣṇa's rāsa dance, a dance of love with beautiful young girls, questions will inevitably arise in the minds of ordinary people regarding the propriety of God's romantic dancing with many young girls in the middle of a full-moon autumn night. In his description of the Lord's rāsa dance in Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrīla Prabhupāda painstakingly explains the spiritual purity of these transcendental activities. Those advanced in the science of Kṛṣṇa—the great teachers, or ācāryas—leave no doubt that Lord Kṛṣṇa is full and satisfied in Himself, free of all material desire, which is, after all, a sense of incompleteness or lack.

Materialistic persons and impersonal philosophers stubbornly reject the bona fide explanation of Śrī Kṛṣṇa's transcendental nature. There is no reason to deny the beautiful reality of an absolute person able to perform absolute romantic activities, of which our so-called romance is merely a shadow or perverted reflection. The irrational insistence that material activities cannot be a reflection of the perfect, spiritual activities performed by God reflects the unimaginative emotional disposition of those who oppose the reality of Śrī Kṛṣṇa. This psychological disposition of the nondevotees, which leads them to fervently deny the very existence of the absolute person, unfortunately boils down to what may be succinctly described as envy, since the overwhelming majority of the impersonal critics eagerly pursue their own romantic affairs, which they consider quite real and even "spiritual."

The actual supreme lover is Lord Kṛṣṇa. The Vedānta-sūtra begins by declaring that the Absolute Truth is the source of everything, and even Western philosophy was born in a somewhat awkward attempt at finding the original One behind the apparent many of material existence. Conjugal love, one of the most intense and demanding aspects of human existence, can hardly have nothing at all to do with supreme reality.

In fact, the conjugal love experienced by human beings is a mere reflection of spiritual reality, in which the same love exists in an absolute, pristine state. Thus it is clearly stated here that when Kṛṣṇa decided to enjoy the romantic atmosphere of autumn, "He resorted to His spiritual potency" (yoga-māyām upāśritaḥ). The spiritual nature of Lord Kṛṣṇa's conjugal affairs is a major theme in this section of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam.

A woman is attractive because of the sweet sound of her voice, her beauty and gentleness, her enchanting fragrance and tenderness, and also because of her cleverness and skill in music and dance. The most attractive ladies of all are the young gopīs of Vṛndāvana, who are Lord Kṛṣṇa's internal potency, and this chapter tells how He enjoyed their brilliant feminine qualities—even though, as Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura has mentioned, Lord Kṛṣṇa was an eight-year-old boy when these events took place.

Ordinary people prefer God simply to be a witness of their romantic affairs. When a boy desires a girl or a girl desires a boy, sometimes they pray to God for their enjoyment. Such people are shocked and dismayed to find out that the Lord can enjoy His own loving affairs with His own transcendental senses. In truth, Śrī Kṛṣṇa is the original Cupid, and His exciting conjugal pastimes will be described in this section of the Bhāgavatam.

When Lord Kṛṣṇa descends to the earth, His spiritual body seems to take birth and grow as He displays His variegated pastimes. The Lord could hardly allow His boyhood to pass without exhibiting the supreme loving affairs between a young boy and young girls. Thus Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura quotes Śrīla Rūpa Gosvāmī as follows: kaiśoraṁ saphalī-karoti kalayan kuñje vihāraṁ hariḥ. "Lord Hari perfects His youth by arranging loving pastimes in the groves of the Vṛndāvana forest."

TEXT 2

तदोदुराजः ककुभः करैर्मुखं
प्राच्या विलिम्पन्नरुणेन शन्तमैः
स चर्षणीनामुदगाच्छुचो मृजन् प्रियः प्रियाया इव दीर्घदर्शनः

tadoḍurājaḥ kakubhaḥ karair mukham prācyā vilimpann aruṇena śantamaiḥ sa carṣaṇīnām udagāc chuco mṛjan priyaḥ priyāyā iva dīrgha-darśanaḥ

SYNONYMS

tadā—at that time; uḍu-rājaḥ—the moon, king of the stars; kakubhaḥ—of the horizon; karaiḥ—with his "hands" (rays); mukham—the face; prācyāḥ—eastern; vilimpan—smearing; aruṇena—with reddish color; śam-tamaiḥ—(his rays) which give great comfort; saḥ—he; carṣaṇīnām—of all those who watched; udagāt—rose; śucaḥ—the unhappiness; mṛjan—wiping away; priyaḥ—a beloved husband; priyāyāḥ—of his beloved wife; iva—as; dīrgha—after a long time; darśanaḥ—being seen again.

TRANSLATION

The moon then rose, anointing the face of the eastern horizon with the reddish hue of his comforting rays, and thus dispelling the pain of all who watched him rise. The moon was like a beloved husband who returns after a long absence and adorns the face of his beloved wife with red kuṭi kuma.

PURPORT

Young Kṛṣṇa engaged His internal potency, and she immediately created an exciting atmosphere for conjugal love.

TEXT 3

दृष्ट्वा कुमुद्वन्तमखण्डमण्डलं
रमाननाभं नवकुङ्कुमारुणम्
वनं च तत्कोमलगोभी रञ्जितं जगौ कलं वामदृशां मनोहरम्

dr̥ṣṭvā kumudvantam akhaṇḍa-maṇḍalam ramānanābhaṁ nava-kuṅkumāruṇam vanam ca tat-komala-gobhī rañjitaṁ jagau kalaṁ vāma-dṛśāṁ manoharam

SYNONYMS

dr̥ṣṭvā—observing; kamut-vantam—causing the night-blooming kumuda lotuses to open; akhaṇḍa—unbroken; maṇḍalam—the disk of whose face; ramā—of the goddess of fortune; ānana—(resembling) the face; ābham—whose light; nava—new; kuṅkuma—with vermilion powder; aruṇam—reddened; vanam—the forest; ca—and; tat—of that moon; komala—gentle; gobhiḥ—by the rays; rañjitaṁ—colored; jagau—He played His flute; kalam—sweetly; vāma-dṛśām—for the girls who had charming eyes; manaḥ-haram—enchanting.

TRANSLATION

Lord Kṛṣṇa saw the unbroken disk of the full moon glowing with the red effulgence of newly applied vermilion, as if it were the face of the goddess of fortune. He also saw the kumuda lotuses opening in response to the moon's presence and the forest gently illumined by its rays. Thus the Lord began to play sweetly on His flute, attracting the minds of the beautiful-eyed gopés.

PURPORT

The word jagau in this verse indicates that Lord Kṛṣṇa played songs on His flute, as confirmed in Text 40 by the words kā stry aṅga te kala-padāyata-veṇu-gītā. The word ramā may indicate not only Lord Viṣṇu's consort but also Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, the original goddess of fortune. Lord Kṛṣṇa appeared in the dynasty of the moon-god, and the moon plays a prominent role here in preparing for the Lord's entrance into the midst of the rāsa dance.

TEXT 4

निशम्य गीतां तदनङ्गवर्धनं
व्रजस्त्रियः कृष्णगृहीतमानसाः
आजगमुरन्योन्यमलक्षितोद्यमाः स यत्र कान्तो जवलोलकुण्डलाः

niśamya gītām tad anaṅga-varadhanam vraja-striyaḥ kṛṣṇa-grhīta-mānasāḥ ājagmur anyonyam alakṣitodyamāḥ sa yatra kānto java-lola-kuṇḍalāḥ

SYNONYMS

niśamya—hearing; gītām—the music; tat—that; anaṅga—Cupid; vardhanam—which fortifies; vraja-striyaḥ—the young women of Vraja; kṛṣṇa—by Kṛṣṇa; grhīta—seized; mānasāḥ—whose minds; ājagmuḥ—they went; anyonyam—to one another; alakṣita—unnoticed; udyamāḥ—their going forward; saḥ—He; yatra—where; kāntaḥ—their boyfriend; java—because of their haste; lola—swinging; kuṇḍalāḥ—whose earrings.

TRANSLATION

When the young women of Vṛndāvana heard Kṛṣṇa's flute song, which arouses romantic feelings, their minds were captivated by the Lord. They went to where their lover waited, each unknown to the others, moving so quickly that their earrings swung back and forth.

PURPORT

Apparently each gopī went secretly, hoping to avoid advertising to her rivals the fact that young Kṛṣṇa was in the mood for romantic affairs. Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī poetically describes the situation as follows:

"Kṛṣṇa instigated a terrible act of thievery in Vṛndāvana when He played on His flute. The song of His flute entered through the ears of the gopīs, into the inner treasure chamber of their hearts. That wonderful music stole all their most valuable possessions—their sobriety, shyness, fear and discrimination, along with their very minds—and in a split second this music delivered all these goods to Kṛṣṇa. Now each gopī went to beg the Lord to return her personal property. Each beautiful young girl was thinking, 'I have to capture that great thief,' and thus they went forward, each unknown to the others."

TEXT 5

दुहन्त्योऽभिययुः काश्चिद्
दोहं हित्वा समुत्सुकाः
पयोऽधिश्रित्य संयावम्

अनुद्वास्यापरा ययुः

duhantyo 'bhiyayuh kāścid doham hitvā samutsukāḥ payo 'dhiśritya saṁyāvam anudvāsyāparā yayuh

SYNONYMS

duhantyaḥ—in the middle of milking the cows; abhiyayuh—went away; kāścit—some of them; doham—the milking; hitvā—abandoning; samutsukāḥ—extremely eager; payah—milk; adhiśritya—having placed on the stove; saṁyāvam—cakes made of flour; anudvāsyā—without removing from the oven; aparāḥ—others; yayuh—went.

TRANSLATION

Some of the gopés were milking cows when they heard Kṛṣṇa's flute. They stopped milking and went off to meet Him. Some left milk curdling on the stove, and others left cakes burning in the oven.

PURPORT

The eagerness of these cowherd girls, so lovingly devoted to young Kṛṣṇa, is shown here.

TEXTS 6-7

परिवेषयन्त्यस्तद्वित्वा
पाययन्त्यः शिशून् पयः
शुश्रूषन्त्यः पतीन् काश्चिद्

अश्रन्त्योऽपास्य भोजनम्

लिम्पन्त्यः प्रमृजन्त्योऽन्या

अञ्जन्त्यः काश्च लोचने

व्यत्यस्तवस्त्राभरणाः

काश्चित्कृष्णान्तिकं ययुः

pariveṣayantyaḥ tad dhitvā pāyayantyaḥ śiśūn payaḥ śuśrūṣantyaḥ patīn kāścid aśnantyo 'pāsyā bhojanam

*limpantyaḥ pramṛjantyo 'nyā añjantyaḥ kāśca locane vyatyasta-vastrābharaṇāḥ
kāścit kṛṣṇāntikam yayuḥ*

SYNONYMS

pariveṣayantyaḥ—getting dressed; tat—that; hitvā—putting aside; pāyayantyaḥ—making drink; śiśūn—their children; payāḥ—milk; śuśrūṣantyaḥ—rendering personal service; patīn—to their husbands; kāścit—some of them; aśnantyaḥ—eating; apāsyā—leaving aside; bhojanam—their meals; limpantyaḥ—applying cosmetics; pramṛjantyaḥ—cleansing themselves with oils; anyāḥ—others; añjantyaḥ—applying kajjala; kāśca—some; locane—on their eyes; vyatyasta—in disarray; vastra—their clothing; ābharaṇāḥ—and ornaments; kāścit—some of them; kṛṣṇa-antikam—to the proximity of Lord Kṛṣṇa; yayuh—went.

TRANSLATION

Some of them were getting dressed, feeding milk to their infants or rendering personal service to their husbands, but they all gave up these duties and went to meet Kṛṣṇa. Other gopés were taking their evening meals, washing themselves, putting on cosmetics or applying kajjala to their eyes. But all the gopés stopped these activities at once and, though their clothes and ornaments were in complete disarray, rushed off to Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 8

ता वार्यमाणाः पतिभिः
पितृभिर्भ्रातृबन्धुभिः
गोविन्दापहतात्मानो
न न्यवर्तन्त मोहिताः

*tā vāryamāṇāḥ patibhiḥ pitṛbhir bhrāṭṛ-bandhubhiḥ govindāpahṛtātmāno
na nyavartanta mohitāḥ*

SYNONYMS

tāḥ—they; vāryamāṇāḥ—being checked; patibhiḥ—by their husbands; pitṛbhiḥ—by their fathers; bhrāṭṛ—brothers; bandhubhiḥ—and other relatives; govinda—by Lord Kṛṣṇa; apahṛta—stolen away; ātmānaḥ—their very selves; na nyavartanta—they did not turn back; mohitāḥ—enchanted.

TRANSLATION

Their husbands, fathers, brothers and other relatives tried to stop them, but Kṛṣṇa had already stolen their hearts. Enchanted by the sound of His flute, they refused to turn back.

PURPORT

Some of the young gopīs were married, and their husbands tried to stop them. The unmarried girls had to deal with their fathers and brothers and other relatives. None of these relatives would have ordinarily allowed even the young girls' dead bodies to go alone into the forest at night, but Lord Kṛṣṇa had already engaged His internal potency, and thus the entire romantic episode unfolded without interference.

TEXT 9

अन्तर्गृहगताः काश्चिद्
गोप्योऽलब्धविनिर्गमाः
कृष्णं तद्भावनायुक्ता दध्युर्मिलितलोचनाः

*antar-gr̥ha-gatāḥ kāścīd gopyo 'labdha-vinirgamāḥ kṛṣṇam tad-bhāvanā-yuktā
dadhyur mīlita-locanāḥ*

SYNONYMS

antaḥ-gr̥ha—within their homes; gatāḥ—present; kāścīd—some; gopyaḥ—gopīs; alabdha—not obtaining; vinirgamāḥ—any exit; kṛṣṇam—upon Śrī Kṛṣṇa; tat-bhāvanā—with ecstatic love for Him; yuktāḥ—fully endowed;

dadhyuḥ—they meditated; mīlita—closed; locanāḥ—their eyes .

TRANSLATION

Some of the gopés, however, could not manage to get out of their houses, and instead they remained home with eyes closed, meditating upon Him in pure love.

PURPORT

Throughout the Tenth Canto, Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura gives elaborate poetic commentaries on Lord Kṛṣṇa's pastimes. It is not always possible to include these extensive descriptions, but we will quote in its entirety his comments on this verse. It is our sincere recommendation to the learned Vaiṣṇava community that a qualified devotee of the Lord present the entire commentary of Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī on the Tenth Canto as a separate book, which will undoubtedly be appreciated by devotees and nondevotees alike. The ācārya's comments on this verse are as follows:

"In this context we will make our analysis according to the method described in Śrīla Rūpa Gosvāmī's Ujjvala-nīlamanī. There are two categories of gopīs: the eternally perfect (the nitya-siddhas) and those who have become perfect by practicing bhakti-yoga (the sādhana-siddhas). The sādhana-siddhas are of two categories: those who belong to special groups and those who do not. And there are also two classes of the gopīs belonging to special groups: namely the śruti-cārīs, who come from the group of the personified Vedas, and the ṛṣi-cārīs, who come from the group of sages who saw Lord Rāmacandra in the Daṇḍakāraṇya forest.

"This same fourfold categorization of the gopīs is given in the Padma Purāṇa:

gopyas tu śrutayo jñeyā
ṛṣi-jā gopa-kanyakāḥ

*deva-kanyāś ca rājendra
na mānuṣyāḥ kathañcana*

'It is understood that some of the gopīs are personified Vedic literatures, while others are reborn sages, daughters of cowherds, or demigod maidens. But by no means, my dear King, are any of them ordinary humans.' Here we are informed that although the gopīs appeared to be human cowherd girls, they actually were not. Thus the contention that they are mortals is refuted.

"The daughters of cowherds, referred to here as gopa-kanyās, must be eternally perfect, since we never hear of them having executed any sādhana. Their apparent sādhana of worshiping goddess Kātyāyanī in the role of gopīs merely manifests their manner of playing like human beings, and the Bhāgavatam narrates the account of this worship only to show how they had fully taken on the role of cowherd girls.

"That the gopa-kanyā gopīs are actually nitya-siddhas, eternally perfect devotees of the Lord, is established by a statement in Brahma-saṁhitā (5.37)—ānanda-cinmaya-rasa-pratibhāvitābhiḥ—which proves that they are the Lord's spiritual pleasure potency. Similarly, we have the words of the Gautamīya-tantra, hlādinī yā mahā-śaktiḥ. Further corroboration of their eternal perfection is that these gopīs, being coeternal with Lord Kṛṣṇa, their lover, are mentioned along with Him in the eighteen-syllable mantra, the ten-syllable mantra and others, and also that the worship of these mantras, and also the śrutis that present them, have been in existence since beginningless time."

The deva-kanyās, daughters of the demigods, who are mentioned in the verse beginning sambhavas tv amara-striyaḥ, are explained in Śrī Ujjvala-nīlamaṇi as partial expansions of the gopīs who are eternally perfect. That the śruti-cārī gopīs, the personified Vedas, are sādhana-siddha is understood from the following words of theirs quoted in the Bṛhad-vāmana Purāṇa:

*kandarpa-koṭi-lāvaṇye
tvayi dṛṣṭe manāṁsi naḥ kāminī-bhāvam āsādyā
smara-kṣubdhānya-saṁśayāḥ*

yathā tval-loka-vāsinyaḥ kāma-tattvena gopikāḥ bhajanti ramaṇaṁ matvā cikīrṣājaninas tathā

'Since we have seen Your face, which possesses the beauty of millions of Cupids, our minds have become lusty after You like those of young girls, and we have forgotten all other allurements. We have developed the desire to act toward You as do the gopīs who dwell on Your transcendental planet and who manifest the nature of Cupid by worshiping You with the idea that You are their paramour.'

"The ṛṣi-cārī gopīs are also sādhana-siddha, as stated in Ujjvala-nīlamaṇi: gopālopāsakāḥ pūrvam aprāptābhīṣṭa-siddhayaḥ. Previously they were all mahārṣis living in the Daṇḍaka forest. We find evidence for this in the Padma Purāṇa, Uttara-khaṇḍa:

*dṛṣṭvā rāmaṁ hariṁ tatra bhoktum aicchan su-vigraham te sarve strītvam āpannāḥ samudbhūtāś ca gokule hariṁ samprāpya kāmēna
tato muktā bhavārṇavāt*

This verse says that upon seeing Lord Rāmacandra, the sages in the Daṇḍaka forest desired to enjoy Lord Hari (Kṛṣṇa). In other words, the sight of Lord Rāma's beauty reminded them of Lord Hari, Gopāla, their personal object of worship, and they then wanted to enjoy with Him. But out of embarrassment they did not act on that desire, whereupon Lord Śrī Rāma, who is like a desire tree, gave His mercy to them, even though they had not voiced their request. Thus their desire was fulfilled, as stated by the words beginning te sarve. By means of their lusty attraction they became freed from the ocean of material existence, the cycle of birth and death, and coincidentally they got the association of Hari in conjugal love.

"In the present verse of the Bhāgavatam we understand that it was the gopīs who had children who were kept forcibly at home. This fact is clear from verses yet to come: mātarāḥ pitarāḥ putrāḥ (SB 10.29.20), yat-paty-apatya-suhṛdām anuvṛttir aṅga (SB 10.29.32) and pati-sutānvaya-bhrātṛ-bāndhavān (SB 10.31.16). In his comments on the Tenth Canto, Śrīla Kavi-karṇapūra Gosvāmī mentions this fact. Without trying to repeat all his thoughts on this verse, we will give the gist of his purport:

" 'Upon seeing the personal form of Lord Śrī Rāmacandra, the sages who were worshipers of Lord Gopāla immediately became elevated to the mature platform of spontaneous devotion, automatically reaching the stages of firm faith, attraction and attachment. But they had not yet completely freed themselves of all material contamination; therefore Śrī Yogamāyā-devi arranged for them to take birth from the wombs of gopīs and become cowherd girls. By associating with the eternally perfect gopīs, some of these new gopīs fully manifested pūrva-raga loving attraction for Kṛṣṇa as soon as they reached puberty (This kind of attraction develops even before one meets the beloved.) When these new gopīs got the direct audience of Kṛṣṇa and physically associated with Him, all their remaining contamination became burned up, and they achieved the advanced stages of prema, sneha and so on.

" 'Even though they were in the company of their cowherd husbands, by the power of Yogamāyā the gopīs remained unsullied by sexual contact with them; rather, they were situated in purely spiritual bodies that Kṛṣṇa enjoyed. On the night they heard the sound of Kṛṣṇa's flute, their husbands tried to stop them, but by the merciful assistance of Yogamāyā the sādhana-siddha gopīs were able to go forth to their beloved, together with the nitya-siddha gopīs.

" 'Other gopīs, however, because of not getting the good fortune of associating with the nitya-siddha gopīs and other advanced gopīs, had not achieved the stage of prema, and so their contamination was not completely burned away. They entered the company of their cowherd husbands and, after sexual union with them, gave birth to children. But a short time later even these gopīs developed their pūrva-raga by hankering intensely for the physical association of Kṛṣṇa—a hankering they acquired by associating with the advanced gopīs. Becoming worthy recipients of the mercy of the perfected gopīs, they assumed transcendental bodies fit to be enjoyed by Kṛṣṇa, and when Yogamāyā failed to help them overcome their husbands' attempts to keep them from going out, they felt themselves cast into the worst calamity. Viewing their husbands, brothers, fathers and other family members as enemies, they came close to dying. Just as other women might remember their mothers or other relatives at the time of death, these gopīs remembered the sole friend of their very life, Kṛṣṇa, as stated in the present verse of the Bhāgavatam, beginning with the word antar.

" 'It is implied that those ladies were not able to exit because they were held back by their husbands, who were standing before them with sticks in their hands, scolding them. Although these gopīs were perpetually absorbed in love for Kṛṣṇa, at that particular time they meditated upon Him and cried out within: "Alas, alas, O only friend of our life! O ocean of the artistic skills of Vṛndāvana forest! Please let us become your girlfriends in some future life, because at this time we cannot see Your lotuslike face with our eyes. So be it; we shall look upon You with our minds." Each of them lamenting to herself in this way, the gopīs stood with their eyes shut and meditated deeply upon Him."

TEXTS 10-11

दुःसहप्रेष्ठविरह-तीव्रतापधुताशुभाः

ध्यानप्राप्ताच्युताक्षेप-निर्वृत्या क्षीणमङ्गलाः

तमेव परमात्मानं
जारबुद्ध्यापि सङ्गताः
जहुर्गुणमयं देहं सद्यः प्रक्षीणबन्धनाः

duḥsaha-preṣṭha-viraha-tīvra-tāpa-dhuta-āśubhāḥ dhyāna-prāptācyutāśleṣa-nirvṛtyā kṣīṇa-maṅgalāḥ

*tam eva paramātmānaṁ
jāra-buddhyāpi saṅgatāḥ jahur guṇa-mayaṁ dehaṁ sadyaḥ prakṣīṇa-bandhanāḥ*

SYNONYMS

duḥsaha—intolerable; preṣṭha—from their beloved; viraha—from separation; tīvra—intense; tāpa—by the burning pain; dhuta—removed; āśubhāḥ—all inauspicious things in their hearts; dhyāna—by meditation; prāpta—obtained; acyuta—of the infallible Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa; āśleṣa—caused by the embrace; nirvṛtyā—by the joy; kṣīṇa—reduced to nil; maṅgalāḥ—their auspicious karmic reactions; tam—Him; eva—even though; parama-ātmānam—the Supersoul; jāra—a paramour; buddhyā—thinking Him to be; api—nevertheless; saṅgatāḥ—getting His direct association; jahuḥ—they gave up; guṇa-mayaṁ—composed of the modes of material nature; dehaṁ—their bodies; sadyaḥ—immediately; prakṣīṇa—thoroughly counteracted;

bandhanāḥ—all their bondage of karma.

TRANSLATION

For those gopīs who could not go to see Kṛṣṇa, intolerable separation from their beloved caused an intense agony that burned away all impious karma. By meditating upon Him they realized His embrace, and the ecstasy they then felt exhausted their material piety. Although Lord Kṛṣṇa is the Supreme Soul, these girls simply thought of Him as their male lover and associated with Him in that intimate mood. Thus their karmic bondage was nullified and they abandoned their gross material bodies.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī comments upon this verse as follows: "Here Śukadeva Gosvāmī speaks in a peculiar way: he presents the intimate object the gopīs attained as if it were an external idea, thus keeping its true nature secret from outsiders, while at the same time he reveals to the confidential devotees well versed in the scientific conclusions of devotional service the internal meaning that is his real purport. Thus to outsiders Śukadeva says that Kṛṣṇa gave the gopīs liberation, but to the confidential hearers Śukadeva reveals that when the gopīs experienced separation from their beloved there arose in them both immeasurable unhappiness and immeasurable happiness, and that they gradually achieved their desired goal.

"Thus the verse can be understood as follows: Because of their intolerable separation from their beloved, the gopīs felt terrible agony, by which they caused all inauspicious things to tremble. In other words, when people in general hear of the gopīs' extreme agony in separation from their beloved, they abandon thousands of inauspicious things—things even as fearsome as the subterranean fires of millions of universes or the powerful poison swallowed by Lord Śiva. More specifically, those who hear of the gopīs' love in separation give up their terrible false ego and, thinking themselves defeated, are shaken.

When the gopīs meditated on Lord Acyuta, He became manifest and personally came to them, and they experienced great joy by embracing His body, which was full of transcendental love for them. The gopīs also experienced great joy by exhibiting personal characteristics and a sense of identification appropriate to such love. That joy made all their good fortune, both material and spiritual, seem paltry by comparison.

"The implication is that when other persons see how happy the gopīs became upon embracing Kṛṣṇa when He manifested Himself directly before them, these other persons feel that thousands of so-called auspicious objects are insignificant by comparison, including all the sense gratificatory pleasures found in millions of universes and even the supersensory pleasure of spiritual bliss (brahmānanda). Thus hearing of the gopīs' distress and the joy that arose, respectively, out of their separation from the Supreme Lord and their union with Him, anyone can get rid of all the reactions of his past activities, both sinful and pious. Vaiṣṇavas certainly do not think that sinful and pious reactions can be destroyed only by being lived out, since, after all, neither separation from the Supreme Lord nor direct association with Him are in the category of karma. This kind of elimination of karmic reactions occurs in the stage of bhajana, for those who have come to the level of anartha-nivṛtti.

"And thus the gopīs thought of Kṛṣṇa—the Paramātmā, or supreme worthy object of all love—as their paramour. Even though such a concept is ordinarily contemptible, the gopīs realized Kṛṣṇa in an even fuller sense than did Rukmiṇī and His other queens, who thought of Him most respectfully as their husband. That thinking of the Lord as one's paramour is superior to thinking of Him as one's husband is proved by the fact that unbridled pure love is superior to domesticated love. This idea is borne out by the following words of Śrī Uddhava: yā dustyajam sva-janam ārya-patham ca hitvā. 'These ladies of Vraja abandoned their families and their advanced religious principles, even though to do so is very difficult.' (SB 10.47.61)

"In His pastimes on earth Kṛṣṇa often turns the most lowly things into the most elevated. As Bhīṣma stated, Kṛṣṇa's pastime of acting as Arjuna's chariot driver was even more elevated than the pastimes in which He acted as a mighty King of kings: vijaya-ratha-kuṭumba ātta-totre/ dhṛta-haya-raśmini tac-chriyeskṣaṇīye. 'I concentrate upon the chariot driver of Arjuna, who stood with a whip in His right hand and a bridle rope in His left, and who was very careful to protect Arjuna's chariot by all means.' (SB 1.9.39) Similarly, in the Lord's appearance as Kṛṣṇa we see that the normally inferior conjugal rāsa becomes better than the normally superior mood of śānta-rasa, as also the attitude of loving a paramour becomes superior to the loving exchange between legitimate spouses, and lowly guñjā necklaces, red oxide paste and peacock feathers become better than the most excellent jeweled ornaments.

"But, it may be objected, it is not fitting for the Supreme Lord to sport with women whose bodies have already been enjoyed by other men. This objection is replied to by the words beginning jahuḥ. The word deham is used here in the singular form to indicate unity of category, even though the gopīs are many. Some authorities say that by the power of Yogamāyā these gopīs' bodies disappeared in a way no one noticed, but other authorities say that the 'body' referred to in this context is the inferior body, composed of the modes of material nature. Thus by the prominence of the adjective guṇa-mayam, it is understood that before the gopīs heard the sound of Kṛṣṇa's flute their bodies had been twofold, material and spiritual, and upon hearing the flute they gave up the material bodies, which their husbands had enjoyed. We may analyze this as follows:

"When devotees begin prosecuting devotional service in accordance with the instructions of a bona fide spiritual master, they engage their ears and other senses in pure devotion by hearing of the Lord, chanting His glories, remembering Him, offering obeisances to Him, giving Him personal attendance, and so forth. Thus the devotees make the Lord's transcendental qualities the objects of their senses, as stated by the Lord Himself: nirguṇo mad-apāśrayaḥ. (SB 11.25.26) In this way the devotees' bodies transcend the material modes. Yet sometimes the devotees may take as their sense objects mundane sounds and so on, and that is material. Thus a devotee's body can have two aspects, transcendental and material.

"According to one's level of devotional service, to that degree the transcendental aspects of one's body become prominent and the material aspects diminish. This transformation is described in the following verse from the Bhāgavatam (11.2.42):

bhaktiḥ pareśānubhavo viraktir anyatra caiṣa trika eka-kālah prapadyamānasya yathāśnataḥ syus tuṣṭiḥ puṣṭiḥ kṣud-apāyo 'nu-ghāsam

'Devotion, direct experience of the Supreme Lord, and detachment from other things—these three occur simultaneously for one who has taken shelter of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, in the same way that pleasure, nourishment and relief from hunger come simultaneously and increasingly, with each bite, for a person engaged in eating.' When one achieves totally pure love of God, the material portions of the body disappear and the body becomes completely spiritual. Nonetheless, so as not to disturb the false opinions of atheists and so as to protect the confidentiality of devotional service, the Supreme Lord usually has His illusory energy exhibit the demise of the gross body. An example of this is the disappearance of the Yādavas during the Mauṣala-līlā.

"Sometimes, however, to proclaim the excellence of bhakti-yoga, Kṛṣṇa will allow a devotee to go back to Godhead in his selfsame body, as in the case of Dhruva Mahārāja. We can cite evidence for this point from the Twenty-fifth Chapter of the Eleventh Canto, Text 32:

*yeneme nirjitāḥ saumya
guṇā jīvena citta-jāḥ bhakti-yogena man-niṣṭho
mad-bhāvāya prapadyate*

'A living entity who conquers the modes of material nature, which are manifested from the mind, can dedicate himself to Me [Kṛṣṇa] by the process of devotional service and thus attain pure love for Me.' Here the Lord states that the defeat and destruction of that which is composed of the modes of material nature can be brought about only by the process of devotional service.

"Therefore, what we should understand from the present verse of the Bhāgavatam is that the gopīs who could not go to see Kṛṣṇa had their inauspicious, material bodies removed or burned up, while their auspicious, spiritual bodies, far from being destroyed, simply grew more prominent because of the ecstasy the gopīs felt by embracing Kṛṣṇa in meditation. Thus their bondage was completely destroyed: by the help of Yogamāyā they got free from ignorance and also from the prohibitions of their husbands and other relatives.

"We should not make the mistake of explaining this falling away of the gopīs' bodies as being a result of their dying. As the Lord Himself states (SB 10.47.37),

*yā mayā krīdatā rātryām
vane 'smin vraja āsthitāḥ
alabdha-rāsāḥ kalyāṇyo
māpur mad-vīrya-cintayā*

'Some of those all-auspicious gopīs could not directly join Me in enjoying the rāsa dance on that night in this Vṛndāvana forest, yet still they achieved My association by remembering My transcendental pastimes.' By using the word kalyāṇyaḥ in this verse, the Lord implies, 'Even though these gopīs wanted to give up their bodies because of their husbands' prohibitions and the torment of separation from Me, for them to die at the very beginning of the most auspicious festival of the rāsa dance would have been displeasing to Me and thus inauspicious. So they did not die.'

"More evidence that the gopīs who were prevented from going to see Kṛṣṇa did not physically die is provided by a statement of Śrī Śukadeva's later in this canto (10.47.38): tā ūcur uddhavaṁ prītās tat-sandēśāgata-smṛtīḥ. 'Then they

[the gopīs] replied to Uddhava, feeling satisfied because His message had reminded them of Kṛṣṇa.' Here we understand that the gopīs speaking to Uddhava were the ones who had not had the chance to participate directly in the rāsa dance because of being held captive in their homes. Thus the conclusion is that they gave up their material bodies without dying. Parched by the intense heat of separation, their material bodies gave up their materiality and became purely spiritual, just like the bodies of such great devotees as Dhruva Mahārāja. This is the meaning of the gopīs' 'giving up their bodies.'

"The following analogy illustrates the statuses of the various gopīs: By observing seven or eight ripe mangoes on a tree, we can ascertain that all the fruits on the tree are ripe. Then we can pick them all and bring them home, where in due course the sun's rays and other agents will make them fine—looking, fragrant and delicious—fit to be offered to the king for his enjoyment. When the time comes for the king to take his meal, a discriminating servant can choose those fruits ready to offer him. From the appearance of the fruits the servant can tell which are ripe in the middle but still raw on the outside and thus not yet fit for the king. By the application of a special heating process, these remaining fruits will become ripe in two or three days, and then they too will be ready to offer to the king.

"Similarly, among the muni-cārī gopīs who took birth in Gokula, those who completely gave up the materiality of their bodies and very early in life achieved purely spiritual bodies were able to remain untouched by any other man; thus Yogamāyā allowed them to join the nitya-siddha and other advanced gopīs when they went to meet Kṛṣṇa. Other muni-cārī gopīs still retained some connection with the external material body, but even they, after being parched by the heat of separation from Śrī Kṛṣṇa, gave up the materiality of their bodies and assumed perfectly transcendental bodies, purified of all taint of contact with other men. On the night of the rāsa dance, Yogamāyā sent some of these gopīs out behind those who had already gone out; others, who Yogamāyā saw still had a slight amount of contamination, she kept back to further purify with the heat of separation, and then she sent them out on some other night.

"After enjoying the pleasures of the rāsa dance and other pastimes with Kṛṣṇa, the muni-cārī gopīs who had participated went back to their homes when the night was over, as did the nitya-siddha and other advanced gopīs. But now Yogamāyā protected these muni-cārī gopīs from the material association of their husbands; in other words, these gopīs were devoid of any selfish attachment for husband, children and so on. Since these gopīs were thoroughly immersed in the great ocean of love for Kṛṣṇa, their breasts dried up so that they could not feed their infants, and to their family members they appeared as if haunted by ghosts. In conclusion, it is not unseemly that the gopīs who were previously in material association joined in the rāsa dance.

"Some authorities, however, maintain that the gopīs who were kept back in their houses did not have children. According to them, whenever such words as apatya ('children') are used in verses yet to come, these words refer to the children of co-wives, to adopted children or to nephews and nieces."

TEXT 12

श्रीपरीक्षिदुवाच
कृष्णं विदुः परं कान्तं
न तु ब्रह्मतया मुने
गुणप्रवाहोपरमस तासां गुणधियां कथम्

śrī-parīkṣid uvāca
kṛṣṇaṁ viduḥ paraṁ kāntaṁ na tu brahmatayā mune guṇa-pravāhoparamas
tāsāṁ guṇa-dhiyāṁ katham

SYNONYMS

śrī-parīkṣit uvāca—Śrī Parīkṣit said; kṛṣṇam—Lord Kṛṣṇa; viduḥ—they knew; param—only; kāntam—as their beloved; na—not; tu—but; brahmatayā—as the Absolute Truth; mune—O sage, Śukadeva; guṇa—of the three modes of material nature; pravāha—of the mighty current; uparamaḥ—the cessation; tāsām—for them; guṇa-dhiyām—whose mentality was caught up in those modes; katham—how.

TRANSLATION

Śrī Parīkṣit Mahārāja said: O sage, the gopīs knew Kṛṣṇa only as their lover, not as the Supreme Absolute Truth. So how could these girls, their minds caught up in the waves of the modes of nature, free themselves from material attachment?

PURPORT

King Parīkṣit was sitting in an assembly of great sages and other important personalities, listening to the words of Śukadeva Gosvāmī. According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī, as Śukadeva began speaking of the gopīs' conjugal love for Kṛṣṇa, the King noticed the expressions on the faces of some of the more materialistic persons present there and realized the doubt lurking in their hearts. Therefore, although the King thoroughly knew the purport of Śukadeva's words, he presented himself as experiencing personal doubt so that he could eradicate the doubt of others. That is why he asked this question.

TEXT 13

श्रीशुक उवाच

उक्तं पुरस्तादेतत्ते
चैद्यः सिद्धिं यथा गतः
द्विषन्नपि हृषीकेशं किमुताधोक्षजप्रियाः

śrī-śuka uvāca
uktam purastād etat te caidyah siddhim yathā gataḥ dviṣann api hṛṣīkeśam
kim utādhokṣaja-priyāḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; uktam—spoken; purastāt—previously; etat—this; te—to you; caidyah—the King of Cedi, Śiśupāla; siddhim—perfection; yathā—as; gataḥ—he attained; dviṣan—hating; api—even; hṛṣīkeśam—the Supreme Lord Hṛṣīkeśa; kim uta—what to speak then; adhokṣaja—to the transcendental Lord, who lies beyond the purview of ordinary senses; priyāḥ—of those devotees who are very dear.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: This point was explained to you previously. Since even Śiśupāla, who hated Kṛṣṇa, achieved perfection, then what to speak of the Lord's dear devotees.

PURPORT

Although the spiritual nature of conditioned souls may be covered by illusion, Lord Kṛṣṇa's spiritual nature is omnipotent and is never covered by any other power. In fact, all other powers are His energy and thus function according to His will. The Brahma-saṁhitā (5.44) states, sṛṣṭi sthiti-pralaya-sādhana-śaktir ekā/ chāyeva yasya bhuvanāni bibharti durgā/ icchānurūpam api yasya ca ceṣṭate sā: "The mighty Durgā, who creates, maintains and annihilates the material worlds, is the potency of the Supreme Lord, and she moves like His shadow, according to His desire." Thus because the Lord's spiritual influence does not depend on whether someone understands Him or not, the gopīs' spontaneous love for Kṛṣṇa guaranteed their spiritual perfection.

The great Madhvācārya quotes the following relevant passages from the Skanda Purāṇa:

*kṛṣṇa-kāmās tadā gopyas
tyaktvā dehaṁ divaṁ gatāḥ samyak kṛṣṇaṁ para-brahma jñātvā kālāt paraṁ yayaḥ*

"At that time the gopīs, who desired Kṛṣṇa, gave up their bodies and went to the spiritual world. Because they properly understood Kṛṣṇa to be the Supreme Absolute Truth, they transcended the influence of time."

*pūrvam ca jñāna-saṁyuktās tatrāpi prāyaśas tathā atas tāsāṁ paraṁ brahma
gatir āsīn na kāmataḥ*

"In their previous lives most of the gopīs were already fully endowed with transcendental knowledge. It is because of this knowledge, not their lust, that they were able to attain the Supreme Brahman."

na tu jñānam ṛte mokṣo nānyaḥ pantheti hi śrutiḥ kāma-yuktā tadā bhaktir

jñānam cāto vimukti-gāḥ

"The Vedas declare that without spiritual knowledge there is no valid path to liberation. Because these apparently lusty gopīs possessed devotion and knowledge, they achieved liberation."

ato mokṣe 'pi tāsāṃ ca kāmo bhaktyānuvartate mukti-śabdodito caidyaprabhṛtau dveṣa-bhāgiṇaḥ

"Thus even in their attainment of liberation, 'lust' followed as a manifestation of their pure devotion. After all, what we call liberation was experienced even by envious persons like Śiśupāla."

bhakti-mārgī prthaṇ muktim agād viṣṇu-prasādataḥ kāmas tv aśubha-kṛc cāpi bhaktyā viṣṇoḥ prasāda-kṛt

"By the mercy of Lord Viṣṇu, one who follows the path of devotional service gains liberation as a by-product, and such a person's lusty desire, which would normally invoke misfortune, instead invokes the mercy of Viṣṇu when exhibited in pure devotion."

*dveṣi-jīva-yutaṃ cāpi bhaktaṃ viṣṇur vimocayet aho 'ti-karuṇā viṣṇoḥ
śiśupālasya mokṣaṇāt*

"Lord Viṣṇu will save even a devotee possessed of an envious life. Just see the extreme mercy of the Lord, as shown by His granting liberation to Śiśupāla!"

Śiśupāla was Lord Kṛṣṇa's cousin. He was mortified when the Lord stole the gorgeous young Rukmiṇī, whom Śiśupāla himself was hell-bent on marrying. For various other reasons also, Śiśupāla was consumed with envy of Lord Kṛṣṇa, and finally he insanely offended Him in a great assembly called the Rājasūya sacrifice. At that time Kṛṣṇa nonchalantly cut off Śiśupāla's head and gave him liberation. Everyone present saw the effulgent soul of Śiśupāla rise out of his dead body and merge into the existence of the Lord. The Seventh Canto explains that Śiśupāla was an incarnation of a gatekeeper in the spiritual world cursed to take birth on the earth as a demon. Since even Śiśupāla was liberated by the Lord, who took into consideration the whole situation, then what to speak of the gopīs, who loved Kṛṣṇa more than anything.

TEXT 14

नृणां निःश्रेयसार्थाय
व्यक्तिर्भगवतो नृप
अव्ययस्याप्रमेयस्य निर्गुणस्य गुणात्मनः

nṛṇāṃ niḥśreyasārthāya vyaktir bhagavato nṛpa avyayasyāprameyasya nirguṇasya guṇātmanah

SYNONYMS

nṛṇām—for humanity; niḥśreyasa—of the highest benefit; arthāya—for the purpose; vyaktiḥ—the personal appearance; bhagavataḥ—of the Supreme Lord; nṛpa—O King; avyayasya—of Him who is inexhaustible; aprameyasya—immeasurable; nirguṇasya—untouched by material qualities;

guṇa-ātmanah—the controller of the material modes.

TRANSLATION

O King, the Supreme Lord is inexhaustible and immeasurable, and He is untouched by the material modes because He is their controller. His personal appearance in this world is meant for bestowing the highest benefit on humanity.

PURPORT

Since Lord Kṛṣṇa descends to benefit mankind in general, why would He neglect innocent young girls who loved Him more than anyone else did? Although the Lord awards Himself to His pure devotees, He is avyaya, inexhaustible, because He is aprameya, immeasurable. He is also nirguṇa, free of material qualities, and thus those who intimately associate with Him are on the same spiritual platform. He is guṇātmā, the controller or original personality behind the modes of nature, and it is specifically for this reason that He is free of them. In other words, because the modes of nature are His energy, they cannot act upon Him.

TEXT 15

कामं क्रोधं भयं स्नेहम्
ऐक्यं सौहृदमेव च
नित्यं हरौ विदधतो
यान्ति तन्मयतां हि ते

kāmaṁ krodhaṁ bhayaṁ sneham aikyaṁ sauhṛdam eva ca

nityam harau vidadhato yānti tan-mayatām hi te

SYNONYMS

kāmam—lust; krodham—anger; bhayam—fear; sneham—loving affection; aikyam—unity; sauhṛdam—friendship; eva ca—also; nityam—always; harau—for Lord Hari; vidadhataḥ—exhibiting; yānti—they achieve; tat-mayatām—absorption in Him; hi—indeed; te—such persons.

TRANSLATION

Persons who constantly direct their lust, anger, fear, protective affection, feeling of impersonal oneness or friendship toward Lord Hari are sure to become absorbed in thought of Him.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa is pure spiritual existence, and those who somehow or other become attached to Him, absorbed in thoughts of Him, rise to the spiritual platform. This is the absolute nature of the Lord's personal association.

With this verse Śukadeva Gosvāmī answers King Parīkṣit's question about the gopīs. After all, Śukadeva has begun to narrate Kṛṣṇa's most intimate pastime, the rāsa dance, and Parīkṣit is cooperating to remove the doubts of others who are hearing or who in the future may hear this astonishing story. Śrīla Madhvācārya has quoted a statement from the Skanda Purāṇa that emphatically declares persons like the gopīs to be liberated souls, beyond the pale of material illusion:

bhaktyā hi nitya-kāmitvaṁ na tu muktiṁ vinā bhavet ataḥ kāmitayā vāpi

muktir bhaktimatām harau

"Eternal conjugal attraction to Kṛṣṇa, expressed in pure devotional service, cannot develop in one who is not already liberated. Thus those who are devoted to Lord Hari, even in conjugal attraction, are already liberated .

"Śrīla Madhvācārya then quotes from the Padma Purāṇa to clarify the essential point that one cannot be liberated simply by lusting after Lord Kṛṣṇa but rather only by possessing conjugal attraction in pure devotional service:

*sneha-bhaktāḥ sadā devāḥ kāmitsenāpsara-striyaḥ kāscit kāscin na kāmena
bhaktyā kevalayaiva tu*

"The demigods are always affectionately devoted to the Lord, and the young ladies of heaven called Apsarās have lusty feelings toward Him, although some of them have pure devotion for Him untainted by material lust. Only these latter Apsarās are ready for liberation, because without bona fide devotional service one cannot possibly achieve liberation."

Thus devotional service is not yogyam, or appropriate, unless free from material lust. One should not take cheaply the gopīs' achievement of personal association with Lord Kṛṣṇa in a conjugal relationship. To show the gravity of direct relationship with the Lord, Śrīla Madhvācārya has quoted the following verses from the Varāha Purāṇa:

*patitvena śrīyoṣāsyo
brahmaṇā me pītetī ca pitāmahatayānyeṣām
tridaśānām janārdanaḥ*

"The goddess Lakṣmī worships Lord Janārdana as her husband, Lord Brahmā worships Him as his father, and the other demigods worship Him as their grandfather."

*prapitāmaho me bhagavān iti sarva-janasya tu guruḥ śrī-brahmaṇo viṣṇuḥ
surāṇām ca guror guruḥ*

"Thus people in general should think, 'The Supreme Lord is my great-grandfather.' Lord Viṣṇu is the spiritual master of Brahmā and thus the guru of the guru of the demigods."

*gurur brahmāsyā jagato daivam viṣṇuḥ sanātanaḥ ity evopāśanam kāryam
nānyathā tu kathañcana*

"Brahmā is the spiritual master of this universe, and Viṣṇu is the eternally worshipable Deity. With this understanding, and not otherwise, one should worship the Lord."

The above injunctions apply to sarva-jana, "all people in general." Thus one should follow these injunctions until one achieves the exalted platform of intimate relationship with the Supreme Lord. There is abundant evidence that the gopīs of Vṛndāvana were highly elevated, liberated souls, and thus their pastimes with Kṛṣṇa are pure, spiritual affairs. Keeping this in mind, we can truly understand this chapter of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam .

TEXT 16

न चैवं विस्मयः कार्यो भवता भगवत्यजे
योगेश्वरेश्वरे कृष्णे

यत एतद्विमुच्यते

*na caivaṁ vismayaḥ kāryo bhavatā bhagavaty aje yogeśvareśvare kṛṣṇe
yata etad vimucyate*

SYNONYMS

na ca—nor; evam—like this; vismayaḥ—astonishment; kāryaḥ—should be had; bhavatā—by you; bhagavati—in regard to the Supreme Personality of Godhead; aje—who is unborn; yoga-īśvara—of the masters of yoga; īśvare—the ultimate master; kṛṣṇe—Lord Kṛṣṇa; yataḥ—by whom; etat—this (world); vimucyate—becomes liberated.

TRANSLATION

You should not be so astonished by Kṛṣṇa, the unborn master of all masters of mystic power, the Supreme Personality of Godhead. After all, it is the Lord who liberates this world.

PURPORT

Parīkṣit Mahārāja should not have been so astonished that Lord Kṛṣṇa's so-called romantic affairs are in fact meant to liberate the entire universe. After all, that is the Lord's purpose—to bring all conditioned souls back home, back to Godhead, for an eternal life of bliss and knowledge. The Lord's conjugal affairs with the gopīs fit in very nicely with that program because we who are actually lusty in material consciousness can be purified and liberated by hearing of them.

In the First Canto of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam (1.5.33), Nārada Muni states, *āmayo yaś ca bhūtānām jāyate yena su-vrata tad eva hy āmayam dravyam

na punāti cikitsitam*

"O good soul, does not a thing applied therapeutically cure a disease that was caused by that very same thing?" Thus Kṛṣṇa's romantic affairs, being pure, spiritual activities, will cure those who hear about them of the disease of material lust.

TEXT 17

ता दृष्ट्वान्तिकमायाता
भगवान् ब्रजयोषितः
अवदद्वदतां श्रेष्ठो वाचः पेशैर्विमोहयन्

*tā dṛṣṭvāntikam āyātā bhagavān vraja-yoṣitaḥ avadad vadatām śreṣṭho
vācaḥ peśair vimohayan*

SYNONYMS

tāḥ—them; dṛṣṭvā—seeing; antikam—nearby; āyātāḥ—arrived; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; vraja-yoṣitaḥ—the girls of Vraja; avadat—He spoke; vadatām—of speakers; śreṣṭhaḥ—the best; vācaḥ—of language; peśaiḥ—with decorations; vimohayan—bewildering.

TRANSLATION

Seeing that the girls of Vraja had arrived, Lord Kṛṣṇa, the best of speakers, greeted them with charming words that bewildered their minds.

PURPORT

Having established the spiritual nature of the gopīs' love for Kṛṣṇa, Śukadeva Gosvāmī proceeds with his narration.

TEXT 18

श्रीभगवानुवाच
स्वागतं वो महाभागाः
प्रियं किं करवाणि वः
व्रजस्यानामयं कच्चिद् ब्रूतागमनकारणम्

śrī-bhagavān uvāca
svāgatam vo mahā-bhāgāḥ priyam kiṁ karavāṇi vaḥ vrajasyānāmayam kaccid brūtāgamana-kāraṇam

SYNONYMS

śrī-bhagavān uvāca—the Supreme Personality of Godhead said; su-āgatam—welcome; vaḥ—to you; mahā-bhāgāḥ—O most fortunate ladies; priyam—pleasing; kiṁ—what; karavāṇi—may I do; vaḥ—for you; vrajasya—of Vraja; anāmayam—the well-being; kaccit—whether; brūta—please tell;

āgamana—for your coming; kāraṇam—the reason.

TRANSLATION

Lord Kṛṣṇa said: O most fortunate ladies, welcome. What may I do to please you? Is everything well in Vraja? Please tell Me the reason for your coming here.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa knew perfectly well why the gopīs had come. In fact, He had called them with the romantic melodies of His flute. So Kṛṣṇa was simply teasing the gopīs by asking them, "Why have you come here so quickly? Is something wrong in town? Why have you come here, anyway? What do you want?"

The gopīs were Kṛṣṇa's young lovers, and therefore these questions certainly bewildered them, for they had responded to Kṛṣṇa's call with the simple mentality of enjoying conjugal love with Him.

TEXT 19

रजन्येषा घोररूपा
घोरसत्त्वनिषेविता
प्रतियात व्रजं नेह स्थेयं स्त्रीभिः सुमध्यमाः

rajany eṣā ghora-rūpā
ghora-sattva-niṣevitā pratiyāta vrajaṁ neha stheyam strībhiḥ su-madhyamāḥ

SYNONYMS

rajanī—night; eṣā—this; ghora-rūpā—fearsome in appearance; ghora-sattva—by fearsome creatures; niṣevitā—populated; pratiyāta—please return; vrajam—to the cowherd village of Vraja; na—not; iha—here; stheyam—should stay; strībhiḥ—women; su-madhyamāḥ—O slender-waisted girls.

TRANSLATION

This night is quite frightening, and frightening creatures are lurking about. Return to Vraja, slender-waisted girls. This is not a proper place for women.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura has written the following charming commentary on this verse:

"[The gopīs thought,] 'Alas, alas, even after shattering our family responsibilities, our sobriety and our shame and enjoying us day after day, and after now dragging us here by the sound of His flute, He is asking us why we have come!'

"As the gopīs cast sidelong glances at one another, the Lord said, 'If you try to tell Me that you have come to get night-blooming flowers to use in the worship of God, and that it is these flowers you are looking at with your sidelong glances, I will have to reject your excuse as unacceptable, since neither the time, place nor persons involved are appropriate.'

"This is the Lord's meaning in the verse beginning rajanī. He might have said, 'Even though there is abundant moonlight, this time of night is very fearsome because many snakes, scorpions and other dangerous creatures too small for you to see are lying beneath the creepers, roots and twigs. Therefore this time is unsuitable for gathering flowers. And not only the time but also this place is unsuitable for you to gather flowers, because at night terrible creatures such as tigers are abroad here. Therefore you should go back to Vraja.'

" 'But,' the gopīs may object, 'let us just rest for a few minutes, and then we will go.'

"Then the Lord might reply, 'Women shouldn't remain in this kind of place.' In other words, 'Because of the time and place, it is wrong for persons like yourselves to stay here even for a moment.'

"Furthermore, by the word su-madhyamāḥ, 'O slender-waisted ones,' the Lord implied, 'You are beautiful young girls, and I am a beautiful young boy. Because you are all very chaste and I am a brahmacārī, as confirmed by the words kṛṣṇo brahmacārī in the śruti [Gopāla-tāpanī Upaniṣad], there should be no fault in our being in the same place. Nonetheless, the mind can never be trusted-neither yours nor My own.'

"The Lord's inner eagerness thus hinted at is obvious if we read His words between the lines, as follows: 'If out of shyness you cannot tell Me the reason you've come, then don't speak. I already know it anyway, so just listen as I tell it to you.' Thus the Lord speaks the words beginning rajanī . "

The following statement by Kṛṣṇa is based on an alternative meaning of the verse derived when the Sanskrit words are separated in a different way. The alternative separation, according to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī, would be rajanī eṣā aghora-rūpā aghora-sattva-niṣevitā/ pratiyāta vrajaṁ na iha stheyam sribhiḥ su-madhyamāḥ. Through Śrīla Viśvanātha's commentary Kṛṣṇa now explains the meaning of this division of words.

" 'The pervasive moonshine has made this night appear not at all fearsome, and therefore this forest is populated by harmless creatures such as deer (aghora-sattvaiḥ), or else by animals such as tigers that are harmless because of Vṛndāvana's naturally nonviolent atmosphere. Consequently this night should not frighten you.' Or else Kṛṣṇa may have meant, 'You should not be afraid of your own husbands and other relatives because, the night being populated by fearsome animals, they will not come near this place. Therefore please do not go back to Vraja [na pratiyāta], but stay here in My company [iha stheyam].'

"The gopīs may ask the Lord, 'How are You staying here?'

"The Lord answers, 'With women.'

"But are You satisfied to keep just any women in Your company?'

"The Lord replies to this with the word su-madhyamāḥ, meaning, 'Only women who are young and beautiful, who have slender waists—namely yourselves—should stay here with Me, and not others.' Thus we can appreciate that Kṛṣṇa's statements are full of considerate as well as neglectful sentiments."

Kṛṣṇa's words are certainly brilliant, because according to the rules of Sanskrit grammar they may be understood in either of two opposite ways. In the first case, as translated above, Lord Kṛṣṇa continues to tease the gopīs by telling them the night is dangerous and inauspicious and that they should go home. But Kṛṣṇa is simultaneously saying exactly the opposite—namely, that there is absolutely no reason for the gopīs to fear coming to the Lord, that the night is quite auspicious and that the girls should under no circumstances go back home. Thus Lord Kṛṣṇa simultaneously teases and enchants the gopīs with His words.

TEXT 20

मातरः पितरः पुत्रा
भ्रातरः पतयश्च वः
विचिन्वन्ति ह्यपश्यन्तो मा कृद्धं बन्धुसाध्वसम्

mātarāḥ pitarāḥ putrā bhrātarāḥ patayaś ca vaḥ vicinvanti hy apaśyanto

mā kṛdhvam bandhu-sādhvasam

SYNONYMS

*mātarah—*mothers; *pitarah—*fathers; *putrāḥ—*sons; *bhrātarah—*brothers; *patayah—*husbands; *ca—*and; *vah—*your; *vincinvanti—*are searching; *hi—*certainly; *apaśyantaḥ—*not seeing; *mā kṛdhvam—*do not create; *bandhu—*for your family members; *sādhvasam—*anxiety.

TRANSLATION

Not finding you at home, your mothers, fathers, sons, brothers and husbands are certainly searching for you. Don't cause anxiety for your family members.

TEXTS 21-22

दृष्टं वनं कुसुमितं
राकेशकररञ्जितम्
यमुनानिललीलैजत्
तरुपल्लवशोभितम्

तद्यात मा चिरं गोष्ठं
शुश्रूषध्वं पतीन् सतीः
क्रन्दन्ति वत्सा बालाश्च तान् पाययत दुह्यत

dr̥ṣṭam vanaṁ kusumitam
rākeśa-kara-rañjitam yamunānila-lilaijat

taru-pallava-śobhitam tad yāta mā ciraṁ goṣṭham śuśrūṣadhvam patīn satīḥ krandanti vatsā bālāś ca
tān pāyayata duhyata

SYNONYMS

dṛṣṭam—seen; vanam—the forest; kusumitam—full of flowers; rākā-īśa—of the moon, the lord of the presiding goddess of the full-moon day; kara—by the hand; rañjitam—made resplendent; yamunā—coming from the Yamunā River; anila—by the wind; līlā—playfully; ejat—trembling; taru—of the trees; pallava—with the leaves; śobhitam—beautified; tat—therefore; yāta—go back; mā ciraṁ—without delay; goṣṭham—to the cowherd village; śuśrūṣadhvam—you must serve; patīn—your husbands; satīḥ—O chaste women; krandanti—are crying; vatsāḥ—the calves; bālāḥ—the children; ca—and; tān—them; pāyayata—breast-feed; duhyata—feed with cow's milk.

TRANSLATION

Now you have seen this Vṛndāvana forest, full of flowers and resplendent with the light of the full moon. You have seen the beauty of the trees, with their leaves trembling in the gentle breeze coming from the Yamunā. So now go back to the cowherd village. Don't delay. O chaste ladies, serve your husbands and give milk to your crying babies and calves.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura further explains Text 22 as follows: "Lord Kṛṣṇa says, 'Therefore don't wait a long time before going, but go immediately.' The word satīḥ means that the gopīs are loyal to their husbands; therefore Kṛṣṇa indicates that the gopīs should serve their husbands so the latter can accomplish their religious duties, and that the gopīs should also be considered worshipable because of their chastity. All this Kṛṣṇa says to the gopīs who are married. And now to the unmarried girls He says, 'The calves are crying, so see to it that they get milk.' To the muni-cārī gopīs He says, 'Your babies are crying, so feed them milk.' "

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura further reveals the hidden meaning of these two verses as follows: "In Text 21 Kṛṣṇa might have said, 'This Vṛndāvana is the very best of places, and moreover this is a full-moon night. Furthermore, we have the Yamunā on all sides, and there are cool, gentle, fragrant breezes blowing. These are all transcendental opulences that stimulate loving exchanges, and since I am also here as the foremost ecstatic opulence—the object of love—let us now test how much expertise you can show in relishing rasas.'

"In Text 22 He means to say, 'Thus for a long time, for the entire duration of this night, don't leave, but rather stay here and enjoy with Me. Don't go serve your husbands and the gentle women—your mothers-in-law and so forth. It would not be fitting for you to waste such beauty and youth, which are gifts of the creator. Nor should you milk the cows or give milk to the calves and babies. What do you, who are so full of ecstatic attraction for Me, have to do with these affairs?' "

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura also explains that the gopīs could not really be sure exactly what Kṛṣṇa was doing—whether He was merely joking, inviting them to stay or instructing them to return home. Thus as Śrī Kṛṣṇa spoke about the beauty of the forest, the gopīs felt embarrassed and bewildered and looked upward at the trees, and as He spoke about the Yamunā they looked all around at the river. Their absolute purity and simplicity, along with their absolute devotion to Lord Kṛṣṇa in the conjugal mood, created the most beautiful pastimes ever exhibited in this universe.

TEXT 23

अथ वा मदभिस्नेहाद्
भवत्यो यन्त्रिताशयाः
आगता ह्युपपन्नं वः प्रीयन्ते मयि जन्तवः

*atha vā mad-abhisnehād bhavatyo yantritāśayāḥ āgatā hy upapannam vaḥ
prīyante mayi jantavaḥ*

SYNONYMS

atha vā—or else; mat-abhisnehāt—because of love for Me; bhavatyah—you; yantrita—subjugated; aśayāḥ—your hearts; āgatāḥ—have come; hi—indeed; upapannam—fitting; vaḥ—on your part; prīyante—have affection; mayi—for Me; jantavaḥ—all living beings.

TRANSLATION

On the other hand, perhaps you have come here out of your great love for Me, which has taken control of your hearts. This is of course quite commendable on your part, since all living entities possess natural affection for Me.

TEXT 24

भर्तुः शुश्रूषणं स्त्रीणां
परो धर्मो ह्यमायया
तद्वन्धूनां च कल्याणः

प्रजानां चानुपोषणम्

bhartuḥ śuśrūṣaṇam strīṇām para dharmo hy amāyayā tad-bandhūnām ca kalyāṇaḥ prajānām cānupoṣaṇam

SYNONYMS

bhartuḥ—of one's husband; śuśrūṣaṇam—faithful service; strīṇām—for women; paraḥ—the highest; dharmah—religious duty; hi—indeed; amāyayā—without duplicity; tad-bandhūnām—to the relatives of their husbands; ca—and; kalyāṇaḥ—doing good; prajānām—of their offspring; ca—and; anuṣoṣaṇam—the care.

TRANSLATION

The highest religious duty for a woman is to sincerely serve her husband, behave well toward her husband's family and take good care of her children.

PURPORT

Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī astutely points out here that the gopīs real, eternal husband is Lord Kṛṣṇa, not their so-called husbands at home, who falsely considered the gopīs their property. Thus a strict interpretation of the word amāyayā, "without illusion," reveals that the supreme religious duty for the gopīs is to serve Śrī Kṛṣṇa, their real lover.

TEXT 25

दुःशीलो दुर्भगो वृद्धो

जडो रोग्यधनोऽपि वा
पतिः स्त्रीभिर्न हातव्यो लोकेप्सुभिरपातकी

*duḥśīlo durbhago vṛddho
jaḍo rogy adhano 'pi vā patiḥ strībhir na hātavyo lokepsubhir apātakī*

SYNONYMS

duḥśīlaḥ—of bad character; durbhagaḥ—unfortunate; vṛddhaḥ—old; jaḍaḥ—retarded; rogi—sickly; adhaṇaḥ—poor; api vā—even; patiḥ—the husband; strībhiḥ—by women; na hātavyaḥ—should not be rejected; loka—a good destination in the next life; īpsubhiḥ—who desire; apātakī—(if he is) not fallen.

TRANSLATION

Women who desire a good destination in the next life should never abandon a husband who has not fallen from his religious standards, even if he is obnoxious, unfortunate, old, unintelligent, sickly or poor.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī quotes a similar statement from smṛti-śāstra: patim tv apatitaṁ bhajet. "One should serve a master who is not fallen." Sometimes the foolish argument is given that even if a husband falls down from spiritual principles, his wife should continue to follow him since he is her "guru." In fact, since Kṛṣṇa consciousness cannot be subordinated to any other religious principle, a guru who engages his follower in materialistic, sinful activities loses his status as a guru. Śrīla Prabhupāda stated that the system of monarchy collapsed in Europe because the monarchs abused and exploited their position. Similarly, in the Western world men have abused and exploited women, and now there is a popular movement in which women reject the authority of their husbands. Ideally, men should be staunch in spiritual life and give pure, sincere guidance to the women under their care.

The gopīs, of course, being on the highest platform of spiritual perfection, were transcendental to all positive and negative religious considerations. In other words, they were the eternal lovers of the Absolute Truth.

TEXT 26

अस्वर्ग्यमयशस्यं च
फलु कृच्छ्रं भयावहम्
जुगुप्सितं च सर्वत्र ह्यौपपत्यं कुलस्त्रियः

asvargyam ayaśasyam ca
phalgu kṛcchram bhayāvaham jugupsitam ca sarvatra
hy aupapatyam kula-striyaḥ

SYNONYMS

asvargyam—not leading to heaven; ayaśasyam—unfavorable for a good reputation; ca—and; phalgu—insignificant; kṛcchram—difficult; bhaya-āvaham—creating fear; jugupsitam—contemptible; ca—and; sarvatra—in all cases; hi—indeed; aupapatyam—adulterous affairs; kula-striyaḥ—for a woman coming from a respectable family.

TRANSLATION

For a woman from a respectable family, petty adulterous affairs are always condemned. They bar her from heaven, ruin her reputation and bring her difficulty and fear.

TEXT 27

श्रवणाद्दर्शनाद्ध्यानान्
मयि भावोऽनुकीर्तनात्
न तथा सन्निकर्षेण
प्रतियात ततो गृहान्

*śravaṇād darśanād dhyānān
mayi bhāvo 'nukīrtanāt
na tathā sannikarṣeṇa
pratiyāta tato gṛhān*

SYNONYMS

śravaṇāt—by hearing (My glories); darśanāt—by viewing (My Deity form in the temple); dhyānāt—by meditation; mayi—for Me; bhāvaḥ—love; anukīrtanāt—by subsequent chanting; na—not; tathā—in the same way; sannikarṣeṇa—by physical proximity; pratiyāta—please return; tataḥ—therefore; gṛhān—to your homes.

TRANSLATION

Transcendental love for Me arises by the devotional processes of hearing about Me, seeing My Deity form, meditating on Me and faithfully chanting My glories. The same result is not achieved by mere physical proximity. So please go back to your homes.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa is certainly presenting formidable arguments.

TEXT 28

श्रीशुक उवाच
इति विप्रियमाकर्ण्य
गोप्यो गोविन्दभाषितम्
विषण्णा भग्नसङ्कल्पाश्च चिन्तामापुर्दुरत्ययाम्

śrī-śuka uvāca
iti vipriyam ākarṇya
gopyo govinda-bhāṣitam viṣaṇṇā bhagna-saṅkalpāś cintām āpur duratyayām

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; iti—thus; vipriyam—unpleasant; ākarṇya—hearing; gopyaḥ—the gopīs; govinda-bhāṣitam—the words spoken by Govinda; viṣaṇṇāḥ—becoming morose; bhagna—thwarted; saṅkalpāḥ—their strong desires; cintām—anxiety; āpuḥ—they experienced; duratyayām—insurmountable.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Hearing these unpleasant words spoken by Govinda, the gopīs became morose. Their great hopes were frustrated and they felt insurmountable anxiety.

PURPORT

The gopīs did not know what to do. They considered falling at Kṛṣṇa's feet and crying for His mercy, or perhaps remaining aloof and going back to their homes. But they could do neither of these things and so felt great anxiety.

TEXT 29

कृत्वा मुखान्यव शुचः श्वसनेन शुष्यद्
बिम्बाधराणि चरणेन भुवः लिखन्त्यः
अस्रैरुपात्तमसिभिः कुचकुङ्कुमानि तस्थुर्मृजन्त्य उरुदुःखभराः स्म तूष्णीम्

kṛtvā mukhāny ava śucaḥ śvasanena śuṣyat bimbādharaṇi caraṇena bhuvah likhantyaḥ asrair upātta-masibhiḥ kuca-kuṅkumāni tasthur mṛjantya uru-duḥkha-bharāḥ sma tūṣṇīm

SYNONYMS

kṛtvā—placing; mukhāni—their faces; ava—downward; śucaḥ—out of sorrow; śvasanena—by sighing; śuṣyat—drying up; bimba—(appearing like) red bimba fruits; adharāṇi—their lips; caraṇena—with their toes; bhuvah—the ground; likhantyaḥ—scratching; asraiḥ—with their tears; upātta—which carried; masibhiḥ—the kajjala from their eyes; kuca—on the breasts; kuṅkumāni—the vermilion powder; tasthuḥ—they stood still; mṛjantyaḥ—washing away; uru—excessive; duḥkha—of unhappiness; bharāḥ—feeling the burden;

sma—indeed; tūṣṇīm—silently.

TRANSLATION

Their heads hanging down and their heavy, sorrowful breathing drying up their reddened lips, the gopīs scratched the ground with their toes. Tears flowed from their eyes, carrying their kajjala and washing away the vermilion smeared on their breasts. Thus they stood, silently bearing the burden of their unhappiness.

PURPORT

The gopīs felt, "If Kṛṣṇa has not been conquered by our love, then our love must not be genuine. And if we cannot properly love Kṛṣṇa, what is the use of our lives?" Their reddish lips were drying up because of the hot breathing that arose from their unhappiness. When the hot sun dries ripe red bimba fruits, dark spots appear on them and they grow soft. The beautiful lips of the gopīs similarly changed in appearance. They stood silently before Kṛṣṇa, unable to speak.

TEXT 30

प्रेष्ठं प्रियेतरमिव प्रतिभाषमाणं
कृष्णं तदर्थविनिवर्तितसर्वकामाः
नेत्रे विमृज्य रुदितोपहते स्म किञ्चित् संरम्भगद्गदगिरोऽब्रुवतानुरक्ताः preṣṭhaṁ priyetaram iva pratibhāṣamāṇaṁ kṛṣṇaṁ tad-artha-vinivartita-sarva-kāmāḥ netre vimṛjya ruditopahate sma kiñcit

saṁrambha-gadgada-giro 'bruvatānuraktāḥ

SYNONYMS

preṣṭham—their beloved; priya-itaram—just the opposite of a beloved; iva—as if; pratibhāṣamāṇam—addressing them; kṛṣṇam—Lord Kṛṣṇa; tat-artha—for His sake; vinivartita—desisted from; sarva—all; kāmāḥ—their material desires; netre—their eyes; vimṛjya—wiping; rudita—their crying; upahate—having stopped; sma—then; kiñcit—something; saṁrambha—with agitation; gadgada—choking up; giraḥ—their voices; abruvata—they spoke; anuraktāḥ—firmly attached.

TRANSLATION

Although Kṛṣṇa was their beloved, and although they had abandoned all other objects of desire for His sake, He had been speaking to them unfavorably. Nonetheless, they remained unflinching in their attachment to Him. Stopping their crying, they wiped their eyes and began to speak, their voices stammering with agitation.

PURPORT

The gopīs now replied to Śrī Kṛṣṇa, their voices choking up with anger caused by their intense love for Him and their unwillingness to give Him up. They would not allow Him to reject them.

TEXT 31

श्रीगोप्य ऊचुः
मैवं विभोऽर्हति भवान् गदितुं नृशंसं
सन्त्यज्य सर्वविषयांस्तव पादमूलम्

भक्ता भजस्व दुरवग्रह मा त्यजास्मान् देवो यथादिपुरुषो भजते मुमुक्षून्

śrī-gopya ūcuḥ
maivam vibho 'rhati bhavān gaditum nṛ-śaṁsam santyajya sarva-viṣayāṁs tava pāda-mūlam bhaktā bhajasva duravagraha mā tyajāsmān devo yathādi-puruṣo bhajate mumukṣūn

SYNONYMS

śrī-gopyaḥ ūcuḥ—the beautiful gopīs said; mā—not; evam—in this way; vibho—O all-powerful one; arhati—should; bhavān—Your good self; gaditum—speak; nṛ-śaṁsam—cruelly; santyajya—renouncing completely; sarva—all; viṣayān—varieties of sense gratification; tava—Your; pāda-mūlam—feet; bhaktāḥ—worshiping; bhajasva—please reciprocate with; duravagraha—O stubborn one; mā tyaja—do not reject; asmān—us; devāḥ—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; yathā—just as; ādi-puruṣaḥ—the primeval Lord, Nārāyaṇa; bhajate—reciprocates; mumukṣūn—with those who desire liberation.

TRANSLATION

The beautiful gopīs said: O all-powerful one, You should not speak in this cruel way. Do not reject us, who have renounced all material enjoyment to render devotional service to Your lotus feet. Reciprocate with us, O stubborn one, just as the primeval Lord, Śrī Nārāyaṇa, reciprocates with His devotees in their endeavors for liberation.

TEXT 32

यत्पत्यपत्यसुहृदामनुवृत्तिरङ्ग
स्त्रीणां स्वधर्म इति धर्मविदा त्वयोक्तम्
अस्त्वेवमेतदुपदेशपदे त्वयीशे प्रेष्ठो भवांस्तनुभृतां किल बन्धुरात्मा yat paty-apatya-suhṛdām anuvṛttir aṅga strīṇām sva-dharma iti dharma-vidā tvayoktam astv evam etad upadeśa-pade tvayīśe preṣṭho bhavāṁs tanu-bhṛtām kila bandhur ātmā

SYNONYMS

yat—which; pati—of husbands; apatya—children; suhṛdām—and well-wishing relatives and friends; anuvṛttiḥ—the following; aṅga—our dear Kṛṣṇa; strīṇām—of women; sva-dharmaḥ—the proper religious duty; iti—thus; dharma-vidā—by the knower of religion; tvayā—You; uktam—spoken; astu—let it be; evam—like that; etat—this; upadeśa—of this instruction; pade—to the real object; tvayi—You; īśe—O Lord; preṣṭhaḥ—the dearmost; bhavān—You; tanu-bhṛtām—for all embodied living beings; kila—certainly; bandhuḥ—the close relative; ātmā—the very Self.

TRANSLATION

Our dear Kṛṣṇa, as an expert in religion You have advised us that the proper religious duty for women is to faithfully serve their husbands, children and other relatives. We agree that this principle is valid, but actually this service should be rendered to You. After all, O Lord, You are the dearmost friend of all embodied souls. You are their most intimate relative and indeed their very Self.

PURPORT

Śrī Kṛṣṇa is the Soul of all souls, their dearmost friend and well-wisher. As stated in the Eleventh Canto of the Bhāgavatam (11.5.41):

devarṣi-bhūtāpta-nṛṇām pitṛṇām na kiṅkaro nāyam ṛṇi ca rājan sarvātmanā yaḥ śaraṇam śaraṇyam gato mukundaṁ parihṛtya kartam

"O King, one who has given up all material duties and has taken full shelter of the lotus feet of Mukunda, who offers shelter to all, is not indebted to the demigods, great sages, ordinary living beings, relatives, friends, mankind or even one's forefathers who have passed away. Since all such classes of living entities are part and parcel of the Supreme Lord, one who has surrendered to the Lord's service has no need to serve such persons separately." Authority descends from the author of all existence, the Supreme Lord. Natural figures of authority such as husbands, mothers, government leaders and sages gain their power and authority from the Supreme Lord and should thus represent the Absolute Truth to those who follow them. If one wholeheartedly engages in loving service to the original, Supreme Truth, one need not indirectly serve the Absolute Truth through the above-mentioned secondary authorities.

Even a soul surrendered to God, however, continues to serve the spiritual master, who is a direct, not an indirect, representative of the Supreme Lord. A bona fide ācārya, or spiritual master, is the transparent medium leading the disciple to the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa. All indirect authorities become obsolete when one is directly in touch with the Absolute Truth. The gopīs wanted to explain this basic point to Kṛṣṇa, and some of the bolder young girls among them attempted to defeat Śrī Kṛṣṇa with His own statements, as exemplified in this verse.

TEXT 33

कुर्वन्ति हि त्वयि रतिं कुशलाः स्व आत्मन
नित्यप्रिये पतिसुतादिभिरार्तिदैः किम्
तन्नः प्रसीद परमेश्वर मा स्म छिन्द्या आशां धृतां त्वयि चिरादरविन्दनेत्र kurvanti hi tvayi ratim kuśalāḥ sva ātman nitya-priye pati-sutādibhir ārti-daiḥ kim tan naḥ prasīda parameśvara mā sma chindyā āśāṁ dhṛtāṁ tvayi cirād aravinda-netra

SYNONYMS

kurvanti—they show; hi—indeed; tvayi—for You; ratim—attraction; kuśalāḥ—expert persons; sve—for their own; ātman—Self; nitya—eternally; priye—who is dear; pati—with our husbands; suta—children; ādibhiḥ—and other relations; ārti-daiḥ—who only give trouble; kim—what; tat—therefore; naḥ—to us; prasīda—be merciful; parama-īśvara—O supreme controller; mā sma chindyāḥ—please do not cut down; āśāṁ—our hopes; dhṛtāṁ—sustained; tvayi—for You; cirāt—for a long time; aravinda-netra—O lotus-eyed one.

TRANSLATION

Expert transcendentalists always direct their affection toward You because they recognize You as their true Self and eternal beloved. What use do we have for these husbands, children and relatives of ours, who simply give us trouble? Therefore, O supreme controller grant us Your mercy. O lotus-eyed one, please do not cut down our long-cherished hope to have Your association.

TEXT 34

चित्तं सुखेन भवतापहृतं गृहेषु
यन्निर्विशत्युत करावपि गृह्यकृत्ये पादौ पदं न चलतस्तव पादमूलाद् यामः कथं व्रजमथो करवाम किं वा cittam sukhena bhavatāpahṛtam gr̥heṣu yan nirviśaty uta karāv api gr̥hya-kṛtye pādaḥ padam na calatas tava pāda-mūlād yāmaḥ katham vrajam atho karavāma kiṁ vā

SYNONYMS

cittam—our minds; sukhena—easily; bhavatā—by You; apahṛtam—were stolen; gr̥heṣu—in our households; yat—which; nirviśati—were absorbed; uta—moreover; karau—our hands; api—as well; gr̥hya-kṛtye—in household work; pādaḥ—our feet; padam—one step; na calataḥ—are not moving; tava—Your; pāda-mūlāt—away from the feet; yāmaḥ—we shall go; katham—how; vrajam—back to Vraja; atha u—and then; karavāma—we shall do; kiṁ—what; vā—furthermore.

TRANSLATION

Until today our minds were absorbed in household affairs, but You easily stole both our minds and our hands away from our housework. Now our feet won't move one step from Your lotus feet. How can we go back to Vraja? What would we do there?

PURPORT

Śrī Kṛṣṇa had blown into His flute, and the intoxicating music that had come out of its holes had stolen the minds of the young gopī girls. Now they had come to see Kṛṣṇa to demand back their stolen property, but they could regain their minds only if Śrī Kṛṣṇa accepted them and engaged with them in conjugal affairs.

Śrī Kṛṣṇa might have replied, "But My dear gopīs, just go home for now. Let Me consider the situation for a day or two, and then I will give you back your minds." In reply to this possible argument, the gopīs state, "Our feet refuse to move even one step. So please give us back our minds and accept us, and then we will go."

TEXT 35

सिञ्चाङ्ग नस्त्वदधरामृतपूरकेण
हासावलोककलगीतजहृच्छयाग्निम्
नो चेद्वयं विरहजाग्न्युपयुक्तदेहा ध्यानेन याम पदयोः पदवीं सखे ते

siñcāṅga nas tvad-adharāmṛta-pūrakeṇa hāsāvaloka-kala-gīta-ja-hṛc-chayāgnim no ced vyaṁ virahajāgny-upayukta-dehā dhyānena yāma pa-dayoḥ pa-davīm sakhe te

SYNONYMS

siñca—please pour; aṅga—our dear Kṛṣṇa; naḥ—our; tvat—Your; adhara—of the lips; amṛta—of the nectar; pūrakeṇa—with the flood; hāsa—smiling; avaloka—by Your glances; kala—melodious; gīta—and the song (of Your flute); ja—generated; hṛt-śaya—situated within our hearts; agnim—the fire; na u cet—if not; vayam—we; viraha—from separation; ja—born; agni—within the fire; upayukta—placing; dehāḥ—our bodies; dhyānena—by meditation; yāma—we shall go; pa-dayoḥ—of the feet; pa-davīm—to the place; sakhe—O friend; te—Your.

TRANSLATION

Dear Kṛṣṇa, please pour the nectar of Your lips upon the fire within our hearts—a fire You ignited with Your smiling glances and the sweet song of Your flute. If You do not, we will consign our bodies to the fire of separation from You, O friend, and thus like yogīs attain to the abode of Your lotus feet by meditation.

TEXT 36

यर्ह्यम्बुजाक्ष तव पादतलं रमाया
दत्तक्षणं क्वचिदरण्यजनप्रियस्य
अस्प्राक्ष्म तत्प्रभृति नान्यसमक्षमञ्जः स्थातुंस्त्वयाभिरमिता बत पारयामः

yarhy ambujākṣa tava pāda-talaṁ ramāyā datta-kṣaṇaṁ kvacid araṇya-jana-priyasya asprākṣma tat-prabhṛti nānya-samakṣam añjaḥ sthātumś tvayābhiramitā bata pārayāmaḥ

SYNONYMS

yarhi—when; ambuja—like lotuses; akṣa—O You whose eyes; tava—Your; pāda—of the feet; talam—at the base; ramāyāḥ—for the goddess of fortune, Śrīmatī Lakṣmīdevī; datta—affording; kṣaṇam—a festival; kvacit—sometimes; araṇya—who dwell in the forest; jana—the people; priyasya—who hold dear; asprākṣma—we shall touch; tat-prabhṛti—from that moment forward; na—never; anya—of any other man; samakṣam—in the presence;

añjah—directly; sthātum—to stand; tvayā—by You; abhiramitāḥ—filled with joy; bata—certainly; pārayāmaḥ—will we be able.

TRANSLATION

O lotus-eyed one, the goddess of fortune considers it a festive occasion whenever she touches the soles of Your lotus feet. You are very dear to the residents of the forest, and therefore we will also touch those lotus feet. From that time on we will be unable even to stand in the presence of any other man, for we will have been fully satisfied by You.

TEXT 37

श्रीर्यत्पदाम्बुजरजश्चकमे तुलस्या
लब्ध्वापि वक्षसि पदं किल भृत्यजुष्टम्
यस्याः स्ववीक्षण उतान्यसुरप्रयाससु तद्वद्वयं च तव पादरजः प्रपन्नाः

śrīr yat padāmbuja-rajāś cakame tulasyā labdhvāpi vakṣasi padam kila bhṛtya-juṣṭam yasyāḥ sva-vīkṣaṇa utānya-sura-prayāśas tadvad vyaṁ ca tava pāda-rajah prapannāḥ

SYNONYMS

śrīḥ—the goddess of fortune, wife of Lord Nārāyaṇa; yat—as; pada-ambuja—of the lotus feet; rajah—the dust; cakame—desired; tulasyā—together with Tulasī-devī; labdhvā—having obtained; api—even; vakṣasi—upon His chest; padam—her position; kila—indeed; bhṛtya—by servants; juṣṭam—served; yasyāḥ—whose (Lakṣmī's); sva—upon themselves; vīkṣaṇe—for the sake of the glance; uta—on the other hand; anya—of the other; sura—demigods; prayāsaḥ—the endeavor; tadvat—in the same way; vayam—we; ca—also; tava—Your; pāda—of the feet; rajaḥ—the dust; prapannāḥ—have approached for shelter.

TRANSLATION

Goddess Lakṣmī, whose glance is sought after by the demigods with great endeavor, has achieved the unique position of always remaining on the chest of her Lord, Nārāyaṇa. Still, she desires the dust of His lotus feet, even though she has to share that dust with Tulasī-devī and indeed with the Lord's many other servants. Similarly, we have approached the dust of Your lotus feet for shelter.

PURPORT

The gopīs here point out that the dust of the Lord's feet is so ecstatic and enlivening that the goddess of fortune wants to abandon her unique position on His chest to share with many other devotees a position at His feet. Thus the gopīs urge Lord Kṛṣṇa not to be guilty of a double standard. Since the Lord gave the goddess of fortune a place on His chest and also allowed her to seek the dust of His lotus feet, Kṛṣṇa should certainly give the same opportunity to His most loving devotees, the gopīs. "After all" the gopīs plead, "seeking the dust of Your lotus feet is perfectly justified, and You should encourage us in this endeavor and not try to send us away."

TEXT 38

तन्नः प्रसीद वृजिनार्दन तेऽन्घ्रिमूलं
प्राप्ता विसृज्य वसतीस्त्वदुपासनाशाः
त्वत्सुन्दरस्मितनिरीक्षणतीव्रकाम

तप्तात्मनां पुरुषभूषण देहि दास्यम्

tan naḥ prasīda vṛjinārdana te 'nghri-mūlam prāptā visṛjya vasatīś tvad-upāsanāśāḥ tvat-sundara-smita-nirīkṣaṇa-tīvra-kāma taptātmanām puruṣa-bhūṣaṇa dehi dāsyam

SYNONYMS

tat—therefore; naḥ—to us; prasīda—please show Your mercy; vṛjina—of all distress; ardana—O vanquisher; te—Your; aṅghri-mūlam—feet; prāptāḥ—we have approached; visṛjya—renouncing; vasatīḥ—our homes; tvad-upāsanā—the worship of You; āśāḥ—hoping for; tvat—Your; sundara—beautiful; smita—smiling; nirīkṣaṇa—because of the glances; tīvra—intense; kāma—by the lust; tapta—burned; ātmanām—whose hearts; puruṣa—of all men; bhūṣaṇa—O ornament; dehi—please grant; dāsyam—servitude.

TRANSLATION

Therefore, O vanquisher of all distress, please show us mercy. To approach Your lotus feet we abandoned our families and homes, and we have no desire other than to serve You. Our hearts are burning with intense desires generated by Your beautiful smiling glances. O jewel among men, please make us Your maidservants.

PURPORT

When Śrī Kṛṣṇa was born, the sage Garga predicted that He would manifest all the opulences of the Supreme Lord Nārāyaṇa. The gopīs now appeal to the Lord to fulfill this prediction by being merciful and granting them direct service, just as Lord Nārāyaṇa awards direct service to His loving devotees. The gopīs emphasize that they did not give up their families and homes with the hope of securing a higher pleasure from Kṛṣṇa. They are simply begging for service, revealing their pure-hearted devotion. The gopīs think, "If in the course of Your pursuing Your happiness we somehow or other become happy by seeing Your face, what is the harm in that?"

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī comments on the words puruṣa-bhūṣaṇa, "O jewel among men." The Ṭhākura states that the gopīs meant to say, "O jewel of all males, please decorate our golden bodies with the dark blue gems of Your limbs."

TEXT 39

वीक्ष्यालकावृतमुखं तव कुण्डलश्री
गण्डस्थलाधरसुधं हसितावलोकम्
दत्ताभयं च भुजदण्डयुगं विलोक्य वक्षः श्रियैकरमणं च भवाम दास्यः vīkṣyālakāvṛta-mukhaṁ tava kuṇḍala-śrī gaṇḍa-sthalādhara-sudhaṁ hasitāvalokam dattābhayaṁ ca bhuja-daṇḍa-yugaṁ vilokya vakṣaḥ śriyāika-ramaṇaṁ ca bhavāma dāsyah

SYNONYMS

vīkṣya—seeing; alaka—by Your hair; āvṛta—covered; mukham—face; tava—Your; kuṇḍala—of Your earrings; śrī—with the beauty; gaṇḍa-sthala—having the cheeks; adhara—of Your lips; sudham—and the nectar; hasita—smiling; avalokam—with glances; datta—bestowing; abhayaṁ—fearlessness; ca—and; bhuja-daṇḍa—of Your mighty arms; yugaṁ—the pair; vilokya—glancing upon; vakṣaḥ—Your chest; śrī—of the goddess of fortune; eka—the only; ramaṇam—source of pleasure; ca—and;

bhavāma—we must become; dāsyah—Your maidservants.

TRANSLATION

Seeing Your face encircled by curling locks of hair, Your cheeks beautified by earrings, Your lips full of nectar, and Your smiling glance, and also seeing Your two imposing arms, which take away our fear, and Your chest, which is the only source of pleasure for the goddess of fortune, we must become Your maidservants.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura envisions the gopīs' dealings with Kṛṣṇa as follows:

"Kṛṣṇa says, 'You want to become My servants; so do I have to buy you with some payment, or are you giving yourselves freely?'

The gopīs reply, " 'Since the beginning of our youthful womanhood You have been purchasing us with a payment millions and millions of times more than enough. That payment is Your gemlike smiling glance, which constitutes a great treasure we have never heard about or seen anywhere else.'

" 'When You put Your golden turban on Your head, Your maidservant will act as Your valet, pulling up the turban bit by bit until it is in just the right position. And even while You shake a chastising finger at her, trying hard to prohibit her, she will put her hand beneath Your turban and take the opportunity to glance at Your face. Thus we, Your maidservants, will relish with our eyes Your abundant sweetness.'

"Kṛṣṇa says, 'Your husbands will not tolerate this behavior of ours. They will complain bitterly to King Kāṁsa, thus producing a fearful situation for Me and for you as well.'

"The gopīs say, 'But Kṛṣṇa, Your two mighty arms make us fearless, just as they did when You held up Govardhana Hill to protect us from the pride of Mahendra. Those arms will certainly kill that beast Kāṁsa.'

" 'But being a religious person, I cannot make others' wives My maidservants. '

" 'O dear crest jewel of religious personalities, You may say that You refuse to make the cowherds' wives Your maidservants, but by force You have already taken Lakṣmī, the wife of Nārāyaṇa, from Vaiṣṇava and are carrying her around on Your chest. Out of shame she has assumed the form of a golden line on Your chest, and she takes her only pleasure there.

" 'Besides, within all the fourteen worlds and even above these worlds—in Vaiṣṇavaloka, beyond this universe—You never reject any beautiful woman, no matter who she is or whom she belongs to. We know this quite well.' "

TEXT 40

का स्त्र्यङ्ग ते कलपदायतवेणुगीत-सम्मोहितार्यचरितान्न चलेत्त्रिलोक्याम् त्रैलोक्यसौभगमिदं च निरीक्ष्य रूपं यद्गोद्विजद्रुममृगाः पुलकान्यबिभ्रन्

kā stry aṅga te kala-padāyata-veṇu-gītasammohitārya-caritān na calet tri-lokyām trailokya-saubhagam idaṁ ca nirīkṣya rūpaṁ yad go-dvija-druma-mṛgāḥ pulakāny abibhran

SYNONYMS

kā—which; strī—woman; aṅga—dear Kṛṣṇa; te—Your; kala—sweet-sounding; pada—having stanzas; āyata—drawn-out; veṇu—of Your flute; gīta—by the song; sammohitā—completely bewildered; ārya—of civilized people; caritāt—from the proper behavior; na calet—does not deviate;

tri-lokyām—within the three worlds; trai-lokya—of all the three worlds; saubhagam—the cause of auspiciousness; idam—this; ca—and; nirīkṣya—seeing; rūpam—the personal beauty; yat—because of which; go—the cows; dvija—birds; druma—trees; mṛgāḥ—and deer; pulakāni—bodily hair standing on end; abibhran—they bore.

TRANSLATION

Dear Kṛṣṇa, what woman in all the three worlds wouldn't deviate from religious behavior when bewildered by the sweet, drawn-out melody of Your flute? Your beauty makes all three worlds auspicious. Indeed, even the cows, birds, trees and deer manifest the ecstatic symptom of bodily hair standing on end when they see Your beautiful form.

TEXT 41

व्यक्तं भवान् व्रजभयार्तिहरोऽभिजातो
देवो यथादिपुरुषः सुरलोकगोप्ता
तन्नो निधेहि करपङ्कजमार्तबन्धो तप्तस्तनेषु च शिरःसु च किङ्करीणाम्

vyaktaṁ bhavān vraja-bhayārti-haro 'bhijāto devo yathādi-puruṣaḥ sura-loka-goṣṭhā tan no nidhehi kara-paṅkajam ārta-bandho tapta-staneṣu ca śiraḥsu ca kiṅkarīṇām

SYNONYMS

vyaktaṁ—obviously; bhavān—You; vraja—of the people of Vraja; bhaya—of the fear; ārti—and distress; haraḥ—as the remover; abhijātaḥ—have taken birth; devaḥ—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; yathā—just as; ādi-puruṣaḥ—the primeval Lord; sura-loka—of the planets of the demigods; goptā—the protector; tat—therefore; naḥ—of us; nidhehi—kindly place; kara—Your hand; paṅkajam—lotuslike; ārta—of the distressed; bandho—O friend; tapta—burning; staneṣu—on the breasts; ca—and; śiraḥsu—on the heads; ca—also; kiṅkarīṇām—of Your maidservants.

TRANSLATION

Clearly You have taken birth in this world to relieve the fear and distress of the people of Vraja, just as the Supreme Personality of Godhead, the primeval Lord, protects the domain of the demigods. Therefore, O friend of the distressed, kindly place Your lotus hand on Your maidservants' heads and burning breasts.

TEXT 42

श्रीशुक उवाच
इति विक्लवितं तासां
श्रुत्वा योगेश्वरेश्वरः
प्रहस्य सदयं गोपीर् आत्मारामोऽप्यरीरमत

śrī-śuka uvāca
iti viklavitaṁ tāsāṁ śrutvā yogeśvareśvaraḥ prahasya sa-dayaṁ gopīr ātmārāmo 'py arīramat

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; iti—in these words; viklavitam—the despondent expressions of; tāsām—of them; śrutvā—having heard; yoga-īśvara-īśvaraḥ—the Lord of all lords of mystic power; prahasya—laughing; sa-dayam—mercifully; gopīḥ—the gopīs; ātma ārāmaḥ—self-satisfied; api—even though; arīramat—He satisfied.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Smiling upon hearing these despondent words from the gopīs, Lord Kṛṣṇa, the supreme master of all masters of mystic yoga, mercifully enjoyed with them, although He is self-satisfied.

TEXT 43

ताभिः समेताभिरुदारचेष्टितः
प्रियेक्षणोत्फुल्लमुखीभिरच्युतः
उदारहासद्विजकुन्ददीधतिर व्यरोचतैणाङ्ग इवोडुभिर्वृतः

tābhiḥ sametābhir udāra-ceṣṭitaḥ priyekṣaṇotphulla-mukhībhir acyutaḥ udāra-hāsa-dvija-kunda-dīdhatir vyarocataiṇāṅka ivodubhir vṛtaḥ

SYNONYMS

tābhiḥ—with them; sametābhiḥ—who were all joined together; udāra—magnanimous; ceṣṭitaḥ—He whose activities; priya—affectionate;

īkṣaṇa—by His glances; utphulla—blossoming; mukhībhiḥ—whose faces; acyutaḥ—the infallible Lord; udāra—with broad; hāsa—smiles; dvija—of His teeth; kunda—(like) jasmine flowers; dīdhatiḥ—showing the effulgence; vyarocata—He appeared splendid; eṇa-aṅkaḥ—the moon, who bears marks resembling a black deer; iva—like; udubhiḥ—by stars; vṛtaḥ—surrounded.

TRANSLATION

Among the assembled gopīs, the infallible Lord Kṛṣṇa appeared just like the moon surrounded by stars. He whose activities are so magnanimous made their faces blossom with His affectionate glances, and His broad smiles revealed the effulgence of His jasmine-bud-like teeth.

PURPORT

The word acyuta here indicates that Lord Kṛṣṇa did not fail to give pleasure to each and every gopī in the nocturnal assembly.

TEXT 44

उपगीयमान उद्गायन्
वनिताशतयूथपः
मालां बिभ्रद्वैजयन्तीं व्यचरन्मण्डयन् वनम्

upagīyamāna udgāyan
vanitā-śata-yūthapaḥ
mālām bibhrad vaijayantīm vyacaran maṇḍayan vanam

SYNONYMS

upagīyamānaḥ—being sung about; udgāyan—singing loudly Himself; vanitā—of women; śata—hundreds; yūthapaḥ—the commander; mālām—the garland; bibhrat—wearing; vaijayantīm—known as Vaijayantī (which consists of flowers of five different colors); vyacaran—moving about; maṇḍayan—beautifying; vanam—the forest.

TRANSLATION

As the gopīs sang His praises, that leader of hundreds of women sang loudly in reply. He moved among them, wearing His Vaijayantī garland, beautifying the Vṛndāvana forest.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī, Lord Kṛṣṇa sang many wonderful melodies and meters, and the gopīs accompanied Him, following His lead. Kṛṣṇa's singing on this occasion is described in the Śrī Viṣṇu Purāṇa:

*kṛṣṇaḥ śarac-candramasaṁ kaumudīm kumudākaram jagau gopī-janas tv ekaṁ
kṛṣṇa-nāma punaḥ punaḥ*

"Kṛṣṇa sang the glories of the autumn moon, the moonshine and the lotus-filled river, while the gopīs simply sang His name repeatedly."

TEXTS 45-46

नद्याः पुलिनमाविश्य

गोपीभिर्हिमवालुकम्
जुष्टं तत्तरलानन्दि कुमुदामोदवायुना

बाहुप्रसारपरिरम्भकरालकोरु
नीवीस्तनालभननर्मनखाग्रपातैः क्ष्वेल्यावलोकहसितैर्ब्रजसुन्दरीणाम् उत्तम्भयन् रतिपतिं रमयां चकार

*nadyāḥ pulinam āviśya
gopībhir hima-vālukam juṣṭam tat-taralānandi kumudāmoda-vāyunā*

bāhu-prasāra-parirambha-karālakoru nīvī-stanālabhana-narma-nakhāgra-pātaiḥ kṣvelyāvaloka-hasitair vraja-sundarīṇām uttambhayan rati-patiṁ ramayām cakāra

SYNONYMS

nadyāḥ—of the river; pulinam—the bank; āviśya—entering upon;
gopībhiḥ—together with the gopīs; hima—cool; vālukam—by its sand;
juṣṭam—served; tat—of it; tarala—by the waves; ānandi—made joyful; kumuda—of the lotuses; āmoda—(carrying) the fragrance; vāyunā—by the wind; bāhu—of His arms; prasāra—with the throwing; parirambha—with embraces; kara—of their hands; alaka—hair; ūru—thighs; nīvī—belts;
stana—and breasts; ālabhana—with the touching; narma—in sport;
nakha—of fingernails; agra-pātaiḥ—with the striking; kṣvelyā—with playful conversation; avaloka—glancing; hasitaiḥ—and laughter;

vraja-sundarīṇām—for the beautiful young girls of Vraja; uttambhayan—inciting; rati-patim—Cupid; ramayām cakāra—He took pleasure.

TRANSLATION

Śrī Kṛṣṇa went with the gopés to the bank of the Yamunā, where the sand was cooling and the wind, enlivened by the river's waves, bore the fragrance of lotuses. There Kṛṣṇa threw His arms around the gopés and embraced them. He aroused Cupid in the beautiful young ladies of Vraja by touching their hands, hair, thighs, belts and breasts, by playfully scratching them with His fingernails, and also by joking with them, glancing at them and laughing with them. In this way the Lord enjoyed His pastimes.

TEXT 47

एवं भगवतः कृष्णाल्
लब्धमाना महात्मनः
आत्मानं मेनिरे स्त्रीणां मानिन्यो ह्यधिकं भुवि

*evam bhagavataḥ kṛṣṇāl labdha-mānā mahātmanah ātmānaṁ menire strīṇāṁ
māninyo hy adhikaṁ bhuvi*

SYNONYMS

evam—in this way; bhagavataḥ—from the Personality of Godhead; kṛṣṇāt—Lord Kṛṣṇa; labdha—receiving; mānāḥ—special respect;

mahā-ātmanaḥ—from the Supreme Soul; ātmānam—themselves; menire—they considered; strīṇām—among all women; māninyāḥ—becoming proud; hi—indeed; adhikam—the best; bhuvi—on the earth.

TRANSLATION

The gopīs became proud of themselves for having received such special attention from Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, and each of them thought herself the best woman on earth.

PURPORT

The gopīs were proud because they had attained as their lover the greatest of all personalities. So in a sense they were proud of Kṛṣṇa. Also, the pride of the gopīs was a pretense created by Kṛṣṇa's pastime potency in order to intensify their love for Him through separation. In this connection, Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī quotes Bharata Muni's Nāṭyaśāstra: na vinā vipralambhena sambhogaḥ puṣṭim aśnute. "Direct contact is not fully appreciated until separation has been experienced."

TEXT 48

तासां तत्सौभगमदं
वीक्ष्य मानं च केशवः
प्रशमाय प्रसादाय तत्रैवान्तरधीयत

tāsāṁ tat-saubhaga-madam
vīkṣya mānaṁ ca keśavaḥ praśamāya prasādāya

tatraivāntaradhīyata

SYNONYMS

tāsām—of them; tat—that; saubhaga—due to their good fortune; madam—intoxicated state; vīkṣya—observing; mānam—the false pride; ca—and; keśavaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; praśamāya—in order to diminish it; prasādāya—to show them favor; tatra eva—right there; antaradhīyata—He disappeared.

TRANSLATION

Lord Keśava, seeing the gopīs too proud of their good fortune, wanted to relieve them of this pride and show them further mercy. Thus He immediately disappeared.

PURPORT

The word prasādāya here is significant. Lord Kṛṣṇa was not going to neglect the gopīs; rather, He would increase the power of their loving affairs by making another spectacular arrangement. After all, the gopīs were basically proud of Kṛṣṇa. He also made this arrangement, as we shall see, to show special favor to the beautiful young daughter of King Vṛṣabhānu .

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A . C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Twenty-ninth Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "Kṛṣṇa and the Gopīs Meet for the Rāsa Dance."

30. The Gopīs Search for Kṛṣṇa

This chapter describes how the gopīs, tormented through the long night by separation from Kṛṣṇa, wandered like madwomen from forest to forest in search of Him.

When Śrī Kṛṣṇa suddenly disappeared from the arena of the rāsa dance, the gopīs, their minds fully absorbed in thoughts of Him, began looking for Him in the various forests. From all the moving and nonmoving creatures they asked for news of Kṛṣṇa's whereabouts. Finally they became so distraught that they began imitating His pastimes.

Later, while wandering in a corner of the forest, the gopīs saw Śrī Kṛṣṇa's footprints, which appeared mixed with Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī's. Seeing these footprints perturbed them greatly, and they declared that surely Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī must have worshiped Kṛṣṇa with unusual excellence, since She had been privileged to associate with Him in seclusion. Further along the path the gopīs came to a place where they could no longer see Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī's footprints; they then concluded that Kṛṣṇa must have taken Rādhārāṇī onto His shoulders. In another place they noticed that Kṛṣṇa's footprints were showing only the toes, and thus the gopīs concluded He had been picking flowers with which to decorate His beloved. In yet another spot the gopīs saw signs that led them to imagine that Śrī Kṛṣṇa had been tying the locks of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī's hair. All these thoughts brought pain to the gopīs' minds.

Because of the special attention She received from Kṛṣṇa, Śrī Rādhā began to consider Herself the most fortunate of women. She told Him that She could walk no further and that He would have to carry Her on His shoulders. But just then Lord Kṛṣṇa disappeared from Her sight. Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, extremely troubled, then began looking everywhere for Him, and when She finally met Her gopī girlfriends She related to them what had happened. All the gopīs then went out to look for Kṛṣṇa in the forest, going as far as the moonlight reached. But in the end they were unsuccessful, so they went back to the shore of the Yamunā and simply sang Kṛṣṇa's glories in utter helplessness.

TEXT 1

श्रीशुक उवाच
अन्तर्हिते भगवति
सहसैव ब्रजाङ्गनाः
अतप्यंस्तमचक्षाणाः करिण्य इव यूथपम्

śrī-śuka uvāca
antarhite bhagavati sahasaiva vrajāṅganāḥ
atapyams tam acakṣāṇāḥ
kariṇya iva yūthapam

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; antarhite—when He disappeared; bhagavati—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; sahasā eva—quite suddenly; vraja-aṅganāḥ—the young ladies of Vraja; atapyan—felt great remorse; tam—Him; acakṣāṇāḥ—not seeing; kariṇyaḥ—female elephants; iva—just as; yūthapam—their male leader.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: When Lord Kṛṣṇa disappeared so suddenly, the gopés felt great sorrow at losing sight of Him, like a group of female elephants who have lost their mate.

TEXT 2

गत्यानुरागस्मितविभ्रमेक्षितैर्
मनोरमालापविहारविभ्रमैः
आक्षिप्तचित्ताः प्रमदा रमापतेसु तास्ता विचेष्टा जगृहुस्तदात्मिकाः gatyānurāga-smita-vibhramekṣitair mano-ramālāpa-vihāra-vibhramaiḥ ākṣipta-cittāḥ pramadā ramā-pates tās tā viceṣṭā jagṛhus tad-ātmikāḥ

SYNONYMS

gatyā—by His movements; anurāga—affectionate; smita—smiles; vibhrama—playful; ikṣitaiḥ—and glances; manaḥ-rama—charming; ālāpa—by His talking; vihāra—playing; vibhramaiḥ—and other allurements; ākṣipta—overwhelmed; cittāḥ—whose hearts; pramadāḥ—the girls; ramā-pateḥ—of the husband of Ramā, the goddess of fortune, or of the master of beauty and opulence; tāḥ tāḥ—each of those; viceṣṭāḥ—wonderful activities; jagṛhuḥ—they enacted; tad-ātmikāḥ—absorbed in Him.

TRANSLATION

As the cowherd women remembered Lord Kṛṣṇa, their hearts were overwhelmed by His movements and loving smiles, His playful glances and enchanting talks, and by the many other pastimes He would enjoy with them. Thus absorbed in thoughts of Kṛṣṇa, the Lord of Ramā, the gopīs began acting out His various transcendental pastimes.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura describes the following charming exchange between Kṛṣṇa and the gopīs:

"Kṛṣṇa said to a gopī, 'My dear land lily, are you going to offer your honey to this very thirsty honeybee or not?'"

"The gopī replied, 'My dear bee, the husband of the lilies is the sun, not the bee, so why are You claiming that my honey belongs to You?'"

"But My dear lily, the very nature of you lilies is that you don't give your honey to your husband, the sun, but rather to your paramour, the bee.' The gopī, defeated by the words of Kṛṣṇa, laughed and then gave Him her lips as honey to drink."

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī also describes the following conversation:

"Kṛṣṇa said to a gopī, 'Ah, I can understand that as you approached this nīpa tree standing here, you were bitten by an audacious snake. Its venom has already reached your chest, but since you are a respectable maiden you haven't asked Me to cure you. Still I've come, being merciful by nature. Now, while I massage your body with My hands, I'll chant a mantra to counteract the serpent's poison.'

"The gopī said, 'But, my dear snake charmer, no snake has bitten me. Go massage the body of some girl who actually has suffered a snakebite.'

" 'Come now, My dear respectable girl, from your trembling voice I can tell that you are experiencing a feverish reaction to poisoning. Knowing this, if I don't take care of you I'll be guilty of killing an innocent woman. So let Me treat you.'

"With this, Kṛṣṇa applied His fingernails to the gopī's chest."

TEXT 3

गतिस्मितप्रेक्षणभाषणादिषु
प्रियाः प्रियस्य प्रतिरूढमूर्तयः
असावहं त्वित्यबलास्तदात्मिका न्यवेदिषुः कृष्णविहारविभ्रमाः

gati-smita-prekṣaṇa-bhāṣaṇādiṣu priyāḥ priyasya pratirūḍha-mūrtayaḥ asāv ahaṁ tv ity abalās tad-ātmikā nyavediṣuḥ kṛṣṇa-vihāra-vibhramāḥ

SYNONYMS

gati—in His movements; smita—smiling; prekṣaṇa—beholding; bhāṣaṇā—talking; ādiṣu—and so on; priyāḥ—the dear gopīs; priyasya—of their beloved; pratirūḍha—fully absorbed; mūrtayaḥ—their bodies; asau—He; aham—I; tu—actually; iti—speaking thus; abalāḥ—the women; tat-ātmikāḥ—identifying with Him; nyavediṣuḥ—they announced; kṛṣṇa-vihāra—caused by the pastimes of Kṛṣṇa; vibhramāḥ—whose intoxication.

TRANSLATION

Because the beloved gopīs were absorbed in thoughts of their beloved Kṛṣṇa, their bodies imitated His way of moving and smiling, His way of beholding them, His speech and His other distinctive features. Deeply immersed in thinking of Him and maddened by remembering His pastimes, they declared to one another, "I am Kṛṣṇa!"

PURPORT

Spontaneously, the gopīs began moving like Kṛṣṇa: they smiled as He would smile, glanced boldly as He would and spoke as He would. The gopīs were completely absorbed in the existence of Kṛṣṇa and mad with love at their sudden separation from Him, and thus their dedication to Him attained absolute perfection.

TEXT 4

गायन्त्य उच्चैरमुमेव संहता
विचिक्युरुन्मत्तकवद्वनाद्वनम्
पप्रच्छुराकाशवदन्तरं बहिर् भूतेषु सन्तं पुरुषं वनस्पतीन्

gāyantya uccair amum eva saṁhatā vicikyur unmattaka-vad vanād vanam pāpracchur ākāśa-vad antaraṁ bahir bhūteṣu santaṁ puruṣaṁ vanaspatīn

SYNONYMS

gāyantyaḥ—singing; uccaiḥ—loudly; amum—about Him; eva—indeed; saṁhatāḥ—together in a group; vicikyuḥ—they searched; unmattaka-vat—like madwomen; vanāt vanam—from one area of the forest to another; pāpracchuḥ—they inquired; ākāśa-vat—like the sky; antaraṁ—internally; bahiḥ—and externally; bhūteṣu—in all created beings; santaṁ—present;

puruṣam—the Supreme Person; vanaspatīn—from the trees.

TRANSLATION

Singing loudly of Kṛṣṇa, they searched for Him throughout the Vṛndāvana forest like a band of madwomen. They even asked the trees about Him, who as the Supersoul is present inside and outside of all created things, just like the sky.

PURPORT

Lost in the madness of love for Kṛṣṇa, the gopīs inquired about Him from even the trees in Vṛndāvana. Of course, there is no actual separation from Lord Kṛṣṇa, since He is the all-pervading Supersoul.

TEXT 5

दृष्टो वः कच्चिदश्वत्थ
प्लक्ष न्यग्रोध नो मनः
नन्दसूनुर्गतो हत्वा प्रेमहासावलोकनैः

dr̥ṣṭo vaḥ kaccid aśvattha plakṣa nyagrodha no manaḥ nanda-sūnur gato hṛtvā prema-hāsāvalokanaiḥ

SYNONYMS

dr̥ṣṭaḥ—has been seen; vaḥ—by you; kaccit—whether; aśvattha—O aśvattha (holy fig tree); plakṣa—O plakṣa (waved-leaf fig tree); nyagrodha—O nyagrodha(banyan tree); naḥ—our; manaḥ—minds; nanda—of Mahārāja Nanda; sūnuḥ—the son; gataḥ—has gone away; hṛtvā—after stealing; prema—loving; hāsa—with His smiles; avalokanaiḥ—and glances.

TRANSLATION

[The gopīs said:] O aśvattha tree, O plakṣa, O nyagrodha, have you seen Kṛṣṇa? That son of Nanda Mahārāja has gone away after stealing our minds with His loving smiles and glances.

TEXT 6

कच्चित्कुरबकाशोक-नागपुन्नागचम्पकाः
रामानुजो मानिनीनाम् इतो दर्पहरस्मितः

*kaccit kurabakāśoka-nāga-punnāga-campakāḥ rāmānujo māninīnām
ito darpa-hara-smitaḥ*

SYNONYMS

kaccit—whether; kurabaka-aśoka-nāga—punnāga-campakāḥ—O kurabaka (red amaranth), aśoka, nāga, punnāga and campaka trees; rāma—of Balarāma; anujaḥ—the younger brother; māninīnām—of women, who are proud by nature; itaḥ—passing by here; darpa—the pride; hara—removing; smitaḥ—whose smile.

TRANSLATION

O kurabaka tree, O açoka, O nāga, punnāga and campaka, has Balarāma's younger brother, whose smile removes the audacity of all proud women, passed this way?

PURPORT

As soon as the gopīs saw that a particular tree would not answer them, they impatiently left it and rushed off to another to make further inquiries.

TEXT 7

कच्चित्तुलसि कल्याणि
गोविन्दचरणप्रिये
सह त्वालिकुलैर्बिभ्रद् दृष्टस्तेऽतिप्रियोऽच्युतः

kaccit tulasi kalyāṇi govinda-carāṇa-priye saha tvāli-kulair bibhrad
dr̥ṣṭas te 'ti-priyo 'cyutaḥ

SYNONYMS

kaccit—whether; tulasi—O tulasī plant; kalyāṇi—O kind one; govinda—of Lord Kṛṣṇa; carāṇa—the feet; priye—you to whom are dear; saha—together with; tvā—you; ali—of bees; kulaiḥ—swarms; bibhrat—carrying; dr̥ṣṭaḥ—seen; te—by you; ati-priyaḥ—very dear; acyutaḥ—Lord Acyuta.

TRANSLATION

O most kind tulasē, to whom the feet of Govinda are so dear, have you seen that infallible one walk by, wearing you and encircled by swarms of bees?

PURPORT

The ācāryas explain here that the word caraṇa is a term of respect, as in the expression evam vadanty ācārya-caraṇāḥ. The bees humming around the garland worn by Śrī Govinda were attracted by the fragrance of the tulasī mañjarīs offered to Him. The gopīs felt that the trees had not replied because they were male, but that tulasī, being female, would sympathize with their plight.

TEXT 8

मालत्यदर्शि वः कच्चिन्
मल्लिके जातियूथिके
प्रीतिं वो जनयन् यातः करस्पर्शेन माधवः

mālaty adarśi vaḥ kaccin
mallike jāti-yūthike prītiṁ vo janayan yātaḥ
kara-sparśena mādhaveṇ

SYNONYMS

mālati—O mālatī plant (a kind of white jasmine); adarśi—has been seen; vaḥ—by you; kaccit—whether; mallike—O mallikā (a different kind of jasmine); jāti—O jāti (another kind of white jasmine); yūthike—O yūthikā (yet another jasmine); prītim—pleasure; vaḥ—for you; janayan—generating; yātaḥ—has gone by; kara—of His hand; sparsēna—by the touch; mādhavaḥ—Kṛṣṇa, the embodiment of the spring season.

TRANSLATION

O mālati, O mallikā, O jāti and yūthikā, has Mādhava gone by here, giving you pleasure with the touch of His hand?

PURPORT

When even tulasī herself did not answer the gopīs, they approached the fragrant jasmine flowers. The gopīs, seeing the jasmine vines humbly bowing down, assumed that these plants must have seen Lord Kṛṣṇa and were therefore showing humility in their ecstasy.

TEXT 9

चूतप्रियालपनसासनकोविदार
जम्ब्वर्कबिल्वबकुलाम्रकदम्बनीपाः
येऽन्ये परार्थभवका यमुनोपकूलाः शंसन्तु कृष्णपदवीं रहितात्मनां नः

cūta-priyāla-panasāsana-kovidāra jambv-arka-bilva-bakulāmra-kadamba-nīpāḥ ye 'nye parārtha-bhavakā yamunopakūlāḥ śaṁsantu kṛṣṇa-padavīm rahitātmanām naḥ

SYNONYMS

cūta—O mango creeper; priyāla—O priyāla tree (a kind of śāla tree); panasa—O jackfruit tree; āsana—O āsana tree (a yellow śāla); kovidāra—O kovidāra tree; jambu—O rose-apple tree; arka—O arka plant; bilva—O bel-fruit tree; bakula—O mimosa tree; āmra—O mango tree; kadamba—O kadamba tree; nīpāḥ—O nīpa (a smaller kind of kadamba); ye—who; anye—others; para—of others; artha—for the sake; bhava-kāḥ—whose existence; yamunā-upakūlāḥ—living near the bank of the river Yamunā; śaṁsantu—kindly tell; kṛṣṇa-padavīm—the path Kṛṣṇa has taken; rahita—who have been deprived; ātmanām—of our minds; naḥ—to us.

TRANSLATION

O cūta, O priyāla, O panasa, āsana and kovidāra, O jambu, O arka, O bilva, bakula and āmra, O kadamba and nēpa and all you other plants and trees living by the banks of the Yamunā who have dedicated your very existence to the welfare of others, we gopīs have lost our minds, so please tell us where Kṛṣṇa has gone.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī, the cūta is a mango creeper, whereas the āmra is a mango tree. He goes on to explain that the nīpa, though not a very prominent tree, bears large flowers, and that the gopīs' desperation to find Kṛṣṇa is clearly shown by the fact that they approached the insignificant arka plant.

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī gives the following information about Vṛndāvana's trees: "The nīpa is 'the dust kadamba,' and it has large flowers. The kadamba proper has smaller flowers and a very pleasant fragrance. The kovidāra is a particular kind of kañcanāra [mountain ebony tree]. Even though the arka plant is very insignificant, it always grows near Lord Gopīśvara [the Śiva deity in Vṛndāvana forest] because it is dear to him."

TEXT 10

किं ते कृतं क्षिति तपो बत केशवाङ्घ्रि- स्पर्शोत्सवोत्पुलकिताङ्गनहैर्विभासि अप्यङ्घ्रिसम्भव उरुक्रमविक्रमाद्वा आहो वराहवपुषः परिरम्भणेन

kim te kṛtaṁ kṣiti tapo bata keśavāṅghrisparśotsavotpulakitāṅga-nahair vibhāsi apy aṅghri-sambhava urukrama-vikramād vā āho varāha-vapuṣaḥ parirambhaṇena

SYNONYMS

kim—what; te—by you; kṛtaṁ—performed; kṣiti—O earth; tapah—austerity; bata—indeed; keśava—of Lord Kṛṣṇa; aṅghri—by the feet; sparśa—on account of being touched; utsava—due to the joyful experience; utpulakita—standing on end in jubilation; aṅga-ruhaiḥ—with your bodily hairs (the grass and growing plants on your surface); vibhāsi—you appear beautiful; api—perhaps; aṅghri—by the feet (of Kṛṣṇa present now on your surface); sambhavaḥ—generated; urukrama—of Lord Vāmanadeva, Lord Kṛṣṇa's dwarf incarnation, who covered the entire universe in three mighty steps; vikramāt—because of the stepping; vā—or; āha u—or else perhaps; varāha—of Lord Kṛṣṇa's incarnation as a boar; vapuṣaḥ—by the body; parirambhaṇena—because of the embrace.

TRANSLATION

O mother earth, what austerity did you perform to attain the touch of Lord Keśava's lotus feet, which has brought you such great joy that your bodily hairs are standing on end? You appear very beautiful in this condition. Was it during the Lord's current appearance that you acquired this ecstatic symptom, or was it perhaps much earlier, when He stepped upon you in His form of the dwarf Vāmanadeva, or even earlier, when He embraced you in His form of the boar Varāhadeva?

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī explains the thoughts of the gopīs as follows: "Perhaps the trees and plants [mentioned in the previous verses] did not hear our question because they were in trance, meditating on Lord Viṣṇu. Or perhaps, since they will not tell us where Kṛṣṇa has gone, they are hardhearted even though they live in a holy place. Anyway, what is the use of unnecessarily criticizing the residents of a holy place? We cannot tell if they really know where Kṛṣṇa has gone. So let us find someone who definitely knows where He is.' Thus the gopīs concluded that since Lord Kṛṣṇa had to be somewhere on the earth, the earth herself must know His whereabouts.

"Then the gopīs thought, 'Since Kṛṣṇa always walks on the earth, she is never separated from Him and thus cannot understand how much His parents, girlfriends and servants suffer in His absence. Let us ask her what austerities she has performed to gain the great fortune of being constantly touched by the feet of Lord Keśava.' "

TEXT 11

अप्येणपत्न्युपगतः प्रिययेह गात्रैस्
तन्वन्दृशां सखि सुनिर्वृतिमच्युतो वः
कान्ताङ्गसङ्गकुचकुङ्कुमरञ्जितायाः कुन्दस्रजः कुलपतेरिह वाति गन्धः

apy eṇa-patny upagataḥ priyayeha gātrais tanvan dṛśām sakhi su-nirvṛtim acyuto vaḥ kāntāṅga-saṅga-kuca-kuṅkuma-rañjitāyāḥ kunda-srajaḥ kula-pater iha vāti gandhaḥ

SYNONYMS

api—whether; eṇa—of the deer; patni—O wife; upagataḥ—has been encountered; priyayā—together with His beloved; iha—here; gātraiḥ—by His bodily limbs; tanvan—producing; dṛśām—of the eyes; sakhi—O friend; su-nirvṛtim—great pleasure; acyutaḥ—the infallible Lord Kṛṣṇa; vaḥ—your; kāntā—of His girlfriend; aṅga-saṅga—because of the physical contact; kuca—on the breast; kuṅkuma—by the vermilion powder; rañjitāyāḥ—colored; kunda—of jasmine flowers; srajaḥ—of the garland; kula—of the group (of gopīs); pateḥ—of the master; iha—around here; vāti—is blowing; gandhaḥ—the fragrance.

TRANSLATION

O friend, wife of the deer, has Lord Acyuta been here with His beloved, bringing great joy to your eyes? Indeed, blowing this way is the fragrance of His garland of kunda flowers, which was smeared with the kuṇkuma from the breasts of His girlfriend when He embraced Her.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī provides the following charming commentary on this verse:

"The gopīs spoke to a doe, 'O friend, wife of the deer, from the bliss in your clear eyes we can tell that Śrī Kṛṣṇa has expanded your joy with the beauty of His limbs, His face and so forth. You are eager to realize the ecstasy of seeing Kṛṣṇa, and thus your eyes are following Him. In fact, He is never lost to you.'

"Then the gopīs, seeing the doe continue to walk in her natural way, exclaimed, 'Oh, are you telling us that you have seen Kṛṣṇa? Look! As this deer walks she constantly turns her head back to us; as if to say, "I will show Him to you; just follow me and I will show you Kṛṣṇa." In this merciless Vṛndāvana, she is the only merciful person.'

"As the gopīs follow the doe they happen to lose sight of her, and they cry out, 'Oh, why can't we see the deer who is showing us the way to Kṛṣṇa?'

"One gopī suggests that Kṛṣṇa must be somewhere in the vicinity and that the deer, being afraid of Him, must have hidden herself to avoid the possible mistake of revealing His presence. Conjecturing in this way, the gopīs detect a fragrance that has by chance blown their way, and they repeatedly declare with great joy, 'Yes! Yes! This is it! By Kṛṣṇa's physical contact with His girlfriend, His jasmine garland was smeared with the kuṅkuma powder on Her breasts, and the fragrances of all these things are reaching us.' Thus the gopīs smelled the aroma of the two lovers' bodies, of Kṛṣṇa's jasmine garland, and of the cosmetic powder on the breasts of His lover."

TEXT 12

बाहुं प्रियांस उपधाय गृहीतपद्मो
रामानुजस्तुलसिकालिकुलैर्मदान्धैः अन्वीयमान इह वस्तरवः प्रणामं किं वाभिनन्दति चरन् प्रणयावलोकैः

bāhuṁ priyāṁsa upadhāya grhīta-padmo rāmānujas tulasikāli-kulair madāndhaiḥ anvīyamāna iha vas taravaḥ praṇāmaṁ kiṁ vābhinandati caran praṇayāvalokaiḥ

SYNONYMS

bāhum—His arm; priyā—of His beloved; aṁse—on the shoulder; upadhāya—placing; grhīta—holding; padmaḥ—a lotus; rāma-anujaḥ—Kṛṣṇa, the younger brother of Balarāma; tulasikā—swarming around the tulasī mañjarīs (which are ornamenting His garland); ali-kulaiḥ—by the many bees; mada—with intoxication; andhaiḥ—who are blind; anvīyamānaḥ—being followed; iha—here; vaḥ—your; taravaḥ—O trees; praṇāmam—the bowing down; kim vā—whether; abhinandati—has acknowledged; caran—while walking by; praṇaya—imbued with love; avalokaiḥ—with His glances.

TRANSLATION

O trees, we see that you are bowing down. When the younger brother of Rāma walked by here, followed by intoxicated bees swarming around the tulasī mañjarīs decorating His garland, did He acknowledge your obeisances with His affectionate glances? He must have been resting His arm on the shoulder of His beloved and carrying a lotus flower in His free hand.

PURPORT

The gopīs saw that the trees, bent over with abundant fruits and flowers, were offering obeisances to Lord Kṛṣṇa. The gopīs supposed Kṛṣṇa must have recently passed that way, since the trees were still bowing down. Because Śrī Kṛṣṇa had left the gopīs to go with His favorite consort, they were jealous and thus imagined that He had become fatigued from His loving affairs and was resting His left arm on the soft shoulder of His beloved. The gopīs further imagined that Kṛṣṇa must have been carrying a blue lotus in His right hand to drive away the bees eagerly trying to attack His beloved's face after smelling its aroma. The scene was so beautiful, the gopīs imagined, that the maddened bees had left the tulasī garden to follow the two lovers.

TEXT 13

पृच्छतेमा लता बाहून्
अप्याश्लिष्टा वनस्पतेः
नूनं तत्करजस्पृष्टा बिभ्रत्युत्पुलकान्यहो

*prcchatemā latā bāhūn
apy āśliṣṭā vanaspateḥ nūnam tat-karaja-sprṣṭā
bibhraty utpulkāny aho*

SYNONYMS

prcchata—just ask; imāḥ—from these; latāḥ—creepers; bāhūn—the arms (branches); api—even though; āśliṣṭāḥ—embracing; vanaspateḥ—of the tree; nūnam—certainly; tat—of Him, Kṛṣṇa; kara-ja—by the fingernails; sprṣṭāḥ—touched; bibhrati—they are bearing; utpulkāni—joyful eruptions on the skin; aho—just see.

TRANSLATION

Let us ask these creepers about Kṛṣṇa. Even though they are embracing the arms of their husband, this tree, they certainly must have been touched by Kṛṣṇa's fingernails, since out of joy they are manifesting eruptions on their skin.

PURPORT

The gopīs reasoned that the creepers would not show signs of rapture merely by physical contact with their husband, a tree. Thus the gopīs concluded that although the creepers were embracing the strong limbs of their husband, they must have been touched by Lord Kṛṣṇa as He moved through the forest.

TEXT 14

इत्युन्मत्तवचो गोप्यः
कृष्णान्वेषणकातराः
लीला भगवतस्तास्ता ह्यनुचक्रुस्तदात्मिकाः

*ity unmatta-vaco gopyaḥ kṛṣṇānveṣaṇa-kātarāḥ līlā bhagavatas tās tā
hy anucakrus tad-ātmikāḥ*

SYNONYMS

iti—thus; unmatta—maddened; vacaḥ—speaking words; gopyaḥ—the gopīs; kṛṣṇa-anveṣaṇa—by searching for Kṛṣṇa; kātarāḥ—distraught; līlāḥ—the transcendental pastimes; bhagavataḥ—of Him, the Supreme Personality of Godhead; tāḥ tāḥ—each of them; hi—indeed; anucakruḥ—they acted out; tat-ātmikāḥ—becoming absorbed in thought of Him.

TRANSLATION

Having spoken these words, the gopīs, distraught from searching for Kṛṣṇa, began to act out His various pastimes, fully absorbed in thoughts of Him.

TEXT 15

कस्याचित्पूतनायन्त्याः
कृष्णायन्त्यपिबत्स्तनम्
तोकयित्वा रुदत्यन्या पदाहन् शकटायतीम्

*kasyācit pūtanāyantyāḥ kṛṣṇāyanty apibat stanam tokayitvā rudaty anyā
padāhan śakaṭāyatīm*

SYNONYMS

kasyācit—of one of the gopīs; pūtanāyantyāḥ—who was acting like the witch Pūtanā; kṛṣṇāyantī—another, who was acting like Kṛṣṇa; apibat—drank; stanam—from the breast; tokayitvā—acting like an infant; rudatī—crying; anyā—another; padā—with her foot; ahan—struck; śakaṭā-yatīm—another, who was imitating a cart.

TRANSLATION

One gopī imitated Pūtanā, while another acted like infant Kṛṣṇa and pretended to suck her breast. Another gopī, crying in imitation of infant Kṛṣṇa, kicked a gopī who was taking the role of the cart demon, Śakaṭāsura.

TEXT 16

दैत्यायित्वा जहारान्याम्
एको कृष्णार्भभावनाम्

रिङ्गयामास काप्यङ्घ्री कर्षन्ती घोषनिःस्वनैः

*daityāyitvā jahārānyām
eko kṛṣṇārbha-bhāvanām riṅgayām āsa kāpy aṅghrī karṣantī ghoṣa-niḥsvanaiḥ*

SYNONYMS

daityāyitvā—imitating a demon (namely Tṛṇāvarta); jahāra—carried away; anyām—another gopī; ekā—one gopī; kṛṣṇa-arbha—of the infant Kṛṣṇa; bhāvanām—who was assuming the mood; riṅgayām āsa—crawled about; kā api—one of them; aṅghrī—her two feet; karṣantī—dragging; ghoṣa—of tinkling bells; niḥsvanaiḥ—with the sounding.

TRANSLATION

One gopī took the role of Tṛṇāvarta and carried away another, who was acting like infant Kṛṣṇa, while yet another gopī crawled about, her ankle bells tinkling as she pulled her feet.

PURPORT

The gopīs started imitating all of Śrī Kṛṣṇa's pastimes, beginning from His earliest activities as a baby.

TEXT 17

कृष्णरामायिते द्वे तु
गोपायन्त्यश्च काश्चन

वत्सायतीं हन्ति चान्या तत्रैका तु बकायतीम्

*kṛṣṇa-rāmāyite dve tu gopāyantyāś ca kāścana vatsāyatīm hanti cānyā
tatraikā tu bakāyatīm*

SYNONYMS

kṛṣṇa-rāmāyite—acting like Lord Kṛṣṇa and Lord Balarāma; dve—two gopīs; tu—and; gopāyantyāḥ—acting like Their cowherd boyfriends; ca—and; kāścana—some; vatsāyatīm—who was imitating the calf demon, Vatsāsura; hanti—killed; ca—and; anyā—another; tatra—there; ekā—one; tu—moreover; bakāyatīm—another, who was imitating the crane demon, Bakāsura.

TRANSLATION

Two gopés acted like Rāma and Kṛṣṇa in the midst of several others, who took the role of cowherd boys. One gopé enacted Kṛṣṇa's killing of the demon Vatsāsura, represented by another gopé, and a pair of gopés acted out the killing of Bakāsura.

TEXT 18

आहूय दूरगा यद्वत्
कृष्णस्तमनुवर्ततीम्
वेणुं क्णन्तीं क्रीडन्तीम्

अन्याः शंसन्ति साध्विति

āhūya dūra-gā yadvat kṛṣṇas tam anuvartatīm veṇum kvaṇantīm krīḍantīm anyāḥ śaṁsanti sādhu iti

SYNONYMS

āhūya—calling; dūra—who were far away; gāḥ—the cows; yadvat—just as; kṛṣṇaḥ—Kṛṣṇa; tam—him; anuvartatīm—one gopī who was imitating; veṇum—the flute; kvaṇantīm—vibrating; krīḍantīm—playing games; anyāḥ—the other gopīs; śaṁsanti—praised; sādhu iti—"excellent!"

TRANSLATION

When one gopī perfectly imitated how Kṛṣṇa would call the cows who had wandered far away, how He would play His flute and how He would engage in various sports, the others congratulated her with exclamations of "Well done! Well done!"

TEXT 19

कस्याञ्चित्स्वभुजं न्यस्य
चलन्त्याहापरा ननु
कृष्णोऽहं पश्यत गतिं ललितामिति तन्मनाः

kasyāñcit sva-bhujam nyasya calanty āhāparā nanu

kṛṣṇo 'haṁ paśyata gatim lalitām iti tan-manāḥ

SYNONYMS

kasyāñcit—of one of them; sva-bhujam—her arm; nyasya—placing (on the shoulder); calantī—walking about; āha—stated; aparā—another; nanu—indeed; kṛṣṇaḥ—Kṛṣṇa; aham—I am; paśyata—just see; gatim—my movements; lalitām—graceful; iti—with these words; tat—in Him; manāḥ—with her mind fully absorbed.

TRANSLATION

Another gopé, her mind fixed on Kṛṣṇa, walked about with her arm resting on the shoulder of a friend and declared, "I am Kṛṣṇa! Just see how gracefully I move!"

TEXT 20

मा भैष्ट वातवर्षाभ्यां
तत्त्राणं विहितं मय
इत्युक्त्वैकेन हस्तेन
यतन्त्युन्निदधेऽम्बरम्

*mā bhaiṣṭa vāta-varṣābhyām tat-trāṇam vihitam maya
ity uktvaikena hastena
yatanty unnidadhe 'mbaram*

SYNONYMS

mā bhaiṣṭa—don't any of you fear; vāta—the wind; varṣābhyām—and rain; tat—from that; trāṇam—your deliverance; vihitam—has been arranged; mayā—by me; iti—thus; uktvā—speaking; ekena—with one; hastena—hand; yatantī—endeavoring; unnidadhe—she lifted; ambaram—her upper garment.

TRANSLATION

"Don't be afraid of the wind and rain," said one gopī. "I will save you." And with that she lifted her shawl above her head.

PURPORT

Here a gopī enacts Lord Kṛṣṇa's pastime of lifting Govardhana Hill.

TEXT 21

आरुह्यैका पदाक्रम्य
शिरस्याहापरां नृप
दुष्टाहे गच्छ जातोऽहं खलानाम्नु दण्डकृत

āruhyaikā padākramya
śirasy āhāparām nṛpa duṣṭāhe gaccha jāto 'ham khalānām nanu daṇḍa-kṛt

SYNONYMS

āruhya—rising up; ekā—one of the gopīs; padā—with her foot; ākramya—climbing above; śirasi—the head; āha—said; aparām—to another; nṛpa—O King (Parīkṣit); duṣṭa—wicked; ahe—O snake; gaccha—go away;

jātaḥ—have taken birth; aham—I; khalānām—on those who are envious; nanu—indeed; daṇḍa—of punishment; kṛt—as the imposer.

TRANSLATION

[Śukadeva Gosvāmī continued:] O King, one gopī climbed on another's shoulders and, putting her foot on the other's head, said, "Go away from here, O wicked snake! You should know that I have taken birth in this world just to punish the envious."

PURPORT

Here the gopīs enact Kṛṣṇa's chastisement of Kāliya.

TEXT 22

तत्रैकोवाच हे गोपा
दावाग्निं पश्यतोल्बणम्
चक्षूंष्याश्चपिदध्वं वो विधास्ये क्षेममञ्जसा

tatraikovāca he gopā
dāvāgniṁ paśyatolbaṇam cakṣūṁṣy āśv apidadhvam vo vidhāsye kṣemam añjasā

SYNONYMS

tatra—there; ekā—one of them; uvāca—said; he gopāḥ—O cowherd boys; dāva-agnim—the forest fire; paśyata—see; ulbaṇam—fierce; cakṣūṁṣi—your eyes; āśu—quickly; apidadhvam—just close; vaḥ—your; vidhāsye—I will arrange; kṣemam—protection; añjasā—with ease.

TRANSLATION

Then another gopī spoke up: My dear cowherd boys, look at this raging forest fire! Quickly close your eyes and I will easily protect you.

TEXT 23

बद्धान्यया स्रजा काचित्
तन्वी तत्र उलूखले
बध्नामि भाण्डभेत्तारं
हैयङ्गवमुषं त्विति
भीता सुदृक्पिधायास्यं भेजे भीतिविडम्बनम्

baddhānyayā srajā kācit
tanvī tatra ulūkhale badhnāmi bhāṇḍa-bhettāraṁ haiyaṅgava-muṣaṁ tv iti bhītā su-dṛk pidhāyāsyāṁ
bheje bhīti-viḍambanam

SYNONYMS

baddhā—tied up; anyayā—by another gopī; srajā—with a flower garland; kācit—one gopī; tanvī—slender; tatra—there; ulūkhale—to the grinding mortar; badhnāmi—I am binding; bhāṇḍa—of the storage pots; bhettāram—the breaker; haiyam-gava—of the butter saved from the previous day's milk; muṣam—the stealer; tu—indeed; iti—thus speaking; bhītā—afraid;

su-dr̥k—with beautiful eyes; pidhāya—covering; āsyam—her face; bheje—assumed; bhīti—of fear; viḍambanam—the pretense.

TRANSLATION

One gopī tied up her slender companion with a flower garland and said, "Now I will bind this boy who has broken the butter pots and stolen the butter." The second gopī then covered her face and beautiful eyes, pretending to be afraid.

TEXT 24

एवं कृष्णं पृच्छमाना
वृन्दावनलतास्तरून्
व्यचक्षत वनोद्देशे पदानि परमात्मनः

evam kṛṣṇam pṛcchamānā
vr̥ndāvana-latās tarūn vyacakṣata vanoddeśe
padāni paramātmanaḥ

SYNONYMS

evam—in this manner; kṛṣṇam—about Kṛṣṇa; pṛcchamānāḥ—inquiring; vr̥ndāvana—of the Vṛndāvana forest; latāḥ—from the creepers; tarūn—and the trees; vyacakṣata—they saw; vana—of the forest; uddeśe—in one spot; padāni—the footprints; parama-ātmanaḥ—of the Supersoul .

TRANSLATION

While the gopés were thus imitating Kṛṣṇa's pastimes and asking Vṛndāvana's creepers and trees where Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Soul, might be, they happened to see His footprints in a corner of the forest.

TEXT 25

पदानि व्यक्तमेतानि
नन्दसूनोर्महात्मनः
लक्ष्यन्ते हि ध्वजाम्भोज-वज्राङ्कुशयवादिभिः

*padāni vyaktam etāni
nanda-sūnor mahātmanaḥ lakṣyante hi dhvajāmbhojavajrāṅkuśa-yavādibhiḥ*

SYNONYMS

padāni—the footprints; vyaktam—clearly; etāni—these; nanda-sūnoḥ—of the son of Nanda Mahārāja; mahā-ātmanaḥ—the great soul; lakṣyante—are ascertained; hi—indeed; dhvaja—by the flag; ambhoja—lotus; vajra—thunderbolt; aṅkuśa—elephant goad; yava-ādibhiḥ—barleycorn, etc.

TRANSLATION

[The gopīs said:] The marks of a flag, lotus, thunderbolt, elephant goad, barleycorn and so forth on these footprints clearly distinguish them as belonging to that great soul, the son of Nanda Mahārāja.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura, in his commentary on this verse, gives the following scriptural information about the symbolic markings on the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa:

"In the following verses the Skanda Purāṇa states the particular places on His feet where Kṛṣṇa carries the mark of the flag and also other marks, and the reasons for these marks:

dakṣiṇasya padāṅguṣṭhamūle cakram bibharti ajaḥ tatra bhakta-janasyāri-ṣaḍ-varga-cchedanāya saḥ

'At the base of the large toe on His right foot, the unborn Lord carries the mark of a disc, which cuts down the six [mental] enemies of His devotees.'

madhyamāṅguli-mūle ca dhatte kamalam acyutaḥ dhyātr-citta-dvirephāṇām lobhanāyāti-śobhanām

'At the bottom of the middle toe of that same foot Lord Acyuta has a lotus flower, which increases the greed for Him in the minds of the beelike devotees who meditate on His feet.'

kaniṣṭha-mūlato vajram bhakta-pāpādri-bhedanam pārṣṇi-madhye 'ṅkuśam bhakta cittebha-vaśa-kāriṇam

'At the base of His small toe is a thunderbolt, which smashes the mountains of His devotees' reactions to past sins, and in the middle of His heel is the mark of an elephant goad, which brings the elephants of His devotees' minds under control.'

bhoga-saṃpan-mayaṃ dhatte yavam aṅguṣṭha-ṇḍaṇḍi

'The joint of His right large toe bears the mark of a barleycorn, representing all kinds of enjoyable opulences.'

"The Skanda Purāṇa also states,

*vajraṃ vai dakṣiṇe pāśve
aṅkuśo vai tad-agraṭḥ*

'A thunderbolt is found on the right side of His right foot, and an elephant goad below that.'

"The ācāryas of the Vaiṣṇava sampradāya explain that since the particular feet under discussion are Lord Kṛṣṇa's, we should know that the thunderbolt is at the base of His small toe and the elephant goad below the thunderbolt. An elephant goad on the heel belongs rather to Lord Nārāyaṇa and other viṣṇu-tattva expansions.

"Thus the Skanda Purāṇa describes six marks on Kṛṣṇa's right foot—the disc, flag, lotus, thunderbolt, elephant goad and barleycorn. And the Vaiṣṇava-toṣaṇī mentions even more marks—a vertical line beginning at the middle of His foot and continuing as far as the juncture between His big toe and second toe; an umbrella below the disc; at the base of the middle of His foot, a group of four svastikas in the four cardinal directions; at the four points where each svastika meets the next, four rose apples; and in the middle of the svastikas, an octagon. This makes eleven marks on Kṛṣṇa's right foot."

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī describes the marks on Kṛṣṇa's left foot as follows: "At the base of the large toe is a conchshell with its mouth facing the toe. At the base of the middle toe are two concentric circles, representing the inner and outer sky. Below this mark is Cupid's unstrung bow, at the base of the bow is a triangle, and surrounding the triangle is a group of four waterpots. At the base of the triangle is a half-moon with two more triangles touching its points, and below the half-moon is a fish.

"All together, then, there are nineteen distinguishing marks on the soles of Lord Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet."

TEXT 26

तैस्तैः पदैस्तत्पदवीम्
अन्विच्छन्त्योऽग्रतोऽबलाः
वध्वाः पदैः सुपृक्तानि
विलोक्यार्ताः समब्रुवन्

tais taiḥ padais tat-padavīm anvicchantyo 'grato'balāḥ vadhvāḥ padaiḥ su-pṛktāni vilokyārtāḥ samabruvan

SYNONYMS

taiḥ taiḥ—by those various; padaiḥ—footprints; tat—His; padavīm—path; anvicchantyaḥ—tracing out; agrataḥ—forward; abalāḥ—the girls; vadhvāḥ—of His special consort; padaiḥ—with the footprints; supṛktāni—thoroughly intermingled; vilokya—noticing; ārtāḥ—distressed; samabruvan—they spoke.

TRANSLATION

The gopés began following Kṛṣṇa's path, as shown by His many footprints, but when they saw that these prints were thoroughly intermixed with those of His dearest consort, they became perturbed and spoke as follows.

TEXT 27

कस्याः पदानि चैतानि
याताया नन्दसूनुना
अंसन्यस्तप्रकोष्ठायाः करेणोः करिणा यथा

*kasyāḥ padāni caitāni yātāyā nanda-sūnunā
aṁsa-nyasta-prakoṣṭhāyāḥ
kareṇoh kariṇā yathā*

SYNONYMS

kasyāḥ—of one certain gopī; padāni—the footprints; ca—also; etāni—these; yātāyāḥ—who was going; nanda-sūnunā—together with the son of Nanda Mahārāja; aṁsa—upon whose shoulder; nyasta—placed; prakoṣṭhāyāḥ—His forearm; kareṇoh—of a she-elephant; kariṇā—by the he-elephant; yathā—as.

TRANSLATION

[The gopīs said:] Here we see the footprints of some gopī who must have been walking along with the son of Nanda Mahārāja. He must have put His arm on Her shoulder, just as an elephant rests His trunk on the shoulder of an accompanying she-elephant.

TEXT 28

अनयाराधितो नूनं
भगवान् हरिरीश्वरः
यन्नो विहाय गोविन्दः

प्रीतो यामनयद्रहः

*anayārādhito nūnam
bhagavān harir īśvaraḥ
yan no vihāya govindaḥ
prīto yām anayat rahaḥ*

SYNONYMS

anayā—by Her; ārādhitaḥ—perfectly worshiped; nūnam—certainly; bhagavan—the Personality of Godhead; hariḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; īśvaraḥ—the supreme controller; yat—inasmuch as; naḥ—us; vihāya—rejecting; govindaḥ—Lord Govinda; prītaḥ—pleased; yām—whom; anayat—led; rahaḥ—to a secluded place.

TRANSLATION

Certainly this particular gopī has perfectly worshiped the all-powerful Personality of Godhead, Govinda, since He was so pleased with Her that He abandoned the rest of us and brought Her to a secluded place.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī explains that the word ārādhitaḥ refers to Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. He comments, "The sage Śukadeva Gosvāmī has tried with all endeavor to keep Her name hidden, but now it automatically shines forth from the moon of his mouth. That he has spoken Her name is indeed Her mercy, and thus the word ārādhitaḥ is like the rumbling of a kettledrum sounded to announce Her great good fortune."

Although the gopīs spoke as if jealous of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, they were actually ecstatic to see that She had captured Śrī Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī quotes the following detailed description of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī's footprints, as given by Śrīla Rūpa Gosvāmī in his Śrī Ujjvala-nīlamanī: "At the base of the large toe of Her left foot is the mark of a barleycorn, below that mark is a disc, below the disc is an umbrella, and below the umbrella is a bracelet. A vertical line extends from the middle of Her foot to the juncture of Her large and second toes. At the base of the middle toe is a lotus, below that is a flag with a banner, and below the flag is a creeper, together with a flower. At the base of Her small toe is an elephant goad, and upon Her heel is a half-moon. Thus there are eleven marks on Her left foot.

"At the base of the large toe of Her right foot is a conchshell, and below that a spear. At the base of the small toe of Her right foot is a sacrificial altar, below that an earring, and below the earring a spear. Along the base of the second, third, fourth and small toes is the mark of a mountain, below which is a chariot, and on the heel is a fish.

"Thus all together there are nineteen distinguishing marks on the soles of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī's lotus feet."

TEXT 29

धन्या अहो अमी आल्यो
गोविन्दाङ्घ्र्यब्जरेणवः
यान् ब्रह्मेशौ रमा देवी दधुर्मूर्धन्यघनुत्तये

dhanyā aho amī ālyo govindāṅghry-abja-reṇavaḥ yān brahmeśau ramā devī dadhur mūrdhny agha-nuttaye

SYNONYMS

dhanyāḥ—sanctified; aho—ah; amī—these; ālyāḥ—O gopīs; govinda—of Govinda; aṅghri-abja—of the lotuslike feet; reṇavaḥ—the particles of dust; yān—which; brahmā—Lord Brahmā; īsau—and Lord Śiva; ramā devī—Ramādevī, the wife of Lord Viṣṇu; dadhuḥ—take; mūrdhni—on their heads; agha—of their sinful reactions; nuttaye—for the dispelling.

TRANSLATION

O girls! The dust of Govinda's lotus feet is so sacred that even Brahmā, Śiva and the goddess Ramā take that dust upon their heads to dispel sinful reactions.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī, who quotes from śāstra, each day in the late afternoon, as Kṛṣṇa returned from the cow pastures with His cowherd boyfriends, great demigods like Brahmā and Śiva would come down from heaven and take the dust of His feet.

Great personalities like the goddess Ramā (the wife of Viṣṇu), Śiva and Brahmā are not at all sinful. But in the ecstasy of pure Kṛṣṇa consciousness they feel themselves fallen and impure. Thus, desiring to purify themselves, they blissfully take the dust of the Lord's lotus feet on their heads.

TEXT 30

तस्या अमूनि नः क्षोभं
कुर्वन्त्युच्चैः पदानि यत्
यैकापहत्य गोपीनाम्
रहो भुङ्क्तेऽच्युताधरम्

न लक्ष्यन्ते पदान्यत्र

तस्या नूनं तृणाङ्कुरैः
खिद्यत्सुजाताङ्घ्रितलाम् उन्निन्ये प्रेयसीं प्रियः

*tasyā amūni naḥ kṣobham kurvanty uccaiḥ padāni yat yaikāpahṛtya gopīnām
raho bhunkte 'cyutādharam*

na lakṣyante padāny atra tasyā nūnam tṛṇāṅkuraiḥ khidyat-sujātāṅghri-talām unninye preyasīm priyaḥ

SYNONYMS

tasyāḥ—of Her; amūni—these; naḥ—for us; kṣobham—agitation; kurvanti—create; uccaiḥ—exceedingly; padāni—the footprints; yat—because; yā—who; ekā—alone; apahṛtya—being taken aside; gopīnām—of all the gopīs; rahaḥ—in seclusion; bhunkte—She enjoys; acyuta—of Kṛṣṇa; adharam—the lips; na lakṣyante—are not seen; padāni—the feet; atra—here; tasyāḥ—Her; nūnam—certainly; tṛṇa—by the blades of grass; āṅkuraiḥ—and the growing sprouts; khidyat—being caused pain; sujāta—tender; āṅghri—of whose feet; talām—the soles; unninye—He has lifted up; preyasīm—His beloved; priyaḥ—Her dear Kṛṣṇa.

TRANSLATION

These footprints of that special gopī greatly disturb us. Of all the gopīs, She alone was taken away to a secluded place, where She is enjoying the lips of Kṛṣṇa. Look, we can't see Her footprints over here! It's obvious that the grass and sprouts were hurting the tender soles of Her feet, and so the lover lifted up His beloved.

TEXT 31

इमान्यधिकमग्नानि
पदानि वहतो वधूम
गोप्यः पश्यत कृष्णस्य
भाराक्रान्तस्य कामिनः
अत्रावरोपिता कान्ता पुष्पहेतोर्महात्मना

*imāny adhika-magnāni
padāni vahato vadhūm
gopyaḥ paśyata kṛṣṇasya bhārākrāntasya kāmīnaḥ atrāvaropitā kāntā
puṣpa-hetor mahātmanā*

SYNONYMS

imāni—these; adhika—very much; magnāni—merged; padāni—footprints; vahataḥ—of Him who was carrying; vadhūm—His consort; gopyaḥ—O gopīs; paśyata—just see; kṛṣṇasya—of Kṛṣṇa; bhāra—by the weight; ākrāntasya—oppressed; kāmīnaḥ—lusty; atra—in this place; avaropitā—placed down; kāntā—the girlfriend; puṣpa—of (gathering) flowers; hetoḥ—for the purpose; mahā-ātmanā—by the very intelligent.

TRANSLATION

Please observe, my dear gopés, how in this place lusty Kṛṣṇa's footprints are pressed more deeply into the ground. Carrying the weight of His beloved must have been difficult for Him. And over here that intelligent boy must have put Her down to gather some flowers.

PURPORT

The word vadhūm indicates that even though Śrī Kṛṣṇa was not officially married to Rādhārāṇī, He had in fact made Her His bride in the Vṛndāvana forest.

According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura, the gopīs use the word kāmināḥ here to indicate the following thoughts: "We actually love Śrī Kṛṣṇa, but still He has rejected us. Therefore His private dealings with Rādhārāṇī prove that this young prince of Vraja has carried Her away because of lust. If He were interested in love, He would have accepted us instead of that cowherd girl Rādhārāṇī."

These thoughts reveal the mood of the gopīs who are rivals of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. Of course, the gopīs who are Her direct allies were jubilant to see Her good fortune.

TEXT 32

अत्र प्रसूनावचयः
प्रियार्थे प्रेयसा कृतः
प्रपदाक्रमण एते पश्यतासकले पदे

*atra prasūnāvacayaḥ
priyārthe preyasā kṛtaḥ prapadākramaṇa ete*

paśyatāsakale pade

SYNONYMS

atra—here; prasūna—of flowers; avacayaḥ—the gathering; priyā-arthe—for the sake of His beloved; preyasā—by the beloved Kṛṣṇa; kṛtaḥ—done; prapada—front of His feet; ākramaṇe—with the pressing down; ete—these; paśyata—just see; asakale—incomplete; pade—the pair of footprints.

TRANSLATION

Just see how in this place dear Kṛṣṇa collected flowers for His beloved. Here He has left the impression of only the front part of His feet because He was standing on His toes to reach the flowers.

TEXT 33

केशप्रसाधनं त्वत्र
कामिन्याः कामिना कृतम्
तानि चूडयता कान्ताम् उपविष्टमिह ध्रुवम्

keśa-prasādhanaṁ tv atra
kāminyāḥ kāminā kṛtam tāni cūḍayatā kāntām
upaviṣṭam iha dhruvam

SYNONYMS

keśa—of Her hair; prasādhanaṁ—the decorative arrangement; tu—furthermore; atra—here; kāminyāḥ—of the lusty girl; kāminā—by the lusty boy; kṛtam—done; tāni—with those (flowers); cūḍayatā—by Him who was making a crown; kāntām—His consort; upaviṣṭam—seated; iha—here; dhruvam—certainly.

TRANSLATION

Certainly Kṛṣṇa sat down here with His girlfriend to arrange Her hair. The lusty boy must have made a crown for that lusty girl out of the flowers He had collected.

PURPORT

The ācāryas explain that Śrī Kṛṣṇa wanted to decorate Rādhārāṇī's hair with the forest flowers He had collected. Therefore They sat down together facing the same direction, with Rādhārāṇī between Kṛṣṇa's knees, and Kṛṣṇa proceeded to arrange Her hair with flowers and make a flower crown for Her, coronating Her as the goddess of the forest. Thus the romantic young boy and girl played and joked together in Vṛndāvana.

TEXT 34

रेमे तया चात्मरत
आत्मारामोऽप्यखण्डितः
कामिनां दर्शयन्दैन्यं स्त्रीणां चैव दुरात्मताम् reme tayā cātma-rata ātmārāmo 'py akhaṇḍitaḥ kāmināṁ darśayan dainyaṁ strīṇāṁ caiva durātmataṁ

SYNONYMS

reme—He enjoyed; tayā—with Her; ca—and; ātma-rataḥ—He who takes pleasure only within Himself; ātma-ārāmaḥ—completely self-satisfied; api—although; akhaṇḍitaḥ—never incomplete; kāminām—of ordinary lusty men; darśayan—showing; dainyam—the degraded condition; strīṇām—of ordinary women; ca eva—also; durātmatām—the hardheartedness.

TRANSLATION

[Śukadeva Gosvāmī continued:] Lord Kṛṣṇa enjoyed with that gopé, although He enjoys only within, being self-satisfied and complete in Himself. Thus by contrast He showed the wretchedness of ordinary lusty men and hardhearted women.

PURPORT

This verse directly refutes the superficial criticism materialistic people sometimes direct against Lord Kṛṣṇa's pastimes. The philosopher Aristotle claimed that ordinary activities are unworthy of God, and with this idea in mind some people declare that since the activities of Lord Kṛṣṇa resemble those of ordinary human beings, He cannot be the Absolute Truth .

But in this verse Śukadeva Gosvāmī emphatically points out that Lord Kṛṣṇa acts on the liberated platform of spiritual self-satisfaction. This fact is indicated here by the terms ātma-rata, ātmārāma and akhaṇḍita. It is inconceivable to ordinary people that a handsome young boy and a beautiful young girl enjoying romantic conjugal affairs in the forest moonlight can be engaging in pure activity, free from egoistic desire and lust. Yet while Lord Kṛṣṇa is inconceivable to ordinary persons, those who love Him can easily realize the absolute, pure nature of His activities.

One may argue that "beauty is in the eye of the beholder" and that therefore the devotees of Kṛṣṇa are only imagining the Lord's activities to be pure. This argument ignores many significant facts. For one, the path of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, of developing love for Kṛṣṇa, demands that a devotee strictly follow four regulative principles: no illicit sex, no gambling, no intoxication and no eating of meat, fish or eggs. When one is freed from material lust and rises to the liberated platform, beyond material desire, one realizes the absolute beauty of Lord Kṛṣṇa. This process is not theoretical: it has been practiced and completed by many thousands of great sages, who have left us their shining example and their brilliant teachings concerning the path of Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

Certainly beauty is in the eye of the beholder. However, real beauty is perceived by the soul's eye and not by the lusty eye of the material body. Therefore the Vedic literature repeatedly stresses that only those freed from material desire can see the beauty of Lord Kṛṣṇa with the eye of the pure soul, anointed with love of Godhead. It may finally be noted that upon realizing the pastimes of Lord Kṛṣṇa one becomes free of all tinges of sex desire, a state of mind that can hardly result from meditating upon material sexual affairs.

One final note: The conjugal pastimes of Kṛṣṇa perfectly round out His qualification as the Supreme Absolute Truth. The Vedānta states that the Absolute Truth is the source of everything, so certainly the Absolute cannot lack any of the beautiful things of this world. It is only because romantic affairs exist in a pure, spiritual form in the Absolute that they can manifest in a perverted, material form in this world. Thus the apparent beauty of this world is not to be absolutely rejected; rather, beauty should be accepted in its pure, spiritual form.

Since the beginning of time men and women have been inspired to poetic rapture by the art of romance. Unfortunately, romance in this world usually leads to crushing disappointment, brought about by a change of heart or by death. Thus although we may at first find romantic affairs beautiful and enjoyable, they are eventually spoiled by the onslaught of material nature. Still, it is unreasonable to totally reject the concept of romance. Rather, we should accept conjugal attraction in its absolute, perfect, pure form, as it exists within God, without a tinge of material lust or selfishness. That pure conjugal attraction—the supreme beauty and pleasure of the Supreme Truth—is what we are reading about here in the pages of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam.

TEXTS 35-36

इत्येवं दर्शयन्त्यस्ताश्च
चेरुर्गोप्यो विचेतसः
यां गोपीमनयत्कृष्णो
विहायान्याः स्त्रियो वने

सा च मेने तदात्मानं
वरिष्ठं सर्वयोषिताम्
हित्वा गोपीः कामयाना मामसौ भजते प्रियः

ity evaṁ darśayantyaś tāś cerur gopyo vicetasah yām gopīm anayat kṛṣṇo vihāyānyāḥ striyo vane

*sā ca mene tadātmānaṁ variṣṭhaṁ sarva-yoṣitām hitvā gopīḥ kāma-yānā
mām asau bhajate priyaḥ*

SYNONYMS

iti—thus; evam—in this manner; darśayantyaḥ—showing; tāḥ—they;

ceruḥ—wandered; gopyaḥ—the gopīs; vicetasah—completely bewildered; yām—which; gopīm—gopī; anayat—He took; kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; viḥāya—abandoning; anyāḥ—the other; striyaḥ—women; vane—in the forest; sā—She; ca—also; mene—thought; tadā—then; ātmānam—Herself; variṣṭham—the best; sarva—of all; yoṣitām—women; hitvā—rejecting; gopīḥ—the gopīs; kāma-yānāḥ—who are impelled by lusty desire; mām—Me; asau—He; bhajate—is accepting; priyaḥ—the beloved.

TRANSLATION

As the gopés wandered about, their minds completely bewildered, they pointed out various signs of Kṛṣṇa's pastimes. The particular gopī whom Kṛṣṇa had led into a secluded forest when He had abandoned all the other young girls began to think Herself the best of women. "My beloved has rejected all the other gopés," She thought, "even though they are driven by Cupid himself. He has chosen to reciprocate with Me alone."

PURPORT

Previously all the gopīs had become proud of their association with Kṛṣṇa and then suddenly lost His association. Only Rādhārāṇī remained with Him. Now She has also become proud of that association and will suffer a similar fate. The Lord arranges all this to reveal the gopīs' unparalleled devotion for Him, a devotion whose intensity fully manifests in moments of separation.

TEXT 37

तेदृत्

ततो गत्वा वनोद्देशं
दृष्ट्वा केशवमब्रवीत्
न पारयेऽहं चलितुं

नय मां यत्र ते मनः

*tato gatvā vanoddeśam
dṛptā keśavam abravīt na pāraye 'ham calitum
naya mām yatra te manaḥ*

SYNONYMS

tataḥ—then; gatvā—going; vana—of the forest; uddeśam—to one region; dṛptā—becoming proud; keśavam—to Kṛṣṇa; abravīt—She said; na pāraye—am not able; aham—I; calitum—to move; naya—bring; mām—Me; yatra—where; te—Your; manaḥ—mind.

TRANSLATION

As the two lovers passed through one part of the Vṛndāvana forest, the special gopī began feeling proud of Herself. She told Lord Keśava, "I cannot walk any further. Please carry Me wherever You want to go."

TEXT 38

एवमुक्तः प्रियामाह
स्कन्ध आरुह्यतामिति
ततश्चान्तर्दधे कृष्णः सा वधूरन्वतप्यत

*evam uktaḥ priyām āha
skandha āruhyatām iti*

*tataś cāntardadhe kṛṣṇaḥ
sā vadhūr anvatapyata*

SYNONYMS

evam—thus; uktaḥ—addressed; priyām—to His beloved; āha—He said; skandhe—on My shoulder; āruhyatām—please climb; iti—these words; tataḥ—then; ca—and; antardadhe—He disappeared; kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa; sā—She; vadhūḥ—His consort; anvatapyata—felt remorse.

TRANSLATION

Thus addressed, Lord Kṛṣṇa replied, "Just climb on My shoulder." But as soon as He said this, He disappeared. His beloved consort then immediately felt great remorse.

PURPORT

Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī was exhibiting the pride of a beautiful girl who has brought Her boyfriend under control. Thus She told Kṛṣṇa, "Please carry Me wherever You want to go. I can't walk anymore." Śrī Kṛṣṇa now disappears from Her sight, intensifying Her ecstatic love more and more.

TEXT 39

हा नाथ रमण प्रेष्ठ
क्वासि क्वासि महाभुज
दास्यास्ते कृपणाया मे सखे दर्शय सन्निधिम्

hā nātha ramaṇa preṣṭha

*kvāsi kvāsi mahā-bhuja dāsyās te kṛpaṇāyā me
sakhe darśaya sannidhim*

SYNONYMS

hā—O; nātha—master; ramaṇa—lover; preṣṭha—deardest; kva asi kva asi—where are You, where are You; mahā-bhuja—O mighty-armed one; dāsyāḥ—to the maidservant; te—Your; kṛpaṇāyāḥ—wretched; me—Me; sakhe—O friend; darśaya—please show; sannidhim—Your presence.

TRANSLATION

She cried out: O master! My lover! O dearest, where are You? Where are You? Please, O mighty-armed one, O friend, show Yourself to Me, Your poor servant!

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura describes the following moving exchange:

"Rādhā says, 'My Lord, I am being burned in the great fire of separation from You, and My life air is about to leave My body. Even with the greatest endeavor I cannot maintain My life. But You are the Lord of My life, and so You can quickly save Me simply by glancing upon Me. Please do so immediately. I beg You to save My life, not for My sake but rather for Yours. After giving up all the other gopīs, You've brought Me so far to a secluded place in the forest just to enjoy special pleasure with Me. If I die You will not be able to find conjugal happiness anywhere else. You will remember Me and thus lament in Your sorrow.'

"Kṛṣṇa replies, 'So let Me become unhappy. What does that matter to You?'

" 'But You are most dear to Me. I will feel Your unhappiness millions of times more than You. Even if I've already died, I still will not be able to tolerate the pain that even one spot on the nails of Your lotus feet may experience. Indeed, to prevent such pain I am ready to throw My life away millions and millions of times. So kindly show Yourself and drive away that unhappiness.'

" 'But if Your life air is on the verge of leaving Your body, what can I do to stop that?'

" 'Simply by the touch of Your arms, which are a medicinal herb with the power to revive the dead, My body will return to its healthy, normal condition, and My life air will automatically come back and remain in My body.'

" 'But You know the forest path Yourself without My help, so why did You order Me, the king's son and a very young and gentle boy who is to be respected? Why did You command, "Take Me wherever You wish"? Why do You anger Me like this?'

"Rādhā cries out, 'Please show Yourself to Your wretched maidservant. Be merciful to Me! Be merciful! When I ordered You, I was overcome by sleepiness. I was so tired from playing with You. Therefore please excuse what Your poor servant said. Please don't be angry. It was only because You treated Me like such a close friend, though I am unworthy, that I spoke like that to You.'

" 'All right, My love, I am very pleased with You, so please come to Me.'

" 'But I've been blinded by lamentation. I can't see where You are. Please tell Me where You are.' "

TEXT 40

श्रीशुक उवाच
अन्विच्छन्त्यो भगवतो
मार्गं गोप्योऽविदूरितः

ददृशुः प्रियविश्लेषान्
मोहितां दुःखितां सखीम्

śrī-śuka uvāca
anvicchantyo bhagavato mārgam gopyo 'vidūritaḥ dadṛśuḥ priya-viśleṣān mohitām duḥkhitām sakhīm

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; anvicchantyaḥ—searching out; bhagavataḥ—of the Supreme Personality of Godhead; mārgam—the path; gopyaḥ—the gopīs; avidūritaḥ—not far away; dadṛśuḥ—saw; priya—from Her beloved; viśleṣāt—because of the separation; mohitām—bewildered; duḥkhitām—unhappy; sakhīm—their friend.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: While continuing to search out Kṛṣṇa's path, the gopīs discovered their unhappy friend close by. She was bewildered by separation from Her lover.

TEXT 41

तया कथितमाकर्ण्य
मानप्राप्तिं च माधवात्
अवमानं च दौरात्म्याद् विस्मयं परमं ययुः

*tayā kathitam ākarṇya
māna-prāptim ca mādhavāt avamānam ca daurātmyād
vismayaṁ paramaṁ yayuḥ*

SYNONYMS

tayā—by Her; kathitam—what was related; ākarṇya—hearing; māna—of respect; prāptim—the receiving; ca—and; mādhavāt—from Lord Kṛṣṇa; avamānam—the dishonor; ca—also; daurātmyāt—because of Her impropriety; vismayaṁ—amazement; paramaṁ—supreme; yayuḥ—they experienced.

TRANSLATION

She told them how Mādhava had given Her much respect, but how She then suffered dishonor because of Her misbehavior. The gopīs were extremely amazed to hear this.

PURPORT

It was natural for Rādhārāṇī to ask Kṛṣṇa to carry Her, for this request was consistent with the loving mood of Their relationship. Now, however, in great humility She describes Her behavior as wicked. Hearing of these affairs, the other gopīs are astonished.

TEXT 42

ततोऽविशन् वनं चन्द्र
ज्योत्स्ना यावद्विभाव्यते
तमः प्रविष्टमालक्ष्य

ततो निववृत्तुः स्त्रियः

*tato 'viśan vanam candra jyotsnā yāvad vibhāvyate tamaḥ praviṣṭam ālakṣya
tato nivavṛtuḥ striyaḥ*

SYNONYMS

tataḥ—then; aviśan—they entered; vanam—the forest; candra—of the moon; jyotsnā—the light; yāvat—as far; vibhāvyate—as was visible; tamaḥ—darkness; praviṣṭam—entered; ālakṣya—noticing; tataḥ—thereupon; nivavṛtuḥ—they desisted; striyaḥ—the women.

TRANSLATION

In search of Kṛṣṇa, the gopīs then entered the depths of the forest as far as the light of the moon shone. But when they found themselves engulfed in darkness, they decided to turn back.

PURPORT

The gopīs entered a part of the forest so dense that even the light of the full moon couldn't penetrate it. This scene is also described in the Viṣṇu Purāṇa:

*praviṣṭo gahanaṁ kṛṣṇaḥ padam atra na lakṣyate nivartadhvam śaśāṅkasya
naitad dīdhiti-gocaraḥ*

"One gopī said, 'Kṛṣṇa has entered such a dark part of the forest that we cannot possibly see His footprints. Therefore let us turn back from this area, which even the light of the moon cannot reach.' "

TEXT 43

तन्मनस्कास्तदलापासु
तद्विचेष्टास्तदात्मिकाः
तद्गुणानेव गायन्त्यो नात्मगाराणि सस्मरुः

tan-manaskās tad-alāpās tad-viceṣṭās tad-ātmikāḥ tad-guṇān eva gāyantyo nātmagārāṇi sasmaruḥ

SYNONYMS

tat-manaskāḥ—their minds filled with thoughts of Him;
tat-ālāpāḥ—conversing about Him; tat-viceṣṭāḥ—imitating His activities;
tat-ātmikāḥ—filled with His presence; tat-guṇān—about His qualities;
eva—simply; gāyantyaḥ—singing; na—not; ātma—their own;
āgārāṇi—homes; sasmaruḥ—remembered.

TRANSLATION

Their minds absorbed in thoughts of Him, they conversed about Him, acted out His pastimes and felt themselves filled with His presence. They completely forgot about their homes as they loudly sang the glories of Kṛṣṇa's transcendental qualities.

PURPORT

Actually there is no separation from Kṛṣṇa for the pure devotees of the Lord. Although apparently abandoned by Kṛṣṇa, the gopīs were actually tightly connected to Him by the spiritual process of śravaṇam kīrtanam viṣṇoḥ [SB 7.5.23], hearing and chanting the glories of the Lord.

TEXT 44

पुनः पुलिनमागत्य
कालिन्ध्याः कृष्णभावनाः
समवेता जगुः कृष्णं तदागमनकाङ्क्षिताः

*punaḥ pulinam āgatya kālindyāḥ kṛṣṇa-bhāvanāḥ samavetā jaguḥ kṛṣṇam
tad-āgamana-kāṅkṣitāḥ*

SYNONYMS

punaḥ—again; pulinam—to the bank; āgatya—coming; kālindyāḥ—of the river Yamunā; kṛṣṇa-bhāvanāḥ—meditating on Kṛṣṇa; samavetāḥ—joined together; jaguḥ—they sang; kṛṣṇam—about Kṛṣṇa; tad-āgamana—His arrival; kāṅkṣitāḥ—eagerly desired.

TRANSLATION

The gopīs again came to the bank of the Kālindī. Meditating on Kṛṣṇa and eagerly hoping He would come, they sat down together to sing of Him.

PURPORT

As stated in the Kaṭha Upaniṣad (1.2.23), yam evaiṣa vṛṇute tena labhyaḥ: "The Supersoul can be realized by that person whom He chooses." Thus the gopīs fervently pray that Kṛṣṇa come back to them.

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A . C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Thirtieth Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "The Gopīs Search for Kṛṣṇa."

31. The Gopīs' Songs of Separation

This chapter relates how the gopīs, overwhelmed by feelings of separation from Kṛṣṇa, sat down on the bank of the Yamunā and began praying for His audience and singing His glories.

Because the gopīs had dedicated their minds and very lives to Kṛṣṇa, they were beside themselves with the transcendental pain of separation. But their crying, which appears like evidence of misery, actually shows their exalted state of transcendental bliss. As it is said, yata dekha vaiṣṇaver vyavahāra duḥkh/ niścaya jāniha sei paramānanda sukh: "Whenever one sees a Vaiṣṇava acting unhappy, one should know it for sure that he is actually experiencing the highest spiritual bliss." Thus each of the gopīs began addressing Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa according to her individual mode of ecstasy, and they all prayed for Him for His mercy.

As the pastimes of Kṛṣṇa spontaneously arose in the minds of the gopīs, they sang their song, which relieves the agony of those suffering from the burning pain of separation from Kṛṣṇa and which bestows supreme auspiciousness. They sang, "O Lord, O lover, O cheater, when we remember

Your smile, Your loving glances and Your pastimes with Your boyhood friends, we become extremely agitated. Remembering Your lotus face, adorned with locks of blackish hair smeared with the dust of the cows, we become irrevocably attached to You. And when we remember how You followed the cows from forest to forest with Your tender feet, we feel great pain."

In their separation from Kṛṣṇa the gopīs considered a single moment an entire age. Even when they had previously seen Him they had found the blinking of their eyelids intolerable, for it blocked their vision of Him for a fraction of a second.

The ecstatic sentiments for Lord Kṛṣṇa that the gopīs expressed may appear like symptoms of lust, but in reality they are manifestations of their pure desire to satisfy the Supreme Lord's spiritual senses. There is not even the slightest trace of lust in these moods of the gopīs.

TEXT 1

गोप्य ऊचुः
जयति तेऽधिकं जन्मना व्रजः
श्रयत इन्दिरा शश्वदत्र हि
दयित दृश्यतां दिक्षु तावकास त्वयि धृतासवस्त्वां विचिन्वते

gopya ūcuḥ
jayati te 'dhikam janmanā vrajaḥ śrayata indirā śaśvad atra hi dayita dṛśyatām dikṣu tāvakās tvayi dhṛtāsavas tvām vicinvate

SYNONYMS

gopyaḥ ūcuḥ—the gopīs said; jayati—is glorious; te—Your; adhikam—exceedingly; janmanā—by the birth; vrajaḥ—the land of Vraja; śrayate—is residing; indirā—Lakṣmī, the goddess of fortune; śaśvat—perpetually; atra—here; hi—indeed; dayita—O beloved; dṛśyatām—may (You) be seen; dikṣu—in all directions; tāvakāḥ—Your (devotees); tvayi—for Your sake; dhṛta—sustained; asavaḥ—their life airs; tvām—for You; vicinvate—they are searching.

TRANSLATION

The gopīs said: O beloved, Your birth in the land of Vraja has made it exceedingly glorious, and thus Indirā, the goddess of fortune, always resides here. It is only for Your sake that we, Your devoted servants, maintain our lives. We have been searching everywhere for You, so please show Yourself to us.

PURPORT

Those who are familiar with the art of chanting Sanskrit verses will be able to appreciate the especially exquisite Sanskrit poetry of this chapter. Specifically, the poetic meter of the verses is extraordinarily beautiful, and also, for the most part, in each line the first and seventh syllables begin with the same consonant, as do the second syllables of all four lines.

TEXT 2

शरदुदाशये साधुजातसत्- सरसिजोदरश्रीमुषा दृशा
सुरतनाथ तेऽशुल्कदासिका

वरद निघ्नतो नेह किं वधः

śarad-udāśaye sādhu-jāta-satsarasijodara-śrī-muṣā dṛśā surata-nātha te 'śulka-dāsikā vara-da nighnato neha kiṁ vadhaḥ

SYNONYMS

śarat—of the autumn season; uda-āśaye—in the reservoir of water; sādhu—excellently; jāta—grown; sat—fine; sarasi-ja—of the lotus flowers; udara—in the middle; śrī—the beauty; muṣā—which excels; dṛśā—with Your glance; surata-nātha—O Lord of love; te—Your; aśulka—acquired without payment; dāsikāḥ—maidservants; vara-da—O giver of benedictions; nighnataḥ—for You who are killing; na—not; iha—in this world; kim—why; vadhaḥ—murder.

TRANSLATION

O Lord of love, in beauty Your glance excels the whorl of the finest, most perfectly formed lotus within the autumn pond. O bestower of benedictions, You are killing the maidservants who have given themselves to You freely, without any price. Isn't this murder?

PURPORT

In the autumn season, the whorl of the lotus has a special beauty, but that unique loveliness is surpassed by the beauty of Kṛṣṇa's glance.

TEXT 3

विषजलाप्ययाद्व्यालराक्षसाद्
वर्षमारुताद्वैद्युतानलात्
वृषमयात्मजाद्विश्वतो भयाद् ऋषभ ते वयं रक्षिता मुहुः

viṣa-jalāpyayād vyāla-rākṣasād varṣa-mārutād vaidyutānalāt vṛṣa-mayātmajād viśvato bhayād ṛṣabha te vyaṁ rakṣitā muhuḥ

SYNONYMS

viṣa—poisonous; jala—by the water (of the Yamunā, contaminated by Kāliya); apyayāt—from destruction; vyāla—fearsome; rākṣasāt—from the demon (Agha); varṣa—from rain (sent by Indra); mārutāt—and the wind-storm (created by Tṛṇāvarta); vaidyuta-analāt—from the thunderbolt (of Indra); vṛṣa—from the bull, Aṛiṣṭāsura; maya-ātmajāt—from the son of Maya (Vyomāsura); viśvataḥ—from all; bhayāt—fear; ṛṣabha—O greatest of personalities; te—by You; vayaṁ—we; rakṣitāḥ—have been protected; muhuḥ—repeatedly.

TRANSLATION

O greatest of personalities, You have repeatedly saved us from all kinds of danger—from poisoned water, from the terrible man-eater Agha, from the great rains, from the wind demon, from the fiery thunderbolt of Indra, from the bull demon and from the son of Maya Dānava.

PURPORT

Here the gopīs imply, "O Kṛṣṇa, You saved us from so many terrible dangers, so now that we are dying of separation from You, won't You save us again?" Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura explains that the gopīs mention Ariṣṭa and Vyoma because, although Kṛṣṇa had not yet killed these demons, the fact that He would kill them in the future was well known, having been predicted by the sages Garga and Bhāguri at the time of the Lord's birth.

TEXT 4

न खलु गोपीकानन्दनो भवान्
अखिलदेहिनामन्तरात्मदृक्
विखनसार्थितो विश्वगुप्तये सख उदेयिवान् सात्वतां कुले na khalu gopikā-nandano bhavān akhila-dehinām antarātma-dṛk vikhanasāarthito viśva-guptye sakha udeyivān sātvatām kule

SYNONYMS

na—not; khalu—indeed; gopikā—of the gopī, Yaśodā; nandanaḥ—the son; bhavān—Your good self; akhila—of all; dehinām—embodied living entities; antaḥ-ātma—of the inner consciousness; dṛk—the seer; vikhanasā—by Lord Brahmā; arthitaḥ—prayed for; viśva—of the universe; guptye—for the protection; sakhe—O friend; udeyivān—You arose; sātvatām—of the Sātvatas; kule—in the dynasty.

TRANSLATION

You are not actually the son of the gopī Yaśodā, O friend, but rather the indwelling witness in the hearts of all embodied souls. Because Lord Brahmā prayed for You to come and protect the universe, You have now appeared in the Sātvata dynasty.

PURPORT

The gopīs here imply, "Since You have descended to protect the entire universe, how can You neglect Your own devotees?"

TEXT 5

विरचिताभयं वृष्णिधूर्य ते चरणमीयुषां संसृतेर्भयात्
करसरोरुहं कान्त कामदं शिरसि धेहि नः श्रीकरग्रहम् viracitābhayaṁ vṛṣṇi-dhūrya te caraṇam īyuṣāṁ saṁsṛter bhayāt kara-saroruham kānta kāma-dam śirasi dhehi naḥ śrī-kara-graham

SYNONYMS

viracita—created; abhayaṁ—fearlessness; vṛṣṇi—of the Vṛṣṇi dynasty; dhūrya—O best; te—Your; caraṇam—feet; īyuṣām—of those who approach; saṁsṛteḥ—of material existence; bhayāt—out of fear; kara—Your hand; saraḥ-ruham—like a lotus flower; kānta—O lover; kāma—desires; dam—fulfilling; śirasi—on the heads; dhehi—please place; naḥ—of us; śrī—of the goddess of fortune, Lakṣmīdevī; kara—the hand; graham—taking.

TRANSLATION

O best of the Vṛṣṇis, Your lotuslike hand, which holds the hand of the goddess of fortune, grants fearlessness to those who approach Your feet out of fear of material existence. O lover, please place that wish-fulfilling lotus hand on our heads.

TEXT 6

ब्रजजनार्तिहन् वीर योषितां
निजजनस्मयध्वंसनस्मित
भज सखे भवत्किङ्करीः स्म नो जलरुहाननं चारु दर्शय vraja-janārti-han vīra yoṣitām nija-jana-smaya-dhvaṁsana-smita bhaja sakhe bhavat-kiṅkarīḥ sma no jalaruhānanam cāru darśaya

SYNONYMS

vraja-jana—of the people of Vraja; ārti—of the suffering; han—O destroyer; vīra—O hero; yoṣitām—of women; nija—Your own; jana—of the people; smaya—the pride; dhvaṁsana—destroying; smita—whose smile; bhaja—please accept; sakhe—O friend; bhavat—Your; kiṅkarīḥ—maidservants; sma—indeed; naḥ—us; jala-ruha—lotus; ānanam—Your face; cāru—beautiful; darśaya—please show.

TRANSLATION

O You who destroy the suffering of Vraja's people, O hero of all women, Your smile shatters the false pride of Your devotees. Please, dear friend, accept us as Your maidservants and show us Your beautiful lotus face.

TEXT 7

प्रणतदेहिनां पापकर्षणं
तृणचरानुगं श्रीनिकेतनम्
फणिफणार्पितं ते पदाम्बुजं कृणु कुचेषु नः कृन्धि हृच्छयम्

praṇata-dehinām pāpa-karṣaṇam tṛṇa-carānugam śrī-niketanam phaṇi-phaṇārpitaṁ te padāmbujam kṛṇu kuceṣu naḥ kṛndhi hṛc-chayam

SYNONYMS

praṇata—who are surrendered to You; dehinām—of the embodied living beings; pāpa—the sins; karṣaṇam—which remove; tṛṇa—grass; cara—who graze (the cows); anugam—following; śrī—of the goddess of fortune; niketanam—the abode; phaṇi—of the serpent (Kāliya); phaṇā—on the hoods; arpitam—placed; te—Your; pada-ambujam—lotus feet; kṛṇu—please put; kuceṣu—on the breasts; naḥ—our; kṛndhi—cut away; hṛt-śayam—the lust in our hearts.

TRANSLATION

Your lotus feet destroy the past sins of all embodied souls who surrender to them. Those feet follow after the cows in the pastures and are the eternal abode of the goddess of fortune. Since You once put those feet on the hoods of the great serpent Kāliya, please place them upon our breasts and tear away the lust in our hearts.

PURPORT

In their appeal, the gopīs point out that Lord Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet destroy the sins of all surrendered conditioned souls. The Lord is so merciful that He even goes out to herd the cows in the pasturing ground, and thus His lotus feet follow them about in the grass. He has offered His lotus feet to the goddess of fortune and has placed them upon the hoods of the serpent Kāliya. Therefore, considering all this, the Lord should place His lotus feet on the gopīs' breasts and satisfy their desire. That is the logic the gopīs employ here.

TEXT 8

मधुरया गिरा वल्गुवाक्यया
बुधमनोज्ञया पुष्करेक्षण
विधिकरीरिमा वीर मुह्यतीर् अधरसीधुनाप्याययस्व नः

madhurayā girā valgu-vākyayā budha-manojñayā puṣkarekṣaṇa vidhi-karīr imā vīra muhyatīr adhara-sīdhunāpyāyayasva naḥ

SYNONYMS

madhurayā—sweet; girā—by Your voice; valgu—charming; vākyayā—by Your words; budha—to the intelligent; mano-jñayā—attractive; puṣkara—lotus; īkṣaṇa—You whose eyes; vidhi-karīḥ—maidservants; imāḥ—these; vīra—O hero; muhyatīḥ—becoming bewildered; adhara—of Your lips; sīdhunā—with the nectar; āpyāyasya—please restore to life; naḥ—us.

TRANSLATION

O lotus-eyed one, Your sweet voice and charming words, which attract the minds of the intelligent, are bewildering us more and more. Our dear hero, please revive Your maidservants with the nectar of Your lips.

TEXT 9

तव कथामृतं तप्तजीवनं
कविभिरीडितं कल्मषापहम्
श्रवणमङ्गलं श्रीमदाततं भुवि गृणन्ति ये भूरिदा जनाः

tava kathāmṛtaṁ tapta-jīvanam kavibhir īḍitaṁ kalmaṣāpaham śravaṇa-maṅgalaṁ śrīmad ātataṁ bhuvi gṛṇanti ye bhūri-dā janāḥ

SYNONYMS

tava—Your; kathā-amṛtam—the nectar of words; tapta-jīvanam—life for those aggrieved in the material world; kavibhiḥ—by great thinkers; īḍitam—described; kalmaṣa-apaham—that which drives away sinful reactions; śravaṇa-maṅgalam—giving spiritual benefit when heard; śrīmat—filled with spiritual power; ātataṁ—broadcast all over the world; bhuvi—in the material world; gṛṇanti—chant and spread; ye—those who; bhūri-dāḥ—most beneficent; janāḥ—persons.

TRANSLATION

The nectar of Your words and the descriptions of Your activities are the life and soul of those suffering in this material world. These narrations, transmitted by learned sages, eradicate one's sinful reactions and bestow good fortune upon whoever hears them. These narrations are broadcast all over the world and are filled with spiritual power. Certainly those who spread the message of Godhead are most munificent.

PURPORT

King Pratāparudra recited this verse to Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu during Lord Jagannātha's Ratha-yātrā festival. While the Lord was resting in a garden, King Pratāparudra humbly entered and began massaging His legs and lotus feet. Then the King recited the Thirty-first Chapter of the Tenth Canto of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, the songs of the gopīs. The Caitanya-caritāmṛta relates that when Lord Caitanya heard this verse, beginning tava kathāmṛtam, He immediately arose in ecstatic love and embraced King Pratāparudra. The incident is described in detail in the Caitanya-caritāmṛta (Madhya 14.4-18), and in his edition Śrīla Prabhupāda has given extensive commentary on it.

TEXT 10

प्रहसितं प्रियप्रेमवीक्षणं
विहरणं च ते ध्यानमङ्गलम्
रहसि संविदो या हृदि स्पृशः कुहक नो मनः क्षोभयन्ति हि

prahasitaṁ priya-prema-vīkṣaṇaṁ viharaṇaṁ ca te dhyāna-maṅgalam

rahasi saṁvido yā hṛdi spṛśaḥ kuhaka no manaḥ kṣobhayanti hi

SYNONYMS

prahasitam—the smiling; priya—affectionate; prema—with love; vīkṣaṇam—glances; viharaṇam—intimate pastimes; ca—and; te—Your; dhyāna—by meditation; maṅgalam—auspicious; rahasi—in solitary places; saṁvidaḥ—conversations; yāḥ—which; hṛdi—the heart; spṛśaḥ—touching; kuhaka—O cheater; naḥ—our; manaḥ—minds; kṣobhayanti—agitate; hi—indeed.

TRANSLATION

Your smiles, Your sweet, loving glances, the intimate pastimes and confidential talks we enjoyed with You—all these are auspicious to meditate upon, and they touch our hearts. But at the same time, O deceiver, they very much agitate our minds.

TEXT 11

चलसि यद् व्रजाच्चारयन् पशून्
नलिनसुन्दरं नाथ ते पदम्
शिलतृणाङ्कुरैः सीदतीति नः
कलिलतां मनः कान्त गच्छति

calasi yad vrajāc cārayan paśūn nalina-sundaram nātha te padam śila-tṛṇāṅkuraiḥ sīdatīti naḥ kalilatām manaḥ kānta gacchati

SYNONYMS

calasi—You go; yat—when; vrajāt—from the cowherd village; cārayan—herding; paśūn—the animals; nalina—than a lotus flower; sundaram—more beautiful; nātha—O master; te—Your; padam—feet; śīla—by sharp edges of grain; tṛṇa—grass; aṅkuraiḥ—and sprouting plants; sīdati—are experiencing pain; iti—thus thinking; naḥ—us; kalilatām—discomfort; manaḥ—our minds; kānta—O lover; gacchati—feel.

TRANSLATION

Dear master, dear lover, when You leave the cowherd village to herd the cows, our minds are disturbed with the thought that Your feet, more beautiful than a lotus, will be pricked by the spiked husks of grain and the rough grass and plants.

TEXT 12

दिनपरिक्षये नीलकुन्तलैर् वनरुहाननं बिभ्रदावृतम्
घनरजस्वलं दर्शयन्मुहुर मनसि नः स्मरं वीर यच्छसि

dina-parikṣaye nīla-kuntalair vanaruhānanam bibhrad āvṛtam ghana-rajasvalam darśayan muhur manasi naḥ smaram vīra yacchasi

SYNONYMS

dina—of the day; parikṣaye—at the finish; nīla—dark blue; kuntalaiḥ—with locks of hair; vana-ruha—lotus; ānanam—face; bibhrat—exhibiting; āvṛtam—covered; ghana—thick; rajaḥ-valam—smeared with dust; darśayan—showing; muhuh—repeatedly; manasi—in the minds; naḥ—our; smaram—Cupid; vīra—O hero; yacchasi—You are placing.

TRANSLATION

At the end of the day You repeatedly show us Your lotus face, covered with dark blue locks of hair and thickly powdered with dust. Thus, O hero, You arouse lusty desires in our minds.

TEXT 13

प्रणतकामदं पद्मजार्चितं
धरणिमण्डनं ध्येयमापदि
चरणपङ्कजं शन्तमं च ते रमण नः स्तनेष्वर्पयाधिहन्

praṇata-kāma-dam padmajārcitam dharaṇi-maṇḍanam dhyeyam āpadi caraṇa-pañkajam śantamam ca te ramaṇa naḥ staneṣv arpayādhi-han

SYNONYMS

praṇata—of those who bow down; kāma—the desires; dam—fulfilling; padma-ja—by Lord Brahmā; arcitam—worshiped; dharaṇi—of the earth; maṇḍanam—the ornament; dhyeyam—the proper object of meditation; āpadi—in time of distress; caraṇa-pañkajam—the lotus feet; śam-tamam—giving the highest satisfaction; ca—and; te—Your; ramaṇa—O lover; naḥ—our; staneṣu—on the breasts; arpaya—please place; adhi-han—O destroyer of mental distress.

TRANSLATION

Your lotus feet, which are worshiped by Lord Brahmā, fulfill the desires of all who bow down to them. They are the ornament of the earth, they give the highest satisfaction, and in times of danger they are the appropriate object of meditation. O lover, O destroyer of anxiety, please put those lotus feet upon our breasts.

TEXT 14

सुरतवर्धनं शोकनाशनं
स्वरितवेणुना सुष्ठु चुम्बितम्
इतररागविस्मारणं नृणां वितर वीर नस्तेऽधरामृतम्

surata-vardhanam śoka-nāśanam svarita-veṇunā suṣṭhu cumbitam itara-rāga-vismāraṇam nṛṇām vitara vīra nas te 'dharāmṛtam

SYNONYMS

surata—conjugal happiness; vardhanam—which increases; śoka—grief; nāśanam—which destroys; svarita—vibrated; veṇunā—by Your flute; suṣṭhu—abundantly; cumbitam—kissed; itara—other; rāga—attachments; vismāraṇam—causing to forget; nṛṇām—men; vitara—please spread; vīra—O hero; naḥ—upon us; te—Your; adhara—of the lips; amṛtam—the nectar.

TRANSLATION

O hero, kindly distribute to us the nectar of Your lips, which enhances conjugal pleasure and vanquishes grief. That nectar is thoroughly relished by Your vibrating flute and makes people forget any other attachment.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī's charming commentary on this verse is in the form of a dialogue between the gopīs and Kṛṣṇa:

"The gopīs say, 'O Kṛṣṇa, You exactly resemble Dhanvantari, the best of physicians. So please give us some medicine, for we are suffering from the disease of romantic desire for You. Don't hesitate to give us the medicinal nectar of Your lips freely, without our paying a substantial price. Since You are a great hero in giving charity, You should give it without any payment, even to the most wretched persons. Consider that we are losing our life and that now You can restore us to life by giving us that nectar. After all, You have already given it to Your flute, which is simply a hollow bamboo stick.'

"Kṛṣṇa says, 'But the diet of people in this world is the bad one of attachment to wealth, followers, family and so forth. The particular medicine you've requested should not be given to those who have such a bad diet.'

" 'But this medicine makes one forget all other attachments. So wonderful is this herbal drug that it counteracts bad dietary habits. Please give that nectar to us, O hero, since You are most charitable.' "

TEXT 15

अटति यद्भवानह्नि काननं

त्रुटि युगायते त्वामपश्यताम्
कुटिलकुन्तलं श्रीमुखं च ते जड उदीक्षतां पक्ष्मकृद् दृशाम aṭati yad bhavān ahni kānanam truṭi yugāyate tvām apaśyatām kuṭila-kuntalam śrī-mukham ca te jaḍa udīkṣatām pakṣma-kṛd dṛśām

SYNONYMS

aṭati—travel; yat—when; bhavān—You; ahni—during the daytime; kānanam—to the forest; truṭi—about 1/1700 of a second; yugāyate—becomes like an entire millennium; tvām—You; apaśyatām—for those who do not see; kuṭila—curling; kuntalam—with locks of hair; śrī—beautiful; mukham—face; ca—and; te—Your; jaḍaḥ—foolish; udīkṣatām—for those who are eagerly looking; pakṣma—of lids; kṛt—the creator; dṛśām—of the eyes.

TRANSLATION

When You go off to the forest during the day, a tiny fraction of a second becomes like a millennium for us because we cannot see You. And even when we can eagerly look upon Your beautiful face, so lovely with its adornment of curly locks, our pleasure is hindered by our eyelids, which were fashioned by the foolish creator.

TEXT 16

पतिसुतान्वयभ्रातृबान्धवान्
अतिविलङ्घ्य तेऽन्त्यच्युतागताः

गतिविदस्तवोद्गीतमोहिताः कितव योषितः कस्त्यजेन्निशि

pati-sutānvaya-bhrāṭṛ-bāndhavān ativilaṅghya te 'nty acyutāgatāḥ gati-vidas tavodgīta-mohitāḥ kitava yoṣitaḥ kas tyajen niśi

SYNONYMS

pati—husbands; suta—children; anvaya—ancestors; bhrāṭṛ—brothers; bāndhavān—and other relatives; ativilaṅghya—completely neglecting; te—Your; anti—into the presence; acyuta—O infallible one; āgatāḥ—having come; gati—of our movements; vidaḥ—who understand the purpose; tava—Your; udgīta—by the loud song (of the flute); mohitāḥ—bewildered; kitava—O cheater; yoṣitaḥ—women; kaḥ—who; tyajet—would abandon; niśi—in the night.

TRANSLATION

Dear Acyuta, You know very well why we have come here. Who but a cheater like You would abandon young women who come to see Him in the middle of the night, enchanted by the loud song of His flute? Just to see You, we have completely rejected our husbands, children, ancestors, brothers and other relatives.

TEXT 17

रहसि संविदं हृच्छयोदयं
प्रहसिताननं प्रेमवीक्षणम्

बृहदुरः श्रियो वीक्ष्य धाम ते मुहुरतिस्पृहा मुह्यते मनः

rahasi samvidam hr̥c-chayodayam prahasitānanam prema-vīkṣaṇam bṛhad-urāḥ śriyo vīkṣya dhāma te muhur ati-spr̥hā muhyate manaḥ

SYNONYMS

rahasi—in private; samvidam—confidential discussions; hr̥t-śaya—of lust in the heart; udayam—the rise; prahasita—smiling; ānanam—face; prema—loving; vīkṣaṇam—glances; bṛhat—broad; urāḥ—chest; śriyaḥ—of the goddess of fortune; vīkṣya—seeing; dhāma—the abode; te—Your; muhur—repeatedly; ati—excessive; spr̥hā—hankering; muhyate—bewilders; manaḥ—the mind.

TRANSLATION

Our minds are repeatedly bewildered as we think of the intimate conversations we had with You in secret, feel the rise of lust in our hearts and remember Your smiling face, Your loving glances and Your broad chest, the resting place of the goddess of fortune. Thus we experience the most severe hankering for You.

TEXT 18

ब्रजवनौकसां व्यक्तिरङ्ग ते
वृजिनहन्त्र्यलं विश्वमङ्गलम्
त्यज मनाक्च नस्त्वत्स्पृहात्मनां

स्वजनहृद्गुजां यन्निषूदनम्

vraja-vanaukasām vyaktir aṅga te vṛjina-hantri alam viśva-maṅgalam tyaja manāk ca naḥ tvat-sprhātmanām sva-jana-hṛd-rujām yat niṣūdanam

SYNONYMS

vraja-vana—in the forests of Vraja; okasām—for those who dwell; vyaktiḥ—the appearance; aṅga—dear one; te—Your; vṛjina—of distress; hantri—the agent of destruction; alam—extremely so; viśva-maṅgalam—all-auspicious; tyaja—please release; manāk—a little; ca—and; naḥ—to us; tvat—for You; sprhā—with hankering; ātmanām—whose minds are filled; sva—Your own; jana—devotees; hṛt—in the hearts; rujām—of the disease; yat—which is; niṣūdanam—that which counteracts.

TRANSLATION

O beloved, Your all-auspicious appearance vanquishes the distress of those living in Vraja's forests. Our minds long for Your association. Please give to us just a bit of that medicine, which counteracts the disease in Your devotees' hearts.

PURPORT

According to the ācāryas, the gopīs repeatedly entreat Lord Kṛṣṇa to place His lotus feet on their breasts. The gopīs are not victims of material lust, but rather they are absorbed in pure love of Godhead and thus want to serve Lord Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet by offering their beautiful breasts to Him. Materialistic persons, who are victims of mundane sex desire, will not be able to understand how these conjugal dealings take place on a pure, spiritual platform, and that is the materialists' great misfortune.

TEXT 19

यत्ते सुजातचरणाम्बुरुहं स्तनेषु
भीताः शनैः प्रिय दधीमहि कर्कशेषु तेनाटवीमटसि तद्व्यथते न किं स्वित कूर्पादिभिर्भ्रमति धीर्भवदायुषां नः

yat te sujāta-caraṇāmburuhaṁ staneṣu bhītāḥ śanaiḥ priya dadhīmahi karkaśeṣu tenāṭavīm aṭasi tad vyathate na kiṁ svit kūrpādibhir bhramati dhīr bhavad-āyusām naḥ

SYNONYMS

yat—which; te—Your; su-jāta—very fine; caraṇa-ambu-ruham—lotus feet; staneṣu—on the breasts; bhītāḥ—being afraid; śanaiḥ—gently; priya—O dear one; dadhīmahi—we place; karkaśeṣu—rough; tena—with them; aṭavīm—the forest; aṭasi—You roam; tat—they; vyathate—are distressed; na—not; kim svit—we wonder; kūrpa-ādibhiḥ—by small stones and so on; bhramati—flutters; dhīḥ—the mind; bhavad-āyusām—of those of whom Your Lordship is the very life; naḥ—of us.

TRANSLATION

O dearly beloved! Your lotus feet are so soft that we place them gently on our breasts, fearing that Your feet will be hurt. Our life rests only in You. Our minds, therefore, are filled with anxiety that Your tender feet might be wounded by pebbles as You roam about on the forest path.

PURPORT

The translation of this verse is from Śrīla Prabhupāda's English rendering of Caitanya-caritāmṛta (Ādi 4.173).

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Thirty-first Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "The Gopīs' Songs of Separation."

32. The Reunion

This chapter describes how Śrī Kṛṣṇa manifested Himself in the midst of the gopīs, who had become extremely disturbed by their separation from Him. After He consoled them, they expressed to Him their deep feelings of ecstasy.

The gopīs having shown in various ways their great eagerness to see Kṛṣṇa, the attractor of Cupid, He appeared before them wearing silken yellow garments and a beautiful flower garland. Some of the gopīs, overwhelmed with ecstasy at seeing Him, grasped His hands, others placed His arm on their shoulders, and others accepted the remnants of betel nut He had chewed. Thus they served Him.

One gopī, impelled by loving anger toward Kṛṣṇa, bit her lip and looked askance at Him. Because the gopīs were so attached to Kṛṣṇa, they were not satiated even by continuously gazing at Him. One of them then placed Kṛṣṇa within her heart, closed her eyes and, embracing Him within herself again and again, became absorbed in transcendental bliss, just like a yogī. In this way the pain the gopīs had felt because of separation from the Lord was dispelled.

Next Lord Kṛṣṇa went to the bank of the Yamunā in the company of the cowherd girls, His internal potencies. The gopīs then made a seat for Kṛṣṇa out of their shawls, and after He had sat down they enjoyed with Him by gesturing amorously. The gopīs still felt hurt that Kṛṣṇa had disappeared, so He explained to them why He had done so. He further told them that He had come under the exclusive control of their loving devotion and would ever remain indebted to them.

TEXT 1

श्रीशुक उवाच
इति गोप्यः प्रगायन्त्यः
प्रलपन्त्यश्च चित्रधा
रुरुदुः सुस्वरं राजन् कृष्णदर्शनलालसाः

śrī-śuka uvāca
iti gopyaḥ pragāyantyaḥ pralapantyaś ca citradhā ruruduḥ su-svaram rājan
kṛṣṇa-darśana-lālasāḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; iti—thus, as related above; gopyaḥ—the gopīs; pragāyantyaḥ—singing forth; pralapantyaḥ—speaking forth; ca—and; citradhā—in various charming ways; ruruduḥ—they cried; su-svaram—loudly; rājan—O King; kṛṣṇa-darśana—for the sight of Kṛṣṇa; lālasāḥ—hankering.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: O King, having thus sung and spoken their hearts out in various charming ways, the gopīs began to weep loudly. They were very eager to see Lord Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 2

तासामाविरभूच्छौरिः
स्मयमानमुखाम्बुजः
पीताम्बरधरः स्रग्वी साक्षान्मन्मथमन्मथः

tāsām āvirabhūc chauriḥ smayamāna-mukhāmbujah pītāmbara-dharaḥ sragvī sākṣān manmatha-manmathaḥ

SYNONYMS

tāsām—before them; āvirabhūt—He appeared; śauriḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; smayamāna—smiling; mukha—His face; ambujah—lotuslike; pīta—yellow; ambara—a garment; dharaḥ—wearing; srag-vī—wearing a flower garland; sākṣāt—directly; man-matha—of Cupid (who bewilders the mind); man—of the mind; mathaḥ—the bewilderer.

TRANSLATION

Then Lord Kṛṣṇa, a smile on His lotus face, appeared before the gopīs. Wearing a garland and a yellow garment, He directly appeared as one who can bewilder the mind of Cupid, who himself bewilders the minds of ordinary people.

TEXT 3

तं विलोक्यागतं प्रेष्ठं
प्रीत्युत्फुल्लदृशोऽबलाः
उत्तस्थुर्युगपत्सर्वासु तन्वः प्राणमिवागतम्

tam vilokyāgataṁ preṣṭhaṁ prīty-utphulla-dṛśo 'balāḥ uttasthur yugapat sarvās tanvaḥ prāṇam ivāgatam

SYNONYMS

tam—Him; vilokya—seeing; āgatam—returned; preṣṭham—their dearmost; prīti—out of affection; utphulla—opening wide; dṛśaḥ—their eyes; abalāḥ—the girls; uttasthuḥ—they stood up; yugapat—all at once; sarvāḥ—all of them; tanvaḥ—of the body; prāṇam—the life air; iva—as; āgatam—returned.

TRANSLATION

When the gopés saw that their dearmost Kṛṣṇa had returned to them, they all stood up at once, and out of their affection for Him their eyes bloomed wide. It was as if the air of life had reentered their bodies.

TEXT 4

काचित्कराम्बुजं शौरेरू
जगृहेऽञ्जलिना मुदा
काचिद्धार तद्बाहुम् अंसे चन्दनभूषितम्

*kācit karāmbujam śaurer jagṛhe 'ñjalinā mudā kācid dadhāra tad-bāhum
amse candana-bhūṣitam*

SYNONYMS

kācit—one of them; kara-ambujam—the lotus hand; śaureḥ—of Lord Kṛṣṇa; jagṛhe—seized; añjalinā—in her folded palms; mudā—with joy; kācit—another; dadhāra—put; tad-bāhum—His arm; amse—on her shoulder; candana—with sandalwood paste; bhūṣitam—adorned.

TRANSLATION

One gopī joyfully took Kṛṣṇa's hand between her folded palms, and another placed His arm, anointed with sandalwood paste, on her shoulder.

TEXT 5

काचिदञ्जलिनागृह्णात्
तन्वी ताम्बूलचर्वितम्
एका तदङ्घ्रिकमलं

सन्तप्ता स्तनयोरधात्

kācid añjalināgrhṇāt
tanvī tāmbūla-carvitam ekā tad-aṅghri-kamalam
santaptā stanayor adhāt

SYNONYMS

kācit—one; añjalinā—with joined hands; agrṇṇāt—took; tanvī—slender; tāmbūla—of betel nut; carvitam—His chewed remnants; ekā—one; tat—His; aṅghri—foot; kamalam—lotus; santaptā—burning; stanayor—on her breasts; adhāt—placed.

TRANSLATION

A slender gopī respectfully took in her joined hands the betel nut He had chewed, and another gopī, burning with desire, put His lotus feet on her breasts.

TEXT 6

एका भ्रुकुटिमाबध्य
प्रेमसंरम्भविह्वला
घ्नन्तीवैक्षत्कटाक्षेपैः सन्दष्टदशनच्छदा

ekā bhru-kuṭim ābadhya
prema-saṁrambha-vihvalā ghnantīvaikṣat kaṭākṣepaiḥ

sandaṣṭa-daśana-cchadā

SYNONYMS

ekā—one more gopī; bhru-kuṭim—her eyebrows; ābadhya—constricting; prema—of her pure love; saṁrambha—by the fury; vihvalā—beside herself; ghnantī—injuring; iva—as if; aikṣat—she looked; kaṭa—of her sidelong glances; ākṣepaiḥ—with the insults; sandaṣṭa—biting; daśana—of her teeth; chadā—the covering (her lips).

TRANSLATION

One gopī, beside herself with loving anger, bit her lips and stared at Him with frowning eyebrows, as if to wound Him with her harsh glances.

TEXT 7

अपरानिमिषद्दृग्भ्यां
जुषाणा तन्मुखाम्बुजम्
आपीतमपि नातृप्यत् सन्तस्तच्चरणं यथा

aparānimiṣad-dṛgbhyām
juṣāṇā tan-mukhāmbujam āpītam api nātṛpyat
santas tac-caraṇam yathā

SYNONYMS

aparā—yet another gopī; animiṣat—unblinking; dṛgbhyām—with eyes; juṣāṇā—relishing; tat—His; mukha-ambujam—lotus face; āpītam—fully tasted; api—although; na atṛpyat—She did not become satiated; santaḥ—mystic saints; tat-caraṇam—His feet; yathā—as.

TRANSLATION

Another gopī looked with unblinking eyes upon His lotus face, but even after deeply relishing its sweetness She did not feel satiated, just as mystic saints are never satiated when meditating upon the Lord's feet.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura explains that the analogy given here of saintly persons meditating upon the Lord's feet is only partially applicable, since the ecstasy the gopīs felt when Kṛṣṇa came back was actually unparalleled. Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī also reveals that this particular gopī is the most fortunate of all, Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī.

TEXT 8

तं काचिन्नेत्ररन्ध्रेण
हृदि कृत्वा निमील्य च
पुलकाङ्ग्युपगुह्यास्ते योगीवानन्दसम्प्लुता

taṁ kācin netra-randhreṇa
hṛdi kṛtvā nimīlya ca pulakāṅgy upaguhyāste yogīvānanda-samplutā

SYNONYMS

tam—Him; kācit—one of them; netra—of her eyes; randhreṇa—through the aperture; hṛdi—in her heart; kṛtvā—placing; nimīlya—closing; ca—and; pulaka-aṅgī—the hair on her limbs standing on end; upaguhya—embracing; āste—she remained; yogī—a yogī; iva—like; ānanda—in ecstasy; samplutā—drowned.

TRANSLATION

One gopī took the Lord through the aperture of her eyes and placed Him within her heart. Then, with her eyes closed and her bodily hairs standing on end, she continuously embraced Him within. Thus immersed in transcendental ecstasy, she resembled a yogī meditating upon the Lord.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura states that the seven gopīs mentioned so far in this chapter are the first seven of the eight principal gopīs, whose status allowed them to immediately approach Śrī Kṛṣṇa upon His reappearance. The ācārya quotes a verse from the Śrī Vaiṣṇava-toṣaṇī that gives the names of these seven as Candrāvalī, Śyāmalā, Śaibyā, Padmā, Śrī Rādhā, Lalitā and Viśākhā. The eighth is understood to be Bhadrā. Śrī Vaiṣṇava-toṣaṇī itself quotes a verse from the Skanda Purāṇa that declares these eight gopīs to be the principal among the three billion gopīs. Detailed information about the hierarchy of gopīs is available in Śrīla Rūpa Gosvāmī's Ujjvala-nīlamanī.

The Padma Purāṇa confirms that Śrī Rādhā is the foremost of the gopīs:

yathā rādhā priyā viṣṇos
tasyāḥ kuṇḍam priyam tathā sarva-gopīṣu saivaikā viṣṇor atyanta-vallabhā

"Just as Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī is most dear to Kṛṣṇa, Her bathing pond is similarly dear. Of all the gopīs, She is the most beloved of the Lord."

The Bṛhad-gautamīya-tantra also names Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī as Kṛṣṇa's foremost consort:

*devī kṛṣṇa-mayī proktā
rādhikā para-devatā sarva-lakṣmī-mayī sarva
kāntiḥ sammohinī parā*

"The transcendental goddess Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī is the direct counterpart of Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa. She is the central figure for all the goddesses of fortune. She possesses all attractiveness to attract the all-attractive Personality of Godhead. She is the primeval internal potency of the Lord." (This translation is Śrīla Prabhupāda's English rendering of Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi 4.83.)

Additional information about Śrī Rādhā is given in the Ṛg-pariśiṣṭa (the supplement to the Ṛg Veda): rādhayā mādhave devo mādhavenaiva rādhikā/vibhrājante janeṣu. "Among all persons, it is Śrī Rādhā in whose company Lord Mādhava is especially glorious, as She is especially glorious in His."

TEXT 9

सर्वास्ताः केशवालोक-परमोत्सवनिर्वृताः
जहुर्विरहजं तापं
प्राज्ञं प्राप्य यथा जनाः

*sarvās tāḥ keśavālokaparamotsava-nirvṛtāḥ
jahur viraha-jam tāpaṁ*

prājñam prāpya yathā janāḥ

SYNONYMS

sarvāḥ—all; tāḥ—those gopīs; keśava—of Lord Kṛṣṇa; āloka—by the sight; parama—supreme; utsava—of festivity; nirvṛtāḥ—feeling joy;; jahuḥ—they gave up; viraha-jam—born of their separation; tāpam—the distress; prājñam—a spiritually enlightened person; prāpya—achieving; yathā—as; janāḥ—people in general.

TRANSLATION

All the gopīs enjoyed the greatest festivity when they saw their beloved Keśava again. They gave up the distress of separation, just as people in general forget their misery when they gain the association of a spiritually enlightened person.

TEXT 10

ताभिर्विधूतशोकाभिरु
भगवानच्युतो वृत्तः
व्यरोचताधिकं तात पुरुषः शक्तिभिर्यथा

tābhir vidhūta-śokābhir
bhagavān acyuto vṛtaḥ vyarocatādhikam tāta
puruṣaḥ śaktibhir yathā

SYNONYMS

tābhiḥ—by these gopīs; vidhūta—fully cleansed; śokābhiḥ—of their distress; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; acyutaḥ—the infallible Lord; vṛtaḥ—surrounded; vyarocata—appeared brilliant; adhikam—exceedingly; tāta—my dear (King Parikṣit); puruṣaḥ—the Supreme Soul; śaktibhiḥ—with His transcendental potencies; yathā—as.

TRANSLATION

Encircled by the gopīs, who were now relieved of all distress, Lord Acyuta, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, shone forth splendidly. My dear King, Kṛṣṇa thus appeared like the Supersoul encircled by His spiritual potencies.

PURPORT

The gopīs are Lord Kṛṣṇa's internal potency, and therefore when they were relieved and happy again the Lord shone forth even more brilliantly than before, and His transcendental bliss increased. Kṛṣṇa loves the gopīs with pure transcendental love, and they love Him in the same pure way. The whole affair, conducted on the transcendental platform, is inconceivable to those bound in material existence.

TEXTS 11-12

ताः समादाय कालिन्ध्या
निर्विश्य पुलिनं विभुः
विकसत्कुन्दमन्दार
सुरभ्यनिलषट्पदम्

शरच्चन्द्रांशुसन्दोह-ध्वस्तदोषातमः शिवम्

कृष्णाया हस्ततरला चितकोमलवालुकम्

*tāḥ samādāya kālindyā nirviśya pulinam vibhuḥ vikasat-kunda-mandāra
surabhy-anila-ṣaṭpadam*

*śarac-candrāmśu-sandohadhvasta-doṣā-tamaḥ śivam kṛṣṇāyā hasta-taralā
cita-komala-vālukam*

SYNONYMS

tāḥ—those gopīs; samādāya—taking; kālindyāḥ—of the Yamunā; nirviśya—entering upon; pulinam—the bank; vibhuḥ—the almighty Supreme Lord; vikasat—blooming; kunda-mandāra—of kunda and mandāra flowers; surabhi—fragrant; anila—with the breeze; sat-padam—with bees; śarat—autumnal; candra—of the moon; amśu—of the rays; sandoha—by the abundance; dhvasta—dispelled; doṣā—of the night; tamaḥ—the darkness; śivam—auspicious; kṛṣṇāyāḥ—of the river Yamunā; hasta—like hands; tarala—by her waves; ācita—collected; komala—soft; vālukam—sand.

TRANSLATION

The almighty Lord then took the gopīs with Him to the bank of the Kālindī, who with the hands of her waves had scattered piles of soft sand upon the shore. In that auspicious place the breeze, bearing the fragrance of blooming kunda and mandāra flowers, attracted many bees, and the abundant rays of the autumn moon dispelled the darkness of night.

TEXT 13

तद्दर्शनाह्लादविधूतहृद्भुजो
मनोरथान्तं श्रुतयो यथा ययुः
स्वैरुत्तरीयैः कुचकुङ्कुमाङ्कितैर् अचीकूपन्नासनमात्मबन्धवे

tad-darśanāhlāda-vidhūta-hṛd-rujo manorathāntam śrutayo yathā yayuḥ svair uttarīyaiḥ kuca-kuṅkumāṅkitair acīkṣann āsanam ātma-bandhave

SYNONYMS

tat—Him, Kṛṣṇa; darśana—due to seeing; āhlāda—by the ecstasy; vidhūta—driven away; hṛt—in their hearts; rujaḥ—the pain; manaḥ-ratha—of their desires; antam—the ultimate fulfillment; śrutayaḥ—the revealed scriptures; yathā—as; yayuḥ—they attained; svaiḥ—with their own; uttarīyaiḥ—covering garments; kuca—of their breasts; kuṅkuma—with the vermilion powder; aṅkitaiḥ—smeared; acīkṣan—they arranged; āsanam—a seat; ātma—of their souls; bandhave—for the dear friend.

TRANSLATION

Their heartache vanquished by the ecstasy of seeing Kṛṣṇa, the gopés, like the personified Vedas before them, felt their desires completely fulfilled. For their dear friend Kṛṣṇa they arranged a seat with their shawls which were smeared with the kuṁkuma powder from their breasts.

PURPORT

In the Eighty-seventh Chapter of this canto (Text 23), the śrutis, or personified Vedas, pray as follows:

striya uragendra-bhoga-bhuja-daṇḍa-viṣakta-dhiyo vayam api te samāḥ samadṛśo 'nghri-saroja-sudhāḥ

"These women fully absorbed their minds in meditation on Lord Kṛṣṇa's powerful arms, which are like the bodies of great serpents. We want to become just like the gopīs and render service to His lotus feet." The śrutis had seen Kṛṣṇa during His appearance in the previous day of Brahmā and had become full of the most intense desire to associate with Him. Then in this kalpa they became gopīs. And since the Vedas are eternal in human society, the śrutis in this kalpa also become full of desire for Kṛṣṇa and in the next kalpa will also become gopīs. This information is given by Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura.

TEXT 14

तत्रोपविष्टो भगवान् स ईश्वरो
योगेश्वरान्तर्हृदि कल्पितासनः
चकास गोपीपरिषद्गतोऽर्चितस् त्रैलोक्यलक्ष्म्येकपदं वपुर्दधत्

tatropaviṣṭo bhagavān sa īśvaro yogeśvarāntar-hṛdi kalpitāsanah cakāsa gopī-pariṣad-gato 'rcitas trailokya-lakṣmy-eka-padam vapur dadhat

SYNONYMS

tatra—there; upaviṣṭaḥ—seated; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; saḥ—He; īśvaraḥ—the ultimate controller; yoga-īśvara—of the masters of mystic meditation; antaḥ—within; hṛdi—the hearts; kalpita—arranged; āśanaḥ—His seat; cakāsa—He appeared resplendent; gopī-parīṣat—in the assembly of the gopīs; gataḥ—present; arcitaḥ—worshiped; trai-lokya—of the three worlds; lakṣmī—of the beauty and other opulences; eka—the exclusive; padam—reservoir; vapuḥ—His transcendental, personal form; dadhat—exhibiting.

TRANSLATION

Lord Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, for whom the great masters of mystic meditation arrange a seat within their hearts, took His seat in the assembly of gopīs. His transcendental body, the exclusive abode of beauty and opulence within the three worlds, shone brilliantly as the gopīs worshiped Him.

PURPORT

The masters of mystic meditation include Lord Śiva, Ananta Śeṣa and other exalted personalities, all of whom keep the Lord seated within the lotus of their hearts. This same Lord, conquered by the intense, selfless love of the gopīs, agreed to become their boyfriend and dance with them in Vṛndāvana, after sitting upon their fragrant shawls on the bank of the Yamunā River.

TEXT 15

सभाजयित्वा तमनङ्गदीपनं

सहासलीलेक्षणविभ्रमभ्रुवा
संस्पर्शनेनाङ्कृताङ्घ्रिहस्तयोः संस्तुत्य ईषत्कुपिता बभाषिरे sabhājayitvā tam anaṅga-dīpanam sahāsa-līlekṣaṇa-vibhrama-bhruvā saṁsparśanenāṅka-kṛtāṅghri-hastayoḥ saṁstutya īṣat kupitā babhāṣire

SYNONYMS

sabhājayitvā—honoring; tam—Him; anaṅga—of lusty desires; dīpanam—the inciter; sa-hāsa—smiling; līlā—playful; īkṣaṇa—with glances; vibhrama—sporting; bhruvā—with their eyebrows; saṁsparśanena—with touching; aṅka—upon their laps; kṛta—placed; aṅghri—of His feet; hastayoḥ—and hands; saṁstutya—offering praise; īṣat—somewhat; kupitāḥ—angry; babhāṣire—they spoke.

TRANSLATION

Śrī Kṛṣṇa had awakened romantic desires within the gopīs, and they honored Him by glancing at Him with playful smiles, gesturing amorously with their eyebrows, and massaging His hands and feet as they held them in their laps. Even while worshiping Him, however, they felt somewhat angry, and thus they addressed Him as follows.

TEXT 16

श्रीगोप्य ऊचुः
भजतोऽनुभजन्त्येक

एक एतद्विपर्ययम्
नोभयांश्च भजन्त्येक एतन्नो ब्रूहि साधु भोः

*śrī-gopya ūcuḥ
bhajato 'nubhajanty eka eka etad-viparyayam nobhayāṁś ca bhajanty eka
etan no brūhi sādhu bhoḥ*

SYNONYMS

śrī-gopyaḥ ūcuḥ—the gopīs said; bhajataḥ—to those who respect them; anu—reciprocally; bhajanti—show respect; eke—some; eke—some; etat—to this; viparyayam—the contrary; na ubhayān—with neither; ca—and; bhajanti—reciprocate; eke—some; etat—this; naḥ—to us; brūhi—speak; sādhu—properly; bhoḥ—O dear one.

TRANSLATION

The gopīs said: Some people reciprocate the affection only of those who are affectionate toward them, while others show affection even to those who are indifferent or inimical. And yet others will not show affection toward anyone. Dear Kṛṣṇa, please properly explain this matter to us.

PURPORT

By this apparently polite question, the gopīs want to expose Lord Kṛṣṇa's failure to properly reciprocate their love. They were very disturbed when Śrī Kṛṣṇa left them in the forest, and they want to know why He caused them to suffer in these loving affairs.

TEXT 17

श्रीभगवानुवाच
मिथो भजन्ति ये सख्यः
स्वार्थैकान्तोद्यमा हि ते
न तत्र सौहृदं धर्मः स्वार्थार्थं तद्धि नान्यथा

*śrī-bhagavān uvāca
mitho bhajanti ye sakhyaḥ svārthaikāntodyamā hi te na tatra sauhṛdam dharmah svārthārtham tad dhi nānyathā*

SYNONYMS

śrī-bhagavān uvāca—the Supreme Personality of Godhead said; mithaḥ—mutually; bhajanti—reciprocate; ye—who; sakhyaḥ—friends; sva-artha—for their own sake; eka-anta—exclusively; udyamāḥ—whose endeavor; hi—indeed; te—they; na—not; tatra—therein; sauhṛdam—true friendship; dharmah—true religiosity; sva-artha—of their own benefit; artham—for the sake; tat—that; hi—indeed; na—not; anyathā—otherwise.

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Personality of Godhead said: So-called friends who show affection for each other only to benefit themselves are actually selfish. They have no true friendship, nor are they following the true principles of religion. Indeed, if they did not expect benefit for themselves, they would not reciprocate.

PURPORT

The Lord here reminds the gopīs that in pure loving friendship there is no sense of selfish interest but rather only love for one's friend.

TEXT 18

भजन्त्यभजतो ये वै
करुणाः पितरौ यथा
धर्मो निरपवादोऽत्र सौहृदं च सुमध्यमाः

bhajanty abhajato ye vai karuṇāḥ pitarau yathā dharmo nirapavādo 'tra sauhṛdam ca su-madhyamāḥ

SYNONYMS

bhajanti—they devotedly serve; abhajataḥ—with those who do not reciprocate with them; ye—those who; vai—indeed; karuṇāḥ—merciful; pitarau—parents; yathā—as; dharmāḥ—religious duty; nirapavādaḥ—faultless; atra—in this; sauhṛdam—friendship; ca—and; su-madhyamāḥ—O slender-waisted ones.

TRANSLATION

My dear slender-waisted gopīs, some people are genuinely merciful or, like parents, naturally affectionate. Such persons, who devotedly serve even those who fail to reciprocate with them, are following the true, faultless path of religion, and they are true well-wishers.

TEXT 19

भजतोऽपि न वै केचिद्
भजन्त्यभजतः कुतः
आत्मारामा ह्याप्तकामा अकृतज्ञा गुरुद्रुहाः

*bhajato 'pi na vai kecid bhajanty abhajataḥ kutaḥ ātmārāmā hy āpta-kāmā
akṛta-jñā guru-druhaḥ*

SYNONYMS

bhajataḥ—with those who are acting favorably; api—even; na—not; vai—certainly; kecit—some; bhajanti—reciprocate; abhajataḥ—with those who are not acting favorably; kutaḥ—what to speak of; ātma-ārāmāḥ—the self-satisfied; hi—indeed; āpta-kāmāḥ—those who have already attained their material desires; akṛta-jñāḥ—those who are ungrateful; guru-druhaḥ—those who are inimical to superiors.

TRANSLATION

Then there are those individuals who are spiritually self-satisfied, materially fulfilled or by nature ungrateful or simply envious of superiors. Such persons will not love even those who love them, what to speak of those who are inimical.

PURPORT

Some people, being spiritually self-satisfied, do not reciprocate others' affection because they want to avoid entanglement in mundane dealings. Other persons do not reciprocate simply out of envy or arrogance. And still others fail to reciprocate because they are materially satisfied and thus uninterested in new material opportunities. Lord Kṛṣṇa patiently explains all these things to the gopīs.

TEXT 20

नाहं तु सख्यो भजतोऽपि जन्तून्
भजाम्यमीषामनुवृत्तिवृत्तये
यथाधनो लब्धधने विनष्टे तच्चिन्तयान्यन्निभृतो न वेद

nāhaṁ tu sakhyo bhajato 'pi jantūn bhajāmy amīṣām anuvṛtti-vṛttaye yathādhano labdha-dhane vinaṣṭe tac-cintayānyan nibhṛto na veda

SYNONYMS

na—do not; aham—I; tu—on the other hand; sakhyaḥ—O friends; bhajataḥ—worshiping; api—even; jantūn—with living beings; bhajāmi—reciprocate; amīṣām—their; anuvṛtti—propensity (for pure love); vṛttaye—in order to impel; yathā—just as; adhanaḥ—a poor man; labdha—having obtained; dhane—wealth; vinaṣṭe—and it being lost; tat—of that; cintayā—with anxious thought; anyat—anything else; nibhṛtaḥ—filled;

na veda—does not know.

TRANSLATION

But the reason I do not immediately reciprocate the affection of living beings even when they worship Me, O gopés, is that I want to intensify their loving devotion. They then become like a poor man who has gained some wealth and then lost it, and who thus becomes so anxious about it that he can think of nothing else.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa states in Bhagavad-gītā, ye yathā mām prapadyante tāms tathaiva bhajāmy aham: [Bg. 4.11] "As people approach Me, I reciprocate with them accordingly." Yet even if the Lord is approached by someone with devotion, to intensify the devotee's love the Lord may not immediately reciprocate fully. In fact, the Lord is truly reciprocating. After all, a sincere devotee always prays to the Lord, "Please help me to love You purely." Therefore the Lord's so-called neglect is actually the fulfillment of the devotee's prayer. Lord Kṛṣṇa intensifies our love for Him by apparently separating Himself from us, and the result is that we achieve what we really wanted and prayed for: intense love for the Absolute Truth, Kṛṣṇa. Thus Lord Kṛṣṇa's apparent negligence is actually His thoughtful reciprocation and the fulfillment of our deepest and purest desire.

According to the ācāryas, as Lord Kṛṣṇa began to speak this verse the gopīs looked at one another with squinting eyes, trying to hide the smiles breaking out on their faces. Even as Lord Kṛṣṇa was speaking, the gopīs had begun to realize that He was bringing them to the highest perfection of loving service.

TEXT 21

एवं मदर्थोज्झितलोकवेद
स्वानाम्हि वो मय्यनुवृत्तयेऽबलाः
मयापरोक्षं भजता तिरोहितं मासूयितुं मार्हत तत्प्रियं प्रियाः

evam mad-arthojjhita-loka-veda svānām hi vo mayy anuvṛttaye 'balāḥ mayāparokṣam bhajatā tirohitam māsūyitum mārhatha tat priyam priyāḥ

SYNONYMS

evam—thus; mat—My; artha—for the sake; ujjhita—having rejected; loka—worldly opinion; veda—the opinion of the Vedas; svānām—and relatives; hi—indeed; vaḥ—of you; mayi—for Me; anuvṛttaye—for the loving propensity; abalāḥ—My dear girls; mayā—by Me; aparokṣam—removed from your sight; bhajatā—who is actually reciprocating; tirohitam—the disappearance; mā—with Me; asūyitum—to be inimical; ma arhatha—you should not; tat—therefore; priyam—with your beloved; priyāḥ—My dear beloveds.

TRANSLATION

My dear girls, understanding that simply for My sake you had rejected the authority of worldly opinion, of the Vedas and of your relatives, I acted as I did only to increase your attachment to Me. Even when I removed Myself from your sight by suddenly disappearing, I never stopped loving you. Therefore, My beloved gopīs, please do not harbor any bad feelings toward Me, your beloved.

PURPORT

Here the Lord indicates that though the gopīs were already perfect in their love for Him, still, to inconceivably increase their perfection and show an example for the world, He acted as He did.

TEXT 22

न पारयेऽहं निरवद्यसंयुजां
स्वसाधुकृत्यं विबुधायुषापि वः
या माभजन्दुर्जरगेहशृङ्खलाः संवृश्च्य तद्वः प्रतियातु साधुना

na pāraye 'haṁ niravadya-saṁyujāṁ sva-sādhukṛtyaṁ vibudhāyusaṁpi vaḥ yā mābhajan durjara-geha-śṛṅkhalāḥ saṁvṛścyā tad vaḥ pratiyātu sādhunā

SYNONYMS

na—not; pāraye—am able to make; aham—I; niravadya-saṁyujāṁ—to those who are completely free from deceit; sva-sādhukṛtyam—proper compensation; vibudha-āyusā—with a lifetime as long as that of the demigods; api—although; vaḥ—to you; yāḥ—who; mā—Me; abhajan—have worshiped; durjara—difficult to overcome; geha-śṛṅkhalāḥ—the chains of household life; saṁvṛścyā—cutting; tat—that; vaḥ—of you; pratiyātu—let it be returned; sādhunā—by the good activity itself.

TRANSLATION

I am not able to repay My debt for your spotless service, even within a lifetime of Brahmā. Your connection with Me is beyond reproach. You have worshiped Me, cutting off all domestic ties, which are difficult to break.

Therefore please let your own glorious deeds be your compensation.

PURPORT

The translation and word meanings for this verse are taken from Śrīla Prabhupāda's English rendering of Śrī Caitanya-caritāmṛta (Ādi 4.180).

In conclusion, the gopīs became eternally glorious by their behavior in the Lord's temporary absence, and the mutual love between them and the Lord was wonderfully enhanced. This is the perfection of Kṛṣṇa and His loving devotees.

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A . C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Thirty-second Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "The Reunion."

33. The Rāsa Dance

This chapter describes Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa's rāsa dance, which He enjoyed with His beloved girlfriends in the forests along the Yamunā River.

The Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrī Kṛṣṇa, is most expert in the knowledge of transcendental moods. In the company of the gopīs, who were tightly bound to Him by the ropes of affection and totally dedicated to His service, the Lord expanded Himself into numerous forms. The gopīs became intoxicated with their enthusiasm to enjoy the rāsa dance, and thus they began satisfying Kṛṣṇa's senses by singing, dancing and gesturing amorously. The sweet voices of the gopīs filled all the directions.

Even after Lord Kṛṣṇa manifested Himself in numerous forms, each gopī

thought He was standing next to her alone. Gradually the gopīs became fatigued from the continuous dancing and singing, and each of them placed her arm on the shoulder of the Kṛṣṇa standing beside her. Some gopīs smelled and kissed Kṛṣṇa's arm, which bore the fragrance of the lotus and was anointed with sandalwood paste. Others put Kṛṣṇa's hand on their bodies, and yet others gave Kṛṣṇa pleasure by embracing Him lovingly.

Lord Kṛṣṇa, being the Supreme Absolute Truth, is the only actual enjoyer and object of enjoyment. Although He is one without a second, He expands Himself into many forms to increase His personal pastimes. Therefore great scholars say that Kṛṣṇa's rāsa-līlā is like a child's playing with His own reflection. Śrī Kṛṣṇa is self-satisfied and fully endowed with inconceivable, transcendental opulences. When He exhibits such pastimes as the rāsa-līlā, all living beings, from Brahmā down to the blades of grass, become merged in the ocean of astonishment.

When Mahārāja Parikṣit heard the narration of Kṛṣṇa's conjugal pastimes with the gopīs, which superficially resemble the activities of lusty, wanton persons, he expressed a doubt to the great devotee Śrīla Śukadeva Gosvāmī. Śukadeva dispelled this doubt by stating, "Since Śrī Kṛṣṇa is the absolute enjoyer, such pastimes as these can never be contaminated by any fault. But if anyone other than the Supreme Personality of Godhead tries to enjoy such pastimes, he will suffer the same fate that someone other than Lord Rudra would suffer if he attempted to drink an ocean of poison. Moreover, even one who only thinks of imitating Lord Kṛṣṇa's rāsa-līlā will certainly suffer misfortune."

The Supreme Absolute Truth, Śrī Kṛṣṇa, is present within the hearts of all living entities as their indwelling witness. When out of His mercy He exhibits His intimate pastimes to His devotees, these activities are never besmirched by mundane imperfection. Any living being who hears of the spontaneous loving attraction the gopīs felt for Lord Kṛṣṇa will have his desires for material sense gratification destroyed at the root and will develop his natural propensity for serving the Supreme Lord, the spiritual master, and the Lord's devotees.

TEXT 1

श्रीशुक उवाच
इत्थं भगवतो गोप्यः
श्रुत्वा वाचः सुपेशलाः
जहुर्विरहजं तापं
तदङ्गोपचिताशिषः

śrī-śuka uvāca
ittham bhagavato gopyaḥ śrutvā vācaḥ su-peśalāḥ
jahur viraha-jam tāpaṁ
tad-aṅgopacitāśiṣaḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; ittham—thus; bhagavataḥ—of the Supreme Personality of Godhead; gopyaḥ—the cowherd girls; śrutvā—hearing; vācaḥ—the words; su-peśalāḥ—most charming; jahuḥ—they gave up; viraha-jam—born out of their feelings of separation; tāpaṁ—the distress; tat—His; aṅga—from (touching) the limbs; upacita—fulfilled; āśiṣaḥ—whose desires.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: When the cowherd girls heard the Supreme Personality of Godhead speak these most charming words, they forgot their distress caused by separation from Him. Touching His transcendental limbs, they felt all their desires fulfilled.

TEXT 2

तत्रारभत गोविन्दो
रासक्रीडामनुव्रतैः
स्त्रीरत्नैरन्वितः प्रीतैर् अन्योन्याबद्धबाहुभिः

*tatrārabhata govindo
rāsa-kṛīḍām anuvrataiḥ strī-ratnair anvitaḥ prītaiḥ anyonyābaddha-bāhubhiḥ*

SYNONYMS

tatra—there; ārabhata—began; govindaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; rāsa-kṛīḍam—the pastime of the rāsa dance; anuvrataiḥ—by the faithful (gopīs); strī—of women; ratnaiḥ—the jewels; anvitaḥ—joined; prītaiḥ—who were satisfied; anyonya—among one another; ābaddha—entwining; bāhubhiḥ—their arms.

TRANSLATION

There on the Yamunā's banks Lord Govinda then began the pastime of the rāsa dance in the company of those jewels among women, the faithful gopīs, who joyfully linked their arms together.

TEXT 3

रासोत्सवः सम्प्रवृत्तो
गोपीमण्डलमण्डितः

योगेश्वरेण कृष्णेन
तासां मध्ये द्वयोर्द्वयोः
प्रविष्टेन गृहीतानां
कण्ठे स्वनिकटं स्त्रियः
यं मन्येरन्नभस्तावद्
विमानशतसङ्कुलम्
दिवौकसां सदाराणाम् औत्सुक्यापहतात्मनाम्

*rāsotsavaḥ sampravṛtto gopī-maṇḍala-maṇḍitaḥ yogeśvareṇa kṛṣṇena
tāsāṁ madhye dvayor dvayoḥ praviṣṭena grhītānām kaṇṭhe sva-nikaṭaṁ striyaḥ yaṁ manyeran nabhas tāvad vimāna-śata-saṅkulam divaukasāṁ sa-dārāṇām autsukyāpahṛtātmanām*

SYNONYMS

rāsa—of the rāsa dance; utsavaḥ—the festivity; sampravṛttaḥ—commenced; gopī-maṇḍala—by the circle of gopīs; maṇḍitaḥ—decorated; yoga—of mystic power; īśvareṇa—by the supreme controller; kṛṣṇena—Lord Kṛṣṇa; tāsām—of them; madhye—within the midst; dvayoḥ dvayoḥ—between each pair; praviṣṭena—present; grhītānām—who were held; kaṇṭhe—by the necks; sva-nikaṭaṁ—next to themselves; striyaḥ—the women; yaṁ—whom; manyeran—considered; nabhaḥ—the sky; tāvat—at that time; vimāna—of airplanes; śata—with hundreds; saṅkulam—crowded; diva—of the heavenly planets; okasām—belonging to the inhabitants; sa—accompanied; dārāṇām—by their wives; autsukya—by eagerness; apahr̥ta—carried away; ātmanām—their minds.

TRANSLATION

The festive rāsa dance commenced, with the gopīs arrayed in a circle. Lord Kṛṣṇa expanded Himself and entered between each pair of gopīs, and as that master of mystic power placed His arms around their necks, each girl thought He was standing next to her alone. The demigods and their wives were overwhelmed with eagerness to witness the rāsa dance, and they soon crowded the sky with their hundreds of celestial airplanes.

PURPORT

Śrīla Bilvamaṅgala Ṭhākura has written the following verse about the rāsa dance:

aṅganām aṅganām antarā mādhave mādhavaṁ mādhavaṁ cāntareṇāṅganāḥ ittham ākalpīte maṇḍale madhya-gaḥ sañjagau veṇunā devakī-nandanāḥ

"Lord Mādhava was situated between each pair of gopīs, and a gopī was situated between each pair of His manifestations. And Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the son of Devakī also appeared in the middle of the circle, playing upon His flute and singing."

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura points out that the gopīs, maddened by love, were unable to understand that Śrī Kṛṣṇa had expanded Himself so He could personally dance with each of them. Each gopī saw one manifestation of Kṛṣṇa. The demigods and their wives, however, could see all His different manifestations as they watched the rāsa dance from their airplanes, and thus they were completely astonished.

TEXT 4

ततो दुन्दुभयो नेदुर
निपेतुः पुष्पवृष्टयः
जगुर्गन्धर्वपतयः
सस्त्रीकास्तद्यशोऽमलम्

*tato dundubhayo nedur nipetuḥ puṣpa-vṛṣṭayah
jagur gandharva-patayah sa-strīkās tad-yaśo 'malam*

SYNONYMS

tataḥ—then; dundubhayaḥ—kettledrums; neduḥ—resounded; nipetuḥ—fell down; puṣpa—of flowers; vṛṣṭayaḥ—rain; jaguḥ—they sang; gandharva-patayaḥ—the chief Gandharvas; sa-strīkāḥ—along with their wives; tat—of Him, Lord Kṛṣṇa; yaśaḥ—the glories; amalam—spotless.

TRANSLATION

Kettledrums then resounded in the sky while flowers rained down and the chief Gandharvas and their wives sang Lord Kṛṣṇa's spotless glories.

PURPORT

As stated here, Lord Kṛṣṇa's glory in dancing the rāsa dance is pure spiritual bliss. The demigods in heaven, in charge of maintaining propriety in the universe, ecstatically accepted the rāsa dance as the ultimate religious affair, completely different from the perverted reflection of romance we find in this mundane world.

TEXT 5

वलयांनां नूपुराणां
किङ्किणीनां च योषिताम्
सप्रियाणामभूच्छब्दसु तुमुलो रासमण्डले

*valayānām nūpurāṇām kiṅkiṇīnām ca yoṣitām
sa-priyāṇām abhūc chabdas tumulo rāsa-maṇḍale*

SYNONYMS

valayānām—of the armlets; nūpurāṇām—ankle bells; kiṅkiṇīnām—bells worn around the waist; ca—and; yoṣitām—of the women; sa-priyāṇām—who were with their beloved; abhūt—there was; śabdaḥ—a sound; tumulaḥ—tumultuous; rāsa-maṇḍale—in the circle of the rāsa dance.

TRANSLATION

A tumultuous sound arose from the armlets, ankle bells and waist bells of the gopīs as they sported with their beloved Kṛṣṇa in the circle of the rāsa dance.

TEXT 6

तत्रातिशुशुभे ताभिर
भगवान्देवकीसुतः
मध्ये मणीनां हैमानां महामरकतो यथा

*tatrātiśuśubhe tābhir
bhagavān devakī-sutaḥ
madhye maṇīnām haimānām
mahā-marakato yathā*

SYNONYMS

tatra—there; atiśuśubhe—appeared most brilliant; tābhiḥ—with them; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; devakī-sutaḥ—Kṛṣṇa, the son of Devakī; madhye—in the midst; maṇīnām—of ornaments; haimānām—golden; mahā—great; marakataḥ—a sapphire; yathā—as.

TRANSLATION

In the midst of the dancing gopīs, Lord Kṛṣṇa appeared most brilliant, like an exquisite sapphire in the midst of golden ornaments.

PURPORT

Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura states that Devakī, besides being the name of Vasudeva's wife, is also a name of mother Yaśodā, as stated in the Ādi Purāṇa: dve nāmnī nanda-bhāryāyā yaśodā devakīti ca. "The wife of Nanda has two names—Yaśodā and Devakī."

TEXT 7

पादन्यासैर्भुजविधुतिभिः सस्मितैर्भ्रूविलासैर्
भज्यन्मध्येश्चलकुचपटैः कुण्डलैर्गण्डलोलैः
स्विद्यन्मुख्यः कवररसनाग्रन्थयः कृष्णवध्वो गायन्त्यस्तं तडित इव ता मेघचक्रे विरेजुः pāda-nyāsair bhuja-vidhutibhiḥ sa-smitair bhrū-vilāsair bhajyan madhyaiś cala-kuca-ṭṭaiḥ kuṇḍalair gaṇḍa-lolaiḥ svidyan-mukhyaḥ kavara-rasanāgranthayaḥ kṛṣṇa-vadhvo gāyantyās taṁ taḍita iva tā megha-cakre virejuḥ

SYNONYMS

pāda—of their feet; nyāsaiḥ—by the placement; bhuja—of their hands; vidhutibhiḥ—by the gestures; sa-smitaiḥ—smiling; bhrū—of their eyebrows; vilāsaiḥ—by the playful movements; bhajyan—bending; madhyaiḥ—by their middles; cala—moving; kuca—covering their breasts; ṭṭaiḥ—by the cloths; kuṇḍalaiḥ—by their earrings; gaṇḍa—on their cheeks; lolaiḥ—rolling; svidyan—perspiring; mukhyaḥ—whose faces; kavara—the braids of their hair; rasanā—and their belts; āgranthayaḥ—having tightly tied; kṛṣṇa-vadhvaḥ—the consorts of Lord Kṛṣṇa; gāyantyāḥ—singing; taṁ—about Him; taḍitaḥ—bolts of lightning; iva—as if; tāḥ—they; megha-cakre—in a range of clouds; virejuḥ—shone.

TRANSLATION

As the gopīs sang in praise of Kṛṣṇa, their feet danced, their hands gestured, and their eyebrows moved with playful smiles. With their braids and belts tied tight, their waists bending, their faces perspiring, the garments on their breasts moving this way and that, and their earrings swinging on their cheeks, Lord Kṛṣṇa's young consorts shone like streaks of lightning in a mass of clouds.

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī explains that according to the analogy of lightning flashing in clouds, the perspiration on the lovely faces of the gopīs resembled drops of mist, and their singing resembled thunder. The word āgranthayaḥ may also be read agranthayaḥ, meaning "loosened." This would indicate that although the gopīs began the dance with their hair and belts tightly drawn, these gradually slackened and loosened.

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī points out that the gopīs were expert at exhibiting mudrās (precise hand gestures that express feelings or convey meanings associated with the theme of a performance). Thus sometimes Kṛṣṇa and the gopīs would artistically move their interlocked arms together, and sometimes they would separate arms and exhibit mudrās to act out the meaning of the songs they were singing.

The word pāda-nyāsaiḥ indicates that the gopīs artistically and gracefully placed the steps of their dancing feet in an enchanting way, and the words sa-smitair bhrū-vilāsair indicate that the romantic movements of their eyebrows, smiling with love, were most charming to behold.

TEXT 8

उच्चैर्जगुर्नृत्यमाना
रक्तकण्ठ्यो रतिप्रियाः कृष्णाभिमर्शमुदिता यद्गीतेनेदमावृतम्

uccair jagur nṛtyamānā
rakta-kaṇṭhyo rati-priyāḥ kṛṣṇābhimarśa-muditā

yad-gītenedam āvṛtam

SYNONYMS

uccaiḥ—loudly; jaguḥ—they sang; nṛtyamānāḥ—while dancing; rakta—colored; kaṇṭhyaḥ—their throats; rati—conjugal enjoyment; priyāḥ—dedicated to; kṛṣṇa-abhimarśa—by the touch of Lord Kṛṣṇa; muditāḥ—joyful; yat—whose; gītena—by the singing; idam—this entire universe; āvṛtam—is pervaded.

TRANSLATION

Eager to enjoy conjugal love, their throats colored with various pigments, the gopīs sang loudly and danced. They were overjoyed by Kṛṣṇa's touch, and they sang songs that filled the entire universe.

PURPORT

According to an authoritative book on music called Śaṅgīta-sāra, tāvanta eva rāgāḥ sūryāvatyo jīva-jātayaḥ, teṣu ṣoḍaśa-sāhasrī purā goṣī-kṛtā varā: "There are as many musical rāgas as there are species of life. Among these rāgas are sixteen thousand principal ones, which were manifested by the gopīs." Thus the gopīs created sixteen thousand different rāgas, or musical modes, and these have subsequently been disseminated throughout the world. The words yad-gītenedam āvṛtam also indicate that even today devotees throughout the world sing the praises of Kṛṣṇa, following the example of the gopīs.

TEXT 9

काचित्समं मुकुन्देन
स्वरजातीरमिश्रिताः

उन्निन्ये पूजिता तेन
प्रीयता साधु साध्विति
तदेव ध्रुवमुन्निन्ये तस्यै मानं च बह्वदात्

*kācit samam mukundena
svara-jātīr amiśritāḥ unninye pūjitā tena prīyatā sādhu sādhu iti tad eva dhruvam unninye tasyai mānam ca bahv adāt*

SYNONYMS

kācit—a certain gopī; samam—together; mukundena—with Lord Kṛṣṇa; svara-jātīḥ—pure musical tones; amiśritāḥ—not confused with the sounds vibrated by Kṛṣṇa; unninye—she raised; pūjitā—honored; tena—by Him; prīyatā—who was pleased; sādhu sādhu iti—saying, "excellent, excellent"; tad eva—that same (melody); dhruvam—with a particular metrical pattern; unninye—vibrated (another gopī); tasyai—to her; mānam—special respect; ca—and; bahu—much; adāt—He gave .

TRANSLATION

One gopī, joining Lord Mukunda in His singing, sang pure melodious tones that rose harmoniously above His. Kṛṣṇa was pleased and showed great appreciation for her performance, saying "Excellent! Excellent!" Then another gopī repeated the same melody, but in a special metrical pattern, and Kṛṣṇa praised her also.

TEXT 10

काचिद्रासपरिश्रान्ता
पार्श्वस्थस्य गदाभृतः
जग्राह बाहुना स्कन्धं क्षथद्वलयमल्लिका

kācid rāsa-parīśrāntā pārśva-sthasya gadā-bhṛtaḥ jagrāha bāhunā skandham ślathad-valaya-mallikā

SYNONYMS

kācit—a certain gopī; rāsa—by the rāsa dance; parīśrāntā—fatigued; pārśva—at Her side; sthasya—who was standing; gadā-bhṛtaḥ—of Lord Kṛṣṇa, holding a baton; jagrāha—took hold of; bāhunā—with Her arm; skandham—the shoulder; ślathat—loosening; valaya—Her bracelets; mallikā—and the flowers (in Her hair).

TRANSLATION

When one gopī grew tired from the rāsa dance, She turned to Kṛṣṇa, standing at Her side holding a baton, and grasped His shoulder with Her arm. The dancing had loosened Her bracelets and the flowers in Her hair.

PURPORT

The previous verse states that Śrī Kṛṣṇa honored the gopīs for their dancing and singing, and in this verse we see how the gopīs responded by dealing intimately and confidently with Him. Here a tired gopī held on to Kṛṣṇa's shoulder with her arm, resting against Him.

Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī explains that the word gadā in this verse indicates a baton suitable for a dancing master. Lord Kṛṣṇa brought this item of paraphernalia to enhance His enjoyment of the rāsa dance. Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī states that the gopī mentioned here is Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, whereas the two gopīs mentioned in the previous verse are, in order, Viśākhā and Lalitā.

TEXT 11

तत्रैकांसगतं बाहुं
कृष्णस्योत्पलसौरभम्
चन्दनालिसमाघ्राय हृष्टरोमा चुचुम्ब ह

tatraikāṁsa-gataṁ bāhum
kṛṣṇasyotpala-saurabham candanāliptam āghrāya
hr̥ṣṭa-romā cucumba ha

SYNONYMS

tatra—there; ekā—one (gopī); aṁsa—upon her shoulder; gatam—placed; bāhum—the arm; kṛṣṇasya—of Lord Kṛṣṇa; utpala—like a blue lotus; saurabham—the fragrance of which; candana—with sandalwood pulp; āliptam—smeared; āghrāya—smelling; hr̥ṣṭa—standing on end; romā—her bodily hairs; cucumba ha—she kissed.

TRANSLATION

Upon the shoulder of one gopī Kṛṣṇa placed His arm, whose natural blue-lotus fragrance was mixed with that of the sandalwood pulp anointing it. As the gopī relished that fragrance, her bodily hair stood on end in jubilation, and she kissed His arm.

TEXT 12

कस्याश्चिन्नाटयविक्षिप्त कुण्डलत्विषमण्डितम्
गण्डं गण्डे सन्दधत्याः प्रादात्ताम्बूलचर्वितम्

kasyāścin nāṭya-vikṣipta kuṇḍala-tviṣa-maṇḍitam gaṇḍam gaṇḍe sandadhatyāḥ prādāt tāmbūla-carvitam

SYNONYMS

kasyāścit—to a certain gopī; nāṭya—by the dancing; vikṣipta—shaken; kuṇḍala—whose earrings; tviṣa—with the glitter; maṇḍitam—adorned; gaṇḍam—her cheek; gaṇḍe—next to His cheek; sandadhatyāḥ—who was placing; prādāt—He carefully gave; tāmbūla—the betel nut; carvitam—chewed

.

TRANSLATION

Next to Kṛṣṇa's cheek one gopī put her own, beautified by the effulgence of her earrings, which glittered as she danced. Kṛṣṇa then carefully gave her the betel nut He was chewing.

TEXT 13

नृत्यती गायती काचित् कूजनूपुरमेखला
पार्श्वस्थाच्युतहस्ताब्जं श्रान्ताधात्स्तनयोः शिवम्

*nṛtyatī gāyatī kācit
kūjan nūpura-mekhalā pārśva-sthācyuta-hastābjam śrāntādhāt stanayoḥ śivam*

SYNONYMS

nṛtyatī—dancing; gāyatī—singing; kācit—a certain gopī; kūjan—murmuring; nūpura—her ankle bells; mekhalā—and her belt; pārśva-stha—standing at her side; acyuta—of Lord Kṛṣṇa; hasta-abjam—the lotus hand; śrāntā—feeling tired; adhāt—placed; stanayoḥ—upon her breasts; śivam—pleasing.

TRANSLATION

Another gopī became fatigued as she danced and sang, the bells on her ankles and waist tinkling. So she placed upon her breasts the comforting lotus hand of Lord Acyuta, who was standing by her side.

TEXT 14

गोप्यो लब्ध्वाच्युतं कान्तं
श्रिय एकान्तवल्लभम्

गृहीतकण्ठ्यस्तद्वोभ्यां गायन्त्यस्तम्बिजहिरे

gopyo labdhvācyutam kāntam śriya ekānta-vallabham grhīta-kaṇṭhyas tad-dorbhyām gāyantyās tam vijahrire

SYNONYMS

gopyaḥ—the gopīs; labdhvā—having attained; acyutam—the infallible Lord; kāntam—as their lover; śriyaḥ—of the goddess of fortune; ekānta—the exclusive; vallabham—lover; grhīta—held; kaṇṭhyaḥ—their necks; tat—His; dorbhyām—by the arms; gāyantyāḥ—singing; tam—about Him; vijahrire—they took pleasure.

TRANSLATION

Having attained as their intimate lover Lord Acyuta, the exclusive consort of the goddess of fortune, the gopīs enjoyed great pleasure. They sang His glories as He held their necks with His arms.

TEXT 15

कर्णोत्पलालकविटङ्ककपोलघर्म-वक्त्रश्रियो वलयनूपुरघोषवाद्यैः
गोप्यः समं भगवता ननृतुः स्वकेश-स्रस्तस्रजो भ्रमरगायकरासगोष्ठ्याम् karṇotpalālaka-viṭaṅka-kapola-gharmavaktra-śriyo valaya-nūpura-ghoṣa-vādyaiḥ gopyaḥ samam bhagavatā nanṛtuḥ sva-keśasrasta-srajo bhramara-gāyaka-rāsa-goṣṭhyām

SYNONYMS

karṇa—upon their ears; utpala—with the lotus flowers; alaka—by locks of their hair; vitāṅka—decorated; kapola—their cheeks; gharma—with perspiration; vaktra—of their faces; śriyaḥ—the beauty; valaya—of their armlets; nūpura—and ankle bells; ghoṣa—of the reverberation; vādyaiḥ—with the musical sound; gopyaḥ—the gopīs; samam—together; bhagavatā—with the Personality of Godhead; nanṛtuḥ—danced; sva—their own; keśa—from the hair; srasta—scattered; srajaḥ—the garlands; bhramara—the bees; gāyaka—singers; rāsa—of the rāsa dance; goṣṭhyām—in the assembly.

TRANSLATION

Enhancing the beauty of the gopīs' faces were the lotus flowers behind their ears, the locks of hair decorating their cheeks, and drops of perspiration. The reverberation of their armlets and ankle bells made a loud musical sound, and their chaplets scattered. Thus the gopīs danced with the Supreme Lord in the arena of the rāsa dance as swarms of bees sang in accompaniment.

TEXT 16

एवं परिष्वङ्गकराभिमर्श-स्निग्धेक्षणोद्दामविलासहासैः रेमे रमेशो ब्रजसुन्दरीभिर यथार्भकः स्वप्रतिबिम्बविभ्रमः

evam pariṣvaṅga-karābhimarśasnigdhekṣaṇoddāma-vilāsa-hāsaiḥ reme rameśo vraja-sundarībhir yathārbhakaḥ sva-pratibimba-vibhramaḥ

SYNONYMS

evam—thus; pariṣvaṅga—with embracing; kara—by His hand; abhimarśa—with touching; snigdha—affectionate; ikṣaṇa—with glances; uddāma—broad; vilāsa—playful; hāsaiḥ—with smiles; reme—He took pleasure; ramā—of the goddess of fortune; īśaḥ—the master; vraja-sundarībhiḥ—with the young women of the cowherd community; yathā—just as; arbhakaḥ—a boy; sva—His own; pratibimba—with the reflection; vibhramaḥ—whose playing.

TRANSLATION

In this way Lord Kṛṣṇa, the original Lord Nārāyaṇa, master of the goddess of fortune, took pleasure in the company of the young women of Vraja by embracing them, caressing them and glancing lovingly at them as He smiled His broad, playful smiles. It was just as if a child were playing with his own reflection.

PURPORT

Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura comments as follows on this verse: "Lord Kṛṣṇa alone is the Supreme Absolute Truth, and His potencies are unlimited. All these potencies, taking personal forms, engage Lord Kṛṣṇa in His pastimes. Just as the opulent manifestation of His one supreme transcendental potency manifests all the countless potencies of the Lord, so in the rāsa dance Kṛṣṇa manifests Himself as many times as there are various potencies represented by the gopīs. Everything is Kṛṣṇa, but by His desire His spiritual energy Yogamāyā manifests the gopīs. When His internal potency Yogamāyā thus produces such pastimes for the enhancement of His transcendental emotions, it is just like a young boy playing with His own reflection. But since these pastimes are created by His spiritual potency, they are eternal and self-manifesting."

TEXT 17

तदङ्गसङ्गप्रमुदाकुलेन्द्रियाः केशान्दुकूलं कुचपट्टिकां वा नाञ्जः प्रतिव्योढुमलं व्रजस्त्रियो विस्रस्तमालाभरणाः कुरुद्वह

tad-aṅga-saṅga-pramudākulendriyāḥ keśān dukūlaṁ kuca-paṭṭikāṁ vā nāñjaḥ prativyoḍhum alaṁ vraja-striyo visrasta-mālābharaṇāḥ kurūdvaha

SYNONYMS

tat—with Him; aṅga-saṅga—from the bodily contact; pramudā—by the joy; ākula—overflowing; indriyāḥ—whose senses; keśān—their hair; dukūlam—dresses; kuca-paṭṭikām—the garments covering their breasts; vā—or; na—not; añjaḥ—easily; prativyoḍhum—to keep properly arranged; alam—capable; vraja-striyaḥ—the women of Vraja; visrasta—scattered; mālā—their flower garlands; ābharaṇāḥ—and ornaments; kuru-udvaha—O most eminent member of the Kuru dynasty.

TRANSLATION

Their senses overwhelmed by the joy of having His physical association, the gopés could not prevent their hair, their dresses and the cloths covering their breasts from becoming disheveled. Their garlands and ornaments scattered, O hero of the Kuru dynasty.

TEXT 18

कृष्णविक्रीडितं वीक्ष्य
मुमुहुः खेचरस्त्रियः
कामार्दिताः शशाङ्कश्च सगणो विस्मितोऽभवत्

kṛṣṇa-vikrīḍitam vīkṣya mumuhuḥ khe-cara-striyaḥ kāmārditāḥ śaśāṅkaś ca sa-gaṇo vismīto 'bhavat

SYNONYMS

kṛṣṇa-vikrīḍitam—the playing of' Kṛṣṇa; vīkṣya—seeing; mumuhuḥ—became entranced; khe-cara—traveling in the sky; striyaḥ—the women (demigoddesses); kāma—by lusty desires; arditāḥ—agitated; śaśāṅkaḥ—the moon; ca—also; sa-gaṇaḥ—with his followers, the stars; vismītaḥ—amazed; abhavat—became.

TRANSLATION

The wives of the demigods, observing Kṛṣṇa's playful activities from their airplanes, were entranced and became agitated with lust. Indeed, even the moon and his entourage, the stars, became astonished.

TEXT 19

कृत्वा तावन्तमात्मानं
यावतीर्गोपयोषितः
रेमे स भगवांस्ताभिर आत्मारामोऽपि लीलया

*kṛtvā tāvantam ātmānam yāvatīḥ gopa-yoṣitaḥ reme sa bhagavāms tābhir
ātmārāmo 'pi līlayā*

SYNONYMS

kṛtvā—making; tāvantam—expanded that many times; ātmānam—Himself;
yāvatīḥ—as many as; gopa-yoṣitaḥ—cowherd women; reme—enjoyed; saḥ—He;
bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; tābhiḥ—with them;
ātma-ārāmaḥ—self-satisfied; api—although; līlayā—as a pastime.

TRANSLATION

Expanding Himself us many times as there were cowherd women to associate with, the Supreme Lord, though self-satisfied, playfully enjoyed their company.

PURPORT

As Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī points out, it has already been explained that Lord Kṛṣṇa is eternally free from all material desire, perfect on the platform of spiritual self-satisfaction.

TEXT 20

तासां रतिविहारेण
श्रान्तानां वदनानि सः
प्रामृजत्करुणः प्रेम्णा शन्तमेनाङ्ग पाणिना

tāsām rati-vihāreṇa śrāntānām vadanāni saḥ prāmṛjat karuṇaḥ premṇā śantamenāṅga pāṇinā

SYNONYMS

tāsām—of them, the gopīs; rati—of conjugal love; vihāreṇa—by the enjoyment; śrāntānām—who were fatigued; vadanāni—the faces; saḥ—He; prāmṛjat—wiped; karuṇaḥ—merciful; premṇā—lovingly; śantamena—most comforting; aṅga—my dear (King Parīkṣit); pāṇinā—with His hand.

TRANSLATION

Seeing that the gopīs were fatigued from conjugal enjoyment, my dear King, merciful Kṛṣṇa lovingly wiped their faces with His comforting hand.

TEXT 21

गोप्यः स्फुरत्पुरटकुण्डलकुन्तलत्विङ्- गण्डश्रिया सुधितहासनिरीक्षणेन
मानं दधत्य ऋषभस्य जगुः कृतानि

पुण्यानि तत्कररुहस्पर्शप्रमोदाः

gopyaḥ sphurat-puraṭa-kunḍala-kuntala-tviḍ-gaṇḍa-śriyā sudhita-hāsa-nirīkṣaṇena mānam dadhatya ṛṣabhasya jaguḥ kṛtāni puṇyāni tat-kara-ruha-sparśa-pramodāḥ

SYNONYMS

gopyaḥ—the gopīs; sphurat—shining; puraṭa—golden; kunḍala—of their earrings; kuntala—and of the locks of their hair; tviḍ—of the effulgence; gaṇḍa—of their cheeks; śriyā—by the beauty; sudhita—made nectarean; hāsa—smiling; nirīkṣaṇena—by their glances; mānam—honor; dadhatyaḥ—giving; ṛṣabhasya—of their hero; jaguḥ—they sang; kṛtāni—the activities; puṇyāni—auspicious; tat—His; kara-ruha—of the fingernails; sparśa—by the touch; pramodāḥ—greatly pleased.

TRANSLATION

The gopīs honored their hero with smiling glances sweetened by the beauty of their cheeks and the effulgence of their curly locks and glittering golden earrings. Overjoyed from the touch of His fingernails, they chanted the glories of His all-auspicious transcendental pastimes.

TEXT 22

ताभिर्युतः श्रममपोहितुमङ्गसङ्ग-घृष्टस्रजः स कुचकुङ्कुमरञ्जितायाः
गन्धर्वपालिभिरनुद्रुत आविशद्वाः

श्रान्तो गजीभिरभराडिव भिन्नसेतुः

tābhir yutaḥ śramam apohitum aṅga-saṅgaghṛṣṭa-srajaḥ sa kuca-kuṅkuma-rañjitāyāḥ gandharva-pālibhir anudruta āviśad vāḥ śrānto gajībhir ibha-rāḍ iva bhinna-setuḥ

SYNONYMS

tābhiḥ—by them; yutaḥ—accompanied; śramam—fatigue; apohitum—to dispel; aṅga-saṅga—by their conjugal association; ghṛṣṭa—crushed; srajaḥ—whose garland; saḥ—He; kuca—from their breasts; kuṅkuma—of the vermilion powder; rañjitāyāḥ—which was smeared by the color; gandharva-pa—(who appeared like) leaders of the heavenly singers; alibhiḥ—by bees; anudrutaḥ—swiftly followed; āviśat—He entered; vāḥ—the water; śrāntaḥ—tired; gajībhiḥ—together with His female elephant consorts; ibha-rāṭ—a lordly elephant; iva—as; bhinna—having broken; setuḥ—the walls of a paddy field.

TRANSLATION

Lord Kṛṣṇa's garland had been crushed during His conjugal dalliance with the gopés and colored vermilion by the kuṇkuma powder on their breasts. To dispel the fatigue of the gopés, Kṛṣṇa entered the water of the Yamunā, followed swiftly by bees who were singing like the best of the Gandharvas. He appeared like a lordly elephant entering the water to relax in the company of his consorts. Indeed, the Lord had transgressed all worldly and Vedic morality just as a powerful elephant might break the dikes in a paddy field.

TEXT 23

सोऽम्भस्यलं युवतिभिः परिषिच्यमानः
प्रेम्णोक्षितः प्रहसतीभिरितस्ततोऽङ्ग
वैमानिकैः कुसुमवर्षिभिरीद्यमानो
रेमे स्वयं स्वरतिरत्र गजेन्द्रलीलः so 'mbhasy alam yuvatibhiḥ pariṣicyamānaḥ premṇekṣitaḥ prahasatībhir itas tato 'nga vaimānikaiḥ kusuma-varṣibhir īdyamāno reme svayaṁ sva-ratir atra gajendra-līlaḥ

SYNONYMS

saḥ—He; ambhasi—in the water; alam—very much; yuvatibhiḥ—by the girls; pariṣicyamānaḥ—being splashed; premṇā—with love; ikṣitaḥ—glanced upon; prahasatībhiḥ—by them, who were laughing; itaḥ tataḥ—here and there; aṅga—my dear King; vaimānikaiḥ—by those traveling in their airplanes; kusuma—flowers; varṣibhiḥ—who were raining down; īdyamānaḥ—being worshiped; reme—enjoyed; svayam—personally; sva-ratiḥ—satisfied within Himself; atra—here; gaja-indra—of a king of the elephants; līlaḥ—whose playing.

TRANSLATION

My dear King, in the water Kṛṣṇa found Himself being splashed on all sides by the laughing gopés, who looked at Him with love. As the demigods worshiped Him by showering flowers from their airplanes, the self-satisfied Lord took pleasure in playing like the king of the elephants.

TEXT 24

ततश्च कृष्णोपवने जलस्थल
प्रसूनगन्धानिलजुष्टदिक्ते
चचार भृङ्गप्रमदागणावृतो यथा मदच्युद् द्विरदः करेणुभिः

tataś ca kṛṣṇopavane jala-sthala prasūna-gandhānila-juṣṭa-dik-taṭe cacāra bhṛṅga-pramadā-gaṇāvṛto yathā mada-cyud dviradaḥ kareṇubhiḥ

SYNONYMS

tataḥ—then; ca—and; kṛṣṇā—of the river Yamunā; upavane—in a small forest; jala—of the water; sthala—and the land; prasūna—of flowers; gandha—with the fragrance; anila—by the wind; juṣṭa—joined; dik-taṭe—the edges of the directions; cacāra—He passed; bhṛṅga—of bees; pramadā—and women; gaṇa—by the groups; āvṛtaḥ—surrounded; yathā—just as; mada-cyut—exuding a secretion from its forehead because of excitement; dviradaḥ—an elephant; kareṇubhiḥ—with his she-elephants.

TRANSLATION

Then the Lord strolled through a small forest on the bank of the Yamunā. This forest was filled to its limits with breezes carrying the fragrances of all the flowers growing on the land and in the water. Followed by His entourage of bees and beautiful women, Lord Kṛṣṇa appeared like an intoxicated elephant with his she-elephants.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī, it is implicit here that after playing in the water Lord Kṛṣṇa had His body massaged, and that He then dressed Himself in His favorite clothing before resuming His pastimes with the gopīs.

TEXT 25

एवं शशाङ्कांशुविराजिता निशाः
स सत्यकामोऽनुरताबलागणः
सिषेव आत्मन्यवरुद्धसौरतः सर्वाः शरत्काव्यकथारसाश्रयाः

evam śaśāṅkāṁśu-virājitā niśāḥ sa satya-kāmo 'nuratābalā-gaṇaḥ siṣeva ātmany avaruddha-saurataḥ sarvāḥ śarat-kāvya-kathā-rasāśrayāḥ

SYNONYMS

evam—in this manner; śaśāṅka—of the moon; aṁśu—by the rays; virājitāḥ—made brilliant; niśāḥ—the nights; saḥ—He; satya-kāmaḥ—whose desires are always fulfilled; anurata—constantly attached to Him; abalā-gaṇaḥ—His many girlfriends; siṣeve—He utilized; ātmani—within Himself; avaruddha—reserved; saurataḥ—conjugal feelings; sarvāḥ—all (the nights); śarat—of the autumn; kāvya—poetic; kathā—of narrations; rasa—of the transcendental moods; āśrayāḥ—the repositories.

TRANSLATION

Although the gopīs were firmly attached to Lord Kṛṣṇa, whose desires are always fulfilled, the Lord was not internally affected by any mundane sex desire. Still, to perform His pastimes the Lord took advantage of all those moonlit autumn nights, which inspire poetic descriptions of transcendental affairs.

PURPORT

It is difficult to translate into English the word rasa, which indicates the spiritual bliss derived from one's loving relationship with Lord Kṛṣṇa. That bliss is experienced in the midst of spiritual pastimes with the Lord and His devotees. Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī explains that great Vaiṣṇava poets like Vyāsa, Parāśara, Jayadeva, Līlāśuka (Bilvamaṅgala Ṭhākura), Govardhanācārya and Śrīla Rūpa Gosvāmī have tried in their poetry to describe the conjugal affairs of the Lord. These descriptions are never complete, however, since the Lord's pastimes are unlimited; thus the attempt to glorify such pastimes is still going on and will go on forever. Lord Kṛṣṇa arranged an extraordinary season of beautiful autumn nights to enhance His loving affairs, and those autumn nights have inspired transcendental poets since time immemorial.

TEXTS 26-27

श्रीपरीक्षिदुवाच
संस्थापनाय धर्मस्य
प्रशमायेतरस्य च
अवतीर्णो हि भगवान्
अंशेन जगदीश्वरः

स कथं धर्मसेतूनां
वक्ता कर्ताभिरक्षिता

प्रतीपमाचरद् ब्रह्मन् परदाराभिमर्शनम्

*śrī-parīkṣid uvāca
saṁsthāpanāya dharmasya praśamāyetaṛasya ca avatīrṇo hi bhagavān amśena jagad-īśvaraḥ sa katham dharma-setūnām vaktā kartābhirakṣitā pratīpam ācarad brahman para-dārābhimarśanam*

SYNONYMS

śrī-parīkṣit uvāca—Śrī Parīkṣit Mahārāja said; saṁsthāpanāya—for the establishment; dharmasya—of religious principles; praśamāya—for the subduing; itarasya—of the opposite; ca—and; avatīrṇaḥ—descended (upon this earth); hi—indeed; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; amśena—with His plenary expansion (Śrī Balarāma); jagat—of the entire universe; īśvaraḥ—the Lord; saḥ—He; katham—how; dharma-setūnām—of the restrictive codes of moral behavior; vaktā—the original speaker; kartā—the executor; abhirakṣitā—the protector; pratīpam—contrary; ācarat—behaved; brahman—O brāhmaṇa, Śukadeva Gosvāmī; para—of others; dāra—the wives; abhimarśanam—touching.

TRANSLATION

Parīkṣit Mahārāja said: O brāhmaṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, the Lord of the universe, has descended to this earth along with His plenary portion to destroy irreligion and reestablish religious principles. Indeed, He is the original speaker, follower and guardian of moral laws. How, then, could He have violated them by touching other men's wives?

PURPORT

As Śukadeva Gosvāmī was speaking, King Parīkṣit noticed that some persons seated in the assembly on the bank of the Ganges were harboring doubt about the Lord's activities. These doubtful persons were karmīs, jñānīs and others who were not devotees of the Lord. To clear up their doubts, King Parīkṣit asks this question on their behalf.

TEXT 28

आप्तकामो यदुपतिः
कृतवान् वै जुगुप्सितम्
किमभिप्राय एतन्नः
शंशयं छिन्धि सुव्रत

āpta-kāmo yadu-patiḥ
kṛtavān vai jugupsitam kim-abhiprāya etan naḥ śaṁśayaṁ chindhi su-vrata

SYNONYMS

āpta-kāmaḥ—self-satisfied; yadu-patiḥ—the master of the Yadu dynasty; kṛtavān—has performed; vai—certainly ; jugupsitam—that which is contemptible; kim-abhiprāyaḥ—with what intent; etat—this; naḥ—our; śaṁśayaṁ—doubt; chindhi—please cut; su-vrata—O faithful upholder of vows

TRANSLATION

O faithful upholder of vows, please destroy our doubt by explaining to us what purpose the self-satisfied Lord of the Yadus had in mind when He behaved so contemptibly.

PURPORT

It is clear to the enlightened that these doubts will arise in the minds and hearts of persons unfamiliar with the transcendental pastimes of the Lord. Therefore since time immemorial great sages and enlightened kings like Parīkṣit Mahārāja have openly raised these questions to provide the authoritative answer for all posterity.

TEXT 29

श्रीशुक उवाच
धर्मव्यतिक्रमो दृष्ट
ईश्वराणां च साहसम्
तेजीयसां न दोषाय वह्नेः सर्वभुजो यथा

śrī-śuka uvāca
dharma-vyatikramo dṛṣṭa īśvarāṇāṁ ca sāhasam tejīyasāṁ na doṣāya
vahneḥ sarva-bhujo yathā

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; dharma-vyatikramaḥ—the transgression of religious or moral principles; dṛṣṭaḥ—seen; īśvarāṇām—of powerful controllers; ca—even; sāhasam—due to audacity; tejīyasām—who are spiritually potent; na—does not; doṣāya—(lead) to any fault; vahneḥ—of fire; sarva—everything; bhujah—devouring; yathā—as.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: The status of powerful controllers is not harmed by any apparently audacious transgression of morality we may see in them, for they are just like fire, which devours everything fed into it and remains unpolluted.

PURPORT

Great, potent personalities are not ruined by an apparent transgression of moral principles. Śrīdhara Svāmī mentions the examples of Brahmā Indra, Soma, Viśvāmitra and others. A fire devours all that is fed into it but the fire does not change its nature. Similarly, a great personality does not fall from his position by an irregularity in behavior. In the following verse, however, Śukadeva Gosvāmī makes it clear that if we try to imitate the great personalities ruling the universe, the result will be catastrophic.

TEXT 30

नैतत्समाचरेज्जातु
मनसापि ह्यनीश्वरः
विनश्यत्याचरन्मौढ्याद् यथारुद्रोऽब्धिजं विषम्

naitat samācarej jātu

manasāpi hy anīśvaraḥ vinaśyaty ācaran maudhyād yathārudro 'bdhi-jam viṣam

SYNONYMS

na—not; etat—this; samācaret—should perform; jātu—ever; manasā—with the mind; api—even; hi—certainly; anīśvaraḥ—one who is not a controller; vinaśyati—he is destroyed; ācaran—acting; maudhyāt—out of foolishness; yathā—as; arudraḥ—one who is not Lord Rudra; abdhijam—generated from the ocean; viṣam—poison.

TRANSLATION

One who is not a great controller should never imitate the behavior of ruling personalities, even mentally. If out of foolishness an ordinary person does imitate such behavior, he will simply destroy himself, just as a person who is not Rudra would destroy himself if he tried to drink an ocean of poison.

PURPORT

Lord Śiva, or Rudra, once drank an ocean of poison, and the result was that an attractive blue mark appeared on his neck. But if we were to drink even a drop of such poison, we would die immediately. Just as we should not imitate this pastime of Śiva's, we should not imitate Lord Kṛṣṇa's activities with the gopīs. We should clearly understand that while Lord Kṛṣṇa certainly descends to demonstrate religious principles, He also descends to demonstrate that He is God and we are not. That also must be demonstrated. The Lord enjoys with His internal potency and thus attracts us to the spiritual platform. We should not try to imitate Kṛṣṇa, for we will suffer severely.

TEXT 31

ईश्वराणां वचः सत्यं
तथैवाचरितं क्वचित्
तेषां यत्स्ववचोयुक्तं बुद्धिमांस्तत्समाचरेत्

īśvarāṇām vacaḥ satyaṁ tathāivācaritaṁ kvacit teṣāṁ yat sva-vaco-yuktaṁ buddhimāṁs tat samācaret

SYNONYMS

īśvarāṇām—of the Lord's empowered servants; vacaḥ—the words; satyaṁ—true; tathā eva—also; ācaritaṁ—what they do; kvacit—sometimes; teṣāṁ—of them; yat—which; sva-vacaḥ—with their own words; yuktaṁ—in agreement; buddhi-mān—one who is intelligent; tat—that; samācaret—should perform.

TRANSLATION

The statements of the Lord's empowered servants are always true, and the acts they perform are exemplary when consistent with those statements. Therefore one who is intelligent should carry out their instructions.

PURPORT

The word īśvara is usually defined in Sanskrit dictionaries as "lord, master, ruler," and also as "capable, potent to perform." Śrīla Prabhupāda often translated the word īśvara as "controller," which brilliantly synthesizes the two fundamental concepts of īśvara, namely a master or ruler and a capable or potent person. A master may be incompetent, but a controller is a master or lord who in fact makes things happen. The parameśvara, the supreme īśvara, the supreme controller, is of course God, Kṛṣṇa, the cause of all causes.

Although people in general, especially in the Western countries, are not aware of the fact, powerful personalities control our universe. The modern, impersonal concept of the universe depicts an almost totally lifeless cosmos in which the earth floats meaninglessly. Thus we are left with the dubious "ultimate purpose" of preserving and reproducing our genetic code, which has its own "ultimate purpose" of adding another link to the meaningless chain of events by again reproducing itself.

In contrast to this sterile, meaningless world concocted by ignorant materialists, the actual universe is full of life—personal life—and in fact full of God, who pervades and supports all that exists. The essence of reality is the Supreme Personality of Godhead and His personal relationship with the innumerable living beings, of whom we are samples. Some of the living beings are trapped in the illusion of materialism, or identification with the material body, while others are liberated, aware of their eternal, spiritual nature. A third class comprises those progressing in self-realization from the materialistic state of ignorance to the enlightened state of Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

Reality is ultimately personal and divine, and therefore it is not surprising that, as the Vedic literature reveals to us, our universe and other universes are managed by great personalities, just as our city, state and country are managed by empowered personalities. When we democratically award a particular politician the right to govern, we vote for him because he has exhibited something we call "leadership" or "ability." We think, "He'll get the job done." In other words, it is only after an individual acquires the power to govern that we vote for him; our vote does not make him a leader but rather recognizes a power in him coming from some other source. Thus, as Lord Kṛṣṇa explains at the end of the Tenth Chapter of the Bhagavad-gītā, any living being exhibiting an extraordinary power, ability or authority must have been empowered by the Lord Himself or by the Lord's energy.

Those directly empowered by the Lord are devoted to Him, and thus their power and influence spread goodness throughout the world, whereas those who are empowered by the Lord's illusory potency are in an indirect relationship with Kṛṣṇa because they do not directly reflect His will. Of course, they do reflect His will indirectly, since it is by Kṛṣṇa's arrangement that the laws of nature act upon ignorant living beings, gradually persuading them, through their journey of many lifetimes, to surrender to the Supreme Lord. Thus as politicians create wars, false hopes and innumerable passionate schemes for the materialistic persons who follow them, the politicians are indirectly carrying out the Lord's program of allowing the conditioned souls to experience the bitter fruit of godlessness.

Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura has translated the word īśvarāṇām as "those who have become powerful through knowledge and austerity." As one understands the nature and will of God and makes the personal sacrifice required to achieve excellence in spiritual life, one becomes empowered by the Supreme Lord to represent His will, which one has intelligently recognized and accepted.

The Supreme Personality of Godhead kindly descends to earth to show a vivid example of religious behavior. As Lord Kṛṣṇa states in the Bhagavad-gītā (3.24), "If I did not execute standard duties, the whole world would be misled and in fact destroyed." Thus the Lord showed, in His different incarnations, how to act properly in this world. A good example is Lord Rāmacandra, who behaved wonderfully as the son of King Daśaratha.

But when Lord Kṛṣṇa Himself descends, He also demonstrates the ultimate religious principle, namely that the Supreme Lord is beyond all other living beings and that no one can imitate His supreme position. This foremost of all religious principles—that the Lord is unique, without equal or superior—was clearly demonstrated in Lord Kṛṣṇa's apparently immoral pastimes with the gopīs. No one can imitate these activities without incurring dire consequences, as explained here by Śukadeva Gosvāmī. One who thinks that Lord Kṛṣṇa is an ordinary living being subjected to lust, or who accepts His rāsa dance as admirable and tries to imitate it, will certainly be vanquished, as described in Text 30 of this chapter.

Finally, a distinction must be made between the Lord and His empowered servants. An empowered servant of the Lord, as in the case of Brahmā, may experience a remnant of reactions to previous activities, according to the law of karma. But the Lord is eternally free from any entanglement in the laws of karma. He is on a unique platform.

TEXT 32

कुशलाचरितेनैषाम्
इह स्वार्थो न विद्यते
विपर्ययेण वानर्थो निरहङ्कारिणां प्रभो

*kuśalācaritenaiṣām
iha svārtho na vidyate viparyayeṇa vānartho nirahaṅkāriṇām prabho*

SYNONYMS

kuśala—pious; ācaritena—by activity; eṣām—for them; iha—in this world; sva-arthaḥ—selfish benefit; na vidyate—does not accrue; viparyayeṇa—by the opposite; vā—or; anarthaḥ—undesirable reactions; nirahaṅkāriṇām—who are free from false ego; prabho—my dear sir.

TRANSLATION

My dear Prabhu, when these great persons who are free from false ego act piously in this world, they have no selfish motives to fulfill, and even when they act in apparent contradiction to the laws of piety, they are not subject to sinful reactions.

TEXT 33

किमुताखिलसत्त्वानां
तिर्यङ्मर्त्यादिवौकसाम्
ईशितुश्चेशितव्यानां
कुशलाकुशलान्वयः

*kim utākhila-sattvānām
tiryañ-martya-divaukasām īśituś ceśitavyānām kuśalākuśalānvayaḥ*

SYNONYMS

kim uta—what to speak then; akhila—of all; sattvānām—created beings; tiryak—animals; martya—humans; diva-okasām—and inhabitants of heaven; īśutuḥ—for the controller; ca—and; īśitavyānām—of those who are controlled; kuśala—with piety; akuśala—and impiety; anvayaḥ—causal connection.

TRANSLATION

How, then, could the Lord of all created beings—animals, men and demigods—have any connection with the piety and impiety that affect His subject creatures?

PURPORT

As explained in Text 32, even great personalities empowered by the Lord are free from the laws of karma. Then what to speak of the Lord Himself. After all, the law of karma is created by Him and is an expression of His omnipotent will. Therefore His activities, which He performs out of His own pure goodness, are never subject to criticism by ordinary living beings.

TEXT 34

यत्पादपङ्कजपरागनिषेवतृप्ता
योगप्रभावविधुताखिलकर्मबन्धाः
स्वैरं चरन्ति मुनयोऽपि न नह्यमानास् तस्येच्छयात्तवपुषः कुत एव बन्धः yat-pāda-paṅkaja-parāga-niṣeva-tr̥ptā yoga-prabhāva-vidhutākhila-karma-bandhāḥ svairam caranti munayo 'pi na nahyamānās tasyecchayātta-vapuṣaḥ kuta eva bandhaḥ

SYNONYMS

yat—whose; pāda-paṅkaja—of the lotus feet; parāga—of the dust; niṣeva—by the service; tr̥ptāḥ—satisfied; yoga-prabhāva—by the power of yoga; vidhuta—washed away; akhila—all; karma—of fruitive activity; bandhāḥ—whose bondage; svairam—freely; caranti—they act; munayaḥ—wise sages; api—also; na—never; nahyamānāḥ—becoming bound up; tasya—of Him; icchayā—by His desire; ātta—accepted; vapuṣaḥ—transcendental bodies; kutaḥ—where; eva—indeed; bandhaḥ—bondage.

TRANSLATION

Material activities never entangle the devotees of the Supreme Lord, who are fully satisfied by serving the dust of His lotus feet. Nor do material activities entangle those intelligent sages who have freed themselves from the bondage of all fruitive reactions by the power of yoga. So how could there be any question of bondage for the Lord Himself, who assumes His transcendental forms according to His own sweet will?

TEXT 35

गोपीनां तत्पतीनां च
सर्वेषामेव देहिनाम्
योऽन्तश्चरति सोऽध्यक्षः क्रीडनेनेह देहभाक्

*gopīnām tat-patīnām ca
sarveṣām eva dehinām yo 'ntaś carati so 'dhyakṣaḥ krīḍaneneha deha-bhāk*

SYNONYMS

gopīnām—of the gopīs; tat-patīnām—of their husbands; ca—and; sarveṣām—of all; eva—indeed; dehinām—embodied living beings; yaḥ—who; antaḥ—within; carati—lives; saḥ—He; adhyakṣaḥ—the overseeing witness; krīḍanena—for sport; iha—in this world; deha—His form; bhāk—assuming.

TRANSLATION

He who lives as the overseeing witness within the gopīs and their husbands, and indeed within all embodied living beings, assumes forms in this world to enjoy transcendental pastimes.

PURPORT

We certainly do not assume our bodies to enjoy transcendental pastimes, as the Lord does. We eternal souls have accepted material bodies by force because of our foolish attempt to enjoy this material world. The Lord's forms are all eternal, spiritual existence and cannot be reasonably equated with our temporary flesh.

Since Lord Kṛṣṇa is the Supreme Lord dwelling within the gopīs, their so-called husbands and all other living beings, what possible sin could there be on His part if He embraces some of the beings He Himself has created? What fault could there be if the Lord goes with the gopīs to a secret place, since He already dwells within the most secret part of every living being, the core of the heart?

TEXT 36

अनुग्रहाय भक्तानां
मानुषं देहमास्थितः
भजते तादृशीः क्रीड याः श्रुत्वा तत्परो भवेत्

*anugrahāya bhaktānām mānuṣaṁ deham āsthitaḥ bhajate tādṛśīḥ krīḍa
yāḥ śrutvā tat-para bhavet*

SYNONYMS

anugrahāya—to show mercy; bhaktānām—to His devotees;

mānuṣam—humanlike; deham—a body; āsthitaḥ—assuming; bhajate—He accepts; tādṛśiḥ—such; kṛidāḥ—pastimes; yāḥ—about which; śrutvā—hearing; tat-paraḥ—dedicated to Him; bhavet—one becomes.

TRANSLATION

When the Lord assumes a humanlike body to show mercy to His devotees, He engages in such pastimes as will attract those who hear about them to become dedicated to Him.

PURPORT

Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī explains in this connection that when Lord Kṛṣṇa descends to this world in His original two-handed form, out of kindness He manifests that form in a way His devotees conditioned in human society can perceive and understand. Thus here it is stated, mānuṣam deham āsthitaḥ: "He assumes a humanlike body." Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura glorifies the Lord's conjugal pastimes, stating that these romantic affairs have an inconceivable spiritual potency to attract the polluted heart of conditioned souls. It is an undeniable fact that any pure—or simple—hearted person who hears narrations of the loving affairs of Kṛṣṇa will be attracted to the lotus feet of the Lord and gradually become His devotee .

TEXT 37

नासूयन् खलु कृष्णाय
मोहितास्तस्य मायया
मन्यमानाः स्वपार्श्वस्थान् स्वान् स्वान्दारान् ब्रजौकसः

nāsūyan khalu kṛṣṇāya mohitās tasya māyayā manyamānāḥ sva-pārśva-sthān svān svān dārān vrajaukasah

SYNONYMS

na asūyan—were not jealous; khalu—even; kṛṣṇāya—against Kṛṣṇa; mohitāḥ—bewildered; tasya—His; māyayā—by the spiritual potency of illusion; manyamānāḥ—thinking; sva-pārśva—at their own sides; sthān—standing; svān svān—each their own; dārān—wives; vraja-okasaḥ—the cowherd men of Vraja.

TRANSLATION

The cowherd men, bewildered by Kṛṣṇa's illusory potency, thought their wives had remained home at their sides. Thus they did not harbor any jealous feelings against Him.

PURPORT

Because the gopīs loved Kṛṣṇa exclusively, Yogamāyā protected their relationship with the Lord at all times, even though they were married. Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī quotes from the Ujjvala-nīlamaṇi as follows:

*māyā-kalpita-tāḍṛk-strī śīlanenānusūyubhiḥ
na jātu vraja-devīnām
patibhiḥ saha saṅgamaḥ*

"The gopīs' jealous husbands consorted not with their wives but with doubles manufactured by Māyā. Thus these men never actually had any intimate contact with the divine ladies of Vraja." The gopīs are the internal energy of the Lord and can never belong to any other living being. Kṛṣṇa arranged their apparent marriage to other men simply to create the excitement of parakīya-rasa, the love between a married woman and her paramour. These activities are absolutely pure because they are the Lord's pastimes, and saintly persons since time immemorial have relished these supreme spiritual events.

TEXT 38

ब्रह्मरात्र उपावृत्ते
वासुदेवानुमोदिताः
अनिच्छन्त्यो ययुर्गोप्यः स्वगृहान् भगवत्प्रियाः

brahma-rātra upāvṛtte vāsudevānumoditāḥ
anicchantyo yayur gopyaḥ
sva-grhān bhagavat-priyāḥ

SYNONYMS

brahma-rātre—the nighttime of Brahmā; upāvṛtte—being completed; vāsudeva—by Lord Kṛṣṇa; anumoditāḥ—advised; anicchantyaḥ—unwilling; yayuh—went; gopyaḥ—the gopīs; sva-grhān—to their homes; bhagavat—of the Supreme Lord; priyāḥ—the dear consorts.

TRANSLATION

After an entire night of Brahmā had passed, Lord Kṛṣṇa advised the gopīs to return to their homes. Although they did not wish to do so, the Lord's beloved consorts complied with His command.

PURPORT

In the Bhagavad-gītā (8.17) Lord Kṛṣṇa explains, "By human calculation, a thousand ages taken together is the duration of Brahmā's one day. And such also is the duration of his night." Thus one thousand ages entered within a single twelve-hour night when Lord Kṛṣṇa performed His rāsa dance. Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī compares this inconceivable impression of time to the fact that many universes fit neatly within the forty-mile range of earthly Vṛndāvana. Or one may consider that mother Yaśodā could not encircle the small abdomen of child Kṛṣṇa with numerous ropes, and that at another time He manifested many universes within His mouth. The transcendence of spiritual reality above and beyond mundane physics is concisely explained in Śrīla Rūpa Gosvāmī's Laghu-bhagavatāmṛta:

*evam prabhoḥ priyāṇām ca dhāmnaś ca samayasya ca avicintya-prabhāvatvād
atra kiñcin na durghaṭam*

"Nothing is impossible for the Lord, His dear devotees, His transcendental abode or the time of His pastimes, for all these entities are inconceivably powerful."

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī further explains that the word vāsudevānumoditāḥ indicates that Lord Kṛṣṇa advised the gopīs, "To assure the success of these pastimes, you and I should keep them secret." The word vāsudeva, a name of Kṛṣṇa, also indicates Lord Kṛṣṇa's plenary expansion who acts as the presiding Deity of consciousness. When the word vāsudeva is understood in this context, the word vāsudevānumoditāḥ indicates that the presiding Deity of consciousness, Vāsudeva, manifested embarrassment and fear of their elders within the gopīs' hearts, and therefore it was only with great reluctance that the young girls returned home.

TEXT 39

विक्रीडितं व्रजवधूभिरिदं च विष्णोः
श्रद्धान्वितोऽनुशृणुयादथ वर्णयेद्यः
भक्तिं परां भगवति प्रतिलभ्य कामं हृद्रोगमाश्वपहिनोत्यचिरेण धीरः vikrīḍitam vraja-vadhūbhir idam ca viṣṇoḥ śraddhānvito 'nuśṛṇuyād atha varṇayed yaḥ bhaktim parām bhagavati pratilabhya kāmam hṛd-rogam āśv apahinoty acireṇa dhīraḥ

SYNONYMS

vikrīḍitam—the sporting; vraja-vadhūbhiḥ—with the young women of Vṛndāvana; idam—this; ca—and; viṣṇoḥ—by Lord Viṣṇu; śraddhā-anvitaḥ—faithfully; anuśṛṇuyāt—hears; atha—or; varṇayet—describes; yaḥ—who; bhaktim—devotional service; parām—transcendental; bhagavati—unto the Supreme Personality of Godhead; pratilabhya—obtaining; kāmam—material lust; hṛt—in the heart; rogam—the disease; āśu—quickly; apahinoti—he drives away; acireṇa—without delay; dhīraḥ—sober.

TRANSLATION

Anyone who faithfully hears or describes the Lord's playful affairs with the young gopīs of Vṛndāvana will attain the Lord's pure devotional service. Thus he will quickly become sober and conquer lust, the disease of the heart.

PURPORT

The extraordinary power of Lord Kṛṣṇa's conjugal pastimes is clearly revealed here. Qualitatively, the Lord's spiritual, loving pastimes are the diametric opposite of material, lusty affairs, so much so that simply by hearing about the Lord's pastimes a devotee conquers sex desire. By reading pornographic literature or hearing about material romance, we certainly do not conquer sex desire but rather increase our lust. But hearing or reading about the Lord's conjugal affairs has exactly the opposite effect because they are of the opposite nature, being purely spiritual. Therefore it is by the causeless mercy of Lord Kṛṣṇa that He exhibits His rāsa-līlā within this world. If we become attached to this narration, we will experience the bliss of spiritual love and thus reject the perverted reflection of that love, which is called lust. As nicely put by Lord Kṛṣṇa in the Bhagavad-gītā (2.59), param dṛṣṭvā nivartate: "Once having directly experienced the Supreme, one will not return to material pleasures."

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Thirty-third Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "The Rāsa Dance."

34. Nanda Mahārāja Saved and Śaṅkha-cūḍa Slain

This chapter describes how Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa saved His father Nanda from the clutches of a serpent and delivered a Vidyādhara named Sudarśana from the curse of the Āṅgīrasa sages.

One day Nanda Mahārāja and the other cowherd men placed their family members on their bullock carts and went to the Ambikāvana forest to worship Lord Śiva. After bathing in the Sarasvatī River and worshipping Lord Sadāśiva, a form of Lord Viṣṇu, they decided to spend the night in the forest. As they slept, a hungry serpent came and began to swallow Nanda Mahārāja. Terrified, Nanda cried out in distress, "O Kṛṣṇa! O my son, please save this surrendered soul!" The cowherd men immediately awoke and began beating the serpent with wooden torches, but the serpent would not release Nanda. Then Lord Kṛṣṇa came and touched the serpent with His lotus foot. The serpent was immediately freed from his reptilian body and appeared in his original form as a demigod. He told them about his previous identity and described how he had been cursed by a group of sages. Then he offered his homage at the lotus feet of Śrī Kṛṣṇa and, on the Lord's order, returned to his own abode.

Later, during the Dola-pūrṇimā festival, Śrī Kṛṣṇa and Baladeva enjoyed pastimes in the forest with the young women of Vraja. The girlfriends of Baladeva and those of Kṛṣṇa joined together and sang about Their transcendental qualities. When the two Lords became absorbed in singing to the point of apparent intoxication, a servant of Kuvera's named Śaṅkhacūḍa boldly came forward and began abducting the gopīs. The young girls called out, "Kṛṣṇa, please save us!" and He and Rāma began to chase after Śaṅkhacūḍa. "Don't be afraid!" Kṛṣṇa called out to the gopīs. In fear of the Lords, Śaṅkhacūḍa left the gopīs aside and ran for his life. Kṛṣṇa chased after him, swiftly approached him and with a blow of His fist removed Śaṅkhacūḍa's jewel, together with his head. Then Kṛṣṇa brought the jewel back and presented it to Lord Baladeva.

TEXT 1

श्रीशुक उवाच
एकदा देवयात्रायां

गोपाला जातकौतुकाः
अनोभिरनडुद्युक्तैः प्रययुस्तेऽम्बिकावनम्

śrī-śuka uvāca
ekadā deva-yātrāyām
gopālā jāta-kautukāḥ anobhir anaḍud-yuktaiḥ
prayayus te 'mbikā-vanam

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; ekadā—once; deva—(to worship) the demigod, Lord Śiva; yātrāyām—on a trip; gopālāḥ—the cowherd men; jāta-kautukāḥ—eager; anobhiḥ—with wagons; anaḍut—to oxen; yuktaiḥ—yoked; prayayuh—went forth; te—they; ambikā-vanam—to the Ambikā forest.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: One day the cowherd men, eager to take a trip to worship Lord Śiva, traveled by bullock carts to the Ambikā forest.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī, the word ekadā here indicates the occasion of Śiva-rātri. He further mentions that Ambikāvana is in Gujarat province, near the city of Siddhapura. Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura adds that the departure of the cowherd men specifically took place on the fourteenth lunar day of the dark fortnight of the month of Phālguna. Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī also quotes authorities who claim that Ambikāvana lies on the bank of the Sarasvatī River, northwest of Mathurā. Ambikāvana is notable because within it are deities of Śrī Śiva and his wife, goddess Umā.

TEXT 2

तत्र स्नात्वा सरस्वत्यां
देवं पशुपतिं विभुम्
आनर्चुरर्हणैर्भक्त्या देवीं च णृपतेऽम्बिकाम्

*tatra snātvā sarasvatyām
devam paśu-patiṁ vibhum ānarcuṛ arhaṇair bhaktyā
devīm ca ṇṛpate 'mbikām*

SYNONYMS

tatra—there; snātvā—bathing; sarasvatyām—in the river Sarasvatī; devam—the demigod; paśu-patiṁ—Lord Śiva; vibhum—the powerful; ānarcuḥ—they worshiped; arhaṇaiḥ—with paraphernalia; bhaktyā—devotedly; devīm—the goddess; ca—and; ṇṛ-pate—O King; ambikām—Ambikā.

TRANSLATION

O King, after arriving there, they bathed in the Sarasvatī and then devotedly worshiped with various paraphernalia the powerful Lord Paśupati and his consort, goddess Ambikā.

TEXT 3

गावो हिरण्यं वासांसि
मधु मध्वन्नमादृताः
ब्राह्मणेभ्यो ददुः सर्वे देवो नः प्रीयतामिति

*gāvo hiraṇyam vāsāṁsi madhu madhv-annam ādṛtāḥ brāhmaṇebhyo daduḥ sarve
devo naḥ prīyatām iti*

SYNONYMS

gāvaḥ—cows; hiraṇyam—gold; vāsāṁsi—clothing; madhu—sweet-tasting;
madhu—mixed with honey; annam—grains; ādṛtāḥ—respectfully;
brāhmaṇebhyaḥ—to the brāhmaṇas; daduḥ—they gave; sarve—all of them;
devaḥ—the lord; naḥ—with us; prīyatām—may be pleased; iti—thus praying.

TRANSLATION

The cowherd men gave the brāhmaṇas gifts of cows, gold, clothing and cooked grains mixed with honey. Then the cowherds prayed, "May the lord be pleased with us."

TEXT 4

ऊषुः सरस्वतीतीरे
जलं प्राश्य यतव्रताः
रजनीं तां महाभागा

नन्दसुनन्दकादयः

*ūṣuḥ sarasvatī-tīre
jalam prāśya yata-vratāḥ rajanīm tām mahā-bhāgā
nanda-sunandakādayaḥ*

SYNONYMS

ūṣuḥ—they stayed; sarasvatī-tīre—on the bank of the Sarasvatī; jalam—water; prāśya—subsisting on; yata-vratāḥ—taking strict vows; rajanīm—the night; tām—that; mahā-bhāgāḥ—the greatly fortunate ones; nanda-sunandaka-ādayaḥ—Nanda, Sunanda and the others.

TRANSLATION

Nanda, Sunanda and the other greatly fortunate cowherds spent that night on the bank of the Sarasvatī, strictly observing their vows. They fasted, taking only water.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī explains that Sunanda is the younger brother of Nanda Mahārāja.

TEXT 5

कश्चिन्महानहिस्तस्मिन्
विपिनेऽतिबुभुक्षितः
यदृच्छयागतो नन्दं

शयानमुरगोऽग्रसीत्

*kaścin mahān ahis tasmin vipine 'ti-bubhukṣitaḥ yadṛcchayāgato nandaṁ
śayānam ura-go 'grasīt*

SYNONYMS

kaścit—a certain; mahān—great; ahiḥ—snake; tasmin—in that; vipine—area of the forest; ati-bubhukṣitaḥ—extremely hungry; yadṛcchayā—by chance; āgataḥ—came there; nandaṁ—Nanda Mahārāja; śayānam—who was lying asleep; ura-gaḥ—moving on his belly; agrasīt—swallowed.

TRANSLATION

During the night a huge and extremely hungry snake appeared in that thicket. Slithering on his belly up to the sleeping Nanda Mahārāja, the snake began swallowing him.

TEXT 6

स चुक्रोशाहिना ग्रस्तः कृष्ण कृष्ण महानयम्
सर्पो मां ग्रसते तात प्रपन्नं परिमोचय

sa cukrośāhinā grastaḥ kṛṣṇa kṛṣṇa mahān ayam sarpo mām grasate tāta

prapannam parimocaya

SYNONYMS

saḥ—he, Nanda Mahārāja; cukrośa—shouted; ahinā—by the snake; grastaḥ—seized; kṛṣṇa kṛṣṇa—O Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa; mahān—large; ayam—this; sarpaḥ—serpent; mām—me; grasate—is swallowing; tāta—my dear boy; prapannam—who is surrendered; parimocaya—please deliver.

TRANSLATION

In the clutches of the snake, Nanda Mahārāja cried out, "Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa, my dear boy! This huge serpent is swallowing me! Please save me, who am surrendered to You!"

TEXT 7

तस्य चाक्रन्दितं श्रुत्वा
गोपालाः सहसोत्थिताः
ग्रस्तं च दृष्ट्वा विभ्रान्ताः सर्पं विव्यधुरुल्मुकैः

tasya cākranditam śrutvā gopālāḥ sahasotthitāḥ grastam ca dṛṣṭvā vibhrāntāḥ sarpaṁ vivyadhur ulmukaiḥ

SYNONYMS

tasya—his; ca—and; ākranditam—the crying out; śrutvā—hearing;
gopālāḥ—the cowherds; sahasā—suddenly; utthitāḥ—rising up;

grastam—seized; ca—and; dṛṣtvā—seeing; vibhrāntāḥ—disturbed;
sarpam—the snake; vivyadhuḥ—they beat; ulmukaiḥ—with flaming torches.

TRANSLATION

When the cowherd men heard the cries of Nanda, they immediately rose up and saw that he was being swallowed. Distraught, they beat the serpent with blazing torches.

TEXT 8

अलातैर्दह्यमानोऽपि
नामुञ्चत्तमुरङ्गमः
तमस्पृशत्पदाभ्येत्य
भगवान् सात्वतां पतिः

alātair dahyamāno 'pi nāmuñcat tam uraṅgamaḥ tam asprśat padābhyetya
bhagavān sātvatām patiḥ

SYNONYMS

alātaiḥ—by the firebrands; dahyamānaḥ—being burned; api—although; na amuñcat—did not release; tam—him; uraṅgamaḥ—the snake; tam—that snake; asprśat—touched; padā—with His foot; abhyetya—coming;
bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; sātvatām—of the devotees; patiḥ—the master.

TRANSLATION

But even though the firebrands were burning him, the serpent would not release Nanda Mahārāja. Then the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa, master of His devotees, came to the spot and touched the snake with His foot.

TEXT 9

स वै भगवतः श्रीमत्
पादस्पर्शहताशुभः
भेजे सर्पवपुर्हित्वा रूपं विद्याधरार्चितम्

*sa vai bhagavataḥ śrīmat pāda-sparśa-hatāśubhaḥ bheje sarpa-vapur hitvā
rūpaṁ vidyādharārcitam*

SYNONYMS

saḥ—he; vai—indeed; bhagavataḥ—of the Supreme Personality of Godhead; śrī-mat—divine; pāda—of the foot; sparśa—by the touch; hata—destroyed; aśubhaḥ—all inauspiciousness; bheje—assumed; sarpa-vapuḥ—his snake body; hitvā—giving up; rūpaṁ—a form; vidyādhara—by the Vidyādharas; arcitam—worshiped.

TRANSLATION

The snake had all his sinful reactions destroyed by the touch of the Supreme Lord's divine foot, and thus he gave up his serpent body and appeared in the form of a worshipable Vidyādhara.

PURPORT

The words rūpaṁ vidyādharaṁ indicate that the erstwhile snake appeared in a beautiful form worshipable among the demigods called Vidyādhara. In other words, he appeared as the leader of the Vidyādhara.

TEXT 10

तमपृच्छद् धृषीकेशः
प्रणतं समवस्थितम्
दीप्यमानेन वपुषा पुरुषं हेममालिनम्

*tam aprcchad dhṛṣikeśaḥ
praṇataṁ samavasthitam dīpyamānena vapuṣā
puruṣaṁ hema-mālinam*

SYNONYMS

tam—from him; aprcchat—inquired; dhṛṣikeśaḥ—the Supreme Lord Hṛṣīkeśa; praṇatam—who was offering obeisances; samavasthitam—standing before Him; dīpyamānena—brilliantly shining; vapuşā—with his body; puruṣam—the personality; hema—golden; mālinam—wearing necklaces.

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Lord Hṛṣīkeśa then questioned this personality, who was standing before Him with his head bowed, his brilliantly effulgent body bedecked with golden necklaces.

PURPORT

The demigod was about to speak, and Lord Kṛṣṇa wanted to focus everyone's attention on his words. Therefore He personally inquired from the worshipable Vidyādhara, who was standing before Him with his head bowed.

TEXT 11

को भवान् परया लक्ष्म्या
रोचतेऽद्भुतदर्शनः
कथं जुगुप्सितामेतां गतिं वा प्रापितोऽवशः

*ko bhavān parayā lakṣmyā rocate 'dbhuta-darśanaḥ katham jugupsitām etām
gatiṁ vā prāpito 'vaśaḥ*

SYNONYMS

kaḥ—who; bhavān—your good self; parayā—with great; lakṣmyā—beauty; rocate—shine; adbhuta—wonderful; darśanaḥ—to see; katham—why; yugupsitām—terrible; etām—this; gatiṁ—destination; vā—and; prāpitaḥ—made to assume; avaśaḥ—beyond your control.

TRANSLATION

[Lord Kṛṣṇa said:] My dear sir, you appear so wonderful, glowing with such great beauty. Who are you? And who forced you to assume this terrible body of a snake?

TEXTS 12-13

सर्प उवाच
अहं विद्याधरः कश्चित्
सुदर्शन इति श्रुतः
श्रिया स्वरूपसम्पत्त्या
विमानेनाचरन्दिशः

ऋषीन् विरूपाङ्गिरसः
प्राहसं रूपदर्पितः
तैरिमां प्रापितो योनिं
प्रलब्धैः स्वेन पाप्मना

sarpa uvāca
aham vidyādharaḥ kaścit sudarśana iti śrutaḥ
śriyā svarūpa-sampattyā vimānenācaran diśaḥ

ṛṣīn virūpāṅgirasah
prāhasaṁ rūpa-darpiṭaḥ tair imāṁ prāpito yonim pralabdhaiḥ svena pāpmanā

SYNONYMS

sarpaḥ uvāca—the serpent said; aham—I; vidyādharaḥ—a Vidyādhara; kaścit—certain; sudarśanaḥ—Sudarśana; iti—thus; śrutaḥ—well known;

śriyā—with opulence; svarūpa—of my personal form; sampattyā—with the asset; vimānena—in my airplane; ācaran—wandering; diśaḥ—the directions; ṛṣīn—sages; virūpa—deformed; āṅgirasah—of the disciplic succession of Āṅgirā Muni; prāhasam—I ridiculed; rūpa—because of beauty; darpiṭaḥ—overly conceited; taiḥ—by them; imām—this; prāpiṭaḥ—made to assume; yonim—the birth; pralabdhaiḥ—who were laughed at; svena—because of my own; pāpmanā—sinful action.

TRANSLATION

The serpent replied: I am the well-known Vidyādhara named Sudarśana. I was very opulent and beautiful, and I used to wander freely in all directions in my airplane. Once I saw some homely sages of the lineage of Āṅgirā Muni. Proud of my beauty, I ridiculed them, and because of my sin they made me assume this lowly form.

TEXT 14

शापो मेऽनुग्रहायैव
कृतस्तैः करुणात्मभिः
यदहं लोकगुरुणा पदा स्पृष्टो हताशुभः

śāpo me 'nugrahāyaiva
kṛtas taiḥ karuṇātmabhiḥ yad ahaṁ loka-guruṇā
padā spr̥ṣṭo hatāśubhaḥ

SYNONYMS

śāpaḥ—the curse; me—my; anugrahāya—for the benediction; eva—certainly; kṛtaḥ—created; taiḥ—by them; karuṇa-ātmabhiḥ—who are merciful by nature; yat—since; aham—I; loka—of all the worlds; guruṇā—by the spiritual master; padā—with His foot; spṛṣtaḥ—touched; hata—destroyed; aśubhaḥ—all inauspiciousness.

TRANSLATION

It was actually for my benefit that those merciful sages cursed me, since now I have been touched by the foot of the supreme spiritual master of all the worlds and have thus been relieved of all inauspiciousness.

TEXT 15

तं त्वाहं भवभीतानां
प्रपन्नानां भयापहम्
आपृच्छे शापनिर्मुक्तः पादस्पर्शदिमीवहन्

taṁ tvāhaṁ bhava-bhītānāṁ prapannānāṁ bhayāpaham āpṛcche śāpa-nirmuktaḥ pāda-sparśād amīva-han

SYNONYMS

taṁ—that same person; tvā—You; aham—I; bhava—of material existence; bhītānāṁ—for those who are afraid; prapannānāṁ—who are surrendered; bhaya—of fear; apaham—the remover; āpṛcche—I request permission; śāpa—from the curse; nirmuktaḥ—freed; pāda-sparśāt—by the touch of Your foot; amīva—of all distress; han—O destroyer.

TRANSLATION

My Lord, You destroy all fear for those who, fearing this material world, take shelter of You. By the touch of Your feet I am now freed from the curse of the sages. O destroyer of distress, please let me return to my planet.

PURPORT

According to the ācāryas, the word āpṛcche indicates that Sudarśana humbly requested the Lord for permission to return to his abode, where he might take up his duties again, certainly in a chastened state of mind.

TEXT 16

प्रपन्नोऽस्मि महायोगिन्
महापुरुष सत्पते
अनुजानीहि मां देव सर्वलोकेश्वरेश्वर

praṇanno 'smi mahā-yogin
mahā-puruṣa sat-pate anujānīhi mām deva
sarva-lokeśvareśvara

SYNONYMS

praṇannaḥ—surrendered; asmi—I am; mahā-yogin—O greatest of all possessors of mystic power; mahā-puruṣa—O greatest of all personalities; sat-pate—O master of the devotees; anujānīhi—please order; mām—me;

deva—O God; sarva—of all; loka—of the worlds; īśvara—of the controllers; īśvara—O supreme controller.

TRANSLATION

O master of mystic power, O great personality, O Lord of the devotees, I surrender to You. Please command me as You will, O supreme God, Lord of all lords of the universe.

TEXT 17

ब्रह्मदण्डाद्विमुक्तोऽहं
सद्यस्तेऽच्युत दर्शनात्
यन्नाम गृह्णन्नखिलान्
श्रोतृनात्मानमेव च
सद्यः पुनाति किं भूयस् तस्य स्पृष्टः पदा हि ते

brahma-daṇḍād vimukto 'haṁ sadyas te 'cyuta darśanāt yan-nāma gṛhṇann akhilān śrotṛn ātmānam eva ca sadyaḥ punāti kiṁ bhūyas tasya spṛṣṭaḥ padā hi te

SYNONYMS

brahma—of the brāhmaṇas; daṇḍāt—from the punishment; vimuktaḥ—freed; aham—I am; sadyaḥ—immediately; te—You; acyuta—O infallible Lord; darśanāt—by seeing; yat—whose; nāma—name; gṛhṇan—chanting;

akhilān—all; śrotṛn—hearers; ātmānam—oneself; eva—indeed; ca—also; sadyaḥ—immediately; punāti—purifies; kim bhūyaḥ—what more, then; tasya—His; spṛṣṭaḥ—touched; padā—by the foot; hi—indeed; te—Your.

TRANSLATION

O infallible one, I was immediately freed from the brāhmaëas' punishment simply by seeing You. Anyone who chants Your name purifies all who hear his chanting, as well as himself. How much more beneficial, then, is the touch of Your lotus feet?

TEXT 18

इत्यनुज्ञाप्य दाशार्हं
परिक्रम्याभिवन्द्य च
सुदर्शनो दिवं यातः कृच्छ्रान्नन्दश्च मोचितः

ity anujñāpya dāśārham parikramyābhivandya ca sudarśano divam yātaḥ
kṛcchrān nandaś ca mocitaḥ

SYNONYMS

iti—thus; anujñāpya—taking permission; dāśārham—from Lord Kṛṣṇa; parikramya—circumambulating; abhivandya—offering obeisances; ca—and; sudarśanaḥ—Sudarśana; divam—to heaven; yātaḥ—went; kṛcchrāt—from his difficulty; nandaḥ—Nanda Mahārāja; ca—also; mocitaḥ—was delivered.

TRANSLATION

Thus receiving the permission of Lord Kṛṣṇa, the demigod Sudarśana circumambulated Him, bowed down to offer Him homage and then returned to his heavenly planet. Nanda Mahārāja was thus delivered from peril.

TEXT 19

निशाम्य कृष्णस्य तदात्मवैभवं
ब्रजौकसो विस्मितचेतसस्ततः
समाप्य तस्मिन्नियमं पुनर्ब्रजं णृपाययुस्तत्कथयन्त आदृताः

niśāmya kṛṣṇasya tad ātma-vaibhavam vrajaukaso vismita-cetasas tataḥ samāpya tasmin niyamam punar vrajam ṇṛpāyayus tat kathayanta ādṛtāḥ

SYNONYMS

niśāmya—seeing; kṛṣṇasya—of Lord Kṛṣṇa; tat—that; ātma—personal; vaibhavam—opulent display of power; vraja-okasaḥ—the inhabitants of Vraja; vismita—amazed; cetasaḥ—in their minds; tataḥ—then; samāpya—finishing; tasmin—at that place; niyamam—their vow; punaḥ—again; vrajam—to the cowherd village; ṇṛpa—O King; āyayuḥ—they returned; tat—that display; kathayantaḥ—describing; ādṛtāḥ—with reverence.

TRANSLATION

The inhabitants of Vraja were astonished to see the mighty power of Śrī

Kṛṣṇa. Dear King, they then completed their worship of Lord Śiva and returned to Vraja, along the way respectfully describing Kṛṣṇa's powerful acts.

TEXT 20

कदाचिदथ गोविन्दो
रामश्चाद्भुतविक्रमः
विजह्रतुर्वने रात्र्यां मध्यगौ ब्रजयोषिताम्

*kadācid atha govindo
rāmaś cādbhuta-vikramaḥ vijahratur vane rātryām madhya-gau vraja-yoṣitām*

SYNONYMS

kadācit—on one occasion; atha—then; govindaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; rāmaḥ—Lord Balarāma; ca—and; adbhuta—wonderful; vikramaḥ—whose deeds; vijahratur—the two of Them played; vane—in the forest; rātryām—at night; madhya-gau—in the midst; vraja-yoṣitām—of the women of the cowherd community.

TRANSLATION

Once Lord Govinda and Lord Rāma, the performers of wonderful feats, were playing in the forest at night with the young girls of Vraja.

PURPORT

This verse introduces a new pastime. According to the ācāryas, the occasion mentioned here is the Holikā-pūrṇimā, a day also known as Gaura-pūrṇimā.

TEXT 21

उपगीयमानौ ललितं
स्त्रीजनैर्बद्धसौहृदैः
स्वलङ्कृतानुलिप्ताङ्गौ स्रग्विनौ विरजोऽम्बरौ

upagīyamānau lalitam strī-janair baddha-sauhṛdaiḥ sv-alāṅkṛtānuliptāṅgau sragvinau virajo-'mbarau

SYNONYMS

upagīyamānau—Their glories being sung; lalitam—charmingly; strī-janaiḥ—by the womenfolk; baddha—bound; sauhṛdaiḥ—in affection for Them; su-alāṅkṛta—finely decorated; anulipta—and anointed with (sandalwood pulp); aṅgau—whose limbs; srag-vinaiḥ—wearing flower garlands; virajaḥ—spotless; ambarau—whose garments.

TRANSLATION

Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma wore flower garlands and spotless garments, and Their limbs were beautifully decorated and anointed. The women sang Their glories in a charming way, bound to Them by affection.

TEXT 22

निशामुखं मानयन्ताव
उदितोदुपतारकम्
मल्लिकागन्धमत्तालि- जुष्टं कुमुदवायुना

niśā-mukhaṁ mānayantāv uditodupa-tārakam mallikā-gandha-mattāli-juṣṭam kumuda-vāyunā

SYNONYMS

niśā-mukham—the beginning of night; mānayantau—the two of Them honoring; udita—having risen; uḍupa—the moon; tārakam—and stars; mallikā—of the jasmine flowers; gandha—by the fragrance; matta—intoxicated; ali—by the bees; juṣṭam—liked; kumuda—from the lotuses; vāyunā—with the breeze.

TRANSLATION

The two Lords praised the nightfall, signaled by the rising of the moon and the appearance of stars, a lotus-scented breeze and bees intoxicated by the fragrance of jasmine flowers.

TEXT 23

जगतुः सर्वभूतानां
मनःश्रवणमङ्गलम्
तौ कल्पयन्तौ युगपत्

स्वरमण्डलमूर्च्छितम्

jagatuḥ sarva-bhūtānām manaḥ-śravaṇa-maṅgalam tau kalpayantau yugapat
svara-maṇḍala-mūrcchitam

SYNONYMS

jagatuḥ—They sang; sarva-bhūtānām—of all living beings; manaḥ—for the mind; śravaṇa—and ears; maṅgalam—happiness; tau—the two of Them; kalpayantau—producing; yugapat—simultaneously; svara—of musical tones; maṇḍala—by the entire scale; mūrcchitam—augmented.

TRANSLATION

Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma sang, producing the entire range of musical sounds simultaneously. Their singing brought happiness to the ears and minds of all living beings.

TEXT 24

गोप्यस्तद्गीतमाकर्ण्य
मूर्च्छिता नाविदन्नृप
संसददुकूलमात्मानं स्रस्तकेशस्रजं ततः

gopyas tad-gītam ākarṇya
mūrcchitā nāvidan nṛpa sraṁsad-dukūlam ātmānam

srasta-keśa-srajam tataḥ

SYNONYMS

gopyaḥ—the gopīs; tat—of Them; gītam—the singing; ākarma—hearing; mūrcchitāḥ—stunned; na avidan—were not aware of; nṛpa—my dear King; sraṁsat—slipping; dukūlam—the fine cloth of their garments; ātmānam—themselves; srasta—disheveled; keśa—their hair; srajam—the garlands; tataḥ—(slipping) from that.

TRANSLATION

The gopīs became stunned when they heard that song. Forgetting themselves, O King, they did not notice that their fine garments were becoming loose and their hair and garlands disheveled.

TEXT 25

एवं विक्रीडतोः स्वैरं
गायतोः सम्प्रमत्तवत्
शङ्खचूड इति ख्यातो धनदानुचरोऽभ्यगात्

evam vikrīḍatoḥ svairam gāyatoḥ sampramatta-vat śaṅkhacūḍa iti khyāto dhanadānucaro 'bhyagāt

SYNONYMS

evam—thus; vikrīḍatoḥ—as the two of Them were playing; svairam—as They desired; gāyatoḥ—singing; sampramatta—to the point of intoxication; vat—as if; śaṅkhacūḍaḥ—Śaṅkhacūḍa; iti—thus; khyātaḥ—named; dhana-da—of the treasurer of the demigods, Lord Kuvera; anucaraḥ—a servant; abhyagāt—arrived.

TRANSLATION

While Lord Kṛṣṇa and Lord Balarāma thus played according to Their own sweet will and sang to the point of apparent intoxication, a servant of Kuvera named Śaṅkhacūḍa came upon the scene.

TEXT 26

तयोर्निरीक्षतो राजंसु
तन्नाथं प्रमदाजनम्
क्रोशन्तं कालयामास दिश्युदीच्यामशङ्कितः

tayor nirīkṣato rājaṁs
tan-nāthaṁ pramadā-janam krośantaṁ kālayām āsa
diśy udīcyām aśaṅkitaḥ

SYNONYMS

tayoḥ—the two of Them; nirīkṣatoḥ—as They looked on; rājan—O King; tat-nātham—having Them as their Lords; pramadā-janam—the assemblage of women; krośantaṁ—crying out; kālayām āsa—he drove; diśi—in the direction; udīcyām—northern; aśaṅkitaḥ—without fear.

TRANSLATION

O King, even as the two Lords looked on, Śaṅkhacūḍa brazenly began driving the women off toward the north. The women, who had accepted Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma as their Lords, began to cry out to Them.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī, the demon Śaṅkhacūḍa shook a large stick at the beautiful young girls, thus frightening them and driving them toward the north. He did not actually touch them, as is corroborated by the following verse.

TEXT 27

क्रोशन्तं कृष्ण रामेति
विलोक्य स्वपरिग्रहम्
यथा गा दस्युना ग्रस्ता भ्रातरावन्वधावताम्

*krośantam kṛṣṇa rāmeti
vilokya sva-parigraham yathā gā dasyunā grastā bhrātarāv anvadhāvatām*

SYNONYMS

krośantam—crying out; kṛṣṇa rāma iti—"Kṛṣṇa! Rāma!"; vilokya—seeing; sva-parigraham—Their devotees; yathā—just as; gāḥ—cows; dasyunā—by a thief; grastāḥ—seized; bhrātarau—the two brothers; anvadhāvatām—ran after.

TRANSLATION

Hearing Their devotees crying out "Kṛṣṇa! Rāma!" and seeing that they were just like cows being stolen by a thief, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma began to run after the demon.

TEXT 28

मा भैष्टेत्यभयारावौ
शलहस्तौ तरस्विनौ
आसेदतुस्तं तरसा त्वरितं गुह्यकाधमम्

*mā bhaiṣṭety abhayārāvau śāla-hastau tarasvinau āsedatus taṁ tarasā
tvaritaṁ guhyakādhamaṁ*

SYNONYMS

mā bhaiṣṭa—do not fear; iti—thus calling; abhaya—giving fearlessness; ārāvau—whose words; śāla—stones; hastau—in Their hands; tarasvinau—moving quickly; āsedatuḥ—They approached; taṁ—that demon; tarasā—with haste; tvaritaṁ—who was moving swiftly; guhyaka—of Yakṣas; adhamam—the worst.

TRANSLATION

The Lords called out in reply, "Do not fear! "Then They picked up logs of the çala tree and quickly pursued that lowest of Guhyakas, who swiftly ran away.

TEXT 29

स वीक्ष्य तावनुप्राप्तौ
कालमृत्यू इवोद्विजन्
विषृज्य स्त्रीजनं मूढः प्राद्रवज्जीवितेच्छया

sa vīkṣya tāv anuprāptau kāla-mṛtyū ivodvijan viṣṛjya strī-janaṁ mūḍhaḥ prādravaj jīviteccayā

SYNONYMS

saḥ—he, Śaṅkhacūḍa; vīkṣya—seeing; tau—the two; anuprāptau—approached; kāla-mṛtyū—Time and Death; iva—as; udvijan—becoming anxious; viṣṛjya—leaving aside; strī-janam—the women; mūḍhaḥ—confused; prādravat—ran away; jīvita—his life; icchayā—with the desire of preserving.

TRANSLATION

When Śaṅkhacūḍa saw the two of Them coming toward him like the personified forces of Time and Death, he was filled with anxiety. Confused, he abandoned the women and fled for his life.

TEXT 30

तमन्वधावद्गोविन्दो
यत्र यत्र स धावति
जिहीर्षुस्तच्छिरोरत्नं
तस्थौ रक्षन् स्त्रियो बलः

tam anvadhāvad govindo yatra yatra sa dhāvati jihīrṣus tac-chiro-ratnam tasthau rakṣan striyo balaḥ

SYNONYMS

tam—after him; anvadhāvat—ran; govindaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; yatra yatra—wherever; saḥ—he; dhāvati—was running; jihīrṣuḥ—desiring to take away; tat—his; śiraḥ—upon the head; ratnam—the jewel; tasthau—stood; rakṣan—protecting; striyaḥ—the women; balaḥ—Lord Balarāma.

TRANSLATION

Lord Govinda chased the demon wherever he ran, eager to take his crest jewel. Meanwhile Lord Balarāma stayed with the women to protect them.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī explains that the women were fatigued from being driven away, and thus Lord Balarāma protected them and consoled them as they rested. Meanwhile Lord Kṛṣṇa went after the demon.

TEXT 31

अविदूर इवाभ्येत्य
शिरस्तस्य दुरात्मनः
जहार मुष्टिनैवाङ्ग सहचूडमणिं विभुः

*avidūra ivābhyetya
śiras tasya durātmanah jahāra muṣṭinaivāṅga
saha-cūḍa-maṇim vibhuḥ*

SYNONYMS

avidūre—nearby; iva—as if; abhyetya—coming toward; śiraḥ—the head; tasya—of him; durātmanah—the wicked one; jahāra—took away; muṣṭinā—with His fist; eva—simply; aṅga—my dear King; saha—together with; cūḍa-maṇim—the jewel upon his head; vibhuḥ—the almighty Lord.

TRANSLATION

The mighty Lord overtook Śaṅkhacūḍa from a great distance as if from nearby, my dear King, and then with His fist the Lord removed the wicked demon's head, together with his crest jewel.

TEXT 32

शङ्खचूडं निहत्यैवं
मणिमादाय भास्वरम्
अग्रजायाददात्प्रीत्या

पश्यन्तीनां च योषिताम्

śaṅkhacūḍaṁ nihatyaivam
maṇim ādāya bhāsvaram agrajāyādadāt prītyā
paśyantīnām ca yoṣitām

SYNONYMS

śaṅkhacūḍaṁ—the demon Śaṅkhacūḍa; nihatya—killing; evam—in this manner; maṇim—the jewel; ādāya—taking; bhāsvaram—brilliant; agra-jāya—to His elder brother (Lord Balarāma); adadāt—gave; prītyā—with satisfaction; paśyantīnām—as they were watching; ca—and; yoṣitām—the women.

TRANSLATION

Having thus killed the demon Śaṅkhacūḍa and taken away his shining jewel, Lord Kṛṣṇa gave it to His elder brother with great satisfaction as the gopīs watched.

PURPORT

Various gopīs perhaps thought that Govinda would give one of them the valuable jewel. To prevent rivalry among them, Śrī Kṛṣṇa happily gave the jewel to His older brother, Balarāma.

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Thirty-fourth Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "Nanda Mahārāja Saved and Śaṅkhacūḍa Slain."

35. The Gopīs Sing of Kṛṣṇa as He Wanders in the Forest

This chapter contains the songs the gopīs sing to express their feelings of separation from Kṛṣṇa when He goes to the forest during the day.

As the gopīs' mood of separation from Śrī Kṛṣṇa becomes ever more intense, His names, forms, qualities and pastimes begin spontaneously manifesting in their hearts. Thus they join together and sing as follows: "The beauty of Kṛṣṇa attracts the minds of all. When He stands in His threefold-bending way and plays upon His flute, the Siddhas' wives, flying in the sky with their husbands, become attracted to Him and forget external reality. The bulls, cows and other animals in the pasture become stunned in ecstasy, and they stand so still, with the grass unchewed between their teeth, that they appear like figures in a drawing. Indeed, even the unconscious rivers stop flowing.

"Just see! When Kṛṣṇa dresses Himself in forest array and calls the cows' names by blowing on His flute, even the trees and creepers become so ecstatic out of love that their limbs display eruptions and their sap pours down like a torrent of tears. The sound of Kṛṣṇa's flute causes the cranes, swans and other birds in the lakes to close their eyes in deep meditation, the clouds in the sky to gently rumble, imitating the flute's vibration, and even such great authorities in the science of music as Indra, Siva and Brahmā to become astonished. And just as we gopīs are anxious to offer everything we have to Kṛṣṇa, so the wives of the black deer follow Him about, imitating us.

"When Kṛṣṇa is returning to Vraja, He constantly plays His flute while His young companions chant His glories, and Brahmā and other chief demigods come to worship His lotus feet."

Thus the gopīs, feeling intense separation from Kṛṣṇa, sing of His pastimes.

TEXT 1

श्रीशुक उवाच
गोप्यः कृष्णे वनं याते
तमनुद्रुतचेतसः
कृष्णलीलाः प्रगायन्त्यो निन्युर्दुःखेन वासरान्

śrī-śuka uvāca
gopyaḥ kṛṣṇe vanam yāte
tam anudruta-cetasaḥ kṛṣṇa-līlāḥ pragāyantyo
ninyur duḥkhena vāsarān

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; gopyaḥ—the gopīs; kṛṣṇe—Lord Kṛṣṇa; vanam—to the forest; yāte—having gone; tam—after Him; anudruta—chasing; cetasaḥ—whose minds; kṛṣṇa-līlāḥ—the transcendental pastimes of Kṛṣṇa; pragāyantyaḥ—singing loudly; ninyuḥ—they passed; duḥkhena—unhappily; vāsarān—the days.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Whenever Kṛṣṇa went to the forest, the minds of the gopīs would run after Him, and thus the young girls sadly spent their days singing of His pastimes.

PURPORT

Although the gopīs enjoyed direct association with Kṛṣṇa at night in the rāsa dance, during the day He went about His normal duties, tending His cows in the forest. At that time the minds of the gopīs would run after Him, but the young girls had to stay back in the village and do their own duties. Thus feeling the pain of separation, they would sing about Śrī Kṛṣṇa's transcendental pastimes.

TEXTS 2-3

श्रीगोप्य ऊचुः
वामबाहुकृतवामकपोलो
वल्गितभ्रुरधरार्पितवेणुम् कोमलाङ्गुलिभिराश्रितमार्गं
गोप्य ईरयति यत्र मुकुन्दः

व्योमयानवनिताः सह सिद्धैर् विस्मितास्तदुपधार्य सलज्जाः काममार्गणसमर्पितचित्ताः कश्मलं ययुरपस्मृतनीव्यः

śrī-gopya ūcuḥ
vāma-bāhu-kṛta-vāma-kapolo valgita-bhrur adharārpita-veṇum komalāṅgulibhir āśrita-mārgaṁ gopya īrayati yatra mukundaḥ

vyoma-yāna-vanitāḥ saha siddhair vismitās tad upadhārya sa-lajjāḥ kāma-mārgaṇa-samarpita-cittāḥ

kaśmalaṁ yayur apasmṛta-nīvyah

SYNONYMS

śrī-gopyaḥ ūcuḥ—the gopīs said; vāma—left; bāhu—on His arm; kṛta—putting; vāma—left; kapolaḥ—His cheek; valgita—moving; bhruḥ—His eyebrows; adhara—upon His lips; arpita—placed; veṇum—His flute; komala—tender; aṅgulibhiḥ—with His fingers; āśrita-mārgam—its holes stopped; gopyaḥ—O gopīs; īrayati—vibrates; yatra—where; mukundaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; vyoma—in the sky; yāna—traveling; vanitāḥ—the ladies; saha—together with; siddhaiḥ—the Siddha demigods; vismitāḥ—amazed; tat—to that; upadhārya—listening; sa—with; lajjāḥ—embarrassment; kāma—of lust; mārgaṇa—to the pursuit; samarpita—offered; cittāḥ—their minds; kaśmalaṁ—distress; yayuh—they experienced; apasmṛta—forgetting; nīvyah—the belts of their dresses.

TRANSLATION

The gopīs said: When Mukunda vibrates the flute He has placed to His lips, stopping its holes with His tender fingers, He rests His left cheek on His left arm and makes His eyebrows dance. At that time the demigoddesses traveling in the sky with their husbands, the Siddhas, become amazed. As those ladies listen, they are embarrassed to find their minds yielding to the pursuit of lusty desires, and in their distress they are unaware that the belts of their garments are loosening.

PURPORT

Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī states that this chapter consists of a collection of statements the gopīs made at various times as they stood in small groups here and there in Vṛndāvana.

TEXTS 4-5

हन्त चित्रमबलाः शृणुतेदं
हारहास उरसि स्थिरविद्युत्
नन्दसूनुरयमार्तजनानां
नर्मदो यर्हि कूजितवेणुः

वृन्दशो ब्रजवृषा मृगगावो
वेणुवाद्यहतचेतस आरात्
दन्तदष्टकवला धृतकर्णा निद्रिता लिखितचित्रमिवासन्

hanta citram abalāḥ śṛṇutedaṁ hāra-hāsa urasi sthira-vidyut nanda-sūnur ayam ārta-janānām narma-do yarhi kūjita-veṇuḥ vr̥ndaśo vraja-vṛṣā mṛga-gāvo veṇu-vādyā-hṛta-cetasa ārāt danta-daṣṭa-kavalā dhṛta-karṇā nidritā likhita-citram ivāsan

SYNONYMS

hanta—ah; citram—wonder; abalāḥ—O girls; śṛṇuta—hear; idam—this; hāra—(brilliant) like a necklace; hāsaḥ—whose smile; urasi—upon the chest; sthira—motionless; vidyut—lightning; nanda-sūnuḥ—son of Nanda Mahārāja; ayam—this; ārta—troubled; janānām—for persons; narma—of joy; daḥ—the giver; yarhi—when; kūjita—has vibrated; veṇuḥ—His flute; vr̥ndaśaḥ—in groups; vraja—kept in the pasture; vṛṣāḥ—the bulls; mṛga—the deer;

gāvaḥ—and the cows; veṇu—of the flute; vādyā—by the playing; hṛta—stolen away; cetasāḥ—their minds; ārāt—at a distance; danta—by their teeth; daṣṭa—bit; kavalāḥ—whose mouthfuls; dhṛta—holding up; karṇāḥ—their ears; nidritāḥ—asleep; likhita—drawn; citram—an illustration; iva—as if; āsan—they were.

TRANSLATION

O girls! This son of Nanda, who gives joy to the distressed, bears steady lightning on His chest and has a smile like a jeweled necklace. Now please hear something wonderful. When He vibrates His flute, Vraja's bulls, deer and cows, standing in groups at a great distance, are all captivated by the sound, and they stop chewing the food in their mouths and cock their ears. Stunned, they appear as if asleep, or like figures in a painting.

PURPORT

The word sthira-vidyut, "steady lightning," refers to the goddess of fortune, who resides on the chest of the Supreme Lord. When the animals of Vṛndāvana hear the sound of the flute, they become stunned in ecstasy, and thus they stop chewing their food and cannot swallow it. The gopīs, in separation from Kṛṣṇa, marvel at the extraordinary effect of the Lord's flute-playing.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī gives the following explanation of the compound word hāra-hāsa, which compares Lord Kṛṣṇa's smile to a necklace: "The word can mean 'He whose smile is brilliantly clear like a jeweled necklace' or 'He whose smile is reflected from His jeweled necklaces,' because while Kṛṣṇa plays the flute He bends His head down and smiles. The word can also mean 'He whose smile, like a jeweled necklace, casts its effulgence upon His chest' or 'He whose necklaces shine brilliantly, just like a smile.' "

TEXTS 6-7

बर्हिणस्तबकधातुपलाशैर्
बद्धमल्लपरिबर्हविडम्बः
कर्हिचित्सबल आलि स गोपैर्
गाः समाह्वयति यत्र मुकुन्दः

तर्हि भग्नगतयः सरितो वै
तत्पदाम्बुजरजोऽनिलनीतम्
स्पृहयतीर्वयमिवाबहुपुण्याः प्रेमवेपितभुजाः स्तिमितापः barhiṇa-stabaka-dhātu-palāśair baddha-malla-paribarha-vidambah karhicit sa-bala āli sa gopair gāḥ samāhvayati yatra mukundah

tarhi bhagna-gatayah sarito vai tat-padāmbuja-rajo 'nila-nītam spṛhayatīr vayam ivābahu-puṇyāḥ prema-vepita-bhujāḥ stimitāpaḥ

SYNONYMS

barhiṇa—of peacocks; stabaka—with the tail feathers; dhātu—with colored minerals; palāśaiḥ—and with leaves; baddha—arranged; malla—of a wrestler; paribarha—the apparel; vidambah—imitating; karhicit—sometimes; sa-balah—with Balarāma; āli—my dear gopī; saḥ—He; gopaiḥ—with the cowherd boys; gāḥ—the cows; samāhvayati—calls; yatra—when; mukundah—Lord Mukunda; tarhi—then; bhagna—broken; gatayah—their movement; saritaḥ—the rivers; vai—indeed; tat—His; pada-ambuja—of the lotus feet; rajaḥ—the dust; anila—by the wind; nītam—brought; spṛhayatīḥ—hankering for; vayam—ourselves; iva—just like; abahu—slight; puṇyāḥ—the piety to whose credit; prema—due to love of God; vepita—trembling; bhujāḥ—whose arms (waves); stimita—stopped; āpaḥ—whose water.

TRANSLATION

My dear gopé, sometimes Mukunda imitates the appearance of a wrestler by decorating Himself with leaves, peacock feathers and colored minerals. Then, in the company of Balarāma and the cowherd boys, He plays His flute to call the cows. At that time the rivers stop flowing, their water stunned by the ecstasy they feel as they eagerly wait for the wind to bring them the dust of His lotus feet. But like us, the rivers are not very pious, and thus they merely wait with their arms trembling out of love.

PURPORT

The gopīs state here that the sound of Kṛṣṇa's flute causes even inanimate objects like rivers to become conscious and then stunned in ecstasy. Just as the gopīs could not always be in Kṛṣṇa's physical association, the rivers could not come to the Lord's lotus feet. Although they desired the Lord, their movement was checked by ecstasy, and their "arms," their waves, trembled with love of Godhead.

TEXTS 8-11

अनुचरैः समनुवर्णितवीर्यं
आदिपूरुष इवाचलभूतिः
वनचरो गिरितटेषु चरन्तीरू

वेणुनाह्वयति गाः स यदा हि

वनलतास्तरव आत्मनि विष्णुं
व्यञ्जयन्त्य इव पुष्पफलाढ्याः प्रणतभारविटपा मधुधाराः
प्रेमहृष्टतनवो ववृषुः स्म

दर्शनीयतिलको वनमाला- दिव्यगन्धतुलसीमधुमत्तैः
अलिकुलैरलघु गीतामभीष्टम्
आद्रियन् यर्हि सन्धितवेणुः

सरसि सारसहंसविहङ्गाश्च चारुगीताहतचेतस एत्य
हरिमुपासत ते यतचित्ता हन्त मीलितदृशो धृतमौनाः

anucaraiḥ samanuvārṇita-vīrya ādi-pūruṣa ivācala-bhūtiḥ vana-caro giri-taṭeṣu carantīr veṇunāhvayati gāḥ sa yadā hi

vana-latās tarava ātmani viṣṇum vyañjayantya iva puṣpa-phalāḍhyāḥ praṇata-bhāra-viṭapā madhu-dhārāḥ prema-hṛṣṭa-tanavo vavṛṣuḥ sma

darśanīya-tilako vana-mālā-divya-gandha-tulasī-madhu-mattaiḥ ali-kulair alaghu gītām abhīṣṭam ādriyan yarhi sandhita-veṇuḥ sarasi sārasa-haṁsa-vihaṅgāś cāru-gītā-hṛta-cetasa etya harim upāsata te yata-cittā hanta mīlita-dṛśo dhṛta-maunāḥ

SYNONYMS

anucaraiḥ—by His companions; samanuvarṇita—being elaborately described; vīryaḥ—whose prowess; ādi-pūruṣaḥ—the original Personality of Godhead; iva—as if; acala—unchanging; bhūtiḥ—whose opulences; vana—in the forest; caraḥ—moving about; giri—of the mountains; taṭesu—on the sides; carantīḥ—who are grazing; veṇunā—with His flute; āhvayati—calls; gāḥ—the cows; saḥ—He; yadā—when; hi—indeed; vana-latāḥ—the forest creepers; taravaḥ—and the trees; ātmani—within themselves; viṣṇum—the Supreme Lord, Viṣṇu; vyañjayantyaḥ—revealing; iva—as if; puṣpa—with flowers; phala—and fruits; ādhyāḥ—richly endowed; praṇata—bowed down; bhāra—because of the weight; viṭapāḥ—whose branches; madhu—of sweet sap; dhārāḥ—torrents; prema—out of ecstatic love; hṛṣṭa—hairs standing on end; tanavaḥ—on whose bodies (trunks); vavṛṣuḥ sma—they have rained down; darśanīya—of persons who are attractive to see; tilakaḥ—the most excellent; vana-mālā—upon His garland made of forest flowers; divya—divine; gandha—whose fragrance; tulasī—of the tulasī flowers; madhu—by the honeylike sweetness; mattaiḥ—intoxicated; ali—of bees; kulaiḥ—by the swarms; alaghu—strong; gītām—the singing; abhīṣṭam—desirable; ādriyan—thankfully acknowledging; yarhi—when; sandhita—placed; veṇuḥ—His flute; sarasi—in the lake; sārasa—the cranes; haṁsa—swans; vihaṅgāḥ—and other birds; cāru—charming; gīta—by the song (of His flute); hṛta—taken away; cetasaḥ—whose minds; etya—coming forward; harim—Lord Kṛṣṇa; upāsata—worship; te—they; yata—under control; cittāḥ—whose minds; hanta—ah; mīlita—closed; dṛśaḥ—their eyes; dhṛta—maintaining; maunāḥ—silence.

TRANSLATION

Kṛṣṇa moves about the forest in the company of His friends, who vividly chant the glories of His magnificent deeds. He thus appears just like the Supreme Personality of Godhead exhibiting His inexhaustible opulences. When the cows wander onto the mountainsides and Kṛṣṇa calls out to them with the sound of His flute, the trees and creepers in the forest respond by becoming so luxuriant with fruits and flowers that they seem to be manifesting Lord Viṣṇu within their hearts. As their branches bend low with the weight, the filaments on their trunks and vines stand erect out of the ecstasy of love of God, and both the trees and the creepers pour down a rain of sweet sap.

Maddened by the divine, honeylike aroma of the tulasī flowers on the garland Kṛṣṇa wears, swarms of bees sing loudly for Him, and that most beautiful of all persons thankfully acknowledges and acclaims their song by taking His flute to His lips and playing it. The charming flute song then steals away the minds of the cranes, swans and other lake-dwelling birds. Indeed they approach Kṛṣṇa, close their eyes and, maintaining strict silence, worship Him by fixing their consciousness upon Him in deep meditation.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura has made several illuminating comments on these verses. He gives the analogy that just as when householder Vaiṣṇavas hear a saṅkīrtana party approaching they become ecstatic and offer obeisances, so the trees and creepers in Vṛndāvana became ecstatic when they heard Kṛṣṇa's flute and bowed low with their branches and vines. The word darśanīya-tilaka in Text 10 indicates not only that the Lord is "the most excellent (to see)," but also that He decorated Himself with attractive reddish tilaka taken from the mineral rich earth of Vṛndāvana forest.

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī also points out that tulasī, although exalted in many ways, is not normally considered an especially fragrant plant. However, early in the morning tulasī emits a transcendental fragrance that ordinary people cannot perceive but that transcendental personalities fully appreciate. The bees who are privileged to swarm about the flower garlands worn by the Supreme Personality of Godhead certainly appreciate this fragrance, and Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī quotes from the Bhāgavatam (3.15.19) to the effect that the most fragrant plants in Vaikuṇṭha also appreciate the special qualifications of Tulasī-devī.

The word sandhita-veṇuḥ in Text 10 indicates that Lord Kṛṣṇa placed His flute firmly upon His lips. And the melody emanating from that flute is certainly the most enchanting of sounds, as the gopīs describe in this chapter.

TEXTS 12-13

सहबलः स्रगवतंसविलासः
सानुषु क्षितिभृतो व्रजदेव्यः
हर्षयन् यर्हि वेणुरवेण
जातहर्ष उपरम्भति विश्वम्

महदतिक्रमणशङ्कितचेता
मन्दमन्दमनुगर्जति मेघः
सुहृदमभ्यवर्षत्सुमनोभिश्च छायया च विदधत्प्रतपत्रम्

saha-balaḥ srag-avatamsa-vilāsaḥ sānuṣu kṣiti-bhṛto vraja-devyaḥ

harṣayan yarhi veṇu-raveṇa jāta-harṣa uparambhati viśvam mahad-atikramaṇa-śaṅkita-cetā manda-mandam anugarjati meghaḥ suhṛdam abhyavarṣat sumanobhiś chāyayā ca vidadhat pratapatram

SYNONYMS

saha-balaḥ—together with Balarāma; srak—a flower garland; avataṁsa—as the ornament on His head; vilāsaḥ—playfully wearing; sānuṣu—on the sides; kṣiti-bhṛtaḥ—of a mountain; vraja-devyaḥ—O goddesses of Vṛndāvana (gopīs); harṣayan—creating joy; yarhi—when; veṇu—of His flute; raveṇa—by the resounding vibration; jāta-harṣaḥ—becoming joyful; uparambhati—causes to relish; viśvam—the entire world; mahat—against a great personality; atikramaṇa—of a transgression; śaṅkita—fearful; cetāḥ—in his mind; manda-mandam—very gently; anugarjati—thunders in response; meghaḥ—the cloud; suhṛdam—upon his friend; abhyavarṣat—has rained down; sumanobhiḥ—with flowers; chāyayā—with his shade; ca—and; vidadhat—providing; pratapatram—an umbrella as protection from the sun.

TRANSLATION

O goddesses of Vraja, when Kṛṣṇa is enjoying Himself with Balarāma on the mountain slopes, playfully wearing a flower garland on the top of His head, He engaddens all with the resonant vibrations of His flute. Thus He delights the entire world. At that time the nearby cloud, afraid of offending a great personality, thunders very gently in accompaniment. The cloud showers flowers onto his dear friend Kṛṣṇa and shades Him from the sun like an umbrella.

TEXTS 14-15

विविधगोपचरणेषु विदग्धो
वेणुवाद्य उरुधा निजशिक्षाः
तव सुतः सति यदाधरबिम्बे
दत्तवेणुरनयत्स्वरजातीः

सवनशस्तदुपधार्य सुरेशाः
शक्रशर्वपरमेष्ठिपुरोगाः
कवय आनतकन्धरचित्ताः कश्मलं ययुरनिश्चिततत्त्वाः vividha-gopa-caraneṣu vidagdho veṇu-vādyā urudhā nija-śikṣāḥ tava sutaḥ sati yadādhara-bimbe datta-veṇur anayat svara-jātīḥ

savanaśas tad upadhārya sureśāḥ śakra-śarva-para-meṣṭhi-purogāḥ kavaya ānata-kandhara-cittāḥ kaśmalaṁ yayur aniścita-tattvāḥ

SYNONYMS

vividha—various; gopa—of cowherds; caraneṣu—in the activities; vidagdhah—expert; veṇu—of the flute; vādye—in the matter of playing; urudhā—manifold; nija—of His own production; śikṣāḥ—whose teachings; tava—your; sutaḥ—son; sati—O pious lady (Yasodā); yadā—when; adhara—upon His lips; bimbe—which are like red bimba fruits; datta—placing; veṇuḥ—His flute; anayat—He brought forth; svara—of musical sound; jātīḥ—the harmonic tones; savanaśaḥ—with a variety of low, high and middle pitches; tat—that; upadhārya—hearing; sura-īśāḥ—the principal demigods; śakra—Indra; śarva—Śiva; parameṣṭhi—and Brahmā; poraḥ-gāḥ—headed by; kavayaḥ—learned scholars; ānata—bowed; kandhara—their necks; cittāḥ—and minds; kaśmalam yayuḥ—they became bewildered; aniścita—unable to ascertain; tattvāḥ—its essence.

TRANSLATION

O pious mother Yaśodā, your son, who is expert in all the arts of herding cows, has invented many new styles of flute-playing. When He takes His flute to His bimba-red lips and sends forth the tones of the harmonic scale in variegated melodies, Brahmā, Śiva, Indra and other chief demigods become confused upon hearing the sound. Although they are the most learned authorities, they cannot ascertain the essence of that music, and thus they bow down their heads and hearts.

PURPORT

The words tava sutaḥ sati, "your son, O chaste lady," clearly indicate that at this point mother Yaśodā is among the young gopīs as they earnestly describe Lord Kṛṣṇa's glories. According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī, among the demigods led by Śakra (Lord Indra) were Upendra, Agni and Yamarāja, among those led by Śarva (Lord Śiva) were Kātyāyanī, Skanda and Gaṇeśa, and among those led by Parameṣṭhī (Lord Brahmā) were the four Kumāras and Nārada. Thus the best collective intelligence in the universe could not definitively analyze the enchanting musical arrangements of the Supreme Lord.

TEXTS 16-17

निजपदाब्जदलैर्ध्वजवज्र

नीरजाङ्कुशविचित्रललामैः
ब्रजभुवः शमयन् खुरतोदं
वर्ष्मधुर्यगतिरीडितवेणुः

ब्रजति तेन वयं सविलास
वीक्षणार्पितमनोभववेगाः
कुजगतिं गमिता न विदामः कश्मलेन कवरं वसनं वा

nija-padābja-dalair dhvaja-vajra nīrajāṅkuśa-vicitra-lalāmaiḥ vraja-bhuvah śamayan khura-todaṁ varṣma-dhurya-gatir īdita-veṇuḥ

vrajati tena vayaṁ sa-vilāsa vīkṣaṇārpita-manobhava-vegāḥ kuja-gatiṁ gamitā na vidāmaḥ kaśmalena kavaraṁ vasaṇaṁ vā

SYNONYMS

nija—His own; pada-abja—of the lotus feet; dalaiḥ—like flower petals; dhvaja—of a flag; vajra—thunderbolt; nīraja—lotus; āṅkuśa—and elephant goad; vicitra—variegated; lalāmaiḥ—by the markings; vraja—of Vraja; bhuvah—of the ground; śamayan—relieving; khura—from the hooves (of the cows); todaṁ—the pain; varṣma—with His body; dhurya—like an elephant's; gatiḥ—whose movement; īdita—extolled; veṇuḥ—whose flute; vrajati—He walks; tena—by that; vayaṁ—we; savilāsa—playful; vīkṣaṇa—with His glances; arpita—bestowed; manaḥ-bhava—of lust; vegāḥ—whose agitation; kuja—like that of trees; gatiṁ—whose movement (i.e., complete lack of movement); gamitāḥ—attaining; na vidāmaḥ—we do not recognize; kaśmaleṇa—because of our bewilderment; kavaram—the braids of our hair; vasanam—our dress; vā—or.

TRANSLATION

As Kṛṣṇa strolls through Vraja with His lotus-petal-like feet, marking the ground with the distinctive emblems of flag, thunderbolt, lotus and elephant goad, He relieves the distress the ground feels from the cows' hooves. As He plays His renowned flute, His body moves with the grace of an elephant. Thus we gopīs, who become agitated by Cupid when Kṛṣṇa playfully glances at us, stand as still as trees, unaware that our hair and garments are slackening.

PURPORT

Here mother Yaśodā is no longer in the company of the gopīs, who are confidentially describing their conjugal attraction to Śrī Kṛṣṇa. It is clear from the comments of Jīva Gosvāmī and other ācāryas that the statements in this chapter were made at various times and places. This is natural, since the gopīs were always absorbed in thoughts of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, day and night.

TEXTS 18-19

मणिधरः क्वचिदागणयन् गा
मालया दयितगन्धतुलस्याः
प्रणयिनोऽनुचरस्य कदांसे
प्रक्षिपन् भुजमगायत यत्र क्वणितवेणुरववञ्चितचित्ताः

कृष्णमन्वसत कृष्णगृहिण्यः
गुणगणार्णमनुगत्य हरिण्यो गोपिका इव विमुक्तगृहाशाः

maṇi-dharaḥ kvacid āgaṇayan gā mālayā dayita-gandha-tulasyāḥ praṇayino 'nucarasya kadāṁse prakṣiṇan bhujam agāyata yatra kvaṇita-veṇu-rava-vañcita-cittāḥ kṛṣṇam anvasata kṛṣṇa-grhiṇyaḥ guṇa-gaṇārṇam anugatya hariṇyo gopikā iva vimukta-grhāśāḥ

SYNONYMS

maṇi—(a string of) gems; dharaḥ—holding; kvacit—somewhere; āgaṇayan—counting; gāḥ—the cows; mālayā—with a flower garland; dayita—of His beloved; gandha—having the fragrance; tulasyāḥ—the tulasī flowers upon which; praṇayinaḥ—loving; anucarasya—of a companion; kadā—at some time; amse—on the shoulder; prakṣiṇan—throwing; bhujam—His arm; agāyata—He sang; yatra—when; kvaṇita—vibrated; veṇu—of His flute; rava—by the sound; vañcita—stolen; cittāḥ—their hearts; kṛṣṇam—Kṛṣṇa; anvasata—they sat down beside; kṛṣṇa—of the black deer; grhiṇyaḥ—the wives; guṇa-gaṇa—of all transcendental qualities; arṇam—the ocean; anugatya—approaching; hariṇyaḥ—the does; gopikāḥ—the gopīs; iva—just like; vimukta—having given up; grha—for home and family; āśāḥ—their hopes.

TRANSLATION

Now Kṛṣṇa is standing somewhere counting His cows on a string of gems. He wears a garland of tulasī flowers that bear the fragrance of His beloved, and He has thrown His arm over the shoulder of an affectionate cowherd boyfriend. As Kṛṣṇa plays His flute and sings, the music attracts the black deer's wives, who approach that ocean of transcendental qualities and sit down beside Him. Just like us cowherd girls, they have given up all hope for happiness in family life.

PURPORT

Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī explains that in the afternoon Śrī Kṛṣṇa dressed Himself in new clothing and then went out to call the cows home. Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī gives the following information about the transcendental cows of Vṛndāvana: "For each of the four colors of cows—white, red, black and yellow—there are twenty-five subdivisions, making a total of one hundred colors. And such qualities as being colored like sandalwood-pulp tilaka [speckled] or having a head shaped like a mṛdaṅga drum create eight further groups. To count these 108 groups of cows, distinguished by color and form, Kṛṣṇa is using a string of 108 jewel-beads....

"Thus when Kṛṣṇa calls out 'Hey Dhavalī [the name of a white cow],' a whole group of white cows come forward, and when He calls 'Haṁsī, Candanī, Gaṅgā, Mukṭā 'and so on, the twenty-four other groups of white cows come. The reddish cows are called Aruṇī, Kuṅkuma, Sarasvatī, etc., the blackish ones Śyāmalā, Dhūmalā, Yamunā, etc., and the yellowish ones Pītā, Piṅgalā, Haritālikā, etc. Those in the group with tilaka marks on their foreheads are called Citritā, Citra-tilakā, Dīrgha-tilakā and Tiryak-tilakā, and there are groups known as Mṛdaṅga-mukhī [mṛdaṅga-head], Simha-mukhī [lion-head] and so on.

"Thus being called by name, the cows are coming forward, and Kṛṣṇa, thinking that when it is time to bring them back from the forest none should be forgotten, is counting them on His jewel-beads."

TEXTS 20-21

कुन्ददामकृतकौतुकवेषो
गोपगोधनवृतो यमुनायाम्
नन्दसूनुरनघे तव वत्सो
नर्मदः प्रणयिणां विजहार

मन्दवायुरुपवात्यनकूलं
मानयन्मलयजस्पर्शेन
वन्दिनस्तमुपदेवगणा ये वाद्यगीतबलिभिः परिवव्रुः

kunda-dāma-kṛta-kautuka-veṣo gopa-godhana-vṛto yamunāyām nanda-sūnur anaghe tava vatso narma-daḥ praṇayaṇām vijahāra manda-vāyur upavāty anukūlaṁ mānayan malayaja-sparśena vandinas tam upadeva-gaṇā ye vādya-gīta-balibhiḥ parivavruḥ

SYNONYMS

kunda—of jasmine flowers; dāma—with a garland; kṛta—made; kautuka—playful; veṣaḥ—His array; gopa—by the cowherd boys; godhana—and the cows; vṛtaḥ—surrounded; yamunāyām—along the Yamunā; nanda-sūnuḥ—the son of Nanda Mahārāja; anaghe—O sinless lady; tava—your; vatsaḥ—darling child; narma-daḥ—amusing; praṇayaṇām—His

dear companions; vijahāra—He has played; manda—gentle; vāyuh—the wind; upavāti—blows; anukūlam—favorably; mānayan—showing honor; malaya-ja—of (the fragrance of) sandalwood; sparsēna—the touch; vandinaḥ—those who offer praise; tam—Him; upadeva—of the minor demigods; gaṇāḥ—members of the various categories; ye—who; vādyā—with instrumental music; gīta—singing; balibhiḥ—and presentation of gifts; parivavruḥ—they have encircled.

TRANSLATION

O sinless Yaśodā, your darling child, the son of Mahārāja Nanda, has festively enhanced His attire with a jasmine garland, and He is now playing along the Yamunā in the company of the cows and cowherd boys, amusing His dear companions. The gentle breeze honors Him with its soothing fragrance of sandalwood, while the various Upadevas, standing on all sides like panegyrists, offer their music, singing and gifts of tribute.

PURPORT

Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī explains that the gopīs are again in the courtyard of mother Yaśodā, the queen of Vraja. They are trying to encourage her by describing Kṛṣṇa's return to Vṛndāvana after He has spent the day herding cows and playing.

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī comments that the Upadevas, the minor demigods mentioned here, include the Gandharvas, who are famous for their celestial music and dancing.

TEXTS 22-23

वत्सलो ब्रजगवां यदगध्रो
वन्द्यमानचरणः पथि वृद्धैः

कृत्स्नगोधनमुपोह्य दिनान्ते गीतवेणुरनुगेडितकीर्तिः

उत्सवं श्रमरुचापि दृशीनाम्
उन्नयन् खुररजश्छुरितस्रक्
दित्सयैति सुहृदासिष एष देवकीजठरभूरुडुराजः

vatsalo vraja-gavām yad aga-dhro vandyamāna-caraṇaḥ pathi vṛddhaiḥ kṛtsna-go-dhanam upohya dinānte gīta-veṇur anugeḍita-kīrtiḥ

utsavam śrama-rucāpi dṛśīnām unnayan khura-rajaś-churita-srak ditsayaiti suhṛd-āsiṣa eṣa devakī-jāṭhara-bhūr uḍu-rājāḥ

SYNONYMS

vatsalaḥ—affectionate; vraja-gavām—to the cows of Vraja; yat—because; aga—of the mountain; dhraḥ—the lifter; vandyamāna—being worshiped; caraṇaḥ—His feet; pathi—along the path; vṛddhaiḥ—by the exalted demigods; kṛtsna—entire; go-dhanam—the herd of cows; upohya—collecting; dina—of the day; ante—at the end; gītā-veṇuḥ—playing His flute; anuga—by His companions; īḍita—praised; kīrtiḥ—His glories; utsavam—a festival; śrama—of fatigue; rucā—by His coloring; api—even; dṛśīnām—for the eyes; unnayan—raising; khura—from the hooves (of the cows); rajaḥ—with the dust; churita—powdered; srak—His garland; ditsayā—with the desire; eti—He is coming; suhṛt—to His friends; āsiṣaḥ—their desires; eṣaḥ—this; devakī—of mother Yaśodā; jaṭhara—from the womb; bhūḥ—born; uḍu-rājāḥ—moon.

TRANSLATION

Out of great affection for the cows of Vraja, Kṛṣṇa became the lifter of Govardhana Hill. At the end of the day, having rounded up all His own cows, He plays a song on His flute, while exalted demigods standing along the path worship His lotus feet and the cowherd boys accompanying Him chant His glories. His garland is powdered by the dust raised by the cows' hooves, and His beauty, enhanced by His fatigue, creates an ecstatic festival for everyone's eyes. Eager to fulfill His friends' desires, Kṛṣṇa is the moon arisen from the womb of mother Yaśodā.

PURPORT

According to the ācāryas, at this point the gopīs climbed into the watchtowers of Vṛndāvana's houses so they could see Kṛṣṇa as soon as possible when He returned home. Mother Yaśodā was very anxious for her son to come back, and therefore she had the tallest of the beautiful young gopīs climb up to see when He would arrive. It is implied here that Kṛṣṇa was somewhat delayed on the way home because His lotus feet were being worshiped by great demigods along the path.

TEXTS 24-25

मदविघूर्णितलोचन ईषत्
मानदः स्वसुहृदां वनमाली
बदरपाण्डुवदनो मृदुगण्डं
मण्डयन् कनककुण्डललक्ष्म्या

यदुपतिर्द्विरदराजविहारो
यामिनीपतिरिवैष दिनान्ते
मुदितवक्त्र उपयाति दुरन्तं मोचयन् ब्रजगवां दिनतापम्

mada-vighūrṇita-locana īṣat māna-daḥ sva-suhṛdām vana-mālī badara-pāṇḍu-vadano mṛdu-gaṇḍam maṇḍayan kanaka-kuṇḍala-lakṣmyā

yadu-patir dvirada-rāja-vihāro yāminī-patir ivaiṣa dinānte mudita-vaktra upayāti durantam mocayan vraja-gavām dina-tāpam

SYNONYMS

mada—by intoxication; vighūrṇita—rolling; locanaḥ—His eyes; īṣat—slightly; māna-daḥ—showing honor; sva-suhṛdām—to His well-wishing friends; vana-mālī—wearing a garland of forest flowers; badara—like a badara fruit; pāṇḍu—whitish; vadanaḥ—His face; mṛdu—soft; gaṇḍam—His cheeks; maṇḍayan—ornamenting; kanaka—golden; kuṇḍala—of His earrings; lakṣmyā—with the beauty; yadu-patiḥ—the Lord of the Yadu dynasty; dvirada-rāja—like a kingly elephant; vihāraḥ—His sporting; yāminī-patiḥ—the lord of the night (the moon); iva—like; eṣaḥ—He; dina-ante—at the end of the day; mudita—joyful; vaktraḥ—His face; upayāti—is coming; durantam—insurmountable; mocayan—driving away; vraja—of Vraja; gavām—of the cows, or of those who are to be shown mercy; dina—of the daytime; tāpam—the painful heat.

TRANSLATION

As Kṛṣṇa respectfully greets His well-wishing friends, His eyes roll slightly as if from intoxication. He wears a flower garland, and the beauty of His soft cheeks is accentuated by the brilliance of His golden earrings and the whiteness of His face, which has the color of a badara berry. With His cheerful face resembling the moon, lord of the night, the Lord of the Yadus moves with the grace of a regal elephant. Thus He returns in the evening, delivering the cows of Vraja from the heat of the day.

PURPORT

The word gavām is constructed from the Sanskrit word go, which means "cow" or "senses." Thus Śrī Kṛṣṇa, by coming back to the village of Vraja, relieved the inhabitants of Vṛndāvana from the distress their eyes and other senses felt during the day because of being separated from direct contact with Him.

TEXT 26

श्रीशुक उवाच
एवं ब्रजस्त्रियो राजन्
कृष्णलीलानुगायतीः
रेमिरेऽहःसु तच्चित्तास् तन्मनस्का महोदयाः

śrī-śuka uvāca
evam vraja-striyo rājan kṛṣṇa-līlānugāyatīḥ

remire 'haḥsu tac-cittās tan-manaskā mahodayāḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; evam—thus; vraja-striyaḥ—the women of Vraja; rājan—O King; kṛṣṇa-līlā—about the pastimes of Kṛṣṇa; anugāyatīḥ—continuously chanting; remire—they enjoyed; ahaḥsu—during the days; tat-cittāḥ—their hearts absorbed in Him; tat-manaskāḥ—their minds absorbed in Him; mahā—great; udayāḥ—experiencing a festivity.

TRANSLATION

Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: O King, thus during the daytime the women of Vṛndāvana took pleasure in continuously singing about the pastimes of Kṛṣṇa, and those ladies' minds and hearts, absorbed in Him, were filled with great festivity.

PURPORT

This verse definitely confirms that the so-called pain of the heartbroken gopīs is actually great spiritual bliss. On the material platform, pain is pain—period. But on the spiritual platform, so-called pain is simply a different variety of spiritual ecstasy. In the Western countries, people take pleasure in mixing different flavors of ice cream to produce wonderful combinations of flavor. Similarly, on the spiritual platform Śrī Kṛṣṇa and His devotees expertly mix the flavors of spiritual bliss, and thus every day was a treat for the gopīs.

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Thirty-fifth Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "The Gopīs Sing of Kṛṣṇa as He Wanders in the Forest."

36. The Slaying of Ariṣṭā, the Bull Demon

This chapter describes how Kṛṣṇa killed Ariṣṭāsura and how Kāṁsa reacted when he learned from Nārada that Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma were the sons of Vasudeva.

The demon Ariṣṭa wanted to kill Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, and thus he assumed the form of a huge bull with sharp horns. Everyone in Kṛṣṇa's cowherd village became terrified when Ariṣṭāsura approached it, but the Lord pacified them, and when the bull demon charged Him He seized him by the horns and threw him about six yards. Though weakened, Ariṣṭa still wanted to attack Kṛṣṇa. Thus, dripping with sweat, he charged the Lord once again. This time Kṛṣṇa grabbed his horns, threw him to the ground and thrashed him like a pile of wet clothing. The demon vomited blood and gave up his life. Then Kṛṣṇa and Rāma, while being honored by the demigods and cowherd boys, returned to the village.

A short time later Nārada Muni, the great sage among the demigods, came to see King Kāṁsa. He informed the King that Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma were not Nanda's sons but rather Vasudeva's. It was out of fear of Kāṁsa that Vasudeva had put the two boys under Nanda's care. Furthermore, said Nārada, Kāṁsa would meet his death at Their hands.

Kāṁsa shook with fear and anger when he heard all this, and in great agitation he began thinking of how to destroy Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma. He called for the demons Cāṇūra and Muṣṭika and instructed them to kill the two brothers in a wrestling match. Then he spoke to Akrūra, who was expert at executing his duties. Taking Akrūra by the hand, Kāṁsa persuaded him to go to Vraja to bring the two boys to Mathurā. Akrūra agreed to carry out Kāṁsa's order and then returned home.

TEXT 1

श्री बादरायणिरुवाच
अथ तर्ह्यगतो गोष्ठम्
अरिष्टो वृषभासुरः
महीम्महाककुत्कायः कम्पयन् खुरविक्षताम्

*śrī bādarāyaṇir uvāca
atha tarhy āgato goṣṭham ariṣṭo vṛṣabhāsurah mahīm mahā-kakut-kāyah
kampayan khura-vikṣatām*

SYNONYMS

śrī bādarāyaṇiḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; atha—next; tarhi—then; āgataḥ—came; goṣṭham—to the cowherd village; ariṣṭaḥ—named Ariṣṭa; vṛṣabha-asuraḥ—the bull demon; mahīm—the earth; mahā—great; kakut—having a hump; kāyah—whose body; kampayan—making tremble; khura—by his hooves; vikṣatām—torn.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: The demon Ariṣṭa then came to the cowherd village. Appearing in the form of a bull with a large hump, he made the earth tremble as he tore it apart with his hooves.

PURPORT

According to the Śrī Viṣṇu Purāṇa, Ariṣṭāsura entered Kṛṣṇa's village at twilight, as the Lord prepared to dance with the gopīs:

*prodoṣārdhe kadācit tu rāsāsakte janārdane trāsayan sa-mado goṣṭham
ariṣṭaḥ sampāgataḥ*

"Once, midway through the period of dusk, when Lord Janārdana was eager to perform the rāsa dance, Ariṣṭāsura madly entered the cowherd village, terrifying everyone."

TEXT 2

रम्भमाणः खरतरं
पदा च विलिखन्महीम्
उद्यम्य पुच्छं वप्राणि
विषाणाग्रेण चोद्धरन्
किञ्चित्किञ्चिच्छकृन्मुञ्चन् मूत्रयन् स्तब्धलोचनः

rambhamāṇaḥ kharataram padā ca vilikhan mahīm udyamya pucchaṁ vaprāṇi viṣāṇāgreṇa coddharan kiñcit kiñcic chakṛṇ muñcan mūtrayan stabdha-locanaḥ

SYNONYMS

rambhamāṇaḥ—bellowing; khara-taram—most harshly; padā—with his hooves; ca—and; vilikhan—scraping; mahīm—the ground; udiyamya—raising upward; puccham—his tail; vapṛāṇi—the embankments; viṣāṇa—of his horns; agreṇa—with the tips; ca—and; uddharan—lifting and tearing up; kiñcit kiñcit—a little; śakṛt—stool; muñcan—releasing; mūtrayan—urinating; stabdha—glaring; locanaḥ—his eyes.

TRANSLATION

Ariṣṭāsura bellowed very harshly and pawed the ground. With his tail raised and his eyes glaring, he began to tear up the embankments with the tips of his horns, every now and then passing a little stool and urine.

TEXTS 3-4

यस्य निर्ह्रादितेनाङ्ग
निष्ठुरेण गवां नृणाम्
पतन्त्यकालतो गर्भाः
स्रवन्ति स्म भयेन वै

निर्विशन्ति घना यस्य
ककुब्धचलशङ्कया
तं तीक्ष्णशृङ्गमुद्रीक्ष्य गोप्यो गोपाश्च तत्रसुः

yasya nirhrāditenāṅga

niṣṭhureṇa gavām nṛṇām patanty akālato garbhāḥ sravanti sma bhayena vai

*nirviśanti ghanā yasya
kakudy acala-śaṅkayā tam tīkṣṇa-śṛṅgam udvīkṣya
gopyo gopāś ca tatraśuḥ*

SYNONYMS

yasya—whose; nirhrāditena—by the reverberating sound; aṅga—my dear King (Parīkṣit); niṣṭhureṇa—rough; gavām—of cows; nṛṇām—of humans; patanti—fall; akālataḥ—untimely; garbhāḥ—the embryos; sravanti sma—are miscarried; bhayena—out of fear; vai—indeed; nirviśanti—enter; ghanāḥ—clouds; yasya—whose; kakudi—onto the hump; acala—as a mountain; śaṅkayā—by the mistaken identification; tam—him; tīkṣṇa—sharp; śṛṅgam—whose horns; udvīkṣya—seeing; gopyaḥ—the cowherd women; gopāḥ—the cowherd men; ca—and; tatraśuḥ—became frightened.

TRANSLATION

My dear King, clouds hovered about sharp-horned Ariṣṭāśura's hump, mistaking it for a mountain, and when the cowherd men and ladies caught sight of the demon, they were struck with terror. Indeed, the strident reverberation of his roar so frightened the pregnant cows and women that they lost their fetuses in miscarriages.

PURPORT

The Vedic literature categorizes miscarriages as follows: ā-caturthād bhavet srāvaḥ pātaḥ pañcama-śaṣṭhayoḥ/ ata ūrdhvaṁ prasūtiḥ syāt. "Up to the fourth month a premature delivery is called srāva, in the fifth and sixth months it is called pāta, and after this it is considered a birth (prasūti)."

TEXT 5

पशवो दुद्रुवुर्भीता
राजन् सन्त्यज्य गोकुलम्
कृष्ण कृष्णेति ते सर्वे
गोविन्दं शरणं ययुः

*paśavo dudruvur bhītā
rājan santyajya go-kulam kṛṣṇa kṛṣṇeti te sarve
govindam śaraṇam yayuḥ*

SYNONYMS

paśavaḥ—the domestic animals; dudruvuḥ—ran away; bhītāḥ—afraid; rājan—O King; santyajya—abandoning; go-kulam—the dairy pasture; kṛṣṇa kṛṣṇa iti—"Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa"; te—they (the inhabitants of Vṛndāvana); sarve—all; govindam—to Lord Govinda; śaraṇam—for shelter; yayuḥ—went.

TRANSLATION

The domestic animals fled the pasture in fear, O King, and all the inhabitants rushed to Lord Govinda for shelter, crying, "Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa!"

TEXT 6

भगवानपि तद्वीक्ष्य
गोकुलं भयविद्रुतम्

मा भैष्टेति गिराश्वास्य वृषासुरमुपाह्वयत

bhagavān api tad vīkṣya go-kulam bhaya-vidrutam mā bhaiṣṭeti girāśvāsyā vṛṣāsuram upāhvayat

SYNONYMS

bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; api—indeed; tat—that; vīkṣya—seeing; go-kulam—the cowherd community; bhaya—out of fear; vidrutam—made to flee, or distraught; mā bhaiṣṭa—"don't be afraid"; iti—thus; girā—with words; āśvāsyā—pacifying; vṛṣa-asuram—to the bull demon; upāhvayat—He called out.

TRANSLATION

When the Supreme Lord saw the cowherd community distraught and fleeing in fear, He calmed them, saying, "Don't be afraid." Then He called out to the bull demon as follows.

TEXT 7

गोपालैः पशुभिर्मन्द
त्रासितैः किमसत्तम
मयि शास्तरि दुष्टानां
त्वद्विधानां दुरात्मनाम्

gopālaiḥ paśubhir manda

*trāsitaiḥ kim asattama mayi śāstari duṣṭānām
tvad-vidhānām durātmanām*

SYNONYMS

gopālaiḥ—with the cowherds; paśubhiḥ—and with their animals; manda—O fool; trāsitaiḥ—who are frightened; kim—what purpose; asattama—O most wicked one; mayi—when I (am present); śāstari—as the punisher; duṣṭānām—of the contaminated; tvad-vidhānām—like you; durātmanām—miscreants.

TRANSLATION

You fool! What do you think you're doing, you wicked rascal, frightening the cowherd community and their animals when I am here just to punish corrupt miscreants like you!

TEXT 8

इत्यास्फोट्याच्युतोऽरिष्टं तलशब्देन कोपयन्
सख्युरंसे भुजाभोगं प्रसार्यावस्थितो हरिः

ity āsphotyācyuto 'riṣṭam tala-śabdena kopayan sakhyur amse bhujābhogaṁ prasāryāvasthito hariḥ

SYNONYMS

iti—speaking thus; āsphotyā—slapping His arms; acyutaḥ—the infallible Lord; ariṣṭam—Ariṣṭāsura; tala—from His palms; śabdena—with the sound; kopayan—angering; sakhyuḥ—of a friend; aṁse—over the shoulder; bhuja—His arm; ābhogam—(which is like) a serpent's body; prasārya—throwing; avasthitaḥ—was standing; hariḥ—Lord Hari.

TRANSLATION

Having spoken these words, the infallible Lord Hari slapped His arms with His palms, further angering Ariṣṭa with the loud sound. The Lord then casually threw His mighty, serpentine arm over the shoulder of a friend and stood facing the demon.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa showed His contempt for the ignorant demon.

TEXT 9

सोऽप्येवं कोपितोऽरिष्टः
खुरेणावनिमुल्लिखन्
उद्यत्पुच्छभ्रमन्मेघः क्रुद्धः कृष्णमुपाद्रवत्

so 'py evaṁ kopito 'riṣṭaḥ khureṇāvanim ullikhan udyat-puccha-bhraman-meghaḥ kruddhaḥ kṛṣṇam upādravat

SYNONYMS

saḥ—he; api—indeed; evam—in this way; kopitaḥ—angered; ariṣṭaḥ—Ariṣṭa; khureṇa—with his hoof; avanim—the earth; ullikhan—scratching; udyat—raised; puccha—within his tail; bhraman—wandering; meghaḥ—clouds; kruddhaḥ—furious; kṛṣṇam—toward Lord Kṛṣṇa; upādravat—he charged.

TRANSLATION

Thus provoked, Ariṣṭa pawed the ground with one of his hooves and then, with the clouds hovering around his upraised tail, furiously charged Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 10

अग्रन्यस्तविषाणाग्रः
स्तब्धासृगलोचनोऽच्युतम्
कटाक्षिप्याद्रवत्तूर्णम् इन्द्रमुक्तोऽशनिर्यथा

agra-nyasta-viṣāṇāgraḥ
stabdhāsṛg-locano 'cyutam kaṭākṣipyādravat tūrṇam indra-mukto 'śanir yathā

SYNONYMS

agra—forward; nyasta—pointing; viṣāṇa—of his horns; agraḥ—the front; stabdha—glaring; asṛk—bloody; locanaḥ—his eyes; acyutam—at Lord Kṛṣṇa; kaṭa-ākṣipyā—looking sideways; adravat—he ran; tūrṇam—at full speed;

indra-muktaḥ—released by King Indra; aśaniḥ—a thunderbolt; yathā—like.

TRANSLATION

Pointing the tips of his horns straight ahead and glaring menacingly at Lord Kṛṣṇa from the corners of his bloodshot eyes, Ariṣṭa rushed toward Him at full speed, like a thunderbolt hurled by Indra.

TEXT 11

गृहीत्वा शृङ्गयोस्तं वा
अष्टादश पदानि सः
प्रत्यपोवाह भगवान्
गजः प्रतिगजं यथा

*grhītvā śṛṅgayos taṁ vā aṣṭādaśa padāni saḥ pratyapovāha bhagavān
gajaḥ prati-gajaṁ yathā*

SYNONYMS

grhītvā—seizing; śṛṅgayoḥ—by the horns; taṁ—him; vai—indeed; aṣṭādaśa—eighteen; padāni—steps; saḥ—He; pratyapovāha—threw back; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; gajaḥ—an elephant; prati-gajaṁ—a rival elephant; yathā—like.

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa seized Ariṣṭāsura by the horns and threw him back eighteen steps, just as an elephant might do when fighting a rival elephant.

TEXT 12

सोऽपविद्धो भगवता
पुनरुत्थाय सत्वरम्
आपतत्स्विन्नसर्वाङ्गो निःश्वसन् क्रोधमूर्च्छितः

so 'paviddho bhagavatā punar utthāya satvaram āpatat svinna-sarvāṅgo niḥśvasan krodha-mūrcchitaḥ

SYNONYMS

saḥ—he; apaviddhaḥ—thrown back; bhagavatā—by the Lord; punaḥ—again; utthāya—rising; satvaram—quickly; āpatat—attacked; svinna—sweating; sarva—all; aṅgaḥ—his limbs; niḥśvasan—breathing hard; krodha—by anger; mūrcchitaḥ—stupefied.

TRANSLATION

Thus repulsed by the Supreme Lord, the bull demon got up and, breathing hard and sweating all over his body, again charged Him in a mindless rage.

TEXT 13

तमापतन्तं स निगृह्य शृङ्गयोः
पदा समाक्रम्य निपात्य भूतले

निष्पीडयामास यथार्द्रमम्बरं कृत्वा विषाणेन जघान सोऽपतत्

tam āpatantaṁ sa nigrhya śṛṅgayoḥ padā samākramya nipātya bhū-tale niṣpīḍayām āsa yathārdram ambaram kṛtvā viṣāṇena jaghāna so 'patat

SYNONYMS

tam—him; āpatantaṁ—attacking; saḥ—He; nigrhya—seizing; śṛṅgayoḥ—by the horns; padā—with His foot; samākramya—treading; nipātya—making him fall; bhū-tale—onto the ground; niṣpīḍayām āsa—He beat him; yathā—like; ardram—wet; ambaram—a garment; kṛtvā—making; viṣāṇena—with his horn; jaghāna—struck; saḥ—he; apatat—fell.

TRANSLATION

As Ariṣṭa attacked, Lord Kṛṣṇa seized him by the horns and knocked him to the ground with His foot. The Lord then thrashed him as if he were a wet cloth, and finally He yanked out one of the demon's horns and struck him with it until he lay prostrate.

TEXT 14

असृग्वमन्मूत्रशकृत्समुत्सृजन्
क्षिपंश्च पादाननवस्थितेक्षणः
जगाम कृच्छ्रं निर्ऋतेरथ क्षयं पुष्पैः किरन्तो हरिमीडिरे सुराः

asṛg vaman mūtra-śakṛt samutsṛjan kṣipamś ca pādān anavasthitekṣaṇaḥ jagāma kṛcchram nirṛter atha kṣayam puṣpaiḥ kiranto harim īdire surāḥ

SYNONYMS

asṛk—blood; vaman—vomiting; mūtra—urine; śakṛt—and feces; samutsṛjan—profusely excreting; kṣipan—throwing about; ca—and; pādān—his legs; anavasthita—unsteady; ikṣaṇaḥ—his eyes; jagāma—he went; kṛcchram—with pain; nirṛteḥ—of Death; atha—then; kṣayam—to the abode; puṣpaiḥ—flowers; kirantaḥ—scattering; harim—upon Lord Kṛṣṇa; īdire—worshiped; surāḥ—the demigods.

TRANSLATION

Vomiting blood and profusely excreting stool and urine, kicking his legs and rolling his eyes about, Ariṣṭāsura thus went painfully to the abode of Death. The demigods honored Lord Kṛṣṇa by scattering flowers upon Him.

TEXT 15

एवं कुकुद्मिनं हत्वा
स्तूयमानः द्विजातिभिः
विवेश गोष्ठं सबलो गोपीनां नयनोत्सवः

evam kukudminam hatvā stūyamānaḥ dvijātibhiḥ viveśa goṣṭham sa-balo

gopīnām nayanotsavaḥ

SYNONYMS

evam—thus; kukudminam—the humped (bull demon); hatvā—killing; stūyamānaḥ—being praised; dvijātibhiḥ—by the brāhmaṇas; viveśa—He entered; goṣṭham—the cowherd village; sa-balaḥ—together with Lord Balarāma; gopīnām—of the gopīs; nayana—for the eyes; utsavaḥ—who is a festival.

TRANSLATION

Having thus killed the bull demon Ariṣṭa, He who is a festival for the gopīs' eyes entered the cowherd village with Balarāma.

PURPORT

This verse exemplifies the sublime contrast of spiritual qualities within Śrī Kṛṣṇa. In one four-line verse we simultaneously learn that Lord Kṛṣṇa killed a powerful and wicked demon and that His boyish beauty gave festive pleasure to His young girlfriends. Lord Kṛṣṇa is as hard as a thunderbolt or as soft as a rose, depending on our attitude toward Him. The demon Ariṣṭa wanted to kill Kṛṣṇa and all His friends, so the Lord beat him into a wet rag and killed him. The gopīs, however, loved Kṛṣṇa, and thus the Lord boyishly reciprocated their conjugal feelings.

TEXT 16

अरिष्टे निहते दैत्ये
कृष्णेनाद्भुतकर्मणा
कंसायाथाह भगवान्

नारदो देवदर्शनः

*ariṣṭe nihate daitye
kṛṣṇenādbhuta-karmaṇā
kaṁsāyāthāha bhagavān
nārado deva-darśanaḥ*

SYNONYMS

ariṣṭe—Ariṣṭa; nihate—having been killed; daitye—the demon; kṛṣṇena—by Kṛṣṇa; adbhuta-karmaṇā—whose activities are wonderful; kaṁsāya—to Kāṁsa; atha—then; āha—spoke; bhagavān—the powerful sage; nāradaḥ—Nārada; deva-darśanaḥ—whose vision is godly.

TRANSLATION

After Ariṣṭāsura had been killed by Kṛṣṇa, who acts wonderfully, Nārada Muni went to speak to King Kāṁsa. That powerful sage of godly vision addressed the King as follows.

PURPORT

The term deva-darśana can be understood in many ways, all of which are consistent with the context and purport of this narration. Deva means "God," and darśanaḥ means "seeing" or "an audience with a great personality." Thus deva-darśana, a name for Nārada Muni, indicates that Nārada has attained the perfection of seeing God, that getting Nārada's audience is as good as getting God's (since Nārada is a pure representative of the Lord), and also that Nārada's audience is as good as that of the demigods, who are also known as devas. That there are all these meanings of the term deva-darśanaḥ reveals something of the richness of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam's language.

From the Purāṇas, Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura has quoted twenty verses describing a joking conversation between Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa that took place after Kṛṣṇa had killed the demon Ariṣṭa. This conversation, so kindly quoted by the ācārya, describes the origin of Rādhā-kuṇḍa and Śyāma-kuṇḍa, Rādhā's and Kṛṣṇa's bathing ponds. The verses are as follows:

māsmān sprśādya vṛṣabhārdana hanta mugdhā ghoro 'suro 'yam ayi kṛṣṇa tad apy ayam gauḥ vṛtro yathā dvija ihāsty ayi niṣkṛtiḥ kim śudhyed bhavāms tri-bhuvana-sthita-tīrtha-kṛcchrāt

"The innocent young gopīs said, 'Ah, Kṛṣṇa, don't touch us now, O killer of a bull! Alas, even though Ariṣṭa was a terrible demon, still he was a male cow, so You will have to undergo atonement, just as Lord Indra did after killing Vṛtrāsura. But how can You purify Yourself without going to the trouble of visiting every single holy place in the three worlds?' "

kim paryaṭāmi bhuvanāny adhunaiva sarvā ānīya tīrtha-vitatīḥ karavāṇi tāsū snānaṁ vilokayata tāvad idaṁ mukundaḥ procyaiva tatra kṛtavān bata pārṣṇi-ghātam

"[Kṛṣṇa replied,] 'Why should I have to wander throughout the entire universe? I will at once bring all the countless pilgrimage places here and take My bath in them. Just watch!' With this, Lord Mukunda struck His heel on the ground."

pātālato jalam idaṁ kila bhogavatyā āyātam atra nikhilā api tīrtha-saṅghāḥ āgacchateti bhagavad-vacasā ta etya tatraiva rejur atha kṛṣṇa uvāca gopīḥ

"[Then He said,] 'This is the water of the Bhogavatī River, coming from the Pātāla region. And now, O holy places, all of you please come here!' When the Supreme Lord had spoken these words, all the holy places went there and appeared before Him. Kṛṣṇa then addressed the gopīs as follows."

tīrthāni paśyata harer vacasā tavaivam naiva pratīma iti tā atha tīrtha-varyāḥ procuḥ kṛtāñjali-putā lavaṇābdhir asmi kṣīrābdhir asmi śṛṇutāmara-dīrghikāsmi

" 'See all the holy places!'

"But the gopīs replied, 'We don't see them as You describe.'

"Then those best of holy places, joining their palms in supplication, spoke up:

" 'I am the salt ocean.'

" 'I am the ocean of milk.'

" 'I am the Amara-dīrghikā.' "

śoṇo 'pi sindhur aham asmi bhavāmi tāmraparṇī ca puṣkaram aham ca sarasvatī ca godāvarī ravi-sutā sarayuḥ prayāgo revāsmi paśyata jalam kuruta pratītim

" 'I am the river Śoṇa.'

" 'I am the Sindhu.'

" 'I am the Tāmraparṇī.'

" 'I am the holy place Puṣkara.'

" 'I am the river Sarasvatī.'

" 'And we are the Godāvarī, Yamunā and Revā rivers and the confluence of rivers at Prayāga. Just see our waters!' " snātvā tato harir ati-prajagalbha eva śuddhaḥ saro 'py akaravam sthita-sarva-tīrtham

yuṣmābhir ātma-januṣīha kṛto na dharmah ko 'pi kṣitāv atha sakhīr nijagāda rādhā

"After purifying Himself by bathing, Lord Hari became quite arrogant and said, 'I have produced a pond containing all the various holy places, whereas you gopīs must never have executed any religious duties on this earth for the pleasure of Lord Brahmā.' Then Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī addressed Her girlfriends as follows."

kāryaṁ mayāpy ati-manohara-kuṇḍam ekaṁ tasmād yatadhvam iti tad-vacanena tābhiḥ śrī-kṛṣṇa-kuṇḍa-taṭa-paścima-diśya-mando gartaḥ kṛto vṛṣabha-daitya-khurair vyaloki

" 'I must create an even more beautiful pond. So go to work!' Having heard these words, the gopīs saw that Ariṣṭāsura's hooves had dug a shallow ditch just west of Śrī Kṛṣṇa's pond."

tatrārdra-mṛn-mṛdula-gola-tatīḥ prati-svahastoddhṛtā anati-dūra-gatā vidhāya divyaṁ saraḥ prakṛtaṁ ghaṭikā-dvayena tābhir vilokya sarasaṁ smarate sma kṛṣṇaḥ

"At that nearby spot, all the gopīs began digging up lumps of soft mud with their hands, and in this way a divine pond manifested in the short span of an hour. Kṛṣṇa was astonished to see the lake they produced."

proce ca tīrtha-salilaiḥ paripūrayaitan mat-kuṇḍataḥ sarasijākṣi sahālibhis tvam rādhā tadā na na na neti jagāda yasmāt tvat-kuṇḍa-nīram uru-go-vadha-pātakāktam

"He said, 'Go ahead, lotus-eyed one. You and Your companions should fill this pond with water from Mine.'

"But Rādhā replied, 'No, no, no, no! This is impossible, since the water of Your pond is contaminated by Your terrible sin of killing a cow.' "

āhṛtya puṇya-salilam śata-koṭi-kumbhaiḥ sakhy-arbudena saha mānasa-jāhnavītaḥ etat saraḥ sva-madhunā pariṇīrayāmi tenaiva kīrtim atulām tanavāni loke

" 'I will have My countless gopī companions bring the pure water of the Mānasa-gaṅgā here in billions of pots. In this way I will fill this lake with My own water and thus make its renown unequalled in the entire world.' "

kṛṣṇeṅgiteṇa sahasaitya samasta-tīrthasakhyas tadīya-saraso dhṛta-divya-mūrtiḥ tuṣṭāva tatra vṛṣabhānu-sutām praṇamya bhaktyā kṛtāñjali-putaḥ sravad-asra-dhāraḥ

"Lord Kṛṣṇa then gestured to a heavenly personality who was an intimate associate of all the holy places. Suddenly that person rose up out of Kṛṣṇa's pond and bowed down to the daughter of Śrī Vṛṣabhānu [Rādhārāṇī]. Then, with palms joined and tears pouring from his eyes, he began praying to Her in devotion."

devi tvadīya-mahimānam avaiti sarva śāstrārtha-vin na ca vidhir na haro na lakṣmīḥ kintv eka eva puruṣārtha-śiromaṇis tvat-prasveda-mārjana-paraḥ svayam eva kṛṣṇaḥ

" 'O goddess, even Lord Brahmā himself, the knower of all scriptures, cannot understand Your glories, nor can Lord Śiva or Lakṣmī. Only Kṛṣṇa, the supreme goal of all human endeavor, can understand them, and thus He feels obliged to personally make sure that You can wash away Your perspiration when You are fatigued.' "

yaś cāru-yāvaka-rasena bhavat-padābjam ārajya nūpuram aho nidadhāti nityam prāpya tvadīya-nayanābja-taṭa-prasādam svam manyate parama-dhanyatamam prahṛṣyan

tasyājñayaiva sahasā vayam ājagāma tat-pārṣṇi-ghāṭa-kṛta-kunḍa-vare vasāmaḥ tvaṁ cet prasīdasi karoṣi kṛpā-kaṭākṣam tarhy eva tarṣa-viṭapī phalito bhaven naḥ

" 'He is always anointing Your lotus feet with nectarean cāru and yāvaka and decorating them with ankle bells, and He rejoices and feels most fortunate simply by satisfying the tips of the toes of Your lotus feet. On His order we have immediately come here to live in this most excellent pond, which He created by one stroke of His heel. But only if You now feel satisfied with us and bestow upon us Your merciful glance will the tree of our desire bear fruit.' "

śrutvā stutiṁ nikhila-tīrtha-gaṇasya tuṣṭā prāha sma tarṣam ayi vedayateti rādhā yāma tvadīya-sarasīm sa-phalā bhavāma ity eva no vara iti prakāṣam tadocuḥ

"Hearing this prayer spoken by the representative of the full assembly of holy places, Śrī Rādhā was pleased and said, 'So, kindly tell Me your desire.'

"They then told Her plainly, 'Our lives would be successful if we could come to Your pond. That is the benediction we desire.' " āgacchateti vṛṣabhānu-sutā smitāsyā

provāca kānta-vadanābja-dhṛtākṣi-koṇā sakhya 'pi tatra kṛta-sammatayaḥ sukhābdhau magnā virejur akhilā sthira-jaṅgamāś ca

"Glancing at Her beloved from the corners of Her eyes, the daughter of Vṛṣabhānu replied with a smile, 'Please come.' Her gopī companions all agreed with Her decision and became immersed in the ocean of happiness. Indeed, the beauty of all creatures, both mobile and stationary, was enhanced."

prāpya prasādam atha te vṛṣabhānujāyāḥ śrī-kṛṣṇa-kunḍa-gata-tīrtha-varāḥ prasahya bhittveva bhittim ati-vegata eva rādhā-kunḍam vyadhuḥ sva-salilaiḥ paripūrṇam eva

"Thus gaining the grace of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, the holy rivers and lakes in Śrī Kṛṣṇa-kunḍa forcibly broke through its boundary walls and swiftly filled Rādhā-kunḍa with their waters."

proce hariḥ priyatame tava kunḍam etan mat-kunḍato 'pi mahimādhikam astu loka atraiva me salila-kelir ihaiva nityam snānam yathā tvam asi tadvad idaṁ saro me

"Lord Hari then said, 'My dear Rādhā, may this pond of Yours become even more world-renowned than Mine. I will always come here to bathe and to enjoy My water pastimes. Indeed, this lake is as dear to Me as You are.' "

rādhābravīd aham api sva-sakhībhir etya snāsyāmy ariṣṭa-śata-mardanam astu tasya yo 'riṣṭa-mardana-sarasy uru-bhaktir atra snāyād vasen mama sa eva mahā-priyo 'stu

"Rādhā replied, 'I will come to bathe in Your pond as well, even though You may kill hundreds of Ariṣṭa demons here. In the future, anyone who has intense devotion for this lake, which is on the spot where You chastised Ariṣṭāsura, and who bathes or resides here is sure to become very dear to Me.' " rāsotsavam prakurute sma ca tatra rātrau kṛṣṇāmbudaḥ kṛta-mahā-rasa-harṣa-varṣaḥ śrī-rādhikā-pravara-vidyud alaṅkṛta-śrīs trailokya-madhya-vitatī-kṛta-divya-kīrtiḥ

"That night Lord Kṛṣṇa initiated a rāsa dance at Rādhā-kunḍa, generating a torrent of the greatest mood of splendorous pleasure. Śrī Kṛṣṇa resembled a cloud, and Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī a brilliant flash of lightning filling the sky with abundant beauty. In this way Their divine glories permeated the expanses of the three worlds."

As a final note, it should be mentioned that Nārada Muni, being a great sage, understood that the killing of Ariṣṭa more or less concluded the pastimes of Kṛṣṇa in Vṛndāvana. Therefore Nārada, anxious to facilitate the transferal of Kṛṣṇa's pastimes to Mathurā, approached Kāmsa and addressed him as follows.

TEXT 17

यशोदायाः सुतां कन्यां
देवक्याः कृष्णमेव च
रामं च रोहिणीपुत्रं
वसुदेवेन बिभ्यता
न्यस्तौ स्वमित्रे नन्दे वै

याभ्यां ते पुरुषा हताः

yaśodāyāḥ sutām kanyām devakyāḥ kṛṣṇam eva ca rāmam ca rohiṇī-putram vasudevena bibhyatā nyastau sva-mitre nande vai yābhyām te puruṣā hatāḥ

SYNONYMS

yaśodāyāḥ—of Yaśodā; sutām—the daughter; kanyām—the female child; devakyāḥ—of Devakī; kṛṣṇam—Kṛṣṇa; eva ca—also; rāmam—Balarāma; ca—and; rohiṇī-putram—the son of Rohiṇī; vasudevena—by Vasudeva; bibhyatā—who was afraid; nyastau—placed; sva-mitre—with his friend; nande—Nanda Mahārāja; vai—indeed; yābhyām—by which two; te—your; puruṣāḥ—men; hatāḥ—have been killed.

TRANSLATION

[Nārada told Kāṁsa:] Yaśodā's child was actually a daughter, and Kṛṣṇa is the son of Devakī. Also, Rāma is the son of Rohiṇī. Out of fear, Vasudeva entrusted Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma to his friend Nanda Mahārāja, and it is these two boys who have killed your men.

PURPORT

Kāṁsa had been led to believe that Kṛṣṇa was the son of Yaśodā and that Devakī's eighth child had been a daughter. The identity of Devakī's eighth child was extremely important to Kāṁsa because a prophecy had foretold that her eighth child would kill him. Here Nārada informs the King that the eighth child of Devakī was the formidable Kṛṣṇa, thus implying that the prophecy should be taken very seriously. Having received this information, Kāṁsa obviously will now do everything in his power to kill Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma.

TEXT 18

निशम्य तद्भोजपतिः
कोपात्प्रचलितेन्द्रियः
निशातमसिमादत्त वसुदेवजिघांसया

*niśamya tad bhoja-patiḥ kopāt pracalitendriyaḥ niśātam asim ādatta
vasudeva-jighāṁsayā*

SYNONYMS

niśamya—hearing; tat—that; bhoja-patiḥ—the lord of the Bhoja dynasty (Kāṁsa); kopāt—out of anger; pracalita—disturbed; indriyaḥ—his senses; niśātam—sharp; asim—a sword; ādatta—took up; vasudeva-jighāṁsayā—with the desire to kill Vasudeva.

TRANSLATION

Upon hearing this, the master of the Bhojas became furious and lost control of his senses. He picked up a sharp sword to kill Vasudeva.

TEXT 19

निवारितो नारदेन

तत्सुतौ मृत्युमात्मनः
ज्ञात्वा लोहमयैः पाशैर् बबन्ध सह भार्यया

*nivārito nāradena
tat-sutau mṛtyum ātmanaḥ jñātvā loha-mayaiḥ pāśair babandha saha bhāryayā*

SYNONYMS

nivāritaḥ—checked; nāradena—by Nārada; tat-sutau—his two sons; mṛtyum—death; ātmanaḥ—his own; jñātvā—understanding; loha-mayaiḥ—made of iron; pāśaiḥ—with shackles; babandha—he bound up (Vasudeva); saha—together with; bhāryayā—his wife.

TRANSLATION

But Nārada restrained Kāṁsa by reminding him that it was the two sons of Vasudeva who would cause his death. Kāṁsa then had Vasudeva and his wife shackled in iron chains.

PURPORT

Kāṁsa realized that there was no use in killing Vasudeva, since it was Vasudeva's sons, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, who were to kill him. According to the ācāryas, Nārada also advised Kāṁsa that if he killed Vasudeva the two young boys might flee and that it was therefore better not to kill him. Rather, Nārada recommended, Kāṁsa should bring Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma to Kāṁsa's capital city, Mathurā.

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī points out that Nārada did not act inimically toward the great devotees Vasudeva and Devakī when he revealed this information to Kāṁsa. In fact, as explained in the Eleventh Canto, Vasudeva was grateful to Nārada because he was arranging for Kāṁsa's death at Kṛṣṇa's hands, and further arranging for Kṛṣṇa to come and live in Mathurā, where His loving father could associate with Him.

TEXT 20

प्रतियाते तु देवर्षौ कंस आभाष्य केशिनम्
प्रेषयामास हन्येतां भवता रामकेशवौ

*pratiyāte tu devarṣau
kāṁsa ābhāṣya keśinam preṣayām āsa hanyetām
bhavatā rāma-keśavau*

SYNONYMS

pratiyāte—having left; tu—then; deva-ṛṣau—the sage among the demigods; kāṁsaḥ—King Kāṁsa; ābhāṣya—addressing; keśinam—the demon Keśi; preṣayām āsa—he sent him; hanyetām—the two should be killed; bhavatā—by you; rāma-keśavau—Balarāma and Kṛṣṇa.

TRANSLATION

After Nārada left, King Kāṁsa summoned Keśi and ordered him, "Go kill Rāma and Kṛṣṇa."

PURPORT

Before having Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma brought to Mathurā, Kāṁsa tried sending one more demon to Vṛndāvana.

TEXT 21

ततो मुष्टिकचाणूर
शलतोशलकादिकान्
अमात्यान् हस्तिपांश्चैव समाहूयाह भोजराट्

*tato muṣṭika-cāṇūra
śala-tośalakādikān
amātyān hastipāṁś caiva samāhūyāha bhoja-rāṭ*

SYNONYMS

tataḥ—then; muṣṭika-cāṇūra-śala-tośalaka-ādikān—Muṣṭika, Cāṇūra, Śala, Tośala and others; amātyān—his ministers; hasti-pān—his elephant-keepers; ca eva—also; samāhūya—calling together; āha—spoke; bhoja-rāṭ—the King of the Bhojas.

TRANSLATION

The King of the Bhojas next called for his ministers, headed by Muṣṭika, Cāṇūra, Śala and Tośala, and also for his elephant-keepers. The King addressed them as follows.

TEXTS 22-23

भो भो निशम्यतामेतद्
वीरचाणूरमुष्टिकौ
नन्दव्रजे किलासाते
सुतावानकदुन्दुभेः

रामकृष्णौ ततो मह्यं
मृत्युः किल निदर्शितः
भवद्भ्यामिह सम्प्राप्तौ हन्येतां मल्ललीलया

*bho bho niśamyatām etad
vīra-cāṇūra-muṣṭikau
nanda-vraje kilāsāte
sutāv ānakadundubheḥ*

rāma-kṛṣṇau tato mahyam mṛtyuḥ kila nidarśitaḥ bhavadbhyām iha samprāptau hanyetām malla-līlayā

SYNONYMS

bhoḥ bhoḥ—my dear (advisers); niśamyatām—please listen; etat—to this; vīra—O heroes; cāṇūra-muṣṭikau—Cāṇūra and Muṣṭika; nanda-vraje—in the cowherd village of Nanda; kila—indeed; āsāte—are living; sutau—the two sons; ānakadundubheḥ—of Vasudeva; rāma-kṛṣṇau—Rāma and Kṛṣṇa; tataḥ—from Them; mahyam—my; mṛtyuḥ—death; kila—indeed; nidarśitaḥ—has been indicated; bhavadbhyām—by you two; iha—here;

samprāptau—brought; hanyetām—They should be killed; malla—of wrestling; līlayā—on the pretext of the sport.

TRANSLATION

My dear heroic Cāṇūra and Muṣṭika, please hear this. Rāma and Kṛṣṇa, the sons of Ānakadundubhi [Vasudeva], are living in Nanda's cowherd village. It has been predicted that these two boys will be the cause of my death. When They are brought here, kill Them on the pretext of engaging Them in a wrestling match.

TEXT 24

मञ्चाः क्रियन्तां विविधा
मल्लरङ्गपरिश्रिताः
पौरा जानपदाः सर्वे पश्यन्तु स्वैरसंयुगम्

mañcāḥ kriyantām vividhā
malla-raṅga-parīśritāḥ paurā jānapadāḥ sarve
paśyantū svaira-saṁyugam

SYNONYMS

mañcāḥ—stages; kriyantām—should be built; vividhāḥ—various; malla-raṅga—a wrestling ring; parīśritāḥ—surrounding; paurāḥ—the residents of the city; jānapadāḥ—and the residents of the outlying districts; sarve—all; paśyantū—should see; svaira—voluntarily participated in; saṁyugam—the competition.

TRANSLATION

Erect a wrestling ring with many surrounding viewing stands, and bring all the residents of the city and the outlying districts to see the open competition.

PURPORT

The word mañcāḥ refers to platforms constructed with large pillars. Kāṁsa wanted a festive atmosphere so that Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma would not be afraid to come.

TEXT 25

महामात्र त्वया भद्र
रङ्गद्वार्युपनीयताम्
द्विपः कुवलयापीडो जहि तेन ममाहितौ

*mahāmātra tvayā bhadra
raṅga-dvāry upanīyatām dvīpaḥ kuvalayāpīḍo
jahi tena mamāhitau*

SYNONYMS

mahā-mātra—O elephant-keeper; tvayā—by you; bhadra—my good man; raṅga—of the arena; dvāri—to the doorway; upanīyatām—should be brought; dvīpaḥ—the elephant; kuvalayāpīḍaḥ—named Kuvalayāpīḍa; jahi—destroy; tena—with that (elephant); mama—my; ahitau—enemies.

TRANSLATION

You, elephant-keeper, my good man, should position the elephant Kuvalayāpīḍa at the entrance to the wrestling arena and have him kill my two enemies.

TEXT 26

आरभ्यतां धनुर्यागश्च
चतुर्दश्यां यथाविधि
विशसन्तु पशून्मेध्यान्
भूतराजाय मीढुषे

*ārabhyatām dhanur-yāgaś caturdaśyām yathā-vidhi viśasantu paśūn medhyān
bhūta-rājāya mīḍhuṣe*

SYNONYMS

ārabhyatām—should be commenced; dhanuḥ-yāgaḥ—the bow sacrifice; caturdaśyām—on the fourteenth day of the month; yathā-vidhi—in accordance with Vedic injunctions; viśasantu—offer in sacrifice; paśūn—animals; medhyān—which are fit to be offered; bhūta-rājāya—to Lord Śiva, the lord of ghostly spirits; mīḍhuṣe—the giver of benedictions.

TRANSLATION

Commence the bow sacrifice on the Caturdaśī day in accordance with the relevant Vedic injunctions. In ritual slaughter offer the appropriate kinds of animals to the magnanimous Lord Śiva.

TEXT 27

इत्याज्ञाप्यार्थतन्त्रज्ञ
आहूय यदुपुङ्गवम्
गृहीत्वा पाणिना पाणिं
ततोऽक्रूरमुवाच ह

*ity ājñāpyārtha-tantra-jñā āhūya yadu-puṅgavam
grhītvā pāṇinā pāṇim
tato 'krūraṁ uvāca ha*

SYNONYMS

iti—with these words; ājñāpya—ordering; ārtha—of personal interest and advantage; tantra—of the doctrine; jñāḥ—the knower; āhūya—calling for; yadu-puṅgavam—the most eminent of the Yadus; grhītvā—taking; pāṇinā—with his own hand; pāṇim—his hand; tataḥ—then; akrūraṁ—to Akrūra; uvāca ha—he said.

TRANSLATION

Having thus commanded his ministers, Kāṁsa next called for Akrūra, the most eminent of the Yadus. Kāṁsa knew the art of securing personal advantage, and thus he took Akrūra's hand in his own and spoke to him as follows.

TEXT 28

भो भो दानपते मह्यं
क्रियतां मैत्रमादृतः
नान्यस्त्वत्तो हिततमो विद्यते भोजवृष्णिषु

*bho bho dāna-pate mahyam kriyatām maitram ādṛtaḥ nānyas tvatto hitatamo
vidyate bhoja-vṛṣṇiṣu*

SYNONYMS

bhoḥ bhoḥ—my dear; dāna—of charity; pate—master; mahyam—for me; kriyatām—please do; maitram—a friendly favor; ādṛtaḥ—out of respect; na—none; anyaḥ—other; tvattaḥ—than yourself; hita-tamaḥ—who acts most favorably; vidyate—exists; bhoja-vṛṣṇiṣu—among the Bhojas and Vṛṣṇis.

TRANSLATION

My dear Akrūra, most charitable one, please do me a friendly favor out of respect. Among the Bhojas and Vṛṣṇis, there is no one else as kind to us as you.

TEXT 29

अतस्त्वामाश्रितः सौम्य कार्यगौरवसाधनम्
यथेन्द्रो विष्णुमाश्रित्य स्वार्थमध्यगमद्विभुः

atas tvām āśritaḥ saumya kārya-gaurava-sādhanam yathendro viṣṇum āśritya svārtham adhyagamad vibhuḥ

SYNONYMS

ataḥ—therefore; tvām—on you; āśritaḥ—(I am) depending; saumya—O gentle one; kārya—prescribed duties; gaurava—soberly; sādhanam—who executes; yathā—as similarly; indraḥ—Indra; viṣṇum—Lord Viṣṇu; āśritya—taking shelter of; sva-artham—his goals; adhyagamat—achieved; vibhuḥ—the powerful King of heaven.

TRANSLATION

Gentle Akrūra, you always carry out your duties soberly, and therefore I am depending on you, just as powerful Indra took shelter of Lord Viṣṇu to achieve his goals.

TEXT 30

गच्छ नन्दव्रजं तत्र
सुतावानकदुन्दुभेः
आसाते ताविहानेन
रथेनानय मा चिरम्

*gaccha nanda-vrajaṁ tatra
sutāv ānakadundubheḥ
āsāte tāv ihānena
rathenānaya mā cīram*

SYNONYMS

gaccha—go; nanda-vrajam—to the cowherd village of Nanda; tatra—there; sutau—the two sons; ānakadundubheḥ—of Vasudeva; āsāte—are living; tau—Them; iha—here; anena—by this; rathena—chariot; ānaya—bring; *mā cira*m—without delay.

TRANSLATION

Please go to Nanda's village, where the two sons of Ānakadundubhi are living, and without delay bring Them here on this chariot.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī gives the following interesting note: "When King Kāṁsa said 'with this chariot,' he pointed with his index finger to a brand-new, attractive chariot. Kāṁsa thought that since Akrūra was innocent by nature, when he saw this fine, new vehicle he would naturally want to drive it and quickly bring the two boys back. But the actual reason Akrūra went on a new chariot was that it would have been clearly inappropriate for the Supreme Personality of Godhead to mount a chariot that had already been enjoyed by the wicked Kāṁsa."

TEXT 31

निसृष्टः किल मे मृत्युर्
देवैर्वैकुण्ठसंश्रयैः
तावानय समं गोपैर् नन्दाद्यैः साभ्युपायनैः

niṣṛṣṭaḥ kila me mṛtyur devair vaikuṇṭha-saṁśrayaiḥ tāv ānaya samam gopair nandādyaiḥ sābhyupāyanaiḥ

SYNONYMS

niṣṛṣṭaḥ—sent; kila—indeed; me—my; mṛtyuḥ—death; devaiḥ—by the demigods; vaikuṇṭha—of Lord Viṣṇu; saṁśrayaiḥ—who take shelter; tau—the two of Them; ānaya—bring; samam—together with; gopaiḥ—the cowherd men; nanda-ādyaiḥ—headed by Nanda; sa—with; abhyupāyanaiḥ—gifts.

TRANSLATION

The demigods, who are under the protection of Viṣṇu, have sent these two boys as my death. Bring Them here, and also have Nanda and the other cowherd men come with gifts of tribute.

TEXT 32

घातयिष्य इहानीतौ
कालकल्पेन हस्तिना
यदि मुक्तौ ततो मल्लैर् घातये वैद्युतोपमैः

*ghātayiṣya ihānītau
kāla-kalpena hastinā yadi muktau tato mallair
ghātaye vaidyutopamaiḥ*

SYNONYMS

ghātayiṣye—I shall have Them killed; iha—here; ānītau—brought; kāla-kalpena—like death itself; hastinā—by the elephant; yadi—if; muktau—They go free; tataḥ—then; mallaiḥ—by wrestlers; ghātaye—I will have killed; vaidyuta—lightning; upamaiḥ—just like.

TRANSLATION

After you bring Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, I will have Them killed by my elephant, who is as powerful as death itself. And if by chance They escape from him, I will have Them killed by my wrestlers, who are as strong as lightning.

TEXT 33

तयोर्निहतयोस्तप्तान्
वसुदेवपुरोगमान्
तद्वन्धून्निहनिष्यामि वृष्णिभोजदशार्हकान्

tayor nihatayos taptān vasudeva-purogamān
tad-bandhūn nihaniṣyāmi
vr̥ṣṇi-bhoja-daśārhakān

SYNONYMS

tayoḥ—the two of Them; nihatayoḥ—when They are killed;
taptān—tormented; vasudeva-purogamān—led by Vasudeva;
tad-bandhūn—Their relatives; nihaniṣyāmi—I will kill;

vṛṣṇi-bhoja-daśārhakān—the Vṛṣṇis, Bhojas and Daśārhas.

TRANSLATION

When these two have been killed, I will kill Vasudeva and all Their lamenting relatives—the Vṛṣṇis, Bhojas and Daśārhas.

PURPORT

Even today there are wicked political leaders throughout the world who make such plans and even carry them out.

TEXT 34

उग्रसेनं च पितरं
स्थविरं राज्यकामुकं
तद्भ्रातरं देवकं च ये चान्ये विद्विषो मम

*ugrasenaṁ ca pitaraṁ sthaviraṁ rājya-kāmukaṁ tad-bhrātaraṁ devakaṁ ca
ye cānye vidviṣo mama*

SYNONYMS

ugrasenam—King Ugrasena; ca—and; pitaram—my father; sthaviram—old; rājya—for the kingdom; kāmukam—greedy; tad-bhrātaram—his brother; devakam—Devaka; ca—also; ye—who; ca—and; anye—others; vidviṣaḥ—enemies; mama—my.

TRANSLATION

I will also kill my old father, Ugrasena, who is greedy for my kingdom, and I will kill his brother Devaka and all my other enemies as well.

TEXT 35

ततश्चैषा मही मित्र भवित्री नष्टकण्टका

*tataś caiṣā mahī mitra
bhavitrī naṣṭa-kaṇṭakā*

SYNONYMS

tataḥ—then; ca—and; eṣā—this; mahī—earth; mitra—O friend; bhavitrī—will be; naṣṭa—destroyed; kaṇṭakā—her thorns.

TRANSLATION

Then, my friend, this earth will be free of thorns.

TEXT 36

जरासन्धो मम गुरूर्
द्विविदो दयितः सखा
शम्बरो नरको बाणो
मय्येव कृतसौहृदाः
तैरहं सुरपक्षीयान्

हत्वा भोक्ष्ये महीं नृपान्

*jarāsandho mama gurur dvivido dayitaḥ sakhā śambaro narako bāṇo mayy eva kṛta-sauhṛdāḥ tair ahaṁ sura-pakṣīyān
hatvā bhokṣye mahīm nṛpān*

SYNONYMS

jarāsandhaḥ—Jarāsandha; mama—my; guruḥ—elder (father-in-law); dvividaḥ—Dvivida; dayitaḥ—my dear; sakhā—friend; śambaraḥ—Śambara; narakaḥ—Naraka; bāṇaḥ—Bāṇa; mayi—for me; eva—indeed; kṛta-sauhṛdāḥ—who have strong friendship; taiḥ—with them; aham—I; sura—of the demigods; pakṣīyān—those who are allies; hatvā—killing; bhokṣye—will enjoy; mahīm—the earth; nṛpān—the kings.

TRANSLATION

My elder relative Jarāsandha and my dear friend Dvivida are solid well-wishers of mine, as are Śambara, Naraka and Bāṇa. I will use them all to kill off those kings who are allied with the demigods, and then I will rule the earth.

TEXT 37

एतज्ज्ञात्वानय क्षिप्रं
रामकृष्णाविहार्भकौ
धनुर्मखनिरीक्षार्थं

द्रष्टुं यदुपुरश्रियम्

*etaj jñātvānaya kṣipram
rāma-kṛṣṇāv ihārbhakau dhanur-makha-nirīkṣārtham draṣṭum yadu-pura-śriyam*

SYNONYMS

etat—this; jñātvā—knowing; ānaya—bring; kṣipram—quickly;
rāma-kṛṣṇau—Rāma and Kṛṣṇa; iha—here; arbhakau—the young boys;
dhanuḥ-makha—the bow sacrifice; nirīkṣā-artham—in order to witness;
draṣṭum—to see; yadu-pura—of the capital city of the Yadu dynasty;
śriyam—the opulence.

TRANSLATION

Now that you understand my intentions, please go at once and bring Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma to watch the bow sacrifice and see the opulence of the Yadus' capital.

TEXT 38

श्रीअक्रूर उवाच
राजन्मनीषितं सद्ध्यक्
तव स्वावद्यमार्जनम्
सिद्धयसिद्धयोः समं कुर्याद् दैवं हि फलसाधनम्

śrī-akrūra uvāca

rājan manīṣitam sadhryak tava svāvadya-mārjanam siddhy-asiddhyoḥ samam kuryād daivam hi phala-sāadhanam

SYNONYMS

śrī-akrūraḥ uvāca—Śrī Akrūra said; rājan—O King; manīṣitam—the thinking; sadhryak—perfect; tava—your; sva—your own; avadya—misfortune; mārjanam—which will wash away; siddhi-asiddhyoḥ—in both success and failure; samam—equal; kuryāt—one should act; daivam—destiny; hi—after all; phala—the fruit, result; sāadhanam—the cause of achieving.

TRANSLATION

Śrī Akrūra said: O King, you have expertly devised a process to free yourself of misfortune. Still, one should be equal in success and failure, since it is certainly destiny that produces the results of one's work.

TEXT 39

मनोरथान् करोत्युच्चैर्
जनो दैवहतानपि
युज्यते हर्षशोकाभ्यां तथाप्याज्ञां करोमि ते

manorathān karoty uccair jano daiva-hatān api yujyate harṣa-śokābhyām tathāpy ājñām karomi te

SYNONYMS

manaḥ-rathān—his desires; karoti—carries out; uccaiḥ—fervently; janaḥ—the average person; daiva—by Providence; hatān—thwarted; api—even though; yujyate—he is confronted; harṣa-śokābhyām—by happiness and distress; tathā api—nonetheless; ājñām—order; karomi—I will do; te—your.

TRANSLATION

An ordinary person is determined to act on his desires even when fate prevents their fulfillment. Therefore he encounters both happiness and distress. Yet even though such is the case, I will execute your order.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī explains that although what Akrūra said was courteous and encouraging, his hidden meaning was far different. What he really meant was this: "Your plan is not fit to execute, yet I will carry it out since you are the King and I am your subject, and in any case, you are about to die."

TEXT 40

श्रीशुक उवाच
एवमादिश्य चाक्रूरं
मन्त्रिणश्च विषृज्य सः
प्रविवेश गृहं कंसस्य तथाक्रूरः स्वमालयम्

śrī-śuka uvāca
evam ādiśya cākrūram
mantriṇaś ca viṣṛjya saḥ praviveśa gṛham kaṁsas tathākrūraḥ svam ālayam

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; evam—thus; ādiśya—instructing; ca—and; akrūram—Akrūra; mantriṇaḥ—his ministers; ca—and; viṣṛjya—dismissing; saḥ—he; praviveśa—entered; gṛham—his quarters; kaṁsaḥ—Kaṁsa; tathā—also; akrūraḥ—Akrūra; svam—his own; ālayam—residence.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Having thus instructed Akrūra, King Kaṁsa dismissed his ministers and retired to his quarters, and Akrūra returned home.

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Thirty-sixth Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "The Slaying of Ariṣṭā, the Bull Demon."

37. The Killing of the Demons Keśi and Vyoma

This chapter describes the killing of the horse demon, Keśi; Nārada's glorification of Lord Kṛṣṇa's future pastimes; and Kṛṣṇa's killing of Vyomāsura.

On Kāṁsa's order the Keśi demon assumed the form of a huge horse and went to Vraja. As he approached, his loud neighing terrified all the inhabitants, and they began looking for Śrī Kṛṣṇa. When He saw the demon, Kṛṣṇa came forward and challenged him to come near. Keśi charged Kṛṣṇa and tried to strike Him with his front legs, but the Lord seized them, whirled the demon around several times, and then threw him a distance of one hundred bow-lengths. Keśi remained unconscious for some time. When the demon regained consciousness, he furiously charged Kṛṣṇa again, his mouth agape. The Lord then thrust His left arm into the horse demon's mouth, and as Keśi tried to bite the arm, it felt like a red-hot iron rod. Kṛṣṇa's arm expanded more and more, finally choking the demon, and in extreme agony Keśi gave up his life. Lord Kṛṣṇa then removed His arm. He stood calmly, showing no pride at having killed the demon, as the demigods showered down flowers from the sky and glorified the Lord with prayers.

Soon thereafter Nārada Muni, the great sage among the demigods, approached Kṛṣṇa and prayed to Him in various ways, glorifying the Lord's future pastimes. Then Nārada paid his obeisances and departed.

One day, while tending the cows, Kṛṣṇa, Balarāma and the cowherd boys became engrossed in playing hide-and-go-seek. Some of the boys took the role of sheep, some the role of thieves, and others shepherds. The shepherds would search for the sheep when the thieves stole them. Taking advantage of this game, a demon named Vyoma, sent by Kāṁsa, dressed himself like a cowherd boy and joined the band of "thieves." He abducted a few cowherd boys at a time and threw them into a mountain cave, keeping them there by blocking the entrance with a boulder. Gradually Vyomāsura abducted all but four or five cowherd boys. When Kṛṣṇa saw what the demon was doing, He ran after him, grabbed him and killed him just as one would kill a sacrificial animal.

TEXTS 1-2

श्रीशुक उवाच
केशी तु कंसप्रहितः खुरैर्महीं
महाहयो निर्जरयन्मनोजवः
सटावधूताभ्रविमानसङ्कुलं
कुर्वन्नभो हेषितभीषिताखिलः

तं त्रासयन्तं भगवान् स्वगोकुलं तद्धेषितैर्वालविघूर्णिताम्बुदम्
आत्मानमाजौ मृगयन्तमग्रणीर् उपाह्वयत्स व्यनदन्मृगेन्द्रव

śrī-śuka uvāca
keśī tu kaṁsa-prahitaḥ khurair mahīm mahā-hayo nirjarayan mano-javaḥ saṭāvadhūtābhra-vimāna-saṅkulaṁ kurvan nabho heṣita-bhīṣitākhilaḥ taṁ trāsayantaṁ bhagavān sva-gokulaṁ tad-dheṣitair vāla-vighūrṇitāmbudam ātmānam ājau mṛgayantaṁ agra-ṇīr upāhvayat sa vyanadan mṛgendra-vat

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; keśī—the demon named Keśī; tu—and then; kaṁsa-prahitaḥ—sent by Kāṁsa; khuraiḥ—with his hooves; mahīm—the earth; mahā-hayaḥ—a huge horse; nirjarayan—ripping apart; manaḥ—like that of the mind; javaḥ—whose speed; saṭā—by the hairs of his mane; avadhūta—scattered; abhra—with the clouds; vimāna—and the airplanes (of the demigods); saṅkulam—crowded; kurvan—making; nabhaḥ—the sky; heṣita—by his neighing; bhīṣita—frightened; akhilāḥ—everyone; tam—him; trāsayantam—terrifying; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; sva-gokulam—His cowherd village; tat-heṣitaiḥ—by that neighing; vāla—by the hairs of his tail; vighūrṇita—shaken; ambudam—the clouds; ātmānam—Himself; ājau—for a fight; mṛgayantam—searching after; agra-nīḥ—coming forward; upāhvayat—called out; saḥ—he, Keśī; vyanadan—roared; mṛgendra-vat—like a lion.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: The demon Keśī, sent by Kāṁsa, appeared in Vraja as a great horse. Running with the speed of the mind, he tore up the earth with his hooves. The hairs of his mane scattered the clouds and the demigods' airplanes throughout the sky, and he terrified everyone present with his loud neighing.

When the Supreme Personality of Godhead saw how the demon was frightening His village of Gokula by neighing terribly and shaking the clouds with his tail, the Lord came forward to meet him. Keśī was searching for Kṛṣṇa to fight, so when the Lord stood before him and challenged him to approach, the horse responded by roaring like a lion.

TEXT 3

स तं निशाम्याभिमुखो मखेन खं
पिबन्निवाभ्यद्रवदत्यमर्षणः
जघान पद्भ्यामरविन्दलोचनं दुरासदश्चण्डजवो दुरत्यय

sa taṁ niśāmyābhimukho makhena khaṁ

pibann ivābhyadravad aty-amarṣaṇaḥ jaghāna padbhyām aravinda-locanam durāsadaś caṇḍa-javo duratyayaḥ

SYNONYMS

saḥ—he, Keśī; tam—Him, Kṛṣṇa; niśāmya—seeing; abhimukhaḥ—in front of himself; mukhena—with his mouth; kham—the sky; piban—drinking up; iva—as if; abhyadravat—ran forward; ati-amarṣaṇaḥ—very angry; jaghāna—he attacked; padbhyām—with his two legs; aravinda-locanam—the lotus-eyed Lord; durāsadaḥ—unapproachable; caṇḍa—fierce; javaḥ—whose speed; duratyayaḥ—unconquerable.

TRANSLATION

Seeing the Lord standing before him, Keśī ran toward Him in extreme rage, his mouth gaping as if to swallow up the sky. Rushing with furious speed, the unconquerable and unapproachable horse demon tried to strike the lotus-eyed Lord with his two front legs.

TEXT 4

तद्वञ्चयित्वा तमधोक्षजो रुषा
प्रगृह्य दोभ्यां परिविध्य पादयोः
सावज्ञमुत्सृज्य धनुःशतान्तरे यथोरगं ताक्ष्यसुतो व्यवस्थितः tad vañcayitvā tam adhokṣajo ruṣā pragr̥hya dorbhyām parividhya pādayoḥ sāvajñam utsṛjya dhanuḥ-śatāntare

yathoragam tārṣya-suto vyavasthitaḥ

SYNONYMS

tat—that; vañcayitvā—avoiding; tam—him; adhokṣajaḥ—the transcendental Lord; ruṣā—angrily; pragrhya—seizing; dorbhyām—with His arms; parividhya—whirling around; pādayoḥ—by the legs; sa-avajñam—contemptuously; utsṛjya—discarding; dhanuḥ—of bow-lengths; śata—one hundred; antare—to the distance; yathā—as; uragam—a snake; tārṣya—of Kardama Muni; sutaḥ—the son (Garuḍa); vyavasthitaḥ—standing.

TRANSLATION

But the transcendental Lord dodged Keśi's blow and then with His arms angrily seized the demon by the legs, whirled him around in the air and contemptuously threw him the distance of one hundred bow-lengths, just as Garuḍa might throw a snake. Lord Kṛṣṇa then stood there.

TEXT 5

सः लब्धसंज्ञः पुनरुत्थितो रुषा
व्यादाय केशी तरसापतद्धरिम् सोऽप्यस्य वक्त्रे भुजमुत्तरं स्मयन् प्रवेशयामास यथोरगं बिले

saḥ labdha-samjñāḥ punar utthito ruṣā vyādāya keśi tarasāpatad dharim so 'py asya vaktre bhujam uttaram smayan praveśayām āsa yathoragam bile

SYNONYMS

saḥ—he, Keśī; labdha—regaining; saṁjñāḥ—consciousness; punaḥ—again; utthitaḥ—rose up; ruṣā—in anger; vyādāya—opening (his mouth) wide; keśī—Keśī; tarasā—rapidly; apatat—ran; harim—toward Kṛṣṇa; saḥ—He, Lord Kṛṣṇa; api—and; asya—his; vaktre—in the mouth; bhujam—His arm; uttaram—left; smayan—smiled; praveśayām āsa—placed within; yathā—as; uragam—a snake; bile—(enters)within a hole.

TRANSLATION

Upon regaining consciousness Keśī angrily got up, opened his mouth wide and again rushed to attack Lord Kṛṣṇa. But the Lord just smiled and thrust His left arm into the horse's mouth as easily as one would make a snake enter a hole in the ground.

TEXT 6

दन्ता निपेतुर्भगवद्भुजस्पृशस
ते केशिनस्तप्तमयस्पृशो यथा
बाहुश्च तदेहगतो महात्मनो यथामयः संववृधे उपेक्षितः

dantā nipetur bhagavad-bhuja-sprśas te keśinas tapta-maya-sprśo yathā bāhuś ca tad-deha-gato mahātmano yathāmayāḥ saṁvavṛdhe upekṣitaḥ dantāḥ—the teeth; nipetuḥ—fell out; bhagavat—of the Supreme Lord; bhuja—the arm; spṛśaḥ—touching; te—they; keśinaḥ—of Keśi; tapta-maya—red-hot (iron); spṛśaḥ—touching; yathā—as; bāhuḥ—the arm; ca—and; tat—his, Keśi's; deha—body; gataḥ—having entered; mahā-ātmanaḥ—of the Supreme Soul; yathā—like; āmayāḥ—a diseased condition (particularly, distension of the stomach); saṁvavṛdhe—increased greatly in size; upekṣitaḥ—neglected.

SYNONYMS

TRANSLATION

Keśi's teeth immediately fell out when they touched the Supreme Lord's arm, which to the demon felt as hot as molten iron. Within Keśi's body the Supreme Personality's arm then expanded greatly, like a diseased stomach swelling because of neglect.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī points out that although Lord Kṛṣṇa's arm is more tender and cooling than a blue lotus, to Keśi it felt extremely hot as if made of lightning bolts.

TEXT 7

समेधमानेन स कृष्णबाहुना
निरुद्धवायुश्चरणांश्च विक्षिपन्
प्रस्विन्नगात्रः परिवृत्तलोचनः पपात लण्डं विसृजन् क्षितौ व्यसुः samedhamānena sa kṛṣṇa-bāhunā niruddha-vāyuś caraṇāṁś ca vikṣiṇan

prasvinna-gātraḥ parivṛtta-locanaḥ papāta laṇḍam viśṛjan kṣitau vyasuḥ

SYNONYMS

samedhamānena—expanding; saḥ—he; kṛṣṇa-bāhunā—by Lord Kṛṣṇa's arm; niruddha—stopped; vāyuḥ—his breathing; caraṇān—his legs; ca—and; vikṣīpan—throwing about; prasvinna—perspiring; gātraḥ—his body; parivṛtta—rolling; locanaḥ—his eyes; papāta—he fell down; laṇḍam—feces; viśṛjan—excreting; kṣitau—onto the ground; vyasuḥ—lifeless.

TRANSLATION

As Lord Kṛṣṇa's expanding arm completely blocked Keśi's breathing, his legs kicked convulsively, his body became covered with sweat, and his eyes rolled around. The demon then passed stool and fell on the ground, dead.

TEXT 8

तदेहतः कर्कटिकाफलोपमाद्
व्यसोरपाकृष्य भुजं महाभुजः
अविस्मितोऽयत्नहतारिकः सुरैः प्रसूनवर्षैर्वर्षद्भिरीडितः tad-dehataḥ karkatikā-phalopamād vyasor apākṛṣya bhujam mahā-bhujah avismīto 'yatna-hatārikaḥ suraiḥ prasūna-varṣair varṣadbhir īḍitaḥ

SYNONYMS

tat-dehataḥ—from Keśi's body; karkaṭikā-phala—a karkaṭikā fruit; upamāt—which resembled; vyasoḥ—from which the vital airs had departed; apākr̥ṣya—withdrawing; bhujam—His arm; mahā-bhujah—the mighty-armed Lord; avimitaḥ—without undue pride; ayatna—without effort; hata—having killed; arikaḥ—His enemy; suraiḥ—by the demigods; prasūna—of flowers; varṣaiḥ—with downpours; varṣadbhiḥ—who were raining upon Him; īditaḥ—worshiped.

TRANSLATION

The mighty-armed Kṛṣṇa withdrew His arm from Keśi's body, which now appeared like a long karkaṭikā fruit. Without the least display of pride at having so effortlessly killed His enemy, the Lord accepted the demigods' worship in the form of flowers rained down from above.

TEXT 9

देवर्षिरुपसङ्गम्य
भागवतप्रवरो नृप
कृष्णमक्लिष्टकर्माणं रहस्येतदभाषत

devarṣir upasaṅgamyā bhāgavata-pravarō nṛpa kṛṣṇam akliṣṭa-karmāṇam
rahasy etad abhāṣata

SYNONYMS

deva-ṛṣiḥ—the sage among the demigods (Nārada Muni);

upasaṅgamyā—approaching; bhāgavata—of devotees of the Lord; pravaraḥ—the most exalted; nṛpa—O King (Parīkṣit); kṛṣṇam—Lord Kṛṣṇa; akliṣṭa—without trouble; karmāṇam—whose activities; rahasi—in privacy; etat—this; abhāṣata—said.

TRANSLATION

My dear King, thereafter Lord Kṛṣṇa was approached in a solitary place by the great sage among the demigods, Nārada Muni. That most exalted devotee spoke as follows to the Lord, who effortlessly performs His pastimes.

PURPORT

After speaking with Kāṁsa, Nārada went to see Lord Kṛṣṇa. The Lord's Vṛndāvana pastimes were nearly completed, and Nārada wanted to see those He would enact in Mathurā.

TEXTS 10-11

कृष्ण कृष्णाप्रमेयात्मन्
योगेश जगदीश्वर
वासुदेवाखिलावास
सात्वतां प्रवर प्रभो

त्वमात्मा सर्वभूतानाम्
एको ज्योतिरिवैधसाम्
गूढो गुहाशयः साक्षी महापुरुष ईश्वरः

*kṛṣṇa kṛṣṇāprameyātman yogeśa jagad-īśvara vāsudevākhilāvāsa
sātvatām pravara prabho tvam ātmā sarva-bhūtānām
eko jyotir iva idhasām gūḍho guhā-śayaḥ sākṣī
mahā-puruṣa īśvaraḥ*

SYNONYMS

kṛṣṇa kṛṣṇa—O Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa; aprameya-ātman—O immeasurable one; yoga-īśa—O source of all mystic power; jagat-īśvara—O Lord of the universe; vāsudeva—O son of Vasudeva; akhila-āvāsa—O shelter of all beings; sātvatām—of the Yadu dynasty; pravara—O You who are the best; prabho—O master; tvam—You; ātmā—the Supreme Soul; sarva—of all; bhūtānām—created beings; ekaḥ—alone; jyotiḥ—fire; iva—like; idhasām—in kindling wood; gūḍhaḥ—hidden; guhā—within the cave of the heart; śayaḥ—sitting; sākṣī—the witness; mahā-puruṣaḥ—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; īśvaraḥ—the supreme controller.

TRANSLATION

[Nārada Muni said:] O Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa, unlimited Lord, source of all mystic power, Lord of the universe! O Vāsudeva, shelter of all beings and best of the Yadus ! O master, You are the Supreme Soul of all created beings, sitting unseen within the cave of the heart like the fire dormant within kindling wood. You are the witness within everyone, the Supreme Personality and the ultimate controlling Deity.

TEXT 12

आत्मनात्माश्रयः पूर्वं
मायया ससृजे गुणान्
तैरिदं सत्यसङ्कल्पः सृजस्यत्स्यवसीश्वरः

ātmanātmāśrayaḥ pūrvam māyayā sasrje guṇān tair idam satya-saṅkalpaḥ sṛjasy atsy avasīśvaraḥ

SYNONYMS

ātmanā—by Your personal potency; ātma—of the spirit soul; āśrayaḥ—the shelter; pūrvam—first; māyayā—by Your creative energy; sasrje—You produced; guṇān—the basic modes of material nature; taiḥ—through these; idam—this (universe); satya—always realized in fact; saṅkalpaḥ—whose desires; sṛjasi—You create; atsi—withdraw; avasi—and maintain; īśvaraḥ—the controller.

TRANSLATION

You are the shelter of all souls, and being the supreme controller, You fulfill Your desires simply by Your will. By Your personal creative potency You manifested in the beginning the primal modes of material nature, and through their agency You create, maintain and then destroy this universe.

TEXT 13

स त्वं भूधरभूतानां

दैत्यप्रमथरक्षसाम्
अवतीर्णो विनाशाय साधुनां रक्षणाय च

*sa tvam bhūdhara-bhūtānām daitya-pramatha-rakṣasām avatīrṇo vināśāya
sādhunām rakṣaṇāya ca*

SYNONYMS

saḥ—He; tvam—Yourself; bhū-dhara—as kings; bhūtānām—who are appearing; daitya-pramatha-rakṣasām—of various kinds of demons; avatīrṇaḥ—You have descended; vināśāya—for the destruction; sādhūnām—of saintly persons; rakṣaṇāya—for the protection; ca—and.

TRANSLATION

You, that very same creator, have now descended on the earth to annihilate the Daitya, Pramatha and Rākṣasa demons who are posing as kings, and also to protect the godly.

TEXT 14

दिष्ट्या ते निहतो दैत्यो
लीलयायं हयाकृतिः
यस्य हेषितसन्त्रस्तासु त्यजन्त्यनिमिषा दिवम्

*diṣṭyā te nihato daityo līlayāyaṁ hayākṛtiḥ
yasya heṣita-santrastāś
tyajanty animiṣā divam*

SYNONYMS

diṣṭyā—by (our) good fortune; te—by You; nihataḥ—killed; daityaḥ—demon; līlayā—as a game; ayaṁ—this; haya-ākṛtiḥ—having the form of a horse; yasya—whose; heṣita—by the neighing; santrastāḥ—terrified; tyajanti—abandon; animiṣāḥ—the demigods; divam—heaven.

TRANSLATION

The horse demon was so terrifying that his neighing frightened the demigods into leaving their heavenly kingdom. But by our good fortune You have enjoyed the sport of killing him.

TEXTS 15-20

चाणूरं मुष्टिकं चैव
मल्लानन्यांश्च हस्तिनम्
कंसं च निहतं द्रक्ष्ये
परश्वोऽहनि ते विभो

तस्यानु शङ्खयवन-
मुराणां नरकस्य च
पारिजातापहरणम्

इन्द्रस्य च पराजयम्

उद्धाहं वीरकन्यानां
वीर्यशुल्कादिलक्षणम्
नृगस्य मोक्षणं शापाद्
द्वारकायां जगत्पते

स्यमन्तकस्य च मणेर्
आदानं सह भार्यया
मृतपुत्रप्रदानं च
ब्राह्मणस्य स्वधामतः

पौण्ड्रकस्य वधं पश्चात्
काशिपुर्याश्च दीपनम्
दन्तवक्रस्य निधनं
चैद्यस्य च महाक्रतौ

यानि चान्यानि वीर्याणि
द्वारकामावसन् भवान्
कर्ता द्रक्ष्याम्यहं तानि
गेयानि कविभिर्भुवि

cāṇūram muṣṭikam caiva mallān anyāṁś ca hastinam kaṁsam ca nihataṁ drakṣye paraśvo 'hani te vibho

tasyānu śaṅkha-yavanamurāṇām narakasya ca pārijātāpaharaṇam
indrasya ca parājayam

udvāhaṁ vīra-kanyānām vīrya-śulkādi-lakṣaṇam nṛgasya mokṣaṇam śāpād dvārakāyām jagat-pate

syamantakasya ca maṇer ādānaṁ saha bhāryayā mṛta-putra-pradānaṁ ca brāhmaṇasya sva-dhāmataḥ

pauṇḍrakasya vadhaṁ paścāt kāśi-puryāś ca dīpanam dantavakrasya nidhanaṁ caidyasya ca mahā-kratau

yāni cānyāni vīryāṇi dvārakām āvasan bhavān kartā drakṣyāmy ahaṁ tāni geyāni kavibhir bhuvi

SYNONYMS

cāṇūram—Cāṇūra; muṣṭikam—Muṣṭika; ca—and; eva—also; mallān—the wrestlers; anyān—others; ca—and; hastinam—the elephant (Kuvalayāpīḍa); kaṁsam—King Kaṁsa; ca—and; nihatam—killed; drakṣye—I will see; para-śvaḥ—the day after tomorrow; ahani—on that day; te—by You; vibho—O almighty Lord; tasya anu—after that; śaṅkha-yavana-murāṇām—of the demons Śaṅkha (Pañcājana), Kālayavana and Mura; narakasya—of Narakāsura; ca—as well; pārijāta—of the heavenly pārijāta flower;

apaharaṇam—the stealing; indrasya—of Lord Indra; ca—and; parājayam—the defeat; udvāham—the marriage; vīra—of heroic kings; kanyānām—of the daughters; vīrya—by Your valor; śulka—as the payment for the brides; ādi—and so forth; lakṣaṇam—characterized; nṛgasya—of King Nṛga; mokṣaṇam—the deliverance; śāpāt—from his curse; dvārakāyām—in the city of Dvārakā; jagat-pate—O master of the universe; syamantakasya—named Syamantaka; ca—and; maṇeḥ—of the jewel; ādānam—the taking; saha—together with; bhāryayā—a wife (Jāmbavatī); mṛta—dead; putra—of the son; pradānam—the presenting; ca—and; brāhmaṇasya—of a brāhmaṇa; sva-dhāmataḥ—from Your own domain (i.e., from the abode of Death); pauṇḍrakasya—of Pauṇḍraka; vadham—the killing; paścāt—after; kāśi-puryāḥ—of the city of Kāśī (Benares); ca—and; dīpanam—the burning; dantavakrasya—of Dantavakra; nidhanam—the demise; caidyasya—of Caidya (Śiśupāla); ca—and; mahā-kratau—during the great sacrificial performance (the Rājasūya-yajña of Mahārāja Yudhiṣṭhira); yāni—which; ca—and; anyāni—other; vīryāṇi—great feats; dvārakām—in Dvārakā; āvasan—dwelling; bhavān—You; kartā—are going to perform; drakṣyāmi—will see; aham—I; tāni—them; geyāni—to be sung about; kavibhiḥ—by poets; bhuvi—on this earth.

TRANSLATION

In just two days, O almighty Lord, I will see the deaths of Cāṇūra, Muṣṭika and other wrestlers, along with those of the elephant Kuvalayāpīḍa and King Kāmsa—all by Your hand. Then I will see You kill Kālayavana, Mura, Naraka and the conch demon, and I will also see You steal the pārijāta flower and defeat Indra. I will then see You marry many daughters of heroic kings after paying for them with Your valor. Then, O Lord of the universe, in Dvārakā You will deliver King Nṛga from a curse and take for Yourself the Syamantaka jewel, together with another wife. You will bring back a brāhmaëa's dead son from the abode of Your servant Yamarāja, and thereafter You will kill Pauṇḍraka, burn down the city of Kāśī and annihilate Dantavakra and the King of Cedi during the great Rājasūya sacrifice. I shall see all these heroic pastimes, along with many others You will perform during Your residence in Dvārakā. These pastimes are glorified on this earth in the songs of transcendental poets.

TEXT 21

अथ ते कालरूपस्य
क्षपयिष्णोरमुष्य वै
अक्षौहिणीनां निधनं
द्रक्ष्याम्यर्जुनसारथेः

atha te kāla-rūpasya kṣapayiṣṇor amuṣya vai akṣauhiṇīnām nidhanam drakṣyāmy arjuna-sāratheḥ

SYNONYMS

atha—then; te—by You; kāla-rūpasya—who are assuming the form of time; kṣapayiṣṇoḥ—who is intending to effect the destruction; amuṣya—of (the burden of) this world; vai—indeed; akṣauhiṇīnām—of entire armies; nidhanam—the destruction; drakṣyāmi—I will see; arjuna sāratheḥ—by the chariot driver of Arjuna.

TRANSLATION

Subsequently I will see You appear as time personified, serving as Arjuna's chariot driver and destroying entire armies of soldiers to rid the earth of her burden.

TEXT 22

विशुद्धविज्ञानघनं स्वसंस्थया
समाप्तसर्वार्थममोघवाञ्छितम्
स्वतेजसा नित्यनिवृत्तमाया- गुणप्रवाहं भगवन्तमीमहि

viśuddha-vijñāna-ghanam sva-saṁsthayā samāpta-sarvārtham amogha-vāñchitam sva-tejasā nitya-nivṛtta-māyāguṇa-pravāham bhagavantam īmahi

SYNONYMS

viśuddha—perfectly pure; vijñāna—spiritual awareness; ghanam—full of; sva-saṁsthayā—in His original identity; samāpta—already fulfilled; sarva—in all; artham—purposes; amogha—never frustrated; vāñchitam—whose desires; sva-tejasā—by His own potency; nitya—eternally; nivṛtta—desisting; māyā—of the illusory, material energy; guṇa—of the manifest modes; pravāham—from the flowing interaction; bhagavantam—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; īmahi—let us approach.

TRANSLATION

Let us approach You, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, for shelter. You are full of perfectly pure spiritual awareness and are always situated in Your original identity. Since Your will is never thwarted, You have already achieved all possible desirable things, and by the power of Your spiritual energy You remain eternally aloof from the flow of the qualities of illusion.

TEXT 23

त्वामीश्वरं स्वाश्रयमात्ममायया
विनिर्मिताशेषविशेषकल्पनम्
क्रीडार्थमद्यात्तमनुष्यविग्रहं नतोऽस्मि धुर्यं यदुवृष्णिसात्वताम् tvām īśvaram svāśrayam ātma-māyayā vinirmitāśeṣa-viśeṣa-kalpanam krīḍāṛtham adyātta-manuṣya-vigrahaṁ nato 'smi dhuryaṁ yadu-vṛṣṇi-sātvatām

SYNONYMS

tvām—to You; īśvaram—the supreme controller; sva-āśrayam—self-contained; ātma—Your own; māyayā—by the creative potency; vinirmita—constructed; aśeṣa—unlimited; viśeṣa—particular; kalpanam—arrangements; krīḍa—of playing; artham—for the sake; adya—now; ātta—taken on; manuṣya—among humans; vigrahaṁ—battle; nataḥ—bowed down; asmi—I am; dhuryam—to the greatest; yadu-vṛṣṇi-sātvatām—of the Yadu, Vṛṣṇi and Sātvata dynasties.

TRANSLATION

I bow down to You, the supreme controller, who are dependent only on Yourself. By Your potency You have constructed the unlimited particular arrangements of this universe. Now you have appeared as the greatest hero among the Yadus, Vṛṣṇis and Sātvatas and have chosen to participate in human warfare.

TEXT 24

श्रीशुक उवाच
एवं यदुपतिं कृष्णं
भागवतप्रवरो मुनिः
प्रणिपत्याभ्यनुज्ञातो ययौ तद्दर्शनोत्सवः

śrī-śuka uvāca
evam yadu-patiṁ kṛṣṇaṁ bhāgavata-pravarō muniḥ praṇipatyābhyanuññāto
yayau tad-darśanotsavaḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; evam—thus; yadu-patiṁ—to the chief of the Yadus; kṛṣṇaṁ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; bhāgavata—of devotees; pravaraḥ—most eminent; muniḥ—the sage Nārada; praṇipatya—respectfully bowing down; abhyanuññātaḥ—given leave; yayau—went; tat—Him, Kṛṣṇa; darśana—by having seen; utsavaḥ—experiencing great joy.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Having thus addressed Lord Kṛṣṇa, the chief of the Yadu dynasty, Nārada bowed down and offered Him obeisances. Then that great sage and most eminent devotee took his leave from the Lord and went away, feeling great joy at having directly seen Him.

TEXT 25

भगवानपि गोविन्दो
हत्वा केशिनमाहवे
पशूनपालयत्पालैः प्रीतैर्ब्रजसुखावहः

*bhagavān api govindo
hatvā keśinam āhave
paśūn apālayat pālaiḥ
prītaiḥ vraja-sukhāvahaḥ*

SYNONYMS

bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; api—and; govindaḥ—Govinda; hatvā—having killed; keśinam—the demon Keśi; āhave—in battle; paśūn—the animals; apālayat—He tended; pālaiḥ—together with the cowherd boys; prītaiḥ—who were pleased; vraja—to the inhabitants of Vṛndāvana; sukha—happiness; āvahaḥ—bringing.

TRANSLATION

After killing the demon Keśi in battle, the Supreme Personality of Godhead continued to tend the cows and other animals in the company of His joyful cowherd boyfriends. Thus He brought happiness to all the residents of Vṛndāvana.

TEXT 26

एकदा ते पशून् पालाः
चारयन्तोऽद्रिसानुषु

चक्रुर्निलायनक्रीडाश् चोरपालापदेशतः

*ekadā te paśūn pālāś' cārayanto 'dri-sānuṣu
cakrur nilāyana-kṛīḍāś
cora-pālāpadeśataḥ*

SYNONYMS

ekadā—one day; te—they; paśūn—the animals; pālāḥ—the cowherd boys; cārayantaḥ—grazing; adri—of a mountain; sānuṣu—on the sides; cakruḥ—they enacted; nilāyana—of "stealing and hiding"; kṛīḍāḥ—games; cora—of thieves; pāla—and protectors; apadeśataḥ—playing the roles.

TRANSLATION

One day the cowherd boys, while grazing their animals on the mountain slopes, played the game of stealing and hiding, acting out the roles of rival thieves and herders.

TEXT 27

तत्रासन् कतिचिच्चोराः
पालाश्च कतिचिन्नृप
मेषायिताश्च तत्रैके विजहुरकुतोभयाः

*tatrāsan katicic corāḥ
pālāś ca katicin nṛpa*

meṣāyitāś ca tatraike vijahrur akuto-bhayāḥ

SYNONYMS

tatra—in that; āsan—were; katicit—some; corāḥ—thieves; pālāḥ—herders; ca—and; katicit—some; nṛpa—O King (Parīkṣit); meṣāyitāḥ—acting as the sheep; ca—and; tatra—therein; eke—some of them; vijahruḥ—they played; akutaḥ-bhayāḥ—without any fear.

TRANSLATION

In that game, O King, some acted as thieves, others as shepherds and others as sheep. They played their game happily, without fear of danger.

TEXT 28

मयपुत्रो महामायो
व्योमो गोपालवेषधृक्
मेषायितानपोवाह प्रायश्चोरायितो बहून्

maya-putro mahā-māyo vyomo gopāla-veṣa-dhṛk meṣāyitān apovāha prāyaś corāyito bahūn

SYNONYMS

maya-putraḥ—a son of the demon Maya; mahā māyaḥ—a powerful magician; vyomaḥ—named Vyoma; gopāla—of a cowherd boy; veṣa—the disguise;

dhṛk—assuming; meṣāyitān—those who were acting as sheep; apovāha—he took away; prāyaḥ—almost all; corāyitaḥ—pretending to be playing as a thief; bahūn—many.

TRANSLATION

A powerful magician named Vyoma, son of the demon Maya, then appeared on the scene in the guise of a cowherd boy. Pretending to join the game as a thief, he proceeded to steal most of the cowherd boys who were acting as sheep.

TEXT 29

गिरिदर्या विनिक्षिप्य
नीतं नीतं महासुरः
शिलया पिदधे द्वारं चतुःपञ्चावशेषिताः

giri-daryām vinikṣipya
nītaṁ nītaṁ mahāsurāḥ śilayā pidadhe dvāraṁ
catuḥ-pañcāvaśeṣitāḥ

SYNONYMS

giri—of a mountain; daryām—in a cave; vinikṣipya—throwing; nītaṁ nītaṁ—gradually bringing them; mahā-asuraḥ—the great demon; śilayā—with a stone; pidadhe—he blocked; dvāraṁ—the entrance; catuḥ-pañca—four or five; avaśeṣitāḥ—remained.

TRANSLATION

Gradually the great demon abducted more and more of the cowherd boys and cast them into a mountain cave, which he sealed shut with a boulder. Finally only four or five boys acting as sheep remained in the game.

TEXT 30

तस्य तत्कर्म विज्ञाय
कृष्णः शरणदः सताम्
गोपान्नयन्तं जग्राह वृकं हरिरिवौजसा

*tasya tat karma vijñāya
kṛṣṇaḥ śaraṇa-daḥ satām gopān nayantaṁ jagrāha
vṛkaṁ harir ivaujasā*

SYNONYMS

tasya—of him, Vyomāsura; tat—that; karma—activity; vijñāya—fully understanding; kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; śaraṇa—of shelter; daḥ—the giver; satām—to saintly devotees; gopān—cowherd boys; nayantaṁ—who was leading; jagrāha—He seized; vṛkaṁ—a wolf; hariḥ—a lion: iva—just as; ojasā—forcefully.

TRANSLATION

Lord Kṛṣṇa, who shelters all saintly devotees, understood perfectly well what Vyomāsura was doing. Just as a lion grabs a wolf, Kṛṣṇa forcefully seized the demon as he was taking away more cowherd boys.

TEXT 31

स निजं रूपमास्थाय
गिरीन्द्रसदृशं बली
इच्छन् विमोक्तुमात्मानं नाशक्रोद्धहणातुरः

sa nijam rūpam āsthāya girīndra-sadṛśam balī icchan vimoktum ātmānam nāśaknod grahaṇāturaḥ

SYNONYMS

saḥ—he, the demon; nijam—his original; rūpam—form; āsthāya—assuming; giri-indra—a kingly mountain; sadṛśam—just like; balī—powerful; icchan—wanting; vimoktum—to free; ātmānam—himself; na aśaknot—he was not able; grahaṇa—by being forcibly held; āturaḥ—debilitated.

TRANSLATION

The demon changed into his original form, as big and powerful as a great mountain. But try as he might to free himself, he could not do so, having lost his strength from being held in the Lord's tight grip.

TEXT 32

तं निगृह्याच्युतो दोभ्यां
पातयित्वा महीतले
पश्यतां दिवि देवानां

पशुमारममारयत्

*tam niṅṛhya-acyuto dorbhyām pātayitvā mahī-tale paśyatām divi devānām
paśu-māram amārayat*

SYNONYMS

tam—him; niṅṛhya—holding fast; acyutaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; dorbhyām—with His arms; pātayitvā—making him fall; mahī-tale—onto the ground; paśyatām—while they were watching; divi—in the heavenly planets; devānām—the demigods; paśu-māram—as a sacrificial animal is slaughtered; amārayat—He killed him.

TRANSLATION

Lord Acyuta clutched Vyomāsura between His arms and threw him to the ground. Then, while the demigods in heaven looked on, Kṛṣṇa killed him in the same way that one kills a sacrificial animal.

PURPORT

The ācāryas inform us that sacrificial animals were killed by means of strangulation.

TEXT 33

गुहापिधानं निर्भिद्य
गोपान्निःसार्य कृच्छ्रतः
स्तूयमानः सुरैर्गोपैः

प्रविवेश स्वगोकुलम्

guhā-pidhānam nirbhidyā
gopān niḥsārya kṛcchrataḥ stūyamānaḥ surair gopaiḥ praviveśa sva-gokulam

SYNONYMS

guhā—of the cave; pidhānam—the blockage; nirbhidyā—breaking; gopān—the cowherd boys; niḥsārya—leading out; kṛcchrataḥ—from the dangerous place; stūyamānaḥ—being praised; suraiḥ—by the demigods; gopaiḥ—and by the cowherd boys; praviveśa—he entered; sva—His own; gokulam—cowherd village.

TRANSLATION

Kṛṣṇa then smashed the boulder blocking the cave's entrance and led the trapped cowherd boys to safety. Thereafter, as the demigods and cowherd boys sang His glories, He returned to His cowherd village, Gokula.

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Thirty-seventh Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "The Killing of the Demons Keśī and Vyoma."

38. Akrūra's Arrival in Vṛndāvana

This chapter describes Akrūra's trip from Mathurā to Vṛndāvana, his meditation on Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma along the way and the honor the two Lords showed Akrūra upon his arrival.

Early in the morning on the day after Kāṁsa had ordered him to bring Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma to Mathurā, Akrūra prepared his chariot and set off for Gokula. As he traveled, he thought as follows: "I am about to attain the great good fortune of seeing Śrī Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet, which are worshiped by Brahmā, Rudra and the other demigods. Although Kāṁsa is an enemy of the Supreme Lord and His devotees, still, it is by Kāṁsa's grace that I will get this great boon of seeing the Lord. When I first catch sight of His lotus feet, all my sinful reactions will be destroyed at once. I will descend from my chariot and fall at the feet of Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, and even though I have been sent by Kāṁsa, the omniscient Śrī Kṛṣṇa will certainly harbor no animosity toward me." As Akrūra thus thought to himself, he arrived in Gokula at sunset. Alighting from his chariot in the cowherd pasture, he began rolling about in the dust in great ecstasy.

Then Akrūra continued on to Vraja. When he saw Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma he fell at Their lotus feet, and both the Lords embraced him. Afterward They brought him to Their residence, inquired from him about the comfort of his trip and honored him in various ways-offering him water for washing his feet, arghya, a seat and so forth. They relieved him of his fatigue by massaging his feet and served him a delicious banquet. Mahārāja Nanda also honored Akrūra with many sweet words.

TEXT 1

श्रीशुक उवाच
अक्रूरोऽपि च तां रात्रिं
मधुपुर्यां महामतिः

उषित्वा रथमास्थाय प्रययौ नन्दगोकुलम्

śrī-śuka uvāca
akrūro 'pi ca tām rātrim madhu-ṇuryām mahā-matiḥ uṣitvā ratham āsthāya
prayayau nanda-gokulam

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; akrūraḥ—Akrūra; api ca—and; tām—that; rātrim—night; madhu-ṇuryām—in the city of Mathurā; mahā-matiḥ—high-minded; uṣitvā—remaining; ratham—his chariot; āsthāya—mounting; prayayau—he set off; nanda-gokulam—for the cowherd village of Nanda Mahārāja.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: After passing the night in the city of Mathurā, the high-minded Akrūra mounted his chariot and set off for the cowherd village of Nanda Mahārāja.

PURPORT

King Kāṁsa ordered Akrūra to go to Vṛndāvana on the Ekādaśī of the dark fortnight of the Vedic month of Phālguna. After spending the night in Mathurā, Akrūra left early the next day. That morning Nārada offered his prayers to Kṛṣṇa in Vṛndāvana, and in the afternoon the demon Vyoma was killed there. At dusk Akrūra entered the Lord's village.

TEXT 2

गच्छन् पथि महाभागो
भगवत्यम्बुजेक्षणे
भक्तिं परामुपगत एवमेतदचिन्तयत्

*gacchan pathi mahā-bhāgo bhagavaty ambujekṣaṇe bhaktim parām upagata
evam etad acintayat*

SYNONYMS

gacchan—traveling; pathi—along the road; mahā-bhāgaḥ—the greatly fortunate; bhagavati—for the Supreme Personality of Godhead; ambuja-īkṣaṇe—the lotus-eyed Lord; bhaktim—devotion; parām—exceptional; upagataḥ—he experienced; evam—thus; etat—this (as follows); acintayat—he thought.

TRANSLATION

As he traveled on the road, the great soul Akrūra felt tremendous devotion for the lotus-eyed Personality of Godhead, and thus he began to consider as follows.

TEXT 3

किं मयाचरितं भद्रं
किं तप्तं परमं तपः

किं वाथाप्यर्हते दत्तं यद्रक्ष्याम्यद्य केशवम्

kim mayācaritaṁ bhadraṁ kim taptaṁ paramaṁ tapaḥ kim vāthāpy arhate dattaṁ yad drakṣyāmy adya keśavam

SYNONYMS

kim—what; mayā—by me; ācaritaṁ—has been performed; bhadraṁ—good works; kim—what; taptaṁ—suffered; paramaṁ—severe; tapaḥ—austerity; kim—what; vā—or else; atha api—otherwise; arhate—worship performed; dattaṁ—charity given; yat—by which; drakṣyāmi—I am going to see; adya—today; keśavam—Lord Kṛṣṇa.

TRANSLATION

[Śrī Akrūra thought:] What pious deeds have I done, what severe austerities undergone, what worship performed or charity given so that today I will see Lord Keśava?

TEXT 4

ममैतद् दुर्लभं मन्य
उत्तमःश्लोकदर्शनम्
विषयात्मनो यथा ब्रह्म-कीर्तनं शूद्रजन्मनः

mamaitad durlabhaṁ manya

uttamaḥ-śloka-darśanam viṣayātmano yathā brahmakīrtanam śūdra-janmanaḥ

SYNONYMS

mama—my; etat—this; durlabham—difficult to achieve; manye—I consider; uttamaḥ-śloka—of the Supreme Lord, who is praised in the best poetry; darśanam—the audience; viṣaya-ātmanaḥ—for one who is absorbed in sense gratification; yathā—just as; brahma—of the Vedas; kīrtanam—chanting; śūdra—as a low-class man; janmanaḥ—by one who has taken his birth.

TRANSLATION

Since I am a materialistic person absorbed simply in sense gratification, I think it is as difficult for me to have gotten this opportunity to see Lord Uttamaḥśloka as it would be for one born a śūdra to be allowed to recite the Vedic mantras.

TEXT 5

मैवं ममाधमस्यापि
स्यादेवाच्युतदर्शनम्
ह्रियमाणः कलनद्या क्वचित्तरति कश्चन

maivam mamādhmasyāpi
syād evācyuta-darśanam hriyamāṇaḥ kala-nadyā
kvacit tarati kaścana

SYNONYMS

mā evam—I should not think like this; mama—for me; adhamasya—who am most fallen; api—even; syāt—it may come about; eva—certainly; acyuta—of the infallible Lord; darśanam—the sight; hriyamāṇaḥ—being pulled along; kāla—of time; nadyā—by the river; kvacit—sometimes; tarati—crosses to the shore; kaścana—someone.

TRANSLATION

But enough of such thoughts! After all, even a fallen soul like me can have the chance to behold the infallible Supreme Lord, for one of the conditioned souls being swept along in the river of time may sometimes reach the shore.

TEXT 6

ममाद्यामङ्गलं नष्टं
फलवांश्चैव मे भवः
यन्नमस्ये भगवतो
योगिध्येयान्घ्रिपङ्कजम्

mamādyāmaṅgalaṁ naṣṭaṁ phalavāṁś caiva me bhavaḥ yan namasye bhagavato
yogi-dhyeyānghri-ṣaṅkajam

SYNONYMS

mama—my; adya—today; amaṅgalam—inauspicious sinful reactions; naṣṭam—eradicated; phala-vān—fruitful; ca—and; eva—indeed; me—my;

bhavaḥ—birth; yat—since; namasye—I am going to offer obeisances; bhagavataḥ—of the Supreme Lord; yogi-dhyeya—meditated upon by yogīs; aṅghri—to the feet; paṅkajam—lotuslike.

TRANSLATION

Today all my sinful reactions have been eradicated and my birth has become worthwhile, since I will offer my obeisances to the Supreme Lord's lotus feet, which mystic yogīs meditate upon.

TEXT 7

कंसो बताद्याकृत मेऽत्यनुग्रहं
द्रक्ष्येऽङ्घ्रिपद्मं प्रहितोऽमुना हरेः
कृतावतारस्य दुरत्ययं तमः पूर्वेऽतरन् यन्नखमण्डलत्विषा

kaṁso batādyākṛta me 'ty-anugrahaṁ drakṣye 'ṅghri-padmaṁ prahito 'munā hareḥ kṛtāvatārasya duratyayaṁ tamaḥ pūrve 'taran yan-nakha-maṇḍala-tviṣā

SYNONYMS

kaṁsaḥ—King Kāṁsa; bata—indeed; adya—today; akṛta—has done; me—toward me; ati-anugraham—an act of extreme kindness; drakṣye—I will see; aṅghri-padmaṁ—the lotus feet; prahitaḥ—sent; amunā—by him; hareḥ—of the Supreme Personality of Godhead; kṛta—who has enacted; avatārasya—His descent to this world; duratyayam—insurmountable; tamaḥ—the darkness of material existence; pūrve—persons in the past;

ataran—transcended; yat—whose; nakha-maṇḍala—of the orb of the toenails; tviṣā—by the effulgence.

TRANSLATION

Indeed, today King Kāṁsa has shown me extreme mercy by sending me to see the lotus feet of Lord Hari, who has now appeared in this world. Simply by the effulgence of His toenails, many souls in the past have transcended the insurmountable darkness of material existence and achieved liberation.

PURPORT

Akrūra noted how ironic it was that the envious, demoniac Kāṁsa had given him an extraordinary blessing by sending him to see the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 8

यदर्चितं ब्रह्मभवादिभिः सुरैः
श्रिया च देव्या मुनिभिः ससात्वतैः
गोचारणायानुचरैश्चरद्वने यद्गोपिकानां कुचकुङ्कुमाङ्कितम्

yad arcitaṁ brahma-bhavādibhiḥ suraiḥ śriyā ca devyā munibhiḥ sa-sātvataiḥ go-cāraṇāyānucaraiś carad vane yad gopikānām kuca-kuṅkumāṅkitam

SYNONYMS

yat—which (lotus feet); arcitam—worshiped; brahma-bhava—by Brahmā and

Śiva; ādibhiḥ—and other; suraiḥ—demigods; śriyā—by Śrī; ca—also; devyā—the goddess of fortune; munibhiḥ—by the sages; sa-sātvataiḥ—along with the devotees; go—the cows; cāraṇāya—for tending; anucaraiḥ—together with His companions; carat—moving about; vane—in the forest; yat—which; gopikānām—of the cowherd girls; kuca—from the breasts; kuṅkuma—by the red kuṅkuma powder; aṅkitam—marked.

TRANSLATION

Those lotus feet are worshiped by Brahmā, Śiva and all the other demigods, by the goddess of fortune, and also by the great sages and Vaiṣṇavas. Upon those lotus feet the Lord walks about the forest while herding the cows with His companions, and those feet are smeared with the kuṅkuma from the gopīs' breasts.

TEXT 9

द्रक्ष्यामि नूनं सुकपोलनासिकं
स्मितावलोकारुणकञ्जलोचनम्
मुखं मुकुन्दस्य गुडालकावृतं प्रदक्षिणं मे प्रचरन्ति वै मृगाः drakṣyāmi nūnaṁ su-kapola-nāsikaṁ smitāvalokāruṇa-kañja-locanam mukhaṁ mukundasya guḍālakāvṛtaṁ pradakṣiṇaṁ me pracaranti vai mṛgāḥ

SYNONYMS

drakṣyāmi—I am going to see; nūnaṁ—for certain; su—beautiful;

kapola—whose cheeks; nāsikam—and nose; smita—smiling; avaloka—with glances; aruṇa—reddish; kañja—lotuslike; locanam—the eyes; mukham—the face; mukundasya—of Lord Kṛṣṇa; guḍa—twisting; alaka—with hair; āvṛtam—framed; pradakṣiṇam—clockwise circumambulation; me—of me; pracaranti—are performing; vai—indeed; mṛgāḥ—the deer.

TRANSLATION

Surely I shall see the face of Lord Mukunda, since the deer are now walking past me on my right. That face, framed by His curly hair, is beautified by His attractive cheeks and nose, His smiling glances and His reddish lotus eyes.

PURPORT

Akrūra saw an auspicious omen—the passing of the deer on his right—and thus felt sure he would see the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 10

अप्यद्य विष्णोर्मनुजत्वमीयुषो
भारावताराय भुवो निजेच्छया
लावण्यधाम्नो भवितोपलम्भनं मह्यं न न स्यात्फलमञ्जसा दृशः

apy adya viṣṇor manujatvam īyuṣo bhārāvatārāya bhuvo nijecchayā lāvaṇya-dhāmno bhavitopalambhanaṁ mahyaṁ na na syāt phalam aṅjasā dṛśaḥ

SYNONYMS

api—furthermore; adya—today; viṣṇoḥ—of the Supreme Lord Viṣṇu; manujatvam—the form of a human being; īyusaḥ—who has assumed; bhāra—the burden; avatārāya—for diminishing; bhuvāḥ—of the earth; nija—by His own; icchayā—desire; lāvaṇya—of beauty; dhāmnāḥ—of the abode; bhavitā—there will be; upalambhanam—the perceiving; mahyam—for me; na—it is not the case; na syāt—that it will not happen; phalam—the fruit; añjasā—directly; dṛśaḥ—of sight.

TRANSLATION

I am going to see the Supreme Lord Viṣṇu, the reservoir of all beauty, who by His own sweet will has now assumed a humanlike form to relieve the earth of her burden. Thus there is no denying that my eyes will achieve the perfection of their existence.

TEXT 11

य ईक्षिताहंरहितोऽप्यसत्सतोः
स्वतेजसापास्ततमोभिदाभ्रमः
स्वमाययात्मन् रचितैस्तदीक्षया प्राणाक्षधीभिः सदनेष्वभीयते

ya īkṣitāham-rahito 'py asat-satoḥ sva-tejasāpāsta-tamo-bhidā-bhramāḥ sva-māyayātman racitais tad-īkṣayā prāṇākṣa-dhībhiḥ sadaneṣv abhīyate

SYNONYMS

yaḥ—who; īkṣitā—the witness; aham—false ego; rahitaḥ—devoid of;

api—nevertheless; asat-satoḥ—of material products and causes; sva-tejasā—by His personal potency; apāsta—having dispelled; tamaḥ—the darkness of ignorance; bhidā—the idea of being separate; bhramaḥ—and bewilderment; sva-māyayā—by His material creative energy; ātman—within Himself; racitaiḥ—by those who are produced (the living entities); tat-ikṣayā—by His glancing upon that Māyā; prāṇa—by the vital airs; akṣa—the senses; dhībhiḥ—and intelligence; sadaneṣu—within the bodies of the living beings; abhīyate—His presence is surmised.

TRANSLATION

He is the witness of material cause and effect, yet He is always free from false identification with them. By His internal potency He dispels the darkness of separation and confusion. The individual souls in this world, who are manifested here when He glances upon His material creative energy, indirectly perceive Him in the activities of their life airs, senses and intelligence.

PURPORT

In this verse Akrūra establishes the all-powerful position of the Supreme Lord, whom he is about to see in Vṛndāvana. The false concept of separation from the Lord is described in the Eleventh Canto of the Bhāgavatam (11.2.37): bhayaṁ dvitīyābhiniveśataḥ syād īśād apetasya viparyayo 'smṛtiḥ. Although all existence emanates from the Absolute Truth, Kṛṣṇa, we imagine a "second thing," this material world, to be entirely separate from the Lord's existence. With this mentality, we try to exploit that "second thing" for our sense gratification. Thus the psychological underpinning of material life is the illusion that this world is somehow separate from God and therefore meant for our enjoyment.

It is ironic that the impersonal philosophers, in their radical renunciation of this world, claim it to be utterly false and totally separate from the Absolute. Unfortunately, this artificial attempt to divest this world of its divine nature, or, in other words, its relation to God, does not lead people to utterly reject it but rather to try to enjoy it. While it is true that this world is temporary and thus in one sense illusory, the mechanism of illusion is a spiritual potency of the Supreme Lord. Realizing this, we should immediately desist from any attempt to exploit this world; rather, we should recognize it as God's energy. We will actually give up our material desires only when we understand that this world belongs to God and is therefore not meant for our selfish gratification.

The word abhīyate here refers to a process of surmising the presence of the Lord through meditative introspection. This process is also described in the Second Canto of the Bhāgavatam (2.2.35),

bhagavān sarva-bhūteṣu lakṣitaḥ svātmanā hariḥ dṛśyair buddhy-ādibhir draṣṭā lakṣaṇair anumāpakaiḥ

"The Personality of Godhead, Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, is in every living being along with the individual soul. And this fact is perceived and hypothesized in our acts of seeing and taking help from the intelligence."

Akrūra states that the Lord is free of the egoistic pride afflicting ordinary, embodied souls. Yet the Lord appears to be embodied like everyone else, and therefore someone might object to the statement that He is free of egoism. Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī comments on this puzzle as follows: "How can we distinguish between being free of false ego and being afflicted by it? 'If a living entity is situated in a body,' [argues the objector,] 'he will encounter the unhappiness and confusion that occur within it, just as a person living in a house, whether he be attached to it or not, cannot avoid experiencing the darkness, warmth and cold that occur within it.' This objection is answered as follows: By His internal potency the Lord dispels the darkness of ignorance along with the separateness and bewilderment it produces."

TEXT 12

यस्याखिलामीवहभिः सुमङ्गलैः
वाचो विमिश्रा गुणकर्मजन्मभिः
प्राणन्ति शुम्भन्ति पुनन्ति वै जगत् यास्तद्विरक्ताः शवशोभना मताः

yasyākhilāmīva-habhiḥ su-maṅgalaiḥ vāco vimiśrā guṇa-karma-janmabhiḥ prāṇanti śumbhanti punanti vai jagat yās tad-viraktāḥ śava-śobhanā matāḥ

SYNONYMS

yasya—of whom; akhila—all; amīva—sins; habhiḥ—which destroy; su-maṅgalaiḥ—most auspicious; vācaḥ—words; vimiśrāḥ—joined; guṇa—with the qualities; karma—activities; janmabhiḥ—and incarnations; prāṇanti—they give life; śumbhanti—make beautiful; punanti—and purify; vai—indeed; jagat—the entire universe; yāḥ—which (words); tat—of these; viraktāḥ—devoid; śava—of a corpse; śobhanāḥ—(like) the decorating; matāḥ—considered.

TRANSLATION

All sins are destroyed and all good fortune is created by the Supreme Lord's qualities, activities and appearances, and words that describe these three things animate, beautify and purify the world. On the other hand, words bereft of His glories are like the decorations on a corpse.

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī brings up the following possible objection: How can one who is devoid of ordinary ego, who is fully self-satisfied, engage in pastimes? The answer is given here. Lord Kṛṣṇa acts on the pure, spiritual platform for the pleasure of His loving devotees, not for any kind of mundane gratification.

TEXT 13

स चावतीर्णः किल सत्त्वतान्वये
स्वसेतुपालामरवर्यशर्मकृत्
यशो वितन्वन् व्रज आस्त ईश्वरो गायन्ति देवा यदशेषमङ्गलम्

sa cāvatīrṇaḥ kila satvatānvaye sva-setu-pālāmara-varya-śarma-kṛt yaśo vitanvan vraja āsta īśvaro gāyanti devā yad aśeṣa-maṅgalam

SYNONYMS

saḥ—He; ca—and; avatīrṇaḥ—having descended; kila—indeed; sātvata—of the Sātvatas; anvaye—in the dynasty; sva—His own; setu—codes of religion; pāla—who maintain; amara-varya—of the chief demigods; śarma—delight; kṛt—creating; yaśaḥ—His fame; vitānvan—spreading; vraje—in Vraja; āste—is present; īśvaraḥ—the Supreme Lord; gāyanti—sing; devāḥ—the demigods; yat—of which (fame); aśeṣa-maṅgalam—all-auspicious.

TRANSLATION

That same Supreme Lord has descended into the dynasty of the Sātvatas to delight the exalted demigods, who maintain the principles of religion He has created. Residing in Vṛndāvana, He spreads His fame, which the demigods glorify in song and which brings auspiciousness to all.

TEXT 14

तं त्वद्य नूनं महतां गतिं गुरुं
त्रैलोक्यकान्तं दृशिमन्महोत्सवम्
रूपं दधानं श्रिय ईप्सितास्पदं द्रक्ष्ये ममासन्नुषसः सुदर्शनाः tam tv adya nūnaṁ mahatām gatiṁ gurum trailokya-kāntaṁ dṛśiman-mahotsavam rūpaṁ dadhānaṁ śriya īpsitāspadaṁ drakṣye mamaśann uṣasaḥ su-darśanāḥ

SYNONYMS

tam—Him; tu—yet; adya—today; nūnaṁ—certainly; mahatām—of great souls; gatiṁ—the destination; gurum—and the spiritual master; trai-lokya—of all the three worlds; kāntaṁ—the real beauty; dṛśi-mat—for all who have eyes; mahā-utsavam—a great festivity; rūpaṁ—His personal form; dadhānam—exhibiting; śriyaḥ—of the goddess of fortune; īpsita—the desired; āspadam—place of shelter; drakṣye—I shall see; mama—my; āsan—have become; uṣasaḥ—the dawns; su-darśanāḥ—auspicious to see.

TRANSLATION

Today I shall certainly see Him, the goal and spiritual master of the great souls. Seeing Him brings jubilation to all who have eyes, for He is the true beauty of the universe. Indeed, His personal form is the shelter desired by the goddess of fortune. Now all the dawns of my life have become auspicious.

TEXT 15

अथावरूढः सपदीशयो रथात्
प्रधानपुंसोश्चरणं स्वलब्धये
धिया धृतं योगिभिरप्यहं ध्रुवं नमस्य आभ्यां च सखीन् वनौकसः

athāvarūḍhaḥ sapadīśayo rathāt pradhāna-puṁsoś caraṇam sva-labdhaye dhiyā dhṛtaṁ yogibhir apy ahaṁ dhruvaṁ namasya ābhyāṁ ca sakhīn vanaukaśaḥ

SYNONYMS

atha—then; avarūḍhaḥ—getting down; sapadi—at once; īśayoḥ—of the two Lords; rathāt—from my chariot; pradhāna-puṁsoḥ—of the Supreme Personalities; caraṇam—to the feet; sva-labdhaye—for the sake of self-realization; dhiyā—with their intelligence; dhṛtam—held on to; yogibhiḥ—by mystic yogīs; api—even; aham—I; dhruvam—surely; namasye—will bow down; ābhyām—with Them; ca—also; sakhīn—to the friends; vana-okasaḥ—to the residents of the forest.

TRANSLATION

Then I will at once alight from my chariot and bow down to the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, the Supreme Personalities of Godhead. Theirs are the same feet that great mystic yogés striving for self-realization bear within their minds. I will also offer my obeisances to the Lords' cowherd boyfriends and to all the other residents of Vṛndāvana.

TEXT 16

अप्यङ्घ्रिमूले पतितस्य मे विभुः
शिरस्यधास्यन्निजहस्तपङ्कजम्
दत्ताभयं कालभुजाङ्गरहसा प्रोद्वेजितानां शरणैषिणां णृणाम्

apy aṅghri-mūle patitasya me vibhuḥ śirasy adhāsyān nija-hasta-pankajam dattābhayaṁ kāla-bhujāṅga-ramhasā prodvejitānām śaraṇaiṣiṇām ṇṛnām

SYNONYMS

api—furthermore; aṅghri—of His feet; mūle—at the base; patitasya—who have fallen; me—of me; vibhuḥ—the almighty Lord; śirasi—upon the head; adhāsyat—will place; nija—His own; hasta—hand; pankajam—lotuslike; datta—which grants; abhayaṁ—fearlessness; kāla—time; bhujā-ṅga—of the serpent; ramhasā—by the swift force; prodvejitānām—who are greatly disturbed; śaraṇa—shelter; eiṣiṇām—searching for; ṇṛnām—to persons.

TRANSLATION

And when I have fallen at His feet, the almighty Lord will place His lotus hand upon my head. For those who seek shelter in Him because they are greatly disturbed by the powerful serpent of time, that hand removes all fear.

TEXT 17

समर्हणं यत्र निधाय कौशिकसु
तथा बलिश्चाप जगत्त्रयेन्द्रताम्
यद्वा विहारे व्रजयोषितां श्रमं स्पर्शेन सौगन्धिकगन्ध्यपानुदत्

samarhaṇam yatra nidhāya kauśikas tathā baliś cāpa jagat-trayendratām yad vā vihāre vraja-yoṣitām śramam sparśena saugandhika-gandhy apānudat

SYNONYMS

samarhaṇam—the respectful offering; yatra—into which; nidhāya—by placing; kauśikaḥ—Purandara; tathā—as well as; baliḥ—Bali Mahārāja; cā—also; āpa—attained; jagat—of the worlds; traya—three; indratām—rulership (as Indra, the King of heaven); yad—which (lotus hand of the Lord); vā—and; vihāre—during the pastimes (of the rāsa dance); vraja-yoṣitām—of the ladies of Vraja; śramam—the fatigue; sparśena—by their contact; saugandhika—like an aromatic flower; gandhi—fragrant; apānudat—wiped away.

TRANSLATION

By offering charity to that lotus hand, Purandara and Bali earned the status of Indra, King of heaven, and during the pleasure pastimes of the rāsa dance, when the Lord wiped away the gopīs' perspiration and removed their fatigue, the touch of their faces made that hand as fragrant as a sweet flower.

PURPORT

The Purāṇas call the lotus found in the Mānasa-sarovara Lake a saugandhika. Lord Kṛṣṇa's lotus hand acquired the fragrance of this flower by coming in contact with the beautiful faces of the gopīs. This specific incident, which occurred during the rāsa-līlā, is described in the Thirty-third Chapter of the Tenth Canto.

TEXT 18

न मय्युपैष्यत्यरिबुद्धिमच्युतः कंसस्य दूतः प्रहितोऽपि विश्वदृक्
योऽन्तर्बहिश्चेतस एतदीहितं क्षेत्रज्ञ ईक्षत्यमलेन चक्षुषा

na mayy upaiṣyaty ari-buddhim acyutaḥ kaṁsasya dūtaḥ prahito 'pi viśva-dṛk yo 'ntar bahiś cetasa etad īhitaṁ kṣetra-jña īkṣaty amalena cakṣuṣā

SYNONYMS

na—not; mayi—toward me; upaiṣyati—will He develop; ari—of being an enemy; buddhim—the attitude; acyutaḥ—the infallible Lord; kāmsasya—of Kāmsa; dūtaḥ—a messenger; prahitaḥ—sent; api—although; viśva—of everything; dṛk—the witness; yaḥ—who; antaḥ—inside; bahiḥ—and outside; cetasaḥ—of the heart; etat—this; īhitam—whatever is done; kṣetra—of the field (of the material body); jñāḥ—the knower; īkṣati—He sees; amaleṇa—with perfect; cakṣuṣā—vision.

TRANSLATION

The infallible Lord will not consider me an enemy,, even though Kāmsa has sent me here as his messenger. After all, the omniscient Lord is the actual knower of the field of this material body, and with His perfect vision He witnesses, both externally and internally, all the endeavors of the conditioned soul's heart.

PURPORT

Being omniscient, Lord Kṛṣṇa knew that Akrūra was only externally a friend of Kāmsa. Internally he was an eternal devotee of Lord Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 19

अप्यङ्घ्रिमूलेऽवहितं कृताञ्जलिं
मामीक्षिता सस्मितमार्द्रया दृशा सपद्यपध्वस्तसमस्तकिल्बिषो वोढा मुदं वीतविशङ्क ऊर्जिताम्

apy aṅghri-mūle 'vahitaṁ kṛtāñjaliṁ mām īkṣitā sa-smitam ārdrayā dṛśā sapady apadhvasta-samasta-kilbiṣo

voḍhā mudam vīta-viśaṅka ūrjitām

SYNONYMS

api—and; aṅghri—of His feet; mūle—at the base; avahitam—fixed; kṛta-añjalim—with joined palms; mām—me; īkṣitā—will look upon; sasmitam—smiling; ārdrayā—with an affectionate; dṛśā—glance; sapadi—immediately; apadhvasta—eradicated; samasta—all; kilbiṣaḥ—contamination; voḍhā—I will achieve; mudam—happiness; vīta—freed; viśaṅkaḥ—from doubt; ūrjitām—intense.

TRANSLATION

Thus He will cast His smiling, affectionate glance upon me as I remain fixed with joined palms, fallen in obeisances at His feet. Then all my contamination will at once be dispelled, and I will give up all doubts and feel the most intense bliss.

TEXT 20

सुहृत्तमं ज्ञातिमनन्यदैवतं
दोभ्यां बृहद्भ्यां परिरप्स्यतेऽथ माम्
आत्मा हि तीर्थीक्रियते तदैव मे बन्धश्च कर्मात्मक उच्छ्वसित्यतः

suhṛttamaṁ jñātim ananya-daivataṁ dorbhyāṁ bṛhadbhyāṁ parirapsyate 'tha mām ātmā hi tīrthī-kriyate tadaiva me bandhaś ca karmātmaka ucchvasity ataḥ

SYNONYMS

suhṛt-tamam—the best of friends; jñātim—a family member; ananya—exclusive; daivatam—(having Him) as my object of worship; dorbhyām—with His two arms; bṛhadbhyām—large; parirapsyate—He will embrace; atha—thereupon; mām—me; ātmā—the body; hi—indeed; tīrthī—sanctified; kriyate—will become; tadā eva—exactly then; me—my; bandhaḥ—the bondage; ca—and; karma-ātmakaḥ—due to fruitive activity; ucchvasiti—will become slackened; ataḥ—as a result of this.

TRANSLATION

Recognizing me as an intimate friend and relative, Kṛṣṇa will embrace me with His mighty arms, instantly sanctifying my body and diminishing to nil all my material bondage, which is due to fruitive activities.

TEXT 21

लब्ध्वाङ्गसङ्गम्प्रणतम्कृताञ्जलिं
मां वक्ष्यतेऽक्रूर ततेत्युरुश्रवाः
तदा वयं जन्मभृतो महीयसा नैवादृतो यो धिगमुष्य जन्म तत्

labdhvāṅga-saṅgam praṇatam kṛtāñjalim mām vakṣyate 'krūra tatety uruśravāḥ tadā vyaṁ janma-bhṛto mahīyasā naivādrto yo dhig amuṣya janma tat

SYNONYMS

labdhvā—having achieved; aṅga-saṅgam—physical contact; praṇatam—who am standing with head bowed; kṛta-añjalim—with palms joined together in supplication; mām—to me; vakṣyate—He will speak; akrūra—O Akrūra; tata—My dear relative; iti—in such words; uruśravāḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa, whose fame is vast; tadā—then; vayam—we; janma-bhṛtaḥ—our birth becoming successful; mahīyasā—by the greatest of all persons; na—not; eva—indeed; ādṛtaḥ—honored; yaḥ—who; dhik—to be pitied; amuṣya—his; janma—birth; tat—that.

TRANSLATION

Having been embraced by the all-famous Lord Kṛṣṇa, I will humbly stand before Him with bowed head and joined palms, and He will address me, "My dear Akrūra." At that very moment my life's purpose will be fulfilled. Indeed, the life of anyone whom the Supreme Personality fails to recognize is simply pitiable.

TEXT 22

न तस्य कश्चिद्वयितः सुहृत्तमो
न चाप्रियो द्वेष्य उपेक्ष्य एव वा
तथापि भक्तान् भजते यथा तथा सुरद्रुमो यद्वदुपाश्रितोऽर्थदः

na tasya kaścīd dayitaḥ suhṛttamo na cāpriyo dveṣya upekṣya eva vā tathāpi bhaktān bhajate yathā tathā sura-drumo yadvad upāśrito 'rtha-daḥ

SYNONYMS

na tasya—He does not have; kaścit—any; dayitaḥ—favorite; suhṛttamaḥ—best friend; na ca—nor; apriyaḥ—unfavored; dveṣyaḥ—hated; upekṣyaḥ—neglected; eva—indeed; vā—or; tathā api—still; bhaktān—with His devotees; bhajate—He reciprocates; yathā—as they are; tathā—accordingly; sura-drumaḥ—a heavenly desire tree; yadvat—just as; upāśritaḥ—taken shelter of; artha—desired benefits; daḥ—giving.

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Lord has no favorite and no dearest friend, nor does He consider anyone undesirable, despicable or fit to be neglected. All the same, He lovingly reciprocates with His devotees in whatever manner they worship Him, just as the trees of heaven fulfill the desires of whoever approaches them.

PURPORT

The Lord says something similar in the Bhagavad-gītā (9.29):

samo 'haṁ sarva-bhūteṣu na me dveṣyo 'sti na priyaḥ ye bhajanti tu mām bhaktyā mayi te teṣu cāpy aham

"I envy no one, nor am I partial to anyone. I am equal to all. But whoever renders service unto Me in devotion is a friend and is in Me, and I am also a friend to him."

Similarly, Lord Caitanya was as hard as a thunderbolt for those who envied Him, and as soft as a rose for those who understood His divine mission.

TEXT 23

किं चाग्रजो मावनतं यदूत्तमः
स्मयन् परिष्वज्य गृहीतमञ्जलौ
गृहं प्रवेष्ट्याप्तसमस्तसत्कृतं सम्प्रक्ष्यते कंसकृतं स्वबन्धुषु

kiṁ cāgrajo māvanataṁ yadūttamaḥ smayan pariṣvajya grhītam añjalau gṛhaṁ praveṣyāpta-samasta-satkṛtaṁ samprakṣyate kaṁsa-kṛtaṁ sva-bandhuṣu

SYNONYMS

kim ca—furthermore; agra-jah—His elder brother (Lord Balarāma); mā—me; avanatam—who am standing with head bowed; yadu-uttamaḥ—the most exalted of the Yadus; smayan—smiling; pariṣvajya—embracing; grhītam—taken hold of; añjalau—by my joined palms; gṛham—His house; praveṣya—bringing into; āpta—who will have received; samasta—all; sat-kṛtam—signs of respect; samprakṣyate—He will inquire; kaṁsa—by Kāṁsa; kṛtam—what has been done; sva-bandhuṣu—to His family members.

TRANSLATION

And then Lord Kṛṣṇa's elder brother, the foremost of the Yadus, will grasp my joined hands while I am still standing with my head bowed, and after embracing me He will take me to His house. There He will honor me with all items of ritual welcome and inquire from me about how Kāṁsa has been treating His family members.

TEXT 24

श्रीशुक उवाच
इति सञ्चिन्तयन् कृष्णं
श्वफल्कतनयोऽध्वनि
रथेन गोकुलं प्राप्तः सूर्यश्चास्तगिरिं नृप

śrī-śuka uvāca
iti sañcintayan kṛṣṇam śvaphalka-tanayo 'dhvani rathena gokulam prāptaḥ sūryaś cāsta-giriṁ nṛpa

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; iti—thus; sañcintayan—thinking deeply; kṛṣṇam—about Lord Kṛṣṇa; śvaphalka-tanayaḥ—Akrūra, the son of Śvaphalka; adhvani—on the road; rathena—by his chariot; gokulam—the village of Gokula; prāptaḥ—reached; sūryaḥ—the sun; ca—and; asta-girim—the mountain behind which the sun sets; nṛpa—O King (Parīkṣit).

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī continued: My dear King, while the son of Śvaphalka, traveling on the road, thus meditated deeply on Śrī Kṛṣṇa, he reached Gokula as the sun was beginning to set.

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī comments that although Akrūra did not even notice the road, being deeply absorbed in meditation on Lord Kṛṣṇa, he still reached Gokula on his chariot.

TEXT 25

पदानि तस्याखिललोकपाल-किरीटजुष्टामलपादरेणोः
ददर्श गोष्ठे क्षितिकौतुकानि
विलक्षितान्यब्जयवाङ्कुशाद्यैः

padāni tasyākhila-loka-pāla-kirīṭa-juṣṭāmala-pāda-reṇoḥ dadarśa goṣṭhe kṣiti-kautukāni vilakṣitāny abja-yavāṅkuśādyaiḥ

SYNONYMS

padāni—the footprints; tasya—of Him; akhila—all; loka—of the planets; pāla—by the superintendents; kirīṭa—upon their crowns; juṣṭa—placed; amala—pure; pāda—of His feet; reṇoḥ—the dust; dadarśa—he (Akrūra) saw; goṣṭhe—in the cow pasture; kṣiti—the earth; kautukāni—wonderfully decorating; vilakṣitāni—distinguishable; abja—by the lotus; yava—barleycorn; aṅkuśa—elephant goad; ādyaiḥ—and so on.

TRANSLATION

In the cowherd pasture Akrūra saw the footprints of those feet whose pure dust the rulers of all the planets in the universe hold on their crowns. Those footprints of the Lord, distinguished by such marks as the lotus, barleycorn and elephant goad, made the ground wonderfully beautiful.

TEXT 26

तद्दर्शनाह्लादविवृद्धसम्भ्रमः
प्रेम्णोर्ध्वरोमाश्रुकलाकुलेक्षणः
रथादवस्कन्द्य स तेष्वचेष्टत प्रभोरमून्यङ्घ्रिरजांस्यहो इति

tad-darśanāhlāda-vivṛddha-sambhramaḥ preṃṇordhva-romāśru-kalākulekṣaṇaḥ rathād avaskandya sa teṣv aceṣṭata prabhor amūny aṅghri-rajāṃsy aho iti

SYNONYMS

tat—of Lord Kṛṣṇa's footprints; darśana—from the sight; āhlāda—by the ecstasy; vivṛddha—greatly increased; sambhramaḥ—whose agitation; preṃṇā—out of pure love; ūrdhva—standing erect; roma—whose bodily hairs; aśru-kalā—with teardrops; ākula—filled; īkṣaṇaḥ—whose eyes; rathāt—from the chariot; avaskandya—getting down; saḥ—he, Akrūra; teṣu—among those (footprints); aceṣṭata—rolled about; prabhoḥ—of my master; amūni—these; aṅghri—from the feet; rajāṃsi—particles of dust; aho—ah; iti—with these words.

TRANSLATION

Increasingly agitated by ecstasy at seeing the Lord's footprints, his bodily hairs standing on end because of his pure love, and his eyes filled with tears, Akrūra jumped down from his chariot and began rolling about among those footprints, exclaiming, "Ah, this is the dust from my master's feet!"

TEXT 27

देहंभृतामियानर्थो
हित्वा दम्भं भियं शुचम्
सन्देशाद्यो हरेर्लिङ्ग-दर्शनश्रवणादिभिः

deham-bhṛtām iyān artho hitvā dambham bhiyam śucam sandeśād yo harer liṅga-darśana-śravaṇādibhiḥ

SYNONYMS

deham-bhṛtām—of embodied beings; iyān—this much; arthaḥ—the goal of life; hitvā—giving up; dambham—pride; bhiyam—fear; śucam—and sorrow; sandeśāt—beginning from his being ordered (by Kāṁsa); yaḥ—which; hareḥ—of Lord Kṛṣṇa; liṅga—the signs; darśana—with the seeing; śravaṇa—hearing about; ādibhiḥ—and so on.

TRANSLATION

The very goal of life for all embodied beings is this ecstasy, which Akrūra experienced when, upon receiving Kāṁsa's order, he put aside all pride, fear and lamentation and absorbed himself in seeing, hearing and describing the things that reminded him of Lord Kṛṣṇa.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī explains that Akrūra gave up fear by openly showing his love and reverence for Kṛṣṇa, even though he or his family might have been punished by the angry Kāṁsa. Akrūra gave up his pride in being an aristocratic member of society and worshiped the cowherd residents of the simple village of Vṛndāvana. And he gave up lamenting for his house, wife and family, which were in danger from King Kāṁsa. Giving up all these things, he rolled in the dust of the lotus feet of God.

TEXTS 28-33

ददर्श कृष्णं रामं च
ब्रजे गोदोहनं गतौ
पीतनीलाम्बरधरौ
शरदम्बुरहेक्षणौ

किशोरौ श्यामलश्वेतौ
श्रीनिकेतौ बृहद्भुजौ
सुमुखौ सुन्दरवरौ
बलद्विरदविक्रमौ

ध्वजवज्राङ्कुशाम्भोजैश्च
चिह्नितैरङ्घ्रिभिर्ब्रजम्
शोभयन्तौ महात्मानौ
सानुक्रोशस्मितेक्षणौ

उदाररुचिरक्रीडौ
स्रग्विणौ वनमालिनौ

पुण्यगन्धानुलिसाङ्गौ
स्नातौ विरजवाससौ

प्रधानपुरुषावाद्यौ
जगद्धेतू जगत्पती
अवतीर्णौ जगत्यर्थे
स्वांशेन बलकेशवौ

दिशो वितिमिरा राजन्
कुर्वाणौ प्रभया स्वया
यथा मारकतः शैलो रौप्यश्च कनकाचितौ

*dadarśa kṛṣṇaṁ rāmaṁ ca
vraje go-dohanaṁ gatau pīta-nīlāmbara-dharau
śarad-amburaheṣaṇau*

*kiśorau śyāmala-śvetau śrī-niketau bṛhad-bhujau su-mukhau sundara-varau
bala-dvirada-vikramau*

dhvaja-vajrāṅkuśāmbhojaiś cihñitair aṅghribhir vrajam śobhayantau mahātmānau sānukrośa-smitekṣaṇau

udāra-rucira-kṛīḍau sragviṇau vana-mālinau

puṇya-gandhānuliptāṅgau snātau viraja-vāsasau

pradhāna-puruṣāv ādyau jagad-dhetū jagat-patī avatīrṇau jagaty-arthe svāmśena bala-keśavau

dīśo vitimirā rājan
kurvāṇau prabhayā svayā yathā mārakataḥ śailo
rauṇyaś ca kanakācitau

SYNONYMS

dadarśa—he saw; kṛṣṇam rāmam ca—Lord Kṛṣṇa and Lord Balarāma; vraje—in the village of Vraja; go—the cows; dohanam—to the place of milking; gatau—gone; pīta-nīla—yellow and blue; ambara—clothes; dharau—wearing; śarat—of the autumn season; amburuha—like lotuses; īkṣaṇau—whose eyes; kiśorau—the two youths; śyāmala-śvetau—dark-blue and white; śrī-niketau—the shelters of the goddess of fortune; bṛhat—mighty; bhujau—whose arms; su-mukhau—with attractive faces; sundara-varau—the most beautiful; bala—young; dvirada—like an elephant; vikramau—whose walking; dhvaja—by the flag; vajra—lightning bolt; aṅkuśa—elephant goad; ambhojaiḥ—and lotus; cihnitaiḥ—marked; aṅghribhiḥ—with Their feet; vrajam—the cow pasture; śobhayantau—beautifying; mahā-ātmānau—great souls; sa-anukrośa—compassionate; smita—and smiling; īkṣaṇau—whose glances; udāra—magnanimous; rucira—and attractive; krīḍau—whose pastimes; srak-vinau—wearing jeweled necklaces; vana-mālinau—and wearing flower garlands; puṇya—auspicious; gandha—with fragrant substances; anulipta—anointed; aṅgau—whose limbs; snātau—freshly bathed; viraja—spotless; vāsasau—whose garments; pradhāna—the most exalted; puruṣau—two persons; ādyau—primeval; jagat-dhetū—the causes of the universe; jagat-patī—the masters of the universe; avatīrṇau—having descended; jagati-arthe—for the benefit of the universe; sva-amśena—in Their distinct forms; bala-keśavau—Balarāma and Keśava; diśaḥ—all the directions; vitimirāḥ—free from darkness; rājan—O King; kurvāṇau—making; prabhayā—with the effulgence; svayā—Their own; yathā—as; mārakataḥ—made of emerald; śailaḥ—a mountain; raupyaḥ—one made of silver; ca—and; kanaka—with gold; acitau—both decorated.

TRANSLATION

Akrūra then saw Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma in the village of Vraja, going to milk the cows. Kṛṣṇa wore yellow garments, Balarāma blue, and Their eyes resembled autumnal lotuses. One of those two mighty-armed youths, the shelters of the goddess of fortune, had a dark-blue complexion, and the other's was white. With Their fine-featured faces They were the most beautiful of all persons. As They walked with the gait of young elephants, glancing about with compassionate smiles, Those two exalted personalities beautified the cow pasture with the impressions of Their feet, which bore the marks of the flag, lightning bolt, elephant goad and lotus. The two Lords, whose pastimes are most magnanimous and attractive, were ornamented with jeweled necklaces and flower garlands, anointed with auspicious, fragrant substances, freshly bathed, and dressed in spotless raiment. They were the primeval Supreme Personalities, the masters and original causes of the universes, who had for the welfare of the earth now descended in Their distinct forms of Keśava and Balarāma. O King Parīkṣit, They resembled two gold-bedecked mountains, one of emerald and the other of silver, as with Their effulgence They dispelled the sky's darkness in all directions.

TEXT 34

रथात्तूर्णमवप्लुत्य

सोऽक्रूरः स्नेहविह्वलः
पपात चरणोपान्ते दण्डवद्रामकृष्णयोः

*rathāt tūrṇam avaplutya
so 'krūraḥ sneha-vihvalaḥ papāta caraṇopānte
daṇḍa-vad rāma-kṛṣṇayoḥ*

SYNONYMS

rathāt—from his chariot; tūrṇam—quickly; avaplutya—climbing down; saḥ—he; akrūraḥ—Akrūra; sneha—by affection; vihvalaḥ—overcome; papāta—fell; caraṇa-upānte—next to the feet; daṇḍa-vat—flat like a rod; rāma-kṛṣṇayoḥ—of Balarāma and Kṛṣṇa.

TRANSLATION

Akrūra, overwhelmed with affection, quickly jumped down from his chariot and fell at the feet of Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma like a rod.

TEXT 35

भगवद्दर्शनाह्लाद-बाष्पपर्याकुलेक्षणः
पुलकचिताङ्ग औत्कण्ठयात् स्वाख्याने नाशकनृप

bhagavad-darśanāhlāda-

bāṣpa-paryākulekṣaṇaḥ pulakacitāṅga autkaṇṭhyāt svākhyāne nāśakan nṛpa

SYNONYMS

bhagavat—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; darśana—because of seeing; āhlāda—due to the joy; bāṣpa—with tears; paryākula—overflowing; īkṣaṇaḥ—whose eyes; pulaka—with eruptions; ācita—marked; aṅgaḥ—whose limbs; autkaṇṭhyāt—from eagerness; sva-ākhyāne—to announce himself; na aśakat—he was not able; nṛpa—O King.

TRANSLATION

The joy of seeing the Supreme Lord flooded Akrūra's eyes with tears and decorated his limbs with eruptions of ecstasy. He felt such eagerness that he could not speak to present himself, O King.

TEXT 36

भगवांस्तमभिप्रेत्य
रथाङ्गाङ्कितपाणिना
परिरेभेऽभ्युपाकृष्य प्रीतः प्रणतवत्सलः

*bhagavāms tam abhipretya rathāṅgāṅkita-pāṇinā parirebhe 'bhyupākṛṣya
prītaḥ praṇata-vatsalaḥ*

SYNONYMS

bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; tam—him, Akrūra; abhipretya—recognizing; ratha-aṅga—with a chariot wheel; aṅkita—marked; pāṇinā—by His hand; parirebhe—He embraced; abhyupākṛṣya—pulling near; prītaḥ—pleased; praṇata—to those who are surrendered; vatsalaḥ—who is benignly disposed.

TRANSLATION

Recognizing Akrūra, Lord Kṛṣṇa drew him close with His hand, which bears the sign of the chariot wheel, and then embraced him. Kṛṣṇa felt pleased, for He is always benignly disposed toward His surrendered devotees.

PURPORT

According to the ācāryas, by extending His hand marked with the chariot wheel, or cakra, Lord Kṛṣṇa indicated His ability to kill Kāṁsa.

TEXTS 37-38

सङ्कर्षणश्च प्रणतम्
उपगुह्य महामनाः
गृहीत्वा पाणिना पाणी
अनयत्सानुजो गृहम्

पृष्ठ्वाथ स्वागतं तस्मै
निवेद्य च वरासनम्
प्रक्षाल्य विधिवत्पादौ

मधुपर्कार्हणमाहरत

*saṅkarṣaṇaś ca praṇatam upaguhya mahā-manāḥ grhītvā pāṇinā pāṇī
anayat sānujo grham*

prṣtvātha sv-āgatam tasmai nivedya ca varāsanam prakṣālya vidhi-vat pādau madhu-parkārhaṇam āharat

SYNONYMS

saṅkarṣaṇaḥ—Lord Balarāma; ca—and; praṇatam—who was standing with his head bowed; upaguhya—embracing; mahā-manāḥ—magnanimous; grhītvā—taking hold of; pāṇinā—with His hand; pāṇī—his two hands; anayat—He took; sa-anujaḥ—with His younger brother (Lord Kṛṣṇa); grham—to His residence; prṣtvā—inquiring; atha—then; sv-āgatam—about the comfort of his trip; tasmai—to him; nivedya—offering; ca—and; vara—excellent; āsanam—a seat; prakṣālya—washing; vidhi-vat—in accordance with scriptural injunctions; pādau—his feet; madhu-parka—honey mixed with milk; arhaṇam—as a respectful offering; āharat—He brought.

TRANSLATION

As Akrūra stood with his head bowed, Lord Saṅkarṣaṇa [Balarāma] grasped his joined hands, and then Balarāma took him to His house in the company of Lord Kṛṣṇa. After inquiring from Akrūra whether his trip had been comfortable, Balarāma offered him a first-class seat, bathed his feet in accordance with the injunctions of scripture and respectfully served him milk with honey.

TEXT 39

निवेद्य गां चातिथये
संवाह्य श्रान्तमादृतः
अन्नं बहुगुणं मेध्यं श्रद्धयोपाहरद्विभुः

nivedya gām cātithaye saṁvāhya śrāntam āḍṛtaḥ annam bahu-guṇam medhyam śraddhayopāharad vibhuḥ

SYNONYMS

nivedya—presenting in charity; gām—a cow; ca—and; atithaye—to the guest; saṁvāhya—massaging; śrāntam—who was tired; āḍṛtaḥ—with great respect; annam—cooked food; bahu-guṇam—of various tastes; medhyam—suitable for offering; śraddhayā—faithfully; upāharat—offered; vibhuḥ—the almighty Lord.

TRANSLATION

The almighty Lord Balarāma presented Akrūra with the gift of a cow, massaged his feet to relieve him of fatigue and then with great respect and faith fed him suitably prepared food of various fine tastes.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī, Akrūra went to Kṛṣṇa's and Balarāma's house on the twelfth lunar day, on which one should not break a fast at night. However, Akrūra dispensed with this formality because he was eager to receive food in the Lord's house.

TEXT 40

तस्मै भुक्तवते प्रीत्या
रामः परमधर्मवित्
मखवासैर्गन्धमाल्यैः परां प्रीतिं व्यधात्पुनः

tasmai bhuktavate prītyā rāmaḥ parama-dharma-vit makha-vāsair gandha-mālyaiḥ parām prītim vyadhāt punaḥ

SYNONYMS

tasmai—to him; bhuktavate—who had finished eating; prītyā—affectionately; rāmaḥ—Lord Balarāma; parama—the supreme; dharma-vit—knower of religious principles; mukha-vāsaiḥ—with aromatic herbs for sweetening the mouth; gandha—with perfume; mālyaiḥ—and flower garlands; parām—the highest; prītim—satisfaction; vyadhāt—arranged; punaḥ—further.

TRANSLATION

When Akrūra had eaten to his satisfaction,, Lord Balarāma, the supreme knower of religious duties, offered him aromatic herbs for sweetening his mouth, along with fragrances and flower garlands. Thus Akrūra once again enjoyed the highest pleasure.

TEXT 41

पप्रच्छ सत्कृतं नन्दः
कथं स्थ निरनुग्रहे
कंसे जीवति दाशार्ह सौनपाला इवावयः

papraccha sat-kṛtaṁ nandaḥ kathaṁ stha niranugrahe kaṁse jīvati dāśārha sauna-pālā ivāvayaḥ

SYNONYMS

papraccha—asked; sat-kṛtaṁ—who had been honored; nandaḥ—Nanda Mahārāja; katham—how; stha—you are living; niranugrahe—the merciless; kaṁse—Kāṁsa; jīvati—while he is alive; dāśārha—O descendant of Daśārha; sauna—an animal slaughterer; pālāḥ—whose keeper; iva—just like; avayaḥ—sheep.

TRANSLATION

Nanda Mahārāja asked Akrūra: O descendant of Daśārha, how are all of you maintaining yourselves while that merciless Kāṁsa remains alive? You are just like sheep under the care of a butcher.

TEXT 42

योऽवधीत्स्वस्वसुस्तोकान्
क्रोशन्त्या असुतृप्सलः

किं नु स्वित्तत्प्रजानां वः कुशलं विमृशामहे

yo 'vadhīt sva-svasus tokān krośantyā asu-trp khalah kim nu svit tat-prajānām vah kuśalam vimṛśāmahe

SYNONYMS

yaḥ—who; avadhīt—killed; sva—of his own; svasuḥ—sister; tokān—the babies; krośantyāḥ—who was crying; asu-trp—self-indulgent; khalah—cruel; kim nu—what then; svit—indeed; tat—his; prajānām—of the subjects; vah—you; kuśalam—well-being; vimṛśāmahe—we should conjecture.

TRANSLATION

That cruel, self-serving Kāṁsa murdered the infants of his own sister in her presence, even as she cried in anguish. So why should we even ask about the well-being of you, his subjects?

TEXT 43

इत्थं सूनृतया वाचा
नन्देन सुसभाजितः
अक्रूरः परिपृष्टेन
जहावध्वपरिश्रमम्

*ittham sūnṛtayā vācā
nandena su-sabhājitaḥ*

*akrūraḥ pariṇṛṣṭena
jahāv adhva-pariśramam*

SYNONYMS

ittham—thus; sū-nṛtayā—very true and pleasing; vācā—with words; nandena—by Nanda Mahārāja; su—well; sabhājitaḥ—honored; akrūraḥ—Akrūra; pariṇṛṣṭena—by the inquiry; jahau—put aside; adhva—of the road; pariśramam—his fatigue.

TRANSLATION

Honored by Nanda Mahārāja with these true and pleasing words of inquiry, Akrūra forgot the fatigue of his journey.

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Thirty eighth Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "Akrūra's Arrival in Vṛndāvana."

39. Akrūra's Vision

This chapter describes how Akrūra informed Lord Kṛṣṇa and Lord Balarāma of Kāṁsa's plans and his activities in Mathurā; what the gopīs cried out in distress when Kṛṣṇa left for Mathurā; and also the vision of Lord Viṣṇu's abode that Akrūra saw within the water of the Yamunā.

When Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma offered Akrūra great respect and comfortably seated him on a couch, he felt that all the desires he had reflected on while traveling to Vṛndāvana were now fulfilled. After the evening meal, Kṛṣṇa asked Akrūra whether his trip had been peaceful and whether he was well. The Lord also inquired about how Kāṁsa was behaving toward their family members, and finally He asked why Akrūra had come.

Akrūra described how Kāṁsa had been persecuting the Yādavas, what Nārada had told Kāṁsa and how Kāṁsa had been treating Vasudeva cruelly. Akrūra also spoke of Kāṁsa's desire to bring Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma to Mathurā to kill Them on the pretext of Their seeing the bow sacrifice and engaging in a wrestling match. Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma laughed out loud when They heard this. They went to Their father, Nanda, and informed him of Kāṁsa's orders. Nanda then issued an order to all the residents of Vraja that they should collect various offerings for the King and prepare to go to Mathurā.

The young gopīs were extremely upset to hear that Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma would be going to Mathurā. They lost all external awareness and began to remember Kṛṣṇa's pastimes. Condemning the creator for separating them from Him, they began to lament. They said that Akrūra did not deserve his name (a, "not"; krūra, "cruel"), since he was so cruel to be taking away their dearmost Kṛṣṇa. "It must be that fate is against us," they lamented, "because otherwise the elders of Vraja would have forbidden Kṛṣṇa to leave. So let us forget our shyness and try to stop Lord Mādhava from going." With these words the young cowherd girls began to chant Kṛṣṇa's names and cry.

But even as they wept, Akrūra began taking Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma to Mathurā in his chariot. The cowherd men of Gokula followed behind on their wagons, and the young gopīs also walked behind for some distance, but then they became placated by Kṛṣṇa's glances and gestures and pacified by a message from Him that said "I will return." With their minds completely absorbed in Kṛṣṇa, the cowherd girls stood as still as figures in a painting until they could no longer see the chariot's flag or the dust cloud being raised on the road. Then, chanting Kṛṣṇa's glories all the while, they despondently returned to their homes.

Akrūra halted the chariot at the bank of the Yamunā so Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma could perform a ritual of purification and drink some water. After the two Lords had gotten back into the chariot, Akrūra took Their permission to bathe in the Yamunā. As he recited Vedic mantras, he was startled to see the two Lords standing in the water. Akrūra came out of the river and returned to the chariot-where he saw the Lords still sitting. Then he returned to the water to find out if the two figures he had seen there were real or not.

What Akrūra saw in the water was four-armed Lord Vāsudeva. His complexion was dark blue like a fresh raincloud, He wore yellow garments and He lay on the lap of thousand-hooded Ananta Śeṣa. Lord Vāsudeva was receiving the prayers of perfected beings, celestial serpents and demons, and He was encircled by His personal attendants. Serving Him were His many potencies, such as Śrī, Puṣṭi and Ilā, while Brahmā and other demigods sang His praises. Akrūra rejoiced at this vision and, joining his palms in supplication, began to pray to the Supreme Lord in a voice choked with emotion.

TEXT 1

श्रीशुक उवाच
सुखोपविष्टः पर्यङ्के
रमकृष्णोरुमानितः
लेभे मनोरथान् सर्वान्
पथि यान् स चकार ह

śrī-śuka uvāca
sukhopaviṣṭaḥ paryāṅke rama-kṛṣṇoru-mānitaḥ
lebhe manorathān sarvān
pathi yān sa cakāra ha

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; sukha—comfortably; upaviṣṭaḥ—seated; paryāṅke—on a couch; rāma-kṛṣṇa—by Lord Balarāma and Lord Kṛṣṇa; uru—very much; mānitaḥ—honored; lebhe—he attained; manaḥ-rathān—his desires; sarvān—all; pathi—on the road; yān—which; saḥ—he; cakāra ha—had manifested.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Having been honored so much by Lord Balarāma and Lord Kṛṣṇa, Akrūra, seated comfortably on a couch, felt that all the desires he had contemplated on the road were now fulfilled.

TEXT 2

किमलभ्यं भगवति
प्रसन्ने श्रीनिकेतने
तथापि तत्परा राजन्
न हि वाञ्छन्ति किञ्चन

kim alabhyam bhagavati
prasanne śrī-niketane tathāpi tat-parā rājan
na hi vāñchanti kiñcana

SYNONYMS

kim—what; alabhyam—is unattainable; bhagavati—the Supreme Lord; prasanne—being satisfied; śrī—of the goddess of fortune; niketane—the resting place; tathā api—nevertheless; tat-parāḥ—those who are devoted to Him; rājan—O King (Parīkṣit); na—do not, hi-indeed; vāñchanti—desire; kiñcana—anything.

TRANSLATION

My dear King, what is unattainable for one who has satisfied the Supreme Personality of Godhead, the shelter of the goddess of fortune? Even so, those who are dedicated to His devotional service never want anything from Him.

TEXT 3

सायन्तनाशनं कृत्वा
भगवान्देवकीसुतः
सुहृत्सु वृत्तं कंसस्य पप्रच्छान्यच्चिकीर्षितम्

*sāyantanaśanam kṛtvā
bhagavān devakī-sutaḥ
suhṛtsu vṛttam kaṁsasya papracchānyac cikīrṣitam*

SYNONYMS

sāyantana—of the evening; aśanam—the dining; kṛtvā—having done; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; devakī-sutaḥ—the son of Devakī; suhṛtsu—toward His well-wishing relatives and friends; vṛttam—about the behavior; kaṁsasya—of Kāṁsa; papraccha—He inquired; anyat—other; cikīrṣitam—intentions.

TRANSLATION

After the evening meal, Lord Kṛṣṇa, the son of Devakī, asked Akrūra how Kāmsa was treating their dear relatives and friends and what the King was planning to do.

TEXT 4

श्रीभगवानुवाच
तात सौम्यागतः कच्चित्
स्वागतं भद्रमस्तु वः
अपि स्वज्ञातिबन्धूनाम् अनमीवमनामयम्

śrī-bhagavān uvāca
tāta saumyāgataḥ kaccit sv-āgataṁ bhadram astu vaḥ api sva-jñāti-bandhūnām anamīvam anāmayam

SYNONYMS

śrī-bhagavān uvāca—the Supreme Personality of Godhead said; tāta—O uncle; saumya—O gentle one; āgataḥ—arrived; kaccit—whether; sv-āgataṁ—welcome; bhadram—all good; astu—may there be; vaḥ—for you; api—whether; sva—for your well-wishing friends; jñāti—intimate relatives; bandhūnām—and other family members; anamīvam—freedom from unhappiness; anāmayam—freedom from disease.

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Lord said: My dear, gentle Uncle Akrūra, was your trip here comfortable? May all good fortune be yours. Are our well-wishing friends and our relatives, both close and distant, happy and in good health?

TEXT 5

किं नु नः कुशलं पृच्छे
एधमाने कुलामये
कंसे मातुलनाम्नाङ्ग स्वानां नस्तत्प्रजासु च

*kiṁ nu naḥ kuśalam prcche edhamāne kulāmaye
kaṁse mātula-nāmnāṅga
svānām nas tat-prajāsu ca*

SYNONYMS

kiṁ—what; nu—rather; naḥ—our; kuśalam—about the well-being; prcche—I should inquire; edhamāne—when he is prospering; kula—of our family; āmaye—the disease; kaṁse—King Kāṁsa; mātula-nāmnā—by the name "maternal uncle"; aṅga—my dear; svānām—of the relatives; naḥ—our; tat—his; prajāsu—of the citizens; ca—and.

TRANSLATION

But, my dear Akrūra, as long as King Kāṁsa—that disease of our family who goes by the name "maternal uncle"—is still prospering, why should I even bother to ask about the well-being of our family members and his other subjects?

TEXT 6

अहो अस्मद्भूद्भूरि
पित्रोर्वृजिनमार्ययोः
यद्धेतोः पुत्रमरणं यद्धेतोर्बन्धनं तयोः

*aho asmad abhūd bhūri
pitror vṛjinam āryayoḥ yad-dhetoḥ putra-maraṇam yad-dhetor bandhanam tayoḥ*

SYNONYMS

aho—ah; asmat—because of Me; abhūt—there was; bhūri—great; pitroḥ—for My parents; vṛjinam—suffering; āryayoḥ—for the offenseless ones; yat-dhetoḥ—because of whom; putra—of their sons; maraṇam—the death; yat-dhetoḥ—because of whom; bandhanam—bondage; tayoḥ—their.

TRANSLATION

Just see how much suffering I have caused My offenseless parents ! Because of Me their sons were killed and they themselves imprisoned.

PURPORT

Because Kāṁsa had heard a prophecy that the eighth son of Devakī would kill him, he tried to kill all her children. For the same reason, he imprisoned her and her husband, Vasudeva.

TEXT 7

दिष्ट्याद्य दर्शनं स्वानां
मह्यं वः सौम्य काङ्क्षितम्
सञ्जातं वर्ण्यतां तात तवागमनकारणम्

diṣṭyādyā darśanam svānām mahyam vaḥ saumya kāṅkṣitam sañjātaṁ varṇyatām tāta tavāgamana-kāraṇam

SYNONYMS

diṣṭyā—by good fortune; adya—today; darśanam—the sight; svānām—of My close relative; mahyam—for Me; vaḥ—yourself; saumya—O gentle one; kāṅkṣitam—desired; sañjātaṁ—has come about; varṇyatām—please explain; tāta—O uncle; tava—your; āgamana—for the coming; kāraṇam—the reason.

TRANSLATION

By good fortune We have today fulfilled Our desire to see you, Our dear relative. O gentle uncle, please tell Us why you have come.

TEXT 8

श्रीशुक उवाच
पृष्टो भगवता सर्वं

वर्णयामास माधवः
वैरानुबन्धं यदुषु वसुदेववधोद्यमम्

śrī-śuka uvāca
pr̥ṣṭo bhagavatā sarvaṁ varṇayām āsa mādhaveḥ vairānubandhaṁ yaduṣu
vasudeva-vadhodyamam

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; pr̥ṣṭaḥ—requested; bhagavatā—by the Supreme Lord; sarvaṁ—everything; varṇayām āsa—described; mādhaveḥ—Akrūra, descendant of Madhu; vaira-anubandham—the inimical attitude; yaduṣu—toward the Yadus; vasudeva—Vasudeva; vadha—to murder; udyamam—the attempt.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: In response to the Supreme Lord's request, Akrūra, the descendant of Madhu, described the whole situation, including King Kāṁsa's enmity toward the Yadus and his attempt to murder Vasudeva.

TEXT 9

यत्सन्देशो यदर्थं वा
दूतः सम्प्रेषितः स्वयम्
यदुक्तं नारदेनास्य

स्वजन्मानकदुन्दुभेः

yat-sandeśo yad-arthaṁ vā dūtaḥ sampreṣitaḥ svayam yad uktam nāradenāśya
sva-janmānakadundubheḥ

SYNONYMS

yat—having which; sandeśaḥ—message; yat—which; arthaṁ—purpose; vā—and; dūtaḥ—as a messenger; sampreṣitaḥ—sent; svayam—himself (Akrūra); yat—what; uktam—was spoken; nāradena—by Nārada; āśya—to him (Kāṁsa); sva—His (Kṛṣṇa's); janma—birth; ānakadundubheḥ—from Vasudeva.

TRANSLATION

Akrūra relayed the message he had been sent to deliver. He also described Kāṁsa's real intentions and how Nārada had informed Kāṁsa that Kṛṣṇa had been born as the son of Vasudeva.

TEXT 10

श्रुत्वाक्रूरवचः कृष्णो
बलश्च परवीरहा
प्रहस्य नन्दं पितरं राज्ञा दिष्टं विजज्ञतुः

śrutvākrūra-vacaḥ kṛṣṇo
balaś ca para-vīra-hā

*prahasya nandam pitaram
rājñā diṣṭam vijajñatuḥ*

SYNONYMS

śrutvā—hearing; akrūra-vacaḥ—Akrūra's words; kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; balāḥ—Lord Balarāma; ca—and; para-vīra—of opposing heroes; hā—the destroyer; prahasya—laughing; nandam—to Nanda Mahārāja; pitaram—Their father; rājñā—by the King; diṣṭam—the order given; vijajñatuḥ—They informed.

TRANSLATION

Lord Kṛṣṇa and Lord Balarāma, the vanquisher of heroic opponents, laughed when They heard Akrūra's words. The Lords then informed Their father, Nanda Mahārāja, of King Kāṁsa's orders.

TEXTS 11-12

गोपान् समादिशत्सोऽपि
गृह्यतां सर्वगोरसः
उपायनानि गृह्णीध्वं
युज्यन्तां शकटानि च

यास्यामः श्वो मधुपुरीं
दास्यामो नृपते रसान्
द्रक्ष्यामः सुमहत्पर्व
यान्ति जानपदाः किल
एवमाघोषयत्क्षत्रा

नन्दगोपः स्वगोकुले

*gopān samādiśat so 'pi
gr̥hyatām sarva-go-rasaḥ upāyanāni gr̥hṇīdhvam yujyantām śakaṭāni ca*

*yāsyāmaḥ śvo madhu-purīm dāsyāmo nṛpate rasān drakṣyāmaḥ su-mahat parva yānti jānapadāḥ kila evam āghoṣayat kṣatrā
nanda-gopaḥ sva-gokule*

SYNONYMS

gopān—the cowherd men; samādiśat—ordered; saḥ—he (Nanda Mahārāja); api—also; gr̥hyatām—have collected; sarva—all; go-rasaḥ—the milk products; upāyanāni—excellent gifts; gr̥hṇīdhvam—take; yujyantām—yoke; śakaṭāni—the wagons; ca—and; yāsyāmaḥ—we shall go; śvaḥ—tomorrow; madhu-purīm—to Mathurā; dāsyāmaḥ—we shall give; nṛpateḥ—to the King; rasān—our milk products; drakṣyāmaḥ—we shall see; su-mahat—a very great; parva—festival; yānti—are going; jānapadāḥ—the residents of all the outlying districts; kila—indeed; evam—thus; āghoṣayat—he had announced; kṣatrā—by the village constable; nanda-gopaḥ—Nanda Mahārāja; sva-gokule—to the people of his Gokula.

TRANSLATION

Nanda Mahārāja then issued orders to the cowherd men by having the village constable make the following announcement throughout Nanda's domain of Vraja: "Go collect all the available milk products. Bring valuable gifts and yoke your wagons. Tomorrow we shall go to Mathurā, present our milk products to the King and see a very great festival. The residents of all the outlying districts are also going."

PURPORT

Nanda wanted to bring ghee and other milk products as taxes for the King.

TEXT 13

गोप्यस्तास्तदुपश्रुत्य
बभूवुर्यथिता भृशम्
रामकृष्णौ पुरीं नेतुम् अक्रूरं व्रजमागतम्

gopyas tās tad upaśrutya babhūvur vyathitā bhṛśam rāma-kṛṣṇau purīm netum akrūraṁ vrajam āgatam

SYNONYMS

gopyaḥ—the cowherd girls; tāḥ—they; tat—then; upaśrutya—hearing; babhūvuḥ—became; vyathitāḥ—distressed; bhṛśam—extremely; rāma-kṛṣṇau—Balarāma and Kṛṣṇa; purīm—to the city; netum—to take; akrūram—Akrūra; vrajam—to Vṛndāvana; āgatam—come.

TRANSLATION

When the young gopīs heard that Akrūra had come to Vraja to take Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma to the city, they became extremely distressed.

TEXT 14

काश्चित्तत्कृतहृत्ताप
श्वासम्लानमुखश्रियः
संसद्दुकूलवलय केशग्रन्थ्यश्च काश्चन

*kāścīt tat-kṛta-hṛt-tāpa śvāsa-mlāna-mukha-śriyaḥ sraṁsad-dukūla-valaya
keśa-granthyāś ca kāścana*

SYNONYMS

kāścīt—some of them; tat—by that (hearing); kṛta—created; hṛt—in their hearts; tāpa—from the torment; śvāsa—by the sighing; mlāna—made pale; mukha—of their faces; śriyaḥ—the luster; sraṁsat—loosening; dukūla—their dresses; valaya—bracelets; keśa—in their hair; granthyāḥ—the knots; ca—and; kāścana—others.

TRANSLATION

Some gopīs felt so pained at heart that their faces turned pale from their heavy breathing. Others were so anguished that their dresses, bracelets and braids became loose.

TEXT 15

अन्याश्च तदनुध्यान

निवृत्ताशेषवृत्तयः
नाभ्यजानन्निमं लोकम् आत्मलोकं गता इव

*anyāś ca tad-anudhyāna
nivr̥ttāśeṣa-vṛttayaḥ nābhyajānann imam lokam
ātma-lokaṁ gatā iva*

SYNONYMS

anyāḥ—others; ca—and; tat—on Him; anudhyāna—by fixed meditation; nivr̥tta—ceased; aśeṣa—all; vṛttayaḥ—their sensory functions; na abhyajānan—they were unaware; imam—of this; lokam—world; ātma—of self-realization; lokam—the realm; gatāḥ—those who have attained; iva—just as.

TRANSLATION

Other gopīs entirely stopped their sensory activities and became fixed in meditation on Kṛṣṇa. They lost all awareness of the external world, just like those who attain the platform of self-realization.

PURPORT

The gopīs were in fact already on the platform of self-realization. The Caitanya-caritāmṛta (Madhya 20.108) states, jīvera svarūpa haya kṛṣṇera nitya-dāsa: "The self, or individual soul, is an eternal servant of Kṛṣṇa." Thus because they were rendering the most intense loving service to the Lord, the gopīs were situated at the highest stage of self-realization.

TEXT 16

स्मरन्त्यश्चापराः शौरैर्
अनुरागस्मितेरिताः
हृदिस्पृशश्चित्रपदा गिरः सम्मुमुहुः स्त्रियः

*smarantyaś cāparāḥ śaurer anurāga-smiteritāḥ hṛdi-sprśaś citra-padā
giraḥ sammumuhuh striyaḥ*

SYNONYMS

smarantyaḥ—remembering; ca—and; aparāḥ—others; śaureḥ—of Kṛṣṇa; anurāga—affectionate; smita—by His smile; iritāḥ—sent; hṛdi—the heart; spṛśaḥ—touching; citra—wonderful; padāḥ—with phrases; giraḥ—the speech; sammumuhuh—fainted; striyaḥ—women.

TRANSLATION

And still other young women fainted simply by remembering the words of Lord Śauri [Kṛṣṇa]. These words, decorated with wonderful phrases and expressed with affectionate smiles, would deeply touch the young girls' hearts.

TEXTS 17-18

गतिं सुललितां चेष्टां
स्निग्धहासावलोकनम्
शोकापहानि नर्माणि

प्रोद्धामचरितानि च

चिन्तयन्त्यो मुकुन्दस्य
भीता विरहकातराः
समेताः सङ्घशः प्रोचुर अश्रुमुख्योऽच्युताशयाः

*gatim su-lalitām ceṣṭām snigdha-hāsāvalokanam śokāpahāni narmāṇi
proddāma-caritāni ca*

*cintayantyo mukundasya bhītā viraha-kātarāḥ sametāḥ saṅghaśaḥ procur
aśru-mukhyo 'cyutāśayāḥ*

SYNONYMS

gatim—the movements; su-lalitām—very charming; ceṣṭām—the activities; snigdha—affectionate; hāsa—smiling; avalokanam—the glances; śoka—unhappiness; apahāni—which remove; narmāṇi—the joking words; proddāma—mighty; caritāni—the deeds; ca—and; cintayantyaḥ—thinking about; mukundasya—of Lord Kṛṣṇa; bhītaḥ—afraid; viraha—because of separation; kātarāḥ—greatly distressed; sametāḥ—joining together; saṅghaśaḥ—in groups; procuḥ—they spoke; aśru—with tears; mukhyaḥ—their faces; acyuta-āśayāḥ—their minds absorbed in Lord Acyuta.

TRANSLATION

The gopés were frightened at the prospect of even the briefest separation from Lord Mukunda, so now, as they remembered His graceful gait, His pastimes, His affectionate, smiling glances, His heroic deeds and His joking words, which would relieve their distress, they were beside themselves with anxiety at the thought of the great separation about to come. They gathered in groups and spoke to one another, their faces covered with tears and their minds fully absorbed in Acyuta.

TEXT 19

श्रीगोप्य ऊचुः
अहो विधातस्तव न क्वचिद्दया
संयोज्य मैत्र्या प्रणयेन देहिनः
तांश्चाकृतार्थान् वियुनङ्क्ष्यपार्थकं विक्रीडितं तेऽर्भकचेष्टितं यथा

śrī-gopya ūcuḥ
aho vidhātas tava na kvacid dayā saṁyojya maitryā praṇayena dehinaḥ tāṁś cākṛtārthān viyunaṅkṣy apārthakam vikrīḍitam te 'rbhaka-ceṣṭitam yathā

SYNONYMS

śrī-gopyaḥ ūcuḥ—the gopīs said; aho—O; vidhātaḥ—Providence; tava—your; na—there is not; kvacid—anywhere; dayā—mercy; saṁyojya—bringing together; maitryā—with friendship; praṇayena—and with love; dehinaḥ—embodied living beings; tān—them; ca—and; akṛta—unfulfilled; arthān—their aims; viyunaṅkṣi—you separate; apārthakam—uselessly; vikrīḍitam—play; te—your; arbhaka—of a child; ceṣṭitam—the activity; yathā—as.

TRANSLATION

The gopīs said: O Providence, you have no mercy! You bring embodied creatures together in friendship and love and then senselessly separate them before they fulfill their desires. This whimsical play of yours is like a child's game.

TEXT 20

यस्त्वं प्रदर्श्यासितकुन्तलावृतं
मुकुन्दवक्त्रं सुकपोलमुन्नसम्
शोकापनोदस्मितलेशसुन्दरं करोषि पारोक्ष्यमसाधु ते कृतम्

yas tvam pradarśyāsita-kuntalāvṛtaṁ mukunda-vaktraṁ su-kapolam un-nasam śokāpanoda-smita-leśa-sundaram karoṣi pārokṣyam asādhū te kṛtam

SYNONYMS

yaḥ—who; tvam—you; pradarśya—showing; asita—black; kuntala—by locks; āvṛtam—framed; mukunda—of Kṛṣṇa; vaktram—the face; su-kapolam—with fine cheeks; ut-nasam—and raised nose; śoka—misery; apanoda—eradicating; smita—with His smile; leśa—slight; sundaram—beautiful; karoṣi—you make; pāroṣyam—invisible; asādhū—not good; te—by you; kṛtam—done.

TRANSLATION

Having shown us Mukunda's face, framed by dark locks and beautified by

His fine cheeks, raised nose and gentle smiles, which eradicate all misery, you are now making that face invisible. This behavior of yours is not at all good.

TEXT 21

क्रूरस्त्वमक्रूरसमाख्यया स्म नश्
चक्षुर्हि दत्तं हरसे बताज्ञवत्
येनैकदेशेऽखिलसर्गसौष्ठवं त्वदीयमद्राक्ष्म वयं मधुद्विषः

krūras tvam akrūra-samākhyayā sma naś cakṣur hi dattaṁ harase batājña-vat yenaika-deśe 'khila-sarga-sauṣṭhavaṁ tvadīyam adrākṣma vayaṁ madhu-dviṣaḥ

SYNONYMS

krūraḥ—cruel; tvam—you (are); akrūra-samākhyayā—by the name Akrūra (which means "not cruel"); sma—certainly; naś—our; cakṣuḥ—eyes; hi—indeed; dattam—given; harase—you are taking; bata—alas; ajña—a fool; vat—just like; yena—with which (eyes); eka—in one; deśe—place; akhila—of all; sarga—the creation; sauṣṭhavam—the perfection; tvadīyam—your; adrākṣma—have seen; vayaṁ—we; madhudviṣaḥ—of Lord Kṛṣṇa, enemy of the demon Madhu.

TRANSLATION

O Providence, though you come here with the name Akrūra, you are indeed cruel, for like a fool you are taking away what you once gave us—those eyes with which we have seen, even in one feature of Lord Madhudviṣa's form, the perfection of your entire creation.

PURPORT

The gopīs did not care to see anything but Kṛṣṇa; therefore if Kṛṣṇa left Vṛndāvana, their eyes would have no function. Thus Kṛṣṇa's departure was blinding these poor girls, and in their distress they berated Akrūra, whose name means "not cruel," as cruel indeed.

TEXT 22

न नन्दसूनुः क्षणभङ्गसौहृदः
समीक्षते नः स्वकृतातुरा बत
विहाय गेहान् स्वजनान् सुतान् पतींस तद्दास्यमद्धोपगता नवप्रियः

na nanda-sūnuḥ kṣaṇa-bhaṅga-sauhṛdaḥ samīkṣate naḥ sva-kṛtāturā bata vihāya gehān sva-janān sutān patīns tad-dāsyam addhopagatā nava-priyaḥ

SYNONYMS

na—does not; nanda-sūnuḥ—the son of Nanda Mahārāja; kṣaṇa—in a moment; bhaṅga—the breaking; sauhṛdaḥ—of whose friendship; samīkṣate—look upon; naḥ—us; sva—by Him; kṛta—made; āturāḥ—under His control; bata—alas; vihāya—giving up; gehān—our homes; sva-janān—relatives; sutān—children; patīn—husbands; tat—to Him; dāsyam—servitude; addhā—directly; upagatāḥ—who have taken up; nava—ever new; priyaḥ—whose lovers.

TRANSLATION

Alas, Nanda's son, who breaks loving friendships in a second, will not even look directly at us. Forcibly brought under His control, we abandoned our homes, relatives, children and husbands just to serve Him, but He is always looking for new lovers.

TEXT 23

सुखं प्रभाता रजनीयमाशिषः
सत्या बभूवुः पुरयोषितां ध्रुवम्
याः संप्रविष्टस्य मुखं व्रजस्पतेः पास्यन्त्यपाङ्गोत्कलितस्मितासवम्

sukham prabhātā rajanīyam āśiṣaḥ satyā babhūvuḥ pura-yoṣitām dhruvam yāḥ sampraviṣṭasya mukham vrajaḥ-pateḥ pāsyanty apāṅgotkalita-smitāsavam

SYNONYMS

sukham—happy; prabhātā—its dawn; rajanī—the night; iyam—this; āśiṣaḥ—the hopes; satyāḥ—true; babhūvuḥ—have become; pura—of the city; yoṣitām—of the women; dhruvam—certainly; yāḥ—who; sampraviṣṭasya—of Him who has entered (Mathurā); mukham—the face; vrajaḥ-pateḥ—of the master of Vraja; pāsyanti—they will drink; apāṅga—upon the corners of His eyes; utkalita—expanded; smita—a smile; āsavam—nectar.

TRANSLATION

The dawn following this night will certainly be auspicious for the women of Mathurā. All their hopes will now be fulfilled, for as the Lord of Vraja enters their city, they will be able to drink from His face the nectar of the smile emanating from the corners of His eyes.

TEXT 24

तासां मुकुन्दो मधुमञ्जुभाषितैर्
गृहीतचित्तः परवान्मनस्व्यपि
कथं पुनर्नः प्रतियास्यतेऽबला ग्राम्याः सलज्जस्मितविभ्रमैर्भ्रमन्

tāsām mukundo madhu-mañju-bhāṣitair gṛhīta-cittaḥ para-vān manasvy api katham punar naḥ pratiyāsyate 'balā grāmyāḥ salajja-smita-vibhramair bhraman

SYNONYMS

tāsām—their; mukundaḥ—Kṛṣṇa; madhu—like honey; mañju—sweet; bhāṣitaiḥ—by the words; gṛhīta—seized; cittaḥ—whose mind; paravān—subservient; manasvī—intelligent; api—although; katham—how; punaḥ—again; naḥ—to us; pratiyāsyate—will He return; abalāḥ—O girls; grāmyāḥ—who are rustic; sa-lajja—shyly; smita—smiling; vibhramaiḥ—by their enchantments; bhraman—becoming bewildered.

TRANSLATION

O gopés, although our Mukunda is intelligent and very obedient to His parents, once He has fallen under the spell of the honey—sweet words of the women of Mathurā and been enchanted by their alluring, shy smiles, how will

He ever return to us unsophisticated village girls?

TEXT 25

अद्य ध्रुवं तत्र दृशो भविष्यते
दाशार्हभोजान्धकवृष्णिसात्वताम्
महोत्सवः श्रीरमणं गुणास्पदं द्रक्ष्यन्ति ये चाध्वनि देवकीसुतम्

adya dhruvaṁ tatra dṛśo bhaviṣyate dāśārha-bhojāndhaka-vṛṣṇi-sātvatām mahotsavaḥ śrī-ramaṇaṁ guṇāspadam drakṣyanti ye cādhvani devakī-sutam

SYNONYMS

adya—today; dhruvam—certainly; tatra—there; dṛśaḥ—for the eyes; bhaviṣyate—there will be; dāśārha-bhoja-andhaka-vṛṣṇi-sātvatām—of the members of the Dāśārha, Bhoja, Andhaka, Vṛṣṇi and Sātvata clans; mahā-utsavaḥ—a great festivity; śrī—of the goddess of fortune; ramaṇam—the darling; guṇa—of all transcendental qualities; āspadam—the reservoir; drakṣyanti—they will see; ye—those who; ca—also; adhvani—on the road; devakī-sutam—Kṛṣṇa, the son of Devakī.

TRANSLATION

When the Dāśārhas, Bhojas, Andhakas, Vṛṣṇis and Sātvatas see the son of Devakī in Mathurā, they will certainly enjoy a great festival for their eyes, as will all those who see Him traveling along the road to the city. After all, He is the darling of the goddess of fortune and the reservoir of all transcendental qualities.

TEXT 26

मैतद्विधस्याकरुणस्य नाम भूद्
अक्रूर इत्येतदतीव दारुणः
योऽसावनाश्वास्य सुदुःखितम्जनं प्रियात्प्रियं नेष्यति पारमध्वनः

maitad-vidhasyākaruṇasya nāma bhūd akrūra ity etad atīva dāruṇaḥ yo 'sāv anāśvāsyā su-duḥkhitam janam priyāt priyam neṣyati pāram adhvanaḥ

SYNONYMS

mā—should not; etat-vidhasya—of such; akarūṇasya—an unkind person; nāma—the name; bhūt—be; akrūraḥ iti—"Akrūra"; etat—this; atīva—extremely; dāruṇaḥ—cruel; yaḥ—who; asau—he; anāśvāsyā—not consoling; su-duḥkhitam—who are very miserable; janam—people; priyāt—than the most dear; priyam—dear (Kṛṣṇa); neṣyati—will take; pāram adhvanaḥ—beyond our sight.

TRANSLATION

He who is doing this merciless deed should not be called Akrūra. He is so extremely cruel that without even trying to console the sorrowful residents of Vraja, he is taking away Kṛṣṇa, who is more dear to us than life itself.

TEXT 27

अनार्द्रधीरेष समास्थितो रथं
तमन्वमी च त्वरयन्ति दुर्मदाः
गोपा अनोभिः स्थविरैरुपेक्षितं दैवं च नोऽद्य प्रतिकूलमीहते

anārdra-dhīr eṣa samāsthito ratham tam anv amī ca tvarayanti durmadāḥ gopā anobhiḥ sthavirair upekṣitam daivam ca no 'dya pratikūlam īhate

SYNONYMS

anārdra-dhīḥ—hard-hearted; eṣaḥ—this (Kṛṣṇa); samāsthitaḥ—having mounted; ratham—the chariot; tam—Him; anu—following; amī—these; ca—and; tvarayanti—hurry; durmadāḥ—befooled; gopāḥ—cowherds; anobhiḥ—in their bullock carts; sthaviraiḥ—by the elders; upekṣitam—disregarded; daivam—fate; ca—and; naḥ—with us; adya—today; pratikūlam—unfavorably; īhate—is acting.

TRANSLATION

Hard-hearted Kṛṣṇa has already mounted the chariot, and now the foolish cowherds are hurrying after Him in their bullock carts. Even the elders are saying nothing to stop Him. Today fate is working against us.

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī reveals what the gopīs thought: "These foolish cowherd men and elders are not even trying to stop Kṛṣṇa. Don't they realize they are committing suicide? They are helping Kṛṣṇa go to Mathurā, but they will have to come back to Vṛndāvana and will certainly die in His absence. The whole world has become nonsensical."

TEXT 28

निवारयामः समुपेत्य माधवं
किं नोऽकरिष्यन् कुलवृद्धबान्धवाः
मुकुन्दसङ्गान्निमिषार्धदुस्त्यजाद् दैवेन विध्वंसितदीनचेतसाम्

nivārayāmaḥ samupetya mādham kim no 'kariṣyan kula-vṛddha-bāndhavāḥ mukunda-saṅgān nimiṣārdha-dustyajād daivena vidhvaṁsita-dīna-cetasām

SYNONYMS

nivārayāmaḥ—let us stop; samupetya—going up to Him; mādham—Kṛṣṇa; kim—what; naḥ—to us; akariṣyan—will do; kula—of the family; vṛddha—the elders; bāndhavāḥ—and our relatives; mukunda-saṅgāt—from the association of Lord Mukunda; niṣa—of the wink of an eye; ardha—for one half; dustyajāt—which is impossible to give up; daivena—by fate; vidhvaṁsita—separated; dīna—wretched; cetasām—whose hearts.

TRANSLATION

Let us directly approach Mādhava and stop Him from going. What can our family elders and other relatives do to us? Now that fate is separating us from Mukunda, our hearts are already wretched, for we cannot bear to give up His association even for a fraction of a second.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī describes what the gopīs thought: "Let us go right up to Kṛṣṇa and pull at His clothes and hands and insist that He get down from His chariot and stay here with us. We will tell Him, 'Don't bring upon Yourself the sinful reaction for murdering so many women!' "

"But if we do that," said other gopīs, "our relatives and the village elders will discover our secret love for Kṛṣṇa and abandon us."

"But what can they do to us?"

"Yes, our lives are already wretched now that Kṛṣṇa is leaving. We have nothing to lose."

"That's right. We will remain in the Vṛndāvana forest just like presiding goddesses, and then we can fulfill our true desire—to stay with Kṛṣṇa in the forest."

"Yes, and even if the elders and our relatives punish us by beating us or locking us up, we can still live happily with the knowledge that Kṛṣṇa is residing in our village. Some of our girlfriends who are not imprisoned will cleverly find a way to bring us the remnants of Kṛṣṇa's food, and then we can remain alive. But if Kṛṣṇa is not stopped, we will certainly die."

TEXT 29

यस्यानुरागललितस्मितवल्गुमन्त्र
लीलावलोकपरिरम्भणरासगोष्ठाम्
नीताः स्म नः क्षणमिव क्षणदा विना तं गोप्यः कथं न्वतितरेम तमो दुरन्तम्

yasyānurāga-lalita-smita-valgu-mantra līlāvaloka-parirambhaṇa-rāsa-goṣṭhām nītāḥ sma naḥ kṣaṇam iva kṣaṇadā vinā tam gopyaḥ katham nu atitarema tamo durantam

SYNONYMS

yasya—whose; anurāga—with loving affection; lalita—charming; smita—(where there were) smiles; valgu—attractive; mantra—intimate discussions; līlā—playful; avaloka—glances; parirambhaṇa—and embraces; rāsa—of the rāsa dance; goṣṭhām—to the assembly; nītāḥ sma—who were brought; naḥ—for us; kṣaṇam—a moment; iva—like; kṣaṇadāḥ—the nights; vinā—without; tam—Him; gopyaḥ—O gopīs; katham—how; nu—indeed; atitarema—will we cross over; tamaḥ—the darkness; durantam—insurmountable.

TRANSLATION

When He brought us to the assembly of the rāsa dance, where we enjoyed His affectionate and charming smiles, His delightful secret talks, His playful glances and His embraces, we passed many nights as if they were a single moment. O gopīs, how can we possibly cross over the insurmountable darkness of His absence?

PURPORT

For the gopīs, a long time in Kṛṣṇa's association passed like a moment, and a single moment in His absence seemed like a very long time.

TEXT 30

योऽहः क्षये ब्रजमनन्तसखः परीतो

गोपैर्विशन् खुररजश्छुरितालकस्रक्
वेणुं क्णन् स्मितकताक्षनिरीक्षणेन
चित्तं क्षिणोत्यमुमृते नु कथं भवेम yo 'hnaḥ kṣaye vrajam ananta-sakhaḥ parito gopair viśan khura-rajaś-churitālaka-srak veṇum kvaṇan smita-katākṣa-nirīkṣaṇena cittam kṣiṇoty amum ṛte nu katham bhavema

SYNONYMS

yaḥ—who; ahnaḥ—of the day; kṣaye—at the demise; vrajam—the village of Vraja; ananta—of Ananta, Lord Balarāma; sakhaḥ—the friend Kṛṣṇa; parītaḥ—accompanied on all sides; gopaiḥ—by the cowherd boys; viśan-entering; khura—of the hoofprints (of the cows); rajaḥ—with the dust; churita—smeared; alaka—the locks of His hair; srak—and His garlands; veṇum—His flute; kvaṇan—playing; smita—smiling; kaṭa-akṣa—from the corners of His eyes; nirīkṣaṇena—with glances; cittam—our minds; kṣiṇoti—He destroys; amum—Him; ṛte-without; nu—indeed; katham—how; bhavema—we can exist.

TRANSLATION

How can we exist without Ananta's friend Kṛṣṇa, who in the evening would return to Vraja in the company of the cowherd boys, His hair and garland powdered with the dust raised by the cows' hooves? As He played His flute, He would captivate our minds with His smiling sidelong glances.

TEXT 31

श्रीशुक उवाच
एवं ब्रुवाणा विरहातुरा भृशं
ब्रजस्त्रियः कृष्णविषक्तमानसाः
विसृज्य लज्जां रुरुदुः स्म सुस्वरं गोविन्द दामोदर माधवेति

śrī-śuka uvāca
evam bruvāṇā virahāturā bhṛśam vraja-striyaḥ kṛṣṇa-viṣakta-mānasāḥ visṛjya lajjām ruruduḥ sma su-svaram govinda dāmodara mādhaveti

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; evam—thus; bruvāṇāḥ—speaking; viraha—by feelings of separation; āturāḥ—distraught; bhṛśam—thoroughly; vraja-striyaḥ—the ladies of Vraja; kṛṣṇa—to Kṛṣṇa; viṣakta—attached; mānasāḥ—their minds; visṛjya—abandoning; lajjām—shame; ruruduḥ sma—they cried; su-svaram—loudly; govinda dāmodara mādhaba iti—O Govinda, O Dāmodara, O Mādhava.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: After speaking these words, the ladies of Vraja, who were so attached to Kṛṣṇa, felt extremely agitated by their imminent separation from Him. They forgot all shame and loudly cried out, "O Govinda! O Dāmodara! O Mādhava!"

PURPORT

For a long time the gopīs had carefully hidden their conjugal love for Kṛṣṇa.

But now that Kṛṣṇa was leaving, the gopīs were so distressed that they could no longer hide their feelings.

TEXT 32

स्त्रीणामेवं रुदन्तीनाम्
उदिते सवितर्यथ
अक्रूरश्चोदयामास कृतमैत्रादिको रथम्

strīṇām evaṁ rudantīnām
udite savitary atha akrūraś codayām āsa
kṛta-maitrādiko ratham

SYNONYMS

strīṇām—the women; evam—in this manner; rudantīnām—while they were crying; udite—rising; savitari—the sun; atha—then; akrūraḥ—Akrūra; codayām āsa—started; kṛta—having performed; maitra-ādikaḥ—his morning worship and other regular duties; ratham—the chariot.

TRANSLATION

But even as the gopīs cried out in this way, Akrūra, having at sunrise performed His morning worship and other duties, began to drive the chariot.

PURPORT

According to some Vaiṣṇava authorities, Akrūra offended the gopīs by not consoling them when he took Kṛṣṇa to Mathurā, and because of this offense

Akrūra was later forced to leave Dvārakā and be separated from Kṛṣṇa during the episode of the Syamantaka jewel. At that time Akrūra had to take up an ignoble residence in Vārāṇasī.

Apparently, mother Yaśodā and the other residents of Vṛndāvana were not crying like the gopīs, for they sincerely believed Kṛṣṇa would be coming back within a few days.

TEXT 33

गोपास्तमन्वसज्जन्त
नन्दाद्याः शकटैस्ततः
आदायोपायनं भूरि कुम्भान् गोरससम्भृतान्

*gopās tam anvasajjanta nandādyāḥ śakaṭais tataḥ ādāyopāyanam bhūri
kumbhān go-rasa-sambhṛtān*

SYNONYMS

gopāḥ—the cowherd men; tam—Him; anvasajjanta—followed; nanda-ādyāḥ—headed by Nanda; śakaṭaiḥ—in their wagons; tataḥ—then; ādāya—having taken; upāyanam—offerings; bhūri—abundant; kumbhān—clay pots; go-rasa—with milk products; sambhṛtān—filled.

TRANSLATION

Led by Nanda Mahārāja, the cowherd men followed behind Lord Kṛṣṇa in their wagons. The men brought along many offerings for the King, including clay pots filled with ghee and other milk products.

TEXT 34

गोप्यश्च दयितं कृष्णम्
अनुव्रज्यानुरञ्जिताः
प्रत्यादेशं भगवतः काङ्क्षन्त्यश्चावतस्थिरे

gopyaś ca dayitaṁ kṛṣṇam anuvrajyānurañjitāḥ pratyādeśaṁ bhagavataḥ kāṅkṣantyaś cāvatasthire

SYNONYMS

gopyaḥ—the gopīs; ca—and; dayitam—their beloved; kṛṣṇam—Kṛṣṇa; anuvrajya—following; anurañjitāḥ—pleased; pratyādeśam—some instruction in reply; bhagavataḥ—from the Lord; kāṅkṣantyaḥ—hoping for; ca—and; avatasthire—they stood.

TRANSLATION

[With His glances] Lord Kṛṣṇa somewhat pacified the gopīs, and they also followed behind for some time. Then, hoping He would give them some instruction, they stood still.

TEXT 35

तास्तथा तप्यतीर्वीक्ष्य

स्वप्रस्थाने यदूत्तमः
सान्त्वयामस सप्रेमैर् आयास्य इति दौत्यकैः

tās tathā tapyatīr vīkṣya sva-prasthāṇe yadūttamaḥ sāntvayām asa sa-premaiḥ āyāsyā iti dautyakaiḥ

SYNONYMS

tāḥ—them (the gopīs); tathā—thus; tapyatīḥ—lamenting; vīkṣya—seeing; sva-prasthāṇe—as He was leaving; yadu-uttamaḥ—the greatest of the Yadus; sāntvayām āsa—He consoled them; sa-premaiḥ—full of love; āyāsyā iti—"I will return"; dautyakaiḥ—with words sent through a messenger.

TRANSLATION

As He departed, that best of the Yadus saw how the gopīs, were lamenting, and thus He consoled them by sending a messenger with this loving promise: "I will return."

TEXT 36

यावदालक्ष्यते केतुर्
यावद्रेणू रथस्य च
अनुप्रस्थापितात्मानो लेख्यानीवोपलक्षिताः

*yāvad ālakṣyate ketur
yāvad reṇū rathasya ca anuprasthāpitātmāno lekhyānīvopalakṣitāḥ*

SYNONYMS

yāvat—as long as; ālakṣyate—was visible; ketuḥ—the flag; yāvat—as long as; reṇuḥ—the dust; rathasya—of the chariot; ca—and; anuprasthāpita—sending after; ātmānaḥ—their minds; lekhyāni—painted figures; iva—like; upalakṣitāḥ—they appeared.

TRANSLATION

Sending their minds after Kṛṣṇa, the gopīs stood as motionless as figures in a painting. They remained there as long as the flag atop the chariot was visible, and even until they could no longer see the dust raised by the chariot wheels.

TEXT 37

ता निराशा निववृत्तुर्
गोविन्दविनिवर्तने
विशोका अहनी निन्युर् गायन्त्यः प्रियचेष्टितम्

tā nirāśā nivavṛttur govinda-vinivartane viśokā ahanī ninyur gāyantyaḥ priya-ceṣṭitam

SYNONYMS

tāḥ—they; nirāśāḥ—without hope; nivavṛtuḥ—turned back; govinda-vinivartane—of Govinda's returning; viśokāḥ—extremely sorrowful; ahanī—the days and nights; ninyuḥ—they spent; gāyantyāḥ—chanting; priya—of their beloved; ceṣṭitam—about the activities.

TRANSLATION

The gopés then turned back, without hope that Govinda would ever return to them. Full of sorrow, they began to spend their days and nights chanting about the pastimes of their beloved.

TEXT 38

भगवानपि सम्प्राप्तो
रामाक्रूरयुतो नृप
रथेन वायुवेगेन
कालिन्दीमघनाशिनीम्

bhagavān api samprāpto rāmākrūra-yuto nṛpa rathena vāyu-vegena
kālindīm agha-nāśinīm

SYNONYMS

bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; api—and; samprāptaḥ—arrived; rāma-akrūra-yutaḥ—together with Balarāma and Akrūra; nṛpa—O King (Parīkṣit); rathena—by the chariot; vāyu—like the wind; vegena—swift;

kālindīm—at the river Kālindī (Yamunā); agha—sins; nāśinīm—which destroys.

TRANSLATION

My dear King, the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa, traveling as swiftly as the wind in that chariot with Lord Balarāma and Akrūra, arrived at the river Kālindī, which destroys all sins.

PURPORT

Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī comments that Lord Kṛṣṇa secretly lamented His separation from the gopīs. These transcendental feelings of the Lord are part of His supreme pleasure potency.

TEXT 39

तत्रोपस्पृश्य पानीयं
पीत्वा मृष्टं मणिप्रभम्
वृक्षषण्डमुपव्रज्य सरामो रथमाविशत्

tatropaspr̥śya pānīyaṁ
pītvā mṛṣṭaṁ maṇi-prabham vṛkṣa-ṣaṇḍam upavrajya
sa-rāmo ratham āviśat

SYNONYMS

tatra—there; upaspr̥śya—touching the water; pānīyam—in His hand; pītvā—drinking; mṛṣṭam—sweet; maṇi—like jewels; prabham—effulgent;

vṛkṣa—of trees; ṣaṇḍam—a grove; upavrajya—moving up to; sa-rāmaḥ—with Balarāma; ratham—the chariot; āviśat—He mounted.

TRANSLATION

The river's sweet water was more effulgent than brilliant jewels. After Lord Kṛṣṇa had touched it for purification, He drank some from His hand. Then He had the chariot moved near a grove of trees and climbed back on, along with Balarāma.

TEXT 40

अक्रूरस्तावुपामन्त्र्य
निवेश्य च रथोपरि
कालिन्ध्या ह्रदमागत्य स्नानं विधिवदाचरत्

akrūras tāv upāmantrya
niveśya ca rathopari kālindyā hradam āgatya
snānaṁ vidhi-vad ācarat

SYNONYMS

akrūraḥ—Akrūra; tau—from the two of Them; upāmantrya—taking permission; niveśya—having Them sit down; ca—and; ratha-upari—on the chariot; kālindyaḥ—of the Yamunā; hradam—to a pond; āgatya—going; snānam—his bath; vidhi-vat—in accordance with scriptural injunction; ācarat—he performed.

TRANSLATION

Akrūra asked the two Lords to take Their seats on the chariot. Then, taking Their permission, he went to a pool in the Yamunā and took his bath as enjoined in the scriptures.

TEXT 41

निमज्ज्य तस्मिन् सलिले
जपन् ब्रह्म सनातनम्
तावेव ददृशेऽक्रूरो रामकृष्णौ समन्वितौ

*nimajjya tasmin salile japan brahma sanātanam tāv eva dadṛśe 'krūro
rāma-kṛṣṇau samanvitau*

SYNONYMS

nimajjya—immersing himself; tasmin—in that; salile—water; japan—reciting; brahma—Vedic mantras; sanātanam—eternal; tau—Them; eva—indeed; dadṛśe—saw; akrūraḥ—Akrūra; rāma-kṛṣṇau—Balarāma and Kṛṣṇa; samanvitau—together.

TRANSLATION

While immersing himself in the water and reciting eternal mantras from the Vedas, Akrūra suddenly saw Balarāma and Kṛṣṇa before him.

TEXTS 42-43

तौ रथस्थौ कथमिह
सुतावानकदुन्दुभेः
तर्हि स्वित्स्यन्दने न स्त
इत्युन्मज्ज्य व्यचष्ट सः

तत्रापि च यथापूर्वम्
आसीनौ पुनरेव सः
न्यमज्जदर्शनं यन्मे मृषा किं सलिले तयोः

*tau ratha-sthau katham iha
sutāv ānakadundubheḥ
tarhi svit syandane na sta
ity unmajjya vyacaṣṭa saḥ*

*tatrāpi ca yathā-pūrvam āsīnau punar eva saḥ nyamajjad darśanam yan me
mṛṣā kiṁ salile tayoh*

SYNONYMS

tau—They; ratha-sthau—present on the chariot; katham—how; iha—here; sutau—the two sons; ānakadundubheḥ—of Vasudeva; tarhi—then; svit—whether; syandane—on the chariot; na staḥ—They are not there; iti—thinking this; unmajjya—rising from the water; vyacaṣṭa—saw; saḥ—he; tatra api—in the same place; ca—and; yathā—as; pūrvam—previously; āsīnau—sitting; punaḥ—again; eva—indeed; saḥ—he; nyamajjat—entered the water; darśanam—the vision; yat—if; me—my; mṛṣā—false; kim—perhaps; salile—in the water; tayoḥ—of Them.

TRANSLATION

Akrūra thought, "How can the two sons of Ānakadundubhi, who are sitting in the chariot, be standing here in the water? They must have left the chariot." But when he came out of the river, there They were on the chariot, just as before. Asking himself "Was the vision I had of Them in the water an illusion?" Akrūra reentered the pool.

TEXTS 44-45

भूयस्तत्रापि सोऽद्राक्षीत्
स्तूयमानमहीश्वरम्
सिद्धचारणगन्धर्वैर्
असुरैर्नतकन्धरैः

सहस्रशिरसं देवं
सहस्रफणमौलिनम्
नीलाम्बरं विसध्वेतं शृङ्गैः श्वेतमिव स्थितम्

bhūyas tatrāpi so 'drākṣīt stūyamānam ahīśvaram siddha-cāraṇa-gandharvair asurair nata-kandharaiḥ sahasra-śirasam devam

sahasra-phaṇa-maulinam nīlāmbaram visa-śvetam śṛṅgaiḥ śvetam iva sthitam

SYNONYMS

bhūyaḥ—again; tatra api—in that same place; saḥ—he; adrākṣīt—saw; stūyamānam—being praised; ahi-iśvaram—the Lord of serpents (Ananta Śeṣa, the plenary expansion of Lord Balarāma who serves as the bed of Viṣṇu); siddha-cāraṇa-gandharvaiḥ—by Siddhas, Cāraṇas and Gandharvas; asuraiḥ—and by demons; nata—bowed; kandharaiḥ—whose necks; sahasra—thousands; śīrasam—having heads; devam—the Supreme Lord; sahasra—thousands; phaṇa—having hoods; maulinam—and helmets; nīla—blue; ambaram—whose clothing; visa—like the filaments of a lotus stem; śvetam—white; śṛṅgaiḥ—with its peaks; śvetam—Kailāsa Mountain; iva—as if; sthitam—situated.

TRANSLATION

There Akrūra now saw Ananta Śeṣa, the Lord of the serpents, receiving praise from Siddhas, Cāraṇas, Gandharvas and demons, who all had their heads bowed. The Personality of Godhead whom Akrūra saw had thousands of heads, thousands of hoods and thousands of helmets. His blue garment and His fair complexion, as white as the filaments of a lotus stem, made Him appear like white Kailāsa Mountain with its many peaks.

TEXTS 46-48

तस्योत्सङ्गे घनस्यामं
पीतकौशेयवाससम्
पुरुषं चतुर्भुजं शान्तम्

पद्मपत्रारुणेक्षणम्

चारुप्रसन्नवदनं
चारुहासनिरीक्षणम्
सुभ्रून्नसं चरुकर्णं
सुकपोलारुणाधरम्

प्रलम्बपीवरभुजं
तुङ्गांसोरःस्थलश्रियम्
कम्बुकण्ठं निम्ननाभिं वलिमत्पल्लवोदरम्

*tasyotsaṅge ghana-syāmaṁ
pīta-kauśeya-vāsasam
puruṣaṁ catur-bhujam śāntam padma-patrāruṇekṣaṇam*

*cāru-prasanna-vadanaṁ
cāru-hāsa-nirīkṣaṇam su-bhrūnnasaṁ caru-karṇam su-kapolāruṇādharam*

pralamba-pīvara-bhujam tuṅgāmsoraḥ-sthala-śriyam kambu-kaṇṭham nimna-nābhiṁ valimat-pallavodaram

SYNONYMS

tasya—of Him (Ananta Śeṣa); utsaṅge—on the lap; ghana—like a rain cloud;

śyāmam—dark blue; pīta—yellow; kauśeya—silk; vāsasam—whose garment; puruṣam—the Supreme Lord; catuḥ-bhujam—with four arms; śāntam—peaceful; padma—of a lotus; patra—like the leaves; aruṇa—reddish; īkṣaṇam—whose eyes; cāru—attractive; prasanna—cheerful; vadanam—whose face; cāru—attractive; hāsa—smiling; nirīkṣaṇam—whose glance; su—beautiful; bhrū—whose eyebrows; ut—raised; nasam—whose nose; cāru—attractive; karṇam—whose ears; su—beautiful; kapola—whose cheeks; aruṇa—reddish; adharam—whose lips; pralamba—extended; pīvara—stout; bhujam—whose arms; tuṅga—raised; aṁsa—by His shoulders; uraḥ-sthala—and chest; śriyam—beautified; kambu—like a conchshell; kaṇṭham—whose throat; nimna—low; nābhim—whose navel; vali—lines; mat—having; pallava—like a leaf; udaram—whose abdomen.

TRANSLATION

Akrūra then saw the Supreme Personality of Godhead lying peacefully on the lap of Lord Ananta Śeṣa. The complexion of that Supreme Person was like a dark-blue cloud. He wore yellow garments and had four arms and reddish lotus-petal eyes. His face looked attractive and cheerful with its smiling, endearing glance and lovely eyebrows, its raised nose and finely formed ears, and its beautiful cheeks and reddish lips. The Lord's broad shoulders and expansive chest were beautiful, and His arms long and stout. His neck resembled a conchshell, His navel was deep, and His abdomen bore lines like those on a banyan leaf

TEXTS 49-50

बृहत्कतिततश्रोणि
करभोरुद्वयान्वितम्
चारुजानुयुगं चारु

जङ्घायुगलसंयुतम्

तुङ्गगुल्फारुणनख
व्रातदीधितिभिर्वृतम्
नवाङ्गुल्यङ्गुष्ठदलैर् विलसत्पादपङ्कजम्

*bṛhat-kati-tata-śroṇi
karabhoru-dvayānvitam cāru-jānu-yugam cāru jaṅghā-yugala-saṁyutam*

tuṅga-gulphāruṇa-nakha vrāta-dīdhitibhir vṛtam navāṅguly-aṅguṣṭha-dalair vilasat-pāda-pañkajam

SYNONYMS

bṛhat—large; kaṭi-taṭa—whose loins; śroṇi—and hips; karabha—like an elephant's trunk; ūru—of thighs; dvaya—a pair; anvitam—having; cāru—attractive; jānu-yugam—whose two knees; cāru—attractive; jaṅghā—of shanks; yugala—a pair; saṁyutam—having; tuṅga—high; gulpha—whose ankles; aruṇa—reddish; nakha-vrāta—from whose toenails; dīdhitibhiḥ—with effulgent rays; vṛtam—surrounded; nava—soft; aṅguli-aṅguṣṭha—the two big toes and other toes; dalaiḥ—like flower petals; vilasat—glowing; pāda-pañkajam—whose lotus feet.

TRANSLATION

He had large loins and hips, thighs like an elephant's trunk, and shapely knees and shanks. His raised ankles reflected the brilliant effulgence emanating from the nails on His petallike toes, which beautified His lotus feet.

TEXTS 51-52

सुमहार्हमणिव्रात
किरीटकटकाङ्गदैः
कटिसूत्रब्रह्मसूत्र
हारनूपुरकुण्डलैः

भ्राजमानं पद्मकरं
शङ्खचक्रगदाधरम्
श्रीवत्सवक्षसं भ्राजत् कौस्तुभं वनमालिनम्

su-mahārha-maṇi-vrāta
kirīṭa-kaṭakāṅgadaiḥ kaṭi-sūtra-brahma-sūtra hāra-nūpura-kunḍalaiḥ

bhrājamānaṁ padma-karaṁ śaṅkha-cakra-gadā-dharam
śrīvatsa-vakṣasaṁ bhrājat
kaustubhaṁ vana-mālinam

SYNONYMS

su-mahā—greatly; arha—precious; maṇi-vrāta—having many gems;
kirīṭa—with helmets; kaṭaka—bracelets; aṅgadaiḥ—and armlets;
kaṭi-sūtra—with belt; brahma-sūtra—sacred thread; hāra—necklaces;

nūpura—ankle bells; kuṇḍalaiḥ—and earrings; bhrājamānam—effulgent; padma—carrying a lotus; karam—whose hand; śaṅkha—a conchshell; cakra—discus; gadā—and club; dharam—holding; śrīvatsa—carrying the mark known as Śrīvatsa; vakṣasam—whose chest; bhrājat—brilliant; kaustubham—with the Kaustubha gem; vana-mālinam—with a flower garland.

TRANSLATION

Adorned with a helmet, bracelets and armlets, which were all bedecked with many priceless jewels, and also with a belt, a sacred thread, necklaces, ankle bells and earrings, the Lord shone with dazzling effulgence. In one hand He held a lotus flower, in the others a conchshell, discus and club. Gracing His chest were the Śrīvatsa mark, the brilliant Kaustubha gem and a flower garland.

TEXTS 53-55

सुनन्दनन्दप्रमुखैः
पर्षदैः सनकादिभिः
सुरेशैर्ब्रह्मरुद्राद्यैर्
नवभिश्च द्विजोत्तमैः

प्रह्लादनारदवसु
प्रमुखैर्भागवतोत्तमैः
स्तूयमानं पृथग्भावैर्
वचोभिरमलात्मभिः

श्रिया पुष्ट्या गिरा कान्त्या
कीर्त्या तुष्ट्येलयोर्जया

विद्ययाविद्यया शक्त्या मायया च निषेवितम् sunanda-nanda-pramukhaiḥ parṣadaiḥ sanakādibhiḥ sureśair brahma-rudrādyair navabhiś ca dvijottamaiḥ

prahrāda-nārada-vasu pramukhair bhāgavatottamaiḥ stūyamānaṁ pṛthag-bhāvair vacobhir amalātmabhiḥ

*śrīyā puṣṭyā gīrā kāntyā kīrtyā tuṣṭyelayorjayā vidyayāvidyayā śaktyā
māyayā ca niṣevitam*

SYNONYMS

sunanda-nanda-pramukhaiḥ—headed by Sunanda and Nanda; parṣadaiḥ—by His personal attendants; sanaka-ādibhiḥ—by Sanaka Kumāra and his brothers; sura-īśaiḥ—by the chief demigods; brahma-rudra-ādyaiḥ—headed by Brahmā and Rudra; navabhiḥ—nine; ca—and; dvija-uttamaiḥ—by the chief brāhmaṇas (headed by Marīci); prahrāda-nārada-vasu-pramukhaiḥ—headed by Prahlāda, Nārada and Uparicara Vasu; bhāgavata-uttamaiḥ—by the most exalted devotees; stūyamānam—being praised; pṛthag-bhāvaiḥ—by each in a different loving attitude; vacobhiḥ—with words; amala-ātmabhiḥ—sanctified; śrīyā puṣṭyā gīrā kāntyā kīrtyā tuṣṭyā ilayā ūrjayā—by His internal potencies Śrī, Puṣṭi, Gīr, Kānti, Kīrti, Tuṣṭi, Ilā and Ūrjā; vidyayā avidyayā—by His potencies of knowledge and ignorance; śaktyā—by His internal pleasure potency; māyayā—by His material creative potency; ca—and; niṣevitam—being served.

TRANSLATION

Encircling the Lord and worshiping Him were Nanda, Sunanda and His other personal attendants; Sanaka and the other Kumāras; Brahmā, Rudra and other chief demigods; the nine chief brāhmaëas; and the best of the saintly devotees, headed by Prahlāda, Nārada and Uparicara Vasu. Each of these great personalities was worshiping the Lord by chanting sanctified words of praise in his own unique mood. Also in attendance were the Lord's principal internal potencies—Śrī, Puṣṭi, Gīr, Kānti, Kīrti, Tuṣṭi, Ilā and Ūrjā—as were His material potencies Vidyā, Avidyā and Māyā, and His internal pleasure potency, Śakti.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī explains the Lord's potencies mentioned in these verses: "Śrī is the potency of wealth; Puṣṭi that of strength; Gīr, knowledge; Kānti, beauty; Kīrti, fame; and Tuṣṭi, renunciation. These are the Lord's six opulences. Ilā is His bhū-śakti, also known as sandhinī, the internal potency of whom the element earth is an expansion. Ūrjā is His internal potency for performing pastimes; she expands as the tulasī plant in this world. Vidyā and Avidyā [knowledge and ignorance] are external potencies who cause the living entities' liberation and bondage, respectively. Śakti is His internal pleasure potency, hlādinī, and Māyā is an internal potency who is the basis of Vidyā and Avidyā. The word ca implies the presence of the Lord's marginal energy, the jīva-śakti, who is subordinate to Māyā. Lord Viṣṇu was being served by all these personified potencies."

TEXTS 56-57

विलोक्य सुभृशं प्रीतो

भक्त्या परमया युतः
हृष्यत्तनूरुहो भाव-परिक्लिन्नात्मलोचनः

गिरा गद्गदयास्तौषीत
सत्त्वमालम्ब्य सात्वतः
प्रणम्य मूर्ध्नावहितः कृताञ्जलिपुटः शनैः

vilokya su-bhṛśam prīto bhaktyā paramayā yutaḥ hṛṣyat-tanūruho bhāva-pariklinnātma-locanaḥ

*girā gadgadayāstauṣīt sattvam ālambya sātvaṭaḥ praṇamya mūrdhnāvahitaḥ
kṛtāñjali-putaḥ śanaiḥ*

SYNONYMS

vilokya—(Akrūra) seeing; su-bhṛśam—greatly; prītaḥ—pleased; bhaktyā—with devotion; paramayā—supreme; yutaḥ—enthused; hṛṣyat—standing on end; tanū-ruhaḥ—the hairs of his body; bhāva—out of loving ecstasy; pariklinna—wet; ātma—his body; locanaḥ—and eyes; girā—with words; gadgadayā—choking; astauṣīt—He offered homage; sattvam—soberness; ālambya—taking hold of; sātvaṭaḥ—the great devotee; praṇamya—bowing down; mūrdhnā—with his head; avahitaḥ—attentively; kṛta-añjali-putaḥ—joining his palms in supplication; śanaiḥ—slowly.

TRANSLATION

As the great devotee Akrūra beheld all this, he became extremely pleased and felt enthused with transcendental devotion. His intense ecstasy caused His bodily hairs to stand on end and tears to flow from his eyes, drenching his entire body. Somehow managing to steady himself, Akrūra bowed his head to the ground. Then he joined his palms in supplication and, in a voice choked with emotion, very slowly and attentively began to pray.

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Thirty-ninth Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "Akrūra's Vision."

40. The Prayers of Akrūra

This chapter relates Akrūra's prayers to the Supreme Personality of Godhead.

Akrūra prayed, "Brahmā, who created this visible world, emanated from the lotus navel of the Supreme Lord. The five elements of physical nature, the five corresponding objects of perception, the ten senses, the ego, the total nature, the primeval creator and the demigods all originate from His bodily limbs. He cannot be known by sensory knowledge, and thus even Brahmā and the other demigods are ignorant of His real identity.

"Different classes of people worship the Supreme Personality of Godhead in different ways. Fruitive workers worship Him by performing Vedic sacrifices, philosophers by renouncing material work and pursuing spiritual knowledge, yogīs by meditating, Śaivites by worshiping Lord Śiva, Vaiṣṇavas by following the injunctions of such scriptures as the Pañcarātra, and other saintly persons by worshiping Him as the original form of the self, of the material substance and of the controlling demigods. Just as rivers flow from various directions into the ocean, the worship of those who dedicate themselves to these various entities finds its ultimate purpose within the Supreme Lord Viṣṇu.

"The form of the total universe, the Virāṭ-rūpa, is imagined to be the form of Lord Viṣṇu. Like aquatics moving about in water or like tiny insects burrowing in an udumbara fruit, all living beings move about within the Lord. These living beings, bewildered by His Māyā, wander along the path of material work, falsely identifying with body, home and so forth. Under the sway of illusion, a foolish person may overlook a reservoir of water covered by grass and leaves and instead run after a mirage. Similarly, living beings caught in the grip of ignorance abandon Lord Viṣṇu and become attached to their bodies, homes and so on. Such faithful servants of their senses cannot take shelter of the Supreme Lord's lotus feet. Only if, by His mercy, they get the association of saintly devotees will their material entanglement end. Only then can they develop Kṛṣṇa consciousness by serving the Lord's pure devotees."

TEXT 1

श्रीअक्रूर उवाच
नतोऽस्म्यहं त्वाखिलहेतुहेतुं
नारायणं पूरुषमाद्यमव्ययम्
यन्नाभिजातादरविन्दकोषाद् ब्रह्माविरासीद्यत एष लोकः

śrī-akrūra uvāca

nato 'smy ahaṁ tvākhila-hetu-hetum nārāyaṇaṁ pūruṣaṁ ādyam avyayam yan-nābhi-jātād aravinda-koṣād brahmāvirāsīd yata eṣa lokaḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī-akrūraḥ uvāca—Śrī Akrūra said; nataḥ—bowed down; asmi—am; aham—I; tvā—to You; akhila—of all; hetu—causes; hetum—the cause; nārāyaṇaṁ—Lord Nārāyaṇa; pūruṣaṁ—the Supreme Person; ādyam—original; avyayam—inexhaustible; yat—from whose; nābhi—navel; jātāt—which was generated; aravinda—of a lotus plant; koṣāt—from the whorl; brahmā—Brahmā; avirāsīt—appeared; yataḥ—from whom; eṣaḥ—this; lokaḥ—world.

TRANSLATION

Śrī Akrūra said: I bow down to You, the cause of all causes, the original and inexhaustible Supreme Person, Nārāyaṇa. From the whorl of the lotus born from Your navel, Brahmā appeared, and by his agency this universe has come into being.

TEXT 2

भूस्तोयमग्निः पवनं खमादिर
महानजादिर्मन इन्द्रियाणि
सर्वेन्द्रियार्था विबुधाश्च सर्वे ये हेतवस्ते जगतोऽङ्गभूताः

bhūs toyam agniḥ pavanaṁ kham ādir

mahān ajādir mana indriyāṇi sarvendriyārthā vibudhāś ca sarve ye hetavas te jagato 'ṅga-bhūtāḥ

SYNONYMS

bhūḥ—earth; toyam—water; agniḥ—fire; pavanam—air; kham—ether; ādiḥ—and its source, false ego; mahān—the mahat-tattva; ajā—the total material nature; ādiḥ—her source, the Supreme Lord; manaḥ—the mind; indriyāṇi—the senses; sarva-indriya—of all the senses; arthāḥ—the objects; vibudhāḥ—the demigods; ca—and; sarve—all; ye—which; hetavaḥ—causes; te—Your; jagataḥ—of the universe; aṅga—from the body; bhūtāḥ—generated.

TRANSLATION

Earth; water; fire; air; ether and its source, false ego; the mahat-tattva, the total material nature and her source, the Supreme Lord's puruṣa expansion; the mind; the senses; the sense objects; and the senses' presiding deities—all these causes of the cosmic manifestation are born from Your transcendental body.

TEXT 3

नैते स्वरूपं विदुरात्मनस्ते
ह्यजादयोऽनात्मतया गृहीतः
अजोऽनुबद्धः स गुणैरजाया गुणात्परं वेद न ते स्वरूपम्

naite svarūpaṁ vidur ātmanas te hy ajādayo 'nātmatayā grhītaḥ ajo 'nubaddhaḥ sa guṇair ajāyā

guṇāt param veda na te svarūpam

SYNONYMS

na—do not; ete—these (elements of creation); svarūpam—the true identity; viduḥ—know; ātmanaḥ—of the Supreme Soul; te—You; hi—indeed; ajā-ādayaḥ—headed by the total material nature; anātmatayā—by the status of being nonliving matter; grhītāḥ—seized; ajaḥ—Lord Brahmā; anubaddhaḥ—bound up; saḥ—he; guṇaiḥ—by the modes; ajāyāḥ—of material nature; guṇāt—to these modes; param—transcendental; veda na—he does not know; te—Your; svarūpam—true form.

TRANSLATION

The total material nature and these other elements of creation certainly cannot know You as You are, for they are manifested in the realm of dull matter. Since You are beyond the modes of nature, even Lord Brahma, who is bound up in these modes, does not know Your true identity.

PURPORT

God is transcendental to material nature. Unless we also transcend the limited consciousness of material existence, we cannot know Him. Even the greatest living entity in the universe, Brahmā, cannot understand the Supreme unless he comes to the platform of pure Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 4

त्वां योगिनो यजन्त्यद्वा
महापुरुषमीश्वरम्
साध्यात्मं साधिभूतं च

साधिदैवं च साधवः

tvām yogino yajanty addhā mahā-puruṣam īśvaram sādhyātmam sādhibhūtam ca sādhidaivam ca sādhaveḥ

SYNONYMS

tvam—for You; yoginaḥ—yogīs; yajanti—perform sacrifice; addhā—certainly; mahā-puruṣam—for the Supreme Personality; īśvaram—the Godhead; sa-adhyātmam—(the witness of) the living entities; sa-adhibhutam—of the material elements; ca—and; sa-adhidaivam—of the controlling demigods; ca—and; sādhavaḥ—purified persons.

TRANSLATION

Pure yogīs worship You, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, by conceiving of You in the threefold form comprising the living entities, the material elements that constitute the living entities' bodies, and the controlling deities of those elements.

TEXT 5

त्रय्या च विद्यया केचित्
त्वां वै वैतानिका द्विजाः
यजन्ते विततैर्यज्ञैर् नानारूपामराख्यया

trayyā ca vidyayā kecit

*tvām vai vaitānikā dvijāḥ yajante vitatair yajñair
nānā-rūpāmarākhyayā*

SYNONYMS

trayyā—of the three Vedas; ca—and; vidyayā—by the mantras; kecit—some; tvām—You; vai—indeed; vaitānikāḥ—who respect the regulations of the three sacred fires; dvijāḥ—brāhmaṇas; yajante—worship; vitataiḥ—elaborate; yajñaiḥ—with ritual sacrifices; nānā—various; rūpa—having forms; amara—of demigods; ākhyayā—by the designations.

TRANSLATION

Brāhmaēas who follow the regulations concerning the three sacred fires worship You by chanting mantras from the three Vedas and performing elaborate fire sacrifices for the various demigods, who have many forms and names.

PURPORT

Akrūra has now described how those who follow the paths of Sāṅkhya, yoga and the three Vedas worship the Supreme Lord in different ways. In the various places where the Vedas appear to recommend that one worship Indra, Varuṇa and other demigods, these demigods are stated to be supreme. But at the same time the Vedas state that there is one supreme controller, the Absolute Truth. That is Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the Personality of Godhead, who expands His potency through material creation into the forms of the demigods. Thus worship of the demigods goes to Him through the indirect method of karma-kāṇḍa, or fruitive religious rituals. Ultimately, however, one who wants to achieve eternal perfection should worship the Lord directly, in full Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 6

एके त्वाखिलकर्माणि
सन्न्यस्योपशमं गताः
ज्ञानिनो ज्ञानयज्ञेन
यजन्ति ज्ञानविग्रहम्

*eke tvākhila-karmāṇi
sannyasyopaśamaṁ gatāḥ jñānino jñāna-yajñena
yajanti jñāna-vigraham*

SYNONYMS

eke—some; tvā—to You; akhila—all; karmāṇi—activities;
sannyasya—resigning; upaśamam—peace; gatāḥ—attaining;
jñāninaḥ—pursuers of knowledge; jñāna-yajñena—by the sacrifice of cultivating knowledge; yajanti—they worship; jñāna-vigraham—the embodiment of knowledge.

TRANSLATION

In pursuit of spiritual knowledge, some persons renounce all material activities and, having thus become peaceful, perform the sacrifice of philosophic investigation to worship You, the original form of all knowledge.

PURPORT

Modern philosophers pursue knowledge without bothering to worship the Supreme Personality of Godhead, and thus they naturally end up with meager, if not trivial, results.

TEXT 7

अन्ये च संस्कृतात्मानो
विधिनाभिहितेन ते
यजन्ति त्वन्मयास्त्वां वै बहुमूर्त्येकमूर्तिकम्

*anye ca saṁskṛtātmāno vidhinābhihitena te yajanti tvan-mayās tvām vai
bahu-mūrty-eka-mūrtikam*

SYNONYMS

anye—others; ca—and; saṁskṛta—purified; ātmānaḥ—whose intelligence; vidhinā—by the injunctions (of such scriptures as the Pañcarātra); abhihitena—presented; te—by You; yajanti—worship; tvat-mayāḥ—filled with thought of You; tvām—You; vai—indeed; bahu-mūrti—having many forms; eka-mūrtikam—having one form.

TRANSLATION

And yet others—those whose intelligence is pure—follow the injunctions of Vaiṣṇava scriptures promulgated by You. Absorbing their minds in thought of You, they worship You as the one Supreme Lord manifesting in multiple forms.

PURPORT

The word saṁskṛtātmānaḥ, "they whose intelligence is pure," is significant here. It implies that the worshipers mentioned before have not completely purified their intelligence of material contamination and thus worship the Lord indirectly. Those who are purified, however, directly worship the Lord, either as the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Lord Kṛṣṇa, or as one of His various plenary forms, such as Vāsudeva, Saṅkarṣaṇa, Pradyumna or Aniruddha, as indicated here.

TEXT 8

त्वामेवान्ये शिवोक्तेन
मार्गेण शिवरूपिणम्
बह्वाचार्यविभेदेन
भगवन्तर्नुपासते

*tvām evānye śivoktena
mārgena śiva-rūpiṇam bahv-ācārya-vibhedena bhagavantarn upāsate*

SYNONYMS

tvām—You; eva—also; anye—others; śiva—by Lord Śiva; uktena—spoken; mārgena—by the path; śiva-rūpiṇam—in the form of Lord Śiva; bahu-ācārya—of many teachers; vibhedena—following the different presentations; bhagavantam—the Supreme Lord; upāsate—they worship.

TRANSLATION

There are still others, who worship You, the Supreme Lord, in the form of Lord Śiva. They follow the path described by him and interpreted in various ways by many teachers.

PURPORT

The words tvām eva, "You also," indicate that the path of worshiping Lord Śiva is indirect and therefore inferior. Akrūra himself is following the superior method by directly worshiping Kṛṣṇa, or Viṣṇu, with his prayers.

TEXT 9

सर्व एव यजन्ति त्वां
सर्वदेवमयेश्वरम्
येऽप्यन्यदेवताभक्ता यद्यप्यन्यधियः प्रभो

sarva eva yajanti tvām
sarva-deva-mayeśvaram
ye 'py anya-devatā-bhaktā
yady apy anya-dhiyaḥ prabho

SYNONYMS

sarve—all; eva—indeed; yajanti—worship; tvam—You; sarva-deva—all the demigods; maya—O You who comprise; īśvaram—the Supreme Lord; ye—they; api—even; anya—of other; devatā—deities; bhaktāḥ—devotees; yadi api—although; anya—turned elsewhere; dhiyaḥ—their attention; prabho—O master.

TRANSLATION

But all these people, my Lord, even those who have turned their attention away from You and are worshiping other deities, are actually worshiping You alone, O embodiment of all the demigods.

PURPORT

The idea here is that even those who worship the demigods are indirectly worshiping the Supreme Lord Viṣṇu. The understanding of such worshipers, however, is imperfect.

TEXT 10

यथाद्रिप्रभवा नद्यः
पर्जन्यापूरिताः प्रभो
विशन्ति सर्वतः सिन्धुं तद्वत्त्वां गतयोऽन्ततः

yathādri-prabhavā nadyaḥ parjanyaāpūritāḥ prabho viśanti sarvataḥ sindhum tadvat tvām gatayo 'ntataḥ

SYNONYMS

yathā—as; adri—from the mountains; prabhavāḥ—born; nadyaḥ—rivers; parjanya—by the rain; āpūritāḥ—filled; prabho—O master; viśanti—enter; sarvataḥ—from all sides; sindhum—the ocean; tadvat—similarly; tvām—You; gatayaḥ—these paths; antataḥ—finally.

TRANSLATION

As rivers born from the mountains and filled by the rain flow from all sides into the sea, so do all these paths in the end reach You, O master.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa Himself speaks on this issue of worship in the Bhagavad-gītā (9.23-25):

*ye 'py anya-devatā-bhaktā
yajante śraddhayānvitāḥ te 'pi mām eva kaunteya yayanty avidhi-pūrvakam*

aham hi sarva-yajñānām bhoktā ca prabhur eva ca na tu mām abhijānanti tattvenātaś cyavanti te *yānti deva-vratā devān pitṛn yānti pitṛ-vratāḥ bhūtāni yānti bhūtejyā yānti mad-yājino 'pi mām

[Bg. 9.25]*

"Those who are devotees of other gods and who worship them with faith actually worship only Me, O son of Kuntī, but they do so in a wrong way. I am the only enjoyer and master of all sacrifices. Therefore, those who do not recognize My true transcendental nature fall down. Those who worship the demigods will take birth among the demigods; those who worship the ancestors go to the ancestors; those who worship ghosts and spirits will take birth among such beings; and those who worship Me will live with Me."

TEXT 11

सत्त्वं रजस्तम इति
भवतः प्रकृतेर्गुणाः
तेषु हि प्राकृताः प्रोता आब्रह्मस्थावरादयः

*sattvaṁ rajas tama iti
bhavataḥ prakṛter guṇāḥ teṣu hi prākṛtāḥ protā
ā-brahma-sthāvarādayaḥ*

SYNONYMS

sattvaṁ—goodness; rajaḥ—passion; tamaḥ—ignorance; iti—thus known; bhavataḥ—Your; prakṛteḥ—of the material nature; guṇāḥ—the qualities; teṣu—to them; hi—certainly; prākṛtāḥ—the conditioned living entities; protāḥ—woven; ā-brahma—up to Lord Brahmā; sthāvara-ādayaḥ—starting with the nonmoving creatures.

TRANSLATION

Goodness, passion and ignorance, the qualities of Your material nature, entangle all conditioned living beings, from Brahmā down to the nonmoving creatures.

TEXT 12

तुभ्यं नमस्ते त्वविषक्तदृष्टये
सर्वात्मने सर्वधियां च साक्षिणे
गुणप्रवाहोऽयमविद्यया कृतः

प्रवर्तते देवनृतिर्यगात्मसु

tubhyam namas te tv aviṣakta-dṛṣṭaye sarvātmāne sarva-dhiyām ca sākṣiṇe guṇa-pravāho 'yam avidyayā kṛtaḥ pravartate deva-nṛ-tiryag-ātmasu

SYNONYMS

tubhyam—to You; namaḥ—obeisances; te—Your; tu—and; aviṣakta—aloof; dṛṣṭaye—whose vision; sarva-ātmāne—to the Soul of all; sarva—of everyone; dhiyām—of the consciousness; ca—and; sākṣiṇe—to the witness; guṇa—of the material modes; pravāhaḥ—the flow; ayam—this; avidyayā—by the force of ignorance; kṛtaḥ—created; pravartate—goes on; deva—as demigods; nṛ—humans; tiryak—and animals; ātmasu—among those who assume the identities.

TRANSLATION

I offer My obeisances to You, who as the Supreme Soul of all beings witness everyone's consciousness with unbiased vision. The current of Your material modes, produced by the force of ignorance, flows strongly among the living beings who assume identities as demigods, humans and animals.

TEXTS 13-14

अग्निमुखं तेऽवनिरङ्घ्रिरीक्षणं
सूर्यो नभो नाभिरथो दिशः श्रुतिः
द्यौः कं सुरेन्द्रास्तव बाहवोऽर्णवाः

कुक्षिर्मरुत्प्राणबलं प्रकल्पितम्

रोमाणि वृक्षौषधयः शिरोरुहा
मेघाः परस्यास्थिनखानि तेऽद्रयः
निमेषणं रात्र्यहनी प्रजापतिर् मेदूस्तु वृष्टिस्तव वीर्यमिष्यते

agnir mukham te 'vanir anghrir ikṣaṇam sūryo nabho nābhir atho diśaḥ śrutiḥ dyauḥ kaṁ surendrās tava bāhavo 'rṇavāḥ kukṣir marut prāṇa-balaṁ prakalpitaṁ

romāṇi vṛkṣauśadhayaḥ śiroruhā meghāḥ parasyāsthi-nakhāni te 'drayaḥ nimeṣaṇam rātry-ahanī prajāpatir medhṛas tu vṛṣṭis tava vīryam iṣyate

SYNONYMS

agnih—fire; mukham—face; te—Your; avaniḥ—the earth; anghriḥ—feet; ikṣaṇam—eye; sūryaḥ—the sun; nabhaḥ—the sky; nābhiḥ—navel; atha u—and also; diśaḥ—the directions; śrutiḥ—sense of hearing; dyauḥ—heaven; kaṁ—head; sura-indrāḥ—the chief demigods; tava—Your; bāhavaḥ—arms; arṇavāḥ—the oceans; kukṣiḥ—abdomen; marut—the wind; prāṇa—vital air; balam—and physical strength; prakalpitaṁ—conceived; romāṇi—bodily hairs; vṛkṣa—the trees; ośadhayaḥ—the plants; śiraḥ-ruhāḥ—the hair on Your head; meghāḥ—the clouds; parasya—of the Supreme; asthi—bones; nakhāni—and nails; te—of You; adrayaḥ—the mountains; nimeṣaṇam—the blinking of Your eyes; rātri-ahanī—day and night; prajāpatiḥ—the progenitor of mankind; medhṛaḥ—genitals; tu—and; vṛṣṭiḥ—the rain; tava—Your; vīryam—semen; iṣyate—is considered.

TRANSLATION

Fire is said to be Your face, the earth Your feet, the sun Your eye, and the sky Your navel. The directions are Your sense of hearing, the chief demigods Your arms, and the oceans Your abdomen. Heaven is thought to be Your head, and the wind Your vital air and physical strength. The trees and plants are the hairs on Your body, the clouds the hair on Your head, and the mountains the bones and nails of You, the Supreme. The passage of day and night is the blinking of Your eyes, the progenitor of mankind Your genitals, and the rain Your semen.

TEXT 15

त्वय्यव्ययात्मन् पुरुषे प्रकल्पिता
लोकाः सपाला बहुजीवसङ्कुलाः
यथा जले सञ्जिहते जलौकसो ऽप्युदुम्बरे वा मशका मनोमये

*tvayy avyayātman puruṣe prakalpitā lokāḥ sa-pālā bahu-jīva-saṅkulāḥ yathā jale sañjihate jalaukaso
'py udumbare vā maśakā mano-maye*

SYNONYMS

tvayi—within You; avyaya-ātman—their inexhaustible one; puruṣe—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; prakalpitāḥ—created; lokāḥ—the worlds; sa-pālāḥ—together with their protecting demigods; bahu—with many;

jīva—living beings; saṅkulāḥ—crowded; yathā—just as; jale—in water; sañjihate—move about; jala-okasaḥ—aquatic animals; api—indeed; udumbare—in an udumbara fruit (a kind of fig); vā—or; maśakāḥ—small biting insects; manaḥ—the mind (and other senses); maye—(in You) who comprise.

TRANSLATION

All the worlds, with their presiding demigods and teeming populations, originate in You, the inexhaustible Supreme Personality of Godhead. These worlds travel within You, the basis of the mind and senses, just as aquatics swim in the sea or tiny insects burrow within an udumbara fruit.

TEXT 16

यानि यानीह रूपाणि
क्रीडनार्थं बिभर्षि हि
तैरामृष्टशुचो लोका मुदा गायन्ति ते यशः

yāni yāniha rūpāṇi
krīḍanāṛtham bibharṣi hi tair āmṛṣṭa-śuco lokā
mudā gāyanti te yaśaḥ

SYNONYMS

yāni yāni—which various; iha—in this material world; rūpāṇi—forms; krīḍana—of play; artham—for the sake; bibharṣi—You manifest; hi—indeed; taiḥ—by them; āmṛṣṭa—cleansed; śucaḥ—of their unhappiness;

lokāḥ—people; mudā—joyfully; gāyanti—sing; te—Your; yaśaḥ—glories.

TRANSLATION

To enjoy Your pastimes You manifest Yourself in various forms in this material world, and these incarnations cleanse away all the unhappiness of those who joyfully chant Your glories.

TEXTS 17-18

नमः कारणमत्स्याय
प्रलयाब्धिचराय च
हयशीर्ष्णे नमस्तुभ्यं
मधुकैटभमृत्यवे

अकूपाराय बृहते
नमो मन्दरधारिणे
क्षित्युद्धारविहाराय नमः शूकरमूर्तये

namaḥ kāraṇa-matsyāya
pralayābdhi-carāya ca hayaśīrṣṇe namaḥ tubhyaṁ madhu-kaiṭabha-mṛtyave

akūpārāya bṛhate
namo mandara-dhāriṇe kṣity-uddhāra-vihārāya
namaḥ śūkara-mūrtaye

SYNONYMS

namaḥ—obeisances; kāraṇa—who is the original cause of creation; matsyāya—to the Supreme Lord's appearance as a fish; pralaya—of annihilation; abdhi—in the ocean; carāya—who moved about; ca—and; haya-śīrṣṇe—to the incarnation who appeared with the head of a horse; namaḥ—obeisances; tubhyam—to You; madhu-kaiṭabha—of the demons Madhu and Kaiṭabha; mṛtyave—to the killer; akūpārāya—to the tortoise; bṛhate—huge; namaḥ—obeisances; mandara—of Mandara Mountain; dhāriṇe—to the holder; kṣiti—of the earth; uddhāra—the lifting up; viḥārāya—whose pleasure; namaḥ—obeisances; śūkara—of a boar; mūrtaye—to the form.

TRANSLATION

I offer my obeisances to You, the cause of the creation, Lord Matsya, who swam about in the ocean of dissolution, to Lord Hayagrīva, the killer of Madhu and Kaiṭabha, to the immense tortoise [Lord Kūrma], who supported Mandara Mountain, and to the boar incarnation [Lord Varāha], who enjoyed lifting the earth.

PURPORT

The Viśva-kośa dictionary states that the word akūpārāya indicates the king of tortoises.

TEXT 19

नमस्तेऽद्भुतसिंहाय
साधुलोकभयापह

वामनाय नमस्तुभ्यं क्रान्तत्रिभुवनाय च

*namas te 'dbhuta-simhāya sādhū-loka-bhayāpaha vāmanāya namas tubhyaṁ
krānta-tribhuvanāya ca*

SYNONYMS

namaḥ—obeisances; te—to You; adbhuta—amazing; simhāya—to the lion; sādhū-loka—of all saintly devotees; bhaya—of the fear; apaha—O remover; vāmanāya—to the dwarf; namaḥ—obeisances; tubhyaṁ—to You; krānta—who stepped over; tri-bhuvanāya—the three planetary systems of the universe; ca—and.

TRANSLATION

Obeisances to You, the amazing lion [Lord Nṛsimha], who remove Your saintly devotees' fear, and to the dwarf Vāmana, who stepped over the three worlds.

TEXT 20

नमो भृगुणां पतये
दृप्तक्षत्रवनच्छिदे
नमस्ते रघुर्याय रावणान्तकराय च

namo bhṛguṇāṁ pataye

dṛpta-kṣatra-vana-cchide namas te raghu-varyāya rāvaṇānta-karāya ca

SYNONYMS

namaḥ—obeisances; bhṛgūṇām—of the descendants of Bhṛgu; pataye—to the chief (Lord Paraśurāma); dṛpta—conceited; kṣatra—of the members of the royal order; vana—the forest; cchide—who cut down; namaḥ—obeisances; te—to You; raghu-varyāya—the best of the descendants of Raghu; rāvaṇa—of Rāvaṇa; anta-karāya—who put an end; ca—and.

TRANSLATION

Obeisances to You, Lord of the Bhṛgus, who cut down the forest of the conceited royal order, and to Lord Rāma, the best of the Raghu dynasty, who put an end to the demon Rāvaṇa.

TEXT 21

नमस्ते वासुदेवाय
नमः सङ्कर्षणाय च
प्रद्युम्नायनिरुद्धाय
सात्वतां पतये नमः

*namas te vāsudevāya
namaḥ saṅkarṣaṇāya ca pradyumnāyaniruddhāya
sātvatāṁ pataye namaḥ*

SYNONYMS

namaḥ—obeisances; te—unto You; vāsudevāya—Lord Śrī Vasudeva; namaḥ—obeisances; saṅkarṣaṇāya—to Lord Saṅkarṣaṇa; ca—and; pradyumnāya—to Lord Pradyumna; aniruddhāya—and to Lord Aniruddha; sātvatām—of the Yādavas; pataye—to the chief; namaḥ—obeisances.

TRANSLATION

Obeisances to You, Lord of the Sātvatas, and to Your forms of Vāsudeva, Saṅkarṣaṇa, Pradyumna and Aniruddha.

TEXT 22

नमो बुद्धाय शुद्धाय
दैत्यदानवमोहिने
म्लेच्छप्रायक्षत्रहन्त्रे नमस्ते कल्किरूपिणे

namo buddhāya śuddhāya
daitya-dānava-mohine mleccha-prāya-kṣatra-hantre namas te kalki-rūpiṇe

SYNONYMS

namaḥ—obeisances; buddhāya—to Lord Buddha; śuddhāya—the pure; daitya-dānava—of the demoniac descendants of Diti and Dānu; mohine—to the bewilderer; mleccha—of the outcaste meat-eaters; prāya—resembling; kṣatra—kings; hantre—to the killer; namaḥ—obeisances; te—to You;

kalki-rūpiṇe—in the form of Kalki.

TRANSLATION

Obeisances to Your form as the faultless Lord Buddha, who will bewilder the Daityas and Dānavas, and to Lord Kalki, the annihilator of the meat-eaters posing as kings.

TEXT 23

भगवन् जीवलोकोऽयं
मोहितस्तव मायया
अहं ममेत्यसद्ग्राहो भ्राम्यते कर्मवर्त्मसु

bhagavan jīva-loko 'yaṁ mohitas tava māyayā ahaṁ mamety asad-grāho bhrāmyate karma-vartmasu

SYNONYMS

bhagavan—O Supreme Lord; jīva—of living entities; lokaḥ—the world; ayaṁ—this; mohitaḥ—bewildered; tava—Your; māyayā—by the illusory energy; ahaṁ mama iti—based on the conceptions of "I" and "my"; asat—false; grāhaḥ—whose conception; bhrāmyate—is made to wander; karma—of fruitive work; vartmasu—along the paths.

TRANSLATION

O Supreme Lord, the living entities in this world are bewildered by Your illusory energy. Becoming involved in the false concepts of "I" and "my," they are forced to wander along the paths of fruitive work.

TEXT 24

अहं चात्मात्मजागार-दारार्थस्वजनादिषु
भ्रमामि स्वप्नकल्पेषु मूढः सत्यधिया विभो

*aham cātmātmajāgāradārārtha-svajanaḍiṣu bhramāmi svapna-kalpeṣu
mūḍhaḥ satya-dhiyā vibho*

SYNONYMS

aham—I; ca—also; ātma—concerning my body; ātma-ja—children; agāra—home; dāra—wife; artha—wealth; sva-jana—followers; ādiṣu—and so on; bhramāmi—am deluded; svapna—a dream; kalpeṣu—who are just like; mūḍhaḥ—foolish; satya—that they are real; dhiyā—with the idea; vibho—O almighty Lord.

TRANSLATION

I too am deluded in this way, O almighty Lord, foolishly thinking my body, children, home, wife, money and followers to be real, though they are actually as unreal as a dream.

TEXT 25

अनित्यानात्मदुःखेषु
विपर्ययमतिर्ह्यहम्
द्वन्द्वारामस्तमोविष्टो न जाने त्वात्मनः प्रियम्

anityānātma-duḥkheṣu viparyaya-matir hy aham dvandvārāmas tamo-viṣṭo na jāne tvātmanaḥ priyam

SYNONYMS

anitya—not eternal; anātma—not the real self; duḥkheṣu—in the sources of misery; viparyaya—backwards; matir—whose mentality; hi—indeed; aham—I; dvandva—in duality; ārāmaḥ—taking pleasure; tamaḥ—in ignorance; viṣṭaḥ—absorbed; na jāne—I fail to recognize; tvā—You; ātmanaḥ—of myself; priyam—the dearest.

TRANSLATION

Thus mistaking the temporary for the eternal, my body for my self, and sources of misery for sources of happiness, I have tried to take pleasure in material dualities. Covered in this way by ignorance, I could not recognize You as the real object of my love.

TEXT 26

यथाबुधो जलं हित्वा

प्रतिच्छन्नं तदुद्भवैः
अभ्येति मृगतृष्णां वै तद्वत्त्वाहं पराङ्मुखः

*yathābudho jalam hitvā praticchannam tad-udbhavaiḥ
abhyeti mṛga-tṛṣṇām vai tadvat tvāham parāṅ-mukhaḥ*

SYNONYMS

yathā—as; abudhaḥ—someone who is unintelligent; jalam—water; hitvā—overlooking; praticchannam—covered; tad-udbhavaiḥ—by the plants growing in it; abhyeti—approaches; mṛga-tṛṣṇām—a mirage; vai—indeed; tadvat—in that same way; tvā—You; aham—I; parāṅ-mukhaḥ—turned away.

TRANSLATION

Just as a fool overlooks a body of water covered by the vegetation growing in it and chases a mirage, so I have turned away from You.

TEXT 27

नोत्सहेऽहं कृपणधीः
कामकर्महतं मनः
रोद्धुं प्रमाथिभिश्चाक्षैर् ह्रियमाणमितस्ततः

notsahe 'ham kṛpaṇa-dhīḥ

kāma-karma-hataṁ manaḥ roddhum pramāthibhiḥ cākṣair hriyamāṇam itas tataḥ

SYNONYMS

na utsahe—am not able to find the strength; aham—I; kṛpaṇa—crippled; dhīḥ—whose intelligence; kāma—by material desires; karma—and material activities; hataṁ—disturbed; manaḥ—my mind; roddhum—to keep in check; pramāthibhiḥ—which are very powerful and willful; ca—and; akṣaiḥ—by the senses; hriyamāṇam—being dragged; itaḥ tataḥ—here and there.

TRANSLATION

My intelligence is so crippled that I cannot find the strength to curb my mind, which is disturbed by material desires and activities and constantly dragged here and there by my obstinate senses.

TEXT 28

सोऽहं तवाङ्घ्र्युपगतोऽस्म्यसतां दुरापं
तच्चाप्यहं भवदनुग्रह ईश मन्ये पुंसो भवेद्यर्हि संसरणापवर्गसु त्वय्यब्जनाभ सदुपासनया मतिः स्यात्

so 'haṁ tavāṅghry-upagato 'smy asatām durāpaṁ tac cāpy ahaṁ bhavad-anugraha īśa manye puṁso bhaved yarhi saṁsaraṇāpavargas tvayy abja-nābha sad-upāsanayā matiḥ syāt

SYNONYMS

saḥ—being such; aham—I; tava—Your; aṅghri—feet; upagataḥ asmi—am approaching; asatām—for those who are impure; durāpam—impossible to attain; tat—that; ca—and; api—also; aham—I; bhavat—Your; anugrahaḥ—mercy; īśa—O Lord; manye—think; pumsaḥ—of a person; bhavet—occurs; yarhi—when; samsaraṇa—of his rotation in the cycle of material existence; apavargaḥ—the cessation; tvayi—of You; abja—like a lotus; nābha—O You whose navel; sat—of pure devotees; upāsanayā—by worship; matiḥ—consciousness; syāt—develops.

TRANSLATION

Being thus fallen, I am approaching Your feet for shelter, O Lord, because although the impure can never attain Your feet, I think it is nevertheless possible by Your mercy. Only when one's material life has ceased, O lotus-naveled Lord, can one develop consciousness of You by serving Your pure devotees.

TEXT 29

नमो विज्ञानमात्राय
सर्वप्रत्ययहेतवे
पुरुषेशप्रधानाय
ब्रह्मणेऽनन्तशक्तये

namo vijñāna-mātrāya
sarva-pratyaya-hetave puruṣeśa-pradhānāya

brahmaṇe 'nanta-śaktaye

SYNONYMS

namaḥ—obeisances; vijñāna—of pure knowledge; mātrāya—to the embodiment; sarva—of all; pratyaya—forms of knowledge; hetave—to the source; puruṣa—of a person; īśa—the controlling forces; pradhānāya—to Him who predominates; brahmaṇe—to the Supreme Absolute Truth; ananta—unlimited; śaktaye—whose potencies.

TRANSLATION

Obeisances to the Supreme Absolute Truth, the possessor of unlimited energies. He is the embodiment of pure, transcendental knowledge, the source of all kinds of awareness, and the predominator of the forces of nature that rule over the living being.

TEXT 30

नमस्ते वासुदेवाय
सर्वभूतक्षयाय च
हृषीकेश नमस्तुभ्यं
प्रपन्नं पाहि मां प्रभो

*namas te vāsudevāya
sarva-bhūta-kṣayāya ca hṛṣīkeśa namas tubhyaṁ praṇannaṁ pāhi mām prabho*

SYNONYMS

namaḥ—obeisances; te—to You; vāsudevāya—the son of Vasudeva; sarva—of all; bhūta—living beings; kṣayāya—the residence; ca—and; hṛṣīka-īśa—O Lord of the mind and senses; namaḥ—obeisances; tubhyam—to You; prapannam—who am surrendered; pāhi—please protect; mām—me; prabho—O master.

TRANSLATION

O son of Vasudeva, obeisances to You, within whom all living beings reside. O Lord of the mind and senses, again I offer You my obeisances. O master, please protect me, who am surrendered unto You.

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Fortieth Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "The Prayers of Akrūra."

41. Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma Enter Mathurā

This chapter describes how Lord Kṛṣṇa entered the city of Mathurā, killed a washerman and bestowed benedictions upon a weaver and a garland-maker named Sudāmā.

After showing His Viṣṇu form to Akrūra in the waters of the Yamunā and receiving Akrūra's prayers, Lord Kṛṣṇa withdrew that vision just as an actor winds up his performance. Akrūra emerged from the water and in great amazement approached the Lord, who asked him whether he had seen something wonderful while bathing. Akrūra replied, "Whatever wonderful things there are in the realms of water, earth or sky, all have their existence within You. Thus when one has seen You, nothing remains unseen." Akrūra then began driving the chariot again.

Kṛṣṇa, Balarāma and Akrūra reached Mathurā late in the afternoon. After meeting up with Nanda Mahārāja and the other cowherds, who had gone on ahead, Kṛṣṇa asked Akrūra to return home, promising to visit him there after He had killed Kāmsa. Akrūra unhappily bid the Lord goodbye, went to King Kāmsa to inform him that Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma had come, and went home.

Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma took the cowherd boys with Them to see the splendid city. As they all entered Mathurā, the women of the city eagerly came out of their houses to see Kṛṣṇa. They had often heard about Him and had long since developed a deep attraction for Him. But now that they were actually seeing Him, they were overwhelmed with happiness, and all their distress due to His absence was eradicated.

Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma then came upon Kāmsa's wicked washerman. Kṛṣṇa asked him for some of the first-class garments he was carrying, but he refused and even chastised the two Lords. At this Kṛṣṇa became very angry and beheaded the man with His fingertips. The washerman's assistants, seeing his untimely end, dropped their bundles of clothes on the spot and ran off in all directions. Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma then took some of the garments They especially fancied.

Next a weaver approached the two Lords and arrayed Them suitably, for which service he received from Kṛṣṇa opulence in this life and liberation in the next. Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma then went to the house of the garland-maker Sudāmā. Sudāmā offered Them his full obeisances, worshiped Them by bathing Their feet and offering Them such items as arghya and sandalwood paste, and chanted prayers in Their honor. Then he adorned Them with garlands of fragrant flowers. Pleased, the Lords offered him whatever benedictions he wished, and then They moved on.

TEXT 1

श्रीशुक उवाच
स्तुवतस्तस्य भगवान्
दर्शयित्वा जले वपुः
भूयः समाहरत्कृष्णो नटो नाट्यमिवात्मनः

śrī-śuka uvāca
stuvatas tasya bhagavān darśayitvā jale vapuḥ bhūyaḥ samāharat kṛṣṇo
naṭo nāṭyam ivātmanaḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; stuvataḥ—while praying; tasya—he, Akrūra; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; darśayitvā—having shown; jale—in the water; vapuḥ—His personal form; bhūyaḥ—again; samāharat—withdrew; kṛṣṇaḥ—Śrī Kṛṣṇa; naṭaḥ—an actor; nāṭyam—the performance; iva—as; ātmanaḥ—his own.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: While Akrūra was still offering prayers, the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa withdrew His form that He had revealed in the water, just as an actor winds up his performance.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa withdrew from Akrūra's sight the Viṣṇu form along with the vision of the spiritual sky and its eternal inhabitants.

TEXT 2

सोऽपि चान्तर्हितं वीक्ष्य
जलादुन्मज्य सत्वरः
कृत्वा चावश्यकं सर्वं विस्मितो रथमागत

*so 'pi cāntarhitam vīkṣya jalād unmajya satvaraḥ kṛtvā cāvaśyakam sarvaṁ
vismito ratham āgamat*

SYNONYMS

saḥ—he, Akrūra; api—indeed; ca—and; antarhitam—disappeared; vīkṣya—seeing; jalāt—from the water; unmajya—emerging; satvaraḥ—quickly; kṛtvā—performing; ca—and; āvaśyakam—his prescribed duties; sarvam—all; vismitaḥ—surprised; ratham—to the chariot; āgamat—went.

TRANSLATION

When Akrūra saw the vision disappear, he came out of the water and quickly finished his various ritual duties. He then returned to the chariot, astonished.

TEXT 3

तमपृच्छद् धृषीकेशः
किं ते दृष्टमिवाद्भुतम्

भूमौ वियति तोये वा तथा त्वां लक्षयामहे

*tam apr̥cchad dhṛṣīkeśaḥ kim te dṛṣṭam ivādbhutam bhūmau viyati toye vā
tathā tvām lakṣayāmahe*

SYNONYMS

tam—of him; apṛcchat—asked; dhṛṣīkeśaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; kim—whether; te—by you; dṛṣṭam—seen; iva—indeed; adbhutam—something exceptional; bhūmau—on the earth; viyati—in the sky; toye—in the water; vā—or; tathā—so; tvām—you; lakṣayāmahe—We surmise.

TRANSLATION

Lord Kṛṣṇa asked Akrūra: Have you seen something wonderful on the earth, in the sky or in the water? From your appearance, We think you have.

TEXT 4

श्रीअक्रूर उवाच
अद्भुतानीह यावन्ति
भूमौ वियति वा जले
त्वयि विश्वात्मके तानि
किं मेऽदृष्टं विपश्यतः

śrī-akrūra uvāca

*adbhutānīha yāvanti
bhūmau viyati vā jale
tvayi viśvātmake tāni
kim me 'dṛṣṭam vipaśyataḥ*

SYNONYMS

śrī-akrūraḥ uvāca—Śrī Akūra said; adbhutāni—wonderful things; iha—in this world; yāvanti—whatever; bhūmau—on the earth; vīyati—in the sky; vā—or; jale—in the water; tvayi—in You; viśva-ātmake—who comprise everything; tāni—they; kim—what; me—by me; adrṣṭam—not seen; vipaśyataḥ—seeing (You).

TRANSLATION

Śrī Akūra said: Whatever wonderful things the earth, sky or water contain, all exist in You. Since You encompass everything, when I am seeing You, what have I not seen?

TEXT 5

यत्राद्भुतानि सर्वाणि
भूमौ वियति वा जले
तं त्वानुपश्यतो ब्रह्मन् किं मे दृष्टमिहाद्भुतम्

*yatrādbhutāni sarvāṇi
bhūmau viyati vā jale
taṁ tvānupaśyato brahman kim me dṛṣṭam ihādbhutam*

SYNONYMS

yatra—in whom; adbhutāni—amazing things; sarvāṇi—all; bhūmau—on the earth; viyati—in the sky; vā—or; jale—in the water; tam—that person; tvā—You; anupaśyataḥ—seeing; brahman—O Supreme Absolute Truth; kim—what; me—by me; dṛṣṭam—seen; iha—in this world; adbhutam—amazing.

TRANSLATION

And now that I am seeing You, O Supreme Absolute Truth, in whom reside all amazing things on the earth, in the sky and in the water, what amazing things could I see in this world?

PURPORT

Akrūra has now realized that Lord Kṛṣṇa is not merely his nephew.

TEXT 6

इत्युक्त्वा चोदयामास
स्यन्दनं गान्दिनीसुतः
मथुरामनयद्रामं कृष्णं चैव दिनात्यये

*ity uktvā codayām āsa
syandanaṁ gāndinī-sutaḥ mathurām anayad rāmaṁ kṛṣṇaṁ caiva dinātyaye*

SYNONYMS

iti—thus; uktvā—saying; codayām āsa—drove forward; syandanam—the chariot; gāndinī-sutaḥ—the son of Gāndinī, Akrūra; mathurām—to Mathurā; anayat—he brought; rāmam—Lord Balarāma; kṛṣṇam—Lord Kṛṣṇa; ca—and; eva—also; dina—of the day; atyaye—at the end.

TRANSLATION

With these words, Akrūra, the son of Gāndinī, began driving the chariot onward. At the end of the day he arrived in Mathurā with Lord Balarāma and Lord Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 7

मार्गे ग्रामजना राजंसु
तत्र तत्रोपसङ्गताः
वसुदेवसुतौ वीक्ष्य प्रीता दृष्टिं न चाददुः

mārge grāma-janā rājaṁs tatra tatropasaṅgatāḥ vasudeva-sutau vīkṣya
prītā drṣṭim na cādaduḥ

SYNONYMS

mārge—on the road; grāma—of the villages; janāḥ—the people; rājan—O King (Parīkṣit); tatra tatra—here and there; upasaṅgatāḥ—approaching; vasudeva-sutau—at the two sons of Vasudeva; vīkṣya—looking;

prītāḥ—pleased; dṛṣṭim—their vision; na—not; ca—and; ādaduḥ—could take back.

TRANSLATION

Wherever they passed along the road, O King, the village people came forward and looked upon the two sons of Vasudeva with great pleasure. In fact, the villagers could not withdraw their eyes from Them.

TEXT 8

तावद् ब्रजौकसस्तत्र
नन्दगोपादयोऽग्रतः
पुरोपवनमासाद्य प्रतीक्षन्तोऽवतस्थिरे

tāvad vrajaukasas tatra
nanda-gopādayo 'grataḥ puroṣavanam āsādya
pratīkṣanto 'vatasthire

SYNONYMS

tāvat—by then; vraja-okasaḥ—the inhabitants of Vraja; tatra—there; nanda-gopa-ādayaḥ—headed by Nanda, the king of the cowherds; agrataḥ—before; pura—of the city; upavanam—a garden; āsādya—coming upon; pratīkṣantaḥ—waiting; avatasthire—they stayed there.

TRANSLATION

Nanda Mahārāja and the other residents of Vṛndāvana, having reached Mathurā ahead of the chariot, had stopped at a garden on the outskirts of the city to wait for Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma.

PURPORT

Nanda and the others reached Mathurā first because the chariot carrying Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma was delayed by Akrūra's bathing.

TEXT 9

तान् समेत्याह भगवान्
अक्रूरं जगदीश्वरः
गृहीत्वा पाणिना पाणिं
प्रश्रितं प्रहसन्निव

*tān sametyāha bhagavān akrūram jagad-īśvaraḥ gṛhītvā pāṇinā pāṇim
praśritam prahasann iva*

SYNONYMS

tān—with them; sametya—meeting; āha—said; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; akrūram—to Akrūra; jagat-īśvaraḥ—the Lord of the universe; gṛhītvā—taking; pāṇinā—with His hand; pāṇim—his hand; praśritam—who was humble; prahasan—smiling; iva—indeed.

TRANSLATION

After joining Nanda and the others, the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa, the controller of the universe, took humble Akrūra's hand in His own and, smiling, spoke as follows.

TEXT 10

भवान् प्रविशतामग्रे
सहयानः पुरीं गृहम्
वयं त्विहावमुच्याथ ततो द्रक्ष्यामहे पुरीम्

*bhavān praviśatām agre saha-yānaḥ purīm gṛham vayaṁ tv ihāvamucyātha
tato drakṣyāmahe purīm*

SYNONYMS

bhavān—you; praviśatām—should enter; agre—ahead; saha—together with; yānaḥ—the vehicle; purīm—the city; gṛham—and your home; vayaṁ—we; tu—on the other hand; iha—here; avamucya—getting down; atha—then; tataḥ—afterwards; drakṣyāmahe—will see; purīm—the city.

TRANSLATION

[Lord Kṛṣṇa said:] Take the chariot and enter the city ahead of us. Then go home. After resting here a while, we will go to see the city.

TEXT 11

श्रीअक्रूर उवाच

नाहं भवद्भ्यां रहितः
प्रवेक्ष्ये मथुरां प्रभो
त्यक्तुं नार्हसि मां नाथ भक्तं ते भक्तवत्सल

śrī-akrūra uvāca
nāhaṁ bhavadbhyāṁ rahitaḥ pravekṣye mathurāṁ prabho tyaktum nārhasi mām nātha bhaktam te bhakta-vatsala

SYNONYMS

śrī-akrūraḥ uvāca—Śrī Akūra said; na—cannot; aham—I; bhavadbhyām—of the two of You; rahitaḥ—deprived; pravekṣye—enter; mathurām—Mathurā; prabho—O master; tyaktum—abandon; na arhasi—You should not; mām—me; nātha—O Lord; bhaktam—devotee; te—Your; bhakta-vatsala—O You who have parental affection for Your devotees.

TRANSLATION

Śrī Akūra said: O master, without the two of You I shall not enter Mathurā. I am Your devotee, O Lord, so it is not fair for You to abandon me, since You are always affectionate to Your devotees.

TEXT 12

आगच्छ याम गेहान्नः
सनाथान् कुर्वधोक्षज

सहाग्रजः सगोपालैः सुहृद्भिश्च सुहृत्तम

*āgaccha yāma gehān naḥ sa-nāthān kurv adhokṣaja sahāgrajaḥ sa-gopālaiḥ
suhṛdbhiś ca suhṛttama*

SYNONYMS

āgaccha—please come; yāma—let us go; gehān—to the house; naḥ—our; sa—having; nāthān—a master; kuru—please make it; adhokṣaja—O transcendental Lord; saha—with; agra-jaḥ—Your elder brother; sa-gopālaiḥ—with the cowherd men; suhṛdbhiḥ—with Your friends; ca—and; suhṛt-tama—O supreme well-wisher.

TRANSLATION

Come, let us go to my house with Your elder brother, the cowherd men and Your companions. O best of friends, O transcendental Lord, in this way please grace my house with its master.

TEXT 13

पुनीहि पादरजसा
गृहान्नो गृहमेधिनाम्
यच्छौचेनानुतृप्यन्ति पितरः साग्नयः सुराः

punīhi pāda-rajasā

*gṛhān no gṛha-medhinām yac-chaucenānutṛpyanti
pitarahḥ sāgnayahḥ surāḥ*

SYNONYMS

punīhi—please purify; pāda—of Your feet; rajasā—with the dust; gṛhān—the home; naḥ—of us; gṛha-medhinām—who are attached to household ritual duties; yat—by which; śaucena—purification; anutṛpyanti—will become satisfied; pitarahḥ—my forefathers; sa—together with; agnayahḥ—the sacrificial fires; surāḥ—and the demigods.

TRANSLATION

I am simply an ordinary householder attached to ritual sacrifices, so please purify my home with the dust of Your lotus feet. By that act of purification, my forefathers, the sacrificial fires and the demigods will all become satisfied.

TEXT 14

अवनिज्याङ्घ्रियुगलम्
आसीत्क्षोक्यो बलिर्महान्
ऐश्वर्यमतुलं लेभे गतिं चैकान्तिनां तु या

*avanijyāṅghri-yugalam
āsīt ślokyo balir mahān aiśvaryaṁ atulaṁ lebhe
gatiṁ caikāntinām tu yā*

SYNONYMS

avanijya—bathing; aṅghri-yugalam—the two feet; āsīt—became; ślokyah—glorious; baliḥ—King Bali; mahān—the great; aiśvarya—power; atulam—unequaled; lebhe—he achieved; gatīm—the destination; ca—and; ekāntinām—of the unalloyed devotees of the Lord; tu—indeed; yā—which.

TRANSLATION

By bathing Your feet, the exalted Bali Mahārāja attained not only glorious fame and unequalled power but also the final destination of pure devotees.

TEXT 15

आपस्तेऽङ्घ्र्यवनेजन्यस
त्रीँल्लोकान् शुचयोऽपुनन्
शिरसाधत्त याः शर्वः स्वर्याताः सगरात्मजाः

āpas te 'ṅghry-avanejanya trīṅ lokān śucayo 'punan śirasādhatta yāḥ śarvaḥ
svar yātāḥ sagarātmajāḥ

SYNONYMS

āpaḥ—the water (namely, the river Ganges); te—Your; aṅghri—of the feet; avanejanyaḥ—coming from the bathing; trīn—the three; lokān—worlds; śucayaḥ—being purely spiritual; apunan—has purified; śirasā—on his head; ādhatta—has taken; yāḥ—which; śarvaḥ—Lord Siva; svaḥ—to heaven;

yātāḥ—went; sagara-ātmajāḥ—the sons of King Sagara.

TRANSLATION

The water of the river Ganges has purified the three worlds, having become transcendental by bathing Your feet. Lord Śiva accepted that water on his head, and by that water's grace the sons of King Sagara attained to heaven.

TEXT 16

देवदेव जगन्नाथ
पुण्यश्रवणकीर्तन
यदूत्तमोत्तमःश्लोक नारायण नमोऽस्तु ते

deva-deva jagan-nātha
puṇya-śravaṇa-kīrtana yadūttamottamaḥ-śloka nārāyaṇa namo 'stu te

SYNONYMS

deva-deva—O Lord of lords; jagat-nātha—O master of the universe; puṇya—pious; śravaṇa—hearing; kīrtana—and chanting (about whom); yadu-uttama—O best of the Yadus; uttamaḥ-śloka—O You who are glorified in excellent verses; nārāyaṇa—O Supreme Lord Nārāyaṇa; namaḥ—obeisances; astu—let there be; te—unto You.

TRANSLATION

O Lord of lords, master of the universe, O You whose glories it is most pious to hear and chant! O best of the Yadus, O You whose fame is recounted in excellent poetry ! O Supreme Lord Nārāyaṇa, I offer You my obeisances.

TEXT 17

श्रीभगवनुवाच
आयास्ये भवतो गेहम्
अहमर्यसमन्वितः
यदुचक्रद्रुहं हत्वा वितरिष्ये सुहृत्प्रियम्

*śrī-bhagavan uvāca
āyāsyē bhavato geham
aham arya-samanvitaḥ
yadu-cakra-druhaṁ hatvā vitariṣyē suhṛt-priyam*

SYNONYMS

śrī-bhagavān uvāca—the Supreme Lord said; āyāsyē—will come; bhavataḥ—to your; geham—house; aham—I; ārya—by My elder (brother, Balarāma); samanvitaḥ—accompanied; yadu-cakra—of the circle of Yadus; druham—the enemy (Kāṁsa); hatvā—killing; vitariṣyē—I will grant; suhṛt—to My well-wishers; priyam—satisfaction.

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Lord said: I will come to Your house with My elder brother, but first I must satisfy My friends and well-wishers by killing the enemy of the Yadu clan.

PURPORT

Akrūra glorified Kṛṣṇa in Text 16 as yadūttama, "the best of the Yadus." Śrī Kṛṣṇa here confirms this by saying, in effect, "Since I am the best of the Yadus, I must kill the enemy of the Yadus, Kāṁsa, and then I will come to your house."

TEXT 18

श्रीशुक उवाच
एवमुक्तो भगवता
सोऽक्रूरो विमना इव
पुरीं प्रविष्टः कंसाय कर्मावेद्य गृहं ययौ

śrī-śuka uvāca
evam ukto bhagavatā
so 'krūro vimanā iva
purīm praviṣṭaḥ kāṁsāya karmāvedya gṛhaṁ yayau

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; evam—thus; uktaḥ—addressed; bhagavatā—by the Lord; saḥ—he; akrūraḥ—Akrūra; vimanāḥ—disheartened; iva—somewhat; purīm—the city; praviṣṭaḥ—entering; kāṁsāya—to Kāṁsa; karma—about his activities; āvedya—informing; gṛham—to his home; yayau—went.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Thus addressed by the Lord, Akrūra entered the city with a heavy heart. He informed King Kāmsa of the success of his mission and then went home.

TEXT 19

अथापराह्णे भगवान्
कृष्णः सङ्कर्षणान्वितः
मथुरां प्राविशद्गोपैर् दिदृक्षुः परिवारितः

*athāparāhṇe bhagavān
kṛṣṇaḥ saṅkarṣaṇānvitaḥ mathurām prāviśad gopair didṛkṣuḥ parivāritaḥ*

SYNONYMS

atha—then; apara-ahne—in the afternoon; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; kṛṣṇaḥ—Kṛṣṇa; saṅkarṣaṇa-anvitaḥ—together with Lord Balarāma; mathurām—Mathurā; prāviśat—entered; gopaiḥ—by the cowherd boys; didṛkṣuḥ—wanting to see; parivāritaḥ—joined.

TRANSLATION

Lord Kṛṣṇa desired to see Mathurā, so toward evening He took Lord Balarāma and the cowherd boys with Him and entered the city.

TEXTS 20-23

ददर्श तां स्फाटिकतुण्णगोपुर-द्वारां बृहद्धेमकपाटतोरणाम् ताम्रारकोष्ठां परिखादुरासदाम्
उद्यानरम्योपवनोपशोभिताम्

सौवर्णशृङ्गाटकहर्म्यनिष्कुटैः
श्रेणीसभाभिर्भवनैरुपस्कृताम्
वैदूर्यवज्रामलनीलविद्रुमैर्
उक्ताहरिद्भिर्वलभीषु वेदिषु

जुष्टेषु जालामुखरन्ध्रकुट्टिमेष्व् आविष्टपारावतबर्हिनादिताम्
संसिक्तरथ्यापणमार्गचत्तरां
प्रकीर्णमाल्याङ्कुरलाजतण्डुलाम्

आपूर्णकुम्भैर्दधिचन्दनोक्षितैः
प्रसूनदीपावलिभिः सपल्लवैः
सवृन्दरम्भाक्रमुकैः सकेतुभिः स्वलङ्कृतद्वारगृहां सपट्टिकैः

dadarśa tāṁ sphāṭika-tuṇḡga-gopura-dvārāṁ bṛhad-dhema-kapāṭa-toraṇām tāmrāra-koṣṭhām parikhā-durāsadām udyāna-ramyopavanopāśobhitām

sauvarṇa-śṛṅgāṭaka-harmya-niṣkuṭaiḥ śreṇī-sabhābhir bhavanair upaskṛtām vaidūrya-vajrāmala-nīla-vidrumair muktā-haridbhir valabhīṣu vediṣu juṣṭeṣu jālāmukha-randhra-kuṭṭimeṣu āviṣṭa-pārāvata-barhi-nāditām saṁsikta-rathyāpaṇa-mārga-catvarām prakīrṇa-mālyāṅkura-lāja-taṇḍulām āpūrṇa-kumbhair dadhi-candanokṣitaiḥ prasūna-dīpāvalibhiḥ sa-pallavaiḥ sa-vṛnda-rambhā-kramukaiḥ sa-ketubhiḥ sv-alaṅkṛta-dvāra-grhām sa-paṭṭikaiḥ

SYNONYMS

dadarśa—He saw; tam—that (city); sphāṭika—of crystal; tūṅga—high; gopura—whose main gates; dvārām—and household gates; bṛhat—immense; hema—gold; kapāṭa—whose doors; toraṇām—and ornamental arches; tāmra—of copper; āra—and brass; koṣṭhām—whose storehouses; parikhā—with its canals; durāsadām—inviolable; udyāna—with public gardens; ramya—attractive; upavana—and parks; upaśobhitam—beautified; sauvarṇa—gold; śṛṅgāṭaka—with crossways; harmya—mansions; niṣkuṭaiḥ—and pleasure gardens; śreṇī—of guilds; sabhābhiḥ—with the assembly halls; bhavanaiḥ—and with houses; upaskṛtām—ornamented; vaidūrya—with vaidūrya gems; vajra—diamonds; amala—crystal quartz; nīla—sapphires; vidrumaiḥ—and coral; muktā—with pearls; haridbhiḥ—and emeralds; valabhīṣu—on the wood panels decorating the rafters in front of the houses; vediṣu—on columned balconies; juṣṭeṣu—bedecked; jāla-āmukha—of lattice windows; randhra—in the openings; kuṭṭimeṣu—and on gem-studded floors; āviṣṭa—sitting; pārāvata—with the pet doves; barhi—and the peacocks; nāditām—resounding; saṁsikta—sprinkled with water; rathyā—with royal avenues; āpaṇa—commercial streets; mārga—other roads; catvarām—and courtyards; prakīrṇa—scattered; mālya—with flower garlands; aṅkura—new sprouts; lāja—parched grains; taṇḍulām—and rice; āpūrṇa—full; kumbhaiḥ—with pots; dadhi—with yogurt; candana—and sandalwood paste; ukṣitaiḥ—smeared; prasūna—with flower petals; dīpa-āvalibhiḥ—and rows of lamps; sa-pallavaiḥ—with leaves; sa-vṛnda—with bunches of flowers; rambhā—with trunks of banana trees; kramukaiḥ—and trunks of betel-nut trees; sa-ketubhiḥ—with flags; su-alan̐kṛta—nicely decorated; dvāra—with doors; gṛhām—whose houses; sa-paṭṭikaiḥ—with ribbons.

TRANSLATION

The Lord saw Mathurā, with its tall gates and household entrances made of crystal, its immense archways and main doors of gold, its granaries and other storehouses of copper and brass, and its impregnable moats. Beautifying the city were pleasant gardens and parks. The main intersections were fashioned of gold, and there were mansions with private pleasure gardens, along with guildhalls and many other buildings. Mathurā resounded with the calls of peacocks and pet turtledoves, who sat in the small openings of the lattice windows and on the gem-studded floors, and also on the columned balconies and on the ornate rafters in front of the houses. These balconies and rafters were adorned with vaidūrya stones, diamonds, crystal quartz, sapphires, coral, pearls and emeralds. All the royal avenues and commercial streets were sprinkled with water, as were the side roads and courtyards, and flower garlands, newly grown sprouts, parched grains and rice had been scattered about everywhere. Gracing the houses' doorways were elaborately decorated pots filled with water, which were bedecked with mango leaves, smeared with yogurt and sandalwood paste, and encircled by flower petals and ribbons. Near the pots were flags, rows of lamps, bunches of flowers and the trunks of banana and betel-nut trees.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura gives this description of the elaborately decorated pots: "On either side of each doorway, above the scattered rice, is a pot. Encircling each pot are flower petals, on its neck are ribbons and in its mouth are leaves of mango and other trees. Above each pot, on a gold plate, are rows of lamps. A trunk of a banana tree stands on either side of each pot, and a betel-nut tree trunk stands in front and also behind. Flags lean against the pots."

TEXT 24

तां सम्प्रविष्टौ वसुदेवनन्दनौ
वृतौ वयस्यैर्नरदेववर्त्मना
द्रष्टुं समीयुस्त्वरिताः पुरस्त्रियो हर्म्याणि चैवारुरुहुर्नृपोत्सुकाः

tām sampraviṣṭau vasudeva-nandanau vṛtau vayasyair naradeva-vartmanā draṣṭum samīyus tvaritāḥ pura-striyo harmyāṇi caivāruruhur nṛpotsukāḥ

SYNONYMS

tām—that (Mathurā); sampraviṣṭau—entering; vasudeva—of Vasudeva; nandanau—the two sons; vṛtau—surrounded; vayasyaiḥ—by Their young friends; nara-deva—of the King; vartmanā—by the road; draṣṭum—to see; samīyuh—came forward together; tvaritāḥ—hurriedly; pura—of the city; striyaḥ—the women; harmyāṇi—their houses; ca—and; eva—also; āruruhuh—they climbed on top of; nṛpa—O King (Parīkṣit); utsukāḥ—eager.

TRANSLATION

The women of Mathurā hurriedly assembled and went forth to see the two sons of Vasudeva as They entered the city on the King's road, surrounded by Their cowherd boyfriends. Some of the women, my dear King, eagerly climbed to the roofs of their houses to see Them.

TEXT 25

काश्चिद्विपर्यगधृतवस्त्रभूषणा
विस्मृत्य चैकं युगलेष्वथापराः
कृतैकपत्रश्रवनैकनूपुरा नाङ्क्त्वा द्वितीयं त्वपराश्च लोचनम्

kāścid viparyag-dhṛta-vastra-bhūṣaṇā vismṛtya caikam yugaleṣv athāparāḥ kṛtaika-patra-śravaṇaika-nūpurā nāṅktvā dvitīyaṁ tv aparāś ca locanam

SYNONYMS

kaścit—some of them; viparyak—backwards; dhṛta—putting on; vastra—their clothes; bhūṣaṇaḥ—and ornaments; vismṛtya—forgetting; ca—and; ekam—one; yugaleṣu—of the pairs; atha—and; aparāḥ—others; kṛta—placing; eka—only one; patra—earring; śravaṇa—on their ears; eka—or one; nūpurāḥ—set of ankle bells; na aṅktvā—not anointing; dvitīyam—the second; tu—but; aparāḥ—other ladies; ca—and; locanam—an eye.

TRANSLATION

Some of the ladies put their clothes and ornaments on backwards, others forgot one of their earrings or ankle bells, and others applied makeup to one eye but not the other.

PURPORT

The ladies were very eager to see Kṛṣṇa, and in their haste and excitement they forgot themselves.

TEXT 26

अश्रन्त्य एकास्तदपास्य सोत्सवा
अभ्यज्यमाना अकृतोपमज्जनाः
स्वपन्त्य उत्थाय निशम्य निःस्वनं प्रपाययन्त्योऽर्भमपोह्य मातरः

aśnāntya ekās tad apāsyā sotsavā abhyajyamānā akṛtopamajjanāḥ svapāntya utthāya niśamya niḥsvanam prapāyayantyo 'rbham apohya mātaraḥ

SYNONYMS

aśnāntyaḥ—taking meals; ekaḥ—some; tat—that; apāsyā—abandoning; sa-utsavaḥ—joyfully; abhyajyamānāḥ—being massaged; akṛta—not finishing; upamajjanāḥ—their bathing; svapāntyaḥ—sleeping; utthāya—getting up; niśamya—having heard; niḥsvanam—the loud sounds; prapāyayantyaḥ—giving milk; arbham—to an infant; apohya—put aside; mātaraḥ—mothers.

TRANSLATION

Those who were taking their meals abandoned them, others went out without finishing their baths or massages, women who were sleeping at once rose when they heard the commotion, and mothers breast-feeding their infants simply put them aside.

TEXT 27

मनांसि तासामरविन्दलोचनः
प्रगल्भलीलाहसितावलोकैः जहार मत्तद्विरदेन्द्रविक्रमो दृशां ददच्छ्रीरमणात्मनोत्सवम्

manāṁsi tāsām aravinda-locanaḥ pragalbha-līlā-hasitāvalokaiḥ jahāra matta-dviradendra-vikramo dṛśāṁ dadac chrī-ramaṇātmanotsavam

SYNONYMS

manāṁsi—the minds; tāsām—their; aravinda—like lotuses; locanaḥ—He whose eyes; pragalbha—bold; līlā—with His pastimes; hasita—smiling; avalokaiḥ—with His glances; jahāra—He took away; matta—in rut; dvirada-indra—(like) a lordly elephant; vikramaḥ—whose gait; dṛśām—to their eyes; dadat—affording; śrī—of the goddess of fortune; ramaṇa—which is the source of pleasure; ātmanā—with His body; utsavam—a festival.

TRANSLATION

The lotus-eyed Lord, smiling as He recalled His bold pastimes, captivated those ladies' minds with His glances. He walked with the gait of a lordly elephant in rut, creating a festival for their eyes with His transcendental body, which is the source of pleasure for the divine goddess of fortune.

TEXT 28

दृष्ट्वा मुहुः श्रुतमनुद्रुतचेतसस्तं तत्प्रेक्षणोत्स्मितसुधोक्षणलब्धमानाः
आनन्दमूर्तिमुपगुह्य दृशात्मलब्धं हृष्यत्वचो जहुरनन्तमरिन्दमाधिम dṛṣṭvā muhuḥ śrutam anudruta-cetasas taṁ tat-prekṣaṇotsmita-sudhokṣaṇa-labdha-mānāḥ ānanda-mūrtim upaguhya dṛśātma-labdham hṛṣyat-tvaco jahur anantam arindamādhim

SYNONYMS

dṛṣṭvā—seeing; muhuḥ—repeatedly; śrutam—heard about; anudruta—melted; cetasah—whose hearts; taṁ—Him; tat—His; prekṣaṇa—of the glances; ut-smita—and the broad smiles; sudhā—by the nectar; ukṣaṇa—from the sprinkling; labdha—receiving; mānāḥ—honor; ānanda—of ecstasy; mūrtim—the personal form; upaguhya—embracing; dṛśā—through their eyes; ātma—within themselves; labdham—gained; hṛṣyat—erupting; tvacah—their skin; jahuḥ—they gave up; anantam—unlimited; arim-dama—O subduer of enemies (Parikṣit); ādhim—mental distress.

TRANSLATION

The ladies of Mathurā had repeatedly heard about Kṛṣṇa, and thus as soon as they saw Him their hearts melted. They felt honored that He was sprinkling upon them the nectar of His glances and broad smiles. Taking Him into their hearts through their eyes, they embraced Him, the embodiment of all ecstasy, and as their bodily hairs stood on end, O subduer of enemies, they forgot the unlimited distress caused by His absence.

TEXT 29

प्रासादशिखरारूढाः
प्रीत्युत्फुल्लमुखाम्बुजाः
अभ्यवर्षन् सौमनस्यैः प्रमदा बलकेशवौ

prāsāda-śikharārūḍhāḥ
prīty-utphulla-mukhāmbujāḥ abhyavarṣan saumanasyaiḥ pramadā bala-keśavau

SYNONYMS

prāsāda—of the mansions; śikhara—to the roofs; ārūḍhāḥ—having climbed; prīti—with affection; utphulla—blooming; mukha—their faces; ambujāḥ—which were like lotuses; abhyavarṣan—they showered; saumanasyaiḥ—with flowers; pramadāḥ—the attractive women; bala-keśavau—Balarāma and Kṛṣṇa.

TRANSLATION

Their lotus faces blooming with affection, the ladies who had climbed to the roofs of the mansions rained down showers of flowers upon Lord Balarāma and Lord Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 30

दध्यक्षतैः सोदपात्रैः
स्रग्गन्धैरभ्युपायनैः
तावानर्चुः प्रमुदितासु तत्र तत्र द्विजातयः

dadhy-akṣataiḥ soda-pātraiḥ srag-gandhair abhyupāyanaiḥ tāv ānarcuḥ pramuditās tatra tatra dvijātayaḥ

SYNONYMS

dadhi—with yogurt; akṣataiḥ—unbroken barleycorns; sa—and; uda-pātraiḥ—with pots filled with water; srag—with garlands; gandhaiḥ—and fragrant substances; abhyupāyanaiḥ—and also with other items of worship; tau—the two of Them; ānarcuḥ—worshiped; pramuditāḥ—joyful; tatra tatra—in various places; dvi-jātayaḥ—brāhmaṇas.

TRANSLATION

Brāhmaëas standing along the way honored the two Lords with presentations of yogurt, unbroken barleycorns, pots full of water, garlands, fragrant substances such as sandalwood paste, and other items of worship.

TEXT 31

ऊचुः पौरा अहो गोप्यसु
तपः किमचरन्महत
या हेतावनुपश्यन्ति

नरलोकमहोत्सवौ

ūcuḥ paurā aho gopyas tapaḥ kim acarān mahat yā hy etān anupaśyanti nara-loka-mahotsavau

SYNONYMS

ūcuḥ—said; paurā—the women of the city; aho—ah; gopyaḥ—the cowherd girls (of Vṛndāvana); tapaḥ—austerity; kim—what; acarān—have executed; mahat—great; yā—who; hi—indeed; etau—these two; anupaśyanti—constantly see; nara-loka—for human society; mahā-utsavau—who are the greatest source of pleasure.

TRANSLATION

The women of Mathurā exclaimed: Oh, what severe austerities the gopīs must have performed to be able to regularly see Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, who are the greatest source of pleasure for all mankind!

TEXT 32

रजकं कञ्चिदायान्तं
रङ्गकारं गदाग्रजः
दृष्ट्वायाचत वासांसि धौतान्यत्युत्तमानि च

*rajakam kañcid āyāntam
raṅga-kāram gadāgrajaḥ*

dṛṣṭvāyācata vāsāmsi dhautāny aty-uttamāni ca

SYNONYMS

rajakam—washerman; kañcit—a certain; āyāntam—approaching;
raṅga-kāram—engaged in dyeing; gada-agrajaḥ—Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the elder brother of Gada; dṛṣṭvā—seeing; ayācata—requested; vāsāmsi—garments;
dhautāni—cleaned; ati-uttamāni—first class; ca—and.

TRANSLATION

Seeing a washerman approaching who had been dyeing some clothes, Kṛṣṇa asked him for the finest laundered garments he had.

TEXT 33

देहावयोः समुचितान्य
अङ्ग वासांसि चार्हतोः
भविष्यति परं श्रेयो दातुस्ते नात्र संशयः

*dehy āvayoḥ samucitāny aṅga vāsāmsi cārhatoh bhaviṣyati param śreyo
dātus te nātra saṁśayaḥ*

SYNONYMS

dehi—please give; āvayoḥ—to Us two; samucitāni—suitable; aṅga—My dear;
vāsāmsi—clothes; ca—and; arhatoh—to the two who are deserving;

bhaviṣyati—there will be; param—supreme; śreyaḥ—benefit; dātuḥ—for the giver; te—you; na—there is not; atra—in this matter; saṁśayaḥ—doubt.

TRANSLATION

[Lord Kṛṣṇa said:] Please give suitable garments to the two of Us, who certainly deserve them. If you grant this charity, you will undoubtedly receive the greatest benefit.

TEXT 34

स याचितो भगवता
परिपूर्णेन सर्वतः
साक्षेपं रुषितः प्राह भृत्यो राज्ञः सुदुर्मदः

sa yācito bhagavatā
paripūrṇena sarvataḥ sākṣepaṁ ruṣitaḥ prāha
bhṛtyo rājñāḥ su-durmadah

SYNONYMS

saḥ—he; yācitaḥ—requested; bhagavatā—by the Supreme Lord; paripūrṇena—who is absolutely complete; sarvataḥ—in all respects; sa-ākṣepam—insultingly; ruṣitaḥ—angered; prāha—he spoke; bhṛtyaḥ—the servant; rājñāḥ—of the King; su—very much; durmadah—falsely proud.

TRANSLATION

Thus requested by the Supreme Lord, who is perfectly complete in all respects, that arrogant servant of the King became angry and replied insultingly.

TEXT 35

ईदृशान्येव वासांसी
नित्यं गिरिवनेचरः
परिधत्त किमुद्वृत्ता राजद्रव्याण्यभीप्सथ

*īdṛśāny eva vāsāmsi nityam giri-vane-carah paridhatta kim udvṛttā
rāja-dravyāṇy abhīpsatha*

SYNONYMS

īdṛśāni—of this sort; eva—indeed; vāsāmsi—garments; nityam—always; giri—on the mountains; vane—and in the forests; carāḥ—those who travel; paridhatta—would put on; kim—whether; udvṛttāḥ—impudent; rāja—the King's; dravyāṇi—things; abhīpsatha—You want.

TRANSLATION

[The washerman said:] You impudent boys! You're accustomed to roaming the mountains and forests, and yet You would dare put on such clothes as these! These are the King's possessions You're asking for!

TEXT 36

याताशु बालिशा मैवं
प्रार्थ्यं यदि जिजीवीषा
बध्नन्ति घ्नन्ति लुम्पन्ति दृप्तं राजकुलानि वै

*yātāśu bālīśā maivam
prārthyam yadi jijīviṣā badhnanti ghnanti lumpanti dṛptam rāja-kulāni vai*

SYNONYMS

yāta—go; āśu—quickly; bālīśaḥ—fools; mā—do not; evam—like this; prārthyam—beg; yadi—if; jijīviṣā—You have the desire to live; badhnanti—they tie up; ghnanti—kill; lumpanti—and loot (his house); dṛptam—one who is bold; rāja-kulāni—the King's men; vai—indeed.

TRANSLATION

Fools, get out of here quickly! Don't beg like this if You want to stay alive. When someone is too bold, the King's men arrest him and kill him and take all his property.

TEXT 37

एवं विकत्थमानस्य
कुपितो देवकीसुतः
रजकस्य कराग्रेण

शिरः कायादपातयत्

*evam vikatthamānasya
kupito devakī-sutaḥ rajakasya karāgreṇa
śiraḥ kāyād apātayat*

SYNONYMS

evam—thus; vikatthamānasya—who was brazenly speaking; kupitaḥ—angered; devakī-sutaḥ—Kṛṣṇa, the son of Devakī; rajakasya—of the washerman; kara—of one hand; agreṇa—with the front; śiraḥ—the head; kāyāt—from his body; apātayat—made fall.

TRANSLATION

As the washerman thus spoke brazenly, the son of Devakī became angry, and then merely with His fingertips He separated the man's head from his body.

TEXT 38

तस्यानुजीविनः सर्वे
वासःकोशान् विसृज्य वै
दुद्रुवुः सर्वतो मार्गं वासांसि जगृहेऽच्युतः

*tasyānujīvināḥ sarve
vāsaḥ-kośān visṛjya vai dudruvuh sarvato mārgam vāsāmsi jagṛhe 'cyutaḥ*

SYNONYMS

tasya—his; anujīvinaḥ—employees; sarve—all; vāsaḥ—of clothes; kośān—the bundles; visṛjya—leaving behind; vai—indeed; dadruvuḥ—they fled; sarvataḥ—in all directions; mārgam—down the road; vāsāmsi—garments; jagrhe—took; acyutaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa.

TRANSLATION

The washerman's assistants all dropped their bundles of clothes and fled down the road, scattering in all directions. Lord Kṛṣṇa then took the clothes.

TEXT 39

वसित्वात्मप्रिये वस्त्रे
कृष्णः सङ्कर्षणस्तथा
शेषाण्यादत्त गोपेभ्यो विसृज्य भुवि कानिचित्

vasitvātma-priye vastre
kṛṣṇaḥ saṅkarṣaṇas tathā śeṣāṇy ādatta gopebhyo
visṛjya bhuvi kānicit

SYNONYMS

vasitvā—dressing Himself; ātma-priye—which He liked; vastre—in a pair of garments; kṛṣṇaḥ—Kṛṣṇa; saṅkarṣaṇaḥ—Balarāma; tathā—also; śeṣāṇi—the rest; ādatta—He gave; gopebhyaḥ—to the cowherd boys; visṛjya—throwing away; bhuvi—on the ground; kānicit—several.

TRANSLATION

Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma put on pairs of garments that especially pleased Them, and then Kṛṣṇa distributed the remaining clothes among the cowherd boys, leaving some scattered on the ground.

TEXT 40

ततस्तु वायकः प्रीतस्
तयोर्वेषमकल्पयत्
विचित्रवर्णैश्चैलेयैर् आकल्पैरनुरूपतः

*tatas tu vāyakaḥ prītaḥ
tayor veṣam akalpayat vicitra-varṇaiś caileyair ākalpair anurūpataḥ*

SYNONYMS

tataḥ—then; tu—moreover; vāyakaḥ—a weaver; prītaḥ—affectionate; tayoḥ—for the two of Them; veṣam—dress; akalpayat—arranged; vicitra—various; varṇaiḥ—with colors; caileyaiḥ—made of cloth; ākalpaiḥ—with ornaments; anurūpataḥ—suitably.

TRANSLATION

Thereupon a weaver came forward and, feeling affection for the Lords, nicely adorned Their attire with cloth ornaments of various colors.

PURPORT

Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī explains that the weaver adorned the Lords with cloth armlets and earrings that looked just like jewels. The word anurūpataḥ indicates that the colors matched nicely.

TEXT 41

नानालक्षणवेषाभ्यां
कृष्णरामौ विरेजतुः
स्वलङ्कृतौ बालगजौ पर्वणीव सितेतरौ

nānā-lakṣaṇa-veṣābhyām
kṛṣṇa-rāmau virejatuḥ
sv-alāṅkṛtau bāla-gajau parvaṇīva sitetarau

SYNONYMS

nānā—various; lakṣaṇa—having fine qualities; veṣābhyām—with Their individual clothes; kṛṣṇa-rāmau—Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma; virejatuḥ—appeared resplendent; sv-alāṅkṛtau—nicely decorated; bāla—young; gajau—elephants; parvaṇi—during a festival; iva—as if; sita—white; itarau—and the opposite (black).

TRANSLATION

Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma looked resplendent, each in His own unique, wonderfully ornamented outfit. They resembled a pair of young elephants, one white and the other black, decorated for a festive occasion.

TEXT 42

तस्य प्रसन्नो भगवान्
प्रादात्सारूप्यमात्मनः
श्रियं च परमां लोके बलैश्वर्यस्मृतीन्द्रियम्

tasya prasanno bhagavān prādāt sārūpyam ātmanaḥ śriyaṁ ca paramāṁ loke balaīśvarya-smṛtīndriyam

SYNONYMS

tasya—with him; prasannaḥ—satisfied; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; prādāt—granted; sārūpyam—the liberation of having the same form; ātmanaḥ—as Himself; śriyam—opulence; ca—and; paramām—supreme; loke—in this world; bala—physical strength; aiśvarya—influence; smṛti—strength of memory; indriyam—dexterity of the senses.

TRANSLATION

Pleased with the weaver, the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa blessed him that after death he would achieve the liberation of attaining a form like the Lord's, and that while in this world he would enjoy supreme opulence, physical strength, influence, memory and sensory vigor.

TEXT 43

ततः सुदाम्नो भवनं
मालाकारस्य जग्मतुः
तौ दृष्ट्वा स समुत्थाय ननाम शिरसा भुवि

*tataḥ sudāmno bhavanam
mālā-kārasya jagmatuḥ tau dṛṣṭvā sa samutthāya nanāma śirasā bhuvi*

SYNONYMS

tataḥ—then; sudāmnaḥ—of Sudāmā; bhavanam—to the home;
mālā-kārasya—of the garland-maker; jagmatuḥ—the two of Them went;
tau—Them; dṛṣṭvā—seeing; saḥ—he; samutthāya—standing up;
nanāma—bowed down; śirasā—with his head; bhuvi—on the ground.

TRANSLATION

The two Lords then went to the house of the garland-maker Sudāmā. When Sudāmā saw Them he at once stood up and then bowed down, placing his head on the ground.

TEXT 44

तयोरासनमानीय
पाद्यं चार्घ्यार्हणादिभिः
पूजां सानुगयोश्चक्रे

सक्ताम्बूलानुलेपनैः

*tayor āsanam ānīya
pādyam cārghyārhaṇādibhiḥ pūjām sānugayoś cakre
srak-tāmbūlānulepanaiḥ*

SYNONYMS

tayoḥ—for Them; āsanam—seats; ānīya—bringing; pādyam—water to wash the feet; ca—and; arghya—with water to wash the hands; arhaṇa—presents; ādibhiḥ—and so on; pūjām—worship; sa-anugayoḥ—of the two, together with Their companions; cakre—he performed; srak—with garlands; tāmbūla—betel-nut preparation (pān); anulepanaiḥ—and sandalwood paste.

TRANSLATION

After offering Them seats and bathing Their feet, Sudāmā worshiped Them and Their companions with arghya, garlands, pān, sandalwood paste and other presentations.

TEXT 45

प्राह नः सार्थकं जन्म
पावितं च कुलं प्रभो
पितृदेवर्षयो मह्यं
तुष्टा ह्यागमनेन वाम्

prāha naḥ sārthakam janma pāvitam ca kulam prabho

*pitṛ-devarṣayo mahyam
tuṣṭā hy āgamanena vām*

SYNONYMS

prāha—he said; naḥ—our; sa-arthakam—worthwhile; janma—the birth; pāvitam—purified; ca—and; kulam—the family; prabho—O Lord; pitṛ—my forefathers; deva—the demigods; ṛṣayaḥ—and the great sages; mahyam—with me; tuṣṭāḥ—are satisfied; hi—indeed; āgamanena—by the arrival; vām—of You two.

TRANSLATION

[Sudāmā said:] O Lord, my birth is now sanctified and my family free of contamination. Now that You both have come here, my forefathers, the demigods and the great sages are certainly all satisfied with me.

TEXT 46

भवन्तौ किल विश्वस्य
जगतः कारणं परम्
अवतीर्णाविहांशेन
क्षेमाय च भवाय च

*bhavantau kila viśvasya jagataḥ kāraṇam param
avatīrṇāv ihāṁśena
kṣemāya ca bhavāya ca*

SYNONYMS

bhavantau—You two; kila—indeed; viśvasya—of the entire; jagataḥ—universe; kāraṇam—the cause; param—ultimate; avatīrṇau—having descended; iha—here; aṁśena—with Your plenary portions; kṣemāya—for the benefit; ca—and; bhavāya—for the prosperity; ca—also.

TRANSLATION

You two Lords are the ultimate cause of this entire universe. To bestow sustenance and prosperity upon this realm, You have descended with Your plenary expansions.

TEXT 47

न हि वां विषमा दृष्टिः
सुहृदोर्जगदात्मनोः
समयोः सर्वभूतेषु भजन्तं भजतोरपि

na hi vām viṣamā drṣṭiḥ suhṛdor jagad-ātmanoh samayoḥ sarva-bhūteṣu
bhajantaṁ bhajator api

SYNONYMS

na—there is not; hi—indeed; vām—on Your part; viṣamā—biased; drṣṭiḥ—vision; suhṛdoḥ—who are well-wishing friends; jagat—of the universe; ātmanoh—the Soul; samayoḥ—equal; sarva—to all; bhūteṣu—living beings; bhajantaṁ—those who worship You; bhajatoḥ—reciprocating with; api—even.

TRANSLATION

Because You are the well-wishing friends and Supreme Soul of the whole universe, You regard all with unbiased vision. Therefore, although You reciprocate Your devotees' loving worship, You always remain equally disposed toward all living beings.

TEXT 48

तावज्ञापयतं भृत्यं
किमहं करवाणि वाम्
पुंसोऽत्यनुग्रहो ह्येष भवद्भिर्यन्नियुज्यते

tāv ajñāpayataṁ bhr̥tyaṁ kim ahaṁ karavāṇi vām puṁso 'ty-anugraho hy eṣa bhavadbhir yan niyujyate

SYNONYMS

tau—They; ājñāpayatam—should please order; bhr̥tyam—Their servant; kim—what; aham—I; karavāṇi—should do; vām—for You; puṁsaḥ—for any person; ati—extreme; anugrahaḥ—mercy; hi—indeed; eṣaḥ—this; bhavadbhiḥ—by You; yat—in which; niyujyate—he is engaged.

TRANSLATION

Please order me, Your servant, to do whatever You wish. To be engaged by You in some service is certainly a great blessing for anyone.

TEXT 49

इत्यभिप्रेत्य राजेन्द्र
सुदामा प्रीतमानसः
शस्तैः सुगन्धैः कुसुमैर् माला विरचिता ददौ

*ity abhipretya rājendra
sudāmā prīta-mānasaḥ śastaiḥ su-gandhaiḥ kusumair
mālā viracitā dadau*

SYNONYMS

iti—thus speaking; abhipretya—understanding Their intention; rāja-indra—O best of kings (Parīkṣit); sudāmā—Sudāmā; prīta-mānasaḥ—pleased at heart; śastaiḥ—fresh; su-gandhaiḥ—and fragrant; kusumaiḥ—with flowers; malaḥ—garlands; viracitāḥ—made; dadau—he gave.

TRANSLATION

[Śukadeva Gosvāmī continued:] O best of kings, having spoken these words, Sudāmā could understand what Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma wanted. Thus with great pleasure he presented Them with garlands of fresh, fragrant flowers.

TEXT 50

ताभिः स्वलङ्कृतौ प्रीतौ कृष्णरामौ सहानुगौ

प्रणताय प्रपन्नाय ददतुर्वरदौ वरान्

*tābhiḥ sv-alaṅkṛtau prītau kṛṣṇa-rāmau sahānugau praṇatāya prapannāya
dadatur vara-dau varān*

SYNONYMS

tābhiḥ—with those (garlands); su-alaṅkṛtau—beautifully ornamented; prītau—satisfied; kṛṣṇa-rāmau—Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma; saha—along with; anugau—Their companions; praṇatāya—who was bowing down; prapannāya—to the surrendered (Sudāmā); dadatuḥ—They gave; varadau—the two givers of benedictions; varān—a choice of benedictions.

TRANSLATION

Beautifully adorned with these garlands, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma were delighted, and so were Their companions. The two Lords then offered the surrendered Sudāmā, who was bowing down before Them, whatever benedictions he desired.

TEXT 51

सोऽपि वव्रेऽचलां भक्तिं
तस्मिन्नेवाखिलात्मनि
तद्भक्तेषु च सौहार्दं भूतेषु च दयां पराम्

so 'pi vavre 'calām bhaktim

tasminn evākhilātmani tad-bhakteṣu ca sauhārdam bhūteṣu ca dayām parām

SYNONYMS

saḥ—he; api—and; vavre—chose; acalām—unshakable; bhaktim—devotion; tasmin—to Him; eva—alone; akhila—of everything; ātmani—the Supreme Soul; tat—toward His; bhakteṣu—devotees; ca—and; sauhārdam—friendship; bhūteṣu—toward living beings in general; ca—and; dayām—mercy; parām—transcendental.

TRANSLATION

Sudāmā chose unshakable devotion for Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Soul of all existence; friendship with His devotees; and transcendental compassion for all living beings.

TEXT 52

इति तस्मै वरं दत्त्वा
श्रियं चान्वयवर्धिनीम्
बलमायुर्यशः कान्तिं निर्जगाम सहाग्रजः

iti tasmai varam dattvā śriyam cānvaya-vardhinīm balam āyur yaśaḥ kāntim nirjagāma sahāgrajaḥ

SYNONYMS

iti—thus; tasmai—to him; varam—the benediction; dattvā—giving; śriyam—opulence; ca—and; anvaya—his family; vardhinīm—expanding; balam—strength; āyuh—long life; yaśaḥ—fame; kāntim—beauty; nirjagāma—He left; saha—together with; agra-jah—His elder brother, Lord Balarāma.

TRANSLATION

Not only did Lord Kṛṣṇa grant Sudāmā these benedictions, but He also awarded him strength, long life, fame, beauty and ever-increasing prosperity for his family. Then Kṛṣṇa and His elder brother took Their leave.

PURPORT

We can see a clear difference between Lord Kṛṣṇa's dealings with the nasty washerman and His dealings with the devoted florist Sudāmā. The Lord is as hard as a thunderbolt for those who defy Him and as soft as a rose for those who surrender to Him. Therefore we should all sincerely surrender to Lord Kṛṣṇa, since that is clearly in our self-interest.

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Forty-first Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma Enter Mathurā."

42. The Breaking of the Sacrificial Bow

This chapter describes the benediction Trivakrā received, the breaking of the sacrificial bow, the destruction of Kāṁsa's soldiers, the inauspicious omens Kāṁsa saw and the festivities at the wrestling arena.

After leaving Sudāmā's house, Lord Kṛṣṇa came upon Trivakrā, a young hunchbacked maidservant of Kāṁsa's who was carrying a tray of fine ointments. The Lord asked her who she was and requested some ointment from her. Entranced by His beauty and joking words, Trivakrā gave both Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma a good deal of ointment. In return, Kṛṣṇa stepped on her toes with His lotus feet, took hold of her chin and lifted, thus straightening her spine. The now beautiful and charming Trivakrā then grabbed the edge of Kṛṣṇa's upper cloth and asked Him to come to her house. Kṛṣṇa replied that after He had taken care of some business He would certainly come and relieve her mental torment. Then the two Lords continued Their sightseeing tour of Mathurā.

As Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma walked along the King's road, the merchants worshiped Them with various offerings. Kṛṣṇa asked where the bow sacrifice was to take place, and when He arrived at the arena He saw the wonderful bow, which resembled Lord Indra's. Despite the guards' protests, Kṛṣṇa forcibly picked up the bow, easily strung it and in an instant broke it in half, producing an ear-splitting sound that filled the heavens and struck terror in the heart of Kāṁsa. The many guards attacked Kṛṣṇa, crying out "Seize Him! Kill Him!" But Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma simply picked up the two halves of the bow and beat the guards to death. Next the Lords annihilated a company of soldiers sent by Kāṁsa, and then They left the arena and continued Their tour.

When the people of the city saw the amazing prowess and beauty of Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, they thought They must be two chief demigods. Indeed, as the residents of Mathurā gazed upon the Lords, they enjoyed all the blessings the gopīs had predicted.

At sunset Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma returned to the cowherds' camp for Their evening meal. They then passed the night resting comfortably. But King Kāṁsa was not so fortunate. When he heard how Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma had easily broken the mighty bow and destroyed his soldiers, he spent the night in great anxiety. Both while awake and while dreaming he saw many ill omens portending his imminent death, and his fear ruined any chance for rest.

At dawn the wrestling festival began. Crowds of people from the city and outlying districts entered the arena and took their seats in the lavishly decorated galleries. Kāṁsa, his heart trembling, sat down on the royal dais and invited Nanda Mahārāja and the other cowherd men to come sit in their places, and they did so after offering him their gifts. The musical overture then began as the sounds of the wrestlers slapping their arms resounded.

TEXT 1

श्रीशुक उवाच
अथ ब्रजन् राजपथेन माधवः
स्त्रियं गृहीताङ्गविलेपभाजनाम्
विलोक्य कुब्जां युवतीं वराननां पप्रच्छ यान्तीं प्रहसन् रसप्रदः

śrī-śuka uvāca
atha vrajan rāja-pathena mādhaveḥ striyaṁ gṛhītāṅga-vilepa-bhājanām vilokya kubjāṁ yuvatīm varānanām papraccha yāntīm prahasan rasa-pradaḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; atha—then; vrajan—walking; rāja-pathena—along the King's road; mādhaveḥ—Kṛṣṇa; striyam—a woman;

gṛhīta—holding; aṅga—for the body; vilepa—with ointments; bhājanām—a tray; vilokya—seeing; kubjām—hunchbacked; yuvatīm—young; vara-ānanām—with an attractive face; paṇḍita—He inquired; yāntīm—going; prahasan—smiling; rasa—of the pleasure of love; pradaḥ—the bestower.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: As He walked down the King's road, Lord Mādhava then saw a young hunchback woman with an attractive face, who carried a tray of fragrant ointments as she walked along. The bestower of the ecstasy of love smiled and inquired from her as follows.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura, the young hunchbacked girl was actually a partial expansion of the Lord's wife Satyabhāmā. Satyabhāmā is the Lord's internal energy known as Bhū-śakti, and this expansion of hers, known as Pṛthivī, represents the earth, which was bent down by the great burden of countless wicked rulers. Lord Kṛṣṇa descended to remove these wicked rulers, and thus His pastime of straightening out the hunchback Trivakrā, as explained in these verses, represents His rectifying the burdened condition of the earth. At the same time, the Lord awarded Trivakrā a conjugal relationship with Himself.

In addition to the given meaning, the word rasa-pradaḥ indicates that the Lord amused His cowherd boyfriends by His dealings with the young hunchback.

TEXT 2

का त्वं वरोर्वेतदु हानुलेपनं

कस्याङ्गने वा कथयस्व साधु नः
देह्यावयोरङ्गविलेपमुत्तमं श्रेयस्ततस्ते न चिराद्भविष्यति

kā tvam varorv etad u hānulepanam kasyāṅgane vā kathayasva sādhu naḥ dehy āvayor aṅga-vilepam uttamam śreyas tatas te na cirād bhaviṣyati

SYNONYMS

kā—who; tvam—you; vara-ūru—O beautiful-thighed one; etat—this; u ha—ah, indeed; anulepanam—ointment; kasya—for whom; aṅgane—My dear woman; vā—or; kathayasva—please tell; sādhu—honestly; naḥ—Us;
dehi—please give; āvayoh—to Us two; aṅga-vilepam—body ointment;
uttamam—excellent; śreyaḥ—benefit; tataḥ—thereafter; te—your; na cirāt—soon; bhaviṣyati—will be.

TRANSLATION

[Lord Kṛṣṇa said:] Who are you, O beautiful-thighed one? Ah, ointment!
Who is it for, my dear lady? Please tell Us truthfully. Give Us both some of your finest ointment and you will soon gain a great boon.

PURPORT

The Lord jokingly addressed the lady as varoru, "O beautiful-thighed one."
His joke was not malicious, since He was actually about to make her beautiful.

TEXT 3

सैरन्ध्र्युवाच
दास्यस्म्यहं सुन्दर कंससम्मता
त्रिवक्रनामा ह्यनुलेपकर्मणि
मद्भावितं भोजपतेरतिप्रियं विना युवां कोऽन्यतमस्तदर्हति

sairandhry uvāca
dāsy asmy ahaṁ sundara kaṁsa-sammata trivakra-nāmā hy anulepa-karmaṇi mad-bhāvitam bhoja-pater ati-priyam vinā yuvām ko 'nyatamas tad arhati

SYNONYMS

sairandhrī uvāca—the maidservant said; dāsi—a servant; asmi—am; aham—I; sundara—O handsome one; kaṁsa—by Kaṁsa; sammata—respected; trivakra-nāmā—known as Trivakrā ("bent in three places"); hi—indeed; anulepa—with ointments; karmaṇi—for my work; mat—by me; bhāvitam—prepared; bhoja-pateḥ—to the chief of the Bhojas; ati-priyam—very dear; vinā—except for; yuvām—You two; kaḥ—who; anyatamaḥ—else; tat—that; arhati—deserves.

TRANSLATION

The maidservant replied: O handsome one, I am a servant of King Kaṁsa, who highly regards me for the ointments I make. My name is Trivakrā. Who else but You two deserve my ointments, which the lord of the Bhojas likes so much?

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī explains that Trivakrā, who is also known as Kubjā, used the singular address sundara, "O handsome one," to hint that she felt conjugal desire for Kṛṣṇa alone, and she used the dual form yuvām, "for both of You," to try to hide her conjugal sentiment. The hunchback's name, Trivakrā, indicates that her body was bent at the neck, chest and waist.

TEXT 4

रूपपेशलमाधुर्य
हसितालापवीक्षितैः
धर्षितात्मा ददौ सान्द्रम् उभयोरनुलेपनम्

rūpa-peśala-mādhurya
hasitālāpa-vikṣitaiḥ dharṣitātmā dadau sāndram ubhayor anulepanam

SYNONYMS

rūpa—by His beauty; peśala—charm; mādhurya—sweetness; hasita—smiles; ālāpa—talking; vikṣitaiḥ—and glances; dharṣita—overwhelmed; ātmā—her mind; dadau—she gave; sāndram—plentiful; ubhayor—to both of Them; anulepanam—ointment.

TRANSLATION

Her mind overwhelmed by Kṛṣṇa's beauty, charm, sweetness, smiles, words and glances, Trivakrā gave both Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma generous amounts of ointment.

PURPORT

This incident is also described in the Viṣṇu Purāṇa (5.20.7):

*śrutvā tam āha sā kṛṣṇam gṛhyatām iti sādaram anulepanam pradadau
gātra-yogyam athobhayoḥ*

"Hearing this, she respectfully replied to Lord Kṛṣṇa, 'Please take it,' and gave both of Them ointment suitable for applying to Their bodies."

TEXT 5

ततस्तावङ्गरागेण
स्ववर्णेतरशोभिना
सम्प्राप्तपरभागेन
शुशुभातेऽनुरञ्जितौ

*tatas tāv aṅga-rāgeṇa
sva-varṇetara-śobhinā samprāpta-para-bhāgena śuśubhāte 'nurañjitaḥ*

SYNONYMS

tataḥ—then; tau—They; aṅga—of Their bodies; rāgeṇa—with the coloring cosmetics; sva—Their own; varṇa—with colors; itara—other than; śobhinā—adorning; samprāpta—which exhibited; para—the highest; bhāgena—excellence; śuśubhāte—They appeared beautiful;

anurañjita—anoointed.

TRANSLATION

Anointed with these most excellent cosmetics, which adorned Them with hues that contrasted with Their complexions, the two Lords appeared extremely beautiful.

PURPORT

The ācāryas suggest that Kṛṣṇa spread yellow ointment upon His body, and Balarāma blue ointment upon His.

TEXT 6

प्रसन्नो भगवान् कुब्जां
त्रिवक्रां रुचिराननाम्
ऋज्वीं कर्तुं मनश्चक्रे दर्शयन्दर्शने फलम्

*prasanno bhagavān kubjāṁ trivakrāṁ rucirānanām ṛjvīm kartuṁ manaś cakre
darśayan darśane phalam*

SYNONYMS

prasannaḥ—satisfied; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; kubjām—the hunchback; trivakrā—Trivakrā; rucira—attractive; ānanām—whose face; ṛjvīm—straight; kartum—to make; manaḥ cakre—He decided; darśayan—showing;

darśane—of seeing Him; phalam—the result.

TRANSLATION

Lord Kṛṣṇa was pleased with Trivakrā, so He decided to straighten that hunchbacked girl with the lovely face just to demonstrate the result of seeing Him.

TEXT 7

पद्भ्यामाक्रम्य प्रपदे
द्रव्यङ्गुल्युत्तानपाणिना
प्रगृह्य चिबुकेऽध्यात्मम् उदनीनमदच्युतः

padbhyām ākramya prapade
dry-aṅguly-uttāna-pāṇinā pragr̥hya cibuke 'dhyātmam udanīnamad acyutaḥ

SYNONYMS

padbhyām—with both His feet; ākramya—pressing down; prapade—on her toes; dvi—having two; aṅguli—fingers; uttāna—pointing upwards; pāṇinā—with His hands; pragr̥hya—taking hold of; cibuke—her chin; adhyātmam—her body; udanīnamat—He raised; acyutaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa.

TRANSLATION

Pressing down on her toes with both His feet, Lord Acyuta placed one upward-pointing finger of each hand under her chin and straightened up her body.

TEXT 8

सा तदर्जुसमानाङ्गी
बृहच्छ्रोणिपयोधरा
मुकुन्दस्पर्शनात्सद्यो बभूव प्रमदोत्तमा

*sā tadarju-samānāṅgī
br̥hac-chroṇi-payodharā mukunda-sparśanāt sadyo babhūva pramadottamā*

SYNONYMS

sā—she; tadā—then; ṛju—straight; samāna—even; aṅgī—her limbs; br̥hat—large; śroṇi—her hips; payah-dharā—and breasts; mukunda-sparśanāt—by the touch of Lord Mukunda; sadyah—suddenly; babhūva—became; pramadā—a woman; uttamā—most perfect.

TRANSLATION

Simply by Lord Mukunda's touch, Trivakrā was suddenly transformed into an exquisitely beautiful woman with straight, evenly proportioned limbs and large hips and breasts.

TEXT 9

ततो रूपगुणौदार्य-सम्पन्ना प्राह केशवम्
उत्तरीयान्तमकृष्य स्मयन्ती जातहृच्छया

*tato rūpa-guṇaudāryasampannā prāha keśavam uttarīyāntam akṛṣya
smayantī jāta-hṛc-chayā*

SYNONYMS

tataḥ—then; rūpa—with beauty; guṇa—good character; audārya—and generosity; sampannā—endowed; prāha—she addressed; keśavam—Lord Kṛṣṇa; uttarīya—of His upper garment; antam—the end; ākṛṣya—pulling; smayantī—smiling; jāta—having developed; hṛt-śayā—lusty feelings.

TRANSLATION

Now endowed with beauty, character and generosity Trivakrā began to feel lusty desires for Lord Keśava. Taking hold of the end of His upper cloth, she smiled and addressed Him as follows.

TEXT 10

एहि वीर गृहं यामो
न त्वां त्यक्तुमिहोत्सहे
त्वयोन्मथितचित्तायाः

प्रसीद पुरुषर्षभ

ehi vīra gṛham yāmo na tvām tyaktum ihotsahe tvayonmathita-cittāyāḥ prasīda puruṣarṣabha

SYNONYMS

ehi—come; vīra—O hero; gṛham—to my house; yāmaḥ—let us go; na—not; tvām—You; tyaktum—to leave; iha—here; utsahe—I can bear; tvayā—by You; unmathita—agitated; cittāyāḥ—on her whose mind; prasīda—please have mercy; puruṣa-rṣabha—O best of men.

TRANSLATION

[Trivakrā said:] Come, O hero, let us go to my house. I cannot bear to leave You here. O best of males, please take pity on me, since You have agitated my mind.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī supplies the following conversation:

Kṛṣṇa: Is it for the purpose of dining that you're inviting Me to your house?

Trivakrā: I simply can't leave You here.

Kṛṣṇa: But people here on the King's road will misconstrue what you're saying and laugh. Therefore please don't speak like this.

Trivakrā: I can't help being agitated. You made the mistake of touching me. It's not my fault.

TEXT 11

एवं स्त्रिया याच्यमानः
कृष्णो रामस्य पश्यतः
मुखं वीक्ष्यानु गोपानां
प्रहसंस्तामुवाच ह

evam striyā yācyamānaḥ kṛṣṇo rāmasya paśyataḥ mukhaṁ vīkṣyānu gopānām prahasāns tām uvāca ha

SYNONYMS

evam—in this way; striyā—by the woman; yācyā nānaḥ—being begged; kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; rāmasya—of Balarāma; paśyataḥ—who was looking on; mukham—at the face; vīkṣya—glancing; anu—then; gopānām—of the cowherd boys; prahasan—laughing; tām—to her; uvāca ha—He said.

TRANSLATION

Thus entreated by the woman, Lord Kṛṣṇa first glanced at the face of Balarāma, who was watching the incident, and then at the faces of the cowherd boys. Then with a laugh Kṛṣṇa replied to her as follows.

TEXT 12

एष्यामि ते गृहं सुभ्रु
पुंसामाधिविकर्शनम्
साधितार्थोऽगृहाणां नः

पान्थानां त्वं परायणम्

*eṣyāmi te grham su-bhru pumśām ādhi-vikarśanam sādhitārtho 'grhāṇām naḥ
pānthānām tvam parāyaṇam*

SYNONYMS

eṣyāmi—I will go; te—your; grham—to the house; su-bhru—O you who have beautiful eyebrows; pumśām—of men; ādhi—the mental distress; vikarśanam—which eradicates; sādhita—having accomplished; arthāḥ—My purpose; agrhāṇām—who have no home; naḥ—for Us; pānthānām—who are traveling on the road; tvam—you; para—the best; ayanam—shelter.

TRANSLATION

[Lord Kṛṣṇa said:] O lady with beautiful eyebrows, as soon as I fulfill My purpose I will certainly visit your house, where men can relieve their anxiety. Indeed, you are the best refuge for Us homeless travelers.

PURPORT

By the word agrhāṇām, Śrī Kṛṣṇa indicated not only that He had no fixed residence but also that He was not yet married.

TEXT 13

विसृज्य माध्व्या वाण्या ताम्
ब्रजन्मार्गे वणिक्पथैः
नानोपायनताम्बूल-

स्रग्गन्धैः साग्रजोऽर्चितः

visṛjya mādhyā vāṇyā tām vrajan mārge vaṇik-pathaiḥ nānopāyana-tāmbūlasrag-gandhaiḥ sāgrajo 'rcitaiḥ

SYNONYMS

visṛjya—leaving; mādhyā—sweet; vāṇyā—with words; tām—her; vrajan—walking; mārge—along the road; vaṇik-pathaiḥ—by the merchants; nānā—with various; upāyana—respectful offerings; tāmbūla—betel nut; srag—garlands; gandhaiḥ—and fragrant substances; sa—together with; agra-jaiḥ—His elder brother; arcitaiḥ—worshiped.

TRANSLATION

Leaving her with these sweet words, Lord Kṛṣṇa walked further down the road. The merchants along the way worshiped Him and His elder brother by presenting Them with various respectful offerings, including pān, garlands and fragrant substances.

TEXT 14

तद्दर्शनस्मरक्षोभाद्
आत्मानं नाविदन् स्त्रियः
विस्रस्तवासःकवर वलया लेख्यमूर्तयः

tad-darśana-smara-kṣobhād

*ātmānam nāvidan striyaḥ visrasta-vāsaḥ-kavara
valayā lekhyā-mūrtayaḥ*

SYNONYMS

tat—Him; darśana—because of seeing; smara—due to the effects of Cupid; kṣobhāt—by their agitation; ātmānam—themselves; na avidan—could not recognize; striyaḥ—the women; visrasta—disheveled; vāsaḥ—their clothes; kavara—the locks of their hair; valayāḥ—and their bangles; lekhyā—(as if) drawn in a picture; mūrtayaḥ—their forms.

TRANSLATION

The sight of Kṛṣṇa aroused Cupid in the hearts of the city women. Thus agitated, they forgot themselves. Their clothes, braids and bangles became disheveled, and they stood as still as figures in a painting.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī states that since the women of Mathurā immediately experienced symptoms of conjugal attraction when they saw Kṛṣṇa, they were the most advanced devotees in the city. The ten effects of Cupid are described as follows: cakṣū-rāgaḥ prathamam cittāsaṅgas tato 'tha saṅkalpaḥ nidrā-cchedas tanutā viṣaya-nivṛttis trapā-nasaḥ/ unmādo mūrcchā mṛtir ity etāḥ smara-daśā daśaiva syuḥ. "First comes attraction expressed through the eyes, then intense attachment in the mind, then determination, loss of sleep, becoming emaciated, disinterest in external things, shamelessness, madness, becoming stunned and death. These are the ten stages of Cupid's effects."

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī also points out that devotees who possess pure love of Godhead generally do not exhibit the symptom of death, since this is inauspicious in relation to Kṛṣṇa. They do, however, manifest the other nine symptoms, culminating in becoming stunned in ecstasy.

TEXT 15

ततः पौरान् पृच्छमानो
धनुषः स्थानमच्युतः
तस्मिन् प्रविष्टो ददृशे धनुरैन्द्रमिवाद्भुतम्

tataḥ paurān pṛcchamāno dhanuṣaḥ sthānam acyutaḥ tasmin praviṣṭo dadṛśe dhanur aindram ivādbhutam

SYNONYMS

tataḥ—then; paurān—from the city residents; pṛcchamānaḥ—inquiring about; dhanuṣaḥ—of the bow; sthānam—the place; acyutaḥ—the infallible Supreme Lord; tasmin—there; praviṣṭaḥ—entering; dadṛśe—He saw; dhanuḥ—the bow; aindram—that of Lord Indra; iva—like; adbhutam—amazing.

TRANSLATION

Lord Kṛṣṇa then asked the local people where the arena was in which the bow sacrifice would take place. When He went there He saw the amazing bow, which resembled Lord Indra's.

TEXT 16

पुरुषैर्बहुभिर्गुप्तम्
अर्चितं परमर्द्धिमत
वार्यमाणो नृभिः कृष्णः प्रसह्य धनुराददे

puruṣair bahubhir guptam arcitaṁ paramarddhimat vāryamāṇo nṛbhiḥ kṛṣṇaḥ prasahya dhanur ādade

SYNONYMS

puruṣaiḥ—by men; bahubhiḥ—many; guptam—guarded; arcitam—being worshiped; parama—supreme; ṛddhi—opulence; mat—possessing; vāryamāṇaḥ—warded off; nṛbhiḥ—by the guards; kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; prasahya—by force; dhanuḥ—the bow; ādade—picked up.

TRANSLATION

That most opulent bow was guarded by a large company of men, who were respectfully worshiping it. Kṛṣṇa pushed His way forward and, despite the guards' attempts to stop Him, picked it up.

TEXT 17

करेण वामेन सलीलमुद्धृतं
सज्यं च कृत्वा निमिषेण पश्यताम्
नृणां विकृष्य प्रबभञ्ज मध्यतो

यथेक्षुदण्डं मदकर्युरुक्रमः

kareṇa vāmena sa-līlam uddhṛtaṁ sajyaṁ ca kṛtvā nimīṣeṇa paśyatām nṛṇām vikṛṣya prababhañja madhyato yathekṣu-daṇḍaṁ mada-kary urukramaḥ

SYNONYMS

kareṇa—with His hand; vāmena—left; sa-līlam—playfully; uddhṛtaṁ—lifted; sajyaṁ—the stringing; ca—and; kṛtvā—doing; nimīṣeṇa—in the wink of an eye; paśyatām—as they watched; nṛṇām—the guards; vikṛṣya—pulling it taut; prababhañja—He broke it; madhyataḥ—in the middle; yathā—as; ikṣu—of sugarcane; daṇḍam—a stick; mada-karī—an excited elephant; urukramaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa.

TRANSLATION

Easily lifting the bow with His left hand, Lord Urukrama strung it in a fraction of a second as the King's guards looked on. He then powerfully pulled the string and snapped the bow in half, just as an excited elephant might break a stalk of sugar cane.

TEXT 18

धनुषो भज्यमानस्य
शब्दः खं रोदसी दिशः
पूरयामास यं श्रुत्वा कंसस्त्रासमुपागमत्

*dhanuṣo bhajyamānasya
śabdaḥ kham rodasī diśaḥ pūrayām āsa yaṁ śrutvā
kaṁsas trāsam upāgamat*

SYNONYMS

dhanuṣaḥ—of the bow; bhajyamānasya—which was breaking; śabdaḥ—the sound; kham—the earth; rodasī—the sky; diśaḥ—and all the directions; pūrayām āsa—filled; yaṁ—which; śrutvā—hearing; kaṁsaḥ—King Kāṁsa; trāsam—fear; upāgamat—experienced.

TRANSLATION

The sound of the bow's breaking filled the earth and sky in all directions.
Upon hearing it, Kāṁsa was struck with terror.

TEXT 19

तद्रक्षिणः सानुचरं
कुपिता आततायिनः
गृहीतुकामा आवव्रुर गृह्यतां वध्यतामिति

*tad-rakṣiṇaḥ sānucaram kupitā ātatāyinaḥ grhītu-kāmā āvavrur
grhyatām vadhyatām iti*

SYNONYMS

tat—its; rakṣiṇaḥ—guards; sa—along with; anucaram—His companions; kupitāḥ—angered; ātatāyinaḥ—holding weapons; grhītu—to catch; kāmāḥ—wanting; āvavruḥ—surrounded; grhyatām—seize Him; vadhyatām—kill Him; iti—thus saying.

TRANSLATION

The enraged guards then took up their weapons and, wanting to seize Kṛṣṇa and His companions, surrounded them and shouted, "Grab Him! Kill Him!"

TEXT 20

अथ तान्दुरभिप्रायान्
विलोक्य बलकेशवौ
क्रुद्धौ धन्वन आदाय शकले तांश्च जघ्नतुः

atha tān durabhiprāyān
vilokya bala-keśavau kruddhau dhanvana ādāya śakale tāñś ca jaghnatuḥ

SYNONYMS

atha—thereupon; tān—them; durabhiprāyān—with evil intent; vilokya—seeing; bala-keśavau—Balarāma and Kṛṣṇa; kruddhau—angry; dhanvanaḥ—of the bow; ādāya—taking; śakale—the two broken pieces; tān—them; ca—and; jaghnatuḥ—struck.

TRANSLATION

Seeing the guards coming upon Them with evil intent, Balarāma and Keśava took up the two halves of the bow and began striking them down.

TEXT 21

बलं च कंसप्रहितं
हत्वा शालामुखात्ततः
निष्क्रम्य चेतुर्हृष्टौ निरीक्ष्य पुरसम्पदः

balam ca kaṁsa-prahitam hatvā śālā-mukhāt tataḥ niṣkramya ceratur hr̥ṣṭau nirīkṣya pura-sampadaḥ

SYNONYMS

balam—an armed force; ca—and; kaṁsa-prahitam—sent by Kaṁsa; hatvā—having killed; śālā—of the sacrificial arena; mukhāt—by the gate; tataḥ—then; niṣkramya—exciting; ceratur—the two of Them walked along; hr̥ṣṭau—happy; nirīkṣya—observing; pura—of the city; sampadaḥ—the riches.

TRANSLATION

After also killing a contingent of soldiers sent by Kaṁsa, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma left the sacrificial arena by its main gate and continued Their walk about the city, happily looking at the opulent sights.

TEXT 22

तयोस्तद्भुतं वीर्यं
निशाम्य पुरवासिनः
तेजः प्रागल्भ्यं रूपं च मेनिरे विबुधोत्तमौ

*tayos tad adbhutam vīryam niśāmya pura-vāsinah tejah prāgalbhyam rūpam ca
menire vibudhottamau*

SYNONYMS

tayoh—of Them; tat—that; adbhutam—amazing; vīryam—heroic deed; niśāmya—seeing; pura-vāsinah—the residents of the city; tejah—Their strength; prāgalbhyam—boldness; rūpam—beauty; ca—and; menire—they considered; vibudha—of demigods; uttamau—two of the best.

TRANSLATION

Having witnessed the amazing deed Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma had performed, and seeing Their strength, boldness and beauty, the people of the city thought They must be two prominent demigods.

TEXT 23

तयोर्विचरतोः स्वैरम्
आदित्योऽस्तमुपेयिवान्
कृष्णरामौ वृतौ गोपैः

पुराच्छकटमीयतुः

*tayor vicaratoḥ svairam ādityo 'stam upeyivān kṛṣṇa-rāmau vṛtau gopaiḥ
purāc chakaṭam īyatuḥ*

SYNONYMS

tayoḥ—as They; vicaratoḥ—moved about; svairam—at Their will; ādityaḥ—the sun; astam—its setting; upeyivān—approached; kṛṣṇa-rāmau—Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma; vṛtau—accompanied; gopaiḥ—by the cowherd boys; purāt—from the city; śakaṭam—to the place where the wagons had been unharnessed; īyatuḥ—went.

TRANSLATION

As They strolled about at will, the sun began to set, so They left the city with the cowherd boys and returned to the cowherds' wagon encampment.

TEXT 24

गोप्यो मुकुन्दविगमे विरहातुरा या
आशासताशिष ऋता मधुपुर्यभूवन्
सम्पश्यतां पुरुषभूषणगात्रलक्ष्मीं हित्वेतरान्नु भजतश्चकमेऽयनं श्रीः

gopyo mukunda-vigame virahāturā yā āśāsataśiṣa ṛtā madhu-pury abhūvan sampaśyatām puruṣa-bhūṣaṇa-gātra-lakṣmīm

hitvetarān nu bhajataś cakame 'yanam śrīḥ

SYNONYMS

gopyaḥ—the gopīs; mukunda-vigame—when Lord Mukunda was departing; viraha—by feelings of separation; āturāḥ—tormented; yāḥ—which; āśāsata—they had spoken; āśiṣaḥ—the benedictions; ṛtāḥ—true; madhu-puri—in Mathurā; abhūvan—have become; sampraśyatām—for those who are fully seeing; puruṣa—of men; bhūṣaṇa—of the ornament; gātra—of His body; lakṣmīm—the beauty; hitvā—abandoning; itarān—others; nu—indeed; bhajataḥ—who were worshiping her; cakame—hankered for; ayanam—shelter; śrīḥ—the goddess of fortune.

TRANSLATION

At the time of Mukunda's [Kṛṣṇa's] departure from Vṛndāvana, the gopēs had foretold that the residents of Mathurā would enjoy many benedictions, and now the gopēs' predictions were coming true, for those residents were gazing upon the beauty of Kṛṣṇa, the jewel among men. Indeed, the goddess of fortune desired the shelter of that beauty so much that she abandoned many other men, although they worshiped her.

TEXT 25

अवनित्ताङ्घ्रियुगलौ
भुक्त्वा क्षीरोपसेचनम्
ऊषतुस्तां सुखं रात्रिं ज्ञात्वा कंसचिकीर्षितम्

avaniktāṅghri-yugalau

*bhuktvā kṣīropasecanam ūṣatus tām sukham rātrim
jñātvā kaṁsa-cikīrṣitam*

SYNONYMS

avanikta—bathed; aṅghri-yugalau—the two feet of each of Them; bhuktvā—eating; kṣīra-upasecanam—boiled rice sprinkled with milk; ūṣatuḥ—They stayed there; tām—for that; sukham—comfortably; rātrim—night; jñātvā—knowing; kaṁsa-cikīrṣitam—what Kaṁsa intended to do.

TRANSLATION

After Kṛṣṇa's and Balarāma's feet were bathed, the two Lords ate rice with milk. Then, although knowing what Kaṁsa intended to do, They spent the night there comfortably.

TEXTS 26-27

कंसस्तु धनुषो भङ्गं
रक्षिणां स्वबलस्य च
वधं निशम्य गोविन्द-रामविक्रीडितं परम्

दीर्घप्रजागरो भीतो
दुर्निमित्तानि दुर्मतिः
बहून्यचष्टोभयथा

मृत्योर्दौत्यकराणि च

*kaṁsas tu dhanuṣo bhaṅgam rakṣiṇām sva-balasya ca vadham niśamya govinda-rāma-vikrīḍitam param

dīrgha-prajāgaro bhīto durnimittāni durmatih bahūny acaṣṭobhayathā
mṛtyor dautya-karāṇi ca*

SYNONYMS

kaṁsaḥ—King Kāṁsa; tu—but; dhanuṣaḥ—of the bow; bhaṅgam—the breaking; rakṣiṇām—of the guards; sva—his; balasya—of the army; ca—and; vadham—the killing; niśamya—hearing of; govinda-rāma—of Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma; vikrīḍitam—the playing; param—merely; dīrgha—for a long time; prajāgaraḥ—remaining awake; bhītaḥ—afraid; durnimittāni—bad omens; durmatih—the wicked-minded; bahūni—many; acaṣṭa—saw; ubhayathā—in both states (sleep and wakefulness); mṛtyoḥ—of death; dautya-karāṇi—the messengers; ca—and.

TRANSLATION

Wicked King Kāṁsa, on the other hand, was terrified, having heard how Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma had broken the bow and killed his guards and soldiers, all simply as a game. He remained awake for a long time, and both while awake and while dreaming he saw many bad omens, messengers of death.

TEXTS 28-31

अदर्शनं स्वशिरसः
प्रतिरूपे च सत्यपि
असत्यपि द्वितीये च
द्वैरूप्यं ज्योतिषां तथा

छिद्रप्रतीतिश्छायायां
प्राणघोषानुपश्रुतिः
स्वर्णप्रतीतिर्वृक्षेषु
स्वपदानामदर्शनम्

स्वप्ने प्रेतपरिष्वङ्गः
खरयानं विषादनम्
यायान्नलदमाल्येकस
तैलाभ्यक्तो दिगम्बरः

अन्यानि चेत्थंभूतानि
स्वप्नजागरितानि च
पश्यन्मरणसन्त्रस्तो निद्रां लेभे न चिन्तया

*adarśanam sva-śirasaḥ pratirūpe ca saty api asaty api dvitiye ca
dvai-rūpyam jyotiṣām tathā chidra-pratītiś chāyāyām*

*prāṇa-ghoṣānupaśrutiḥ svarṇa-pratītir vṛkṣeṣu
sva-padānām adarśanam*

svapne preta-pariṣvaṅgaḥ khara-yānam viṣādanam yāyān nalada-māly ekas tailābhyakto dig-ambaraḥ

*anyāni cetthaṁ-bhūtāni svapna-jāgaritāni ca paśyan maraṇa-santrasto
nidrām lebhe na cintayā*

SYNONYMS

adarśanam—the invisibility; sva—of his own; śirasaḥ—head; pratirūpe—his reflection; ca—and; sati—being present; api—even; asati—there not being; api—even; dvitīye—a cause for duplication; ca—and; dvai-rūpyam—double image; jyotiṣām—of the heavenly bodies; tathā—also; chidra—of a hole; pratītiḥ—the seeing; chāyāyām—in his shadow; prāṇa—of his life air; ghoṣa—of the reverberation; anupaśrutiḥ—the failure to hear; svarṇa—of a golden color; pratītiḥ—the perception; vṛkṣeṣu—on trees; sva—his own; padānām—footprints; adarśanam—not seeing; svapne—while asleep; preta—by ghostly spirits; pariṣvaṅgaḥ—being embraced; khara—upon a donkey; yānam—traveling; viṣa—poison; adanam—swallowing; yāyāt—was going about; nalada—of spikenards, rose-purple flowers native to India; māli—wearing a garland; ekaḥ—someone; taila—with oil; abhyaktaḥ—smeared; dik-ambaraḥ—naked; anyāni—other (omens); ca—and; itthaṁ-bhūtāni—like these; svapna—while asleep; jāgaritāni—while awake; ca—also; paśyan—seeing; marāṇa—of death; santrastaḥ—terrified; nidrām—sleep; lebhe—he could achieve; na—not; cintayā—because of his anxiety.

TRANSLATION

When he looked at his reflection he could not see his head; for no reason the moon and stars appeared double; he saw a hole in his shadow; he could not hear the sound of his life air; trees seemed covered with a golden hue; and he could not see his footprints. He dreamt that he was being embraced by ghosts, riding a donkey and drinking poison, and also that a naked man smeared with oil was passing by wearing a garland of nalada flowers. Seeing these and other such omens both while dreaming and while awake, Kāṁsa was terrified by the prospect of death, and out of anxiety he could not sleep.

TEXT 32

व्युष्टायां निशि कौरव्य
सूर्ये चाद्भ्यः समुत्थिते कारयामास वै कंसो मल्लक्रीडामहोत्सवम्

*vyuṣṭāyām niśi kauravya
sūrye cādbhyaḥ samutthite kārayām āsa vai kaṁso
malla-kṛīḍā-mahotsavam*

SYNONYMS

vyuṣṭāyām—having passed; niśi—the night; kauravya—O descendant of Kuru (Parīkṣit); sūrye—the sun; ca—and; adbhyaḥ—from the water; samutthite—rising; kārayām āsa—had carried out; vai—indeed; kaṁsaḥ—Kāṁsa; malla—of wrestlers; kṛīḍā—of the sport; mahā-utsavam—the great festival.

TRANSLATION

When the night had finally passed and the sun rose up again from the water, Kamsa set about arranging for the grand wrestling festival.

TEXT 33

आनर्चुः पुरुषा रङ्गं
तूर्यभेर्यश्च जघ्निरे
मञ्चाश्चालङ्कृताः स्रग्भिः पताकाचैलतोरणैः

*ānarcuḥ puruṣā raṅgam
tūrya-bheryaś ca jaghnire mañcāś cālankṛtāḥ sragbhiḥ patākā-caila-toraṇaiḥ*

SYNONYMS

ānarcuḥ—worshiped; puruṣāḥ—the King's men; raṅgam—the arena; tūrya—musical instruments; bheryaḥ—drums; ca—and; jaghnire—they vibrated; mañcāḥ—the viewing platforms; ca—and; alankṛtāḥ—were decorated; sragbhiḥ—with garlands; patākā—with flags; caila—cloth ribbons; toraṇaiḥ—and gateways.

TRANSLATION

The King's men performed the ritual worship of the wrestling arena, sounded their drums and other instruments and decorated the viewing galleries with garlands, flags, ribbons and arches.

TEXT 34

तेषु पौरा जानपदा
ब्रह्मक्षत्रपुरोगमाः
यथोपजोषं विविशु राजानश्च कृतासनाः

teṣu paurā jānapadā brahma-kṣatra-purogamāḥ yathopajoṣaṁ viviśu rājānaś ca kṛtāsanāḥ

SYNONYMS

teṣu—upon these (platforms); paurāḥ—the city-dwellers; jānapadāḥ—and the people of the suburbs; brahma—by the brāhmaṇas; kṣatra—and the kṣatriyas; purāḥ-gamāḥ—headed; yathā-upajoṣam—as suited their comfort; viviśuḥ—came and sat; rājānaḥ—the kings; ca—also; kṛta—given; asanāḥ—special seats.

TRANSLATION

The city-dwellers and residents of the outlying districts, led by brāhmaëas and kṛatriyas, came and sat down comfortably in the galleries. The royal guests received special seats.

TEXT 35

कंसः परिवृतोऽमात्यै
राजमञ्च उपाविशत्
मण्डलेश्वरमध्यस्थो हृदयेन विदूयता

kāṁsaḥ parivṛto 'mātyai rāja-mañca upāviśat maṇḍaleśvara-madhya-stho hṛdayena vidūyatā

SYNONYMS

kāṁsaḥ—Kāṁsa; parivṛtaḥ—surrounded; amātyaiḥ—by his ministers;
rāja-mañce—on the King's platform; upāviśati—sat; maṇḍala-īśvara—of secondary rulers of various regions; madhya—in the midst; sthaḥ—situated;
hṛdayena—with his heart; vidūyatā—trembling.

TRANSLATION

Surrounded by his ministers, Kāṁsa took his seat on the imperial dais. But even as he sat amidst his various provincial rulers, his heart trembled.

TEXT 36

वाद्यमानेषु तूर्येषु
मल्लतालोत्तरेषु च
मल्लाः स्वलङ्कृताः दृप्ताः

सोपाध्यायाः समासत

vādyamāṇeṣu tūryeṣu
mallā-tālottareṣu ca
mallāḥ sv-alaṅkṛtāḥ dṛptāḥ sopādhyāyāḥ samāsata

SYNONYMS

vādyamāṇeṣu—as they were being played; tūryeṣu—the musical instruments; mallā—suitable for wrestling; tāla—with meters; uttareṣu—prominent; ca—and; mallāḥ—the wrestlers; sv-alaṅkṛtāḥ—well ornamented; dṛptāḥ—proud; sa-upādhyāyāḥ—together with their instructors; samāsata—came and sat down.

TRANSLATION

While the musical instruments loudly played in the rhythmic meters appropriate for wrestling matches, the lavishly ornamented wrestlers proudly entered the arena with their coaches and sat down.

TEXT 37

चाणूरो मुष्टिकः कूतः
शलस्तोशल एव च
त आसेदुरुपस्थानं वल्गुवाद्यप्रहर्षिताः

cāṇūro muṣṭikāḥ kūṭaḥ
śālas tośāla eva ca

*ta āsedur upasthānam
valgu-vādyā-praharṣitāḥ*

SYNONYMS

cāṇūraḥ muṣṭikaḥ kūṭaḥ—the wrestlers Cāṇūra, Muṣṭika and Kūṭa; śalaḥ tośalaḥ—Śāla and Tośāla; eva ca—also; te—they; āseduḥ—sat down; upasthānam—on the mat of the wrestling ring; valgu—pleasing; vādyā—by the music; praharṣitāḥ—enthused.

TRANSLATION

Enthused by the pleasing music, Canura, Muṣṭika, Kūṭa, Śāla and Tośāla sat down on the wrestling mat.

TEXT 38

नन्दगोपादयो गोपा
भोजराजसमाहुताः
निवेदितोपायनास्त एकस्मिन्मञ्च आविशन्

*nanda-gopādayo gopā
bhoja-rāja-samāhutāḥ niveditopāyanās ta
ekasmin mañca āviśan*

SYNONYMS

nanda-gopa-ādayaḥ—headed by Nanda Gopa; gopāḥ—the cowherds; bhoja-rāja—by Kāṁsa, King of the Bhojas; samāhutāḥ—called forward;

nivedita—presenting; upāyanāḥ—their offerings; te—they; ekasmin—in one; mañce—viewing gallery; āviśan—sat down.

TRANSLATION

Nanda Mahārāja and the other cowherds, summoned by the King of the Bhojas, presented him with their offerings and then took their seats in one of the galleries.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī, the word samāhutāḥ indicates that King Kāṁsa respectfully called the leaders of Vraja forward so that they could make their offerings to the central government. According to the ācārya, Kāṁsa assured Nanda as follows: "My dear King of Vraja, you are the most important of my village rulers. Yet even though you have come to Mathurā from your cowherd village, you have not come to visit me. Is that because you are frightened? Don't think that your two sons are bad because They broke the bow. I invited Them here because I heard They were extremely powerful, and I've arranged this wrestling match as a test of Their strength. So please come forward without hesitation. Don't be afraid."

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī further states that Nanda Mahārāja noticed his two sons were not present. Apparently, out of disrespect for King Kāṁsa's order, They had taken the morning off and gone elsewhere.

Thus Kāṁsa delegated some cowherd men to go look for Them and advise Them to behave properly and come back to the wrestling arena. The ācārya also states that the reason Nanda and the other cowherd men sat in the galleries was that they could not find any sitting places on the royal dais.

*Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C.
Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Forty-second Chapter, of* the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "The Breaking of the Sacrificial Bow."

43. Kṛṣṇa Kills the Elephant Kuvalayāpīḍa

This chapter tells how Lord Kṛṣṇa killed the lordly elephant Kuvalayāpīḍa, how Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma entered the wrestling arena and what Kṛṣṇa said to the wrestler Cāṇūra.

After finishing Their early-morning rituals, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma heard kettledrums heralding the start of the wrestling match, and They went to see the festivities. At the gate of the wrestling arena They encountered an elephant named Kuvalayāpīḍa, who attacked Kṛṣṇa at the urging of his keeper. The mighty elephant grabbed at Kṛṣṇa with his trunk, but the Lord struck back and then disappeared from the beast's sight among his legs. Enraged at not being able to see Kṛṣṇa, Kuvalayāpīḍa sought Him out with his sense of smell and seized Him. But the Lord pulled loose. In this way Kṛṣṇa teased and tormented Kuvalayāpīḍa, finally yanking out one of his tusks and beating him and his keepers to death.

Sprinkled with the elephant's blood and carrying one of his tusks on His shoulder as a weapon, Lord Kṛṣṇa appeared unprecedentedly beautiful as He entered the wrestling arena. There the various classes of people saw Him in different ways, according to their specific relationship with Him.

When King Kāṁsa heard how Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma had killed Kuvalayāpīḍa, he realized They were invincible and became filled with anxiety. The members of the audience, on the other hand, became joyful as they reminded one another about the Lords' amazing pastimes. The people declared that Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma must be two expansions of the Supreme Lord Nārāyaṇa who had descended into the house of Vasudeva.

Cāṇūra then stepped forward and challenged Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma to wrestle, saying King Kāṁsa wished to see such a match. Kṛṣṇa replied, "Although We are merely nomadic forest folk, We are nonetheless subjects of the King; thus We will not hesitate to please him with an exhibition of wrestling." As soon as Cāṇūra heard this, he suggested that Kṛṣṇa should wrestle him and that Balarāma should wrestle Muṣṭika.

TEXT 1

श्रीशुक उवाच
अथ कृष्णश्च रामश्च
कृतशौचौ परन्तप
मल्लदुन्दुभिनिर्घोषं श्रुत्वा द्रष्टुमुपेयतुः

śrī-śuka uvāca
atha kṛṣṇaś ca rāmaś ca
kṛta-śaucāu parantapa malla-dundubhi-nirghoṣam
śrutvā draṣṭum upeyatuḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; atha—next; kṛṣṇaḥ—Kṛṣṇa; ca—and; rāmaḥ—Balarāma; ca—also; kṛta—having carried out; śaucāu—purification; param-tapa—O chastiser of enemies; malla—of the wrestling match; dundubhi—of the kettledrums; nirghoṣam—the resounding vibration; śrutvā—hearing; draṣṭum—to see; upeyataḥ—They approached.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: O chastiser of enemies, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, having executed all necessary purification, then heard the kettledrums resounding at the wrestling arena, and They went there to see what was happening.

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī explains the words kṛta-śaucāu, "having executed all necessary purification," as follows: "Two days previously, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma had executed Their purification, Their relief from offense, [by performing heroic deeds. The Lords reasoned: 'Even after We have made Our power known by breaking the bow and by performing other feats, Our parents have still not secured freedom. Kāṁsa is again trying to kill them. Therefore, although he is Our maternal uncle, it will not be wrong for Us to kill him.' They assured Their offenselessness by this reasoning."

TEXT 2

रङ्गद्वारं समासाद्य
तस्मिन्नागमवस्थितम्
अपश्यत्कुवल्यापीडं कृष्णोऽम्बष्ठप्रचोदितम्

*raṅga-dvāraṁ samāsādya tasmin nāgam avasthitam apaśyat kuvalayāpīḍaṁ
kṛṣṇo 'mbaṣṭha-pracoditam*

SYNONYMS

raṅga—of the arena; dvāram—the gate; samāsādyā—reaching; tasmin—in that place; nāgam—an elephant; avasthitam—standing; apaśyat—He saw; kuvalayāpīḍa—named Kuvalayāpīḍa; kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; ambaṣṭha—by his keeper; pracoditam—urged on.

TRANSLATION

When Lord Kṛṣṇa reached the entrance to the arena, He saw the elephant Kuvalayāpīḍa blocking His way at the urging of his keeper.

PURPORT

The elephant-keeper revealed his malicious intent by blocking Lord Kṛṣṇa's entrance into the arena.

TEXT 3

बद्ध्वा परिकरं शौरिः
समुह्य कुटिलालकान्
उवाच हस्तिपं वाचा मेघनादगभीरया

baddhvā parikaram śauriḥ samuhya kuṭilālakān uvāca hastipam vācā
megha-nāda-gabhīrayā

SYNONYMS

baddhvā—binding; parikaram—His clothes; śauriḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; samuhya—tying together; kuṭila—curled; alakān—the locks of His hair; uvāca—He spoke; hasti-pam—to the elephant-keeper; vācā—with words; megha—of a cloud; nāda—like the sound; gabhīrayā—grave.

TRANSLATION

Securely binding up His clothes and tying back His curly locks, Lord Kṛṣṇa addressed the elephant-keeper with words as grave as the rumbling of a cloud.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa was obviously preparing for a fight. According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura, the Lord put aside His jacket, tightened His belt and tied back His hair.

TEXT 4

अम्बष्ठाम्बष्ठ मार्गं नौ
देह्यपक्रम मा चिरम्
नो चेत्सकुञ्जरं त्वाद्य नयामि यमसादनम्

ambaṣṭhāmbaṣṭha mārgam nau dehy apakrama mā ciram
no cet sa-kuñjaram tvādya nayāmi yama-sādanam

SYNONYMS

ambaṣṭha ambaṣṭha—O elephant-keeper, elephant-keeper; mārgam—way; nau—to Us; dehi—give; apakrama—move aside; *ma cira*m—without delay; na u cet—if not; sa-kuñjaram—together with your elephant; tva—you; adya—today; ayāmi—I will send; yama—of the lord of death; sādanam—to the abode.

TRANSLATION

[Lord Kṛṣṇa said:] O driver, driver, move aside at once and let Us pass! If you don't, this very day I will send both you and your elephant to the abode of Yamarāja!

TEXT 5

एवं निर्भर्त्सितोऽम्बष्ठः
कुपितः कोपितं गजम्
चोदयामास कृष्णाय कालान्तकयमोपमम्

evam nirbhartsito 'mbaṣṭhaḥ kupitaḥ kopitaṁ gajam codayām āsa kṛṣṇāya
kālāntaka-yamopamam

SYNONYMS

evam—thus; nirbhartsitaḥ—threatened; ambaṣṭhaḥ—the elephant-keeper; kupitaḥ—angered; kopitaṁ—the enraged; gajam—elephant; codayām āsa—he goaded; kṛṣṇāya—toward Kṛṣṇa; kāla—time; antaka—death; yama—and Yamarāja; upamam—comparable to.

TRANSLATION

Thus threatened, the elephant-keeper became angry. He goaded his furious elephant, who appeared equal to time, death and Yamarāja, into attacking Lord Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 6

करीन्द्रस्तमभिद्रुत्य
करेण तरसाग्रहीत
कराद्विगलितः सोऽमुं निहत्याङ्घ्रिष्वलीयत

karīndras tam abhidrutya kareṇa tarasāgrahīt
karād vigalitaḥ so 'muṁ nihatyāṅghriṣv alīyata

SYNONYMS

kari—of elephants; indraḥ—the lord; tam—Him; abhidrutya—running toward; kareṇa—with his trunk; tarasā—violently; agrahīt—seized; karāt—from the trunk; vigalitaḥ—slipping away; saḥ—He, Kṛṣṇa; amum—him, Kuvalayāpīḍa; nihatya—striking; aṅghriṣu—among his legs; alīyata—He disappeared.

TRANSLATION

The lord of the elephants charged Kṛṣṇa and violently seized Him with his trunk. But Kṛṣṇa slipped away, struck him a blow and disappeared from his view among his legs.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa struck the elephant with His fist and then disappeared among his legs.

TEXT 7

सङ्क्रुद्धस्तमचक्षाणो
घ्राणदृष्टिः स केशवम्
परामृशत्पुष्करेण स प्रसह्य विनिर्गतः

*saṅkruddhas tam acakṣāṇo ghrāṇa-dṛṣṭiḥ sa keśavam parāmṛśat puṣkareṇa
sa prasahya vinirgataḥ*

SYNONYMS

saṅkruddhaḥ—infuriated; tam—Him; acakṣāṇaḥ—not seeing; ghrāṇa—by his sense of smell; dṛṣṭiḥ—whose vision; saḥ—he, the elephant; keśavam—Lord Keśava; parāmṛśat—took hold of; puṣkareṇa—with the end of his trunk; saḥ—He, Kṛṣṇa; prasahya—by force; vinirgataḥ—came free.

TRANSLATION

Infuriated at being unable to see Lord Keśava, the elephant sought Him out with his sense of smell. Once again Kuvalayāpīḍa seized the Lord with the end of his trunk, only to have the Lord forcefully free Himself.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa allowed the elephant to seize Him so that the beast would be encouraged to keep fighting. Once Kuvalayāpīḍa had thus become proud, Lord Kṛṣṇa again thwarted him with His superior potency.

TEXT 8

पुच्छे प्रगृह्यातिबलं
धनुषः पञ्चविंशतिम्
विचकर्ष यथा नागं सुपर्ण इव लीलया

*pucche pragrhyāti-balam dhanuṣaḥ pañca-vimśatim vicakarṣa yathā nāgam
suparṇa iva līlayā*

SYNONYMS

pucche—by his tail; pragrhya—grabbing him; ati-balam—the extremely powerful (elephant); dhanuṣaḥ—bow-lengths; pañca-vimśatim—twenty-five; vicakarṣa—He dragged; yathā—as; nāgam—a snake; suparṇaḥ—Garuḍa; iva—as; līlayā—playfully.

TRANSLATION

Lord Kṛṣṇa then grabbed the powerful Kuvalayāpīḍa by the tail and playfully dragged him twenty-five bow-lengths as easily as Garuḍa might drag a snake.

TEXT 9

स पर्यावर्तमानेन
सव्यदक्षिणतोऽच्युतः
बभ्राम भ्राम्यमाणेन
गोवत्सेनेव बालकः

*sa paryāvartamānena
savya-dakṣiṇato 'cyutaḥ babhrāma bhrāmyamāṇena go-vatseneva bālakaḥ*

SYNONYMS

saḥ—He; paryāvartamānena—with him (the elephant) who was being moved around; savya-dakṣiṇataḥ—to the left and then the right; acyutaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; babhrāma—moved also; bhrāmyamāṇena—together with him who was being moved; go-vatsena—with a calf; iva—just as; bālakaḥ—a young boy.

TRANSLATION

As Lord Acyuta held on to the elephant's tail, the animal tried to twist away to the left and to the right, making the Lord swerve in the opposite direction, as a young boy would swerve when pulling a calf by the tail.

TEXT 10

ततोऽभिमखमभ्येत्य
पाणिनाहत्य वारणम्
प्राद्रवन् पातयामास स्पृश्यमानः पदे पदे

tato 'bhimakham abhyetya pāṇināhatya vāraṇam prādravan pātayām āsa spṛśyamānaḥ pade pade

SYNONYMS

tataḥ—then; abhimukham—face to face; abhyetya—coming; pāṇinā—with His hand; āhatya—slapping; vāraṇam—the elephant; prādravan—running away; pātayām āsa—He made him fall; spṛśyamānaḥ—being touched; pade pade—with each step.

TRANSLATION

Kṛṣṇa then came face to face with the elephant and slapped him and ran away. Kuvalayāpīḍa pursued the Lord, managing to touch Him again and again with each step, but Kṛṣṇa outmaneuvered the elephant and made him trip and fall.

TEXT 11

स धावन् कृईदया भूमौ
पतित्वा सहसोत्थितः
तम्मत्वा पतितं क्रुद्धो

दन्ताभ्यां सोऽहनत्क्षितिम्

sa dhāvan kṛīdayā bhūmau patitvā sahasotthitaḥ tam matvā patitaṁ kruddho dantābhyām so 'hanat kṣitim

SYNONYMS

saḥ—He; dhāvan—running; kṛīdayā—playfully; bhūmau—on the ground; patitvā—falling; sahasā—suddenly; utthitaḥ—getting up; tam—Him; matvā—thinking; patitaṁ—fallen; kruddhaḥ—angry; dantābhyām—with his tusks; saḥ—he, Kuvalayāpīḍa; ahanat—struck; kṣitim—the earth.

TRANSLATION

As Kṛṣṇa dodged about, He playfully fell on the ground and quickly got up again. The raging elephant, thinking Kṛṣṇa was down, tried to gore Him with his tusks but struck the earth instead.

TEXT 12

स्वविक्रमे प्रतिहते
कुञ्जरेन्द्रोऽत्यमर्षितः
चोद्यमानो महामात्रैः कृष्णमभ्यद्रवद्रुषा

sva-vikrame pratihate kuñjarendro 'ty-amarṣitaḥ codyamāno mahāmātraiḥ

kṛṣṇam abhyadravad ruṣā

SYNONYMS

sva—his; vikrame—prowess; pratihate—being thwarted; kuñjara-indraḥ—the lord of elephants; ati—extreme; amarṣitaḥ—with frustrated anger; codyamānaḥ—urged on; mahāmātraiḥ—by the elephant-keepers; kṛṣṇam—at Kṛṣṇa; abhyadravat—he charged; ruṣā—furiously.

TRANSLATION

His prowess foiled, the lordly elephant Kuvalayāpīḍa went into a frenzied rage out of frustration. But the elephant-keepers goaded him on, and he furiously charged Kṛṣṇa once again.

TEXT 13

तमापतन्तमासाद्य
भगवान्मधुसूदनः
निगृह्य पाणिना हस्तं पातयामास भूतले

tam āpatantam āsādya
bhagavān madhusūdanaḥ
nigrhya pāṇinā hastam
pātayām āsa bhū-tale

SYNONYMS

tam—him; āpatantam—attacking; āsādya—confronting; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; madhu-sūdanaḥ—the killer of the demon Madhu;

nigṛhya—firmly seizing; pāṇinā—with His hand; hastam—his trunk; pātayām āsa—He made him fall; bhū-tale—onto the ground.

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Lord, killer of the demon Madhu, confronted the elephant as he attacked. Seizing his trunk with one hand, Kṛṣṇa threw him to the ground.

TEXT 14

पतितस्य पदाक्रम्य
मृगेन्द्र इव लीलया
दन्तमुत्पाट्य तेनेभं हस्तिपांश्चाहनद्धरिः

patitasya padākramya
mṛgendra iva līlayā
dantam utpāṭya tenebham
hastipāṁś cāhanad dhariḥ

SYNONYMS

patitasya—of the fallen (elephant); padā—with His foot; ākramya—climbing upon him; mṛgendrah—a lion; iva—as if; līlayā—with ease; dantam—one of his tusks; utpāṭya—pulling out; tena—with it; ibham—the elephant; hasti-pān—the elephant-keepers; ca—also; ahanat—killed; hariḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa.

TRANSLATION

Lord Hari then climbed onto the elephant with the ease of a mighty lion, pulled out a tusk, and with it killed the beast and his keepers.

TEXT 15

मृतकं द्विपमुत्सृज्य
दन्तपाणिः समाविशत्
अंसन्यस्तविषाणोऽसृङ्- मदबिन्दुभिरङ्कितः
विरूढस्वेदकणिका वदनाम्बुरुहो बभौ

*mṛtakam dvīpam utsṛjya
danta-pāṇiḥ samāviśat aṁsa-nyasta-viṣāṇo 'sṛṅmada-bindubhir aṅkitaḥ virūḍha-sveda-kaṇikā vadanāmburuho babhau*

SYNONYMS

mṛtakam—dead; dvīpam—the elephant; utsṛjya—discarding; danta—his tusk; pāṇiḥ—in His hand; samāviśat—He entered (the arena); aṁsa—upon His shoulder; nyasta—placing; viṣāṇaḥ—the tusk; asṛḅ—of blood; mada—and the elephant's sweat; bindubhiḥ—with drops; aṅkitaḥ—sprinkled; virūḍha—exuding; sveda—of (His own) perspiration; kaṇikā—with fine drops; vadana—His face; ambu-ruhaḥ—lotuslike; babhau—shone.

TRANSLATION

Leaving the dead elephant aside, Lord Kṛṣṇa held on to the tusk and entered the wrestling arena. With the tusk resting on His shoulder, drops of the elephant's blood and sweat sprinkled all over Him, and His lotus face covered with fine drops of His own perspiration, the Lord shone with great beauty.

TEXT 16

वृत्तौ गोपैः कतिपयैर्
बलदेवजनार्दनौ
रङ्गं विविशतू राजन् गजदन्तवरायुधौ

*vṛtau gopaiḥ katipayair baladeva-janārdanau raṅgam viviśatū rājan
gaja-danta-varāyudhau*

SYNONYMS

vṛtau—surrounded; gopaiḥ—by cowherd boys; katipayaiḥ—several; baladeva-janārdanau—Balarāma and Kṛṣṇa; raṅgam—the arena; viviśatuḥ—entered; rājan—O King (Parikṣit); gaja-danta—the elephant's tusks; vara—chosen; āyudhau—whose weapons.

TRANSLATION

My dear King, Lord Baladeva and Lord Janārdana, each carrying one of the elephant's tusks as His chosen weapon, entered the arena with several cowherd boys.

TEXT 17

मल्लानामशनिर्नुणां नरवरः स्त्रीणां स्मरो मूर्तिमान्
गोपानां स्वजनोऽसतां क्षितिभुजां शास्ता स्वपित्रोः शिशुः
मृत्युर्भोजपतेर्विराडविदुषां तत्त्वं परं योगिनां वृष्णीनां परदेवतेति विदितो रङ्गं गतः साग्रजः

mallānām aśanir nṛṇām nara-varaḥ strīṇām smaro mūrtimān gopānām sva-jano 'satām kṣiti-bhujām śāstā sva-pitroḥ śīśuḥ mṛtyur bhoja-pater virāḍ aviduṣām tattvaṁ param yuginām vṛṣṇīnām para-devateti vidito raṅgam gataḥ sāgrajaḥ

SYNONYMS

mallānām—for the wrestlers; aśaniḥ—lightning; nṛṇām—for the males; nara-varaḥ—the best of men; strīṇām—for the women; smaraḥ—Cupid; mūrti-mān—incarnate; gopānām—for the cowherds; sva-janaḥ—their relative; asatām—impious; kṣiti-bhujām—for the kings; śāstā—a punisher; sva-pitroḥ—for His parents; śīśuḥ—a child; mṛtyuḥ—death; bhoja-pateḥ—for the King of the Bhojas, Kāmsa; virāṭ—the totality of the material universe; aviduṣām—for the unintelligent; tattvaṁ—the Truth; param—Supreme; yuginām—for the yogīs; vṛṣṇīnām—for the members of the Vṛṣṇi dynasty; para-devatā—their most worshipable Deity; iti—in these ways; viditaḥ—understood; raṅgam—the arena; gataḥ—He entered; sa—along with; agra-jaḥ—His elder brother.

TRANSLATION

The various groups of people in the arena regarded Kṛṣṇa in different ways when He entered it with His elder brother. The wrestlers saw Kṛṣṇa as a lightning bolt, the men of Mathurā as the best of males, the women as Cupid in person, the cowherd men as their relative, the impious rulers as a chastiser, His parents as their child, the King of the Bhojas as death, the unintelligent as the Supreme Lord's universal form, the yogīs as the Absolute Truth and the Vṛṣṇis as their supreme worshipable Deity.

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī quotes the following verse, which explains the ten attitudes toward Kṛṣṇa described here:

*raudro 'dbhutaś ca śṛṅgāro hāsyam vīro dayā tathā bhayānakaś ca bībhatsaḥ
śāntaḥ sa-prema-bhaktikaḥ*

"[There are ten different moods:] fury [perceived by the wrestlers], wonder [by the men], conjugal attraction [the women], laughter [the cowherds], chivalry [the kings], mercy [His parents], terror [Kāṁsa], ghastliness [the unintelligent], peaceful neutrality [the yogīs] and loving devotion [the Vṛṣṇis]."

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī points out that people like the wrestlers, Kāṁsa and the impious rulers perceive Kṛṣṇa as dangerous, angry or threatening because they fail to understand the actual position of the Personality of Godhead. Actually, Lord Kṛṣṇa is everyone's friend and well-wisher, but because we rebel against Him, He chastises us, and thus we may perceive Him as threatening. Kṛṣṇa, or God, is actually merciful, and when He punishes us, that is also His mercy.

Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura quotes the following Vedic statement: raso vai saḥ rasam hy evāyaṁ labdhvānandī bhavati. "He Himself is rasa, the taste or mellow of a particular relationship. And certainly one who achieves this rasa becomes ānandī, filled with bliss." (Taittirīya Upaniṣad 2.7.1)

Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī quotes a further verse to explain the word rasa:

vyatītya bhāvanā-vartma
yaś camatkāra-bhāra-bhūḥ hṛdi sattvojjvale bāḍham
svadate sa raso mataḥ

"That which is beyond imagination, heavy with wonder and relished in the heart shining with goodness—such is known as rasa."

As Śrīla Rūpa Gosvāmī elaborately explains in his Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, there are five main rasas—neutrality, servitude, friendship, parental love and conjugal love—and seven secondary rasas—amazement, humor, chivalry, compassion, fury, fear and dread. Thus altogether there are twelve rasas, and the supreme object of them all is Śrī Kṛṣṇa Himself. In other words, our love and affection are actually meant for Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Unfortunately, out of ignorance we stubbornly try to squeeze happiness and love out of material relationships, which are not directly connected to Kṛṣṇa, and thus life becomes a constant frustration. The solution is simple: surrender to Kṛṣṇa, love Kṛṣṇa, love Kṛṣṇa's devotees and be happy forever.

TEXT 18

हतं कुवल्यापीडं
दृष्ट्वा तावपि दुर्जयौ
कंसो मनस्यपि तदा
भृशमुद्विजि नृप

hataṁ kuvalayāpīḍaṁ
dṛṣṭvā tāv api durjayau kaṁso manasy api tadā
bhṛśam udvivije nṛpa

SYNONYMS

hatam—killed; kuvalayāpīḍam—the elephant Kuvalayāpīḍa; dṛṣṭvā—seeing; tau—the two of Them, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma; api—and; durjayau—invincible; kaṁsaḥ—King Kaṁsa; manasi—in his mind; api—indeed; tadā—then; bhṛśam—exceedingly; udvivije—became anxious; nṛpa—O King (Parīkṣit).

TRANSLATION

When Kaṁsa saw that Kuvalayāpīḍa was dead and the two brothers were invincible, he was overwhelmed with anxiety, O King.

TEXT 19

तौ रेजतू रङ्गगतौ महाभुजौ
विचित्रवेषाभरणस्रगम्बरौ
यथा नटावुत्तमवेषधारिणौ मनः क्षिपन्तौ प्रभया निरीक्षताम् tau rejatū raṅga-gatau mahā-bhujau vicitra-veṣābharaṇa-srag-ambarau yathā naṭāv uttama-veṣa-dhāriṇau manaḥ kṣipantau prabhayā nirīkṣatām

SYNONYMS

tau—the two of Them; rejatūḥ—shone; raṅga-gatau—present in the arena; mahā-bhujau—the mighty-armed Lords; vicitra—variegated; veṣa—whose style of dress; ābharaṇa—ornaments; srag—garlands; ambarau—and garments; yathā—like; naṭau—two actors; uttama—excellent; veṣa—costumes;

dhāriṇau—wearing; manaḥ—the minds; kṣipantau—striking; prabhayā—with Their effulgences; nirīkṣatām—of those who looked on.

TRANSLATION

Arrayed with variegated ornaments, garlands and garments, just like a pair of excellently costumed actors, the two mighty-armed Lords shone splendidly in the arena. Indeed, They overpowered the minds of all onlookers with Their effulgences.

TEXT 20

निरीक्ष्य तावुत्तमपूरुषौ जना
मञ्चस्थिता नागरराष्ट्रका नृप
प्रहर्षवेगोत्कलितेक्षणाननाः पपुर्न तृप्ता नयनैस्तदाननम्

nirīkṣya tāv uttama-pūruṣau janā mañca-sthitā nāgara-rāṣṭrakā nṛpa praharṣa-vegotkalitekṣaṇānanāḥ papur na tṛptā nayanais tad-ānanam

SYNONYMS

nirīkṣya—seeing; tau—both of Them; uttama-pūruṣau—the Supreme Personalities; janāḥ—the people; mañca—in the viewing galleries; sthitāḥ—sitting; nāgara—the city-dwellers; rāṣṭrakāḥ—and the people from outlying districts; nṛpa—O King; praharṣa—of their joy; vega—by the force; utkalita—made to expand widely; ikṣaṇa—their eyes; ānanāḥ—and faces; papuḥ—they drank; na—not; tṛptāḥ—satiated; nayanaiḥ—with their eyes;

tat—of Them; ānanam—the faces.

TRANSLATION

O King, as the citizens of the city and the people from outlying districts gazed upon those two Supreme Personalities from their seats in the galleries, the force of the people's happiness caused their eyes to open wide and their faces to blossom. They drank in the vision of the Lords' faces without becoming satiated.

TEXTS 21-22

पिबन्त इव चक्षुभ्यां
लिहन्त इव जिह्वया
जिघ्रन्त इव नासाभ्यां
क्षिष्यन्त इव बाहुभिः

ऊचुः परस्परं ते वै
यथादृष्टं यथाश्रुतम्
तद्रूपगुणमाधुर्य-प्रागल्भ्यस्मारिता इव

pibanta iva cakṣurbhyām lihanta iva jihvayā jighranta iva nāsābhyām śliṣyanta iva bāhubhiḥ

ūcuḥ parasparam te vai yathā-dṛṣṭam yathā-śrutam

tad-rūpa-guṇa-mādhurya-prāgalbhya-smāritā iva

SYNONYMS

pibantaḥ—drinking; iva—as if; cakṣurbhyām—with their eyes; lihantaḥ—licking; iva—as if; jihvayā—with their tongues; jighrantaḥ—smelling; iva—as if; nāsābhyām—with their nostrils; sliṣyantaḥ—embracing; iva—as if; bāhubhiḥ—with their arms; ūcuḥ—they spoke; parasparam—among one another; te—they; vai—indeed; yathā—just as; dṛṣṭam—they had seen; yathā—just as; śrutam—they had heard; tat—Their; rūpa—of the beauty; guṇa—qualities; mādhurya—charm; prāgalbhya—and bravery; smāritāḥ—reminded; iva—as if.

TRANSLATION

The people seemed to be drinking Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma with their eyes, licking Them with their tongues, smelling Them with their nostrils and embracing Them with their arms. Reminded of the Lords' beauty, character, charm and bravery, the members of the audience began describing these features to one another according to what they had seen and heard.

PURPORT

Naturally, those who assembled in Mathurā for the wrestling festival had heard the latest news of Kṛṣṇa's and Balarāma's adventures in the city—how the Lords had broken the sacrificial bow, defeated the police and killed the elephant Kuvalayāpīḍa. And now that the people were seeing Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma enter the arena, their greatest expectations were confirmed. Kṛṣṇa is the embodiment of all beauty, fame and opulence, and therefore those assembled in the wrestling arena became fully satisfied by glorifying what they had heard of Him and were now seeing.

TEXT 23

एतौ भगवतः साक्षाद्
धरेर्नारायणस्य हि
अवतीर्णाविहांशेन
वसुदेवस्य वेश्मनि

*etau bhagavataḥ sākṣād dharer nārāyaṇasya hi
avatīrṇāv ihāṁśena
vasudevasya veśmani*

SYNONYMS

etau—these two; bhagavataḥ—of the Supreme Lord; sākṣāt—directly; hareḥ—of Lord Hari; nārāyaṇasya—Nārāyaṇa; hi—certainly; avatīrṇau—have descended; iha—to this world; amśena—as expansions; vasudevasya—of Vasudeva; veśmani—in the home.

TRANSLATION

[The people said:] These two boys are certainly expansions of the Supreme Lord Nārāyaṇa who have descended to this world in the home of Vasudeva.

TEXT 24

एष वै किल देवक्यां
जातो नीतश्च गोकुलम्

कालमेतं वसन् गूढो ववृधे नन्दवेश्मनि

*eṣa vai kila devakyām
jāto nītaś ca gokulam kālam etaṁ vasan gūḍho vavṛdhe nanda-veśmani*

SYNONYMS

eṣaḥ—this (Kṛṣṇa); vai—certainly; kila—indeed; devakyām—from the womb of Devaki; jātaḥ—born; nītaḥ—brought; ca—and; gokulam—to Gokula; kālam—time; etaṁ—this much; vasan—living; gūḍhaḥ—hidden; vavṛdhe—He grew up; nanda-veśmani—in the house of Nanda Mahārāja.

TRANSLATION

This one [Kṛṣṇa] took birth from mother Devakī and was brought to Gokula, where He has remained concealed all this time, growing up in the house of King Nanda.

TEXT 25

पूतनानेन नीतान्तं
चक्रवातश्च दानवः
अर्जुनौ गुह्यकः केशी धेनुकोऽन्ये च तद्विधाः

pūtanānena nītāntaṁ cakravātaś ca dānavah

arjunau guhyakaḥ keśī
dhenuko 'nye ca tad-vidhāḥ

SYNONYMS

pūtanā—the witch Pūtanā; anena—by Him; nītā—brought; antam—to her end; cakravātaḥ—whirlwind; ca—and; dānavaḥ—the demon; arjunau—the twin Arjuna trees; guhyakaḥ—the demon Śaṅkhacūḍa; keśī—the horse demon, Keśī; dhenukaḥ—the jackass demon, Dhenuka; anye—others; ca—and; tat-vidhāḥ—like them.

TRANSLATION

He made Pūtanā and the whirlwind demon meet with death, pulled down the twin Arjuna trees and killed Śaṅkhacūḍa, Keśī, Dhenuka and similar demons.

TEXTS 26-27

गावः सपाला एतेन
दावाग्नेः परिमोचिताः
कालियो दमितः सर्प
इन्द्रश्च विमदः कृतः

सप्ताहमेकहस्तेन
धृतोऽद्रिप्रवरोऽमुना
वर्षवाताशनिभ्यश्च परित्रातं च गोकुलम्

*gāvaḥ sa-pālā etena
dāvāgneḥ parimocitāḥ kāliyo damitaḥ sarpa indraś ca vimadaḥ kṛtaḥ

saptāham eka-hastena dhṛto 'dri-pravaro 'munā varṣa-vātāśanibhyaś ca
paritrātaṁ ca gokulam*

SYNONYMS

gāvaḥ—the cows; sa—together with; pālāḥ—their tenders; etena—by Him; dāva-agneḥ—from the forest fire; parimocitāḥ—saved; kāliyaḥ—Kāliya; damitaḥ—subdued; sarpaḥ—the serpent; indraḥ—Indra; ca—and; vimadaḥ—prideless; kṛtaḥ—made; sapta-aham—for seven days; eka-hastena—with one hand; dhṛtaḥ—held; adri—of mountains; pravaraḥ—the most eminent; amunā—by Him; varṣa—from rain; vāta—wind; aśanibhyaḥ—and hail; ca—also; paritrātaṁ—delivered; ca—and; gokulam—the residents of Gokula.

TRANSLATION

He saved the cows and the cowherds from a forest fire and subdued the serpent Kāliya. He removed Lord Indra's false pride by holding up the best of mountains with one hand for an entire week, thus protecting the inhabitants of Gokula from rain, wind and hail.

TEXT 28

गोप्योऽस्य नित्यमुदित-हसितप्रेक्षणं मुखम्

पश्यन्त्यो विविधांस्तापांसु तरन्ति स्माश्रमं मुदा

gopyo 'sya nitya-mudita-hasita-prekṣaṇam mukham paśyantyo vividhāṁs tāpāṁs taranti smāśramam mudā

SYNONYMS

gopyaḥ—the young gopīs; asya—His; nitya—always; mudita—cheerful; hasita—smiling; prekṣaṇam—whose glance; mukham—the face; paśyantyaḥ—seeing; vividhān—of various kinds; tāpān—distress; taranti sma—transcended; aśramam—free from fatigue; mudā—happily.

TRANSLATION

The gopīs overcame all kinds of distress and experienced great happiness by seeing His face, which is always cheerful with smiling glances and ever free of fatigue.

TEXT 29

वदन्त्यनेन वंशोऽयं
यदोः सुबहुविश्रुतः
श्रियं यशो महत्त्वं च लप्स्यते परिरक्षितः

vadanty anena vaṁśo 'yam yadoḥ su-bahu-viśrutaḥ

śriyam yaśo mahatvam ca lapsyate parirakṣitaḥ

SYNONYMS

vadanti—they say; anena—by Him; vaṁśaḥ—the dynasty; ayam—this; yadoḥ—descending from King Yadu; su-bahu—very much; viśrutaḥ—famous; śriyam—riches; yaśaḥ—glory; mahatvam—power; ca—and; lapsyate—it will achieve; parirakṣitaḥ—protected on all sides.

TRANSLATION

It is said that under His full protection the Yadu dynasty will become extremely famous and attain wealth, glory and power.

TEXT 30

अयं चास्याग्रजः श्रीमान्
रामः कमललोचनः
प्रलम्बो निहतो येन
वत्सको ये बकादयः

*ayam cāsyāgrajaḥ śrīmān
rāmaḥ kamala-locanaḥ pralambo nihato yena
vatsako ye bakādayaḥ*

SYNONYMS

ayam—this; ca—and; asya—His; agra-jah—elder brother; śrī-man—the possessor of all opulences; rāmaḥ—Lord Balarāma; kamala-locanaḥ—the lotus-eyed; pralambaḥ—the demon Pralamba; nihataḥ—killed; yena—by whom; vatsakaḥ—Vatsāsura; ye—who; baka—Bakāsura; ādayaḥ—and others.

TRANSLATION

This lotus-eyed elder brother of His, Lord Balarāma, is the proprietor of all transcendental opulences. He has killed Pralamba, Vatsaka, Baka and other demons.

PURPORT

In fact two of the demons mentioned here were killed by Kṛṣṇa, not Balarāma. The reason for the mistake is that as news of Kṛṣṇa's exploits spread among ordinary people, the facts became somewhat muddled. The same tendency can be observed in modern newspapers.

TEXT 31

जनेष्वेवं ब्रुवाणेषु
तूर्येषु निनदत्सु च
कृष्णरामौ समाभाष्य चाणूरो वाक्यमब्रवीत्

janeṣu evaṁ bruvāṇeṣu
tūryeṣu ninadatsu ca
kṛṣṇa-rāmau samābhāṣya
cāṇūro vākyaṁ abravīt

SYNONYMS

janeṣu—as the people; evam—thus; bruvāṇeṣu—were speaking; tūryeṣu—as the musical instruments; ninadatsu—were resounding; ca—and; kṛṣṇa-rāmau—Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma; samābhāṣya—addressing; cānūraḥ—the demonic wrestler Cānūra; vākyam—words; abravīt—said.

TRANSLATION

While the people talked in this way and the musical instruments resounded, the wrestler Cānūra addressed Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma with the following words.

PURPORT

Cānūra could not tolerate that the audience was praising Kṛṣṇa so highly. Therefore he had to say something to the two brothers.

TEXT 32

हे नन्दसूनो हे राम
भवन्तौ वीरसम्मतौ
नियुद्धकुशलौ श्रुत्वा राज्ञाहूतौ दिदृक्षुणा

he nanda-sūno he rāma
bhavantau vīra-sammatau niyuddha-kuśalau śrutvā rājñāhūtau didṛkṣuṇā

SYNONYMS

he nanda-sūno—O son of Nanda; he rāma—O Rāma; bhavantau—You two; vīra—by heroes; sammatau—are well respected; niyuddha—in wrestling; kuśalau—skillful; śrutvā—hearing; rājñā—by the King; āhūtau—called for;

didṛkṣuṇā—who wanted to see.

TRANSLATION

[Cāṇūra said:] O son of Nanda, O Rāma, You two are well respected by courageous men and are both skillful at wrestling. Having heard of Your prowess, the King has called You here, wanting to see for himself.

TEXT 33

प्रियं राज्ञः प्रकुर्वत्यः
श्रेयो विन्दन्ति वै प्रजाः
मनसा कर्मणा वाचा विपरीतमतोऽन्यथा

*priyam rājñah prakurvatyah śreyo vindanti vai prajāh manasā karmaṇā vācā
viparītam ato 'nyathā*

SYNONYMS

priyam—the pleasure; rājñah—of the King; prakurvatyah—executing; śreyah—good fortune; vindanti—acquire; vai—indeed; prajāh—citizens; manasā—with their minds; karmaṇā—with their deeds; vācā—with their words; viparītam—opposite; atah—to this; anyathā—otherwise.

TRANSLATION

Subjects of the King who try to please him with their thoughts, acts and words are sure to achieve good fortune, but those who fail to do so will suffer the opposite fate.

TEXT 34

नित्यं प्रमुदिता गोपा
वत्सपाला यथास्फुटम्
वनेषु मल्लयुद्धेन
क्रीडन्तश्चारयन्ति गाः

*nityam pramuditā gopā
vatsa-pālā yathā-sphuṭam vaneṣu malla-yuddhena
krīḍantaś cārayanti gāḥ*

SYNONYMS

nityam—always; pramuditāḥ—very happy; gopāḥ—cowherds; vatsapālāḥ—tending the calves; yathā-sphuṭam—obviously; vaneṣu—in the various forests; malla-yuddhena—with wrestling; krīḍantaḥ—playing; cārayanti—they graze; gāḥ—the cows.

TRANSLATION

It is well known that cowherd boys are always joyful as they tend their calves, and that the boys playfully wrestle with each other while grazing their animals in the various forests.

PURPORT

Here Cāṇūra explains how the two brothers came to be expert at wrestling.

TEXT 35

तस्माद्राज्ञः प्रियं यूयं
वयं च करवाम हे
भूतानि नः प्रसीदन्ति सर्वभूतमयो नृपः

*tasmād rājñah priyaṁ yūyaṁ vayaṁ ca karavāma he bhūtāni naḥ prasīdanti
sarva-bhūta-mayo nṛpaḥ*

SYNONYMS

tasmāt—therefore; rājñah—the King's; priyaṁ—pleasure; yūyaṁ—You two; vayaṁ—we; ca—also; karavāma he—let us do; bhūtāni—all living beings; naḥ—with us; prasīdanti—will be satisfied; sarva-bhūta—all beings; mayah—comprising; nṛpaḥ—the king.

TRANSLATION

Therefore let's do what the King wants. Everyone will be pleased with us, for the king embodies all living beings.

TEXT 36

तन्निश्चयान्ब्रवीत्कृष्णो
देशकालोचितं वचः

नियुद्धमात्मनोऽभीष्टं मन्यमानोऽभिनन्द्य च

tan niśamyābravīt kṛṣṇo deśa-kālocitaṁ vacaḥ niyuddham ātmano 'bhīṣṭaṁ manyamāno 'bhinandya ca

SYNONYMS

tat—that; niśamya—hearing; abravīt—spoke; kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; deśa—for the place; kāla—and time; ucitaṁ—appropriate; vacaḥ—words; niyuddham—wrestling; ātmanaḥ—to Himself; abhīṣṭaṁ—desirable; manyamānaḥ—considering; abhinandya—welcoming; ca—and.

TRANSLATION

Hearing this, Lord Kṛṣṇa, who liked to wrestle and welcomed the challenge, replied with words appropriate to the time and place.

TEXT 37

प्रजा भोजपतेरस्य
वयं चापि वनेचराः
करवाम प्रियं नित्यं तन्नः परमनुग्रहः

*prajā bhoja-pater asya vayaṁ cāpi vane-carāḥ
karavāma priyaṁ nityaṁ*

tan naḥ param anugrahaḥ

SYNONYMS

prajāḥ—subjects; bhoja-pateḥ—of the King of the Bhojas; asya—of him; vayam—We; ca—also; api—even though; vane-carāḥ—wandering in the forest; karavāma—We must execute; priyam—his pleasure; nityam—always; tat—that; naḥ—for Us; param—the greatest; anugrahaḥ—benefit.

TRANSLATION

[Lord Kṛṣṇa said:] Although forest-dwellers, We are also subjects of the Bhoja king. We must gratify his desires, for such behavior will confer upon Us the greatest benefit.

TEXT 38

बाला वयं तुल्यबलैः
क्रीडिष्यामो यथोचितम्
भवेन्नियुद्धं माधर्मः स्पृशेन्मल्लसभासदः

bālā vayam tulya-balaiḥ krīḍiṣyāmo yathocitam bhaven niyuddham mādharmaḥ spṛśen malla-sabhā-sadaḥ

SYNONYMS

bālāḥ—young boys; vayam—We; tulya—equal; balaiḥ—with those whose strength; krīḍiṣyāmaḥ—We will play; yathā ucitam—in a fitting manner;

bhavet—should occur; niyuddham—the wrestling match; mā—not; adharmah—irreligion; spṛśet—should touch; malla-sabhā—of the assembly in the wrestling arena; sadaḥ—the members.

TRANSLATION

We are just young boys and should play with those of equal strength. The wrestling match must go on properly so that irreligion does not taint the respectable members of the audience.

TEXT 39

चाणूर उवाच
न बालो न किशोरस्त्वं
बलश्च बलिनां वरः
लीलयेभो हतो येन
सहस्रद्विपसत्त्वभृत

cāṇūra uvāca
na bālo na kiśoras tvam balaś ca balinām varaḥ līlayebho hato yena
sahasra-dvipa-sattva-bhṛt

SYNONYMS

cāṇūraḥ uvāca—Cāṇūra said; na—not; bālaḥ—a boy; na—not; kiśoraḥ—a youth; tvam—You; balaḥ—Balarāma; ca—and; balinām—of the strong; varaḥ—the best; līlayā—as play; ibhaḥ—the elephant; hataḥ—killed; yena—by whom; sahasra—of one thousand; dvipa—elephants; sattva—of the strength;

bhṛt—the bearer.

TRANSLATION

Cāṇūra said: You aren't really a child or even a young man, and neither is Balarāma, the strongest of the strong. After all, You playfully killed an elephant who had the strength of a thousand other elephants.

TEXT 40

तस्माद्भवद्भ्यां बलिभिर्
योद्धव्यं नानयोऽत्र वै
मयि विक्रम वार्ष्णेय बलेन सह मुष्टिकः

*tasmād bhavadbhyām balibhir yoddhavyam nānayo 'tra vai mayi vikrama vārṣṇeya
balena saha muṣṭikāḥ*

SYNONYMS

tasmāt—therefore; bhavadbhyām—You two; balibhiḥ—with those who are strong; yoddhavyam—should fight; na—there is not; anayaḥ—injustice; atra—in this; vai—certainly; mayi—to me; vikrama—(show) Your prowess; vārṣṇeya—O descendant of Vṛṣṇi; balena saha—with Balarāma; muṣṭikāḥ—Muṣṭika (should fight).

TRANSLATION

Therefore You two should fight powerful wrestlers. There's certainly nothing unfair about that. You, O descendant of Vṛṣṇi, can show Your prowess against me, and Balarāma can fight with Muṣṭika.

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Forty-third Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "Kṛṣṇa Kills the Elephant Kuvalayāpīḍa."

44. The Killing of Kāṁsa

This chapter tells how Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma killed the wrestlers, how Kṛṣṇa killed Kāṁsa and consoled Kāṁsa's wives, and how the two Lords were reunited with Their mother and father.

Deciding to wrestle, Lord Kṛṣṇa faced off against Cāṇūra, and Lord Baladeva took on Muṣṭika. Battling arm to arm, head to head, knee to knee and chest to chest, the opponents attacked each other so fiercely that they appeared to be harming even their own bodies. The ladies in the arena, seeing the violent battle, began to condemn the King and all the members of the assembly: "A respectable audience should never have allowed a wrestling match between such huge wrestlers, whose limbs are as tough as lightning bolts, and such tender young boys, who are just entering youth. An intelligent person should never enter an assembly if he sees injustice being done there." Because Vasudeva and Devakī did not fully understand the power of Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, they became extremely unhappy when they heard the women of the audience speak these words.

Śrī Kṛṣṇa then grabbed Cāṇūra's arms, whirled him around several times and threw him to the ground, killing him. Muṣṭika met a similar fate: after being struck powerfully by Lord Baladeva's palm, he began vomiting blood and then fell down dead. Thereupon the wrestlers named Kūṭa, Śāla and Tośāla came forward, but Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma easily killed them with the blows of Their fists and feet. The remaining wrestlers, fearing for their lives, all fled.

Except for Kaṁsa, everyone present cheered Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma. The King, in a rage, stopped the festive music and ordered that Vasudeva, Nanda, Ugrasena and all the cowherds be severely punished and that Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma be driven from the assembly. Kṛṣṇa became furious when He heard Kaṁsa speak this way, and He instantly leapt onto the lofty royal dais. He grabbed Kaṁsa by the hair, hurled him down onto the floor of the wrestling ring and threw Himself on top of him. In this way, Kaṁsa met his death. Because out of fear Kaṁsa had always thought of Kṛṣṇa, after his death he gained the liberation of having a form like the Lord's.

Kaṁsa's eight brothers then attacked Kṛṣṇa, but Balarāma easily killed each of them with His club, just as a lion kills defenseless animals. Kettledrums resounded in the sky as the joyful demigods rained down flowers and chanted the glories of Lord Kṛṣṇa and Lord Balarāma.

The wives of Kaṁsa, grieving for their husband, lamented that he had died because of his violence toward other living beings and his lack of respect for Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Soul, who creates, maintains and destroys the entire universe. The Lord consoled the widows, had the funeral rites performed for Kaṁsa and his brothers and then released His mother and father from bondage. Kṛṣṇa offered obeisances at His parents' feet, but they, now understanding Him to be the Supreme Personality of Godhead, did not embrace Him.

TEXT 1

श्रीशुक उवाच

एवं चर्चितसङ्कल्पो
भगवान्मधुसूदनः
आससादाथ चणूरं मुष्टिकं रोहिणीसुतः

śrī-śuka uvāca
evam carcita-saṅkalpo
bhagavān madhusūdanaḥ
āsasādātha caṇūraṁ
muṣṭikam rohiṇī-sutaḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; evam—thus; carcita-fixing; saṅkalpaḥ—His determination; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; madhusūdanaḥ-Kṛṣṇa; āsasāda—confronted; atha—then; cāṇūraṁ—Cāṇūra; muṣṭikam—Muṣṭika; rohiṇī-sutaḥ—the son of Rohiṇī, Lord Balarāma.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Thus addressed, Lord Kṛṣṇa made up His mind to accept the challenge. He paired off with Cāṇūra, and Lord Balarāma with Muṣṭika.

TEXT 2

हस्ताभ्यां हस्तयोर्बद्ध्वा
पद्भ्यामेव च पादयोः
विचकर्षतुरन्योन्यं

प्रसह्य विजिगीषया

*hastābhyām hastayor baddhvā padbhyām eva ca pādayoḥ vicakarṣatur anyonyam
prasahya vijigīṣayā*

SYNONYMS

hastābhyām—with their hands; hastayoḥ—by the hands; baddhvā—seizing; padbhyām—with their legs; eva ca—also; pādayoḥ—by the legs; vicakarṣatuḥ—they (Kṛṣṇa paired with Cāṇūra, and Balarāma with Muṣṭika) dragged; anyonyam—each other; prasahya—with force; vijigīṣayā—with desire for victory.

TRANSLATION

Seizing each other's hands and locking legs with each other, the opponents struggled powerfully, eager for victory.

TEXT 3

अरत्नी द्वे अरत्निभ्यां
जानुभ्यां चैव जानुनी
शिरः शीर्ष्णोरसोरस्ताव अन्योन्यमभिजघ्नतुः

aratnī dve aratnibhyām jānubhyām caiva jānunī śiraḥ śīrṣṇorasoras tāv

anyonyam abhijaghnatuḥ

SYNONYMS

aratnī—against the opponent's fists; dve—two; aratnibhyām—their fists; jānubhyām—their knees; ca eva—also; jānuni—against the opponent's knees; śiraḥ—head; śiṛṣṇā—with head; urasā—with chest; uraḥ—chest; tau—they in pairs; anyonyam—each other; abhijaghnatuḥ—struck.

TRANSLATION

They each struck fists against fists, knees against knees, head against head and chest against chest.

PURPORT

The word aratni in this verse may indicate the elbow as well as the fist. Thus blows were perhaps also struck with the elbow, a technique seen today in various martial arts.

TEXT 4

परिभ्रामणविक्षेप-परिरम्भावपातनैः
उत्सर्पणापसर्पणैश्च चान्योन्यं प्रत्यरुन्धताम्

paribhrāmaṇa-vikṣepa-parirambhāvapātanaḥ utsarṣaṇāpasarṣaṇaiś
cānyonyam pratyarundhatām

SYNONYMS

paribhrāmaṇa—with wheeling the other about; vikṣepa—shoving; parirambha—crushing; avapātanaiḥ—and throwing down; utsarpaṇa—releasing and running in front; apasarpaṇaiḥ—going behind; ca—and; anyonyam—each other; pratyarundhatām—they resisted.

TRANSLATION

Each fighter contended with his opponent by dragging him about in circles, shoving and crushing him, throwing him down and running before and behind him.

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī explains that the word parirambha indicates crushing one's opponent with one's arms.

TEXT 5

उत्थापनैरुन्नयनैश्च
चालनैः स्थापनैरपि
परस्परं जिगीषन्ताव अपचक्रतुरात्मनः

utthāpanair unnayanaiś cālanaiḥ sthāpanair api parasparam jigīṣantāv apacakratur ātmanah

SYNONYMS

utthāpanaiḥ—with lifting up; unnayanaiḥ—carrying; cālanaiḥ—pushing away; sthāpanaiḥ—holding stationary; api—also; parasparam—each other; jigīṣantau—wanting victory; apacakratuḥ—they harmed; ātmanaḥ—(even) themselves.

TRANSLATION

Forcefully lifting and carrying each other, pushing each other away and holding each other down, the fighters hurt even their own bodies in their great eagerness for victory.

PURPORT

Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī explains that although Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma did not, of course, harm Themselves, it appeared that way to Cāṇūra, Muṣṭika and others of mundane vision. In other words, the Lords were fully absorbed in the pastime of being wrestlers.

TEXT 6

तद्वलाबलवद्युद्धं
समेताः सर्वयोषिताः
ऊचुः परस्परं राजन् सानुकम्पा वरूथशः

tad balābalavad yuddham
sametāḥ sarva-yoṣitāḥ
ūcuḥ parasparam rājan

sānukampā varūthaśaḥ

SYNONYMS

tat—that; bala-abala—the strong and the weak; vat—involving; yuddham—fight; sametāḥ—assembled; sarva—all; yoṣitaḥ—the women; ūcuḥ—said; parasparam—to one another; rājan—O King (Parīkṣit); sa-anukampāḥ—feeling compassion; varūthaśaḥ—in groups.

TRANSLATION

My dear King, all the women present, considering the match an unfair fight between the strong and the weak, felt extreme anxiety due to compassion. They assembled in groups around the arena and spoke to one another as follows.

TEXT 7

महानयं बताधर्म
एषां राजसभासदाम्
ये बलाबलवद्युद्धं राज्ञोऽन्विच्छन्ति पश्यतः

mahān ayam batādharma
eṣāṁ rāja-sabhā-sadām ye balābalavad yuddham
rājño 'nviçchanti paśyataḥ

SYNONYMS

mahān—great; ayam—this; bata—alas; adharmah—act of irreligion; eṣām—on the part of these; rāja-sabhā—in the King's assembly; sadām—persons present;

ye—who; bala-abala-vat—between strong and weak; yuddham—a fight; rājñah—while the King; anvicchanti—they also desire; paśyataḥ—is watching.

TRANSLATION

[The women said:] Alas, what a greatly irreligious act the members of this royal assembly are committing! As the King watches this fight between the strong and the weak, they also want to see it.

PURPORT

The idea the ladies are expressing is that even if the King somehow wanted to see such an unfair match, why should the respectable members of the assembly also desire to see it? These feelings are natural. Even nowadays, if in a public place we find a violent fight going on between a very strong, large person and a weaker, smaller person, we are aroused to indignation. Compassionate women are especially offended and enraged by such unfair violence.

TEXT 8

क्व वज्रसारसर्वाङ्गौ
मल्लौ शैलेन्द्रसन्निभौ
क्व चातिसुकुमाराङ्गौ किशोरौ नाप्तयौवनौ

kva vajra-sāra-sarvāṅgau
mallau śailendra-sannibhau kva cāti-sukumārāṅgau
kiśorau nāpta-yauvanau

SYNONYMS

kva—where, on the one hand; vajra—of lightning; sāra—with the strength; sarva—all; aṅgau—whose limbs; mallau—two wrestlers; śaila—mountains; indra—like the chief; sannibhau—whose appearance; kva—where; ca—and, on the other hand; ati—very; su-kumāra—tender; aṅgau—whose limbs; kiśorau—two youths; na āpta—not having yet attained; yauvanau—Their maturity.

TRANSLATION

What comparison can there be between these two professional wrestlers, with limbs as strong as lightning bolts and bodies resembling mighty mountains, and these two young, immature boys with exceedingly tender limbs?

TEXT 9

धर्मव्यतिक्रमो ह्यस्य
समाजस्य ध्रुवं भवेत्
यत्राधर्मः समुत्तिष्ठेत् न स्थेयं तत्र कर्हिचित्

dharma-vyatikramo hy asya samājasya dhruvaṁ bhavet yatrādharmah samuttiṣṭhen na stheyam tatra karhicit

SYNONYMS

dharma—of religious principles; vyatikramah—transgression; hi—indeed;

asya—by this; samājasya—company; dhruvam—certainly; bhavet—must be; yatra—wherein; adharmah—irreligion; samuttiṣṭhet—has fully arisen; na stheyam—one should not remain; tatra—there; karhicit—for any duration of time at all.

TRANSLATION

Religious principles have certainly been violated in this assembly. One should not remain for even a moment in a place where irreligion is flourishing.

TEXT 10

न सभां प्रविशेत्प्राज्ञः
सभ्यदोषाननुस्मरन्
अब्रुवन् विब्रुवन्नज्ञो नरः किल्बिषमश्नुते

na sabhām praviśet prājñah sabhya-doṣān anusmaran abruvan vibruvann ajño
narah kilbiṣam aśnute

SYNONYMS

na—not; sabhām—an assembly; praviśet—should enter; prājñah—the wise person; sabhya—of the assembly members; doṣān—sinful discrepancies; anusmaran—keeping in mind; abruvan—not speaking; vibruvan—speaking wrongly; ajñah—ignorant (or pretending to be so); narah—a man; kilbiṣam—sin; aśnute—incurs.

TRANSLATION

A wise person should not enter an assembly if he knows the participants there are committing acts of impropriety. And if, having entered such an assembly, he fails to speak the truth, speaks falsely or pleads ignorance, he will certainly incur sin.

TEXT 11

वल्गतः शत्रुमभितः
कृष्णस्य वदनाम्बुजम्
वीक्ष्यतां श्रमवार्युप्तं पद्मकोशमिवाम्बुभिः

*valgataḥ śatrum abhitaḥ kṛṣṇasya vadanāmbujam vīkṣyatām śrama-vāry-uptam
padma-kośam ivāmbubhiḥ*

SYNONYMS

valgataḥ—leaping; śatrum—of His enemy; abhitaḥ—on all sides; kṛṣṇasya—of Kṛṣṇa; vadana—the face; ambujam—lotuslike; vīkṣyatām—you should see; śrama—of fatigue; vāri—with the moisture; uptam—covered; padma—of a lotus flower; kośam—the whorl; iva—like; ambubhiḥ—with droplets of water.

TRANSLATION

Just see the lotus face of Kṛṣṇa as He darts around His foe! That face, covered with drops of perspiration brought on by the strenuous fight, resembles a lotus covered with dew.

TEXT 12

किं न पश्यत रामस्य
मुखमाताम्रलोचनम्
मुष्टिकं प्रति सामर्षं हाससंरम्भशोभितम्

*kiṁ na paśyata rāmasya mukham ātāmra-lochanam muṣṭikam prati sāmārṣam
hāsa-saṁrambha-śobhitam*

SYNONYMS

kim—why; na paśyata—do you not see; rāmasya—of Lord Balarāma; mukham—the face; ātāmra—like copper; lochanam—with eyes; muṣṭikam—Muṣṭika; prati—toward; sa-amarṣam—with anger; hāsa—by His laughter; saṁrambha—and His absorption; śobhitam—beautified.

TRANSLATION

Don't you see the face of Lord Balarāma, with its eyes copper-red from His anger toward Muṣṭika and its beauty enhanced by His laughter and His absorption in the fight?

TEXT 13

पुण्या बत ब्रजभवो यदयं नृलिङ्गं

गूढः पुराणपुरुषो वनचित्रमाल्यः
गाः पालयन् सहबलः कणयंश्च वेणुं विक्रीदयाञ्चति गिरित्ररमार्चिताङ्घ्रिः

puṇyā bata vraja-bhuvo yad ayam nṛ-liṅga gūḍhaḥ purāṇa-puruṣo vana-citra-mālyaḥ gāḥ pālayan saha-balaḥ kvaṇayaṁś ca veṇum vikrīdayāñcati giritra-ramārcitāṅghriḥ

SYNONYMS

puṇyāḥ—pious; bata—indeed; vraja-bhuvaḥ—the various regions of the land of Vraja; yat—in which; ayam—this; nṛ—human; liṅga—by characteristics; gūḍhaḥ—disguised; purāṇa-puruṣaḥ—the primeval Personality of Godhead; vana—composed of flowers and other items of the forest; citra—of wonderful variety; mālyaḥ—whose garlands; gāḥ—the cows; pālayan—herding; saha—together with; balaḥ—Lord Balarāma; kvaṇayan—vibrating; ca—and; veṇum—His flute; vikrīdayā—with various pastimes; añcati—He moves about; giritra—by Lord Śiva; ramā—and the goddess of fortune; arcita—worshiped; aṅghriḥ—His feet.

TRANSLATION

How pious are the tracts of land in Vraja, for there the primeval Personality of Godhead, disguising Himself with human traits, wanders about, enacting His many pastimes! Adorned with wonderfully variegated forest garlands, He whose feet are worshiped by Lord Śiva and goddess Ramā vibrates His flute as He tends the cows in the company of Balarāma.

PURPORT

In this verse the devoted ladies in the audience point out the difference between Mathurā and Vṛndāvana. They want to indicate that in Vṛndāvana Kṛṣṇa simply enjoys with His girlfriends and boyfriends, whereas here in Mathurā the Lord is subjected to harassment by the bullying tactics of professional wrestlers. Thus the ladies are condemning the city of Mathurā because of their pain at seeing Kṛṣṇa in what they consider an unfair wrestling match. Of course, Mathurā is also one of the Lord's eternal abodes, but here the women in the assembly express their love in a critical mood.

TEXT 14

गोप्यस्तपः किमचरन् यदमुष्य रूपं
लावण्यसारमसमोर्ध्वमनन्यसिद्धम्
दृग्भिः पिबन्त्यनुसवाभिनवं दुरापम् एकान्तधाम यशसः श्रीय ऐश्वरस्य

gopyas tapaḥ kim acarān yad amuṣya rūpaṁ lāvaṇya-sāram asamordhvam ananya-siddham dṛgbhiḥ pibanty anusavābhinavaṁ durāpam ekānta-dhāma yaśasaḥ śrīya aiśvarasya

SYNONYMS

gopyaḥ—the gopīs; tapaḥ—austerities; kim—what; acarān—performed; yat—from which; amuṣya—of such a one (Lord Kṛṣṇa); rūpaṁ—the form; lāvaṇya-sāram—the essence of loveliness; asama-ūrdhvam—not paralleled or surpassed; ananya-siddham—not perfected by any other ornament (self-perfect); dṛgbhiḥ—by the eyes; pibanti—they drink; anusava-abhinavam—constantly new; durāpam—difficult to obtain; ekānta-dhāma—the only abode; yaśasaḥ—of fame; śrīyaḥ—of beauty;

aiśvarasya—of opulence.

TRANSLATION

What austerities must the gopīs have performed! With their eyes they always drink the nectar of Lord Kṛṣṇa's form, which is the essence of loveliness and is not to be equaled or surpassed. That loveliness is the only abode of beauty, fame and opulence. It is self-perfect, ever fresh and extremely rare.

PURPORT

The word meanings and translation for this verse are from Śrīla Prabhupāda's Caitanya-caritāmṛta (Ādi 4.156).

TEXT 15

या दोहनेऽवहनने मथनोपलेप
प्रेङ्खेङ्खनार्भरुदितोक्षणमार्जनादौ
गायन्ति चैनमनुरक्तधियोऽश्रुकण्ठ्यो धन्या व्रजस्त्रिय उरुक्रमचित्तयानाः

yā dohane 'vahanane mathanopalepa preṅkheṅkhanārbha-ruditokṣaṇa-mārjanādaū gāyanti cainam anurakta-dhiyo 'śru-kaṇṭhyo dhanyā vraja-striya urukrama-citta-yānāḥ

SYNONYMS

yaḥ—who (the gopīs); dohane—while milking; avahanane—threshing;
mathana—churning; upalepa—smearing; preṅkha—on swings;
inṅkhana—swinging; arbha-rudita—(taking care of) crying babies;

ukṣaṇa—sprinkling; mārjana—cleaning; ādau—and so on; gāyanti—they sing; ca—and; enam—about Him; anurakta—very much attached; dhiyaḥ—whose minds; aśru—with tears; kaṇṭhyaḥ—whose throats; dhanyāḥ—fortunate; vraja-striyaḥ—the ladies of Vraja; urukrama—of Lord Kṛṣṇa; citta—by consciousness; yānāḥ—whose acquisition of all desired objects.

TRANSLATION

The ladies of Vraja are the most fortunate of women because, with their minds fully attached to Kṛṣṇa and their throats always choked up with tears, they constantly sing about Him while milking the cows, winnowing grain, churning butter, gathering cow dung for fuel, riding on swings, taking care of their crying babies, sprinkling the ground with water, cleaning their houses, and so on. By their exalted Kṛṣṇa consciousness they automatically acquire all desirable things.

TEXT 16

प्रातर्ब्रजाद् व्रजत आविशतश्च सायं
गोभिः समं कणयतोऽस्य निशम्य वेणुम्
निर्गम्य तूर्णमबलाः पथि भूरिपुण्याः पश्यन्ति सस्मितमुखं सदयावलोकम्

prātar vrajād vrajata āviśataś ca sāyam gobhiḥ samam kvaṇayato 'sya niśamya veṇum nirgamya tūrṇam abalāḥ pathi bhūri-puṇyāḥ paśyanti sa-smita-mukhaṁ sa-dayāvalokam

SYNONYMS

prātaḥ—in the early morning; vrajāt—from Vraja; vrajataḥ—of Him who is going; āviśataḥ—entering; ca—and; sāyam—in the evening; gobhiḥ samam—together with the cows; kvaṇayataḥ—who is playing; asya—His; niśamya—hearing; veṇum—the flute; nirgamya—coming out; tūrṇam—quickly; abalāḥ—the women; pathi—on the road; bhūri—extremely; puṇyāḥ—pious; paśyanti—they see; sa—with; smita—smiling; mukham—face; sa-daya—merciful; avalokam—with glances.

TRANSLATION

When the gopés hear Kṛṣṇa playing His flute as He leaves Vraja in the morning with His cows or returns with them at sunset, the young girls quickly come out of their houses to see Him. They must have performed many pious activities to be able to see Him as He walks on the road, His smiling face mercifully glancing upon them.

TEXT 17

एवं प्रभाषमाणासु
स्त्रीषु योगेश्वरो हरिः
शत्रुं हन्तुं मनश्चक्रे भगवान् भरतर्षभ

evam prabhāṣamāṇāsu
strīṣu yogeśvaro hariḥ śatrum hantum manaś cakre bhagavān bharatarṣabha

SYNONYMS

evam—in this manner; prabhāṣamāṇāsu—while they were speaking; strīṣu—the women; yoga-īśvaraḥ—the master of all mystic power; hariḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; śatrum—His enemy; hantum—to kill; manaḥ cakre—made up His mind; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; bharata-ṛṣabha—O hero of the Bhāratas.

TRANSLATION

[Śukadeva Gosvāmī continued:] As the women spoke thus, O hero of the Bhāratas, Lord Kṛṣṇa, the master of all mystic power, made up His mind to kill His opponent.

TEXT 18

सभयाः स्त्रीगिरः श्रुत्वा
पुत्रस्नेहशुचातुरौ
पितरावन्वतप्येतां पुत्रयोरबुधौ बलम्

sa-bhayāḥ strī-giraḥ śrutvā putra-sneha-śucāturau pitarāv anvatapyetām
putrayor abudhau balam

SYNONYMS

sa-bhayāḥ—fearful; strī—of the women; giraḥ—the words; śrutvā—hearing; putra—for their sons; sneha—by their affection; śuca—with sorrow; āturau—overwhelmed; pitarau—Their parents (Devakī and Vasudeva); anvatapyetām—felt remorse; putrayoḥ—of their two sons; abudhau—not knowing; balam—the strength.

TRANSLATION

Out of affection for the two Lords, Their parents [Devakī and Vasudeva] became overwhelmed with sorrow when they heard the women's fearful statements. They grieved, not knowing their sons' strength.

PURPORT

Naturally, Kṛṣṇa's parents would lament in this situation, thinking "Why didn't we keep our sons at home? Why did we allow Them to participate in this corrupt exhibition?"

TEXT 19

तैस्तैर्नियुद्धविधिभिर्
विविधैरच्युतेतरौ
युयुधाते यथान्योन्यं तथैव बलमुष्टिकौ

*tais tair niyuddha-vidhibhir vividhair acyutetarau yuyudhāte yathānyonyam
tathaiva bala-muṣṭikau*

SYNONYMS

taiḥ taiḥ—with all these; niyuddha—of wrestling; vidhibhiḥ—techniques; vividhaiḥ—various; acyuta-itarau—Lord Acyuta and His opponent; yuyudhāte—fought; yathā—as; anyonyam—with each other; tathā eva—just so; bala-muṣṭikau—Lord Balarāma and Muṣṭika.

TRANSLATION

Lord Balarāma and Muṣṭika, expertly displaying numerous wrestling techniques, battled each other in the same way that Lord Kṛṣṇa and His opponent did.

TEXT 20

भगवद्गात्रनिष्पातैर्
वज्रनीष्पेषनिष्ठुरैः
चाणूरो भज्यमानाङ्गो मुहुर्ग्लानिमवाप ह

*bhagavad-gātra-niṣpātair
vajra-nīṣpeṣa-niṣṭhuraiḥ cāṇūro bhajyamānāṅgo
muhur glānim avāpa ha*

SYNONYMS

bhagavat—of the Supreme Lord; gātra—by the limbs; niṣpātaiḥ—due to the blows; vajra—of lightning; nīṣpeṣa—like a crushing stroke; niṣṭhuraiḥ—hard; cāṇūraḥ—Cāṇūra; bhajyamāna—being broken; aṅgaḥ—his entire body; muhur—more and more; glānim—pain and fatigue; avāpa ha—felt.

TRANSLATION

The harsh blows from the Supreme Lord's limbs fell like crushing lightning bolts upon Cāṇūra, breaking every part of his body and causing him more and more pain and fatigue.

PURPORT

Cāṇūra's elbows, arms, knees and other limbs were all weakening.

TEXT 21

स श्येनवेग उत्पत्य
मुष्टीकृत्य करावुभौ
भगवन्तं वासुदेवं क्रुद्धो वक्षस्यबाधत

*sa śyena-vega utpatya
muṣṭī-kṛtya karāv ubhau bhagavantam vāsudevam kruddho vakṣasy abādhata*

SYNONYMS

saḥ—he, Cāṇūra; śyena—of a hawk; vegaḥ—with the speed; utpatya—falling upon Him; muṣṭī—into fists; kṛtya—making; karau—his hands; ubhau—both; bhagavantam—the Supreme Lord; vāsudevam—Kṛṣṇa; kruddhaḥ—angry; vakṣasi—upon His chest; abādhata—struck.

TRANSLATION

Furious, Cāṇūra attacked Lord Vāsudeva with the speed of a hawk and struck His chest with both fists.

PURPORT

It appears that Cāṇūra, realizing he was being defeated, became furious and made a final attempt to defeat Lord Kṛṣṇa. The demon certainly had the spirit of a good fighter, but if he hoped for victory, he was certainly in the wrong place at the wrong time with the wrong person.

TEXTS 22-23

नाचलत्तत्प्रहारेण
मालाहत इव द्विपः
बाह्वोर्निगृह्य चाणूरं
बहुशो भ्रामयन् हरिः

भूपृष्ठे पोथयामास
तरसा क्षीण जीवितम्
विस्रस्ताकल्पकेशस्रग् इन्द्रध्वज इवापतत्

*nācalat tat-prahāreṇa mālāhata iva dvipaḥ bāhvor nigṛhya cāṇūram
bahuśo bhrāmayan hariḥ*

*bhū-prṣṭhe pothayām āsa tarasā kṣīṇa jīvitam visrastākalpa-keśa-srag
indra-dhvaja ivāpatat*

SYNONYMS

na acalat—He (Lord Kṛṣṇa) did not move; tat-prahāreṇa—because of his blows; mālā—with a garland; āhata—struck; iva—as; dvipaḥ—an elephant; bāhvoḥ—by the two arms; nigṛhya—seizing; cāṇūram—Cāṇūra; bahuśaḥ—several times; bhrāmayan—whirling him around; hariḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; bhū—of the earth; pr̥ṣṭhe—onto the surface; poṭhayām āsa—hurled; tarasā—forcefully; kṣīṇa—becoming lost; jīvitam—his life; visrasta—scattered; ākalpa—his clothing; keśa—hair; śrak—and flower garland; indra-dhvajaḥ—a tall festival column; iva—as if; apatat—he fell.

TRANSLATION

No more shaken by the demon's mighty blows than an elephant struck with a flower garland, Lord Kṛṣṇa grabbed Cāṇūra by his arms, swung him around several times and hurled him onto the ground with great force. His clothes, hair and garland scattering, the wrestler fell down dead, like a huge festival column collapsing.

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī explains the words indra-dhvaja as follows: "In Bengal, on the occasion of a certain festival, people erect a tall column in the form of a man and decorate it with flags, banners, etc. He [Cāṇūra] fell just as such a pole might fall."

TEXTS 24-25

तथैव मुष्टिकः पूर्वं
स्वमुष्ट्याभिहतेन वै
बलभद्रेण बलिना
तलेनाभिहतो भृशम्

प्रवेपितः स रुधिरम्
उद्वमन्मुखतोऽर्दितः
व्यसुः पपातोर्व्युपस्थे वाताहत इवाङ्घ्रिपः

*tathaiva muṣṭikāḥ pūrvam sva-muṣṭyābhihatena vai balabhadreṇa balinā talenābhihato bhṛśam

pravepitaḥ sa rudhiram udvaman mukhato 'rditaḥ vyasuḥ papātorvy-upasthe vātāhata ivāṅghripaḥ*

SYNONYMS

tathā—also; eva—similarly; muṣṭikāḥ—Muṣṭika; pūrvam—previously; sva-muṣṭyā—with his fist; abhihatena—who had been struck; vai—indeed; balabhadreṇa—by Lord Balarāma; balinā—the powerful; talenā—with His palm; abhihataḥ—struck; bhṛśam—violently; pravepitaḥ—trembling; saḥ—he, Muṣṭika; rudhiram—blood; udvaman—vomiting; mukhataḥ—from his mouth; arditaḥ—tormented; vyasuḥ—lifeless; papāta—he fell; urvī—of the earth; upasthe—onto the lap; vāta—by the wind; āhataḥ—struck down; iva—like; aṅghripaḥ—a tree.

TRANSLATION

Similarly, Muṣṭika struck Lord Balabhadra with his fist and was slain. Receiving a violent blow from the mighty Lord's palm, the demon trembled all over in great pain, vomited blood and then fell lifeless onto the ground, like a tree blown down by the wind.

TEXT 26

ततः कूटमनुप्राप्तं
रामः प्रहरतां वरः
अवधील्लीलया राजन् सावज्ञं वाममुष्टिना

*tataḥ kūṭam anuprāptam
rāmaḥ praharatām varaḥ avadhīl līlayā rājan
sāvajñam vāma-muṣṭinā*

SYNONYMS

tataḥ—then; kūṭam—the demonic wrestler Kūṭa; anuprāptam—appearing on the scene; rāmaḥ—Lord Balarāma; praharatām—of fighters; varaḥ—the best; avadhīt—killed; līlayā—playfully; rājan—O King, Parīkṣit; sa-avajñam—neglectfully; vāma—left; muṣṭinā—with His fist.

TRANSLATION

Confronted next by the wrestler Kūṭa, Lord Balarāma, the best of fighters, playfully and nonchalantly killed him with His left fist, O King.

TEXT 27

तर्ह्येव हि शलः कृष्ण-प्रपदाहतशीर्षकः

द्विधा विदीर्णस्तोशलक उभावपि निपेततुः

*tarhi eva hi śalaḥ kṛṣṇa-prapadāhata-śīrṣakaḥ dvidhā vidīrṇas tośalaka
ubhāv api nipetatuh*

SYNONYMS

tarhi eva—and then; hi—indeed; śalaḥ—the wrestler Śala; kṛṣṇa—of Lord Kṛṣṇa; prapada—by the toes; āhata—struck; śīrṣakaḥ—his head; dvidhā—in two; vidīrṇaḥ—torn; tośalaka—Tośala; ubhau api—both of them; nipetatuh—fell down.

TRANSLATION

Then Kṛṣṇa struck the wrestler Śala in the head with His toes and tore him in half. The Lord dealt with Tośala in the same way, and both wrestlers fell down dead.

TEXT 28

चाणूरे मुष्टिके कूटे
शले तोशलके हते
शेषाः प्रदुद्रुर्मल्लाः सर्वे प्राणपरीप्सवः

*cāṇūre muṣṭike kūṭe
śale tośalake hate*

*śeṣāḥ pradudruvur mallāḥ
sarve prāṇa-parīpsavaḥ*

SYNONYMS

cāṇūre muṣṭike kūṭe—Cāṇūra, Muṣṭika and Kūṭa; śale tośalake—Śala and Tośala; hate—being killed; śeṣāḥ—those remaining; pradudruvuh—ran away; mallāḥ—wrestlers; sarve—all; prāṇa—their lives; parīpsavaḥ—hoping to save.

TRANSLATION

Cāṇūra, Muṣṭika, Kūṭa, Śala and Tośala having been killed, the remaining wrestlers all fled for their lives.

TEXT 29

गोपान् वयस्यानाकृष्य
तैः संसृज्य विजह्रतुः
वाद्यमानेषु तूर्येषु
वल्गन्तौ रुतनूपुरौ

*gopān vayasyān ākṛṣya
taiḥ saṁsṛjya vijahratuḥ vādyamāneṣu tūryeṣu
valgantau ruta-nūpurau*

SYNONYMS

gopān—the cowherd boys; vayasyān—Their young friends; ākṛṣya—gathering together; taiḥ—with them; saṁsṛjya—joining up; vijahratuḥ—They sported; vādyamāneṣu—while they played; tūryeṣu—the musical instruments;

valgantau—the two of Them dancing about; ruta—resounding;
nūpurau—Their ankle bells.

TRANSLATION

Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma then called Their young cowherd boyfriends to join Them, and in their company the Lords danced about and sported, Their ankle bells resounding as musical instruments played.

PURPORT

Nowadays we see that in championship boxing matches, as soon as there is a victory, all the friends and relatives of the victorious boxer rush into the ring to congratulate him, and often the champion will dance about in great happiness. Exactly in this mood, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma danced about, celebrating Their victory with Their friends and relatives.

TEXT 30

जनाः प्रजहृषुः सर्वे
कर्मणा रामकृष्णयोः
ऋते कंसं विप्रमुख्याः साधवः साधु साध्विति

janāḥ prajahṛṣuḥ sarve
karmaṇā rāma-kṛṣṇayoḥ
ṛte kaṁsaṁ vipra-mukhyāḥ sādhavaḥ sādhu sādhv iti

SYNONYMS

janāḥ—the people; prajāhṛṣuḥ—rejoiced; sarve—all; karmaṇā—at the deed; rāma-kṛṣṇayoḥ—of Balarāma and Kṛṣṇa; ṛte—except; kaṁsam—Kāmsa; vipra—of the brāhmaṇas; mukhyāḥ—the best; sādhavaḥ—the saintly persons; sādhū sādhū iti—(exclaimed) "Excellent! Excellent!"

TRANSLATION

Everyone except Kāmsa rejoiced at the wonderful feat Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma had performed. The exalted brāhmaëas and great saints exclaimed, "Excellent! Excellent!"

PURPORT

It is understood that as the best of the brāhmaṇas and saints were exclaiming "Excellent! Excellent!" the worst of the brāhmaṇas, namely Kāmsa's priests, were seriously grieving.

TEXT 31

हतेषु मल्लवर्येषु
विद्रुतेषु च भोजराट्
न्यवारयत्स्वतूर्याणि वाक्यं चेदमुवाच ह

hateṣu malla-varyeṣu
vidruteṣu ca bhoja-rāṭ nyavārayat sva-tūryāṇi vākyaṁ cedam uvāca ha

SYNONYMS

hateṣu—being killed; malla-varyeṣu—the best wrestlers; vidruteṣu—having run away; ca—and; bhoja-rāṭ—the Bhoja king, Kāṁsa; nyavārayat—stopped; sva—his own; tūryāṇi—musical instruments; vākyam—words; ca—and; idam—these; uvāca ha—spoke.

TRANSLATION

The Bhoja king, seeing that his best wrestlers had all been killed or had fled, stopped the musical performance originally meant for his pleasure and spoke the following words.

TEXT 32

निःसारयत दुर्वृत्तौ
वसुदेवात्मजौ पुरात
धनं हरत गोपानां
नन्दं बध्नीत दुर्मतिम्

niḥsārayata durvṛttau
vasudevātmajau purāt dhanam harata goṇānām
nandam badhnīta durmatim

SYNONYMS

niḥsārayata—expel; durvṛttau—who behave wickedly; vasudeva-ātmajau—the two sons of Vasudeva; purāt—from the city; dhanam—the wealth; harata—take away; goṇānām—of the cowherds; nandam—Nanda Mahārāja; badhnīta—tie up; durmatim—the fool, whose heart is crooked.

TRANSLATION

[Kāṁsa said:] Drive the two wicked sons of Vasudeva out of the city!
Confiscate the cowherds' property and arrest that fool Nanda!

TEXT 33

वसुदेवस्तु दुर्मेधा
हन्यतामाश्वसत्तमः
उग्रसेनः पिता चापि सानुगः परपक्षगः

*vasudevas tu durmedhā
hanyatām āśv asattamaḥ ugrasenaḥ pitā cāpi
sānugaḥ para-pakṣa-gaḥ*

SYNONYMS

vasudevaḥ—Vasudeva; tu—and furthermore; durmedhā—the foolish-minded; hanyatām—should be killed; āśu—immediately; asat-tamaḥ—the worst of the impure; ugrasenaḥ—Ugrasena; pitā—my father; ca api—also; sa—together with; anugaḥ—his followers; para—of the enemy; pakṣa-gaḥ—taking the side.

TRANSLATION

Kill that most evil fool Vasudeva! And also kill my father, Ugrasena, along with his followers, who have all sided with our enemies!

TEXT 34

एवं विकत्थमाने वै
कंसे प्रकुपितोऽव्ययः
लघिम्नोत्पत्य तरसा मञ्चमुत्तुङ्गमारुहत

*evam vikatthamāne vai
kaṁse prakupito 'vyayaḥ laghimnotpatya tarasā
mañcam uttuṅgam āruhat*

SYNONYMS

evam—thus; vikatthamāne—exclaiming with audacity; vai—indeed; kaṁse—Kāṁsa; prakupitaḥ—becoming extremely angry; avyayaḥ—the infallible Lord; laghimnā—with ease; utpatya—jumping up; tarasā—swiftly; mañcam—the royal platform; uttuṅgam—tall; āruhat—climbed onto.

TRANSLATION

As Kāṁsa thus raved so audaciously, the infallible Lord Kṛṣṇa, intensely angry, quickly and easily jumped up onto the high royal dais.

TEXT 35

तमाविशन्तमालोक्य
मृत्युमात्मन आसनात्
मनस्वी सहसोत्थाय

जगृहे सोऽसिचर्मणी

*tam āviśantam ālokya
mṛtyum ātmana āsanāt manasvī sahasotthāya
jagrhe so 'si-carmaṇī*

SYNONYMS

tam—Him, Kṛṣṇa; āviśantam—entering (into his private sitting area); ālokya—seeing; mṛtyum—death; ātmanaḥ—his own; āsanāt—from his seat; manasvī—the intelligent; sahasā—immediately; utthāya—standing up; jagrhe—took up; saḥ—he; asi—his sword; carmaṇī—and his shield.

TRANSLATION

Seeing Lord Kṛṣṇa approaching like death personified, the quick-witted Kamsa instantly rose from his seat and took up his sword and shield.

TEXT 36

तं खड्गपाणिं विचरन्तमाशु
श्येनं यथा दक्षिणसव्यमम्बरे
समग्रहीद् दुर्विषहोग्रतेजा यथोरगं तार्क्ष्यसुतः प्रसह्य

taṁ khaḍga-pāṇiṁ vicarantam āśu śyenaṁ yathā dakṣiṇa-savyam ambare samagrahīd durviṣahogra-tejā yathoragaṁ tārkṣya-sutaḥ prasahya

SYNONYMS

tam—him, Kāṁsa; khaḍga—with sword; pāṇim—in his hand; vicarantam—moving about; āśu—quickly; śyenam—a hawk; yathā—like; dakṣiṇa-savyam—right and left; ambare—in the sky; samagrahīt—seized; durviṣaha—irresistible; ugra—and fearsome; tejāḥ—whose strength; yathā—as; uragam—a snake; tārکشya-sutaḥ—the son of Tārکشya, Garuḍa; prasahya—by force.

TRANSLATION

Sword in hand, Kāṁsa moved quickly from side to side like a hawk in the sky. But Lord Kṛṣṇa, whose fearsome strength is irresistible, powerfully seized the demon just as the son of Tārکشya might capture a snake.

TEXT 37

प्रगृह्य केशेषु चलत्किरीतं
निपात्य रङ्गोपरि तुङ्गमञ्चात् तस्योपरिष्ठात्स्वयमब्जनाभः पपात विश्वाश्रय आत्मतन्त्रः

pragr̥hya keśeṣu calat-kirītaṁ nipātya raṅgopari tuṅga-mañcāt tasyopariṣṭāt svayam abja-nābhaḥ papāta viśvāśraya ātma-tantraḥ

SYNONYMS

pragr̥hya—grabbing; keśeṣu—by the hair; calat—knocking off; kirītaṁ—whose crown; nīpātya—throwing down; raṅga-upari—onto the surface of the wrestling ring; tuṅga—high; mañcāt—from the platform; tasya—of him; upariṣṭāt—on top; svayam—Himself; abja-nābhaḥ—the lotus-naved Supreme Lord; paṭāta—threw; viśva—of the entire universe; āśrayaḥ—the support; ātma-tantraḥ—independent.

TRANSLATION

Grabbing Kāṁsa by the hair and knocking off his crown, the lotus-naved Lord threw him off the elevated dais onto the wrestling mat. Then the independent Lord, the support of the entire universe, threw Himself upon the King.

PURPORT

In Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrīla Prabhupāda describes the death of Kāṁsa as follows: "Kṛṣṇa at once straddled his chest and began to strike him over and over again. Simply from the strokes of His fist, Kāṁsa lost his vital force."

TEXT 38

तं सम्परेतं विचकर्ष भूमौ
हरिर्यथेभं जगतो विपश्यतः
हा हेति शब्दः सुमहांस्तदाभूद् उदीरितः सर्वजनैर्नरेन्द्र

taṁ samparetam vicakarṣa bhūmau harir yathebham jagato vipaśyataḥ hā hetī śabdaḥ su-mahāṁs tadābhūd

udīritaḥ sarva-janair narendra

SYNONYMS

tam—him; samparetam—dead; vicakarṣa—dragged; bhūmau—along the ground; hariḥ—a lion; yathā—as; ibham—an elephant; jagataḥ—all the people; vipaśyataḥ—as they looked on; hā hā iti—"Oh, oh!"; śabdaḥ—the sound; su-mahān—mighty; tadā—then; abhūt—arose; udīritaḥ—spoken; sarva-janaiḥ—by all the people; nara-indra—O ruler of men (King Parīkṣit).

TRANSLATION

As a lion drags a dead elephant, the Lord then dragged Kāṁsa's dead body along the ground in full view of everyone present. O King, all the people in the arena tumultuously cried out, "Oh! Oh!"

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī explains that many people in the audience thought Kāṁsa had simply been knocked unconscious when thrown from the lofty dais. Therefore Lord Kṛṣṇa dragged his corpse so everyone would realize that the evil King was indeed dead. Thus the exclamation hā hā indicates how surprised the people were that the King was suddenly dead and gone.

The audience's astonishment is also mentioned in the Viṣṇu Purāṇa:

*tato hāhā-kṛtaṁ sarvām
āśīt tad-raṅga-maṇḍalam avajñayā hataṁ dṛṣtvā
kṛṣṇena mathureśvaram*

"Then the entire arena became filled with cries of astonishment as the people saw that the master of Mathurā had been contemptuously killed by Kṛṣṇa."

TEXT 39

स नित्यदोद्विग्नधिया तमीश्वरं
पिबन्नदन् वा विचरन् स्वपन् श्वसन्
ददर्श चक्रायुधमग्रतो यतस् तदेव रूपं दुरवापमाप

sa nityadodvigna-dhiyā tam īśvaram pibann adan vā vicaran svapan śvasan dadarśa cakrāyudham agrato yatas tad eva rūpaṁ duravāpam āpa

SYNONYMS

saḥ—he, Kāṁsa; nityadā—constantly; udvigna—anxious; dhiyā—with mind; tam—Him; īśvaram—the Supreme Lord; piban—while drinking; adan—eating; vā—or; vicaran—walking; svapan—sleeping; śvasan—breathing; dadarśa—saw; cakra—the disc weapon; āyudham—in His hand; agrataḥ—before himself; yataḥ—because; tat—that; eva—same; rūpaṁ—personal form; duravāpam—very difficult to achieve; āpa—he achieved.

TRANSLATION

Kāṁsa had always been disturbed by the thought that the Supreme Lord was to kill him. Therefore when drinking, eating, moving about, sleeping or simply breathing, the King had always seen the Lord before him with the disc weapon in His hand. Thus Kāṁsa achieved the rare boon of attaining a form like the Lord's.

PURPORT

Although born out of fear, Kāṁsa's constant meditation on the Supreme Lord eradicated all his offenses, and therefore the demon was liberated upon his death at the Lord's hands.

TEXT 40

तस्यानुजा भ्रातरोऽष्टौ
कङ्कन्यग्रोधकादयः
अभ्यधावन्नतिक्रुद्धा भ्रातुर्निर्वेशकारिणः

*tasyānujā bhrātaro 'ṣṭau kaṅka-nyagrodhakādayaḥ abhyadhāvann ati-kruddhā
bhrātur nirveśa-kāriṇaḥ*

SYNONYMS

tasya—of him, Kāṁsa; anujāḥ—younger; bhrātaraḥ—the brothers; aṣṭau—eight; kaṅka-nyagrodhaka-ādayaḥ—Kāṅka, Nyagrodhaka and the others; abhyadhāvan—ran forward to attack; ati-kruddhāḥ—infuriated; bhrātuḥ—to their brother; nirveśa—repayment of the debt; kāriṇaḥ—doing.

TRANSLATION

Kāṁsa's eight younger brothers, led by Kāṅka and Nyagrodhaka, then attacked the Lords in a rage, seeking to avenge their brother's death.

TEXT 41

तथातिरभसांस्तांस्तु
संयत्तान् रोहिणीसुतः
अहन् परिघमुद्यम्य
पशूनिव मृगाधिपः

*tathāti-rabhasāms tāms tu saṁyattān rohiṇī-sutaḥ ahan pariḥham udyamya
paśūn iva mṛgādhipaḥ*

SYNONYMS

tathā—in this manner; ati-rabhasān—running very swiftly; tān—they; tu—and; saṁyattān—ready to strike; rohiṇī-sutaḥ—the son of Rohiṇī, Lord Balarāma; ahan—beat down; pariḥham—His club; udyamya—wielding; paśūn—animals; iva—as; mṛga-adhipaḥ—the lion, king of animals.

TRANSLATION

As they ran swiftly toward the two Lords, ready to strike, the son of Rohiṇī slew them with His club just as a lion easily kills other animals.

TEXT 42

नेदुर्दुन्दुभयो व्योम्नि
ब्रह्मेशाद्या विभूतयः
पुष्पैः किरन्तस्तं प्रीताः

शशंसुर्नृतुः स्त्रियः

nedur dundubhayo vyomni brahmeśādyā vibhūtayaḥ puṣpaiḥ kirantas tam prītāḥ śaśaṁsur nanṛtuḥ striyaḥ

SYNONYMS

neduḥ—resounded; dundubhayaḥ—kettledrums; vyomni—in the sky; brahma-īśa-ādyāḥ—Brahmā, Śiva and other demigods; vibhūtayaḥ—His expansions; puṣpaiḥ—flowers; kirantaḥ—scattering down; tam—upon Him; prītāḥ—pleased; śaśaṁsuḥ—they chanted His praises; nanṛtuḥ—danced; striyaḥ—their wives.

TRANSLATION

Kettledrums resounded in the sky as Brahmā, Śiva and other demigods, the Lord's expansions, rained down flowers upon Him with pleasure. They chanted His praises, and their wives danced.

TEXT 43

तेषां स्त्रियो महाराज
सुहृन्मरणदुःखिताः
तत्राभीयुर्विनिघ्नन्त्यः शीर्षाण्यश्रुविलोचनाः

*teṣāṁ striyo mahā-rāja
suhṛn-maraṇa-duḥkhitāḥ*

tatrābhīyur vinighnantyaḥ śīrṣāṇy aśru-vilocanāḥ

SYNONYMS

teṣām—of them (Kāṁsa and his brothers); striyaḥ—the wives; mahārāja—O King (Parīkṣit); suhṛt—of their well-wishers (their husbands); maraṇa—because of the death; duḥkhitāḥ—sorrowful; tatra—that place; abhīyuh—approached; vinighnantyaḥ—beating; śīrṣāṇi—their heads; aśru—with tears; vilocanāḥ—their eyes.

TRANSLATION

My dear King, the wives of Kāṁsa and his brothers, aggrieved by the death of their well-wishing husbands, came forward with tearful eyes, beating their heads.

TEXT 44

शयानान् वीरशयायां
पतीनालिङ्ग्य शोचतीः
विलेपुः सुस्वरं नार्यो विसृजन्त्यो मुहुः शुचः

śayānān vīra-śayāyām
patīn āliṅgya śocatīḥ vilepuḥ su-svaram nāryo visṛjantyo muhuḥ śucaḥ

SYNONYMS

śayānān—lying; vīra—of a hero; śayāyām—upon the bed (the ground);
patīn—their husbands; āliṅgya—embracing; śocatīḥ—feeling sorrow;
vilepuḥ—lamented; su-svaram—loudly; nāryaḥ—the women;
visṛjantyaḥ—shedding; muhuh—repeatedly; śucaḥ—tears.

TRANSLATION

Embracing their husbands, who lay on a hero's final bed, the sorrowful women loudly lamented while shedding constant tears.

TEXT 45

हा नाथ प्रिय धर्मज्ञ
करुणानाथवत्सल
त्वया हतेन निहता वयं ते सगृहप्रजाः

hā nātha priya dharma-jñā karuṇānātha-vatsala tvayā hatena nihatā
vayaṁ te sa-gr̥ha-prajāḥ

SYNONYMS

ha—alas; nātha—O master; priya—O dear one; dharma-jñā—O knower of religious principles; karuṇa—O kind one; anātha—to those who have no protector; vatsala—O you who are compassionate; tvayā—by you; hatena—being killed; nihatāḥ—are killed; vayaṁ—we; te—your; sa—together with; gr̥ha—the home; prajāḥ—and offspring.

TRANSLATION

[The women cried out:] Alas, O master, O dear one, O knower of religious principles! O kind and compassionate protector of the shelterless! By your being slain we have also been slain, together with your household and offspring.

TEXT 46

त्वया विरहिता पत्या
पुरीयं पुरुषर्षभ
न शोभते वयमिव निवृत्तोत्सवमङ्गला

*tvayā virahitā patyā purīyaṁ puruṣarṣabha na śobhate vayam iva
nivṛttotsava-maṅgalā*

SYNONYMS

tvayā—of you; virahitā—bereft; patyā—the master; purī—the city; iyam—this; puruṣa—of men; ṛṣabha—O most heroic one; na śobhate—does not appear beautiful; vayam—us; iva—just like; nivṛtta—ceased; utsava—festivity; maṅgalā—and auspiciousness.

TRANSLATION

O great hero among men, bereft of you, its master, this city has lost its beauty, just as we have, and all festivity and good fortune within it have come to an end.

TEXT 47

अनागसां त्वं भूतानां
कृतवान्द्रोहमुल्बणम्
तेनेमां भो दशां नीतो भूतध्रुक्को लभेत शम्

*anāgasām tvam bhūtānām kṛtavān droham ulbaṇam tenemām bho daśām nīto
bhūta-dhruk ko labheta śam*

SYNONYMS

anāgasām—sinless; tvam—you; bhūtānām—against creatures; kṛtavān—have committed; droham—violence; ulbaṇam—terrible; tena—by that; imām—to this; bho—O dear one; daśām—condition; nītaḥ—brought; bhūta—to living beings; dhruk—causing harm; kaḥ—who; labheta—can achieve; śam—happiness.

TRANSLATION

O dear one, you have been brought to this state because of the terrible violence you committed against innocent creatures. How can one who harms others attain happiness?

PURPORT

Having expressed their sentimental grief, the ladies now speak practical wisdom. They are beginning to see things realistically because their minds were purified by the agony of the recent events and by the association of Lord Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 48

सर्वेषामिह भूतानाम्
एष हि प्रभवाप्ययः
गोप्ता च तदवध्यायी न क्वचित्सुखमेधते

*sarveṣām iha bhūtānām
eṣa hi prabhavāpyayaḥ
goptā ca tad-avadhyāyī na kvacit sukham edhate*

SYNONYMS

sarveṣām—of all; iha—in this world; bhūtānām—living beings; eṣaḥ—this (Śrī Kṛṣṇa); hi—certainly; prabhava—the origin; apyayaḥ—and disappearance; goptā—the maintainer; ca—and; tat—of Him; avadhyāyī—one who is neglectful; na kvacit—never; sukham—happily; edhate—prosper.

TRANSLATION

Lord Kṛṣṇa causes the appearance and disappearance of all beings in this world, and He is their maintainer as well. One who disrespects Him can never prosper happily.

TEXT 49

श्रीशुक उवाच
राजयोषित आश्वास्य
भगवाँल्लोकभावनः
यामाहुर्लौकिकीं संस्थां हतानां समकारयत्

śrī-śuka uvāca
rāja-yoṣita āśvāsyā
bhagavāṁ loka-bhāvanaḥ yām āhur laukikīm saṁsthām hatānām samakārayat

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; rāja—of the King (and his brothers); yoṣitaḥ—the wives; āśvāsyā—consoling; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; loka—of all the worlds; bhāvanaḥ—the sustainer; yām—which; āhuḥ—they (Vedic authorities) enjoin; laukikīm saṁsthām—funeral rites; hatānām—for the deceased; samakārayat—He arranged to be performed.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: After consoling the royal ladies, Lord Kṛṣṇa, sustainer of all the worlds, arranged for the prescribed funeral rites to be performed.

TEXT 50

मातरं पितरं चैव

मोचयित्वाथ बन्धनात्
कृष्णरामौ ववन्दाते शिरसा स्पृश्य पादयोः

*mātaram pitaram caiva
mocayitvātha bandhanāt kṛṣṇa-rāmau vavandāte
śirasā sprśya pādayoḥ*

SYNONYMS

mātaram—Their mother; pitaram—father; ca—and; eva—also; mocayitvā—releasing; atha—then; bandhanāt—from their fetters; kṛṣṇa-rāmau—Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma; vavandāte—paid obeisances; śirasā—with Their heads; sprśya—touching; pādayoḥ—their feet.

TRANSLATION

Then Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma released Their mother and father from bondage and offered obeisances to them, touching their feet with Their heads.

TEXT 51

देवकी वसुदेवश्च
विज्ञाय जगदीश्वरौ
कृतसंवन्दनौ पुत्रौ सस्वजाते न शङ्कितौ

devakī vasudevaś ca

vijñāya jagad-īśvarau kṛta-saṁvandanau putrau sasvajāte na śaṅkitau

SYNONYMS

devakī—Devakī; vasudevaḥ—Vasudeva; ca—and; vijñāya—recognizing; jagat—of the universe; īśvarau—as the two Lords; kṛta—paying; saṁvandanau—full respects (by standing with joined palms); putrau—their two sons; sasvajāte na—they did not embrace; śaṅkitau—apprehensive.

TRANSLATION

Devakī and Vasudeva, now knowing Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma to be the Lords of the universe, simply stood with joined palms. Being apprehensive, they did not embrace their sons.

*Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C.
Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Forty-fourth Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "The Killing of Kāṁsa."*

45. Kṛṣṇa Rescues His Teacher's Son

This chapter describes how Lord Kṛṣṇa consoled Devakī, Vasudeva and Nanda Mahārāja and installed Ugrasena as king. It also relates how Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma completed Their education, retrieved the dead son of Their guru and then returned home.

Noting that His parents-Vasudeva and Devakī-had realized His true position as God, Śrī Kṛṣṇa expanded His Yogamāyā to again make them think of Him as their dear child. Then, with Lord Balarāma, Kṛṣṇa approached them and said how unhappy He was that He and they had been unable to enjoy the mutual satisfaction of parents and children who live together. Then He stated, "Even in a lifetime of one hundred years, no son can ever repay the debt he owes his parents, from whom he receives his very body. Any capable son who fails to support his parents will be forced, in the hereafter, to eat his own flesh. Indeed, any person who does not maintain and nourish those under his care-children, wife, spiritual masters, brāhmaṇas, elderly parents and so on-is simply a living corpse. It was out of fear of Kāṁsa that We could not serve you, so now please forgive Us." Vasudeva and Devakī, overcome with emotion upon hearing these words of Śrī Kṛṣṇa's, embraced their two sons and in ecstasy shed a torrent of tears.

Having thus satisfied His mother and father, Lord Kṛṣṇa offered Kāṁsa's kingdom to His maternal grandfather, Ugrasena, and then arranged for all His family members who had fled in fear of Kāṁsa to return to their homes. Protected by the mighty arms of Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, the Yādavas began to enjoy supreme bliss.

Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma next approached Nanda Mahārāja and praised him for having cared so lovingly for Them, another's sons. Kṛṣṇa then said to Nanda, "Dear Father, please return to Vraja. Knowing how much you and Our other relatives are suffering in separation from Us, Balarāma and I will come to see you as soon as We have satisfied your friends here in Mathurā." Kṛṣṇa then worshiped Nanda with various offerings, and Nanda felt overwhelmed with love for his sons. After tearfully embracing Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, he took the cowherd men and departed for Vraja. Next Vasudeva had his priests perform his sons' ritual of second birth, brahminical initiation. Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma then went to Garga Muni to take the vow of brahmacarya, celibacy. Afterward, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, though omniscient, desired to reside at the school of a spiritual master, and thus They went to live with Sāṁdīpani Muni at Avantīpura.

To teach the proper way to respect one's guru, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma served Their spiritual master with great devotion, as They would a Deity of the Supreme Lord Himself. Sāndīpani Muni, pleased by Their service, imparted to Them detailed knowledge of all the Vedas, together with their six corollaries and the Upaniṣads. Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma needed to hear each subject explained only once to assimilate it completely, and thus in sixty-four days They learned the sixty-four traditional arts.

Before taking leave of Their guru, the two Lords offered Sāndīpani Muni any gift he desired. The wise Sāndīpani, seeing Their amazing prowess, requested that They bring back his son, who had died in the ocean at Prabhāsa.

Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma mounted a chariot and went to Prabhāsa, where They approached the shore and worshiped the presiding deity of the ocean. Kṛṣṇa asked the ocean to return His spiritual master's son, and the lord of the ocean replied that a demon dwelling within the ocean named Pāñcajanya had taken the boy away. Hearing this, Śrī Kṛṣṇa entered the ocean, killed that demon and took the shell that had grown from his body. But when Kṛṣṇa did not find His guru's son within the demon's belly, He went to the planet of Yamarāja, the lord of death. Yamarāja came forward when he heard Kṛṣṇa blow the Pāñcajanya conchshell and devotedly worshiped Him. Lord Kṛṣṇa then asked Yamarāja for Sāndīpani Muni's son, and Yamarāja immediately gave him to the two Lords.

Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma then returned to Their spiritual master and presented him with his son, requesting him to choose yet another favor. But Sāndīpani Muni replied that by having obtained disciples such as Them, all his desires were fulfilled. He thus instructed Them to return home.

Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma traveled to Their home by chariot, and upon Their arrival all the citizens became unlimitedly ecstatic to see Them, just like persons who have regained a lost treasure.

TEXT 1

श्रीशुक उवाच
पितरावुपलब्धार्थौ
विदित्वा पुरुषोत्तमः
मा भूदिति निजां मायां ततान जनमोहिनीम्

śrī-śuka uvāca
pitarāv upalabdhāarthau viditvā puruṣottamaḥ
mā bhūd iti nijām māyām tatāna jana-mohinīm

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; pitarau—His parents; upalabdha—having realized; arthau—the idea (of His opulent position as God); viditvā—knowing; puruṣa-uttamaḥ—the Supreme Personality; mā bhūt iti—"this should not be"; nijām—His personal; māyām—illusory potency; tatāna—He expanded; jana—His devotees; mohinīm—which bewilders.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Understanding that His parents were becoming aware of His transcendental opulences, the Supreme Personality of Godhead thought that this should not be allowed to happen. Thus He expanded His Yogamāyā, which bewilders His devotees.

PURPORT

If Vasudeva and Devakī would have seen Kṛṣṇa as almighty God, their intense love for Him as their son would have been spoiled. Lord Kṛṣṇa did not want this. Rather, the Lord wanted to enjoy with them the ecstatic love of vātsalya-rasa, the relationship between parents and children. As Śrīla Prabhupāda often pointed out, although we normally think of God as the supreme father, in Kṛṣṇa consciousness we can enter into the Lord's pastimes and play the part of His parents, thus intensifying our love for Him.

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura points out that the word jana may be translated here as "devotees," as in the verse dīyamānam na gṛhṇanti vinā mat-sevanam janaḥ (SB 3.29.13). He further explains that jana may also be translated as "parents," since jana is derived from the verb jan, which in the causative form (janayate) means "to generate or to give birth to." In this sense of the word (as in jananī or janakau), the term jana-mohinī indicates that the Lord was about to expand His internal illusory potency so that Vasudeva and Devakī would again love Him as their dear child.

TEXT 2

उवाच पितरावेत्य
साग्रजः सात्वनर्षभः
प्रश्रयावनतः प्रीणन् अम्ब तातेति सादरम्

*uvāca pitarāv etya
sāgrajaḥ sātvanarṣabhaḥ praśrayāvanataḥ prīṇann
amba tāteti sādaram*

SYNONYMS

uvāca—He said; pitarau—to His parents; etya—approaching them; sa—together with; agra-jah—His elder brother, Lord Balarāma; sātvata—of the Sātvata dynasty; ṛṣabhaḥ—the greatest hero; praśraya—with humility; avanataḥ—bowing down; prīṇan—gratifying them; amba tāta iti—"My dear mother, My dear father"; sa-ādaram—respectfully.

TRANSLATION

Lord Kṛṣṇa, the greatest of the Sātvatas, approached His parents with His elder brother. Humbly bowing His head and gratifying them by respectfully addressing them as "My dear mother" and "My dear father," Kṛṣṇa spoke as follows.

TEXT 3

नास्मत्तो युवयोस्तात
नित्योत्कण्ठितयोरपि
बाल्यपौगण्डकैशोराः
पुत्राभ्यामभवन् क्वचित्

nāsmatto yuvayos tāta nityotkaṇṭhitayor api bālya-paugaṇḍa-kaiśorāḥ putrābhyām abhavan kvacit

SYNONYMS

na—not; asmattaḥ—because of Us; yuvayoḥ—for you two; tāta—O dear father; nitya—always; utkaṇṭhitayoḥ—who have been in anxiety; api—indeed; bālya—(the pleasures of) the toddler age; paugaṇḍa—boyhood; kaiśoraḥ—and youth; putrābhyām—because of your two sons; abhavan—there were; kvacit—at all.

TRANSLATION

[Lord Kṛṣṇa said:] Dear Father, because of Us, your two sons, you and mother Devakī always remained in anxiety and could never enjoy Our childhood, boyhood or youth.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī discusses this verse as follows: "One may object that at this point Lord Kṛṣṇa had not actually passed the kaiśora stage [age ten to fifteen], since the women of Mathurā had stated, kva cāti-sukumārāṅgau kiśorau nāpta-yauvanau: 'Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma have very tender limbs, being still at the kiśora stage, not having reached adolescence.' (SB 10.44.8) The definition of the different stages of growing up is given as follows:

kaumāraṁ pañcamābdāntaṁ paugaṇḍaṁ daśamāvadhi kaiśoraṁ ā-pañcadaśād
yauvanaṁ tu tataḥ param

'The kaumāra stage lasts until the age of five, paugaṇḍa up to age ten and kaiśora to age fifteen. From then on, one is known as yauvana.' According to this statement, the kaiśora period ends at the age of fifteen. Kṛṣṇa was only eleven years old when He killed Kāmsa, according to Uddhava's words: ekādaśa-samās tatra gūḍhārciḥ sa-balo 'vasat. 'Like a covered flame, Lord Kṛṣṇa remained there incognito with Balarāma for eleven years' (SB 3.2.26) And since Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma never took brahminical initiation in Vraja-bhūmi, it was at the time [of Their going to Mathurā] that Their kaiśora stage began rather than ended.

"This objection to Lord Kṛṣṇa's statement in the present verse—that His parents could not enjoy His kaiśora stage—is based on ordinary measurement of age. Yet we should consider the following statement [from the Bhāgavatam (10.8.26)]:

*kālenālpēna rājarṣe
rāmaḥ kṛṣṇaś ca go-vraje aghrṣṭa-jānubhiḥ padbhir vicakramatur añjasā*

'O King Parikṣit, within a short time Rāma and Kṛṣṇa began to walk very easily in Gokula on Their legs, by Their own strength, without the need to crawl.' Sometimes we see that the son of a king, even while in his pauganḍa stage of life, undergoes exceptional physical growth and exhibits activities appropriate to a kaiśora. Then what to speak of Lord Kṛṣṇa, whose exceptional growth is established in the Vaiṣṇava-toṣaṇī, Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Ānanda-vṛndavana-campū and other works?

"The three years and four months that Lord Kṛṣṇa stayed in Mahāvana were the equivalent of five years for an ordinary child, and thus in that period He completed His kaumāra stage of childhood. The period from then to the age of six years and eight months, during which He lived in Vṛndāvana, constitutes His pauganḍa stage. And the period from the age of six years and eight months through His tenth year, during which time He lived in Nandīśvara [Nandagrāma], constitutes His kaiśora stage. Then, at the age of ten years and seven months, on the eleventh lunar day of the dark fortnight of the month of Caitra, He went to Mathurā, and on the fourteenth day thereafter He killed Kāṁsa. Thus He completed His kaiśora period at age ten, and He eternally remains at that age. In other words, we should understand that from this point on the Lord remains forever a kiśora."

Thus Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī analyzes the intricacies of this verse.

TEXT 4

न लब्धो दैवहतयोर
वासो नौ भवदन्तिके
यां बालाः पितृगेहस्था विन्दन्ते लालिता मुदम्

*na labdho daiva-hatayor vāso nau bhavad-antike yām bālāḥ pitṛ-geha-sthā
vindante lālītā mudam*

SYNONYMS

na—not; labdhaḥ—obtained; daiva—by fate; hatayoḥ—who have been deprived; vāsaḥ—residence; nau—by Us; bhavad-antike—in your presence; yām—which; bālāḥ—children; pitṛ—of their parents; geha—in the home; sthaḥ—staying; vindante—experience; lālītāḥ—pampered; mudam—happiness.

TRANSLATION

Deprived by fate, We could not live with you and enjoy the pampered happiness most children enjoy in their parents' home.

PURPORT

Here Lord Kṛṣṇa points out that not only did His parents suffer in separation from Him and Balarāma, but the two boys also suffered in separation from Their parents.

TEXT 5

सर्वार्थसम्भवो देहो
जनितः पोषितो यतः
न तयोर्याति निर्वेशं पित्रोर्मर्त्यः शतायुषा

*sarvārtha-sambhavo deho janitaḥ poṣita yataḥ na tayor yāti nirveśam
pitror martyaḥ śatāyusā*

SYNONYMS

sarva—of all; artha—goals of life; sambhavaḥ—the source; dehaḥ—one's body; janitaḥ—born; poṣitaḥ—maintained; yataḥ—from whom; na—not; tayoh—to them; yāti—one achieves; nirveśam—repayment of the debt; pitroh—to the parents; martyaḥ—a mortal; śata—of one hundred (years); āyusā—with a life span.

TRANSLATION

With one's body one can acquire all goals of life, and it is one's parents who give the body birth and sustenance. Therefore no mortal man can repay his debt to his parents, even if he serves them for a full lifetime of a hundred years.

PURPORT

Having stated, "Both you, Our parents, and We have suffered because of Our separation," Kṛṣṇa now states that His and Balarāma's religious principles have been spoiled by Their failure to satisfy Their parents.

TEXT 6

यस्तयोरात्मजः कल्प
आत्मना च धनेन च
वृत्तिं न दद्यात्तं प्रेत्य स्वमांसं खादयन्ति हि

yas tayor ātmajaḥ kalpa ātmanā ca dhanena ca vṛttiṁ na dadyāt taṁ pretya sva-māṁsaṁ khādayanti hi

SYNONYMS

yaḥ—who; tayoḥ—of them; ātma-jah—a son; kalpaḥ—capable; ātmanā—with his physical resources; ca—and; dhanena—with his wealth; ca—also; vṛttiṁ—a livelihood; na dadyāt—does not give; taṁ—him; pretya—after passing away; sva—his own; māṁsaṁ—flesh; khādayanti—they make eat; hi—indeed.

TRANSLATION

A son who, though able to do so, fails to provide for his parents with his physical resources and wealth is forced after his death to eat his own flesh.

TEXT 7

मातरं पितरं वृद्धं
भार्या साध्वीं सुतम्भिः शुभम्

गुरुं विप्रं प्रपन्नं च कल्पोऽबिभ्रच्छ्वसन्मृतः

mātaram pitaram vṛddham bhāryām sādhvīm sutam śiśum gurum vipram praṇannam ca kalpo 'bibhrac chvasan-mṛtaḥ

SYNONYMS

mātaram—one's mother; pitaram—and father; vṛddham—elderly; bhāryām—one's wife; sādhvīm—chaste; sutam—one's child; śiśum—very young; gurum—a spiritual master; vipram—a brāhmaṇa; praṇannam—a person who has come to one for shelter; ca—and; kalpaḥ—able; abibhrat—not maintaining; śvasan—breathing; mṛtaḥ—dead.

TRANSLATION

A man who, though able to do so, fails to support his elderly parents, chaste wife, young child or spiritual master, or who neglects a brāhmaṇa or anyone who comes to him for shelter, is considered dead, though breathing.

TEXT 8

तन्नावकल्पयोः कंसान्
नित्यमुद्विग्नचेतसोः
मोघमेते व्यतिक्रान्ता दिवसा वामनर्चतोः

tan nāv akalpayoḥ kaṁsān

nityam udvigna-cetasoḥ mogham ete vyatīkrāntā divasā vām anarcatōḥ

SYNONYMS

tat—therefore; nau—of Us two; akalpayaḥ—who were unable; kāṁsāt—because of Kāṁsa; nityam—always; udvigna—disturbed; cetasoḥ—whose minds; mogham—uselessly; ete—these; vyatīkrāntāḥ—spent; divasāḥ—days; vām—you; anarcatōḥ—not honoring.

TRANSLATION

Thus We have wasted all these days, unable as We were to properly honor you because Our minds were always disturbed by fear of Kāṁsa.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa continues to bring Vasudeva and Devakī back to their normal parental feelings toward Him and Balarāma. An ordinary child would be afraid of a cruel, tyrannical king like Kāṁsa, and Lord Kṛṣṇa here plays the part of such a child, thus evoking the parental sympathy of Vasudeva and Devakī.

TEXT 9

तत्क्षन्तुमर्हथस्तात
मातर्नो परतन्त्रयोः
अकुर्वतोर्वा शुश्रूषां क्लिष्टयोर्दुर्हृदा भृशम्

tat kṣantum arhathas tāta

mātar nau para-tantrayoḥ akurvator vām śuśrūṣām kliṣṭayor durhṛdā bhṛṣam

SYNONYMS

tat—that; kṣantum—forgive; arhathaḥ—you may please; tāta—O Father; mātaḥ—O Mother; nau—on the part of Us; para-tantrayoḥ—who are under the control of others; akurvatoḥ—not executing; vām—your; śuśrūṣām—service; kliṣṭayoḥ—caused pain; durhṛdā—by the hardhearted (Kāṁsa); bhṛṣam—greatly.

TRANSLATION

Dear Father and Mother, please forgive Us for not serving you. We are not independent and have been greatly frustrated by cruel Kāṁsa.

PURPORT

According to Sanskrit grammar, the words para-tantrayoḥ and kliṣṭayoḥ may also refer to Vasudeva and Devakī. Actually, Vasudeva and Devakī were under the control of Providence and were disturbed by the activities of Kāṁsa, whereas Śrī Kṛṣṇa is always the absolute Personality of Godhead.

TEXT 10

श्रीशुक उवाच
इति मायामनुष्यस्य
हरेर्विश्वात्मनो गिरा
मोहितावङ्कमारोप्य

परिष्वज्यापतुर्मुदम्

*śrī-śuka uvāca
iti māyā-manuṣyasya
harer viśvātmano girā mohitāv aṅkam āropya pariṣvajyāpatur mudam*

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; iti—thus; māyā—by His internal illusory potency; manuṣyasya—of Him who appears as a human; hareḥ—Lord Śrī Hari; viśva—of the universe; ātmanaḥ—the Soul; girā—by the words; mohitau—bewildered; aṅkam—upon their laps; āropya—raising; pariṣvajya—embracing; āpatuḥ—they both experienced; mudam—joy.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Thus beguiled by the words of Lord Hari, the Supreme Soul of the universe, who by His internal illusory potency appeared to be a human, His parents joyfully raised Him up on their laps and embraced Him.

TEXT 11

सिञ्चन्तावश्रुधाराभिः
स्नेहपाशेन चावृतौ
न किञ्चिदूचतू राजन् बाष्पकण्ठौ विमोहितौ

*siñcantāv aśru-dhārābhiḥ
sneha-pāśena cāvṛtau na kiñcid ūcatū rājan
bāṣpa-kaṇṭhau vimohitau*

SYNONYMS

siñcantau—sprinkling; aśru—of tears; dhārābhiḥ—with showers; sneha—of affection; pāśena—by the rope; ca—and; āvṛtau—enveloped; na—not; kiñcid—anything; ūcatuḥ—they spoke; rājan—O King (Parīkṣit); bāṣpa—(full of) tears; kaṇṭhau—whose throats; vimohitau—overwhelmed.

TRANSLATION

Pouring out a shower of tears upon the Lord, His parents, who were bound up by the rope of affection, could not speak. They were overwhelmed, O King, and their throats choked up with tears.

TEXT 12

एवमाश्वास्य पितरौ
भगवान्देवकीसुतः
मातामहं तूग्रसेनं
यदूनामकरोन्मृपम

*evam āśvāsyā pitarau
bhagavān devakī-sutaḥ
mātāmahaṁ tūgrasenaṁ
yadūnām akaron mṛpam*

SYNONYMS

evam—in this way; āśvāsyā—assuring; pitarau—His parents; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; devakī-sutaḥ—the son of Devakī; mātāmaham—His maternal grandfather; tu—and; ugrasenam—Ugrasena; yadūnām—of the Yadus; akarot—He made; nṛpam—King.

TRANSLATION

Thus having comforted His mother and father, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, appearing as the son of Devakī, installed His maternal grandfather, Ugrasena, as King of the Yadus.

TEXT 13

आह चास्मान्महाराज
प्रजाश्चाज्ञप्तुमर्हसि
ययातिशापाद्यदुभिर् नासितव्यं नृपासने

āha cāsmān mahā-rāja
prajāś cājñaptum arhasi yayāti-śāpād yadubhir nāsitavyaṁ nṛpāsane

SYNONYMS

āha—He (Lord Kṛṣṇa) said; ca—and; asmān—Us; mahā-rāja—O great King; prajāḥ—your subjects; ca—also; ājñaptum arhasi—please command; yayāti—by the ancient King Yayāti; śāpāt—because of the curse;

yadubhiḥ—the Yadus; na āsitavyam—should not sit; nṛpa—royal; āsane—on the throne.

TRANSLATION

The Lord told him: O mighty King, We are your subjects, so please command Us. Indeed, because of the curse of Yayāti, no Yadu may sit on the royal throne.

PURPORT

Ugrasena might have told the Lord, "My dear Lord, it is actually You who should sit on the throne." Anticipating this statement, Lord Kṛṣṇa told Ugrasena that because of Yayāti's ancient curse, princes in the Yadu dynasty could technically not sit on the royal throne, and therefore Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma were disqualified. Of course, Ugrasena also could be considered part of the Yadu dynasty, but by the order of the Lord he could sit on the royal throne. In conclusion, these were all pastimes the Supreme Lord enjoyed as He played the part of a human being.

TEXT 14

मयि भृत्य उपासीने
भवतो विबुधादयः
बलिं हरन्त्यवनताः किमुतान्ये नराधिपाः

*mayi bhṛtya upāsīne
bhavato vibudhādayaḥ
balim harantya avanatāḥ*

kim utānye narādhipāḥ

SYNONYMS

mayi—when I; bhṛtye—as a servant; upāsīne—am present in attendance; bhavataḥ—to you; vibudha—the demigods; ādayaḥ—and so on; balim—tribute; haranti—will bring; avanatāḥ—bowed down in humility; kim uta—what then to speak of; anye—other; nara—of men; adhipāḥ—rulers.

TRANSLATION

Since I am present in your entourage as your personal attendant, all the demigods and other exalted personalities will come with heads bowed to offer you tribute. What, then, to speak of the rulers of men?

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa again assures Ugrasena that he should confidently take the throne.

TEXTS 15-16

सर्वान् स्वान् ज्ञातिसम्बन्धान्
दिग्भ्यः कंसभयाकुलान्
यदुवृष्ण्यन्धकमधु
दाशार्हकुकुरादिकान्

सभाजितान् समाश्वास्य
विदेशावासकर्षितान्
न्यवासयत्स्वगेहेषु

वित्तैः सन्तर्प्य विश्वकृत sarvān svān jñāti-sambandhān digbhyaḥ kām̐sa-bhayākulān yadu-vṛṣṇy-andhaka-madhu dāśārha-kukurādikān

sabhājitān samāśvāsyā videśāvāsa-karṣitān nyavāsayat sva-geheṣu vittaiḥ santarpya viśva-kṛt

SYNONYMS

sarvān—all; svān—His; jñāti—close family members; sambandhān—and other relations; digbhyaḥ—from all directions; kām̐sa-bhaya—by fear of Kām̐sa; ākulān—disturbed; yadu-vṛṣṇi-andhaka-madhu-dāśārha kukura-ādikān—the Yadus, Vṛṣṇis, Andhakas, Madhus, Dāśārhas, Kukuras and so on; sabhājitān—shown honor; samāś. vāsyā—consoling them; videśa—in foreign regions; āvāsa—by living; karṣitān—made weary; nyavāsayat—He settled; sva—in their own; geheṣu—homes; vittaiḥ—with valuable gifts; santarpya—gratifying; viśva—of the universe; kṛt—the maker.

TRANSLATION

The Lord then brought all His close family members and other relatives back from the various places to which they had fled in fear of Kām̐sa. He received the Yadus, Vṛṣṇis, Andhakas, Madhus, Dāśārhas, Kukuras and other clans with due honor, and He also consoled them, for they were weary of living in foreign lands. Then Lord Kṛṣṇa, the creator of the universe, resettled them in their homes and gratified them with valuable gifts.

TEXTS 17-18

कृष्णसङ्कर्षणभुजैर्
गुप्ता लब्धमनोरथाः
गृहेषु रेमिरे सिद्धाः
कृष्णरामगतज्वराः

वीक्षन्तोऽहरहः प्रीता
मुकुन्दवदनाम्बुजम्
नित्यं प्रमुदितं श्रीमत
सदयस्मितवीक्षणम्

*kṛṣṇa-saṅkarṣaṇa-bhujair
guptā labdha-manorathāḥ grheṣu remire siddhāḥ kṛṣṇa-rāma-gata-jvarāḥ vīkṣanto 'har ahaḥ prītā mukunda-vadanāmbujam nityaṁ pramuditaṁ śrīmat
sa-daya-smita-vīkṣaṇam*

SYNONYMS

kṛṣṇa-saṅkarṣaṇa—of Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma; bhujaiḥ—by the arms; guptāḥ—protected; labdha—obtaining; manaḥ-rathāḥ—their desires; grheṣu—in their homes; remire—they enjoyed; siddhāḥ—perfectly fulfilled; kṛṣṇa-rāma—because of Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma; gata—ceased; jvarāḥ—the fever (of material life); vīkṣantaḥ—seeing; ahaḥ ahaḥ—day after day; prītāḥ—loving; mukunda—of Lord Kṛṣṇa; vadana—the face; ambujam—lotuslike;

nityam—always; pramuditam—cheerful; śrīmat—beautiful; sa-daya—merciful; smita—smiling; vīkṣaṇam—with glances.

TRANSLATION

The members of these clans, protected by the arms of Lord Kṛṣṇa and Lord Saṅkarṣaṇa, felt that all their desires were fulfilled. Thus they enjoyed perfect happiness while living at home with their families. Because of the presence of Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, they no longer suffered from the fever of material existence. Every day these loving devotees could see Mukunda's ever-cheerful lotus face, which was decorated with beautiful, merciful smiling glances.

TEXT 19

तत्र प्रवयसोऽप्यासन्
युवानोऽतिबलौजसः
पिबन्तोऽक्षैर्मुकुन्दस्य मुखाम्बुजसुधां मुहुः

tatra pravayaso 'py āsan
yuvāno 'ti-balaujasah pibanto 'kṣair mukundasya mukhāmbuja-sudhām muhuḥ

SYNONYMS

tatra—there (in Mathurā); pravayasah—the most elderly; api—even; āsan—were; yuvānaḥ—youthful; ati—having abundant; bala—strength; ojasaḥ—and vitality; pibantaḥ—drinking; akṣaiḥ—with their eyes; mukundasya—of Lord Kṛṣṇa; mukha-ambuja—of the lotus face; sudhām—the nectar; muhuh—repeatedly.

TRANSLATION

Even the most elderly inhabitants of the city appeared youthful, full of strength and vitality, for with their eyes they constantly drank the elixir of Lord Mukunda's lotus face.

TEXT 20

अथ नन्दं समसाद्य
भगवान्देवकीसुतः
सङ्कर्षणश्च राजेन्द्र परिष्वज्येदमूचतुः

*atha nandaṁ samasādya
bhagavān devakī-sutaḥ
saṅkarṣaṇaś ca rājendra
pariṣvajyedaṁ ūcatuḥ*

SYNONYMS

atha—then; nandaṁ—Nanda Mahārāja; samāsādya—approaching; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; devakī-sutaḥ—Kṛṣṇa, the son of Devakī; saṅkarṣaṇaḥ—Lord Balarāma; ca—and; rāja-indra—O exalted King (Parīkṣit); pariṣvajya—embracing him; idam—this; ūcatuḥ—They said.

TRANSLATION

Then, O exalted Parīkṣit, the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa, the son of Devakī, along with Lord Balarāma, approached Nanda Mahārāja. The two Lords embraced him and then addressed him as follows.

TEXT 21

पितर्युवाभ्यां स्निग्धाभ्यां
पोषितौ लालितौ भृशम्
पित्रोरभ्यधिका प्रीतिर् आत्मजेष्व्वात्मनोऽपि हि

pitar yuvābhyām snigdhabhyām poṣitau lālitau bhṛśam pitror abhyadhikā prītir ātmajeṣv ātmano 'pi hi

SYNONYMS

pitaḥ—O Father; yuvābhyām—by you two; snigdhabhyām—affectionate; poṣitau—maintained; lālitau—coddled; bhṛśam—thoroughly; pitroḥ—for parents; abhyadhikā—greater; prītiḥ—love; ātmajeṣu—for their children; ātmanaḥ—than for themselves; api—even; hi—indeed.

TRANSLATION

[Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma said:] O Father, you and mother Yaśodā have affectionately maintained Us and cared for Us so much! Indeed, parents love their children more than their own lives.

TEXT 22

स पिता सा च जननी
यौ पुष्णीतां स्वपुत्रवत्
शिशून् बन्धुभिरुत्सृष्टान् अकल्पैः पोषरक्षणे

sa pitā sā ca jananī yau puṣṇītām sva-putra-vat śiśūn bandhubhir utsṛṣṭān akalpaiḥ poṣa-rakṣaṇe

SYNONYMS

saḥ—he; pitā—father; sā—she; ca—and; jananī—mother; yau—who; puṣṇītām—nourish; sva—their own; putra—sons; vat—like; śiśūn—children; bandhubhiḥ—by their family; utsṛṣṭān—abandoned; akalpaiḥ—who are unable; poṣa—to maintain; rakṣaṇe—and protect.

TRANSLATION

They are the real father and mother who care for, as they would their own sons, children abandoned by relatives unable to maintain and protect them.

TEXT 23

यात यूयं व्रजन्तात
वयं च स्नेहदुःखितान्
ज्ञातीन् वो द्रष्टुमेष्यामो विधाय सुहृदां सुखम्

yāta yūyam vrajamn tāta
vayam ca sneha-duḥkhitān jñātīn vo draṣṭum eṣyāmo vidhāya suhṛdām sukham

SYNONYMS

yata—please go; yūyam—all of you (cowherds); vrajam—to Vraja; tāta—My dear father; vayam—We; ca—and; sneha—due to loving affection; duḥkhitān—miserable; jñātīn—relatives; vaḥ—you; draṣṭum—to see; eṣyāmaḥ—will come; vidhāya—after bestowing; suhṛdām—to your loving friends; sukham—happiness.

TRANSLATION

Now you should all return to Vraja, dear Father. We shall come to see you, Our dear relatives who suffer in separation from Us, as soon as We have given some happiness to your well-wishing friends.

PURPORT

The Lord here indicates His desire to satisfy His dear devotees in Mathurā—Vasudeva, Devakī and other members of the Yadu dynasty—who for so long had been separated from Him during His stay in Vṛndāvana.

TEXT 24

एवं सान्त्वय्य भगवान्
नन्दं सव्रजमच्युतः
वासोऽलङ्कारकुप्याद्यैर्

अर्हयामास सादरम्

evam sāntvayya bhagavān nandaṁ sa-vrajaṁ acyutaḥ vāso-'laṅkāra-kupyādyair arhayām āsa sādaram

SYNONYMS

evam—in this manner; sāntvayya—consoling; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; nandaṁ—King Nanda; sa-vrajaṁ—together with the other men of Vraja; acyutaḥ—the infallible Lord; vāsaḥ—with clothing; alaṅkāra—jewelry; kupya—vessels made of metals other than gold or silver; ādyaiḥ—and so on; arhayām āsa—He honored them; sa-ādaram—respectfully.

TRANSLATION

Thus consoling Nanda Mahārāja and the other men of Vraja, the infallible Supreme Lord respectfully honored them with gifts of clothing, jewelry, household utensils and so on.

TEXT 25

इत्युक्तस्तौ परिष्वज्य
नन्दः प्रणयविह्वलः
पूरयन्नश्रुभिर्नेत्रे सह गोपैर्व्रजं ययौ

ity uktas tau pariṣvajya nandaḥ praṇaya-vihvalaḥ

pūrayann aśrubhir netre saha gopair vrajam yayau

SYNONYMS

iti—thus; uktaḥ—addressed; tau—the two of Them; pariṣvajya—embracing; nandaḥ—Nanda Mahārāja; praṇaya—with affection; vihvalaḥ—overwhelmed; pūrayan—filling; aśrubhiḥ—with tears; netre—his eyes; saha—together with; gopaiḥ—the cowherds; vrajam—to Vraja; yayau—went.

TRANSLATION

Nanda Mahārāja was overwhelmed with affection upon hearing Kṛṣṇa's words, and his eyes brimmed with tears as he embraced the two Lords. Then he went back to Vraja with the cowherd men.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī has written an extensive purport to this verse, elaborately analyzing this portion of Lord Kṛṣṇa's pastimes. Just as a man places his valuable gold within fire to reveal its purity, the Lord placed His most beloved devotees, the residents of Vṛndāvana, in the fire of separation from Him in order to manifest their supreme love. This is the essence of Ācārya Viśvanātha's comments.

TEXT 26

अथ शूरसुतो राजन्
पुत्रयोः समकारयत्
पुरोधसा ब्राह्मणैश्च

यथावद् द्विजसंस्कृतिम्

*atha śūra-suto rājan putrayoḥ samakārayat purodhasā brāhmaṇaiś ca
yathāvad dvija-saṁskṛtim*

SYNONYMS

atha—then; śūra-sutaḥ—the son of Śūrasena (Vasudeva); rājan—O King (Parīkṣit); putrayoḥ—of his two sons; samakārayat—had performed; purodhasā—by a priest; brāhmaṇaiḥ—by brāhmaṇas; ca—and; yathā-vat—properly; dvija-saṁskṛtim—brahminical initiation.

TRANSLATION

My dear King, then Vasudeva, the son of Śūrasena, arranged for a priest and other brāhmaëas to perform his two sons' second-birth initiation.

TEXT 27

तेभ्योऽदादक्षिणा गावो
रुक्ममालाः स्वलङ्कृताः
स्वलङ्कृतेभ्यः सम्पूज्य सवत्साः क्षौममालिनीः

tebhyo 'dād dakṣiṇā gāvo rukma-mālāḥ sv-alan̐kṛtāḥ sv-alan̐kṛtebhyaḥ sampūjya sa-vatsāḥ kṣauma-mālīniḥ

SYNONYMS

tebhyaḥ—to them (the brāhmaṇas); adāt—he gave; dakṣiṇāḥ—gifts in remuneration; gāvaḥ—cows; rukma—of gold; mālāḥ—with necklaces; su—well; alaṅkṛtāḥ—ornamented; su-alaṅkṛtebhyaḥ—to the well-ornamented (brāhmaṇas); sampūjya—worshiping them; sa—having; vatsāḥ—calves; kṣauma—of linen; mālinīḥ—wearing garlands.

TRANSLATION

Vasudeva honored these brāhmaëas by worshiping them and giving them fine ornaments and well-ornamented cows with their calves. All these cows wore gold necklaces and linen wreaths.

TEXT 28

याः कृष्णरामजन्मर्क्षे
मनोदत्ता महामतिः
ताश्चाददादनुस्मृत्य कंसेनाधर्मतो हताः

yāḥ kṛṣṇa-rāma-janmarkṣe mano-dattā mahā-matiḥ tāś cādadād anusmṛtya kaṁsenādharmato hṛtāḥ

SYNONYMS

yāḥ—which (cows); kṛṣṇa-rāma—of Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma; janmarkṣe—on the day of birth; manaḥ—in his mind; dattāḥ—given in charity; mahā-matiḥ—the magnanimous (Vasudeva); tāḥ—them; ca—and; ādadāt—he gave; anusmṛtya—remembering; kāmsena—by Kāmsa; adharmataḥ—impiously; hṛtaḥ—taken away.

TRANSLATION

The magnanimous Vasudeva then remembered the cows he had mentally given away on the occasion of Kṛṣṇa's and Balarāma's birth. Kāmsa had stolen those cows, and Vasudeva now recovered them and gave them away in charity also.

PURPORT

At the time of Kṛṣṇa's appearance, Vasudeva had been imprisoned by Kāmsa, who had stolen all his cows. Still, Vasudeva had been so jubilant at the birth of the Lord that he had mentally donated ten thousand of his cows to the brāhmaṇas.

Now, upon Kāmsa's death, Vasudeva took back all his cows from the late King's herd and gave ten thousand of them, according to religious principles, to the worthy brāhmaṇas.

TEXT 29

ततश्च लब्धसंस्कारौ
द्विजत्वं प्राप्य सुव्रतौ
गर्गाद्यदुकुलाचार्याद् गायत्रं व्रतमास्थितौ

tataś ca labdha-saṁskārau dvijatvaṁ prāpya su-vratau

gargād yadu-kulācāryād gāyatram vratam āsthitau

SYNONYMS

tataḥ—then; ca—and; labdha—having received; saṁskārau—initiation (Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma); dvijatvam—twice-born status; prāpya—attaining; su-vratau—sincere in Their vows; gargāt—from Garga Muni; yadu-kula—of the Yadu dynasty; ācāryāt—from the spiritual master; gāyatram—of celibacy; vratam—the vow; āsthitau—assumed.

TRANSLATION

After attaining twice-born status through initiation, the Lords, sincere in Their vows, took the further vow of celibacy from Garga Muni, the spiritual master of the Yadus.

PURPORT

Both Śrīdhara Svāmī and Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura explain the term gāyatram vratam as the vow of brahmacarya, or celibacy in student life. Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma were playing the part of perfect students on the path of self-realization. Of course, in the modern, degraded age, student life has become a wild, animalistic affair filled with illicit sex and drugs.

TEXTS 30-31

प्रभवौ सर्वविद्यानां
सर्वज्ञौ जगदीश्वरौ
नान्यसिद्धामलं ज्ञानं

गूहमानौ नरेहितैः
अथो गुरुकुले वासम्
इच्छन्तावुपजग्मतुः
काश्यं सान्दीपनिं नाम ह्यवन्तिपुरवासिनम्

*prabhavau sarva-vidyānām sarva-jñau jagad-īśvarau nānya-siddhāmalaṁ jñānam gūhamānau narehitaiḥ atho guru-kule vāsam icchantāv upajagmatuḥ kāśyam sāndīpanim nāma
hy avanti-pura-vāsinam*

SYNONYMS

prabhavau—They who were the origin; sarva—of all varieties; vidyānām—of knowledge; sarva-jñau—omniscient; jagat-īśvarau—the Lords of the universe; na—not; anya—from any other source; siddha—achieved; amalam—impeccable; jñānam—knowledge; gūhamānau—hiding; nara—humanlike; ihitaiḥ—by Their activities; atha u—then; guru—of the spiritual master; kule—in the school; vāsam—residence; icchantau—desiring; upajagatuḥ—They approached; kāśyam—the native of Kāśī (Benares); sāndīpanim nāma—named Sāndīpani; hi—indeed; avanti-pura—in the city of Avantī (modern Ujjain); vāsinam—living.

TRANSLATION

Concealing Their innately perfect knowledge by Their humanlike activities, those two omniscient Lords of the universe, Themselves the origin of all branches of knowledge, next desired to reside at the school of a spiritual master. Thus They approached Sāṇḍīpani Muni, a native of Kāśī living in the city of Avantī.

TEXT 32

यथोपसाद्य तौ दान्तौ
गुरौ वृत्तिमनिन्दिताम्
ग्राहयन्तावुपेतौ स्म भक्त्या देवमिवादृतौ

yathopasādyā tau dāntau
gurau vṛttim aninditām grāhayantāv upetau sma
bhaktyā devam ivāḍṛtau

SYNONYMS

yathā—fittingly; upasādyā—obtaining; tau—Them; dāntau—who were self-controlled; gurau—to one's spiritual master; vṛttim—service; aninditām—irreproachable; grāhayantau—making others take to; upetau—approaching for service; sma—indeed; bhaktyā—with devotion; devam—the Supreme Lord; iva—as if; āḍṛtau—respected (by the guru).

TRANSLATION

Sāṇḍīpani thought very highly of these two self-controlled disciples, whom he had obtained so fortuitously. By serving him as devotedly as one would serve the Supreme Lord Himself, They showed others an irreproachable example of how to worship the spiritual master.

TEXT 33

तयोर्द्विजवरस्तुष्टः
शुद्धभावानुवृत्तिभिः
प्रोवाच वेदानखिलान्
साङ्गोपनिषदो गुरुः

tayor dvija-varas tuṣṭaḥ śuddha-bhāvānuvṛttibhiḥ provāca vedān akhilān sāṅgoṇiṣado guruḥ

SYNONYMS

tayoḥ—Their; dvija-varaḥ—the best of brāhmaṇas (Sāndīpani); tuṣṭaḥ—satisfied; śuddha—pure; bhāva—with love; anuvṛttibhiḥ—by the submissive acts; provāca—he spoke; vedān—the Vedas; akhilān—all; sa—together with; aṅga—the (six) corollary literatures; upaniṣadaḥ—and the Upaniṣads; guruḥ—the spiritual master.

TRANSLATION

That best of brāhmaëas, the spiritual master Sāndīpani, was satisfied with Their submissive behavior, and thus he taught Them the entire Vedas, together with their six corollaries and the Upaniṣads.

TEXT 34

सरहस्यं धनुर्वेदं
धर्मान्यायपथांस्तथा
तथा चान्वीक्षिकीं विद्यां राजनीतिं च षड्विधाम्

*sa-rahasyam dhanur-vedam dharmān nyāya-pathāms tathā tathā cānvīkṣikīm vidyām
rāja-nītim ca ṣaḍ-vidhām*

SYNONYMS

sa-rahasyam—along with its confidential portion; dhanur-veda—the science of military weapons; dharmān—the doctrines of human law; nyāya—of logic; pathān—the methods; tathā—also; tathā ca—and similarly; ānvīkṣikīm—of philosophical debate; vidyām—the branch of knowledge; rāja-nītim—political science; ca—and; ṣaḍ-vidhām—in six aspects.

TRANSLATION

He also taught Them the Dhanur-veda, with its most confidential secrets; the standard books of law; the methods of logical reasoning and philosophical debate; and the sixfold science of politics.

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī explains that the confidential portion of the Dhanur-veda, military science, includes knowledge of the appropriate mantras and presiding deities of warfare. Dharmān refers to the Manu-saṁhitā and other standard lawbooks (dharma-śāstras). Nyāya-pathān refers to the doctrine of Karma-mīmāṃsā and other such theories. Ānvīkṣikīm is knowledge of the techniques of logical argument (tarka). The sixfold political science is quite pragmatic and includes (1) sandhi, making peace; (2) vigraha, war; (3) yāna, marching; (4) āsana, sitting tight; (5) dvaidha, dividing one's forces; and (6) saṁśaya, seeking the protection of a more powerful ruler.

TEXTS 35-36

सर्वं नरवरश्रेष्ठौ
सर्वविद्याप्रवर्तकौ
सकृन्निगदमात्रेण
तौ सञ्जगृहतुर्नृप

अहोरात्रैश्चतुःषष्ट्या
संयत्तौ तावतीः कलाः
गुरुदक्षिणयाचार्यं छन्दयामासतुर्नृप

sarvaṁ nara-vara-śreṣṭhau
sarva-vidyā-pravartakau sakṛṇ nigada-mātreṇa tau sañjagr̥hatur nṛpa

aho-rātraiś catuḥ-ṣaṣṭyā saṁyattau tāvatīḥ kalāḥ guru-dakṣiṇayācāryaṁ
chandayām āsatur nṛpa

SYNONYMS

sarvam—everything; nara-vara—of first-class men; śreṣṭhau—the best; sarva—of all; vidyā—branches of knowledge; pravartakau—the initiators; sakṛt—once; nigada—being related; mātreṇa—simply; tau—They; sañjagṛhatuḥ—fully assimilated; nṛpa—O King (Parīkṣit); ahaḥ—in days; rātraiḥ—and nights; catuḥ-ṣaṣṭyā—sixty-four; saṁyattau—fixed in concentration; tāvatīḥ—that many; kalāḥ—arts; guru-dakṣiṇayā—with the traditional gift for the spiritual master before one leaves him; ācāryam—Their teacher; chandayām āsatuḥ—They satisfied; nṛpa—O King.

TRANSLATION

O King, those best of persons, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, being Themselves the original promulgators of all varieties of knowledge, could immediately assimilate each and every subject after hearing it explained just once. Thus with fixed concentration They learned the sixty-four arts and skills in as many days and nights. Thereafter, O King, They satisfied Their spiritual master by offering him guru-dakṣiṇā.

PURPORT

The following list comprises the sixty-four subjects mastered by Lord Kṛṣṇa and Lord Balarāma in sixty-four days. Additional information may be found in Śrīla Prabhupāda's Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead.

The Lords learned (1) gītam, singing; (2) vādyam, playing on musical instruments; (3) nṛtyam, dancing; (4) nāṭyam, drama; (5) ālekhyam, painting; (6) viśeṣaka-cchedyam, painting the face and body with colored unguents and cosmetics; (7) taṇḍula-kusuma-bali-vikārāḥ, preparing auspicious designs on the floor with rice and flowers; (8) puṣpāstaraṇam, making a bed of flowers; (9) daśana-vasanāṅga-rāgāḥ, coloring one's teeth, clothes and limbs; (10) maṇi-bhūmikā-karma, inlaying a floor with jewels; (11) śayyā-racanam, covering a bed; (12) udaka-vādyam, ringing waterpots; (13) udaka-ghātaḥ, splashing with water; (14) citra-yogāḥ, mixing colors; (15)

mālya-grathana-vikalpāḥ, preparing wreaths; (16) śekharāpīḍa-yojanam, setting a helmet on the head; (17) nepathya-yogāḥ, putting on apparel in a dressing room; (18) karṇa-patra-bhaṅgāḥ, decorating the earlobe; (19) sugandha-yuktiḥ, applying aromatics; (20) bhūṣaṇa-yojanam, decorating with jewelry; (21) aindrajālam, jugglery; (22) kaucumāra-yogaḥ, the art of disguise; (23) hasta-lāghavam, sleight of hand; (24) citra-śākāpūpa-bhakṣya-vikāra-kriyaḥ, preparing varieties of salad, bread, cake and other delicious food; (25) pānaka-rasa-rāgāsava-yojanam, preparing palatable drinks and tinging draughts with red color; (26) sūcī-vāya-karma, needlework and weaving; (27) sūtra-kṛīḍā, making puppets dance by manipulating thin threads; (28) vīṇā-ḍamarukavādyāni, playing on a lute and a small X-shaped drum; (29) prahelikā, making and solving riddles; (29a) pratimālā, capping verses, or reciting poems verse for verse as a trial of memory or skill; (30) durvacaka-yogāḥ, uttering statements difficult for others to answer; (31) pustaka-vācanam, reciting books; and (32) nāṭikākhyāyikā-darśanam, enacting short plays and writing anecdotes.

Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma also learned (33) kāvya-samasyā-pūraṇam, solving enigmatic verses; (34) paṭṭikā-vetra-bāṇa-vikalpāḥ, making a bow from a strip of cloth and a stick; (35) tarku-karma, spinning with a spindle; (36) takṣaṇam, carpentry; (37) vāstu-vidyā, architecture; (38) raupya-ratna-ṭarīkṣā, testing silver and jewels; (39) dhātu-vādaḥ, metallurgy; (40) maṇi-rāga-jñānam, tinging jewels with various colors; (41) ākara-jñānam, mineralogy; (42) vṛkṣāyur-veda-yogāḥ, herbal medicine; (43) meṣa-kukkuṭa-lāvaka-yuddha-vidhiḥ, the art of training and engaging rams, cocks and quails in fighting; (44) śuka-śārikā-pralāpanam, knowledge of how to train male and female parrots to speak and to answer the questions of human beings; (45) utsādanam, healing a person with ointments; (46) keśa-mārjana-kausalam, hairdressing; (47) akṣara-muṣṭikā-kathanam, telling what is written in a book without seeing it, and telling what is hidden in another's fist; (48) mlecchita-kutarka-vikalpāḥ, fabricating barbarous or foreign sophistry; (49) deśa-bhāṣā-jñānam, knowledge of provincial dialects; (50) puṣpa-śakaṭikā-nirmiti-jñānam, knowledge of how to build toy carts with flowers; (51) yantra-māṭṛkā, composing magic squares, arrangements of numbers adding up to the same total in all directions; (52) dhāraṇa-māṭṛkā, the use of amulets; (53) saṁvācyam, conversation; (54) mānasī-kāvya-kriyā, composing verses mentally; (55) kriyā-vikalpāḥ, designing a literary work or a medical remedy; (56) chalitaka-yogāḥ, building shrines; (57) abhidhāna-koṣa-cchando-jñānam, lexicography and the knowledge of poetic meters; (58) vastra-goṇam, disguising one kind of cloth to look like another; (59) dyūta-viśeṣam, knowledge of various forms of gambling; (so) ākarṣa-kṛīḍa, playing dice; (61) bālaka-kṛīḍanakam, playing with children's toys; (62) vaināyikī vidyā, enforcing discipline by mystic power; (63) vaijayikī vidyā, gaining victory; and (64) vaitālikī vidyā, awakening one's master with music at dawn.

TEXT 37

द्विजस्तयोस्तं महिमानमद्भुतं
 संलोक्य राजन्नतिमानुसीं मतिम् सम्मन्त्र्य पत्न्या स महार्णवे मृतं बालं प्रभासे वरयां बभूव ह

dvijas tayos taṁ mahimānam adbhutaṁ saṁlokṣya rājann ati-mānusīm matim sammantrya patnyā sa mahārṇave mṛtaṁ bālaṁ prabhāse varayāṁ babhūva ha

SYNONYMS

dvijaḥ—the learned brāhmaṇa; tayoḥ—of the two of Them; taṁ—that; mahimānam—greatness; adbhutam—amazing; saṁlakṣya—observing well;

rājan—O King; ati-mānuṣīm—beyond human capacity; matim—intelligence; sammantrya—after consulting; patnyā—with his wife; saḥ—he; mahā-arṇave—in the great ocean; mṛtam—who had died; bālam—his child; prabhāse—at the holy place Prabhāsa; varayām babhūva ha—he chose.

TRANSLATION

O King, the learned brāhmaëa Sāndīpani carefully considered the two Lords' glorious and amazing qualities and Their superhuman intelligence. Then, after consulting with his wife, he chose as his remuneration the return of his young son, who had died in the ocean at Prabhāsa.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī, the child was captured by the conchshell demon while playing at the Mahā-śiva-kṣetra.

TEXT 38

तेथेत्यथारुह्य महारथौ रथं
प्रभासमासाद्य दुरन्तविक्रमौ
वेलामुपव्रज्य निषीदतुः क्षणं सिन्धुर्विदित्वार्हणमाहरत्तयोः

tethety athāruhya mahā-rathau ratham prabhāsam āsādyā duranta-vikramau velām upavrajya niṣīdatuḥ kṣanam sindhur viditvārhanam āharat tayoh

SYNONYMS

tathā—so be it; iti—saying this; atha—then; āruhya—mounting; mahā-rathau—the two great chariot warriors; ratham—a chariot; prabhāsam—Prabhāsa-tīrtha; āsādyā—reaching; duranta—limitless; vikramau—whose prowess; velām—up to the shore; upavrajya—walking; niṣīdatuḥ—They sat down; kṣaṇam—for a moment; sindhuḥ—the (presiding demigod of the) ocean; viditvā—recognizing; arhaṇam—respectful offering; āharat—brought; tayoḥ—for Them.

TRANSLATION

"So be it," replied those two great chariot warriors of limitless might, and They at once mounted Their chariot and set off for Prabhāsa. When They reached that place, They walked up to the shore and sat down. In a moment the deity of the ocean, recognizing Them to be the Supreme Lords, approached Them with offerings of tribute.

PURPORT

Western scholars sometimes think that references in ancient books of wisdom to the deity of the ocean, the deity of the sun and so on reveal a primitive, mythical way of thinking. They sometimes say that primitive men think that the ocean is a god or that the sun and moon are gods. In fact, references such as the word sindhu in this verse, meaning "the ocean," indicate the person who governs that aspect of physical nature.

We can give several modern examples. In the United Nations we may say, "The United States votes 'Yes,' the Soviet Union votes 'No.' " We hardly mean that the physical countries or the buildings in them have voted. We mean that a particular person, representing that political and geographical entity, has voted. Yet the newspapers will simply say, "The United States voted, decided, etc." and everyone knows what that means.

Similarly, in business we may say, "A large conglomerate has swallowed up a smaller firm." We hardly mean that the buildings, office equipment and the like have physically swallowed another building full of workers and office equipment. We mean that the empowered authorities have engaged in a particular act on behalf of their respective corporate entities.

Unfortunately, modern scholars are eager to confirm their pet theories that ancient spiritual wisdom is primitive, mythic and largely supplanted by more modern ways of thinking, exemplified by their own eloquent remarks. However, much in modern scholarship must be rethought in the light of Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 39

तमाह भगवानाशु
गुरुपुत्रः प्रदीयताम्
योऽसाविह त्वया ग्रस्तो बालको महतोर्मिणा

*tam āha bhagavān āśu
guru-putraḥ pradīyatām yo 'sāv iha tvayā grasto bālako mahatormiṇā*

SYNONYMS

tam—to him; āha—said; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; āśu—quickly; guru—of My spiritual master; putraḥ—the son; pradīyatām—must be presented; yaḥ—who; asau—he; iha—in this place; tvayā—by you; grastaḥ—seized; bālakaḥ—a young boy; mahatā—mighty; ūrmiṇā—by your wave.

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa addressed the lord of the ocean: Let the son of My guru be presented at once—the one you seized here with your mighty waves.

TEXT 40

श्रीसमुद्र उवाच
न चाहार्षमहं देव
दैत्यः पञ्चजनो महान्
अन्तर्जलचरः कृष्ण शङ्खरूपधरोऽसुरः

śrī-samudra uvāca
na cāhārṣam ahaṁ deva daityaḥ pañcajano mahān antar-jala-caraḥ kṛṣṇa śaṅkha-rūpa-dharo 'suraḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī-samudraḥ uvāca—the ocean personified said; na—not; ca—and; ahārṣam—did take (him) away; aham—I; deva—O Lord; daityaḥ—a descendant of Diti; pañcajanaḥ—named Pañcajana; mahān—powerful; antaḥ—within; jala—the water; caraḥ—going; kṛṣṇa—O Kṛṣṇa; śaṅkha—of a conch; rūpa—the form; dharāḥ—assuming; asuraḥ—the demon.

TRANSLATION

The ocean replied: O Lord Kṛṣṇa, it was not I who abducted him, but a demonic descendant of Diti named Pañcajana, who travels in the water in the form of a conch.

PURPORT

Clearly the demon Pañcajana was too powerful for the ocean to control; otherwise the ocean would have prevented such an unlawful act.

TEXT 41

आस्ते तेनाहतो नूनं
तच्छ्रुत्वा सत्वरं प्रभुः
जलमाविश्य तं हत्वा नापश्यदुदरेऽर्भकम्

āste tenāhṛto nūnam tac chrutvā satvaram prabhuḥ jalam āviśya taṁ hatvā nāpaśyad udare 'rbhakam

SYNONYMS

āste—he is there; tena—by him, Pañcajana; āhṛtaḥ—taken away; nūnam—indeed; tat—that; śrutvā—hearing; satvaram—with haste; prabhuḥ—the Lord; jalam—the water; āviśya—entering; taṁ—him, the demon; hatvā—killing; na apaśyat—did not see; udare—in his abdomen; arbhakam—the boy.

TRANSLATION

"Indeed," the ocean said, "that demon has taken him away." Hearing this,

Lord Kṛṣṇa entered the ocean, found Pañcājana and killed him. But the Lord did not find the boy within the demon's belly.

TEXTS 42-44

तदङ्गप्रभवं शङ्खम्
आदाय रथमागमत्
ततः संयमनीं नाम
यमस्य दयितां पुरीम्

गत्वा जनार्दनः शङ्खं
प्रदध्मौ सहलायुधः
शङ्खनिर्हृदिमाकर्ण्य
प्रजासंयमनो यमः

तयोः सपर्यां महतीं
चक्रे भक्त्युपबृंहिताम्
उवाचावनतः कृष्णं
सर्वभूताशयालयम्
लीलामनुष्ययोर्विष्णो युवयोः करवाम किम्

*tad-aṅga-prabhavaṁ śaṅkham ādāya ratham āgamat tataḥ saṁyamanīṁ nāma
yamasya dayitāṁ purīm*

gatvā janārdanaḥ śaṅkham pradadhmau sa-halāyudhaḥ śaṅkha-nirhrādam ākarṇya prajā-saṁyamano yamaḥ

tayoḥ saparyāṁ mahatīm cakre bhakty-upabṛṁhitām uvācāvanataḥ kṛṣṇam sarva-bhūtāśayālayam
līlā-manuṣyayor viṣṇo yuvayoḥ karavāma kim

SYNONYMS

tat—his (the demon's); aṅga—from the body; prabhavam—grown; śaṅkham—the conchshell; ādāya—taking; ratham—to the chariot; āgamat—He returned; tataḥ—then; saṁyamanīm nāma—known as Saṁyamanī; yamasya—of Lord Yamarāja; dayitām—beloved; purīm—to the city; gatvā—going; jana-ardanaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa, the abode of all persons; śaṅkham—the conchshell; pradadhmau—blew loudly; sa—accompanied by; hala-āyudhaḥ—Lord Balarāma, whose weapon is a plow; śaṅkha—of the conchshell; nirhrādam—the resounding; ākarṇya—hearing; prajā—of those who take birth; saṁyamanaḥ—the restrainer; yamaḥ—Yamarāja; tayoḥ—of Them; saparyām—worship; mahatīm—elaborate; cakre—performed; bhakti—with devotion; upabṛṁhitām—overflowing; uvāca—he said; avanataḥ—bowing down humbly; kṛṣṇam—to Lord Kṛṣṇa; sarva—of all; bhūta—living beings; āśaya—the minds; ālayam—whose residence; līlā—as Your pastime; manuṣyayoḥ—appearing as human beings; viṣṇo—O Supreme Lord Viṣṇu; yuvayoḥ—for the two of You; karavāma—I should do; kim—what.

TRANSLATION

Lord Janārdana took the conchshell that had grown around the demon's body and went back to the chariot. Then He proceeded to Saṁyamanī, the beloved capital of Yamarāja, the lord of death. Upon arriving there with Lord Balarāma, He loudly blew His conchshell, and Yamarāja, who keeps the conditioned souls in check, came as soon as he heard the resounding vibration. Yamarāja elaborately worshiped the two Lords with great devotion, and then he addressed Lord Kṛṣṇa, who lives in everyone's heart: "O Supreme Lord Viṣṇu, what shall I do for You and Lord Balarāma, who are playing the part of ordinary humans?"

PURPORT

The conchshell the Lord took from Pañcajana, which is called Pāñcajanya, is the same one He sounded at the beginning of the Bhagavad-gītā. According to the ācāryas, Pañcajana had become a demon in a way similar to that of Jaya and Vijaya. In other words, though appearing in the form of a demon, he was actually a devotee of the Lord. The Skanda Purāṇa, Avanti-khaṇḍa, describes the wonderful things that happened when Lord Kṛṣṇa sounded His conchshell:

asipatra-vanaṁ nāma śīrṇa-patram ajāyata rauravaṁ nāma narakam arauravam abhūt tada

*abhairavaṁ bhairavākhyam
kumbhī-pākam apācakam*

"The hell known as Asipatra-vana lost the sharp, swordlike leaves on its trees, and the hell named Raurava became free of its ruru beasts. The Bhairava hell lost its fearfulness, and all cooking stopped in the Kumbhīpāka hell."

The Skanda Purāṇa further states,

pāpa-kṣayāt tataḥ sarve

*vimuktā nārakā narāḥ
padam avyayam āsādyā*

"Their sinful reactions eradicated, all the inhabitants of hell attained liberation and approached the spiritual world."

TEXT 45

श्रीभगवानुवाच
गुरुपुत्रमिहानीतं
निजकर्मनिबन्धनम्
आनयस्व महाराज मच्छासनपुरस्कृतः

*śrī-bhagavān uvāca
guru-putram ihānītaṁ
nija-karma-nibandhanam ānayasva mahā-rāja
mac-chāsana-puraskṛtaḥ*

SYNONYMS

śrī-bhagavān uvāca—the Supreme Lord said; guru-putram—the son of My spiritual master; iha—here; ānītaṁ—brought; nija—his own; karma—of reactions of past activity; nibandhanam—suffering the bondage; ānayasva—please bring; mahā-rāja—O great King; mat—My; śāsana—to the command; purāḥ-kṛtaḥ—giving first priority.

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Personality of Godhead said: Suffering the bondage of his past activity, My spiritual master's son was brought here to you. O great King, obey My command and bring this boy to Me without delay.

TEXT 46

तथेति तेनोपानीतं
गुरुपुत्रं यदूत्तमौ
दत्त्वा स्वगुरवे भूयो वृणीष्वेति तमूचतुः

*tatheti tenopānītaṁ
guru-putraṁ yadūttamau dattvā sva-gurave bhūyo
vṛṇīṣveti tam ūcatuḥ*

SYNONYMS

tathā—so be it; iti—(Yamarāja) thus saying; tena—by him; upānītaṁ—brought forward; guru-putraṁ—the spiritual master's son; yadu-uttamau—the best of the Yadus, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma; dattvā—giving; sva-gurave—to Their guru; bhūyaḥ—again; vṛṇīṣva—please choose; iti—thus; tam—to him; ūcatuḥ—They said.

TRANSLATION

Yamarāja said, "So be it," and brought forth the guru's son. Then those two most exalted Yadus presented the boy to Their spiritual master and said to him, "Please select another boon."

TEXT 47

श्रीगुरुवाच
सम्यक्सम्पादितो वत्स
भवद्भ्यां गुरुनिष्क्रयः
को नु युष्मद्विधगुरोः कामानामवशिष्यते

śrī-gurur uvāca
samyak sampādito vatsa bhavadbhyāṁ guru-niṣkrayaḥ ko nu yuṣmad-vidha-guroḥ kāmānām avaśiṣyate

SYNONYMS

śrī-guruḥ uvāca—Their spiritual master, Sāndīpani Muni, said; samyak—completely; sampāditaḥ—fulfilled; vatsa—my dear boy; bhavadbhyām—by You two; guru-niṣkrayaḥ—the remuneration of one's guru; kaḥ—which; nu—indeed; yuṣmat-vidha—of persons like You; guroḥ—for the spiritual master; kāmānām—of his desires; avaśiṣyate—remains.

TRANSLATION

The spiritual master said: My dear boys, You two have completely fulfilled the disciple's obligation to reward his spiritual master. Indeed, with disciples like You, what further desires could a guru have?

TEXT 48

गच्छतं स्वगृहं वीरौ
कीर्तिर्वामस्तु पावनी
छन्दांस्ययातयामानि भवन्त्वह परत्र च

*gacchataṁ sva-gr̥haṁ vīrau kīrtir vām astu pāvanī chandāṁsy ayāta-yāmāni
bhavantv iha paratra ca*

SYNONYMS

gacchataṁ—please go; sva-gr̥haṁ—to Your home; vīrau—O heroes; kīrtiḥ—fame; vām—Your; astu—may it be; pāvanī—purifying; chandāṁsi—Vedic hymns; ayāta-yāmāni—ever fresh; bhavantu—may there be; iha—in this life; paratra—in the next life; ca—and.

TRANSLATION

O heroes, now please return home. May Your fame sanctify the world, and may the Vedic hymns be ever fresh in Your minds, both in this life and the next.

TEXT 49

गुरुणैवमनुज्ञातौ
रथेनानिलरंहसा
आयातौ स्वपुरं तात

पर्जन्यनिनदेन वै

guruṇaivam anujñātau rathenānila-ramhasā āyātau sva-puram tāta
parjanya-ninadena vai

SYNONYMS

guruṇā—by Their spiritual master; evam—in this way; anujñātau—given leave; rathena—in Their chariot; anila—like the wind; ramhasā—whose speed; āyātau—came; sva—to Their own; puram—city (Mathurā); tāta—my dear (King Parīkṣit); parjanya—like a cloud; ninadena—whose reverberation; vai—indeed.

TRANSLATION

Thus receiving Their guru's permission to leave, the two Lords returned to Their city on Their chariot, which moved as swiftly as the wind and resounded like a cloud.

TEXT 50

समनन्दन् प्रजाः सर्वा
दृष्ट्वा रामजनार्दनौ
अपश्यन्त्यो बह्वहानि नष्टलब्धधना इव

samanandan prajāḥ sarvā
dṛṣṭvā rāma-janārdanau

*apaśyantyo bahv ahāni
naṣṭa-labdha-dhanā iva*

SYNONYMS

samanandan—rejoiced; prajāḥ—the citizens; sarvāḥ—all; dṛṣṭvā—seeing; rāma-janārdanau—Balarāma and Kṛṣṇa; apaśyantyaḥ—not having seen; bahu—for many; ahāni—days; naṣṭa—lost; labdha—and regained; dhanāḥ—those whose wealth; iva—like.

TRANSLATION

All the citizens rejoiced upon seeing Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, whom they had not seen for many days. The people felt just like those who have lost their wealth and then regained it.

*Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C.
Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Forty-fifth Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "Kṛṣṇa Rescues His Teacher's Son."*

46. Uddhava Visits Vṛndāvana

This chapter describes how Śrī Kṛṣṇa sent Uddhava to Vraja to relieve the distress of Nanda, Yaśodā and the young gopīs.

One day Lord Kṛṣṇa asked His intimate friend Uddhava to take news of Him to Vraja and thus relieve His parents and the gopīs of their misery caused by their separation from Him. Riding on a chariot, Uddhava reached Vraja at sunset. He saw the cows returning home to the cowherd village and the calves jumping here and there as their mothers followed slowly behind, weighed down by their heavy milk bags. The cowherd men and women were chanting the glories of Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, and the village was attractively decorated with burning incense and rows of lamps. All this presented a scene of exceptional transcendental beauty.

Nanda Mahārāja welcomed Uddhava warmly into his home. The cowherd King then worshiped him as nondifferent from Lord Vāsudeva, fed him nicely, seated him comfortably upon a bed and then inquired from him about the welfare of Vasudeva and his sons, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma. Nanda asked, "Does Kṛṣṇa still remember His friends, the village of Gokula and Govardhana Hill? He protected us from a forest fire, wind and rain, and many other disasters. By remembering His pastimes again and again, we are relieved of all karmic entanglement, and when we see the places marked by His lotus feet, our minds become fully absorbed in thought of Him. Garga Muni told me that Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma have both descended directly from the spiritual world. Just see how They have so easily dispatched Kāṁsa, the wrestlers, the elephant Kuvalayāpīḍa and many other demons!" As Nanda remembered Kṛṣṇa's pastimes, his throat choked up with tears and he could speak no further. Meanwhile, as mother Yaśodā heard her husband speak of Kṛṣṇa, the intense love she felt for her son caused a flood of milk to pour from her breasts and a torrent of tears from her eyes.

Seeing the superexcellent affection Nanda and Yaśodā had for Śrī Kṛṣṇa, Uddhava commented, "You two are indeed most glorious. One who has attained pure love for the Supreme Absolute Truth in His humanlike form has nothing further to accomplish. Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma are present in the hearts of all living beings, just as fire lies dormant within wood. These two Lords see all equally, having no particular friends or enemies. Free from egoism and possessiveness, They have no father, mother, wife or children, are never subject to birth, and have no material body. Only to enjoy spiritual happiness and deliver Their saintly devotees do They appear by Their own sweet will among various species of life, both high and low.

"Lord Kṛṣṇa is not merely the son of you, O Nanda and Yaśodā, but the son of all persons, as well as their mother and father. In fact, He is everyone's dearest relation inasmuch as nothing that is seen or heard in the past, present or future, among the moving or nonmoving, is independent of Him."

Nanda Mahārāja and Uddhava passed the night talking about Kṛṣṇa in this way. Then the cowherd women performed their morning worship and began churning butter, singing the glories of Śrī Kṛṣṇa as they busily pulled the churning ropes. The sounds of churning and singing reverberated into the sky, cleansing the world of all inauspiciousness.

When the sun rose, the gopīs saw Uddhava's chariot at the edge of the cowherd village, and they thought that Akrūra might have returned. But just then Uddhava finished his morning duties and presented himself before them.

TEXT 1

श्रीशुक उवाच
वृष्णीनां प्रवरो मन्त्री
कृष्णस्य दयितः सखा
शिष्यो बृहस्पतेः साक्षाद् उद्धवो बुद्धिसत्तमः

śrī-śuka uvāca
vṛṣṇīnām pravaro mantri kṛṣṇasya dayitaḥ sakhā śiṣyo bṛhaspateḥ sākṣād uddhavo buddhi-sattamaḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; vṛṣṇīnām—of the Vṛṣṇis; pravaraḥ—the best; mantrī—adviser; kṛṣṇasya—of Kṛṣṇa; dayitaḥ—beloved; sakhā—friend; śiṣyaḥ—disciple; bṛhaspateḥ—of Bṛhaspati, the spiritual master of the demigods; sākṣāt—directly; uddhavaḥ—Uddhava; buddhi—having intelligence; sat-tamaḥ—of the highest quality.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: The supremely intelligent Uddhava was the best counselor of the Vṛṣṇi dynasty, a beloved friend of Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa and a direct disciple of Bṛhaspati.

PURPORT

The ācāryas give various reasons why Lord Kṛṣṇa sent Uddhava to Vṛndāvana. The Lord had promised the residents of Vṛndāvana: āyāsyē, "I shall return." (SB 10.39.35) Also, in the previous chapter Lord Kṛṣṇa promised Nanda Mahārāja: draṣṭum eṣyāmaḥ, "We will come back to see you and mother Yaśodā." (SB 10.45.23) At the same time, the Lord could not break His promise to Śrī Vasudeva and mother Devakī to finally spend some time with them after they had suffered for so many years. Therefore, the Lord decided to send His intimate representative to Vṛndāvana in His place.

The question may be asked, Why did Kṛṣṇa not invite Nanda and Yaśodā to visit Him in Mathurā? According to Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī, for the Lord to have exchanged loving feelings with Nanda and Yaśodā in the same place and at the same time that He was exchanging them with Vasudeva and Devakī would have created an awkward situation in the Lord's pastimes. Thus Kṛṣṇa did not invite Nanda and Yaśodā to stay with Him in Mathurā. The residents of Vṛndāvana had their own way of understanding Kṛṣṇa, and their feelings could not have been appropriately expressed on a regular basis in the kingly atmosphere of Mathurā.

Śrī Uddhava is described in this verse as buddhi-sattamaḥ, "the most intelligent," and thus he could expertly pacify the residents of Vṛndāvana, who were feeling such intense separation from Lord Kṛṣṇa. Then, upon his return to Mathurā, Uddhava would describe to all the members of the Vṛṣṇi dynasty the extraordinary pure love he had seen in Vṛndāvana. Indeed, the love the cowherd men and gopīs felt for Kṛṣṇa was far beyond anything the Lord's other devotees had ever experienced, and by hearing about that love all the Lord's devotees would increase their faith and devotion.

As stated in the Third Canto by the Lord Himself, noddhavo 'nv api man-nyūnaḥ: "Uddhava is not even slightly different from Me." Resembling Kṛṣṇa so much, Uddhava was the perfect person to carry out the Lord's mission in Vṛndāvana. In fact, Śrī Hari-vamśa states that Uddhava is the son of Vasudeva's brother Devabhāga: uddhavo devabhāgasya mahā-bhāgaḥ suto 'bhavat. In other words, he is a cousin-brother of Śrī Kṛṣṇa's.

TEXT 2

तमाह भगवान् प्रेष्ठं
भक्तमेकान्तिनं क्वचित्
गृहीत्वा पाणिना पाणिं
प्रपन्नार्तिहरो हरिः

*tam āha bhagavān preṣṭham bhaktam ekāntinam kvacit
gr̥hītvā pāṇinā pāṇim
prapannārti-haro hariḥ*

SYNONYMS

tam—to him; āha—spoke; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; preṣṭham—to His most dear; bhaktam—devotee; ekāntinam—exclusive; kvacit—on one occasion; grhītvā—taking; pāṇinā—with His hand; pāṇim—(Uddhava's) hand; prapanna—of those who surrender; ārti—the distress; haraḥ—who takes away; hariḥ—Lord Hari.

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Lord Hari, who relieves the distress of all who surrender to Him, once took the hand of His fully devoted, dearest friend Uddhava and addressed him as follows.

TEXT 3

गच्छोद्धव व्रजं सौम्य
पित्रोर्नौ प्रीतिमावह
गोपीनां मद्वियोगाधिं मत्सन्देशैर्विमोचय

gacchoddhava vrajaṁ saumya pitror nau prītim āvaha gopīnāṁ mad-viyogādhim mat-sandēśair vimocaya

SYNONYMS

gaccha—please go; uddhava—O Uddhava; vrajaṁ—to Vraja; saumya—O gentle one; pitroḥ—to the parents; nau—Our; prītim—satisfaction;

āvaha—carry; gopīnām—of the gopīs; mat—from Me; viyoga—caused by separation; ādhim—of the mental pain; mat—brought from Me; sandēśaiḥ—by messages; vimocaya—relieve them.

TRANSLATION

[Lord Kṛṣṇa said:] Dear gentle Uddhava, go to Vraja and give pleasure to Our parents. And also relieve the gopīs, suffering in separation from Me, by giving them My message.

TEXT 4

ता मन्मनस्का मत्प्राणा
मतर्ये त्यक्तदैहिकाः
मामेव दयितं प्रेष्ठम्
आत्मानं मनसा गताः
ये त्यक्तलोकधर्माश्च मदर्थे तान् बिभर्म्यहम्

tā man-manaskā mat-prāṇā mat-arthe tyakta-daiḥikāḥ mām eva dayitaṁ preṣṭham ātmānaṁ manasā gatāḥ ye tyakta-loka-dharmāś ca mad-arthe tān bibharmy aham

SYNONYMS

tāḥ—they (the gopīs); mat—absorbed in Me; manaskāḥ—their minds;
mat—fixed upon Me; prāṇāḥ—their lives; mat-arthe—for My sake;

tyakta—abandoning; daihikāḥ—everything on the bodily platform; mām—Me; eva—alone; dayitam—their beloved; preṣṭham—dearmost; ātmānam—Self; manasā gatāḥ—understood; ye—who (the gopīs, or anyone); tyakta—giving up; loka—this world; dharmāḥ—religiosity; ca—and; mat-arthe—for My sake; tān—them; bibharmi—sustain; aham—I.

TRANSLATION

The minds of those gopīs are always absorbed in Me, and their very lives are ever devoted to Me. For My sake they have abandoned everything related to their bodies, renouncing ordinary happiness in this life, as well as religious duties necessary for such happiness in the next life. I alone am their dearmost beloved and, indeed, their very Self. I personally sustain such devotees, who for My sake give up all worldly duties.

PURPORT

Here the Lord explains why He wants to send a special message to the gopīs. According to the Vaiṣṇava ācāryas, the word daihikāḥ, "related to the body," refers to husbands, children, homes and so on. The gopīs loved Kṛṣṇa so intensely that they could think of nothing else. Since Śrī Kṛṣṇa maintains ordinary devotees engaged in sādhana-bhakti, devotional service in practice, He will certainly maintain the gopīs, His most exalted devotees.

TEXT 5

मयि ताः प्रेयसां प्रेष्ठे
दूरस्थे गोकुलस्त्रियः
स्मरन्त्योऽङ्ग विमुह्यन्ति

विरहौत्कण्ठयविह्वलाः

*mayi tāḥ preyasām preṣṭhe
dūra-sṭhe gokula-striyaḥ smarantyo 'ṅga vimuhyanti virahautkaṇṭhya-vihvalāḥ*

SYNONYMS

mayi—I; tāḥ—they; preyasām—of all objects of endearment; preṣṭhe—the most dear; dūra-sṭhe—being far away; gokula-striyaḥ—the women of Gokula; smarantyaḥ—remembering; aṅga—dear (Uddhava); vimuhyanti—become stunned; viraha—of separation; autkaṇṭhya—by the anxiety; vihvalāḥ—overwhelmed.

TRANSLATION

My dear Uddhava, for those women of Gokula I am the most cherished object of love. Thus when they remember Me, who am so far away, they are overwhelmed by the anxiety of separation.

PURPORT

Whatever is dear to us becomes an object of our possessiveness. Ultimately the most dear object is our very soul, or our self. Thus things in a favorable relationship to our self also become dear to us, and we try to possess them. According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī, among countless millions of such dear things, Śrī Kṛṣṇa is the most dear of all, even dearer than one's own self. The gopīs had realized this fact, and thus they were stunned in separation from the Lord because of their intense love for Him. Although they would have given up their lives, they were kept alive by the Lord's transcendental potency.

TEXT 6

धारयन्त्यतिकृच्छ्रेण
प्रायः प्राणान् कथञ्चन
प्रत्यागमनसन्देशैर् बल्लव्यो मे मदात्मिकाः

dhārayanty ati-kṛcchreṇa prāyaḥ prāṇān kathañcana pratyāgamana-sandeśair ballavyo me mad-ātmikāḥ

SYNONYMS

dhārayanti—they hold on; ati-kṛcchreṇa—with great difficulty; prāyaḥ—barely; prāṇān—to their lives; kathañcana—somehow; prati-āgamana—of return; sandeśaiḥ—by the promises; ballavyaḥ—the cowherd women; me—My; mat-ātmikāḥ—who are fully dedicated to Me.

TRANSLATION

Simply because I have promised to return to them, My fully devoted cowherd girlfriends struggle to maintain their lives somehow or other.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī, although the gopīs of Vṛndāvana were apparently married, their husbands actually had no contact whatsoever with their supremely attractive qualities of form, taste, fragrance, sound, touch and so on. Rather, their husbands merely presumed, "These are our wives." In other words, by Lord Kṛṣṇa's spiritual potency, the gopīs existed entirely for His pleasure, and Kṛṣṇa loved them in the mood of a paramour. In fact, the gopīs were manifestations of Kṛṣṇa's internal nature, His supreme pleasure potency, and on the spiritual platform they attracted the Lord by their pure love.

Nanda Mahārāja and mother Yaśodā, Lord Kṛṣṇa's parents in Vṛndāvana, had also attained a most exalted state of love for Kṛṣṇa, and they too could barely maintain their lives in His absence. Thus Uddhava would also give special attention to them.

TEXT 7

श्रीशुक उवाच
इत्युक्त उद्धवो राजन्
सन्देशं भर्तुरादृतः
आदाय रथमारुह्य प्रययौ नन्दगोकुलम्

śrī-śuka uvāca
ity ukta uddhavo rājan sandeśam bhartur ādṛtaḥ ādāya ratham āruhya
prayayau nanda-gokulam

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; iti—thus; uktaḥ—spoken to; uddhavaḥ—Uddhava; rājan—O King (Parīkṣit); sandeśam—the message; bhartuḥ—of his master; ādṛtaḥ—respectfully; ādāya—taking; ratham—his chariot; āruhya—mounting; prayayau—went off; nanda-gokulam—to the cowherd village of Nanda Mahārāja.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Thus addressed, O King, Uddhava respectfully accepted his master's message, mounted his chariot and set off for Nanda-gokula.

TEXT 8

प्राप्तो नन्दव्रजं श्रीमान्
निम्लोचति विभावसौ
छन्नयानः प्रविशतां पशूनां खुररेणुभिः

*prāpto nanda-vrajaṁ śrīmān nimlocati vibhāvasau channa-yānaḥ praviśatām
paśūnām khura-reṇubhiḥ*

SYNONYMS

prāptaḥ—reaching; nanda-vrajaṁ—the pastures of Nanda Mahārāja; śrīmān—the fortunate (Uddhava); nimlocati—while it was setting; vibhāvasau—the sun; channa—invisible; yānaḥ—whose passing; praviśatām—who were entering; paśūnām—of the animals; khura—of the hooves; reṇubhiḥ—by the dust.

TRANSLATION

The fortunate Uddhava reached Nanda Mahārāja's pastures just as the sun was setting, and since the returning cows and other animals were raising dust with their hooves, his chariot passed unnoticed.

TEXTS 9-13

वासितार्थेऽभियुध्यद्भिर्
नादितं शुश्मिभिर्वृषैः
धावन्तीभिश्च वास्राभिर्
उधोभारैः स्ववत्सकान्

इतस्ततो विलङ्घ्यद्भिर्
गोवत्सैर्मण्डितं सितैः
गोदोहशब्दाभिरवं
वेणूनां निःस्वनेन च

गायन्तीभिश्च कर्माणि
शुभान् बलकृष्णयोः
स्वलङ्कृताभिर्गोपीभिर्
गोपैश्च सुविराजितम्

अग्न्यर्कातिथिगोविप्र-पितृदेवार्चनान्वितैः
धूपदीपैश्च माल्यैश्च
गोपावासैर्मनोरमम्

सर्वतः पुष्पितवनं
द्विजालिकुलनादितम्
हंसकारण्डवाकीर्णः पद्मषण्डैश्च मण्डितम्

vāsītārthe 'bhiyudhyadbhir nāditam śuśmibhir vṛṣaiḥ dhāvantībhiś ca vāsrābhir udho-bhāraiḥ sva-vatsakān

itas tato vilaṅghadbhir go-vatsair maṇḍitam sitaiḥ go-doha-śabdābhiravam veṇūnām niḥsvanena ca

gāyantībhiś ca karmāṇi śubhāni bala-kṛṣṇayoḥ sv-alaṅkṛtābhir gopībhir gopaiś ca su-virājitam

agny-arkātithi-go-viprapitṛ-devārcanānvitaiḥ dhūpa-dīpaiś ca māl्यaiś ca gopāvāsair mano-ramam

sarvataḥ puṣpita-vanam dvijāli-kula-nāditam haṁsa-kāraṇḍavākīrṇaiḥ padma-ṣaṇḍaiś ca maṇḍitam

SYNONYMS

vāsita—of the fertile (cows); arthe—for the sake; abhiyudhyadbhiḥ—who were fighting with one another; nāditam—resounding; śuśmibhiḥ—sexually aroused; vṛṣaiḥ—with the bulls; dhāvantībhiḥ—running; ca—and; vāsrābhiḥ—with the cows; udhaḥ—by their udders; bhāraiḥ—burdened; sva—after their own; vatsakān—calves; itaḥ tataḥ—here and there; vilāṅghadbhiḥ—jumping; go-vatsaiḥ—by the calves; maṇḍitam—adorned; sitaiḥ—white; go-doha—of the milking of the cows; śabda—by the sounds; abhiravam—reverberating; veṇūnām—of flutes; niḥsvanena—with the loud vibration; ca—and; gāyantībhiḥ—who were singing; ca—and; karmāṇi—about the deeds; śubhāṇi—auspicious; bala-kṛṣṇayoḥ—of Balarāma and Kṛṣṇa; su—finely; alāṅkṛtābhiḥ—ornamented; gopībhiḥ—with the cowherd women; gopaiḥ—the cowherd men; ca—and; su-virājitam—resplendent; agni—of the sacrificial fire; arka—the sun; atithi—guests; go—the cows; vipra—the brāhmaṇas; pitr—forefathers; deva—and demigods; arcana—with worship; anvitaiḥ—filled; dhūpa—with incense; dīpaiḥ—lamps; ca—and; mālyaiḥ—with flower garlands; ca—also; gopa-āvāsaiḥ—because of the homes of the cowherds; manaḥ-ramam—very attractive; sarvataḥ—on all sides; puṣpita—flowering; vanam—with the forest; dvija—of birds; ali—and bees; kula—with the swarms; nāditam—resounding; haṁsa—with swans; kāraṇḍava—and a certain species of duck; ākīrṇaiḥ—crowded; padma-śaṇḍaiḥ—with bowers of lotuses; ca—and; maṇḍitam—beautified.

TRANSLATION

Gokula resounded on all sides with the sounds of bulls in rut fighting with one another for fertile cows; with the mooing of cows, burdened by their udders, chasing after their calves; with the noise of milking and of the white calves jumping here and there; with the loud reverberation of flute-playing; and with the singing of the all-auspicious deeds of Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma by the cowherd men and women, who made the village resplendent with their wonderfully ornamented attire. The cowherds' homes in Gokula appeared most charming with their abundant paraphernalia for worship of the sacrificial fire, the sun, unexpected guests, the cows, the brāhmaëas, the forefathers and the demigods. On all sides lay the flowering forest, echoing with flocks of birds and swarms of bees and beautified by its lakes crowded with swans, kāraëòava ducks and bowers of lotuses.

PURPORT

Although Gokula was merged in grief because of separation from Lord Kṛṣṇa, the Lord expanded His internal potency to cover that particular manifestation of Vraja and allow Uddhava to see the normal bustle and joy of Vraja at sunset.

TEXT 14

तमागतं समागम्य
कृष्णस्यानुचरं प्रियम्
नन्दः प्रीतः परिष्वज्य वासुदेवधियार्चयत्

tam āgataṁ samāgamya kṛṣṇasyānucaraṁ priyam nandaḥ prītaḥ pariṣvajya vāsudeva-dhiyārcayat

SYNONYMS

tam—him (Uddhava); āgataṁ—arrived; samāgamya—approaching; kṛṣṇasya—of Kṛṣṇa; anucaram—the follower; priyam—dear; nandaḥ—Nanda Mahārāja; prītaḥ—happy; pariṣvajya—embracing; vāsudeva-dhiyā—thinking of Lord Vāsudeva; ārcayat—worshiped.

TRANSLATION

As soon as Uddhava arrived at Nanda Mahārāja's home, Nanda came forward to meet him. The cowherd King embraced him in great happiness and worshiped him as nondifferent from Lord Vāsudeva.

PURPORT

Uddhava looked just like Nanda's son Kṛṣṇa and gave pleasure to anyone who saw him. Thus although Nanda was absorbed in thoughts of separation from Kṛṣṇa, when he saw Uddhava coming toward his house, he became aware of external events and eagerly went out to embrace his exalted visitor.

TEXT 15

भोजितं परमान्नेन
संविष्टं कशिपौ सुखम्
गतश्रमं पर्यपृच्छत्
पादसंवाहनादिभिः

*bhojitaṁ paramānnena
saṁviṣṭaṁ kaśīpau sukham gata-śramaṁ paryapṛcchat
pāda-saṁvāhanādibhiḥ*

SYNONYMS

bhojitam—fed; parama-annena—with first-class food; saṁviṣṭam—seated; kaśīpau—on a nice bed; sukham—comfortably; gata—relieved; śramam—of fatigue; paryapṛcchat—he inquired; pāda—of his feet; saṁvāhana—with massaging; ādibhiḥ—and so on.

TRANSLATION

After Uddhava had eaten first-class food, been seated comfortably on a bed and been relieved of his fatigue by a foot massage and other means, Nanda inquired from him as follows.

PURPORT

Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī mentions that Nanda had a servant massage Uddhava's feet, since Uddhava was Nanda's nephew.

TEXT 16

कच्चिदङ्ग महाभाग
सखा नः शूरनन्दनः
आस्ते कुशल्यपत्याद्यैर् युक्तो मुक्तः सुहृद्व्रतः

kaccid aṅga mahā-bhāga sakhā naḥ śūra-nandanaḥ āste kuśaly apatyādyair yukto muktaḥ suhṛd-vrataḥ

SYNONYMS

kaccit—whether; aṅga—my dear; mahā-bhaga—O most fortunate one; sakhā—the friend; naḥ—our; śūra-nandanaḥ—the son of King Śūra (Vasudeva); āste—lives; kuśalī—well; apatya-ādyaiḥ—with his children and so on; yuktaḥ—joined; muktaḥ—freed; suhṛt—to his friends; vrataḥ—who is devoted.

TRANSLATION

[Nanda Mahārāja said:] My dear most fortunate one, does the son of Śūra fare well, now that he is free and has rejoined his children and other relatives?

TEXT 17

दिष्ट्या कंसो हतः पापः
सानुगः स्वेन पाप्मना
साधूनां धर्मशीलानां
यदूनां द्वेष्टि यः सदा

diṣṭyā kaṁso hataḥ pāpaḥ sānugaḥ svena pāpmanā sādhūnām dharma-śīlānām yadūnām dveṣṭi yaḥ sadā

SYNONYMS

diṣṭyā—by good fortune; kaṁsaḥ—King Kāṁsa; hataḥ—has been killed; pāpaḥ—the sinful; sa—along with; anugaḥ—his followers (brothers); svena—because of his own; pāpmanā—sinfulness; sādhūnām—saintly; dharma-śīlānām—always righteous in their behavior; yadūnām—the Yadus; dveṣṭi—hated; yaḥ—who; sadā—always.

TRANSLATION

Fortunately, because of his own sins, the sinful Kāṁsa has been killed, along with all his brothers. He always hated the saintly and righteous Yadus.

TEXT 18

अपि स्मरति नः कृष्णो
मातरं सुहृदः सखीन्
गोपान् व्रजं चात्मनाथं गावो वृन्दावनं गिरिम्

*api smarati naḥ kṛṣṇo mātaram suhṛdaḥ sakhīn gopān vrajaṁ cātma-nātham
gāvo vṛndāvanam girim*

SYNONYMS

api—perhaps; smarati—remembers; naḥ—us; kṛṣṇaḥ—Kṛṣṇa; mātaram—His mother; suhṛdaḥ—His well-wishers; sakhīn—and dear friends; gopān—the cowherds; vrajaṁ—the village of Vraja; ca—and; ātma—Himself; nātham—whose master; gāvaḥ—the cows; vṛndāvanam—the forest of Vṛndāvana; girim—the mountain Govardhana.

TRANSLATION

Does Kṛṣṇa remember us? Does He remember His mother and His friends and well-wishers? Does He remember the cowherds and their village of Vraja, of which He is the master? Does He remember the cows, Vṛndāvana forest and Govardhana Hill?

TEXT 19

अप्यायास्यति गोविन्दः
स्वजनान् सकृदीक्षितुम्
तर्हि द्रक्ष्याम तद्वक्त्रं सुनसं सुस्मितेक्षणम्

*apy āyāsyati govindah
sva-janān sakṛd īkṣitum tarhi drakṣyāma tad-vaktram su-nasam su-smitekṣaṇam*

SYNONYMS

api—whether; āyāsyati—will come back; govindah—Kṛṣṇa; sva-janān—His relatives; sakṛt—once; īkṣitum—to see; tarhi—then; drakṣyāma—we may glance upon; tat—His; vaktram—face; su-nasam—with beautiful nose; su—beautiful; smita—smile; īkṣaṇam—and eyes.

TRANSLATION

Will Govinda return even once to see His family? If He ever does, we may then glance upon His beautiful face, with its beautiful eyes, nose and smile.

PURPORT

Now that Kṛṣṇa had become a prince in the great city of Mathurā, Nanda had lost hope that He would come back to live in the simple cowherd village of Vṛndāvana. But he hoped against hope that Kṛṣṇa would come back at least once to visit the simple cowherd folk who had raised Him from birth.

TEXT 20

दावाग्नेर्वातवर्षाच्च
वृषसर्पाच्च रक्षिताः
दुरत्ययेभ्यो मृत्युभ्यः कृष्णेन सुमहात्मना

*dāvāgner vāta-varṣāc ca
vṛṣa-sarpāc ca rakṣitāḥ duratyayebhyo mṛtyubhyaḥ kṛṣṇena su-mahātmanā*

SYNONYMS

dāva-agneḥ—from the forest fire; vāta—from the wind; varṣāt—and rain; ca—also; vṛṣa—from the bull; sarpāt—from the serpent; ca—and; rakṣitāḥ—protected; duratyayebhyaḥ—insurmountable; mṛtyubhyaḥ—from mortal dangers; kṛṣṇena—by Kṛṣṇa; su-mahā-ātmanā—the very great soul.

TRANSLATION

We were saved from the forest fire, the wind and rain, the bull and serpent demons—from all such insurmountable, deadly dangers—by that very great soul, Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 21

स्मरतां कृष्णवीर्याणि
लीलापाङ्गनिरीक्षितम्
हसितं भाषितं चाङ्ग

सर्वा नः शिथिलाः क्रियाः

smaratām kṛṣṇa-vīryāṇi līlāpāṅga-nirīkṣitam hasitam bhāṣitam cāṅga sarvā naḥ śīthilāḥ kriyāḥ

SYNONYMS

smaratām—who are remembering; kṛṣṇa-vīryāṇi—the valorous deeds of Kṛṣṇa; līlā—playful; apāṅga—with sidelong glances; nirīkṣitam—His looking; hasitam—smiling; bhāṣitam—speaking; ca—and; aṅga—my dear (Uddhava); sarvāḥ—all; naḥ—for us; śīthilāḥ—slackened; kriyāḥ—material activities.

TRANSLATION

As we remember the wonderful deeds Kṛṣṇa performed, His playful sidelong glances, His smiles and His words, O Uddhava, we forget all our material engagements.

TEXT 22

सरिच्छैलवनोद्देशान्
मुकुन्दपदभूषितान्
आक्रीडानीक्ष्यमाणानां
मनो याति तदात्मताम्

saric-chaila-vanoddeśān mukunda-pada-bhūṣitān ākrīḍān īkṣyamāṇānām

mano yāti tad-ātmatām

SYNONYMS

sarit—the rivers; śaila—hills; vana—of the forests; uddeśān—and the various parts; mukunda—of Kṛṣṇa; pada—by the feet; bhūṣitān—ornamented; ākriḍān—the locations of His play; ikṣyamāṇānām—for those who are seeing; manaḥ—the mind; yāti—attains; tad-ātmatām—total absorption in Him.

TRANSLATION

When we see the places where Mukunda enjoyed His sporting pastimes—the rivers, hills and forests He decorated with His feet—our minds become totally absorbed in Him.

TEXT 23

मन्ये कृष्णं च रामं च
प्राप्ताविह सुरोत्तमौ
सुराणां महदर्थाय गर्गस्य वचनं यथा

*manye kṛṣṇam ca rāmam ca prāptāu iha surottamau surāṇām mahad-arthāya
gargasya vacanam yathā*

SYNONYMS

manye—I think; kṛṣṇam—Kṛṣṇa; ca—and; rāmam—Balarāma; ca—and; prāptau—obtained; iha—on this planet; sura—of demigods; uttamau—two of the most elevated; surāṇām—of the demigods; mahat—great; arthāya—for a purpose; gargasya—of the sage Garga; vacanam—the statement; yathā—as.

TRANSLATION

In my opinion, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma must be two exalted demigods who have come to this planet to fulfill some great mission of the demigods. Such was foretold by Garga Ṛṣi.

TEXT 24

कंसं नागायुतप्राणं
मल्लौ गजपतिं यथा
अवधिष्टां लीलयैव
पशूनिव मृगाधिपः

kaṁsam nāgāyuta-prāṇam
mallau gaja-patiṁ yathā avadhiṣṭām līlayaiva
paśūn iva mṛgādhipaḥ

SYNONYMS

kaṁsam—Kāṁsa; nāga—of elephants; ayuta—ten thousand; prāṇam—whose vital strength; mallau—the two wrestlers (Cāṇūra and Muṣṭika); gaja-patiṁ—the king of the elephants (Kuvalayāpīḍa); yathā—inasmuch as; avadhiṣṭām—the two of Them killed; līlayā—as a game; eva—simply; paśūn—animals; iva—as; mṛga-adhipaḥ—the lion, king of animals.

TRANSLATION

After all, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma killed Kaṁsa, who was as strong as ten thousand elephants, as well as the wrestlers Cāṇūra and Muṣṭika and the elephant Kuvalayāpīḍa. They killed them all sportingly, as easily as a lion disposes of small animals.

PURPORT

Here Nanda means to say, "Not only did Garga Muni declare that these boys are divine, but just see what They have done! Everyone is talking about it."

TEXT 25

तालत्रयं महासारं
धनुर्यष्टिमिवेभराट्
बभञ्जैकेन हस्तेन
सप्ताहमदधाद्गिरिम्

*tāla-trayaṁ mahā-sāraṁ dhanur yaṣṭim ivebha-rāṭ babhañjaikena hastena
sapta-aham adadhād girim*

SYNONYMS

tāla-trayaṁ—as long as three palm trees; mahā-sāraṁ—extremely solid; dhanuḥ—the bow; yaṣṭim—a stick; iva—as; ibha-rāṭ—a royal elephant; babhañja—He broke; ekena—with one; hastena—hand; sapta-aham—for seven days; adadhāt—held; girim—a mountain.

TRANSLATION

With the ease of a royal elephant breaking a stick, Kṛṣṇa broke a powerful, giant bow three tālas long. He also held a mountain aloft for seven days with just one hand.

PURPORT

According to Ācārya Viśvanātha, a tāla ("palm tree") is a measurement of about sixty hastas, or ninety feet. Thus the great bow Kṛṣṇa broke was two hundred seventy feet long.

TEXT 26

प्रलम्बो धेनुकोऽरिष्टसु
तृणावर्तो बकादयः
दैत्याः सुरासुरजितो हता येनेह लीलया

pralambo dhenuko 'riṣṭas
tṛṇāvarto bakādayaḥ daityāḥ surāsura-jīto
hatā yeneha līlayā

SYNONYMS

pralambaḥ dhenukaḥ ariṣṭaḥ—Pralamba, Dhenuka and Ariṣṭa; tṛṇāvartaḥ—Tṛṇāvarta; baka-ādayaḥ—Baka and others; daityāḥ—demons;
sura-asura—both the demigods and the demons; jitaḥ—who conquered;
hatāḥ—killed; yena—by whom; iha—here (in Vṛndāvana); līlayā—easily.

TRANSLATION

Here in Vṛndāvana, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma easily destroyed demons like Pralamba, Dhenuka, Arista, Tṛṇāvarta and Baka, who had themselves defeated both demigods and other demons.

TEXT 27

श्रीशुक उवाच
इति संस्मृत्य संस्मृत्य
नन्दः कृष्णानुरक्तधीः
अत्युत्कण्ठोऽभवत्तूष्णीं प्रेमप्रसरविह्वलः

śrī-śuka uvāca
iti saṁsmṛtya saṁsmṛtya nandaḥ kṛṣṇānuraakta-dhīḥ aty-utkaṇṭho 'bhavat tūṣṇīm prema-prasara-vihvalaḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; iti—thus; saṁsmṛtya saṁsmṛtya—intensely and repeatedly remembering; nandaḥ—Nanda Mahārāja; kṛṣṇa—to Kṛṣṇa; anuraakta—completely attracted; dhīḥ—whose mind; ati—extremely; utkaṇṭhaḥ—anxious; abhavat—he became; tūṣṇīm—silent; prema—of his pure love; prasara—by the force; vihvalaḥ—overcome.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Thus intensely remembering Kṛṣṇa again and again, Nanda Mahārāja, his mind completely attached to the Lord, felt extreme anxiety and fell silent, overcome by the strength of his love.

TEXT 28

यशोदा वर्ण्यमानानि
पुत्रस्य चरितानि च
शृण्वन्त्यश्रूण्यवासाक्षीत् स्नेहस्रुतपयोधरा

*yaśodā varṇyamānāni
putrasya caritāni ca
śṛṇvanty aśrūṇy avāsrākṣīt
sneha-snuta-payodharā*

SYNONYMS

yaśodā—mother Yaśodā; varṇyamānāni—being described; putrasya—of her son; caritāni—the activities; ca—and; śṛṇvantī—as she heard; aśrūṇi—tears; avāsrākṣīt—poured down; sneha—out of love; snuta—moistened; payodharā—her breasts.

TRANSLATION

As mother Yaśodā heard the descriptions of her son's activities, she poured out her tears, and milk flowed from her breasts out of love.

PURPORT

From the very day that Kṛṣṇa had left for Mathurā, mother Yaśodā, though counseled and consoled by hundreds of men and women, could see nothing but the face of her son. She kept her eyes closed to everyone else and cried constantly. Thus she could not recognize Uddhava, treat him with parental affection, ask him any questions or give him any message for her son. She was simply overwhelmed with love for Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 29

तयोरित्थं भगवति
कृष्णे नन्दयशोदयोः
वीक्ष्यानुरागं परमं नन्दमाहोद्धवो मुदा

tayor ittham bhagavati kṛṣṇe nanda-yaśodayoḥ vīkṣyānurāgam paramam nandam āhoddhavo mudā

SYNONYMS

tayoḥ—of the two of them; ittham—like this; bhagavati—for the Supreme Personality of Godhead; kṛṣṇe—Lord Kṛṣṇa; nanda-yaśodayoḥ—of Nanda and Yaśodā; vīkṣya—clearly seeing; anurāgam—the loving attraction; paramam—supreme; nandam—to Nanda; āha—spoke; uddhavaḥ—Uddhava; mudā—with joy.

TRANSLATION

Uddhava then joyfully addressed Nanda Mahārāja, having clearly seen the supreme loving attraction he and Yaśodā felt for Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead.

PURPORT

If Uddhava had seen Nanda and Yaśodā actually suffering, he would not have reacted with joy. But in fact all emotions on the spiritual platform are transcendental bliss. The so-called anguish of the pure devotees is another form of loving ecstasy. This was clearly seen by Uddhava, and thus he spoke as follows.

TEXT 30

श्रीउद्धव उवाच
युवां क्षाध्यतमौ नूनं
देहिनामिह मानद
नारायणेऽखिलगुरौ यत्कृता मतिरीदृशी

śrī-uddhava uvāca
yuvām ślāghyatamau nūnaṁ dehinām iha māna-da nārāyaṇe 'khila-gurau
yat kṛtā matir īdṛśī

SYNONYMS

śrī-uddhavaḥ uvāca—Śrī Uddhava said; yuvām—you two; ślāghyatamau—the most praiseworthy; nūnam—for certain; dehinām—of embodied living beings; iha—in this world; mana-da—O respectful one; nārāyaṇe—for the Supreme Lord Nārāyaṇa; akhila-gurau—the spiritual master of all; yat—because; kṛtā—produced; matih—a mentality; īdṛśī—like this.

TRANSLATION

Śrī Uddhava said: O respectful Nanda, certainly you and mother Yaśodā are the most praiseworthy persons in the entire world, since you have developed such a loving attitude toward Lord Nārāyaṇa, the spiritual master of all living beings.

PURPORT

Understanding Nanda's mood, as expressed by his statement manye kṛṣṇam ca rāmaṁ ca prāptāv iha surottamau ("I think Kṛṣṇa and Rāma must be two exalted demigods"), Uddhava here referred to Kṛṣṇa as Lord Nārāyaṇa.

TEXT 31

एतौ हि विश्वस्य च बीजयोनी
रामो मुकुन्दः पुरुषः प्रधानम्
अन्वीय भूतेषु विलक्षणस्य ज्ञानस्य चेशात इमौ पुराणौ

etau hi viśvasya ca bīja-yonī rāmo mukundaḥ puruṣaḥ pradhānam anvīya bhūteṣu vilakṣaṇasya jñānasya ceśāta imau purāṇau

SYNONYMS

etau—these two; hi—indeed; viśvasya—of the universe; ca—and; bija—the seed; yonī—and the womb; rāmaḥ—Lord Balarāma; mukundaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; puruṣaḥ—the creating Lord; pradhānam—His creative energy; anvīya—entering; bhūteṣu—within all living beings; vilakṣaṇasya—confused or perceiving; jñānasya—knowledge; ca—and; īśāte—control; imau—They; purāṇau—primeval.

TRANSLATION

These two Lords, Mukunda and Balarāma, are each the seed and womb of the universe, the creator and His creative potency. They enter the hearts of living beings and control their conditioned awareness. They are the primeval Supreme.

PURPORT

The word vilakṣaṇa means either "distinctly perceiving" or "confused," depending on how the prefix vi—is understood in context. In the case of enlightened souls, vilakṣaṇa means "perceiving the correct distinction between the body and the soul" and thus Lord Kṛṣṇa, as indicated by the word īśāte, guides the spiritually advancing soul. The other meaning of vilakṣaṇa—"confused" or "bewildered"—clearly applies to those who have not understood the difference between the soul and the body, or the distinction between the individual soul and the Supreme Soul. Such bewildered living beings do not go back home, back to Godhead, to the eternal spiritual world, but rather achieve temporary destinations according to the laws of nature.

It is understood from all Vaiṣṇava literature that Śrī Rāma, Balarāma, here accompanying Lord Kṛṣṇa, is nondifferent from Him, being His plenary expansion. The Lord is one, yet He expands Himself, and thus Lord Balarāma in no way compromises the principle of monotheism.

TEXTS 32-33

यस्मिन् जनः प्राणवियोगकाले
क्षनं समावेश्य मनोऽविशुद्धम्
निर्हृत्य कर्माशयमाशु याति
परां गतिं ब्रह्ममयोऽर्कवर्णः

तस्मिन् भवन्तावखिलात्महेतौ
नारायणे कारणमर्त्यमूर्तौ
भावं विधत्तां नितरां महात्मन् किं वावशिष्टं युवयोः सुकृत्यम्

yasmin janaḥ prāṇa-viyoga-kāle kṣaṇam samāveśya mano 'viśuddham nirhṛtya karmāśayam āśu yāti parām gatiṁ brahma-mayo 'rka-varṇaḥ

tasmin bhavantāv akhilātma-hetau nārāyaṇe kāraṇa-martya-mūrtau bhāvaṁ vidhattām nitarām mahātman kiṁ vāvaśiṣṭam yuvayoḥ su-kṛtyam

SYNONYMS

yasmin—in whom; janaḥ—any person; prāṇa—from one's life air; viyoga—of separation; kāle—at the time; kṣaṇam—for a moment; samāveśya—absorbing; manaḥ—one's mind; aviśuddham—impure; nirhṛtya—eradicating; karma—of the reactions of material work; āśayam—all traces; āśu—immediately;

yāti—he goes; parām—to the supreme; gatim—destination; brahma-mayaḥ—in a purely spiritual form; arka—like the sun; varṇaḥ—whose color; tasmin—to Him; bhavantau—your good selves; akhila—of all; ātma—the Supreme Soul; hetau—and reason for existence; nārāyaṇe—Lord Nārāyaṇa; kāraṇa—the cause of everything; martya—human; mūrtau—in a form; bhāvam—pure love; vidhattām—have given; nitarām—exceedingly; mahā-ātman—to the perfectly complete; kim vā—then what; avaśiṣṭam—remaining; yuvayoḥ—for you; su-kṛtyam—required pious activity.

TRANSLATION

Anyone, even a person in an impure state, who absorbs his mind in Him for just a moment at the time of death burns up all traces of sinful reactions and immediately attains the supreme transcendental destination in a pure, spiritual form as effulgent as the sun. You two have rendered exceptional loving service to Him, Lord Nārāyaṇa, the Supersoul of all and the cause of all existence, the great soul who, although the original cause of everything, has a humanlike form. What pious deeds could still be required of you?

TEXT 34

आगमिष्यत्यदीर्घेण
कालेन ब्रजमच्युतः
प्रियं विधास्यते पित्रोर्
भगवान् सात्वतां पतिः

āgamiṣyaty adīrghena
kālena vrajam acyutaḥ priyaṁ vidhāsyate pitror bhagavān sātvatām patiḥ

SYNONYMS

āgamiṣyati—He will return; adīrghheṇa—not long; kālena—in time; vrajam—to Vraja; acyutaḥ—Kṛṣṇa, the infallible one; priyam—satisfaction; vidhāsyate—He will give; pitroḥ—to His parents; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; sātvatām—of the devotees; patiḥ—master and protector.

TRANSLATION

Infallible Kṛṣṇa, the Lord of the devotees, will soon return to Vraja to satisfy His parents.

PURPORT

Here Uddhava begins to deliver Lord Kṛṣṇa's message.

TEXT 35

हत्वा कंसं रङ्गमध्ये
प्रतीपं सर्वसात्वताम्
यदाह वः समागत्य कृष्णः सत्यं करोति तत् hatvā kaṁsaṁ raṅga-madhye pratīpaṁ sarva-sātvatām yad āha vaḥ samāgatya kṛṣṇaḥ satyaṁ karoti tat

SYNONYMS

hatvā—having killed; kāmsam—Kāṁsa; raṅga—the arena; madhye—within; pratīpam—the enemy; sarva-sātvatām—of all the Yadus; yat—what; āha—He spoke; vaḥ—to you; samāgatya—by coming back; kṛṣṇaḥ—Kṛṣṇa; satyam—true; karoti—will make; tat—that.

TRANSLATION

Having killed Kāṁsa, the enemy of all the Yadus, in the wrestling arena, Kṛṣṇa will now surely fulfill His promise to you by coming back.

TEXT 36

मा खिद्यतं महाभागौ
द्रक्ष्यथः कृष्णमन्तिके
अन्तर्हृदि स भूतानाम् आस्ते ज्योतिरिवैधसि

mā khidyataṁ mahā-bhāgau drakṣyathaḥ kṛṣṇam antike antar hṛdi sa bhūtānām
āste jyotir ivaidhasi

SYNONYMS

mā khidyataṁ—please do not lament; mahā-bhāgau—O most fortunate ones; drakṣyathaḥ—you will see; kṛṣṇam—Kṛṣṇa; antike—in the near future; antaḥ—within; hṛdi—the hearts; saḥ—He; bhūtānām—of all living beings; āste—is present; jyotiḥ—fire; iva—just as; edhasi—within firewood.

TRANSLATION

O most fortunate ones, do not lament. You will see Kṛṣṇa again very soon. He is present in the hearts of all living beings, just as fire lies dormant in wood.

PURPORT

Uddhava understood that Nanda and Yaśodā were very impatient to see Kṛṣṇa, and thus he reassured them that Śrī Kṛṣṇa would come soon.

TEXT 37

न ह्यस्यास्ति प्रियः कश्चिन्
नाप्रियो वास्त्यमानिनः
नोत्तमो नाधमो वापि समानस्यासमोऽपि वा

*na hy asyāsti priyaḥ kaścin nāpriyo vāsty amāninaḥ nottamo nādhamo vāpi
sa-mānasyāsamo 'pi vā*

SYNONYMS

na—not; hi—indeed; asya—for Him; asti—there is; priyaḥ—dear; kaścit—anyone; na—not; apriyaḥ—not dear; vā—or; asti—there is; amāninaḥ—who is free from desire for respect; na—not; uttamaḥ—superior; na—not; adhamāḥ—inferior; vā—or; api—also; samānasya—for Him who has all respect for others; āsamaḥ—completely ordinary; api—also; vā—or.

TRANSLATION

For Him no one is especially dear or despicable, superior or inferior, and yet

He is not indifferent to anyone. He is free from all desire for respect and yet gives respect to all others.

TEXT 38

न माता न पिता तस्य
न भार्या न सुतादयः
नात्मीयो न परश्चापि न देहो जन्म एव च

*na mātā na pitā tasya na bhāryā na sutādayaḥ nātmīyo na paraś cāpi
na deho janma eva ca*

SYNONYMS

na—there is no; mātā—mother; na—no; pitā—father; tasya—for Him; na—no; bhāryā—wife; na—no; suta-ādayaḥ—children and so forth; na—no one; ātmīyaḥ—related to Himself; na—nor; paraḥ—an outsider; ca api—also; na—no; dehaḥ—body; janma—birth; eva—either; ca—and.

TRANSLATION

He has no mother, no father, no wife, children or other relatives. No one is related to Him, and yet no one is a stranger to Him. He has no material body and no birth.

TEXT 39

न चास्य कर्म वा लोके
सदसन्मिश्रयोनिषु
क्रीडार्थं सोऽपि साधूनां
परित्राणाय कल्पते

na cāśya karma vā loke sad-asan-miśra-yoniṣu krīḍāṛtham so 'pi sādḥūnām paritrāṇāya kalpate

SYNONYMS

na—there is not; ca—and; asya—for Him; karma—work; vā—or; loke—in this world; sat—pure; asat—impure; miśra—or mixed; yoniṣu—in wombs or species; krīḍā—of playing; artham—for the sake; saḥ—He; api—also; sādḥūnām—of His saintly devotees; paritrāṇāya—for the saving; kalpate—appears.

TRANSLATION

He has no work to do in this world that would oblige Him to take birth in pure, impure or mixed species of life. Yet to enjoy His pastimes and deliver His saintly devotees, He manifests Himself.

TEXT 40

सत्त्वं रजस्तम इति
भजते निर्गुणो गुणान्
क्रीडन्नतीतोऽपि गुणैः

सृजत्यवन् हन्त्यजः

*sattvaṁ rajas tama iti
bhajate nirguṇo guṇān krīḍann atīto 'pi guṇaiḥ
sṛjaty avan hantya ajaḥ*

SYNONYMS

sattvaṁ—goodness; rajaḥ—passion; tamaḥ—and ignorance; iti—thus called; bhajate—He accepts; nirguṇaḥ—beyond the material modes; guṇān—the modes; krīḍan—playing; atītaḥ—transcendental; api—although; guṇaiḥ—using the modes; sṛjati—He creates; avati—maintains; hanti—and destroys; ajaḥ—the unborn Lord.

TRANSLATION

Although beyond the three modes of material nature—goodness, passion and ignorance—the transcendental Lord accepts association with them as His play. Thus the unborn Supreme Lord utilizes the material modes to create, maintain and destroy.

PURPORT

As stated in the Brahma-sūtra (2.1.34), loka-vat līlā-kaivalyam: "The Lord performs His spiritual pastimes as if He were a resident of this world."

Although the Lord does not favor or abuse anyone, we still observe happiness and suffering in this world. The Gītā (13.22) states, kāraṇaṁ guṇa-saṅgo 'sya: We desire to associate with various qualities of material nature, and thus we must accept the consequences. The Lord provides the field of material nature, in which we exercise our free will. Foolish nondevotees not only attempt to cheat the Lord by trying to exploit His nature, but when they suffer the reaction they blame God for their own misdeeds. This is the shameless position of those who are envious of God.

TEXT 41

यथा भ्रमरिकादृष्ट्या
भ्राम्यतीव महीयते
चित्ते कर्तारि तत्रात्मा कर्तेवाहंधिया स्मृतः

yathā bhramarikā-dṛṣṭyā bhrāmyatīva mahīyate citte kartari tatrātmā kartevāhaṁ-dhiyā smṛtaḥ

SYNONYMS

yathā—as; bhramarikā—because of whirling around; dṛṣṭyā—in one's vision; bhrāmyati—whirling; iva—as if; mahī—the ground; īyate—appears; citte—the mind; kartari—being the doer; tatra—there; ātmā—the self; kartā—the doer; iva—as if; aham-dhiyā—because of false ego; smṛtaḥ—is thought.

TRANSLATION

Just as a person who is whirling around perceives the ground to be turning, one who is affected by false ego thinks himself the doer, when actually only his mind is acting.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī gives a parallel idea: Although our happiness and distress are caused by our own interaction with the material qualities, we perceive the Lord to be their cause.

TEXT 42

युवयोरेव नैवायम्
आत्मजो भगवान् हरिः
सर्वेषामात्मजो ह्यात्मा पिता माता स ईश्वरः

*yuvayor eva naivāyam ātmajo bhagavān hariḥ sarveṣām ātmajo hy ātmā
pitā mātā sa īśvaraḥ*

SYNONYMS

yuvayoḥ—of you two; eva—alone; na—not; eva—indeed; ayam—He; ātma-jah—the son; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; hariḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; sarveṣām—of all; ātma-jah—the son; hi—indeed; ātmā—the very self; pitā—father; mātā—mother; saḥ—He; īśvaraḥ—the controlling Lord.

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Lord Hari is certainly not your son alone. Rather, being the Lord, He is the son, Soul, father and mother of everyone.

TEXT 43

दृष्टं श्रुतं भूतभवद्भविष्यत्
स्थासुश्चरिष्णुर्महदल्पकं च विनाच्युताद्वस्तु तरां न वाच्यं स एव सर्वं परमात्मभूतः

dr̥ṣṭam śrutam bhūta-bhavad-bhaviṣyat sthāsnus carīṣṇur mahad alpakam ca vinācyutād vastu tarām na vācyam sa eva sarvam paramātma-bhūtaḥ

SYNONYMS

dr̥ṣṭam—seen; śrutam—heard; bhūta—past; bhavad—present; bhaviṣyat—future; sthāsnus—stationary; carīṣṇus—mobile; mahat—large; alpakam—small; ca—and; vinā—apart from; acyutāt—the infallible Lord Kṛṣṇa; vastu—thing; tarām—at all; na—is not; vācyam—capable of being named; saḥ—He; eva—alone; sarvam—everything; parama-ātma—as the Supersoul; bhūtaḥ—manifesting.

TRANSLATION

Nothing can be said to exist independent of Lord Acyuta—nothing heard or seen, nothing in the past, present or future, nothing moving or unmoving, great or small. He indeed is everything, for He is the Supreme Soul.

PURPORT

Śrī Uddhava is relieving the distress of Nanda and Yaśodā by bringing them to a more philosophical plane. He is explaining that since Lord Kṛṣṇa is everything and is within everything, His pure devotees are always with Him.

TEXT 44

एवं निशा सा ब्रुवतोर्व्यतीता
नन्दस्य कृष्णानुचरस्य राजन्
गोप्यः समुत्थाय निरूप्य दीपान्
वास्तून् समभ्यर्च्य दौधीन्यमन्थुन् evam niśā sā bruvator vyatītā nandasya kṛṣṇānucarasya rājan gopyaḥ samutthāya nirūpya dīpān vāstūn samabhyarcya daudhīny amanthun

SYNONYMS

evam—in this way; niśā—the night; sā—that; bruvatoḥ—as they were both speaking; vyatītā—was finished; nandasya—Nanda Mahārāja; kṛṣṇa-anucarasya—and the servant of Kṛṣṇa (Uddhava); rājan—O King (Parīkṣit); gopyaḥ—the cowherd women; samutthāya—rising from sleep; nirūpya—lighting; dīpān—lamps; vāstūn—the domestic deities; samabhyarcya—worshiping; dadhīni—curds; amathan—churned.

TRANSLATION

While Kṛṣṇa's messenger continued speaking with Nanda, the night ended, O King. The women of the cowherd village rose from bed and, lighting lamps, worshiped their household deities. Then they began churning the yogurt into butter.

TEXT 45

ता दीपदीप्तैर्मणिभिर्विरेजृ
रज्जूर्विकर्षद्भुजकङ्कणस्रजः
चलन्नितम्बस्तनहारकुण्डल-त्विषत्कपोलारुणकुङ्कुमाननाः

tā dīpa-dīptair maṇibhir virejū rajjūr vikarṣad-bhuja-kaṅkaṇa-srajaḥ calan-nitamba-stana-hāra-kuṇḍala-tviṣat-kapolāruṇa-kuṅkumānanāḥ

SYNONYMS

tāḥ—those women; dīpa—by the lamps; dīptaiḥ—illumined; maṇibhiḥ—with jewels; virejuḥ—shone; rajjūḥ—the (churning) ropes; vikarṣat—pulling; bhuja—upon their arms; kaṅkaṇa—of bangles; srajaḥ—wearing rows; calan—moving; nitamba—their hips; stana—breasts; hāra—and necklaces; kuṇḍala—due to their earrings; tviṣat—glowing; kapola—their cheeks; aruṇa—reddish; kuṅkuma—with kuṅkuma powder; ānanāḥ—their faces.

TRANSLATION

As they pulled on the churning ropes with their bangled arms, the women of Vraja shone with the splendor of their jewels, which reflected the lamps' light. Their hips, breasts and necklaces moved about, and their faces, anointed with reddish kuṅkuma, glowed radiantly with the luster of their earrings reflecting from their cheeks.

TEXT 46

उद्गायतीनामरविन्दलोचनं

ब्रजाङ्गनानां दिवमस्पृशद् ध्वनिः
दध्नश्च निर्मन्थनशब्दमिश्रितो निरस्यते येन दिशाममङ्गलम्

udgāyatīnām aravinda-locanam vrajāṅganānām divam asprśad dhvaniḥ dadhnaś ca nirmanthana-śabda-miśrito nirasyate yena diśām amaṅgalam

SYNONYMS

udgāyatīnām—who were loudly singing; aravinda—like lotuses; locanam—(about the Lord) whose eyes; vraja-aṅganānām—of the women of Vraja; divam—the sky; asprśat—touched; dhvaniḥ—the reverberation; dadhnaḥ—of the curds; ca—and; nirmanthana—of the churning; śabda—with the sound; miśritaḥ—mixed; nirasyate—is dispelled; yena—by which; diśām—of all directions; amaṅgalam—the inauspiciousness.

TRANSLATION

As the ladies of Vraja loudly sang the glories of lotus-eyed Kṛṣṇa, their songs blended with the sound of their churning, ascended to the sky and dissipated all inauspiciousness in every direction.

PURPORT

The gopīs were absorbed in thought of Kṛṣṇa and were thus feeling His presence. Therefore they could joyfully sing.

TEXT 47

भगवत्युदिते सूर्ये
नन्दद्वारि व्रजौकसः
दृष्ट्वा रथं शातकौम्भं कस्यायमिति चाब्रुवन्

*bhagavaty udite sūrye
nanda-dvāri vrajaukaśaḥ dṛṣṭvā ratham śātakaumbham kasyāyam iti cābruvan*

SYNONYMS

bhagavati—the lord; udite—when he rose; sūrye—the sun; nanda-dvāri—in the doorway of Nanda Mahārāja's home; vraja-okasaḥ—the residents of Vraja; dṛṣṭvā—seeing; ratham—the chariot; śātakaumbham—made of gold; kasya—whose; ayam—this; iti—thus; ca—and; abruvan—they spoke.

TRANSLATION

When the godly sun had risen, the people of Vraja noticed the golden chariot in front of Nanda Mahārāja's doorway. "Who does this belong to?" they asked.

TEXT 48

अक्रूर आगतः किं वा
यः कंसस्यार्थसाधकः
येन नीतो मधुपुरीं कृष्णः कमललोचनः

*akrūra āgataḥ kim vā
yaḥ kaṁsasyārtha-sādhakaḥ yena nīto madhu-purīm
kṛṣṇaḥ kamala-locanaḥ*

SYNONYMS

akrūraḥ—Akrūra; āgataḥ—has come; kim vā—perhaps; yaḥ—who; kaṁsasya—of King Kaṁsa; ārtha—of the purpose; sādhakaḥ—the executor; yena—by whom; nītaḥ—brought; madhu-purīm—to Mathurā City; kṛṣṇaḥ—Kṛṣṇa; kamala—lotuslike; locanaḥ—whose eyes.

TRANSLATION

"Perhaps Akrūra has returned—he who fulfilled Kaṁsa's desire by taking lotus-eyed Kṛṣṇa to Mathurā.

PURPORT

The gopīs angrily spoke this statement.

TEXT 49

किं साधयिष्यत्यस्माभिर
भर्तुः प्रीतस्य निष्कृतिम्
ततः स्त्रीणां वदन्तीनाम् उद्धवोऽगात्कृताह्निकः

kim sādhayiṣyaty asmābhir bhartuḥ prītasya niṣkṛtim

tataḥ strīṇām vadantīnām uddhavo 'gāt kṛtāhnikah

SYNONYMS

kim—whether; sādhayiṣyati—will he accomplish; asmābhiḥ—with us; bhartuḥ—of his master; prītasya—who was satisfied with him; niṣkṛtim—the funeral ritual; tataḥ—then; strīṇām—the women; vadantīnām—as they were speaking; uddhavaḥ—Uddhava; agāt—came there; kṛta—having performed; ahnikah—his early-morning religious duties.

TRANSLATION

"Is he going to use our flesh to offer funeral oblations for his master, who was so satisfied with his service?" As the women were speaking in this way, Uddhava appeared, having finished his early-morning duties.

PURPORT

This verse reveals the bitter disappointment the gopīs felt when Akrūra took Kṛṣṇa away. However, they will be pleasantly surprised to see that the unexpected guest is Uddhava.

*Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C.
Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Forty-sixth Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "Uddhava Visits Vṛndāvana."*

47. The Song of the Bee

This chapter describes how Uddhava, on the order of Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, delivered the Lord's message to the gopīs, consoled them and then returned to Mathurā.

When the young maidens of Vraja saw lotus-eyed Uddhava, who wore a yellow garment and attractive earrings, they were astonished at how much he resembled Kṛṣṇa. Thinking "Who is this?" they approached and encircled him. When they realized that Kṛṣṇa must have sent him, they brought him to a secluded place where he could speak to them confidentially.

The gopīs then began to remember the pastimes they had enjoyed with Śrī Kṛṣṇa, and putting aside all ordinary propriety and shyness, they loudly wept. One gopī, while deeply meditating on Her association with Kṛṣṇa, noticed a bumblebee before Her. Imagining the bee to be a messenger from Him, She said, "Just as bees wander among various flowers, Śrī Kṛṣṇa has abandoned the young girls of Vraja and developed affection for other women." The gopī continued to speak in this way, contrasting Her own supposed ill fortune to Her rival lovers' good fortune, all the while glorifying the names, forms, qualities and pastimes of Lord Kṛṣṇa. She then declared that although Kṛṣṇa may have abandoned the gopīs, they could not possibly stop remembering Him for even a moment.

Uddhava tried to console the damsels of Vraja, who were so anxious to see Kṛṣṇa once again. Uddhava explained, "While ordinary persons must perform many pious deeds to qualify as servants of Lord Kṛṣṇa, you simple cowherd girls are so extremely fortunate that the Lord has favored you with the very highest degree of pure devotion for Him." Uddhava then related to them the Lord's message.

Quoting Lord Kṛṣṇa, Uddhava said, "I am the Supreme Soul and supreme shelter of all. By My potencies I create, maintain and destroy the cosmos. I am indeed most dear to you gopīs, but to increase your attraction for Me and intensify your remembrance of Me, I left you. After all, when a woman's beloved is far away, she fixes her mind upon him constantly. By incessantly remembering Me, you are sure to regain My association without delay.' "

The gopīs then asked Uddhava, "Is Kṛṣṇa happy now that Kāṁsa is dead and He can enjoy the company of His family members and the women of Mathurā? Does He still remember all the pastimes He enjoyed with us, such as the rāsa dance? Will Śrī Kṛṣṇa once again appear before us and give us ecstasy, just as Lord Indra, with his rain, gives life back to the forests aggrieved by the summer heat? Although we know that the greatest happiness comes from renunciation, we simply cannot stop hoping to attain Kṛṣṇa, for the marks of His lotus feet are still present throughout the land of Vraja, reminding us of His graceful gait, generous smiles and gentle talks. By all these our hearts have been stolen away."

Having said this, the gopīs loudly chanted Lord Kṛṣṇa's names, calling out, "O Govinda, please come and destroy our suffering!" Uddhava then pacified the gopīs with statements that dispelled their pain of separation, and they in turn worshiped him as nondifferent from Śrī Kṛṣṇa.

Uddhava stayed in the district of Vraja for several months, giving pleasure to the residents by reminding them about Kṛṣṇa in various ways. Very satisfied at seeing the extent of the gopīs' love for the Lord, he declared, "These cowherd girls have perfected their lives by coming to the platform of unalloyed love for Kṛṣṇa. Indeed, even Lord Brahmā is inferior to them. The goddess of fortune herself, who always resides on Kṛṣṇa's chest, could not get the same mercy as that which the gopīs obtained during the rāsa dance, when Kṛṣṇa embraced their necks with His mighty arms. What, then, to speak of other women! Indeed, I would consider myself most fortunate to take birth as even a bush or creeper that would sometimes be touched by the dust of these gopīs' lotus feet."

Finally, Uddhava entreated Nanda Mahārāja and the other cowherd men for permission to go back to Mathurā. Nanda presented him with many gifts and prayed to Uddhava for the ability to always remember Kṛṣṇa. Returning to Mathurā, Uddhava offered Balarāma, Kṛṣṇa and King Ugrasena the gifts sent by Nanda Mahārāja and described to them everything he had experienced in Vraja.

TEXTS 1-2

श्रीशुक उवाच

तं वीक्ष्य कृषानुचरं व्रजस्त्रियः
प्रलम्बबाहुं नवकञ्जलोचनम्
पीताम्बरं पुष्करमालिनं लसन्- मुखारविन्दं परिमृष्टकुण्डलम्

सुविस्मिताः कोऽयमपीव्यदर्शनः
कुतश्च कस्याच्युतवेषभूषणः
इति स्म सर्वाः परिवव्रुरुत्सुकास्त तमुत्तमःश्लोकपदाम्बुजाश्रयम्

śrī-śuka uvāca

taṁ vīkṣya kṛṣānucaram vraja-striyaḥ pralamba-bāhuṁ nava-kañja-locanam pītāmbaram puṣkara-mālinam lasan-mukhāravindam parimṛṣṭa-kuṇḍalam su-vismitāḥ ko 'yam apīvyā-darśanaḥ kutaś ca kasyācyuta-veṣa-bhūṣaṇaḥ iti sma sarvāḥ parivavrur utsukāś tam uttamaḥ-śloka-padāmbujāśrayam

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; tam—him; vīkṣya—seeing; kṛṣṇa-anucaram—the servant of Lord Kṛṣṇa (Uddhava); vraja-striyaḥ—the women of Vraja; pralamba—hanging down; bāhum—whose arms; nava—young; kañja—like lotuses; locanam—whose eyes; pīta—yellow; ambaram—wearing a garment; puṣkara—of lotuses; mālinam—wearing a garland; lasat—effulgently glowing; makha—whose face; aravindam—lotuslike; parimṛṣṭa—polished; kuṇḍalam—whose earrings; su-vismitāḥ—quite astonished; kaḥ—who; ayam—this; apīvyā—handsome; darśanaḥ—whose appearance; kutaḥ—from where; ca—and; kasya—belonging to whom; acyuta—of Kṛṣṇa; veṣa—wearing the clothing; bhūṣaṇaḥ—and ornaments; iti—saying this; sma—indeed; sarvāḥ—all of them; parivavruḥ—surrounded; utsukāḥ—eager; tam—him; uttamaḥ-śloka—of Lord Kṛṣṇa, who is praised by the best poetry; pada-ambuja—by the lotus feet; āśrayam—who is sheltered.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: The young women of Vraja became astonished upon seeing Lord Kṛṣṇa's servant, who had long arms, whose eyes resembled a newly grown lotus, who wore a yellow garment and a lotus garland, and whose lotuslike face glowed with brightly polished earrings. "Who is this handsome man?" the gopīs asked. "Where has he come from, and whom does he serve? He's wearing Kṛṣṇa's clothes and ornaments!" Saying this, the gopīs eagerly crowded around Uddhava, whose shelter was the lotus feet of Lord Uttamaḥśloka, Śrī Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 3

तं प्रश्रयेणावनताः सुसत्कृतं
सत्रीडहासेक्षणसूनृतादिभिः

रहस्यपृच्छन्नुपविष्टमासने विज्ञाय सन्देशहरं रमापतेः

tam praśrayeṇāvanatāḥ su-sat-kṛtam sa-vrīḍa-hāsekṣaṇa-sūnṛtādibhiḥ rahasy aprcchann upaviṣṭam āsane vijñāya sandeśa-haram ramā-pateḥ

SYNONYMS

tam—him, Uddhava; praśrayeṇa—with humility; avanatāḥ—bowed down (the gopīs); su—properly; sat-kṛtam—honored; sa-vrīḍa—with shyness; hāsa—and smiling; īkṣaṇa—by their glances; sūnṛta—pleasing words; ādibhiḥ—and so forth; rahasi—in a secluded place; aprcchan—they inquired; upaviṣṭam—who was seated; āsane—on a cushion; vijñāya—understanding him to be; sandeśa-haram—the message carrier; ramā-pateḥ—of the master of the goddess of fortune.

TRANSLATION

Bowing their heads in humility, the gopīs duly honored Uddhava with their shy, smiling glances and pleasing words. They took him to a quiet place, seated him comfortably and began to question him, for they recognized him to be a messenger from Kṛṣṇa, the master of the goddess of fortune.

PURPORT

The chaste gopīs were enlivened to see that a messenger had come from Kṛṣṇa. As Uddhava will discover during his stay in Vṛndāvana, the unique gopīs could not think of anything but their beloved Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 4

जानीमस्त्वां यदुपतेः
पार्षदं समुपागतम्
भर्त्रेह प्रेषितः पित्रोर् भवान् प्रियचिकीर्षया

*jānīmas tvām yadu-pateḥ pārṣadam samupāgatam bhartreha preṣitaḥ pitror
bhavān priya-cikīrṣayā*

SYNONYMS

jānīmaḥ—we know; tvām—you; yadu-pateḥ—of the chief of the Yadus; pārṣadam—the personal associate; samupāgatam—arrived here; bhartrā—by your master; iha—here; preṣitaḥ—sent; pitroḥ—of His parents; bhavān—your good self; priya—satisfaction; cikīrṣayā—wanting to give.

TRANSLATION

[The gopīs said:] We know that you are the personal servant of Kṛṣṇa, the chief of the Yadus, and that you have come here on the order of your good master, who desires to give pleasure to His parents.

TEXT 5

अन्यथा गोव्रजे तस्य
स्मरणीयं न चक्ष्महे
स्नेहानुबन्धो बन्धूनां

मुनेरपि सुदुस्त्यजः

*anyathā go-vraje tasya smaraṇīyam na cakṣmahe snehānubandho bandhūnām
muner api su-dustyajāḥ*

SYNONYMS

anyathā—otherwise; go-vraje—in the cow pasture; tasya—for Him; smaraṇīyam—that which is worth remembering; na cakṣmahe—we do not see; sneha—of affection; anubandhaḥ—the attachment; bandhūnām—to relatives; muner—for a sage; api—even; su-dustyajāḥ—very difficult to abandon.

TRANSLATION

We see nothing else He might consider worth remembering in these cow pastures of Vraja. Indeed, the bonds of affection for one's family members are difficult to break, even for a sage.

TEXT 6

अन्येष्वर्थकृता मैत्री
यावदर्थविडम्बनम्
पुम्भिः स्त्रीषु कृता यद्वत् सुमनःस्विव षट्पदैः

*anyeṣv artha-kṛtā maitrī
yāvad-artha-vidāmbanam pumbhiḥ strīṣu kṛtā yadvat*

sumanaḥsv iva śaṭṭpadaiḥ

SYNONYMS

anyeṣu—toward others; artha—for some motivation; kṛtā—manifested; maitrī—friendship; yāvat—for as long; artha—(as one is fulfilling his) motive; viḍambanam—pretense; pumbhiḥ—by men; strīṣu—for women; kṛtā—shown; yadvat—as much; sumanaḥsu—for flowers; iva—as; śaṭṭpadaiḥ—by bees.

TRANSLATION

The friendship shown toward others—those who are not family members—is motivated by personal interest, and thus it is a pretense that lasts only until one's purpose is fulfilled. Such friendship is just like the interest men take in women, or bees in flowers.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura explains here that attractive women, like flowers, possess beauty, fragrance, tenderness, charm and so on. And as bees drink only once of a flower's nectar and then leave it for another, fickle men abandon beautiful and devoted women to pursue other pleasures. This tendency is condemned here by the gopīs, who gave their hearts completely to Śrī Kṛṣṇa. The gopīs wanted only to exhibit their charms for Lord Kṛṣṇa's pleasure, and in the pain of separation they questioned the motives of His friendship with them.

These are the transcendental pastimes of the Lord. Both Lord Kṛṣṇa and the gopīs are completely liberated souls engaged in spiritual loving affairs. By contrast, our so-called loving affairs, being perverted reflections of the perfect loving relationships in the spiritual world, are polluted with lust, greed, pride and so on. Like all liberated souls, the gopīs—and certainly Lord Kṛṣṇa Himself—are eternally free of these lower qualities, and their intense loving affairs are motivated exclusively by unalloyed devotion.

TEXT 7

निःस्वं त्यजन्ति गणिका
अकल्पं नृपतिं प्रजाः
अधीतविद्या आचार्यम् ऋत्विजो दत्तदक्षिणम्

*niḥsvam tyajanti gaṇikā akalpam nṛpatim prajāḥ adhīta-vidyā ācāryam
ṛtvijo datta-dakṣiṇam*

SYNONYMS

niḥsvam—one without any assets; tyajanti—abandon; gaṇikāḥ—prostitutes; akalpam—incompetent; nṛ-patim—a king; prajāḥ—citizens; adhīta-vidyāḥ—those who have completed their education; ācāryam—the teacher; ṛtvijaḥ—priests; datta—(the sacrificer) who has given; dakṣiṇam—their remuneration.

TRANSLATION

Prostitutes abandon a penniless man, subjects an incompetent king, students their teacher once they have finished their education, and priests a man who has remunerated them for a sacrifice.

TEXT 8

खगा वीतफलं वृक्षं
भुक्त्वा चातिथयो गृहम्
दग्धं मृगास्तथारण्यं जारा भुक्त्वा रतां स्त्रियम्

*khagā vīta-phalam vṛkṣam
bhuktvā cātithayo grham dagdham mṛgās tathāraṇyam jārā bhuktvā ratām striyam*

SYNONYMS

khagāḥ—birds; vīta—rid; phalam—of its fruits; vṛkṣam—a tree; bhuktvā—having eaten; ca—and; atithayaḥ—guests; grham—a house; dagdham—burned down; mṛgāḥ—animals; tathā—similarly; araṇyam—a forest; jārāḥ—paramours; bhuktvā—having enjoyed; ratām—attracted; striyam—a woman.

TRANSLATION

Birds abandon a tree when its fruits are gone, guests a house after they have eaten, animals a forest that has burnt down, and a lover the woman he has enjoyed, even though she remains attached to him.

TEXTS 9-10

इति गोप्यो हि गोविन्दे
गतवाक्कायमानसाः
कृष्णदूते समायाते

उद्धवे त्यक्तलौकिकाः

गायन्त्यः प्रीयकर्माणि

रुदन्त्यश्च गतह्रियः

तस्य संस्मृत्य संस्मृत्य

यानि कैशोरबाल्ययोः

*iti gopyo hi govinde
gata-vāk-kāya-mānasāḥ kṛṣṇa-dūte samāyāte
uddhave tyakta-laukikāḥ gāyantyaḥ priya-karmāṇi rudantyaś ca gata-hriyaḥ tasya saṁsmṛtya saṁsmṛtya
yāni kaiśora-bālyayoḥ*

SYNONYMS

iti—thus; gopyaḥ—the gopīs; hi—indeed; govinde—on Govinda; gata—focusing; vāk—their speech; kāya—bodies; mānasāḥ—and minds; kṛṣṇa-dūte—the messenger of Kṛṣṇa; samāyāte—having arrived and joined them; uddhave—Uddhava; tyakta—putting aside; laukikāḥ—worldly affairs; gāyantyaḥ—singing; priya—of their beloved; karmāṇi—about the activities; rudantyaḥ—crying; ca—and; gata-hriyaḥ—forgetting all shyness; tasya—His; saṁsmṛtya saṁsmṛtya—intensely remembering again and again; yāni—which; kaiśora—of youth; bālyayoḥ—and childhood.

TRANSLATION

Thus speaking, the gopīs, whose words, bodies and minds were fully dedicated to Lord Govinda, put aside all their regular work now that Kṛṣṇa's messenger, Śrī Uddhava, had arrived among them. Constantly remembering the activities their beloved Kṛṣṇa had performed in His childhood and youth, they sang about them and cried without shame.

PURPORT

The word bālyayoḥ here indicates that ever since their childhood, the gopīs had been completely in love with Kṛṣṇa. Thus even though social custom dictated that they not reveal their love to others, they forgot all external considerations and wept openly before Kṛṣṇa's messenger, Uddhava.

TEXT 11

काचिन्मधुकरं दृष्ट्वा
ध्यायन्ती कृष्णसङ्गमम्
प्रियप्रस्थापितं दूतं कल्पयित्वेदमब्रवीत्

kācin madhukaram dṛṣṭvā dhyāyantī kṛṣṇa-saṅgamam priya-prasthāpitam dūtam kalpayitvedam abravīt

SYNONYMS

kācit—one (of the gopīs); madhu-karam—a honeybee; dṛṣṭvā—seeing; dhyāyantī—while meditating; kṛṣṇa-saṅgamam—on Her association with Kṛṣṇa; priya—by Her beloved; prasthāpitam—sent; dūtam—a messenger; kalpayitvā—imagining it; idam—the following; abravīt—spoke.

TRANSLATION

One of the gopīs, while meditating on Her previous association with Kṛṣṇa, saw a honeybee before Her and imagined it to be a messenger sent by Her beloved. Thus She spoke as follows.

PURPORT

Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī is referred to in this verse as kācit, "a certain gopī." To establish that this particular gopī is in fact Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī quotes the following verses from the Agni Purāṇa:

*gopyaḥ papracchur ūṣasi kṛṣṇānucaram uddhavam harī-līlā-vihārāmś ca
tatraikāṁ rādhikāṁ vinā*

rādhā tad-bhāva-samlīnā vāsanāyā virāmitā sakhībhiḥ sābhyadhāc chuddhavijñāna-guṇa-jṛmbhitam

*ijyānte-vāsinām veda
caramāmśa-vibhāvanaiḥ*

"At dawn the gopīs inquired from Kṛṣṇa's servant, Uddhava, about the Lord's pastimes and recreation. Only Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, immersed in thought of Kṛṣṇa, withdrew Her interest in the talks. Then Rādhā, who is worshiped by the residents of Her Vṛndāvana village, spoke up in the midst of Her girlfriends. Her words were full of pure transcendental knowledge and expressed the ultimate portion of the Vedas."

In the Bhagavad-gītā (15.15) Lord Kṛṣṇa states, vedaiś ca sarvair aham eva vedyaḥ: "By all the Vedas, I am to be known." To know Kṛṣṇa is to love Kṛṣṇa, and thus Rādhārāṇī, by Her own example and words, revealed Her supreme love for the Lord.

Having quoted the above verses from the Agni Purāṇa, Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī also quotes the following from the Nṛsimha-tāpanī Upaniṣad (Pūrva-khaṇḍa 2.4): yam sarve devā namanti mumukṣavo brahma-vādinaś ca. "All the demigods and all the transcendental philosophers who desire liberation bow down to the Supreme Lord." We should follow suit.

TEXT 12

गोप्युवाच

मधुप कितवबन्धो मा स्पृशङ्घ्रिं सपत्न्याः
कुचविलुलितमालाकुङ्कुमश्मश्रुभिर्नः
वहतु मधुपतिस्तन्मानिनीनां प्रसादं यदुसदसि विडम्ब्यं यस्य दूतस्त्वमीदृक्

gopī uvāca

madhupa kitava-bandho mā spṛśaṅghrīm sapatnyāḥ kuca-vilulita-mālā-kuṅkuma-śmaśrubhir naḥ vahatu madhu-patis tan-māninīnām prasādaṁ yadu-sadasi viḍambyaṁ yasya dūtas tvam īdṛk

SYNONYMS

gopī uvāca—the gopī said; madhupa—O bumblebee; kitava—of a cheater; bandho—O friend; mā spṛśa—please do not touch; aṅghrīm—the feet; sapatnyāḥ—of the lover who is our rival; kuca—the breast; vilulita—fallen from; mālā—from the garland; kuṅkuma—with the red cosmetic; śmaśrubhiḥ—with the whiskers; naḥ—our; vahatu—let Him bring;

madhu-patiḥ—the Lord of the Madhu dynasty; tat—His; māninīnām—to the women; prasādam—mercy or kindness; yadu-sadasi—in the royal assembly of the Yadus; viḍambyam—an object of ridicule or contempt; yasya—whose; dūtaḥ—messenger; tvam—you; īdṛk—such.

TRANSLATION

The gopī said: O honeybee, O friend of a cheater, don't touch My feet with your whiskers, which are smeared with the kuṅkuma that rubbed onto Kṛṣṇa's garland when it was crushed by the breasts of a rival lover! Let Kṛṣṇa satisfy the women of Mathurā. One who sends a messenger like you will certainly be ridiculed in the Yadus' assembly.

PURPORT

Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī indirectly chastised Kṛṣṇa by chastising the bumblebee, which She took for His messenger. She addressed the bumblebee as madhupa, "one who drinks the nectar (of flowers)," and She addressed Kṛṣṇa as madhu-pati, "the Lord of Madhu."

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī points out that this and the following nine verses exemplify ten kinds of impulsive speech spoken by a lover. This verse illustrates the qualities of prajalpa, as described by Śrīla Rūpa Gosvāmī in the following verse from his Ujjvala-nīlamaṇi (14.182):

asūyerṣyā-mada-yujā yo 'vadhīraṇa-mudrayā priyasyākauśalodgāraḥ
prajalpaḥ sa tu kīrtiyate

"Prajalpa is speech that denigrates the tactlessness of one's lover with expressions of disrespect. It is spoken in a mood of envy, jealousy and pride." Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī points out that the word kitava-bandho expresses envy; the phrase from sapatnyāḥ to naḥ, jealousy; the phrase mā spṛśa aṅghrim, pride; and the phrase from vahatu to prasādam, disrespect, while the phrase from yadu-sadasi to the end of the verse decries Kṛṣṇa's tactless treatment of Rādhārāṇī.

TEXT 13

सकृदधरसुधां स्वां मोहिनीं पाययित्वा
सुमनस इव सद्यस्तत्यजेऽस्मान् भवादृक्
परिचरति कथं तत्पादपद्मं नु पद्मा ह्यपि बत हतचेता ह्युत्तमःश्लोकजल्पैः

sakṛd adhara-sudhām svām mohinīm pāyayitvā sumanasa iva sadyas tatyaje 'smān bhavādṛk paricarati katham tat-pāda-padmaṁ nu padmā hy api bata hṛta-cetā hy uttamaḥ-śloka-jalpaiḥ

SYNONYMS

sakṛt—once; adhara—of the lips; sudhām—the nectar; svām—His own; mohinīm—bewildering; pāyayitvā—making drink; sumanasaḥ—flowers; iva—like; sadyaḥ—suddenly; tatyaje—He abandoned; asmān—us; bhavādṛk—like you; paricarati—serves; katham—why; tat—His; pada-padmaṁ—lotus feet; nu—I wonder; padmā—Lakṣmī, the goddess of fortune; hi api—indeed, because; bata—alas; hṛta—taken away; cetāḥ—her mind; hi—certainly; uttamaḥ-śloka—of Kṛṣṇa; jalpaiḥ—by the false speech.

TRANSLATION

After making us drink the enchanting nectar of His lips only once, Kṛṣṇa suddenly abandoned us, just as you might quickly abandon some flowers. How is it, then, that Goddess Padmā willingly serves His lotus feet? Alas! The answer must certainly be that her mind has been stolen away by His deceitful words.

PURPORT

In this verse Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī continues to compare Śrī Kṛṣṇa to the bumblebee, and in Her distress She states that the reason the goddess of fortune is constantly devoted to His lotus feet must be that she has been fooled by Kṛṣṇa's promises. According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī, this statement of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī's illustrates parijalpa, as described in Śrī Ujjvala-nīlamanī (14.184):

*prabhor nidayatā-śāṭhyacāpalyādy-upapādanāt
sva-vicakṣaṇatā-vyaktir
bhaṅgyā syāt parijalpitam*

"Parijalpa is that speech which, through various devices, shows one's own cleverness by exposing the mercilessness, duplicity, unreliability and so on of one's Lord."

TEXT 14

किमिह बहु षडङ्घ्रे गायसि त्वं यदूनाम्
अधिपतिमगृहाणामग्रतो नः पुराणम्
विजयसखसखीनां गीयतां तत्प्रसङ्गः क्षपितकुचरुजस्ते कल्पयन्तीष्टमिष्टाः kim iha bahu ṣaḍ-aṅghre gāyasi tvaṁ yadūnām

adhipatim agrhāṇām agrato naḥ purāṇam vijaya-sakha-sakhinām gīyatām tat-prasaṅgaḥ kṣapita-kuca-rujas te kalpayantīṣṭam iṣṭāḥ

SYNONYMS

kim—why; iha—here; bahu—much; ṣaṭ-aṅghre—O bee (six-footed one); gāyasi—are singing; tvam—you; yadūnām—of the Yadus; adhipatim—about the master; agrhāṇām—who have no home; agrataḥ—in front of; naḥ—us; purāṇam—old; vijaya—of Arjuna; sakha—of the friend; sakhinām—for the friends; gīyatām—should be sung; tat—of Him; prasaṅgaḥ—the topics; kṣapita—relieved; kuca—of whose breasts; rujaḥ—the pain; te—they; kalpayanti—will provide; iṣṭam—the charity you desire; iṣṭāḥ—His beloveds.

TRANSLATION

O bee, why do you sing here so much about the Lord of the Yadus, in front of us homeless people? These topics are old news to us. Better you sing about that friend of Arjuna in front of His new girlfriends, the burning desire in whose breasts He has now relieved. Those ladies will surely give you the charity you are begging.

PURPORT

With the words agrhāṇām agrato naḥ, Rādhārāṇī laments that even though She and the other gopīs gave up their homes to love Kṛṣṇa in a conjugal relationship, the Lord left them and became a prince in the great royal city of the Yadus. Besides meaning "Arjuna, the victor," the word vijaya also directly indicates Śrī Kṛṣṇa, who is always victorious in His endeavors, and besides meaning "old (news)," the word purāṇam also indicates that Śrī Kṛṣṇa is glorified in the ancient Vedic scriptures of that name.

In this verse we observe in Rādhārāṇī's mood the seed of jealous anger, which arises from an apparent disdain for Kṛṣṇa, accompanied by a sarcastic sidelong glance directed toward Him. Thus this verse fits the following description of vijalpa from the Ujjvala-nīlamanī (14.186):

*vyaktayāsūyayā gūḍha-māna-mudrāntarālayā
agha-dviṣi kaṭākṣoktir
vijalpo viduṣāṁ mataḥ*

"According to learned authorities, vijalpa is sarcastic speech that is addressed to the killer of Agha and that openly expresses jealousy while at the same time hinting at one's angry pride."

TEXT 15

दिवि भुवि च रसायां काः स्त्रियस्तद्दुरापाः
कपटरुचिरहासभ्रूविजृम्भस्य याः स्युः
चरणरज उपास्ते यस्य भूतिर्वयं का अपि च कृपणपक्षे ह्युत्तमःश्लोकशब्दः divi bhuvi ca rasāyām kāḥ striyas tad-durāpāḥ kapaṭa-rucira-hāsa-bhrū-vijṛmbhasya yāḥ syuḥ caraṇa-raja upāste yasya bhūtir vayaṁ kā api ca kṛpaṇa-pakṣe hy uttamaḥ-śloka-śabdaḥ

SYNONYMS

divi—in the heavenly region; bhuvi—on the earth; ca—and; rasāyām—in the subterranean sphere; kāḥ—what; striyaḥ—women; tat—by Him; durāpāḥ—unobtainable; kapaṭa—deceptive; rucira—charming; hāsa—with smiles; bhrū—of whose eyebrows; vijṛmbhasya—the arching; yāḥ—who;

syuḥ—become; caraṇa—of the feet; rajaḥ—the dust; upāste—worships; yasya—whose; bhūtiḥ—the goddess of fortune, wife of Lord Nārāyaṇa; vayam—we; kā—who; api ca—nevertheless; kṛpaṇa-pakṣe—for those who are wretched; hi—indeed; uttamaḥ-śloka—the Supreme Lord, who is glorified by the most sublime prayers; śabdaḥ—the name.

TRANSLATION

In heaven, on earth or in the subterranean sphere, what women are unavailable to Him? He simply arches His eyebrows and smiles with deceptive charm, and they all become His. The supreme goddess herself worships the dust of His feet, so what is our position in comparison? But at least those who are wretched can chant His name, Uttamaḥśloka.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī states that Rādhārāṇī's speech, expressing all the feelings of a disappointed lover, indicates an intensity of love for Śrī Kṛṣṇa surpassing even that of the goddess of fortune. While all the gopīs are perfectly compatible with Śrī Kṛṣṇa in terms of their beauty, temperament and so on, Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī is especially so. In Her forlorn state, Rādhārāṇī indicates to Kṛṣṇa, "You are called Uttamaḥśloka because You are merciful to the wretched and fallen, but if You would be merciful to Me, then You would actually deserve this exalted name."

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī further points out that in this verse, Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī expresses Her spite born of pride, accuses Kṛṣṇa of being a cheater and finds fault with His behavior. Thus this verse contains speech known as ujjalpa, as described in the following verse of the Ujjvala-nīlamaṇi (14.188):

*hareḥ kuhakatākhyānaṁ
garva-garbhita-yeṣyayā sāsūyaś ca tad-ākṣepo*

dhīrair ujjalpa īryate

"The declaration of Lord Hari's duplicitous nature in a mood of spite born of pride, together with jealously spoken insults directed against Him, has been termed ujjalpa by the wise."

TEXT 16

विसृज शिरसि पादं वेद्यहं चातुकारैर्
अनुनयविदुषस्तेऽभ्येत्य दौत्यैर्मुकुन्दात् स्वकृत इह विषृष्टापत्यपत्यन्यलोका व्यसृजदकृतचेताः किं नु सन्धेयमस्मिन् viśṛja śirasi pādam vedmy aham cātu-kārair anunaya-viduṣas te 'bhyetya dautyair mukundāt sva-kṛta iha viṣṛṣṭāpatya-paty-anya-lokā vyasṛjad akṛta-cetāḥ kiṁ nu sandheyam asmin

SYNONYMS

viśṛja—let go of; śirasi—held on your head; pādam—My foot; vedmi—know; aham—I; cātu-kārair—with flattering words; anunaya—in the art of conciliation; viduṣaḥ—who are expert; te—of you; abhyetya—having learned; dautyaiḥ—by acting as a messenger; mukundāt—from Kṛṣṇa; sva—for His own; kṛte—sake; iha—in this life; viṣṛṣṭa—who have abandoned; apatya—children; patī—husbands; anya-lokāḥ—and everyone else; vyasṛjat—He abandoned; akṛta-cetāḥ—ungrateful; kim nu—why indeed; sandheyam—should I make reconciliation; asmin—with Him.

TRANSLATION

Keep your head off My feet! I know what you're doing. You expertly learned diplomacy from Mukunda, and now you come as His messenger with flattering words. But He abandoned those who for His sake alone gave up their children, husbands and all other relations. He's simply ungrateful. Why should I make up with Him now?

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī, this verse illustrates the qualities of sañjalpa, as described by Śrīla Rūpa Gosvāmī in the following verse of his Ujjvala-nīlamaṇi (14.190):

*solluṇṭhayā gahanayā kayāpy ākṣepa-mudrayā tasyākṛta-jñatādy-uktiḥ
sañjalpaḥ kathito budhaiḥ*

"The learned describe sañjalpa as that speech which decries with deep irony and insulting gestures the beloved's ungratefulness and so on." Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī points out that the word ādi, "and so on," implies the perception in one's lover of hardheartedness, of an inimical attitude and of a complete lack of love.

TEXT 17

मृगयुरिव कपीन्द्रं विव्यधे लुब्धधर्मा
स्त्रियमकृत विरूपां स्त्रीजितः कामयानाम्
बलिमपि बलिमत्त्वावेष्टयद् ध्वाङ्गवद्यस तदलमसितसख्यैर्दुस्त्यजस्तत्कथार्थः

mṛgayur iva kapīndraṁ vivyadhe lubdha-dharmā

striyam akṛta virūpām strī-jitaḥ kāma-yānām balim api balim attvāveṣṭayat dhvāṅkṣa-vad yas tad alam asita-sakhyair dustyajas tat-kathārthaḥ

SYNONYMS

mṛgayuḥ—a hunter; iva—like; kapi—of the monkeys; indram—the king; vivyadhe—shot; lubdha-dharmā—behaving like a cruel hunter; striyam—a woman (namely, Śūrpaṇakhā); akṛta—made; virūpām—disfigured; strī—by a woman (Sītā-devī); jitaḥ—conquered; kāmayānām—who was impelled by lusty desire; balim—King Bali; api—also; balim—his tribute; attvā—consuming; aveṣṭayat—bound up; dhvāṅkṣavat—just like a crow; yaḥ—who; tat—therefore; alam—enough; asita—with black Kṛṣṇa; sakhyaiḥ—of all kinds of friendship; dustyajaḥ—impossible to give up; tat—about Him; kathā—of the topics; arthaḥ—the elaboration.

TRANSLATION

Like a hunter, He cruelly shot the king of the monkeys with arrows. Because He was conquered by a woman, He disfigured another woman who came to Him with lusty desires. And even after consuming the gifts of Bali Mahārāja, He bound him up with ropes as if he were a crow. So let us give up all friendship with this dark-complexioned boy, even if we can't give up talking about Him.

PURPORT

In Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrīla Prabhupāda explains the meaning of this verse as follows: "[Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī said to the bee,] 'You poor messenger, you are only a less intelligent servant. You do not know much about Kṛṣṇa—how ungrateful and hardhearted He has been, not only in this life but in His previous lives also. We have heard this from Our grandmother Paurṇamāsī. She has informed Us that Kṛṣṇa was born in a kṣatriya family previous to this birth and was known as Rāmacandra. In that birth, instead of killing Vālī, an enemy of His friend, in the manner of a kṣatriya, He killed him just like a hunter. A hunter takes a secure hiding place and then kills an animal without facing it. So Lord Rāmacandra, as a kṣatriya, should have fought with Vālī face to face, but instigated by His friend, He killed him from behind a tree. Thus He deviated from the religious principles of a kṣatriya. Also, He was so attracted by the beauty of Sītā that He converted Śūrpaṇakhā, the sister of Rāvaṇa, into an ugly woman by cutting off her nose and ears. Śūrpaṇakhā proposed an intimate relationship with Him, and as a kṣatriya He should have satisfied her. But He was so henpecked that He could not forget Sītā-devī and converted Śūrpaṇakhā into an ugly woman. Before that birth as a kṣatriya, He took birth as a brāhmaṇa boy known as Vāmanadeva and asked charity from Bali Mahārāja. Bali was so magnanimous that he gave Him whatever he had, yet Kṛṣṇa as Vāmanadeva ungratefully arrested him just like a crow and pushed him down to the Pātāla kingdom. We know all about Kṛṣṇa and how ungrateful He is. But here is the difficulty: In spite of His being so cruel and hardhearted, it is very difficult for us to give up talking about Him.' "

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī points out that this speech of Rādhārāṇī's is called avajalpa, as described by Rūpa Gosvāmī in the following verse from the Ujjvala-nīlamaṇi (14.192):

*harau kāṭhinya-kāmitvadhaurtyād āsakty-ayogyatā yatra serṣyā-bhiyevoktā
so 'vajalpaḥ satām mataḥ*

"Saintly persons have concluded that when a lover, impelled by jealousy and fear, declares that Lord Hari is unworthy of her attachment because of His harshness, lustiness and dishonesty, such speech is called avajalpa."

TEXT 18

यदनुचरितलीलाकर्णपीयूषविप्रुट्- सकृददनविधूतद्वन्द्वधर्मा विनष्टाः सपदि गृहकुटुम्बं दीनमुत्सृज्य दीना
बहव इह विहङ्गा भिक्षुर्या चरन्ति

*yad-anucarita-līlā-karṇa-pīyūṣa-vipruṭ-sakṛd-adana-vidhūta-dvandva-dharmā vinaṣṭāḥ sapadi gr̥ha-kuṭumbam dīnam utsṛjya dīnā
bahava iha vihaṅgā bhikṣu-caryām caranti*

SYNONYMS

yat—whose; anucarita—constantly performed activities; līlā—of such pastimes; karṇa—for the ears; pīyūṣa—of the nectar; vipruṭ—of a drop; sakṛt—just once; adana—by the partaking; vidhūta—removed entirely; dvandva—of duality; dharmāḥ—their propensities; vinaṣṭāḥ—ruined; sapadi—immediately; gr̥ha—their homes; kuṭumbam—and families; dīnam—wretched; utsṛjya—rejecting; dīnāḥ—becoming themselves wretched; bahavaḥ—many persons; iha—here (in Vṛndāvana); vihaṅgāḥ—(like) birds; bhikṣu—of begging; caryām—the livelihood; caranti—they pursue.

TRANSLATION

To hear about the pastimes that Kṛṣṇa regularly performs is nectar for the ears. For those who relish just a single drop of that nectar, even once, their dedication to material duality is ruined. Many such persons have suddenly given up their wretched homes and families and, themselves becoming wretched, traveled here to Vṛndāvana to wander about like birds, begging for their living.

PURPORT

Material duality is based on falsely thinking, "This is mine, and that is yours," or "This is our country, and that is yours," or "This is my family, and that is yours," and so on. In fact, there is one Absolute Truth, in which we all exist and to whom everything belongs. His beauty and pleasure are also absolute and infinite, and if one actually hears about this Absolute Truth, called Kṛṣṇa, one's dedication to the illusion of mundane duality is spoiled.

According to the ācāryas, and certainly in accord with Sanskrit grammar, the last two words of the second line of this text may also be divided dharma-avinaṣṭāḥ. Then the entire line becomes part of a single compound, the meaning of which is that hearing about Kṛṣṇa cleanses one of irreligious duality and thus one is not vanquished (avinaṣṭa) by material illusion. The word dīnāḥ is then given the alternate reading of dhīrāḥ, meaning that one becomes spiritually sober and thus gives up attachment to fleeting material relationships. The word vihaṅgāḥ, "birds," would in this case refer to swans, the symbol of essential discrimination.

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī quotes Rūpa Gosvāmī as follows in connection with this verse:

*bhaṅgyā tyāgaucitī tasya khagānām api khedanāt yatra sānuśayaṁ proktā
tad bhaved abhijalpitam*

"When a lover indirectly states with remorse that her beloved is fit to be given up, such speech, uttered like the plaintive crying of a bird, is called abhijalpa." (Ujjvala-nīlamanī 14.194)

TEXT 19

वयमृतमिव जिह्मव्याहृतं श्रद्धधानाः
कुलिकरुतमिवाज्ञाः कृष्णवध्वो हरिण्यः
ददृशुरसकृदेतत्तन्नखस्पर्शतीव्र स्मररुज उपमन्त्रिन् भण्यतामन्यवार्ता

vayam ṛtam iva jihma-vyāhṛtaṁ śraddadhānāḥ kulika-rutam ivājñāḥ kṛṣṇa-vadhvo hariṇyaḥ dadṛśur asakṛd etat tat-nakha-sparśa-tīvra smara-ruja upamantrin bhaṇyatām anya-vārtā

SYNONYMS

vayam—we; ṛtam—true; iva—as if; jihma—deceptive; vyāhṛtam—His speech; śraddadhānāḥ—trusting; kulika—of a hunter; rutam—the song; iva—as if; ajñāḥ—foolish; kṛṣṇa—of the black deer; vadhvaḥ—wives; hariṇyaḥ—the doe; dadṛśuḥ—experienced; asakṛt—repeatedly; etat—this; tat—His; nakha—of the fingernails; sparśa—by the touch; tīvra—sharp; smara—of lust; rujaḥ—the pain; upamantrin—O messenger; bhaṇyatām—please speak; anya—another; vārtā—topic.

TRANSLATION

Faithfully taking His deceitful words as true, we became just like the black deer's foolish wives, who trust the cruel hunter's song. Thus we repeatedly felt the sharp pain of lust caused by the touch of His nails. O messenger, please talk about something besides Kṛṣṇa.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī categorizes this statement of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī's as ājalpa, as defined by Śrīla Rūpa Gosvāmī:

jaiḥmyaṁ tasyāṛti-datvaṁ ca nirvedād yatra kīrtitam bhaṅgyānya-sukha-datvaṁ ca sa ājalpa udīritaḥ

"A statement spoken in disgust, describing how the male lover is deceitful and brings one misery, and also implying that He gives happiness to others, is known as ājalpa." (Ujjvala-nīlamanī 14.196)

TEXT 20

प्रियसख पुनरागाः प्रेयसा प्रेषितः किं
वरय किमनुरुन्धे माननीयोऽसि मेऽङ्ग
नयसि कथमिहास्मान्दुस्त्यजद्वन्द्वपार्श्वं सततमुरसि सौम्य श्रीर्वधूः साकमास्ते priya-sakha punar āgāḥ preyasā preṣitaḥ kim varaya kim anurundhe mānanīyo 'si me 'ṅga nayasi katham ihāsmān dustyaja-dvandva-pārśvaṁ satatam urasi saumya śrīr vadhūḥ sākam āste priya—of My beloved; sakha—O friend; punaḥ—once again; āgāḥ—you have come; preyasā—by My beloved; preṣitaḥ—sent; kim—whether; varaya—please choose; kim—what; anurundhe—do you wish; mānanīyaḥ—to be honored; asi—you are; me—by Me; aṅga—My dear one; nayasi—you are bringing; katham—why; iha—here; asmān—us; dustyaja—impossible to give up; dvandva—conjugal connection with whom; pārśvaṁ—to the side; satatam—always; urasi—on the chest; saumya—O gentle one; śrīḥ—the goddess of fortune; vadhūḥ—His consort; sākam—together with Him; āste—is present.

SYNONYMS

TRANSLATION

O friend of My dear one, has My beloved sent you here again? I should honor you, friend, so please choose whatever boon you wish. But why have you come back here to take us to Him, whose conjugal love is so difficult to give up? After all, gentle bee, His consort is the goddess Śrī, and she is always with Him, staying upon His chest.

PURPORT

In Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrīla Prabhupāda explains the context of this verse: "While Rādhārāṇī was talking with the bee and the bee was flying hither and thither, it all of a sudden disappeared from Her sight. She was in full mourning due to separation from Kṛṣṇa and felt ecstasy by talking with the bee. But as soon as the bee disappeared, She became almost mad, thinking that the messenger-bee might have returned to Kṛṣṇa to inform Him all about Her talking against Him. 'Kṛṣṇa must be very sorry to hear it,' She thought. In this way She was overwhelmed by another type of ecstasy.

"In the meantime, the bee, flying hither and thither, appeared before Her again. She thought, 'Kṛṣṇa is still kind to Me. In spite of the messenger's carrying disruptive messages, He is so kind that He has again sent the bee to take Me to Him.' Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī was very careful this time not to say anything against Kṛṣṇa."

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī explains that the goddess of fortune, Śrī, has the power to assume many different forms. Thus when Kṛṣṇa enjoys other women, she stays on His chest in the form of a golden line. When He is not consorting with other women, she puts aside this form and gives Him pleasure in Her naturally beautiful form of a young woman.

According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī, this statement of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī's expresses pratijalpa, as described by Śrīla Rūpa Gosvāmī:

*dustyaja-dvandva-bhāve 'smin prāptir nārhetu anuddhatam dūta-sammānanenoktam
yatra sa pratijalpakaḥ*

"When the lover humbly states that although she is unworthy of attaining her beloved she cannot give up hoping for a conjugal relationship with Him, such words, spoken with respect for her beloved's message, are called pratijalpa." (Ujjvala-nīlamanī 14.198)

Here Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī has given up Her harsh feelings and humbly acknowledges the greatness of Śrī Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 21

अपि बत मधुपुर्यामार्यपुत्रोऽधुनास्ते
स्मरति स पितृगेहान् सौम्य बन्धूंश्च गोपान्
क्वचिदपि स कथा नः किङ्करीणां गृणीते भुजमगुरुसुगन्धं मूर्धन्यधास्यत्कदा नु

api bata madhu-puryām ārya-putro 'dhunāste smarati sa pitṛ-gehān saumya bandhūṁś ca gopān kvacid api sa kathā naḥ kiṅkarīṇāṁ grṇīte bhujam aguru-sugandham mūrdhny adhāsyat kadā nu

SYNONYMS

api—certainly; bata—regrettable; madhu-puryām—in the city of Mathurā; ārya-putraḥ—the son of Nanda Mahārāja; adhunā—now; āste—resides;

smarati—remembers; saḥ—He; pitṛ-gehān—the household affairs of His father; saumya—O great soul (Uddhava); bandhūn—His friends; ca—and; gopān—the cowherd boys; kvacit—sometimes; api—or; saḥ—He; kathāḥ—talks; naḥ—of us; kiṅkarīṇām—of the maidservants; gṛṇīte—relates; bhujam—hand; aguru-su-gandham—having the fragrance of aguru; mūrdhni—on the head; adhāsyat—will keep; kadā—when; nu—maybe.

TRANSLATION

O Uddhava! It is indeed regrettable that Kṛṣṇa resides in Mathurā. Does He remember His father's household affairs and His friends, the cowherd boys? O great soul! Does He ever talk about us, His maidservants? When will He lay on our heads His aguru-scented hand?

PURPORT

The translation and word meanings for this verse are taken from Śrīla Prabhupāda's Caitanya-caritāmṛta (Ādi 6.68).

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī writes very poetically, with deep spiritual insight, about the emotions expressed in this and the previous nine verses. He interprets Rādhārāṇī's feelings as follows:

Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī thought, "Since Kṛṣṇa was once satisfied in Vraja but left for Mathurā City, won't He also develop a desire to leave that place and go somewhere else? Mathurā is so close to Vṛndāvana that it's possible He may even come back here.

"Kṛṣṇa is the son of a respectable gentleman, Nanda Mahārāja, so He must be staying in Mathurā because of His sense of obligation to His father, who authorized His going there. On the other hand, while Nanda's whole life is dedicated exclusively to Kṛṣṇa, Nanda is so innocent that he allowed himself to be tricked by the Yadus, who brought Kṛṣṇa to Mathurā. Kṛṣṇa must be thinking, 'Alas, alas! Since even My father could not bring Me back to Vraja, what can I do to return there?' Thus Kṛṣṇa must be impatient to come back here, and so He has sent you, a messenger.

"It is only because Nanda is so innocent that he allowed his son to leave. If Nanda had allowed Kṛṣṇa's mother, the queen of Vraja, to do so, she would have climbed onto Akrūra's chariot and, holding her son by the neck, gone off to Mathurā with Him, followed by all the gopīs. But this was not possible.

"Ever since Kṛṣṇa left, Nanda has been stunned by separation from Him, and Nanda's treasury rooms, storehouses, kitchens, sleeping quarters, opulent houses and so on are now vacant. Unswept and uncleansed, they are littered with grass, dust, leaves and cobwebs. Does Kṛṣṇa ever remember His father's houses? And does He sometimes remember Subala and His other friends, who are now lying stunned in other neglected houses?

"The women in Mathurā who now associate with Kṛṣṇa cannot know how to serve Him in the way that pleases Him most. When they see He is not satisfied and ask how they can make Him happy, does He tell them about us gopīs?

"Kṛṣṇa must tell them, 'You city ladies cannot please Me as much as the gopīs of Vraja. They are most expert in stringing flower garlands, perfuming their bodies with ointments, playing various rhythms and melodies on stringed instruments, dancing and singing in the rāsa performance, displaying their beauty, charm and cleverness, and skillfully playing at questions and answers. They are especially expert in the pastimes of meeting one's lover and showing jealous anger and other signs of pure love and affection.' Surely Kṛṣṇa must know this. Therefore He'll probably tell the women of Mathurā, 'My dear women of the Yadu clan, please go back to your families. I no longer desire to associate with you. In fact, I'm going back to Vraja early tomorrow morning.'

"When will Kṛṣṇa speak like this and come back here to place His hand, fragrant with aguru, on our heads? Then He will console us, saying, 'O beloveds of My heart, I swear to you that I will never abandon you again and go elsewhere. Indeed, I have not been able to find anyone in all the three worlds with even a trace of your good qualities' "

Thus Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī interprets the feelings of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. The ācārya further explains that the present text displays the speech called sujalpa, as described by Rūpa Gosvāmī:

*yatrārjavāt sa-gāmbhīryam sa-dainyam saha-cāpalam sotkaṇṭham ca hariḥ prṣṭaḥ
sa sujalpo nigadyate*

"When, out of honest sincerity, a lover questions Śrī Hari with gravity, humility, unsteadiness and eagerness, such speech is known as sujalpa." (Ujjvala-nīlamaṇi 14.200)

Concluding this section of Chapter Forty-seven, Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī explains that there are ten divisions of divine madness (divyonmāda), which are expressed by the ten divisions of citra-jalpa, or variegated speech. Such divine madness is shown in the special pastime of bewilderment, which is itself part of the supreme bliss, mahā-bhāva, of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. The ācārya quotes the following verses from Rūpa Gosvāmī's Ujjvala-nīlamaṇi (14.174, 178-80) to explain these ecstasies:

*prāyo vṛndāvaneśvaryām
mohano 'yam udañcati etasya mohanākhyasya
gatim kām apy upeyuṣaḥ*

bhramābhā kāpi vaicitrī divyonmāda itīryate udghūrṇā citra-jalpādyās tad-bhedā bahavo matāḥ

preṣṭhasya suhṛd-āloke

*gūḍha-roṣābhijṛmbhitaḥ bhūri-bhāva-mayo jalpo
yas tīvrotkaṇṭhitāntimaḥ*

citra-jalpo daśāṅgo 'yam prajalpaḥ parijalpaḥ vijalpo 'jjalpa-sañjalpaḥ avajalpo 'bhijalpitam

*ājalpaḥ pratijalpaś ca
sujalpaś ceti kīrtitaḥ*

"It is virtually only within the princess of Vṛndāvana [Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī] that the ecstasy of bewilderment arises. She has attained to a special stage of this bewilderment, a wonderful state that resembles delusion. Known as divyonmāda, it has many aspects, which come and go unsteadily, and one of these manifestations is citra-jalpa. This talk, induced by Her seeing Her beloved's friend, is filled with covered anger and comprises many different ecstasies. It culminates in Her intense, anxious eagerness.

"This citra-jalpa has ten divisions, known as prajalpa, parijalpa, vijalpa, ujjalpa, sañjalpa, avajalpa, abhijalpa, ājalpa, pratijalpa and sujalpa."

Finally, some authorities say that Kṛṣṇa Himself, eager to drink the sweetness of His beloved's speech, assumed the form of the messenger bee.

TEXT 22

श्रीशुक उवाच
अथोद्धवो निश्म्यैवं
कृष्णदर्शनलालसाः
सान्त्वयन् प्रियसन्देशैर्

गोपीरिदमभाषत

*śrī-śuka uvāca
athoddhavo niśamyaivam
kṛṣṇa-darśana-lālasāḥ
sāntvayan priya-sandēśair
gopīr idam abhāṣata*

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; atha—then; uddhavaḥ-Uddhava; niśamya—having heard; evam—thus; kṛṣṇa-darśana—after the sight of Kṛṣṇa; lālasāḥ—who were hankering; sāntvayan—pacifying; priya—of their beloved; sandēśaiḥ—with the messages; gopīḥ—to the cowherd girls; idam—this; abhāṣata—he said.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Having heard this, Uddhava then tried to pacify the gopīs, who were most eager to see Lord Kṛṣṇa. He thus began relating to them the message of their beloved.

TEXT 23

श्रीउद्धव उवाच
अहो यूयं स्म पूर्णार्था
भवत्यो लोकपूजिताः
वासुदेवे भगवति यासामित्यर्पितं मनः

śrī-uddhava uvāca
aho yūyam sma pūrṇārthā bhavatyo loka-pūjitāḥ
vāsudeve bhagavati
yāsām ity arpitam manaḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī-uddhavaḥ uvāca—Śrī Uddhava said; aho—indeed; yūyam—you; sma—surely; pūrṇa—fulfilled; arthāḥ—whose purposes; bhavatyaḥ—your good selves; loka—by all people; pūjitāḥ—worshiped; vāsudeve bhagavati—unto Lord Vāsudeva, Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead; yāsām—whose; iti—in this manner; arpitam—offered; manaḥ—the minds.

TRANSLATION

Śrī Uddhava said: Certainly you gopīs are all-successful and are universally worshiped because you have dedicated your minds in this way to the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Vāsudeva.

PURPORT

Although other devotees have certainly surrendered their minds unto the Lord, the gopīs are unique in the intensity of their love.

TEXT 24

दानव्रततपोहोम
जपस्वाध्यायसंयमैः
श्रेयोभिर्विविधैश्चान्यैः

कृष्णे भक्तिर्हि साध्यते

*dāna-vrata-tapo-homa
japa-svādhyāya-saṁyamaiḥ śreyobhir vividhaiś cānyaiḥ kṛṣṇe bhaktir hi sādhyate*

SYNONYMS

dāna—by charity; vrata—strict vows; tapas—austerities; homa—fire sacrifices; japa—private chanting of mantras; svādhyāya—study of Vedic texts; saṁyamaiḥ—and regulative principles; śreyobhiḥ—by auspicious practices; vividhaiḥ—various; ca—also; anyaiḥ—others; kṛṣṇe—to Lord Kṛṣṇa; bhaktiḥ—devotional service; hi—indeed; sādhyate—is realized.

TRANSLATION

Devotional service unto Lord Kṛṣṇa is attained by charity, strict vows, austerities and fire sacrifices, by japa, study of Vedic texts, observance of regulative principles and, indeed, by the performance of many other auspicious practices.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī explains the processes described here as follows. Dāna: donations given to Lord Viṣṇu and His devotees. Vrata: observing vows such as Ekādaśī. Tapas: renunciation of sense gratification for Kṛṣṇa's sake. Homa: fire sacrifices dedicated to Viṣṇu. Japa: privately chanting the holy names of the Lord. Svādhyāya: study and recitation of Vedic texts such as the Gopāla-tāpanī Upaniṣad.

TEXT 25

भगवत्युत्तमःश्लोके
भवतीभिरनुत्तमा
भक्तिः प्रवर्तिता दिष्ट्या मुनीनामपि दुर्लभा

bhagavatya uttamaḥ-śloke bhavatībhir anuttamā bhaktiḥ pravartitā diṣṭyā munīnām api durlabhā

SYNONYMS

bhagavati—for the Supreme Lord; uttamaḥ-śloke—who is glorified in sublime poetry; bhavatībhiḥ—by your good selves; anuttamā—unexcelled; bhaktiḥ—devotion; pravartitā—established; diṣṭyā—(congratulations on your) good fortune; munīnām—for great sages; api—even; durlabhā—hard to obtain.

TRANSLATION

By your great fortune you have established an unexcelled standard of pure devotion for the Lord, Uttamaḥśloka—a standard even the sages can hardly attain.

PURPORT

The term pravartitā indicates that the gopīs brought to this world a standard of pure love of God that was previously unknown on the earth. Thus Uddhava congratulates them on their unparalleled contribution to the religious life.

TEXT 26

दिष्ट्या पुत्रान् पतीन्देहान्
स्वजनान् भवनानि च
हित्वावृणीत यूयं यत् कृष्णाख्यं पुरुषं परम्

diṣṭyā putrān patīn dehān sva-janān bhavanāni ca hitvāvṛṇīta yūyam yat kṛṣṇākhyam puruṣam param

SYNONYMS

diṣṭyā—by good fortune; putrān—sons; patīn—husbands; dehān—bodies; sva-janān—relatives; bhavanāni—homes; ca—and; hitvā—leaving; avṛṇīta—did choose; yūyam—you; yat—the fact that; kṛṣṇa-ākhyam—named Kṛṣṇa; puruṣam—the male personality; param—supreme.

TRANSLATION

By your great fortune you have left your sons, husbands, bodily comforts, relatives and homes in favor of the supreme male, who is known as Kṛṣṇa.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī explains that the gopīs gave up their sense of possessiveness toward these objects. History shows that the gopīs remained in Vṛndāvana, living in their houses with their families. However, unlike ordinary persons, they entirely renounced the egoistical sense of possession of sons, husbands and so on. They never tried to enjoy them but rather gave their whole heart and mind to the Supreme Lord, as recommended in the great religious scriptures of the world. Following the example of the gopīs, we should love the Supreme Lord with all of our heart, soul and might.

TEXT 27

सर्वात्मभावोऽधिकृतो
भवतीनामधोक्षजे
विरहेण महाभागा महान्मेऽनुग्रहः कृतः

sarvātma-bhāvo 'dhikṛto bhavatīnām adhokṣaje virahēṇa mahā-bhāgā
mahān me 'nugrahaḥ kṛtaḥ

SYNONYMS

sarva-ātma—wholehearted; bhāvaḥ—love; adhikṛtaḥ—claimed by right; bhavatīnām—by you; adhokṣaje—for the transcendental Lord; virahēṇa—through this mood of separation; mahā-bhāgāḥ—O most glorious ones; mahān—great; me—to me; anugrahaḥ—mercy; kṛtaḥ—done.

TRANSLATION

You have rightfully claimed the privilege of unalloyed love for the transcendental Lord, O most glorious gopīs. Indeed, by exhibiting your love for Kṛṣṇa in separation from Him, you have shown me great mercy.

PURPORT

The gopīs showed not only Uddhava but the whole world the joy of love of Godhead, and thus they bestowed their mercy on everyone. According to Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī, because their loving devotion was executed in an appropriate way, their love brought the Supreme Lord under their control. Still, to show the intensity of their love, He apparently left them. But now He again manifested Himself among them, becoming spiritually present through their intense devotion.

TEXT 28

श्रूयतां प्रियसन्देशो
भवतीनां सुखावहः
यमादायागतो भद्रा अहं भर्तू रहस्करः

śrūyatām priya-sandeśo bhavatīnām sukhāvahaḥ yam ādāyāgato bhadra aham bhartū rahas-karaḥ

SYNONYMS

śrūyatām—please hear; priya—of your beloved; sandeśaḥ—the message; bhavatīnām—for you; sukha—happiness; āvahaḥ—bringing; yam—which; ādāya—carrying; āgataḥ—have come; bhadraḥ—good ladies; aham—I; bhartuḥ—of my master; rahaḥ—of confidential duties; karaḥ—the executor.

TRANSLATION

My good ladies, now please hear your beloved's message, which I, the confidential servant of my master, have come here to bring you.

TEXT 29

श्रीभगवानुवाच
भवतीनां वियोगो मे
न हि सर्वात्मना क्वचित्
यथा भूतानि भूतेषु
खं वाय्वग्निर्जलं मही
तथाहं च मनःप्राण-भूतेन्द्रियगुणाश्रयः

*śrī-bhagavān uvāca
bhavatīnām viyogo me na hi sarvātmanā kvacit yathā bhūtāni bhūteṣu kham vāyv-agnir jalam mahī tathāham ca manaḥ-prāṇabhūtendriya-guṇāśrayaḥ*

SYNONYMS

śrī-bhagavān uvāca—the Supreme Lord said; bhavatīnām—of you women; viyogaḥ—separation; me—from Me; na—is not; hi—indeed; sarva-ātmanā—from the Soul of all existence; kvacit—ever; yathā—as; bhūtāni—the physical elements; bhūteṣu—in all created beings; kham—the ether; vāyu-agniḥ—air and fire; jalam—water; mahī—earth; tathā—so; aham—I; ca—and; manaḥ—of the mind; prāṇa—vital air; bhūta—material elements; indriya—bodily senses; guṇa—and of the primal modes of nature; āśrayaḥ—present as their shelter.

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Lord said: You are never actually separated from Me, for I am the Soul of all creation. Just as the elements of nature—ether, air, fire, water and earth—are present in every created thing, so I am present within everyone's mind, life air and senses, and also within the physical elements and the modes of material nature.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī and Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī, the apparently philosophical language of the Lord's statement conceals a deeper meaning. The Supreme Lord was secretly telling the gopīs that He, by way of reciprocating their special love for Him, was present with them, not only as the Soul of all creation but also as their special lover. In this sense of the verse, the word guṇa indicates the gopīs' special divine qualities, which attracted Śrī Kṛṣṇa, and the word sarvātmanā, which we have here translated in reference to Lord Kṛṣṇa Himself (corresponding to the word me, which is also in the instrumental case), is also understood in the sense of sarvathā, or "completely." In other words, although in one sense Lord Kṛṣṇa was absent, He could never be completely absent, since in His spiritual form He is always in the hearts and minds of the gopīs.

In Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead and other books, Śrīla Prabhupāda has elaborately explained that the reason Lord Kṛṣṇa separated Himself from the gopīs was to intensify their love for Him and, as Uddhava noted, to bless other devotees by revealing to them the intensity of the gopīs' love. In fact, the Lord was spiritually present with the gopīs, since they are His eternal associates.

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī further points out that foolish persons will conclude that Śrī Kṛṣṇa's use of philosophical language meant that the Lord was trying to bring the gopīs to the point of liberation by explaining basic points of Kṛṣṇa conscious philosophy. In truth, the gopīs are the most exalted liberated souls, and their pastimes with Śrī Kṛṣṇa must be understood with the help of authorized ācāryas. When the gopīs came for the rāsa dance, Śrī Kṛṣṇa tried to preach karma-yoga to them, emphasizing ordinary ethics and morality, but the gopīs were beyond that. Similarly, Lord Kṛṣṇa now offers them jñāna-yoga, or metaphysical philosophy, but this is also inadequate for the gopīs, who have achieved spontaneous, unalloyed love for Śrī Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 30

आत्मन्येवात्मनात्मानं
सृजे हन्म्यनुपालये
आत्ममायानुभावेन
भूतेन्द्रियगुणात्मना

*ātmany evātmanātmānam
sṛje hanmy anupālaye
ātma-māyānubhāvena
bhūtendriya-guṇātmānā*

SYNONYMS

ātmani—within Myself; eva—indeed; ātmanā—by Myself; ātmānam—Myself; sṛje—I create; hanmi—I destroy; anupālaye—I sustain; ātma—My own; māyā—of the mystic potency; anubhāvena—by the power; bhūta—the material elements; indriya—the senses; guṇa—and the modes of nature; ātmanā—comprising.

TRANSLATION

By Myself I create, sustain and withdraw Myself within Myself by the power of My personal energy, which comprises the material elements, the senses and the modes of nature.

PURPORT

Although the Lord is the supreme entity, there is no absolute duality between Him and His creation, since the creation is an extension of His being. This oneness is here emphasized by the Lord.

TEXT 31

आत्मा ज्ञानमयः शुद्धो
व्यतिरिक्तोऽगुणान्वयः
सुषुप्तिस्वप्नजाग्रद्वि मायावृत्तिभिरीयते

*ātmā jñāna-mayaḥ śuddho vyatirikto 'aguṇānvayaḥ suṣupti-svapna-jāgradbhir
māyā-vṛttibhir īyate*

SYNONYMS

ātmā—the soul; jñāna-mayaḥ—comprising transcendental knowledge; śuddhaḥ—pure; vyatiriktaḥ—separate; aguṇa-anvayaḥ—uninvolved in the reactions of the material modes; suṣupti—in deep sleep; svapna—ordinary sleep; jāgradbhiḥ—and waking consciousness; māyā—of the material energy; vṛttibhiḥ—by the functions; īyate—is perceived.

TRANSLATION

Being composed of pure consciousness, or knowledge, the soul is distinct from everything material and is uninvolved in the entanglements of the modes of nature. We can perceive the soul through the three functions of material nature known as wakefulness, sleep and deep sleep.

PURPORT

It is clearly stated here that the soul, ātmā, is constituted of pure knowledge, pure consciousness, and is thus ontologically distinct from the material nature. Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī points out that the word ātmā may also be taken to mean "the Supreme Soul, Lord Kṛṣṇa." Since the Lord has just explained in the previous verses that all material phenomena are expansions of Himself, the phrase māyā-vṛttibhir īyate indicates that by studying this world deeply we will come to the perception of God. From this point of view also, the gopīs were advised not to lament.

TEXT 32

येनेन्द्रियार्थान्ध्यायेत
मृषा स्वप्नवदुत्थितः
तन्निरुन्ध्यादिन्द्रियाणि विनिद्रः प्रत्यपद्यत

yenendriyārthān dhyāyeta mṛṣā svapna-vad utthitaḥ tan nirundhyād indriyāṇi vinidraḥ pratyapadyata

SYNONYMS

yena—by which (mind); indriya—of the senses; arthān—upon the objects; dhyāyeta—one meditates; mṛṣā—false; svapna-vat—like a dream; utthitaḥ—arisen from sleep; tat—that (mind); nirundhyāt—one should bring under control; indriyāṇi—the senses; vinidraḥ—not sleeping (alert); pratyapadyata—they obtain.

TRANSLATION

As a person just arisen from sleep may continue to meditate on a dream even though it is illusory, so by the agency of the mind one meditates on the sense objects, which the senses can then obtain. Therefore one should become fully alert and bring the mind under control.

PURPORT

The verb pratipad means "to be perceived or restored." The soul that is vinidra, free from the dreamlike condition of material consciousness, is restored to its constitutional position as an eternal servitor of the Lord, Śrī Kṛṣṇa, and thus the soul is directly perceived by pure consciousness.

TEXT 33

एतदन्तः समाम्नायो
योगः साङ्ख्यं मनीषिणाम्
त्यागस्तपो दमः सत्यं समुद्रान्ता इवापगाः

*etat-antaḥ samāmnāyo
yogaḥ sāṅkhyam manīṣiṇām tyāgas tapo damaḥ satyam samudrāntā ivāpagāḥ*

SYNONYMS

etat—having this; antaḥ—as its conclusion; samāmnāyaḥ—the entire Vedic literature; yogaḥ—the standard system of yoga; sāṅkhyam—the process of Sāṅkhya meditation, by which one learns to discriminate between spirit and matter; manīṣiṇām—of the intelligent; tyāgaḥ—renunciation; tapah—austerity; damaḥ—sense control; satyam—and honesty; samudra-antāḥ—leading to the ocean; iva—as; āpa-gāḥ—rivers.

TRANSLATION

According to intelligent authorities, this is the ultimate conclusion of all the Vedas, as well as all practice of yoga, Sāṅkhya, renunciation, austerity, sense control and truthfulness, just as the sea is the ultimate destination of all rivers.

PURPORT

Here the Lord states that all Vedic literature is meant ultimately to bring the soul to the point of controlling the mind and senses and fixing them in transcendental self-realization. Thus processes of so-called yoga, mysticism or religion that involve unrestricted sense gratification are not actually spiritual processes but rather convenient ways for foolish people to justify their beastly behavior.

Lord Kṛṣṇa here assures the gopīs that by fixing their minds in self-realization, they will realize their spiritual oneness with the Lord. Thus they will no longer suffer the pangs of separation.

TEXT 34

यत्त्वहं भवतीनां वै
दूरे वर्ते प्रियो दृशाम्
मनसः सन्निकर्षार्थं मदनुध्यानकाम्यया

yat tv ahaṁ bhavatīnām vai dūre varte priyo dṛśām manasaḥ sannikarṣārthaṁ mad-anudhyāna-kāmyayā

SYNONYMS

yat—the fact that; tu—however; ahaṁ—I; bhavatīnām—from your; vai—indeed; dūre—far away; varte—am situated; priyaḥ—who am dear; dṛśām—to the eyes; manasaḥ—of the mind; sannikarṣa—of the attraction; arthaṁ—for the sake; mat—upon Me; anudhyāna.—for your meditation; kāmyayā—out of My desire.

TRANSLATION

But the actual reason why I, the beloved object of your sight, have stayed far away from you is that I wanted to intensify your meditation upon Me and thus draw your minds closer to Me.

PURPORT

Sometimes that which is close to our eyes is far from our heart and mind, and conversely absence makes the heart grow fonder. Although apparently going far away from the gopīs, Lord Kṛṣṇa was bringing them closer to Him on the spiritual platform.

TEXT 35

यथा दूरचरे प्रेष्ठे
मन आविश्य वर्तते
स्त्रीणां च न तथा चेतः सन्निकृष्टेऽक्षिगोचरे

yathā dūra-care preṣṭhe mana āviśya vartate strīṇāṁ ca na tathā cetaḥ sannikṛṣṭe 'kṣi-gocare

SYNONYMS

yathā—as; dūra-care—being situated far away; preṣṭhe—a lover; manaḥ—the minds; āviśya—becoming absorbed; vartate—remain; strīṇāṁ—of women; ca—and; na—not; tathā—so; cetaḥ—their minds; sannikṛṣṭe—when he is near; akṣi-gocare—present before their eyes.

TRANSLATION

When her lover is far away, a woman thinks of him more than when he is present before her.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī, the same holds true for men, who become more absorbed in thinking of a beloved woman when she is far away than when she is present before their eyes.

TEXT 36

मय्यावेश्य मनः कृत्स्नं
विमुक्ताशेषवृत्ति यत्
अनुस्मरन्त्यो मां नित्यम् अचिरान्मामुपैष्यथ

*mayy āveśya manaḥ kṛtsnam vimuktāśeṣa-vṛtti yat anusmarantyo mām nityam
acirān mām upaiṣyatha*

SYNONYMS

mayi—in Me; āveśya—absorbing; manaḥ—your minds; kṛtsnam—entire; vimukta—having given up; aśeṣa—all; vṛtti—its (material) functions; yat—because; anusmarantyaḥ—remembering; mām—Me; nityam—constantly; acirāt—soon; mām—Me; upaiṣyatha—you will obtain.

TRANSLATION

Because your minds are totally absorbed in Me and free from all other engagement, you remember Me always, and so you will very soon have Me again in your presence.

TEXT 37

या मया क्रीडता रात्र्यां

वनेऽस्मिन् व्रज आस्थिताः
अलब्धरासाः कल्याण्यो मापुर्मद्वीर्यचिन्तया

*yā mayā krīdatā rātryām
vane 'smin vraja āsthitāḥ
alabdha-rāsāḥ kalyāṇyo
māpur mad-vīrya-cintayā*

SYNONYMS

yāḥ—which women; mayā—with Me; krīdatā—who was sporting; rātryām—at night; vane—in the forest; asmin—this; vraje—in the village of Vraja; āsthitāḥ—remaining; alabdha—not experiencing; rāsāḥ—the rāsa dance; kalyāṇyaḥ—fortunate; mā—Me; āpuḥ—they achieved; mat-vīrya—upon My valorous pastimes; cintayā—by concentration.

TRANSLATION

Although some gopés had to remain in the cowherd village and so could not join the rāsa dance to sport with Me at night in the forest, they were nonetheless fortunate. Indeed, they attained Me by thinking of My potent pastimes.

TEXT 38

श्रीशुक उवाच
एवं प्रियतमादिष्टम्
आकर्ण्य व्रजयोषितः

ता ऊचुरुद्धवं प्रीतासु तत्सन्देशगतस्मृतीः

*śrī-śuka uvāca
evam priyatamādiṣṭam
ākarmaṇya vraja-yoṣitaḥ tā ūcur uddhavam prītās
tat-sandeśāgata-smṛtiḥ*

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; evam—in this fashion; priya-tama—given by their beloved (Kṛṣṇa); ādiṣṭam—the instructions; ākarmaṇya—hearing; vraja-yoṣitaḥ—the women of Vraja; tāḥ—they; ūcuḥ—said; uddhavam—to Uddhava; prītāḥ—pleased; tat—by that; sandeśa—message; āgata—having returned; smṛtiḥ—their memories.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: The women of Vraja were pleased to hear this message from their dearest Kṛṣṇa. His words having revived their memory, they addressed Uddhava as follows.

TEXT 39

गोप्य ऊचुः
दिष्ट्याहितो हतः कंसो
यदूनां सानुगोऽघकृत
दिष्ट्यासैर्लब्धसर्वार्थैः

कुशल्यास्तेऽच्युतोऽधुना

*gopya ūcuḥ
diṣṭyāhito hataḥ kaṁso yadūnām sānugo 'gha-kṛt diṣṭyāptair labdha-sarvārthaiḥ kuśaly āste 'cyuto 'dhunā*

SYNONYMS

gopyaḥ ūcuḥ—the gopīs said; diṣṭyā—fortunately; ahitaḥ—the enemy; hataḥ—has been killed; kaṁsaḥ—King Kaṁsa; yadūnām—for the Yadus; sa-anugaḥ—together with his followers; agha—of suffering; kṛt—the cause; diṣṭyā—fortunately; āptaiḥ—with His well-wishers; labdha—who have attained; sarva—all; arthaiḥ—their desires; kuśalī—happily; āste—is living; acyutaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; adhunā—at present.

TRANSLATION

The gopīs said: It is very good that Kaṁsa, the enemy and persecutor of the Yadus, has now been killed, along with his followers. And it is also very good that Lord Acyuta is living happily in the company of His well-wishing friends and relatives, whose every desire is now fulfilled.

TEXT 40

कच्चिद्गदाग्रजः सौम्य
करोति पुरयोषिताम्
प्रीतिं नः स्निग्धसत्रीड-

हासोदारेक्षणार्चितः

kaccid gadāgrajaḥ saumya karoti pura-yoṣitām prītiṁ naḥ snigdha-savṛīḍahāsodārekṣaṇārcitaḥ

SYNONYMS

kaccit—perhaps; gada-agrajaḥ—Kṛṣṇa, the elder brother of Gada; saumya—O gentle (Uddhava); karoti—is giving; pura—of the city; yoṣitām—for the women; prītiṁ—loving happiness; naḥ—which belongs to us; snigdha—affectionate; sa-vṛīḍa—and bashful; hāsa—with smiles; udāra—generous; īkṣaṇa—by their glances; arcitaḥ—worshiped.

TRANSLATION

Gentle Uddhava, is the elder brother of Gada now bestowing on the city women the pleasure that actually belongs to us? We suppose those ladies worship Him with generous glances full of affectionate, shy smiles.

PURPORT

The name Gadāgraja indicates Kṛṣṇa, the elder brother (agraja) of Gada, the first son of Devarakṣitā. She was a sister of Devakī's who was also married to Vasudeva. The gopīs, by addressing Kṛṣṇa in this way, indicate that He now thinks of Himself mostly as the son of Devakī, the implication being that His connection with Vṛndāvana has now slackened. Because of intense love, the gopīs could not stop thinking of Kṛṣṇa for a moment.

TEXT 41

कथं रतिविशेषज्ञः
प्रियश्च पुरयोषिताम्
नानुबध्येत तद्वाक्यैर् विभ्रमैश्चानुभाजितः

katham rati-viśeṣa-jñah priyaś ca pura-yoṣitām nānubadhyeta tad-vākyaair vibhramaiś cānubhājitaḥ

SYNONYMS

katham—how; rati—of conjugal affairs; viśeṣa—in all the specific aspects; jñah—the expert; priyaḥ—the darling; ca—and; pura-yoṣitām—of the city women; na anubadhyeta—will not become bound; tat—by their; vākyaiḥ—words; vibhramaiḥ—bewildering gestures; ca—and; anubhājitaḥ—constantly worshiped.

TRANSLATION

Śrī Kṛṣṇa is expert in all kinds of conjugal affairs and is the darling of the city women. How can He not become entangled, now that He's constantly adored by their enchanting words and gestures?

PURPORT

According to Śrīdhara Svāmī, each of these verses is spoken by a different gopī.

TEXT 42

अपि स्मरति नः साधो
गोविन्दः प्रस्तुते क्वचित्
गोष्ठिमध्ये पुरस्त्रीणाम् ग्राम्याः स्वैरकथान्तरे

api smarati naḥ sādho govindaḥ prastute kvacit goṣṭhi-madhye pura-strīṇām grāmyāḥ svaira-kathāntare

SYNONYMS

api—moreover; smarati—remembers; naḥ—us; sādho—O pious one; govindaḥ—Kṛṣṇa; prastute—brought up in discussions; kvacit—ever; goṣṭhi—the assembly; madhye—within; pura-strīṇām—of the city women; grāmyāḥ—village girls; svaira—free; kathā—conversation; antare—during.

TRANSLATION

O saintly one, does Govinda ever remember us during His conversations with the city women? Does He ever mention us village girls as He freely talks with them?

PURPORT

The gopīs were so completely in love with Kṛṣṇa, without selfish motive, that even in their great disappointment they never considered giving their love to another. Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī interprets their feelings as follows.

The gopīs might say, "Surely Kṛṣṇa has abandoned us because we deserve to be abandoned. Indeed, we are the most insignificant women in the world and have been rejected after having been enjoyed. Still, do we sometimes enter into His memory on account of some good quality of ours, or even because of something we did wrong? Kṛṣṇa must speak very freely with the city women. He and they must sing, joke, make riddles and talk about so many things. Does Kṛṣṇa ever say, 'My dear city women, your sophisticated singing and speech is unknown to the gopīs in My home village. They couldn't understand these things.' Does He ever speak about us even in that way?"

TEXT 43

ताः किं निशाः स्मरति यासु तदा प्रियाभिरू
वृन्दावने कुमुदकुन्दशशाङ्करम्ये
रेमे क्णच्चरणनूपुरासगोष्ठ्याम् अस्माभिरीडितमनोज्ञकथः कदाचित्

tāḥ kiṁ niśāḥ smarati yāsu tadā priyābhir vṛndāvane kumuda-kunda-śaśāṅka-ramye reme kvaṇac-caraṇa-nūpura-rāsa-goṣṭhyām asmābhir īḍita-manojña-kathaḥ kadācit

SYNONYMS

tāḥ—those; kiṁ—whether; niśāḥ—nights; smarati—He remembers; yāsu—in which; tadā—then; priyābhiḥ—with His beloved girlfriends; vṛndāvane—in the Vṛndāvana forest; kumuda—because of the lotuses; kunda—and jasmines; śaśāṅka—and because of the moon; ramye—attractive; reme—He enjoyed; kvaṇat—jingling; caraṇa-nūpura—(where) the ankle bells; rāsa-goṣṭhyām—in the party of the rāsa dance; asmābhiḥ—with us; īḍita—glorified; manojña—charming; kathaḥ—topics about whom; kadācit—ever.

TRANSLATION

Does He recall those nights in the Vṛndāvana forest, lovely with lotus, jasmine and the bright moon? As we glorified His charming pastimes, He enjoyed with us, His beloved girlfriends, in the circle of the rāsa dance, which resounded with the music of ankle bells.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī gives the following deep realization about this verse: "The gopīs knew that no place could be as beautiful as Vṛndāvana. Nowhere else in the universe could one find such a charming scene as the Vṛndāvana forest, which was scented with pious flowers and illumined by the full moon's light reflected from the serene waves of the sacred Yamunā River. No one loved Kṛṣṇa as much as the gopīs, and thus no one else could understand Him as well. The gopīs rendered intimate service to Kṛṣṇa that only they could perfect. Thus the gopīs were distraught to think that Lord Kṛṣṇa was bereft of Vṛndāvana and bereft of their service. Free of all material lust, they were overwhelmed with disappointment because they could not give Kṛṣṇa happiness by their loving service. They simply could not imagine Kṛṣṇa enjoying anywhere else as He did in Vṛndāvana in their company."

TEXT 44

अप्येष्यतीह दाशार्हस
तप्ताः स्वकृतया शुचा
सञ्जीवयन्तु नो गात्रैर् यथेन्द्रो वनमम्बुदैः

apy eṣyatīha dāśārhas

taptāḥ sva-kṛtayā śucā sañjīvayan nu no gātrair yathendro vanam ambudaiḥ

SYNONYMS

api—whether; eṣyati—He will come; iha—here; dāśārhaḥ—Kṛṣṇa, the descendant of Daśārha; taptāḥ—who are tormented; sva-kṛtayā—by His own doing; śucā—with sorrow; sañjīvayan—bringing back to life; nu—perhaps; naḥ—us; gātraiḥ—with (the touch of) His limbs; yathā—as; indraḥ—Lord Indra; vanam—a forest; ambudaiḥ—with clouds.

TRANSLATION

Will that descendant of Daśārha return here and by the touch of His limbs bring back to life those who are now burning with the grief He Himself has caused? Will He save us in that way, just as Lord Indra brings a forest back to life with his water-bearing clouds?

TEXT 45

कस्मात्कृष्ण इहायाति
प्राप्तराज्यो हताहितः
नरेन्द्रकन्या उद्वाह्य प्रीतः सर्वसुहृद्वृतः

*kasmāt kṛṣṇa ihāyāti
prāpta-rājyo hatāhitaḥ narendra-kanyā udvāhya
prītaḥ sarva-suhṛd-vṛtaḥ*

SYNONYMS

kasmāt—why; kṛṣṇaḥ—Kṛṣṇa; iha—here; āyāti—will come; prāpta—having attained; rājyaḥ—a kingdom; hata—having killed; ahitaḥ—His enemies; nara-indra—of kings; kanyāḥ—the daughters; udvāhya—after marrying; prītaḥ—happy; sarva—by all; suhṛt—His well-wishers; vṛtaḥ—surrounded.

TRANSLATION

But why should Kṛṣṇa come here after winning a kingdom, killing His enemies and marrying the daughters of kings? He's satisfied there, surrounded by all His friends and well-wishers.

TEXT 46

किमस्माभिर्वनौकोभिर्
अन्याभिर्वा महात्मनः
श्रीपतेराप्तकामस्य क्रियेतार्थः कृतात्मनः

kim asmābhir vanaukobhir anyābhir vā mahātmanaḥ śrī-pater āpta-kāmasya kriyetārthaḥ kṛtātmanaḥ

SYNONYMS

kim—what; asmābhiḥ—with us; vana—the forest; okobhiḥ—whose residence; anyābhiḥ—with other women; vā—or; mahā-ātmanaḥ—for the exalted personality (Kṛṣṇa); śrī—of the goddess of fortune; pateḥ—for the husband;

āpta-kāmasya—whose desires are already completely fulfilled; kriyeta—is to be served; arthaḥ—purpose; kṛta-ātmanaḥ—for Him who is complete in Himself.

TRANSLATION

The great soul Kṛṣṇa is the Lord of the goddess of fortune, and He automatically achieves whatever He desires. How can we forest-dwellers or any other women fulfill His purposes when He is already fulfilled within Himself?

PURPORT

Although the gopīs lamented that Kṛṣṇa was associating with the city women in Mathurā, they now realize that as the absolute Personality of Godhead, He has no need for any women. It is out of His causeless mercy that He awards His association to His loving devotees.

TEXT 47

परं सौख्यं हि नैराश्यं
स्वैरिण्यप्याह पिङ्गला
तज्ज्ञानतीनां नः कृष्णे तथाप्याशा दुरत्यया

*param saukhyam hi nairāśyam svairiṇy apy āha piṅgalā taj jānatīnām naḥ kṛṣṇe
tathāpy āśā duratyayā*

SYNONYMS

param—the highest; saukhyam—happiness; hi—indeed;

nairāśyam—indifference; svairiṇī—unchaste; api—although; āha—stated; piṅgalā—the prostitute Piṅgalā; tat—of that; jānatīnām—who are aware; naḥ—for us; kṛṣṇe—focused on Kṛṣṇa; tathā api—nevertheless; āsā—the hope; duratyayā—is impossible to transcend.

TRANSLATION

Indeed, the greatest happiness is to renounce all desires, as even the prostitute Piṅgalā has declared. Yet even though we know this, we cannot give up our hopes of attaining Kṛṣṇa.

PURPORT

The story of Piṅgalā is narrated in the Eleventh Canto, Eighth Chapter, of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam.

TEXT 48

क उत्सहेत सन्त्यक्तुम्
उत्तमःश्लोकसंविदम्
अनिच्छतोऽपि यस्य श्रीर् अङ्गान्न च्यवते क्वचित्

ka utsaheta santyaktum uttamaḥśloka-saṁvidam anicchato 'pi yasya śrīr
aṅgān na cyavate kvacit

SYNONYMS

kaḥ—who; utsaheta—can bear; santyaktum—to give up; uttamaḥśloka—with

Lord Kṛṣṇa; saṁvidam—intimate talks; anicchataḥ—not wanted; api—even though; yasya—whose; śrīḥ—the supreme goddess of fortune; aṅgāt—the body; na cyavate—does not let go of; kvacit—ever.

TRANSLATION

Who can bear to give up intimate talks with Lord Uttamaḥśloka? Although He shows no interest in her, Goddess Śrī never moves from her place on His chest.

TEXT 49

सरिच्छैलवनोद्देश
गावो वेणुरवा इमे
सङ्कर्षणसहायेन
कृष्णेनाचरिताः प्रभो

saric-chaila-vanoddeśā
gāvo veṇu-ravā ime saṅkarṣaṇa-sahāyena kṛṣṇenācaritāḥ prabho

SYNONYMS

sarit—rivers; śaila—hills; vana-uddeśāḥ—and areas of the forest; gāvaḥ—cows; veṇu-ravāḥ—flute sounds; ime—all these; saṅkarṣaṇa—Lord Balarāma; sahāyena—whose companion; kṛṣṇena—by Kṛṣṇa; ācaritāḥ—utilized; prabho—O master (Uddhava).

TRANSLATION

Dear Uddhava Prabhu, when Kṛṣṇa was here in the company of Saṅkarṣaṇa, He enjoyed all these rivers, hills, forests, cows and flute sounds.

TEXT 50

पुनः पुनः स्मारयन्ति
नन्दगोपसुतं बत
श्रीनिकेतैस्तत्पदकैर् विस्मर्तुं नैव शक्नुमः

punaḥ punaḥ smārayanti nanda-gopa-sutaṁ bata śrī-niketais tat-padakair vismartuṁ naiva śaknumaḥ

SYNONYMS

punaḥ punaḥ—again and again; smārayanti—they remind; nanda-gopa-sutam—of the son of Nanda, the cowherd king; bata—certainly; śrī—divine; niketaiḥ—having markings; tat—His; padakaiḥ—because of the footprints; vismartum—to forget; na—not; eva—indeed; śaknumaḥ—are we able.

TRANSLATION

All these remind us constantly of Nanda's son. Indeed, because we see Kṛṣṇa's footprints, which are marked with divine symbols, we can never forget Him.

TEXT 51

गत्या ललितयोदार-हासलीलावलोकनैः
माध्व्या गिरा हृतधियः कथं तं विस्मराम हे

gatyā lalitayodārahāsa-līlāvalokanaiḥ mādhvyā girā hṛta-dhiyaḥ katham taṁ vismarāma he

SYNONYMS

gatyā—by His gait; lalitayā—charming; udāra—with generous; hāsa—smiles; līlā—playful; avalokanaiḥ—by His glances; mādhvyā—honeylike; girā—by His words; hṛta—stolen away; dhiyaḥ—whose hearts; katham—how; taṁ—Him; vismarāma—we can forget; he—O (Uddhava).

TRANSLATION

O Uddhava, how can we forget Him when our hearts have been stolen away by the charming way He walks, His generous smile and playful glances, and His honeylike words?

TEXT 52

हे नाथ हे रमानाथ
ब्रजनाथार्तिनाशन
मग्नमुद्धर गोविन्द

गोकुलं वृजिनार्णवात्

*he nātha he ramā-nātha
vraja-nāthārti-nāśana magmam uddhara govinda gokulam vṛjinārṇavāt*

SYNONYMS

he nātha—O master; he ramā-nātha—O master of the goddess of fortune; vraja-nātha—O master of the cowherd village; ārti—of suffering; nāśana—O destroyer; magmam—submerged; uddhara—uplift; govinda—O Govinda; gokulam—Gokula; vṛjina—of distress; arṇavāt—from the ocean.

TRANSLATION

O master, O master of the goddess of fortune, O master of Vraja! O destroyer of all suffering, Govinda, please lift Your Gokula out of the ocean of distress in which it is drowning!

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī presents the following insight into this scene: Someone might propose to the gopīs, "Why don't you just go somewhere else? Leave Vṛndāvana, and then you won't have to see these rivers, mountains and forests. Cover your eyes with your garments, use your intelligence to lead your minds to some other thought, and thus forget Kṛṣṇa." The gopīs answer this suggestion in the previous verse by stating, "We no longer possess our intelligence, for Kṛṣṇa has taken it away by His supreme beauty and charm."

Now in the present verse the feelings of the gopīs become so strong that they disregard Uddhava and, turning toward Mathurā, address Kṛṣṇa Himself with humble cries. They address Kṛṣṇa as Vrajanātha because in the past young Kṛṣṇa performed many inconceivable pastimes to protect His beloved village people, such as lifting Govardhana Hill and destroying many monstrous demons. In this heartrending verse, the gopīs cry out to Kṛṣṇa to remember the wonderful, sweet relationship they once enjoyed together as innocent village people. Indeed, Śrī Kṛṣṇa would lovingly take care of His father's cows, and the gopīs appealed to Him to remember these duties and return so He could resume them.

TEXT 53

श्रीशुक उवाच
ततस्ताः कृष्णसन्देशैर्
व्यपेतविरहज्वराः
उद्धवं पूजयां चक्रुर् ज्ञात्वात्मानमधोक्षजम्

śrī-śuka uvāca
tatas tāḥ kṛṣṇa-sandeśair vyapeta-viraha-jvarāḥ uddhavaṁ pūjayāṁ cakrur jñātvātmānam adhokṣajam

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; tataḥ—then; tāḥ—they; kṛṣṇa-sandeśaiḥ—by the messages from Kṛṣṇa; vyapeta—removed; viraha—of their separation; jvarāḥ—the fever; uddhavam—Uddhava; pūjayāṁ cakruḥ—worshipped; jñātvā—recognizing him; ātmānam—Himself; adhokṣajam—as the Supreme Lord.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī continued: Lord Kṛṣṇa's messages having relieved their fever of separation, the gopīs then worshiped Uddhava, recognizing him as nondifferent from their Lord, Kṛṣṇa.

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī states that the words jñatvātmānam adhokṣajam also indicate that the gopīs recognize Lord Kṛṣṇa to be the very soul of their lives and thus spiritually one with them.

TEXT 54

उवास कतिचिन्मासान्
गोपीनां विनुदन् शुचः
कृष्णलीलाकथां गायन् रमयामास गोकुलम्

*uvāsa katicin māsān
gopīnām vinudan śucaḥ kṛṣṇa-līlā-kathām gāyan
ramayām āsa gokulam*

SYNONYMS

uvāsa—he resided; katicit—for some; māsān—months; gopīnām—of the cowherd girls; vinudan—dispelling; śucaḥ—the unhappiness; kṛṣṇa-līlā—of the pastimes of Lord Kṛṣṇa; kathām—the topics; gāyan—singing; ramayām āsa—he gave joy; gokulam—to Gokula.

TRANSLATION

Uddhava remained there for several months, dispelling the gopés' sorrow by chanting the topics of Lord Kṛṣṇa's pastimes. Thus he brought joy to all the people of Gokula.

PURPORT

The great ācārya Jīva Gosvāmī comments in this regard that Uddhava, during his stay in Vṛndāvana, certainly took special care to enliven Kṛṣṇa's foster parents, Nanda and Yaśodā.

TEXT 55

यावन्त्यहानि नन्दस्य
ब्रजेऽवात्सीत्स उद्धवः
ब्रजौकसां क्षणप्रायाण्य आसन् कृष्णस्य वार्तया

*yāvanty ahāni nandasya
vraje 'vātsīt sa uddhavaḥ vrajaaukasām kṣaṇa-prāyāṇy āsan kṛṣṇasya vārtayā*

SYNONYMS

yāvanti—for as many; ahāni—days; nandasya—of King Nanda; vraje—in the cowherd village; avātsīt—dwelled; saḥ—he; uddhavaḥ—Uddhava; vraja-okasām—for the residents of Vraja; kṣaṇa-prāyāṇi—passing like a moment; āsan—they were; kṛṣṇasya—about Kṛṣṇa; vārtayā—because of the discussions.

TRANSLATION

All the days that Uddhava dwelled in Nanda's cowherd village seemed like a single moment to the residents of Vraja, for Uddhava was always discussing Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 56

सरिद्वनगिरिद्रोणीर्
वीक्षन् कुसुमितान्द्रुमान्
कृष्णं संस्मारयन् रेमे हरिदासो व्रजौकसाम्

sarid-vana-giri-droṇīr vīkṣan kusumitān drumān kṛṣṇaṁ saṁsmārayan reme hari-dāso vrajaukasām

SYNONYMS

sarit—the rivers; vana—forests; giri—mountains; droṇīḥ—and valleys; vīkṣan—seeing; kusumitān—flowering; drumān—the trees; kṛṣṇam—about Kṛṣṇa; saṁsmārayan—inspiring remembrance; reme—he took pleasure; hari-dāsaḥ—the servant of Lord Hari; vraja-okasām—for the residents of Vraja.

TRANSLATION

That servant of Lord Hari, seeing the rivers, forests, mountains, valleys and flowering trees of Vraja, enjoyed inspiring the inhabitants of Vṛndāvana by reminding them of Lord Kṛṣṇa.

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī points out that as Uddhava wandered about Vṛndāvana, he reminded Vraja's residents of Kṛṣṇa by asking them questions about the pastimes the Lord had performed in each of these places, namely the rivers, forests, mountains and valleys. Thus Uddhava himself enjoyed great transcendental bliss in their association.

TEXT 57

दृष्ट्वैवमादि गोपीनां
कृष्णावेशात्मविकलवम्
उद्धवः परमप्रीतस् ता नमस्यन्निदं जगौ

*dr̥ṣṭvaivam-ādi gopīnām kṛṣṇāveśātma-viklavam uddhavaḥ parama-prītas
tā namasyann idam jagau*

SYNONYMS

dr̥ṣṭvā—seeing; evam—such; ādi—and more; gopīnām—of the gopīs; kṛṣṇa-āveśa—their total absorption in thought of Kṛṣṇa; ātma—consisting of; viklavam—the mental agitation; uddhavaḥ—Uddhava; parama—supremely; prītaḥ—pleased; tāḥ—to them; namasyan—offering all respect; idam—this;

jagau—sang.

TRANSLATION

Thus seeing how the gopīs were always disturbed because of their total absorption in Kṛṣṇa, Uddhava was supremely pleased. Desiring to offer them all respect, he sang as follows.

PURPORT

Viklava, "mental disturbance," should not be confused here with ordinary material distress. It is clearly stated that Uddhava was supremely pleased, and he felt this way because he saw that the gopīs had attained the highest state of loving ecstasy. Uddhava was an exalted member of the court in Dvārakā, an important minister in world political affairs, and yet he felt the spiritual urge to offer his obeisances to the glorious gopīs, although externally they were mere cowherd girls in an insignificant village called Vṛndāvana. Thus, to explain his feelings he sang the following verses. Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī states that Uddhava sang these verses daily while he was in Vṛndāvana.

TEXT 58

एताः परं तनुभृतो भुवि गोपवध्वो
गोविन्द एव निखिलात्मनि रूढभावाः
वाञ्छन्ति यद्भवभियो मुनयो वयं च किं ब्रह्मजन्मभिरनन्तकथारसस्य

etāḥ param tanu-bhṛto bhuvi gopa-vadhvo govinda eva nikhilātmani rūḍha-bhāvāḥ vāñchanti yad bhava-bhiyo munayo vayaṁ ca

kim brahma-janmabhir ananta-kathā-rasasya

SYNONYMS

etāḥ—these women; param—alone; tanu—their bodies; bhṛtaḥ—maintain successfully; bhuvi—on the earth; gopa-vadhvaḥ—the young cowherd women; govinde—for Lord Kṛṣṇa; eva—exclusively; nikhila—of all; ātmani—the Soul; rūḍha—perfected; bhāvāḥ—ecstatic loving attraction; vāñchanti—they desire; yat—which; bhava—material existence; bhiyaḥ—those who are afraid of; munayaḥ—sages; vayam—we; ca—also; kim—what use; brahma—as a brāhmaṇa or as Lord Brahmā; janmabhiḥ—with births; ananta—of the unlimited Lord; kathā—for the topics; rasasya—for one who has a taste.

TRANSLATION

[Uddhava sang:] Among all persons on earth, these cowherd women alone have actually perfected their embodied lives, for they have achieved the perfection of unalloyed love for Lord Govinda. Their pure love is hankered after by those who fear material existence, by great sages, and by ourselves as well. For one who has tasted the narrations of the infinite Lord, what is the use of taking birth as a high-class brāhmaëa, or even as Lord Brahmā himself?

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī explains that here the term brahma-janmabhiḥ, "brahminical births," refers to the threefold birth by (1) seminal parenthood, (2) sacred-thread initiation and (3) sacrificial initiation. These cannot compare to pure Kṛṣṇa consciousness. In fact, Śrī Uddhava, who spoke this verse, took birth as a pure brāhmaṇa, but he deprecates this position in comparison to that of the exalted gopīs.

TEXT 59

क्वेमाः स्त्रियो वनचरीर्व्यभिचारदुष्टाः
कृष्णे क्व चैष परमात्मनि रूढभावः
नन्वीश्वरोऽनुभजतोऽविदुषोऽपि साक्षाच्च छ्रेयस्तनोत्यगदराज इवोपयुक्तः

kvemāḥ striyo vana-carīr vyabhicāra-duṣṭāḥ kṛṣṇe kva caiṣa paramātmāni rūḍha-bhāvaḥ nanv īśvaro 'nubhajato 'viduṣo 'pi sākṣāc chreyas tanoty agada-rāja ivopayuktaḥ

SYNONYMS

kva—where, in comparison; imāḥ—these; striyaḥ—women; vana—in the forests; carīḥ—who wander; vyabhicāra—by improper behavior; duṣṭāḥ—contaminated; kṛṣṇe—for Kṛṣṇa; kva ca—and where; eṣaḥ—this; parama-ātmāni—for the Supreme Soul; rūḍha-bhāvaḥ—stage of perfect love (known technically as mahā-bhāva); nanu—certainly; īśvaraḥ—the Personality of Godhead; anubhajataḥ—to one who constantly worships Him; aviduṣaḥ—not learned; api—even though; sākṣāt—directly; śreyaḥ—the highest good; tanoti—bestows; agada—of medicines; rājaḥ—the king (namely, the nectar which the demigods drink for long life); iva—as if; upayuktaḥ—taken.

TRANSLATION

How amazing it is that these simple women who wander about the forest, seemingly spoiled by improper behavior, have achieved the perfection of unalloyed love for Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Soul! Still, it is true that the Supreme Lord Himself awards His blessings even to an ignorant worshiper, just as the best medicine works even when taken by a person ignorant of its ingredients.

PURPORT

The use of the word kva in the first two lines indicates a sharp contrast between apparently incompatible items, in this case the apparently insignificant and even impure position of the gopīs, mentioned in the first line, and their attainment of the highest perfection of life, mentioned in the second. In this regard Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī describes three types of adulterous women. The first is a woman who enjoys both her husband and a lover, being faithful to neither. Both ordinary society and the scriptures condemn this conduct. The second type of adulterous woman is she who abandons her husband to enjoy only with her lover. Society and the scriptures also condemn this behavior, although such a fallen woman may be said to at least have the good quality of dedicating herself to a single man. The last kind of adulterous woman is she who abandons her husband and enjoys in the attitude of being a lover of the Supreme Lord alone. Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī explains that although foolish, common people criticize this position, such behavior is commended by those who are wise in spiritual science. Therefore learned members of society and the revealed scriptures praise such single-minded devotion to the Lord. Such was the gopīs' behavior. Thus the term vyabhicāra-duṣṭāḥ, "corrupted by deviation," indicates the apparent resemblance between the gopīs' behavior and that of ordinary adulterous women.

TEXT 60

नायं श्रियोऽङ्ग उ नितान्तरतेः प्रसादः
स्वर्योषितां नलिनगन्धरुचां कुतोऽन्याः
रासोत्सवेऽस्य भुजदण्डगृहीतकण्ठ-

लब्धाशिषां य उदगाद् व्रजवल्लभीनाम्

nāyam śriyo 'nga u nitānta-rateḥ prasādaḥ svar-yoṣitām nalina-gandha-rucām kuto 'nyāḥ rāsotsave 'sya bhuja-daṇḍa-grhīta-kaṇṭhalabdhāśiṣām ya udagād vraja-vallabhīnām

SYNONYMS

na—not; ayam—this; śriyaḥ—of the goddess of fortune; aṅge—on the chest; u—alas; nitānta-rateḥ—who is very intimately related; prasādaḥ—the favor; svaḥ—of the heavenly planets; yoṣitām—of women; nalina—of the lotus flower; gandha—having the aroma; rucām—and bodily luster; kutaḥ—much less; anyāḥ—others; rasa-utsave—in the festival of the rāsa dance; asya—of Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa; bhuja-daṇḍa—by the arms; grhīta—embraced; kaṇṭha—their necks; labdha-āśiṣām—who achieved such a blessing; yaḥ—which; udagāt—became manifest; vraja-vallabhīnām—of the beautiful gopīs, the transcendental girls of Vrajabhūmi.

TRANSLATION

When Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa was dancing with the gopīs in the rāsa-līlā, the gopīs were embraced by the arms of the Lord. This transcendental favor was never bestowed upon the goddess of fortune or other consorts in the spiritual world. Indeed, never was such a thing even imagined by the most beautiful girls in the heavenly planets, whose bodily luster and aroma resemble the lotus flower. And what to speak of worldly women who are very beautiful according to material estimation?

PURPORT

The word meanings and translation for this verse are taken from Śrīla

Prabhupāda's English rendering of Caitanya-caritāmṛta (Madhya 8.80).

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī comments as follows: Lord Kṛṣṇa, the best of all avatāras, exists on the highest platform of purity and morality, and thus He always remained praiseworthy by all, even while accepting worldly criticism for His cow-tending, wandering in the forest, taking meals with young monkeys, stealing yogurt, seducing other men's wives, and so on. Similarly, the gopīs, who are constituted of the Lord's pleasure potency, achieved the highest standard of purity and auspiciousness, even in comparison to the goddesses of fortune, and thus the gopīs are supremely glorious, even though they were criticized by worldly people because they were mere cowherd women living in the forest and behaving in an apparently improper way.

TEXT 61

आसामहो चरणरेणुजुषामहं स्यां
वृन्दावने किमपि गुल्मलतौषधीनाम्
या दुस्त्यजं स्वजनमार्यपथं च हित्वा भेजुर्मुकुन्दपदवीं श्रुतिभिर्विमृग्याम्

āsām aho caraṇa-reṇu-juṣām ahaṁ syām vṛndāvane kim api gulma-latauṣadhīnām yā dustyajam sva-janam ārya-patham ca hitvā bhejur mukunda-padavīm śrutibhir vimṛgyām

SYNONYMS

āsām—of the gopīs; aho—oh; caraṇa-reṇu—the dust of the lotus feet; juṣām—devoted to; ahaṁ syām—let me become; vṛndāvane—in Vṛndāvana; kim api—any one; gulma-latā-oṣadhīnām—among bushes, creepers and herbs; yā—they who; dustyajam—very difficult to give up; sva-janam—family members; ārya-patham—the path of chastity; ca—and; hitvā—giving up; bhejuḥ—worshiped; mukunda-padavīm—the lotus feet of Mukunda, Kṛṣṇa; śrutibhiḥ—by the Vedas; vimṛgyām—to be searched for.

TRANSLATION

The gopés of Vṛndāvana have given up the association of their husbands, sons and other family members, who are very difficult to give up, and they have forsaken the path of chastity to take shelter of the lotus feet of Mukunda, Kṛṣṇa, which one should search for by Vedic knowledge. Oh, let me be fortunate enough to be one of the bushes, creepers or herbs in Vṛndāvana, because the gopés trample them and bless them with the dust of their lotus feet.

PURPORT

The word meanings and translation for this verse are taken from Śrīla Prabhupāda's English rendering of Caitanya-caritāmṛta (Antya 7.47).

Śrī Uddhava here shows the perfect Vaiṣṇava attitude of humility. He does not pray to be equal to the gopīs in their exalted stage of love, but rather to take birth as a bush or creeper in Vṛndāvana so that when they walk upon him he will get the dust of their feet and thus be blessed. The shy gopīs would never agree to give such blessings to a great personality like Uddhava; therefore he cleverly sought to get such mercy by taking birth as a plant in Vṛndāvana.

TEXT 62

या वै श्रियार्चितमजादिभिराप्तकामैर्
योगेश्वरैरपि यदात्मनि रासगोष्ठ्याम् कृष्णस्य तद्भगवतः चरणारविन्दं

न्यस्तं स्तनेषु विजहुः परिरभ्य तापम्

yā vai śrīyārcitam ajādibhir āpta-kāmair yogeśvarair api yad ātmani rāsa-goṣṭhyām kṛṣṇasya tad bhagavataḥ caraṇāravindam nyastam staneṣu vijahuḥ parirabhya tāpam

SYNONYMS

yāḥ—who (the gopīs); vai—indeed; śrīyā—by the goddess of fortune; arcitam—worshiped; aja—by unborn Brahmā; ādibhiḥ—and other demigods; āpta-kāmaiḥ—who have already realized all desires; yoga-īśvaraiḥ—masters of mystic power; api—even though; yad—which; ātmani—in the mind; rāsa—of the rāsa dance; goṣṭhyām—in the gathering; kṛṣṇasya—of Lord Kṛṣṇa; tad—those; bhagavataḥ—of the Supreme Lord; caraṇa-aravindam—the lotus feet; nyastam—placed; staneṣu—on their breasts; vijahuḥ—they gave up; parirabhya—by embracing; tāpam—their torment.

TRANSLATION

The goddess of fortune herself, along with Lord Brahmā and all the other demigods, who are masters of yogic perfection, can worship the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa only within her mind. But during the rāsa dance Lord Kṛṣṇa placed His feet upon these gopīs' breasts, and by embracing those feet the gopīs gave up all distress.

TEXT 63

वन्दे नन्दब्रजस्त्रीणां
पादरेणुमभीक्ष्णशः

यासां हरिकथोद्गीतं पुनाति भुवनत्रयम् *vande nanda-vraja-strīṇām pāda-reṇum abhikṣṇaśaḥ yāsām hari-kathodgītām

punāti bhuvana-trayam*

SYNONYMS

vande—I offer my respects; nanda-vraja—of the cowherd village of Nanda Mahārāja; strīṇām—of the women; pāda—of the feet; reṇum—to the dust; abhikṣṇaśaḥ—perpetually; yāsām—whose; hari—of Lord Kṛṣṇa; kathā—about the topics; udgītām—loud chanting; punāti—purifies; bhuvana-trayam—the three worlds.

TRANSLATION

I repeatedly offer my respects to the dust from the feet of the women of Nanda Mahārāja's cowherd village. When these gopīs loudly chant the glories of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the vibration purifies the three worlds.

PURPORT

Śrī Uddhava, having established the glories of the gopīs in the previous verses, now directly offers his obeisances to them. According to the Śrī Vaiṣṇava-toṣaṇī, Śrī Uddhava did not offer such respect even to Lord Kṛṣṇa's queens in Dvārakā.

TEXT 64

श्रीशुक उवाच
अथ गोपीरनुज्ञाप्य
यशोदां नन्दमेव च
गोपानामन्त्र्य दाशार्हो यास्यन्नारुरुहे रथम्

śrī-śuka uvāca
atha gopīr anujñāpya yaśodām nandam eva ca
gopān āmantrya dāśārha yāsyann āruruhe ratham

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; atha—then; gopīḥ—of the gopīs; anujñāpya—taking permission; yaśodām—of mother Yaśodā; nandam—King Nanda; eva ca—also; gopān—of the cowherds; āmantrya—taking leave; dāśārhaḥ—Uddhava, descendant of Daśārha; yāsyann—being about to leave; āruruhe—mounted; ratham—his chariot.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Uddhava, the descendant of Daśārha, then took permission to leave from the gopīs and from mother Yaśodā and Nanda Mahārāja. He bade farewell to all the cowherd men and, about to depart, mounted his chariot.

TEXT 65

तं निर्गतं समासाद्य

नानोपायनपाणयः
नन्दादयोऽनुरागेण प्रावोचन्नश्रुलोचनाः

*tam nirgataṁ samāsādyā nānopāyana-pāṇayaḥ nandādayo 'nurāgeṇa
prāvocann aśru-locanāḥ*

SYNONYMS

tam—him (Uddhava); nirgataṁ—gone out; samāsādyā—approaching;
nānā—various; upāyana—items for worship; pāṇayaḥ—in their hands;
nanda-ādayaḥ—Nanda and the others; anurāgeṇa—with affection;
prāvocan—spoke; aśru—with tears; locanāḥ—in their eyes.

TRANSLATION

As Uddhava was about to leave, Nanda and the others approached him bearing various items of worship. With tears in their eyes they addressed him as follows.

PURPORT

Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī points out that Nanda and the cowherd men did not approach Uddhava as a formality, but rather out of spontaneous affection for a dear friend of Kṛṣṇa's.

TEXT 66

मनसो वृत्तयो नः स्युः

कृष्ण पादाम्बुजाश्रयाः
वाचोऽभिधायिनीर्नाम्नां कायस्तत्प्रह्वणादिषु

*manaso vṛttayo naḥ syuḥ kṛṣṇa pādāmbujāśrayāḥ vāco 'bhidhāyinīr nāmnām
kāyas tat-prahvaṇādiṣu*

SYNONYMS

manasaḥ—of the minds; vṛttayaḥ—the functions; naḥ—our; syuḥ—may they be; kṛṣṇa—of Kṛṣṇa; pāda-ambuja—of the lotus feet; āśrayāḥ—taking shelter; vācaḥ—our words; abhidhāyinīḥ—expressing; nāmnām—His names; kāyaḥ—our bodies; tat—to Him; prahvaṇa-ādiṣu—(engaged) in bowing down and so forth.

TRANSLATION

[Nanda and the other cowherds said:] May our mental functions always take shelter of Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet, may our words always chant His names, and may our bodies always bow down to Him and serve Him.

PURPORT

The residents of Vṛndāvana were firmly convinced that even if they could not have direct association with their beloved Kṛṣṇa, they would never be indifferent to Him. They were all topmost pure devotees of the Lord.

TEXT 67

कर्मभिर्भ्राम्यमाणानां
यत्र क्वापीश्वरेच्छया
मङ्गलाचरितैर्दानै
रतिर्नः कृष्ण ईश्वरे

karmabhir bhrāmyamāṇānām
yatra kvāpīśvarecchayā maṅgalācaritair dānai
ratir naḥ kṛṣṇa īśvare

SYNONYMS

karmabhiḥ—by our fruitive actions; bhrāmyamāṇānām—who are made to wander; yatra kva api—wherever; īśvara—of the Supreme Lord; icchayā—by the desire; maṅgala—auspicious; ācaritaiḥ—because of works; dānaiḥ—because of charity; ratīḥ—attachment; naḥ—our; kṛṣṇe—for Kṛṣṇa; īśvare—the Lord.

TRANSLATION

Wherever we are made to wander about this world by the Supreme Lord's will, in accordance with the reactions to our fruitive work, may our good works and charity always grant Us love for Lord Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 68

एवं सभाजितो गोपैः
कृष्णभक्त्या नराधिप
उद्धवः पुनरागच्छन्

मथुरां कृष्णपालिताम्

*evam sabhājito gopaiḥ
kṛṣṇa-bhaktyā narādhipa uddhavaḥ punar āgacchan mathurām kṛṣṇa-pālitām*

SYNONYMS

evam—thus; sabhājitaḥ—shown honor; gopaiḥ—by the cowherds; kṛṣṇa-bhaktyā—with devotion for Kṛṣṇa; nara-adhipa—O ruler of men (Parīkṣit); uddhavaḥ—Uddhava; punaḥ—again; āgacchat—returned; mathurām—to Mathurā; kṛṣṇa-pālitām—which was being protected by Lord Kṛṣṇa.

TRANSLATION

[Śukadeva Gosvāmī continued:] O ruler of men, thus honored by the cowherd men with expressions of devotion for Lord Kṛṣṇa, Uddhava went back to the city of Mathurā, which was under Kṛṣṇa's protection.

PURPORT

The word kṛṣṇa-pālitām indicates that even though Uddhava became quite attached to the land of Vṛndāvana, he returned to Mathurā because Śrī Kṛṣṇa was personally displaying His transcendental pastimes there.

TEXT 69

कृष्णाय प्रणिपत्याह
भक्त्युद्रेकं ब्रजौकसाम्

वसुदेवाय रामाय राज्ञे चोपायनान्यदात्

*kṛṣṇāya praṇipatyāha bhakty-udrekam vrajaukasām vasudevāya rāmāya
rājñe copāyanāny adāt*

SYNONYMS

kṛṣṇāya—to Lord Kṛṣṇa; praṇipatyā—after falling down to pay homage; āha—he told; bhakti—of pure devotion; udrekam—the abundance; vraja-okasām—of the residents of Vraja; vasudevāya—to Vasudeva; rāmāya—to Lord Balarāma; rājñe—to the King (Ugrasena); ca—and; upāyanāni—the items received in tribute; adāt—he gave.

TRANSLATION

After falling down to pay his homage, Uddhava described to Lord Kṛṣṇa the immense devotion of the residents of Vraja. Uddhava also described it to Vasudeva, Lord Balarāma and King Ugrasena and presented to them the gifts of tribute he had brought with him.

*Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C.
Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Forty-seventh Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "The Song of the Bee."*

48. Kṛṣṇa Pleases His Devotees

In this chapter Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa first visits Trivakrā (also known as Kubjā) and enjoys with her, and then He visits Akrūra. The Lord sends Akrūra to Hastināpura to satisfy the Pāṇḍavas.

After Uddhava had related to Śrī Kṛṣṇa the news of Vraja, the Lord went to the home of Trivakrā, which was decorated with diverse ornamentation conducive to sexual enjoyment. Trivakrā welcomed Kṛṣṇa with great respect, giving Him a raised seat and, together with her female companions, worshiping Him. She also offered Uddhava a seat, as befitted his position, but Uddhava simply touched the seat and sat on the floor.

Lord Kṛṣṇa then reclined on an opulent bed as the maidservant Trivakrā elaborately washed and decorated herself. Then she approached Him. Kṛṣṇa invited Trivakrā to the bed and began to enjoy with her in various ways. By embracing Lord Kṛṣṇa, Trivakrā freed herself of the torment of lust. She asked Kṛṣṇa to remain with her for some time, and the considerate Lord promised to fulfill her request in due course. He then returned with Uddhava to His residence. Apart from offering sandal paste to Kṛṣṇa, Trivakrā had never performed any pious acts, yet simply on the strength of the piety of this single act she attained the rare personal association of Śrī Kṛṣṇa.

Śrī Kṛṣṇa next went to Akrūra's house with Lord Baladeva and Uddhava. Akrūra honored the three of them by bowing down and presenting them with suitable sitting places. Then he worshiped Rāma and Kṛṣṇa, washed Their feet and poured the water on his head. Akrūra also offered Them many prayers.

Lord Kṛṣṇa was pleased with Akrūra's prayers. He told him that since he, Akrūra, was in fact Their paternal uncle, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma should be the recipients of his protection and mercy. Lord Kṛṣṇa then praised Akrūra as a saint and purifier of the sinful, and He asked him to visit Hastināpura to find out how the Pāṇḍavas, deprived of their father, were faring. Finally, the Lord returned home, taking Balarāma and Uddhava with Him.

TEXT 1

श्रीशुक उवाच
अथ विज्ञाय भगवान्
सर्वात्मा सर्वदर्शनः
सैरन्ध्र्याः कामतप्तायाः प्रियमिच्छन् गृहं ययौ

*śrī-śuka uvāca
atha vijñāya bhagavān
sarvātmā sarva-darśanaḥ
sairandhryāḥ kāma-taptāyāḥ priyam icchan gṛham yayau*

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; atha—then; vijñāya—understanding; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; sarva—of all; ātmā—the Soul; sarva—of everything; darśanaḥ—the seer; sairandhryāḥ—of the serving girl, Trivakrā; kāma—by lust; taptāyāḥ—troubled; priyam—the satisfaction; icchan—wanting; gṛham—to her house; yayau—He went.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Next, after assimilating Uddhava's report, Lord

Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, the omniscient Soul of all that be, desired to satisfy the serving girl Trivakrā, who was troubled by lust. Thus He went to her house.

PURPORT

This text gives an interesting insight into the Lord's pastimes. The first line says, atha vijñāya bhagavān: "Thus the Lord, understanding [Uddhava's report]...." The second line states that Lord Kṛṣṇa is the Soul of everything (sarvātmā) and the seer of everything (sarva-darśanaḥ). In other words, although He certainly does not depend on spoken reports from messengers, He plays the part of a human being and listens to news from a messenger—not out of need, as we would do, but in the bliss of His spiritual pastimes, exchanging love with His pure devotee. The word sarva-darśanaḥ also indicates that the Lord perfectly understood the feelings of the residents of Vraja and was perfectly reciprocating with them within their hearts. Now, in His external pastimes, He desired to bless Śrīmatī Trivakrā, who was about to be freed from the disease of material lust.

TEXT 2

महार्होपस्करैराढ्यं
कामोपायोपबृंहितम्
मुक्तादामपताकाभिरु
वितानशयनासनैः
धूपैः सुरभिभिर्दीपैः स्रग्गन्धैरपि मण्डितम्

mahārhopaskarair ādhyam kāmapāyopabṛñhitam

muktā-dāma-patākābhir vitāna-śayanāsanaiḥ dhūpaiḥ surabhibhir dīpaiḥ srag-gandhair api maṇḍitam

SYNONYMS

mahā-arha—expensive; upaskaraiḥ—with furnishings; ādhyam—rich; kāma—of lust; upāya—with accoutrements; upabṛmhitam—replete; muktā-dāma—with strings of pearls; patākābhiḥ—and banners; vitāna—with canopies; śayana—beds; āsanaiḥ—and seats; dhūpaiḥ—with incense; surabhibhiḥ—fragrant; dīpaiḥ—with oil lamps; srag—with flower garlands; gandhaiḥ—and aromatic sandalwood paste; api—also; maṇḍitam—decorated.

TRANSLATION

Trivakrā's home was opulently appointed with expensive furnishings and replete with sensual accoutrements meant to inspire sexual desire. There were banners, rows of strung pearls, canopies, fine beds and sitting places, and also fragrant incense, oil lamps, flower garlands and aromatic sandalwood paste.

PURPORT

According to Śrīdhara Svāmī, the sensual accoutrements in Trivakrā's house included explicit sexual pictures. Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī adds that her paraphernalia included herbal aphrodisiacs. It is not hard to guess Trivakrā's intention, yet Lord Kṛṣṇa went there to save her from material existence.

TEXT 3

गृहं तमायान्तमवेक्ष्य सासनात्

सद्यः समुत्थाय हि जातसम्भ्रमा
यथोपसङ्गम्य सखीभिरच्युतं सभाजयामास सदासनादिभिः

gṛhaṁ tam āyāntam avekṣya sāsanāt sadyaḥ samutthāya hi jāta-sambhramā yathopasaṅgamyā sakhībhir acyutaṁ sabhājayām āsa sad-āsanādibhiḥ

SYNONYMS

gṛham—to her house; tam—Him; āyāntam—arrived; avekṣya—seeing; sā—she; āsanāt—from her seat; sadyaḥ—suddenly; samutthāya—rising; hi—indeed; jāta-sambhramā—being in a flurry; yathā—properly; upasaṅgamyā—coming toward; sakhībhiḥ—with her female companions; acyutam—Lord Kṛṣṇa; sabhājayām āsa—respectfully greeted; sat-āsana—with an excellent seat; ādibhiḥ—and so on.

TRANSLATION

When Trivakrā saw Him arriving at her house, she at once rose from her seat in a flurry. Coming forward graciously with her girlfriends, she respectfully greeted Lord Acyuta by offering Him an excellent seat and other articles of worship.

TEXT 4

तथोद्धवः साधुतयाभिपूजितो
न्यषीददुर्व्यामभिमृश्य चासनम्
कृष्णोऽपि तूर्णं शयनं महाधनं

विवेश लोकाचरितान्यनुव्रतः

tathoddhavaḥ sādhutayābhipūjito nyaṣīdad urvyām abhimṛśya cāsanam kṛṣṇo 'pi tūrṇaṁ śayanam mahā-dhanam viveśa lokācaritāny anuvrataḥ

SYNONYMS

tathā—also; uddhavaḥ—Uddhava; sādhutayā—as a saintly person; abhipūjitaḥ—worshiped; nyaṣīdat—sat; urvyām—on the ground; abhimṛśya—touching; ca—and; āsanam—the seat; kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; api—and; tūrṇam—without delay; śayanam—a bed; mahā-dhanam—very rich; viveśa—lay upon; loka—of human society; ācaritāni—the modes of behavior; anuvrataḥ—imitating.

TRANSLATION

Uddhava also received a seat of honor, since he was a saintly person, but he simply touched it and sat on the floor. Then Lord Kṛṣṇa, imitating the manners of human society, quickly made Himself comfortable on an opulent bed.

PURPORT

According to the ācāryas, Uddhava felt reverence for his Lord and thus declined to sit on an opulent seat in His presence; rather, he touched the seat with his hand and sat on the floor. Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī adds that Lord Kṛṣṇa made Himself comfortable on a bed located in the inner chambers of Trivakrā's home.

TEXT 5

सा मञ्जनालेपदुकूलभूषण
स्रग्गन्धताम्बूलसुधासवादिभिः
प्रसाधितात्मोपससार माधवं सत्रीडलीलोत्स्मितविभ्रमेक्षितैः

sā majjanālepa-dukūla-bhūṣaṇa srag-gandha-tāmbūla-sudhāsavādibhiḥ
prasādhitātmopasasāra mādham sa-vrīḍa-līlotsmita-vibhramekṣitaiḥ

SYNONYMS

sā—she, Trivakrā; majjana—by bathing; ālepa—anointing; dukūla—dressing in fine garments; bhūṣaṇa—with ornaments; srag—garlands; gandha—perfume; tāmbūla—betel nut; sudhā-āsava—drinking fragrant liquor; ādibhiḥ—and so on; prasādhita—prepared; ātmā—her body; upasasāra—she approached; mādhavam—Lord Kṛṣṇa; sa-vrīḍa—shy; līlā—playful; utsmita—of her smiles; vibhrama—exhibiting the allurements; ikṣitaiḥ—with glances.

TRANSLATION

Trivakrā prepared herself by bathing, anointing her body, and dressing in fine garments, by putting on jewelry, garlands and perfume, and also by chewing betel nut, drinking fragrant liquor, and so on. She then approached Lord Mādhava with shy, playful smiles and coquettish glances.

PURPORT

It is clear from this verse that the ways a woman prepares for sexual enjoyment have not changed in thousands of years.

TEXT 6

आहूय कान्तां नवसङ्गमह्रिया
विशङ्कितां कङ्कणभूषिते करे
प्रगृह्य शय्यामधिवेश्य रामया रेमेऽनुलेपार्पणपुण्यलेशया

āhūya kāntām nava-saṅgama-hriyā viśaṅkitām kaṅkaṇa-bhūṣite kare pragr̥hya śayyām adhiveśya rāmayā reme 'nulepārpaṇa-puṇya-leśayā

SYNONYMS

āhūya—calling forward; kāntām—His beloved; nava—new; saṅgama—of contact; hriyā—with shyness; viśaṅkitām—fearful; kaṅkaṇa—with bangles; bhūṣite—ornamented; kare—her two hands; pragr̥hya—taking hold of; śayyām—on the bed; adhiveśya—placing her; rāmayā—with the beautiful girl; reme—He enjoyed; anulepa—of ointment; arpaṇa—the offering; puṇya—of piety; leśayā—whose single trace.

TRANSLATION

Calling forward His beloved, who was anxious and shy at the prospect of this new contact, the Lord pulled her by her bangled hands onto the bed. Thus He enjoyed with that beautiful girl, whose only trace of piety was her having offered ointment to the Lord.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī explains that the words nava-saṅgama-hriyā indicate that Trivakrā was in fact a virgin girl at this point. She had been a deformed hunchback, and the Lord had recently transformed her into a beautiful girl. Therefore, although clearly lusting after Śrī Kṛṣṇa, she was naturally shy and anxious.

TEXT 7

सानङ्गतप्तकुचयोरुरसस्तथाक्ष्णोर्
जिघ्रन्त्यनन्तचरणेन रुजो मृजन्ती
दोभ्यां स्तनान्तरगतं परिरभ्य कान्तम् आनन्दमूर्तिमजहादतिदीर्घतापम्

sānaṅga-tapta-kucayor urasas tathākṣṇor jighranty ananta-caraṇena rujo mṛjantī dorbhyāṁ stanāntara-gataṁ parirabhya kāntam ānanda-mūrtim ajahād ati-dīrgha-tāpam

SYNONYMS

sa—she; anaṅga—by Cupid; tapta—made to burn; kucayoḥ—of her breasts; urasas—of her chest; tathā—and; akṣṇoḥ—of her eyes; jighrantī—smelling; ananta—of Kṛṣṇa, the unlimited Supreme Lord; caraṇena—by the feet; rujaḥ—the pain; mṛjantī—wiping away; dorbhyāṁ—with her arms; stana—her breasts; antara-gataṁ—between; parirabhya—embracing; kāntam—her lover; ānanda—of all ecstasy; mūrtim—the personal manifestation; ajahāt—she gave up; ati—extremely; dīrgha—long-standing; tāpam—her distress.

TRANSLATION

Simply by smelling the fragrance of Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet, Trivakrā cleansed away the burning lust Cupid had aroused in her breasts, chest and eyes. With her two arms she embraced between her breasts her lover, Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the personification of bliss, and thus she gave up her long-standing distress.

TEXT 8

सैवं कैवल्यनाथं तं
प्राप्य दुष्प्राप्यमीश्वरम्
अङ्गरागार्पणेनाहो दुर्भगेदमयाचत

*saivam kaivalya-nātham tam prāpya duṣprāpyam īśvaram aṅga-rāgārpaṇenāho
durbhagedam ayācata*

SYNONYMS

sa—she; evam—thus; kaivalya—of liberation; nātham—the controller; tam—Him; prāpya—obtaining; duṣprāpyam—unobtainable; īśvaram—the Supreme Lord; aṅga-rāga—body ointment; arpaṇena—by offering; aho—oh; durbhagā—unfortunate; idam—this; ayācata—she begged.

TRANSLATION

Having thus gotten the hard-to-get Supreme Lord by the simple act of offering Him body ointment, unfortunate Trivakrā submitted to that Lord of freedom the following request.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī, Śrīmatī Trivakrā prayed to the Lord, "Please enjoy only with me, and not with any other woman." Because Kṛṣṇa was not prepared to grant such a benediction, Trivakrā is described here as unfortunate. Śrīdhara Svāmī adds that although to ordinary eyes she seemed to beg for material sex pleasure, in fact she was a liberated soul at this point.

TEXT 9

सहोष्यतामिह प्रेष्ठ
दिनानि कतिचिन्मया
रमस्व नोत्सहे त्यक्तुं सङ्गं तेऽम्बुरुहेक्षण

*sahoṣyatām iha preṣṭha dināni katicin mayā ramasva notsahe tyaktum
saṅgam te 'mburuhekṣaṇa*

SYNONYMS

saha—together; uṣyatām—please stay; iha—here; preṣṭha—O beloved; dināni—days; katicit—some; mayā—with me; ramasva—please take pleasure; na utsahe—I cannot tolerate; tyaktum—giving up; saṅgam—association; te—Your; amburuha-ikṣaṇa—O lotus-eyed one.

TRANSLATION

[Trivakrā said:] O beloved, please stay here with me for a few days more and enjoy. I cannot bear to give up Your association, O lotus-eyed one!

PURPORT

The word ambu means "water," and ruha means "rising." Thus amburuha means "the lotus flower, which rises up from the water." Lord Kṛṣṇa is called amburuhekṣaṇa, "the lotus-eyed one." He is the source and embodiment of all beauty, and naturally Trivakrā was attracted to Him. However, the Lord's beauty is spiritual and pure, and His intention was not to gratify Himself with Trivakrā but rather to bring her to the point of pure spiritual existence, Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 10

तस्यै कामवरं दत्त्वा
मानयित्वा च मानदः
सहोद्धवेन सर्वेशः स्वधामागमदृद्धिमत

*tasyai kāma-varaṁ dattvā mānayitvā ca māna-daḥ sahoddhvena sarveśaḥ
sva-dhāmāgamad ṛddhimat*

SYNONYMS

tasyai—to her; kāma—of material desire; varam—her benediction; dattvā—granting; mānayitvā—showing her respect; ca—and; māna-daḥ—He who gives respect to others; saha uddhvena—together with Uddhava; sarva-īśaḥ—the Lord of all beings; sva—to His own; dhāma—residence; agamat—went; ṛddhi-mat—supremely opulent.

TRANSLATION

Promising her the fulfillment of this lusty desire, considerate Kṛṣṇa, Lord of all beings, paid Trivakrā His respects and then returned with Uddhava to His own supremely opulent residence.

PURPORT

All the ācāryas agree that the words kāma-varam dattvā indicate that Lord Kṛṣṇa promised Trivakrā He would fulfill her lusty desires.

TEXT 11

दुरार्ध्यं समारार्ध्य
विष्णुं सर्वेश्वरेश्वरम्
यो वृणीते मनोग्राह्यम् असत्त्वात्कुमनीष्यसौ

durārdhyaṁ samārādhya viṣṇuṁ sarveśvareśvaram yo vṛṇīte mano-grāhyam asattvāt kumanīṣy asau

SYNONYMS

durārdhyam—rarely worshiped; samārādhya—fully worshiping;
viṣṇum—Lord Viṣṇu; sarva—of all; īśvara—controllers; īśvaram—the supreme controller; yaḥ—who; vṛṇīte—chooses as a benediction; manaḥ—to the mind;
grāhyam—that which is accessible, namely sense gratification; asattvāt—because of its insignificance; kumanīṣī—unintelligent; asau—that person.

TRANSLATION

Lord Viṣṇu, the Supreme Lord of all lords, is ordinarily difficult to approach. One who has properly worshiped Him and then chooses the benediction of mundane sense gratification is certainly of poor intelligence, for he is satisfied with an insignificant result.

PURPORT

It is clear from the commentaries of the ācāryas that the story of Trivakrā is to be understood on two levels. On the one hand, she is understood to be a liberated soul, directly associating with the Lord and participating in His pastimes. On the other hand, her conduct is clearly meant to teach a lesson about what not to do in relation with Lord Kṛṣṇa. Since all of the Lord's pastimes are not only blissful but also didactic, there is no real contradiction in this pastime, since Trivakrā's purity and her bad example take place on two distinct levels. Arjuna is also considered a pure devotee, yet by initially disobeying Kṛṣṇa's instruction to fight, he also showed an example of what not to do. However, such "bad examples" always have happy endings in the blissful association of the Absolute Truth, Śrī Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 12

अक्रूरभवनं कृष्णः
सहरामोद्धवः प्रभुः
किञ्चिच्चिकीर्षयन् प्रागाद् अक्रूरप्रीयकाम्यया

*akrūra-bhavanam kṛṣṇaḥ
saha-rāmoddhavaḥ prabhuḥ kiñcic cikīrṣayan prāgād akrūra-priya-kāmyayā*

SYNONYMS

akrūra-bhavanam—the home of Akrūra; kṛṣṇaḥ—Kṛṣṇa; saha—with; rāma-uddhavaḥ—Lord Balarāma and Uddhava; prabhuḥ—the Supreme Lord; kiñcit—something; cikīrṣayan—wanting to have done; prāgāt—went; akrūra—of Akrūra; priya—the satisfaction; kāmyayā—desiring.

TRANSLATION

Then Lord Kṛṣṇa, wanting to have some things done, went to Akrūra's house with Balarāma and Uddhava. The Lord also desired to please Akrūra.

PURPORT

The previous incident of Lord Kṛṣṇa's visit to Trivakrā's house, and now His visit to Akrūra's, gives a fascinating glimpse into the daily activities of Śrī Kṛṣṇa in Mathurā City.

TEXTS 13-14

स तान्नरवरश्रेष्ठान्
आराद्वीक्ष्य स्वबान्धवान्
प्रत्युत्थाय प्रमुदितः
परिष्वज्याभिनन्द्य च

ननाम कृष्णं रामं च
स तैरप्यभिवादितः
पूजयामास विधिवत् कृतासनपरिग्रहान्

*sa tān nara-vara-śreṣṭhān ārād vīkṣya sva-bāndhavān pratyutthāya pramuditāḥ pariṣvajyābhinandya ca nanāma kṛṣṇam rāmaṁ ca sa tair apy abhivāditaḥ pūjayām āsa vidhi-vat
kṛtāsana-parigrahān*

SYNONYMS

saḥ—he (Akrūra); tān—them (Kṛṣṇa, Balarāma and Uddhava); nara-vara—of illustrious personalities; śreṣṭhān—the greatest; ārāt—from a distance; vīkṣya—seeing; sva—his (Akrūra's); bāndhavān—relatives; pratyutthāya—rising up; pramuditāḥ—joyful; pariṣvajya—embracing; abhinandya—greeting; ca—and; nanāma—bowed down; kṛṣṇam rāmaṁ ca—to Lord Kṛṣṇa and Lord Balarāma; saḥ—he; taiḥ—by Them; api—and; abhivāditaḥ—greeted; pūjayām āsa—he worshiped; vidhi-vat—according to scriptural injunctions; kṛta—who had done; āsana—of seats; parigrahān—acceptance.

TRANSLATION

Akrūra stood up in great joy when he saw them, his own relatives and the greatest of exalted personalities, coming from a distance. After embracing them and greeting them, Akrūra bowed down to Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma and was greeted by Them in return. Then, when his guests had taken their seats, he worshiped them in accordance with scriptural rules.

PURPORT

Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī points out that Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa and the others approached Akrūra in a friendly attitude. At first Akrūra reciprocated that friendly mood, and then, in the course of showing them hospitality, he adopted his natural devotional attitude toward the Lord and thus offered his obeisances to Śrī Kṛṣṇa and Śrī Balarāma.

TEXTS 15-16

पादावनेजनीरापो
धारयन् शिरसा नृप
अर्हणेनाम्बरैर्दिव्यैर्
गन्धस्रग्भूषणोत्तमैः

अर्चित्वा शिरसानम्य
पादावङ्कगतौ मृजन्
प्रश्रयावनतोऽक्रूरः कृष्णरामावभाषत

*pādāvanejanīr āpo
dhārayan śirasā nṛpa arhaṇenāmbair divyair gandha-srag-bhūṣaṇottamaiḥ arcitvā śirasānamya*

*pādāv aṅka-gatau mṛjan praśrayāvanato 'krūraḥ
kṛṣṇa-rāmāv abhāṣata*

SYNONYMS

pāda—Their feet; avanejanīḥ—used for bathing; ā—all over; āpaḥ—the water; dhārayan—putting; śirasā—on his head; nṛpa—O King (Parīkṣit); arhaṇena—with gifts; ambaraiḥ—clothing; divyaiḥ—celestial; gandha—fragrant sandalwood paste; sraḥ—flower garlands; bhūṣaṇa—and ornaments; uttamaiḥ—excellent; arcitvā—worshiping; śirasā—with his head; ānamya—bowing down; pādau—(Lord Kṛṣṇa's) feet; aṅka—on his lap; gatau—placed; mṛjan—massaging; praśraya—with humility; avanataḥ—his head lowered; akrūraḥ—Akrūra; kṛṣṇa-rāmau—to Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma; abhāṣata—spoke.

TRANSLATION

O King, Akrūra bathed the feet of Lord Kṛṣṇa and Lord Balarāma and then poured the bath water on his head. He presented Them with gifts of fine clothing, aromatic sandalwood paste, flower garlands and excellent jewelry. After thus worshiping the two Lords, he bowed his head to the floor. He then began to massage Lord Kṛṣṇa's feet, placing them on his lap, and with his head bowed in humility he addressed Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma as follows.

TEXT 17

दिष्ट्या पापो हतः कंसः
सानुगो वामिदं कुलम्
भवद्भ्यामुद्धृतं कृच्छ्राद्

दुरन्ताच्च समेधितम्

diṣṭyā pāpo hataḥ kamsaḥ sānugo vām idam kulam bhavadbhyām uddhṛtam kṛcchrād durantāc ca samedhitam

SYNONYMS

diṣṭyā—by good fortune; pāpaḥ—sinful; hataḥ—killed; kamsaḥ—Kamsa; sa-anugaḥ—together with his brothers and other followers; vām—of Yours; idam—this; kulam—dynasty; bhavadbhyām—by You two; uddhṛtam—delivered; kṛcchrāt—from difficulty; durantāt—endless; ca—and; samedhitam—made prosperous.

TRANSLATION

[Akrūra said:] It is our good fortune that You two Lords have killed the evil Kamsa and his followers, thus delivering Your dynasty from endless suffering and causing it to flourish.

TEXT 18

युवां प्रधानपुरुषौ
जगद्धेतू जगन्मयौ
भवद्भ्यां न विना किञ्चित् परमस्ति न चापरम्

*yuvām pradhāna-puruṣau
jagad-dhetū jagan-mayau*

*bhavadbhyāṁ na vinā kiñcit
param asti na cāparam*

SYNONYMS

yuvām—You two; pradhāna-puruṣau—the original persons; jagat—of the universe; hetū—the causes; jagat-mayau—identical with the universe; bhavadbhyāṁ—than You; na—not; vinā—apart from; kiñcit—anything; param—cause; asti—there is; na ca—nor; aparam—product.

TRANSLATION

You both are the original Supreme Person, the cause of the universe and its very substance. Not the slightest subtle cause or manifest product of creation exists apart from You.

PURPORT

After praising Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma for having saved Their dynasty, Akrūra now points out that the Lord actually has no mundane connection with any social or political institution. He is the original Personality of Godhead, performing His pastimes for the benefit of the entire universe.

TEXT 19

आत्मसृष्टमिदं विश्वम्
अन्वाविश्य स्वशक्तिभिः
ईयते बहुधा ब्रह्मन् श्रु तप्रत्यक्षगोचरम्

ātma-sṛṣṭam idaṁ viśvam

*anvāviśya sva-śaktibhiḥ īyate bahudhā brahman
śru ta-pratyakṣa-gocaram*

SYNONYMS

ātma-sṛṣṭam—created by You; idam—this; viśvam—universe; anvāviśya—subsequently entering; sva—with Your own; śaktibhiḥ—energies; īyate—You are perceived; bahudhā—manifold; brahman—O Supreme; śruta—by hearing from scripture; pratyakṣa—and by direct perception; gocaram—knowable.

TRANSLATION

O Supreme Absolute Truth, with Your personal energies You create this universe and then enter into it. Thus one can perceive You in many different forms by hearing from authorities and by direct experience.

PURPORT

The grammatical agreement of śruta-pratyakṣa-gocaram, in the neuter case, with ātma-sṛṣṭam idam viśvam indicates that the Supreme Lord, by entering His creation with His potencies, makes Himself perceivable within the universe. Throughout the Bhāgavatam and other authorized Vedic literatures, we often find descriptions of the Lord's simultaneous supremacy over all other things and His identity with them. We cannot reasonably draw any other conclusion from Vedic literature than the one powerfully preached by Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu: acintya-bhedābheda-tattva(261). That is, the Absolute Truth is greater than and distinct from everything (since He is the omnipotent creator and controller of all), and simultaneously one with everything (since all that exists is the expansion of His own power).

Throughout these chapters of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, we also observe one of the unique, extraordinary features of this great work. Whether Kṛṣṇa is sending His message to the gopīs or accepting the prayers of Akrūra, there is constant philosophical discussion. Throughout the Bhāgavatam, the steady combination of fascinating pastimes with persistent spiritual philosophy is an extraordinary feature. We are allowed to glimpse and even to relish the spiritual emotions of the Lord and His liberated associates, and yet we are constantly reminded of their ontological position lest we lapse into a cheap, anthropomorphic vision. Thus it is entirely in character with the work that Akrūra, in his ecstasy, glorifies the Lord with precise philosophical prayers.

TEXT 20

यथा हि भूतेषु चराचरेषु
मह्यादयो योनिषु भान्ति नाना
एवं भवान् केवल आत्मयोनिष्व आत्मात्मतन्त्रो बहुधा विभाति

yathā hi bhūteṣu carācareṣu mahy-ādayo yoniṣu bhānti nānā evam bhavān kevala ātma-yoniṣv ātmātmā-tantro bahudhā vibhāti

SYNONYMS

yathā—as; hi—indeed; bhūteṣu—among manifested beings; cara—mobile; acareṣu—and immobile; mahī-ādayaḥ—earth and so on (the primary elements of creation); yoṇiṣu—in species; bhānti—manifest; nānā—variously; evam—so; bhavān—You; kevalaḥ—one alone; ātma—Yourself; yoṇiṣu—in those whose source; ātmā—the Supreme Soul; ātma-tantraḥ—self-reliant; bahudhā—manifold; vibhāti—appear.

TRANSLATION

Just as the primary elements—earth and so on—manifest themselves in abundant variety among all the species of mobile and immobile life, so You, the one independent Supreme Soul, appear to be manifold among the variegated objects of Your creation.

TEXT 21

सृजस्यथो लुम्पसि पासि विश्वं
रजस्तमःसत्त्वगुणैः स्वशक्तिभिः
न बध्यसे तद्गुणकर्मभिर्वा ज्ञानात्मनस्ते क्व च बन्धहेतुः srjasy atho lumpasi pāsi viśvam rajas-tamaḥ-sattva-guṇaiḥ sva-śaktibhiḥ na badhyase tad-guṇa-karmabhir vā jñānātmanas te kva ca bandha-hetuḥ

SYNONYMS

srjasi—You create; atha u—and then; lumpasi—You destroy; pāsi—You protect; viśvam—the universe; rajaḥ—known as passion; tamaḥ—ignorance; sattva—and goodness; guṇaiḥ—by the modes; sva-śaktibhiḥ—Your personal potencies; na badhyase—You are not bound; tat—of this world; guṇa—by the modes; karmabhiḥ—by the material activities; vā—or; jñāna-ātmanaḥ—who are knowledge itself; te—for You; kva ca—where at all; bandha—of bondage; hetuḥ—cause.

TRANSLATION

You create, destroy and also maintain this universe with Your personal energies—the modes of passion, ignorance and goodness—yet You are never entangled by these modes or the activities they generate. Since You are the original source of all knowledge, what could ever cause You to be bound by illusion?

PURPORT

The phrase jñānātmanas te kva ca bandha-hetuḥ, "Since You are constituted of knowledge, what could be a cause of bondage for You?" definitely indicates the obvious, that the omniscient Supreme God is never in illusion. Therefore the impersonalistic theory that we are all God but have forgotten and are now in illusion is refuted here in the pages of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam.

TEXT 22

देहाद्युपाधेरनिरूपितत्वाद्
भवो न साक्षान्न भिदात्मनः स्यात् अतो न बन्धस्तव नैव मोक्षः स्याताम्निकामस्त्वयि नोऽविवेकः dehādy-upādher anirūpitatvād bhavo na sākṣān na bhidātmanaḥ syāt ato na bandhas tava naiva mokṣaḥ syātām nikāmas tvayi no 'vivekaḥ

SYNONYMS

deha—of the body; ādi—and so on; upādheḥ—as material, designative coverings; anirūpitatvāt—because of not being determined; bhavaḥ—birth; na—not; sākṣāt—literal; na—nor; bhidā—duality; ātmanaḥ—for the Supreme Soul; syāt—exists; ataḥ—therefore; na—no; bandhaḥ—bondage; tava—Your; na eva—nor, in fact; mokṣaḥ—liberation; syātām—if they occur; nikāmaḥ—by Your sweet will; tvayi—concerning You; naḥ—our; avivekaḥ—erroneous discrimination.

TRANSLATION

Since it has never been demonstrated that You are covered by material, bodily designations, it must be concluded that for You there is neither birth in a literal sense nor any duality. Therefore You never undergo bondage or liberation, and if You appear to, it is only because of Your desire that we see You in that way, or simply because of our lack of discrimination.

PURPORT

Here Akrūra states two reasons why the Lord appears to be covered by a material form, or to take birth like a human being. First, when Lord Kṛṣṇa executes His pastimes, His loving devotees think of Him as their beloved child, friend, lover and so on. In the ecstasy of this loving reciprocation, they do not think of Kṛṣṇa as God. For example, because of her extraordinary love for Him, mother Yaśodā worries that Kṛṣṇa will be injured in the forest. That she feels this way is the desire of the Lord, which is here indicated by the word nikāmaḥ. The second reason the Lord may appear material is indicated by the word avivekaḥ: Simply because of ignorance, a lack of discrimination, one may misunderstand the position of the Personality of Godhead. In the Eleventh Canto of the Bhāgavatam, in Lord Kṛṣṇa's discussion with Śrī Uddhava, the Lord elaborately discusses His transcendental position beyond bondage and liberation. As stated in Vedic literature, deha-dehi-vibhago yaṁ neśvare vidyate kvacit: "There is never a distinction of body and soul in the Supreme Lord." In other words, Śrī Kṛṣṇa's body is eternal, spiritual, omniscient and the reservoir of all pleasure.

TEXT 23

त्वयोदितोऽयं जगतो हिताय
यदा यदा वेदपथः पुराणः
बाध्येत पाषण्डपथैरसद्भिस् तदा भवान् सत्त्वगुणं बिभर्ति tvayodito 'yaṁ jagato hitāya yadā yadā veda-pathaḥ purāṇaḥ bādhyeta pāṣaṇḍa-pathair asadbhis tadā bhavān sattva-guṇaṁ bibharti

SYNONYMS

tvayā—by You; uditaḥ—enunciated; ayaṁ—this; jagataḥ—of the universe; hitāya—for the benefit; yadā yadā—whenever; veda—of the Vedic scriptures; pathaḥ—the path (of religiousness); purāṇaḥ—ancient; bādhyeta—is obstructed; pāṣaṇḍa—of atheism; pathaiḥ—by those who follow the path; asadbhiḥ—wicked persons; tadā—at that time; bhavān—You; sattva-guṇaṁ—the pure mode of goodness; bibharti—assume.

TRANSLATION

You originally enunciated the ancient religious path of the Vedas for the benefit of the whole universe. Whenever that path becomes obstructed by wicked persons following the path of atheism, You assume one of Your incarnations, which are all in the transcendental mode of goodness.

TEXT 24

स त्वम्प्रभोऽद्य वसुदेवगृहेऽवतीर्णः
स्वांशेन भारमपनेतुमिहासि भूमेः
अक्षौहिणीशतवधेन सुरेतरांश-राज्ञाममुष्य च कुलस्य यशो वितन्वन् sa tvam prabho 'dya vasudeva-gr̥he 'vatīrṇaḥ svāmśena bhāram apanetum ihāsi bhūmeḥ akṣauhiṇī-śata-vadhena suretarāmśarājñām amuṣya ca kulasya yaśo vitanvan

SYNONYMS

saḥ—He; tvam—You; prabho—O master; adya—now; vasudeva-gr̥he—in the home of Vasudeva; avatīrṇaḥ—have descended; sva—with Your own; amśena—direct expansion (Lord Balarāma); bharam—the burden; apanetum—to remove; iha—here; asi—You are; bhūmeḥ—of the earth; akṣauhiṇī—of the armies; śata—hundreds; vadhena—by killing; sura-itara—of the opponents of the demigods; amśa—who are expansions; rājñām—of the kings; amuṣya—of this; ca—and; kulasya—dynasty (of the descendants of Yadu); yaśaḥ—the fame; vitanvan—spreading.

TRANSLATION

You are that very same Supreme Person, my Lord, and You have now appeared in the home of Vasudeva with Your plenary portion. You have done this to relieve the earth's burden by killing hundreds of armies led by kings who are expansions of the demigods' enemies, and also to spread the fame of our dynasty.

PURPORT

The term suretarāmśa-rājñām indicates that the demoniac kings slain by Kṛṣṇa were in fact expansions or incarnations of the enemies of the demigods. This fact is elaborately explained in the Mahābhārata, which reveals the specific identities of the demoniac kings.

TEXT 25

अद्येश नो वसतयः खलु भूरिभागा
यः सर्वदेवपितृभूतनृदेवमूर्तिः
यत्पादशौचसलिलं त्रिजगत्पुनाति स त्वं जगद्गुरुरधोक्षज याः प्रविष्टः adyeśa no vasatayaḥ khalu bhūri-bhāgā yaḥ sarva-deva-pitr̥-bhūta-nṛ-deva-mūrtiḥ yat-pāda-śauca-salilam tri-jagat punāti sa tvam jagad-gurur adhokṣaja yāḥ praviṣṭaḥ

SYNONYMS

adya—today; īśa—O Lord; naḥ—our; vasatayaḥ—residence; khalu—indeed; bhūri—extremely; bhāgāḥ—fortunate; yaḥ—who; sarva-deva—the Supreme Lord; pitṛ—the forefathers; bhūta—all living creatures; nṛ—human beings; deva—and the demigods; mūrtiḥ—who embody; yat—whose; pāda—feet; śauca—which has washed; salilam—the water (of the river Ganges); tri-jagat—the three worlds; punāti—purifies; saḥ—He; tvam—You; jagat—of the universe; guruḥ—the spiritual master; adhokṣaja—O You who are beyond the purview of the material senses; yāḥ—which; praviṣṭaḥ—having entered.

TRANSLATION

Today, O Lord, my home has become most fortunate because You have entered it. As the Supreme Truth, You embody the forefathers, ordinary creatures, human beings and demigods, and the water that has washed Your feet purifies the three worlds. Indeed, O transcendent one, You are the spiritual master of the universe.

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī has nicely interpreted Akrūra's feelings as follows:

Akrūra said, "My Lord, although I am a householder, today my home has become more pious than the forests where sages perform austerities. Why? Simply because You have entered my home. Indeed, You are the personification of the deities who preside over the five sacrifices a householder must perform daily to atone for unavoidable violence committed to living beings in the home. You are the spiritual truth behind all these creations, and now You have entered my home."

The five daily sacrifices enjoined for a householder are (1) sacrifice to Brahman by studying the Vedas, (2) sacrifice to the forefathers by making offerings to them, (3) sacrifice to all creatures by putting aside a portion of one's meals, (4) sacrifice to human beings by extending hospitality and (5) sacrifice to the demigods by performing fire sacrifices and so on.

TEXT 26

कः पण्डितस्त्वदपरं शरणं समीयाद्
भक्तप्रियादृतगिरः सुहृदः कृतज्ञात्

सर्वान्ददाति सुहृदो भजतोऽभिकामान् आत्मानमप्युपचयापचयौ न यस्य

kaḥ paṇḍitaś tvad āparam śaraṇam samīyād bhakta-priyād ṛta-giraḥ suhṛdaḥ kṛta-jñāt sarvān dadāti suhṛdo bhajato 'bhikāmān ātmānam apy upacayāpacayau na yasya

SYNONYMS

kaḥ—what; paṇḍitaḥ—scholar; tvad—other than You; āparam—to another; śaraṇam—for shelter; samīyāt—would go; bhakta—to Your devotees; priyāt—affectionate; ṛta—always true; giraḥ—whose words; suhṛdaḥ—the well-wisher; kṛta-jñāt—grateful; sarvān—all; dadāti—You give; suhṛdaḥ—to Your well-wishing devotees; bhajataḥ—who are engaged in worshiping You; abhikāmān—desires; ātmānam—Yourself; apy—even; upacaya—increase; apacayau—or diminution; na—never; yasya—whose.

TRANSLATION

What learned person would approach anyone but You for shelter, when You are the affectionate, grateful and truthful well-wisher of Your devotees? To those who worship You in sincere friendship You reward everything they desire, even Your own self, yet You never increase or diminish.

PURPORT

This verse describes both the Lord and His devotees as suhṛdaḥ "well-wishers." The Lord is the well-wisher of His devotee, and the devotee lovingly desires all happiness for the Lord. Even in this world, an excess of love may sometimes produce unnecessary solicitude. For example, we often observe that a mother's loving concern for her adult child is not always justified by an actual danger to the child. A grown child may be wealthy, competent and healthy, and yet the mother's loving concern continues. Similarly, a pure devotee always feels loving concern for Lord Kṛṣṇa, as exemplified by mother Yaśodā, who could only think of Kṛṣṇa as her beautiful son.

Lord Kṛṣṇa had promised Akrūra that after killing Kāmsa He would visit his home, and now the Lord kept His promise. Akrūra recognizes this and glorifies the Lord as ṛta-girah, "one who is true to His word." The Lord is kṛta-jña, grateful for whatever little worship a devotee offers, and even if the devotee forgets, the Lord does not.

TEXT 27

दिष्ट्या जनार्दन भवानिह नः प्रतीतो
योगेश्वरैरपि दुरापगतिः सुरेशैः
छिन्द्याशु नः सुतकलत्रधनाप्तगेह-देहादिमोहरशनां भवदीयमायाम् diṣṭyā janārdana bhavān iha naḥ pratīto yogeśvarair api durāpa-gatiḥ sureśaiḥ chindhy āśu naḥ suta-kalatra-dhanāpta-gehadehādi-moha-raśanām bhavadīya-māyām

SYNONYMS

diṣṭyā—by fortune; janārdana—O Kṛṣṇa; bhavān—You; iha—here; naḥ—by us; pratītaḥ—perceivable; yoga-īśvaraiḥ—by the masters of mystic yoga; api—even; durāpa-gatiḥ—a goal hard to achieve; sura-īśaiḥ—and by the rulers of the demigods; chindhi—please cut; āśu—quickly; naḥ—our; suta—for children; kalatra—wife; dhana—wealth; āpta—worthy friends; geha—home; deha—body; ādi—and so on; moha—of delusion; raśanām—the ropes;

bhavādīya—Your own; māyām—illusory material energy.

TRANSLATION

It is by our great fortune, Janārdana, that You are now visible to us, for even the masters of yoga and the foremost demigods can achieve this goal only with great difficulty. Please quickly cut the ropes of our illusory attachment for children, wife, wealth, influential friends, home and body. All such attachment is simply the effect of Your illusory material energy.

TEXT 28

इत्यर्चितः संस्तुतश्च
भक्तेन भगवान् हरिः
अक्रूरं सस्मितं प्राह गीर्भिः सम्मोहयन्निव

ity arcitaḥ saṁstutaś ca bhaktena bhagavān hariḥ akrūraṁ sa-smitaṁ prāha gīrbhiḥ sammohayann iva

SYNONYMS

iti—thus; arcitaḥ—worshiped; saṁstutaḥ—profusely glorified; ca—and; bhaktena—by His devotee; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; hariḥ—Kṛṣṇa; akrūraṁ—to Akrūra; sa-smitaṁ—smiling; prāha—He spoke; gīrbhiḥ—with His words; sammohayan—completely enchanting; iva—almost.

TRANSLATION

[Śukadeva Gosvāmī continued:] Thus worshiped and fully glorified by His devotee, the Supreme Lord Hari smilingly addressed Akrūra, completely charming him with His words.

TEXT 29

श्रीभगवानुवाच
त्वं नो गुरुः पितृव्यश्च
श्लाघ्यो बन्धुश्च नित्यदा
वयं तु रक्ष्याः पोष्याश्च अनुकम्प्याः प्रजा हि वः

śrī-bhagavān uvāca
tvam no guruḥ pitṛvyaś ca ślāghyo bandhuś ca nityadā vayaṁ tu rakṣyāḥ poṣyāś ca anukampyāḥ prajā hi vaḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī-bhagavān uvāca—the Supreme Personality of Godhead said; tvam—you; naḥ—Our; guruḥ—spiritual master; pitṛvyaḥ—paternal uncle; ca—and; ślāghyaḥ—praiseworthy; bandhuḥ—friend; ca—and; nityadā—always; vayaṁ—We; tu—on the other hand; rakṣyāḥ—to be protected; poṣyāḥ—to be maintained; ca—and; anukampyāḥ—to be shown compassion; prajāḥ—dependents; hi—indeed; vaḥ—your.

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Lord said: You are Our spiritual master, paternal uncle and praiseworthy friend, and We are like your sons, always dependent on your protection, sustenance and compassion.

TEXT 30

भवद्विधा महाभागा
निषेव्या अर्हसत्तमाः
श्रेयस्कामैर्नृभिर्नित्यं देवाः स्वार्था न साधवः

*bhavad-vidhā mahā-bhāgā niṣevyā arha-sattamāḥ śreyas-kāmair nṛbhir nityam
devāḥ svārthā na sādhaḥ*

SYNONYMS

bhavad-vidhāḥ—like your good self; mahā-bhāgāḥ—most eminent; niṣevyāḥ—worthy of being served; arha—of those who are worshipable; sat-tamāḥ—the most saintly; śreyaḥ—the highest good; kāmāiḥ—who desire; nṛbhiḥ—by men; nityam—always; devaḥ—the demigods; sva-arthāḥ—concerned with their personal interest; na—not so; sādhaḥ—saintly devotees.

TRANSLATION

Exalted souls like you are the true objects of service and the most worshipable authorities for those who desire the highest good in life. Demigods are generally concerned with their own interests, but saintly devotees never are.

PURPORT

Whereas demigods may award material benefit, saintly devotees of the Lord have the power to award the real perfection of life, Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Thus Lord Kṛṣṇa reinforces the respectful mood He has adopted here toward His uncle Akrūra.

TEXT 31

न ह्यम्मयानि तीर्थानि
न देवा मृच्छिलामयाः
ते पुनन्त्युरुकालेन
दर्शनादेव साधवः

*na hy am-mayāni tīrthāni na devā mṛc-chilā-mayāḥ te punanty uru-kālena
darśanād eva sādhaḥ*

SYNONYMS

na—not; hi—indeed; ap-mayāni—made of water; tīrthāni—holy places; na—such is not the case; devāḥ—deities; mṛt—of earth; śilā—and stone; mayāḥ—made; te—they; punanti—purify; uru-kālena—after a long time; darśanāt—by being seen; eva—only; sādhavaḥ—saints.

TRANSLATION

No one can deny that there are holy places with sacred rivers, or that the demigods appear in deity forms made of earth and stone. But these purify the soul only after a long time, whereas saintly persons purify just by being seen.

TEXT 32

स भवान् सुहृदां वै नः
श्रेयान् श्रेयश्चिकीर्षया
जिज्ञासार्थं पाण्डवानां
गच्छस्व त्वं गजाह्वयम्

sa bhavān suhṛdām vai naḥ śreyān śreyaś-cikīrṣayā jijñāsārtham pāṇḍavānām gacchasva tvam gajāhvayam

SYNONYMS

saḥ—that person; bhavān—you; suhṛdām—of the well-wishers; vai—certainly; naḥ—Our; śreyān—the very best; śreyaḥ—for their welfare; cikīrṣayā—wishing to arrange; jijñāsā—of inquiry; artham—for the sake; pāṇḍavānām—about the sons of Pāṇdu; gacchasva—please go; tvam—you; gaja-āhvayam—to Gajāhvaya (Hastināpura, the capital of the Kuru dynasty).

TRANSLATION

You are indeed the best of Our friends, so please go to Hastināpura and, as the well-wisher of the Pāṇḍavas, find out how they are doing.

PURPORT

In Sanskrit the imperative "you go" may be rendered by gacchasva or gaccha. In the second of these cases, the word following gaccha, namely sva, which is taken in the vocative sense, indicates Kṛṣṇa addressing Akrūra as "Our own."

This is in reference to Lord Kṛṣṇa's intimate relationship with His uncle.

TEXT 33

पितर्युपरते बालाः
सह मात्रा सुदुःखिताः
आनीताः स्वपुरं राज्ञा वसन्त इति शुश्रुम

*pitary uparate bālāḥ
saha mātṛā su-duḥkhitāḥ ānītāḥ sva-puraṁ rājñā
vasanta iti śuśrūma*

SYNONYMS

pitari—their father; uparate—when he passed away; bālāḥ—young boys;
saha—together with; mātṛā—their mother; su—very; duḥkhitāḥ—distressed;
ānītāḥ—brought; sva—to his own; puraṁ—capital city; rājñā—by the King;
vasante—they are residing; iti—thus; śuśrūma—We have heard.

TRANSLATION

We have heard that when their father passed away, the young Pāṇḍavas were brought with their anguished mother to the capital city by King Dhṛtarāṣṭra, and that they are now living there.

TEXT 34

तेषु राजाम्बिकापुत्रो
भ्रातृपुत्रेषु दीनधीः
समो न वर्तते नूनं
दुष्पुत्रवशगोऽन्धदृक्

*teṣu rājāmbikā-putro bhrātr̥-putreṣu dīna-dhīḥ samo na vartate nūnam
duṣputra-vaśa-go 'ndha-dṛk*

SYNONYMS

teṣu—toward them; rājā—the King (Dhṛtarāṣṭra); ambikā—of Ambikā; putraḥ—the son; bhrātr̥—of his brother; putreṣu—toward the sons; dīna-dhīḥ—whose mind is wretched; samaḥ—equally disposed; na vartate—is not; nūnam—surely; duḥ—wicked; putra—of his sons; vaśa-gaḥ—under the control; andha—blinded; dṛk—whose vision.

TRANSLATION

Indeed, weak-minded Dhṛtarāṣṭra, the son of Ambikā, has come under the control of his wicked sons, and therefore that blind King is not treating his brother's sons fairly.

TEXT 35

गच्छ जानीहि तद्वृत्तम्
अधुना साध्वसाधु वा
विज्ञाय तद्विधास्यामो

यथा शं सुहृदां भवेत्

*gaccha jānīhi tad-vṛttam adhunā sādhu asādhu vā vijñāya tad vidhāsyāmo
yathā śam suhṛdām bhavet*

SYNONYMS

gaccha—go; jānīhi—learn; tat—his (Dhṛtarāṣṭra's); vṛttam—activity; adhunā—at present; sādhu—good; asādhu—evil; vā—or; vijñāya—knowing; tat—that; vidhāsyāmaḥ—We will arrange; yathā—so that; śam—the benefit; suhṛdām—of Our dear ones; bhavet—will be.

TRANSLATION

Go and see whether Dhṛtarāṣṭra is acting properly or not. When We find out, We will make the necessary arrangements to help Our dear friends.

TEXT 36

इत्यक्रूरं समादिश्य
भगवान् हरिरीश्वरः
सङ्कर्षणोद्धवाभ्यां वै ततः स्वभवनं ययौ

*ity akrūram samādiśya
bhagavān harir īśvaraḥ
saṅkarṣaṇoddhavābhyām vai
tataḥ sva-bhavanam yayau*

SYNONYMS

iti—with these words; akrūram—Akrūra; samādiśya—fully instructing; bhagavan—the Personality of Godhead; hariḥ īśvaraḥ—Lord Hari; saṅkarṣaṇa—with Lord Balarāma; uddhavābhyām—and Uddhava; vai—indeed; tataḥ—then; sva—to His own; bhavanam—residence; yayau—went.

TRANSLATION

[Śukadeva Gosvāmī continued:] Thus fully instructing Akrūra, the Supreme Personality of Godhead Hari then returned to His residence, accompanied by Lord Saṅkarṣaṇa and Uddhava.

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Forty-eighth Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "Kṛṣṇa Pleases His Devotees."

49. Akrūra's Mission in Hastināpura

This chapter describes how Akrūra went to Hastināpura, saw Dhṛtarāṣṭra's unfair behavior toward his nephews, the Pāṇḍavas, and then returned to Mathurā.

On the order of Lord Kṛṣṇa, Akrūra went to Hastināpura, where he met the Kauravas and Pāṇḍavas and then set about to find out how Dhṛtarāṣṭra was treating the latter. This task would keep Akrūra in Hastināpura for several months.

Vidura and Kuntīdevī described to Akrūra in detail how Dhṛtarāṣṭra's sons, envious of the exalted qualities of the Pāṇḍavas, had tried to destroy them by various evil means and were contemplating further atrocities. With tearful eyes, Kuntīdevī asked Akrūra, "Do my parents and other relatives, headed by Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, ever think of me and my sons, and will Kṛṣṇa ever come to console us in our distress?" Then Kuntīdevī began to chant Lord Kṛṣṇa's names for her protection, and she also chanted mantras expressing surrender to Him. Akrūra assured Kuntīdevī, "Since your sons were born from demigods like Dharma and Vāyu, there is no reason to expect that any misfortune will befall them; rather, you should be confident that very soon they will receive the greatest possible good fortune."

Akrūra then delivered to Dhṛtarāṣṭra the message from Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma. Akrūra told the King, "You have assumed the royal throne after the death of Pāṇḍu. Seeing all equally, which is the religious duty of kings, you should protect all your subjects and personal relations. By such fair behavior you will gain all fame and good fortune. But if you act otherwise, you will attain only infamy in this life and condemnation to a hellish existence in the next. A living being takes his birth all alone, and alone he gives up his life. Alone he enjoys the fruits of his piety and sin. If one fails to understand the true identity of the self and instead maintains his progeny by indulging in evil deeds, then surely he will go to hell. One should therefore learn to understand the unsteadiness of material existence, which is like a sleeper's dream, a magician's illusion or a flight of fancy, and should thus control his mind in order to remain peaceful and equipoised. "

To this Dhṛtarāṣṭra replied, "I cannot hear enough of your beneficial words, O Akrūra, which are like the sweet nectar of immortality. But because the tight knot of affection for my sons has made me biased toward them, your statements cannot become fixed within my mind. No one can transgress the arrangement of the Supreme Lord; His purpose for descending into the Yadu dynasty will inevitably be fulfilled."

Knowing now the mentality of Dhṛtarāṣṭra, Akrūra took permission from his dear relatives and friends and returned to Mathurā, where he related everything to Lord Kṛṣṇa and Lord Balarāma.

TEXTS 1-2

श्रीशुक उवाच
स गत्वा हास्तिनपुरं
पौरवेन्द्रयशोऽङ्कितम्
ददर्श तत्राम्बिकेयं
सभीष्मं विदुरं पृथाम्

सहपुत्रं च बाह्लीकं
भारद्वाजं सगौतमम्
कर्णं सुयोधनं द्रौणिं पाण्डवान् सुहृदोऽपरान्

śrī-śuka uvāca
sa gatvā hāstinapuram pauravendra-yaśo-'ṅkitam dadarśa tatrāmbikeyam sa-bhīṣmam viduram prthām

saha-putram ca bāhlikam bhāradvājam sa-gautamam karnam suyodhanam drauṇim pāṇḍavān suhr̥do 'parān

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; saḥ—he (Akrūra); gatvā—going; hāstina-puram—to Hastināpura; paurava-indra—of the rulers of the dynasty of Pūru; yaśaḥ—by the glory; aṅkitam—decorated; dadarśa—he saw; tatra—there; āmbikeyam—the son of Ambikā (Dhṛtarāṣṭra); sa—together with; bhīṣmam—Bhīṣma; viduram—Vidura; prthām—Pṛthā (Kuntī, the widow of King Pāṇḍu); saha-putram—with his son (namely, Somadatta); ca—and; bāhlīkam—Mahārāja Bāhlīka; bhāradvājam—Droṇa; sa—and; gautamam—Kṛpa; karṇam—Karṇa; suyodhanam—Duryodhana; drauṇim—the son of Droṇa (Aśvatthāmā); pāṇḍavān—the sons of Pāṇḍu; suhṛdaḥ—friends; aparān—other.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Akrūra went to Hastināpura, the city distinguished by the glory of the Paurava rulers. There he saw Dhṛtarāṣṭra, Bhīṣma, Vidura and Kuntī, along with Bāhlīka and his son Somadatta. He also saw Droṇācārya, Kṛpācārya, Karṇa, Duryodhana, Aśvatthāmā, the Pāṇḍavas and other close friends.

TEXT 3

यथावदुपसङ्गम्य
बन्धुभिर्गान्दिनीसुतः
सम्पृष्टस्तैः सुहृद्वार्ता स्वयं चापृच्छदव्ययम्

yathāvad upasaṅgamyā

bandhubhir gāndinī-sutaḥ sampṛṣṭas taiḥ suhṛd-vārtām svayaṁ cāpṛcchat avyayam

SYNONYMS

yathā-vat—appropriately; upasaṅgamyā—meeting; bandhubhiḥ—with his relatives and friends; gāndinī-sutaḥ—Akrūra, son of Gāndinī; sampṛṣṭaḥ—inquired from; taiḥ—by them; suhṛt—of their dear ones; vārtām—for news; svayam—himself; ca—in addition; apṛcchat—asked; avyayam—about their well-being.

TRANSLATION

After Akrūra, the son of Gāndinī, had appropriately greeted all his relatives and friends, they asked him for news of their family members, and he in turn asked about their welfare.

TEXT 4

उवास कतिचिन्मासान्
राज्ञो वृत्तविवित्सया
दुष्प्रजस्याल्पसारस्य खलच्छन्दानुवर्तिनः

*uvāsa katicin māsān
rājño vṛtta-vivitsayā duṣprajasyālpā-sārasya
khala-cchandānuvartinaḥ*

SYNONYMS

uvāsa—resided; katicit—some; māsān—months; rājñah—of the King (Dhṛtarāṣṭra); vṛtta—the activity; vivitsayā—with the desire of finding out; duṣprajasya—whose sons were wicked; alpa—weak; sārasya—whose determination; khala—of mischievous persons (like Karna); chanda—the desires; anuvartinaḥ—who tended to follow.

TRANSLATION

He remained in Hastināpura for several months to scrutinize the conduct of the weak-willed King, who had bad sons and who was inclined to give in to the whims of mischievous advisers.

TEXTS 5-6

तेज ओजो बलं वीर्यं
प्रश्रयादींश्च सद्गुणान्
प्रजानुरागं पार्थेषु
न सहद्भिश्चिकीर्तयितम्

कृतं च धार्तराष्ट्रैर्यद्
गरदानाद्यपेशलम्
आचख्यौ सर्वमेवास्मै पृथा विदुर एव च

teja ojo balaṁ vīryam
praśrayādīṁś ca sad-guṇān

prajānurāgam pārtheṣu na sahadbhiḥ cikīrṣitam

*kṛtam ca dhārtarāṣṭrair yad gara-dānādy apeśalam ācakhyau sarvam evāsmāi
pṛthā vidura eva ca*

SYNONYMS

tejaḥ—the influence; ojaḥ—skill; balam—strength; vīryam—bravery; praśraya—humility; ādīn—and so on; ca—and; sat—excellent; guṇān—qualities; prajā—of the citizens; anurāgam—the great affection; pārtheṣu—for the sons of Pṛthā; na sahadbhiḥ—of those who could not tolerate; cikīrṣitam—the intentions; kṛtam—had been done; ca—also; dhārtarāṣṭraiḥ—by the sons of Dhṛtarāṣṭra; yat—what; gara—of poison; dāna—the giving; ādi—and so on; apeśalam—unbecoming; ācakhyau—told; sarvam—everything; eva—indeed; asmāi—to him (Akrūra); pṛthā—Kuntī; viduraḥ—Vidura; eva ca—both.

TRANSLATION

Kuntī and Vidura described to Akrūra in detail the evil intentions of Dhṛtarāṣṭra's sons, who could not tolerate the great qualities of Kuntī's sons—such as their powerful influence, military skill, physical strength, bravery and humility—or the intense affection the citizens had for them. Kuntī and Vidura also told Akrūra about how the sons of Dhṛtarāṣṭra had tried to poison the Pāṇḍavas and carry out other such plots.

TEXT 7

पृथा तु भ्रातरं प्राप्तम्

अक्रूरमुपसृत्य तम्
उवाच जन्मनिलयं
स्मरन्त्यश्रुकलेक्षणा

*pr̥thā tu bhrātaram prāptam akrūram upasṛtya tam uvāca janma-nilayaṁ
smaranty aśru-kalekṣaṇā*

SYNONYMS

pr̥thā—Kuntī; tu—and; bhrātaram—her brother (more exactly, the grandson of Vṛṣṇi, her own and Vasudeva's tenth-generation ancestor); prāptam—obtained; akrūram—Akrūra; upasṛtya—approaching; tam—him; uvāca—she said; janma—of her birth; nilayaṁ—the home (Mathurā); smarantī—remembering; aśru—of tears; kalā—with traces; īkṣaṇā—whose eyes.

TRANSLATION

Kuntīdevī, taking advantage of her brother Akrūra's visit, approached him confidentially. While remembering her birthplace, she spoke with tears in her eyes.

TEXT 8

अपि स्मरन्ति नः सौम्य
पितरौ भ्रातरश्च मे
भगिन्यौ भ्रातृपुत्राश्च

जामयः सख्य एव च

api smaranti naḥ saumya pitarau bhrātaraś ca me bhaginyau bhrāṭṛ-putrāś ca jāmayah sakhya eva ca

SYNONYMS

api—whether; smaranti—they remember; naḥ—us; saumya—O gentle one; pitarau—parents; bhrātaraḥ—brothers; ca—and; me—my; bhaginyau—sisters; bhrāṭṛ-putrāḥ—brother's sons; ca—and; jāmayah—women of the family; sakhyah—girlfriends; eva ca—also.

TRANSLATION

[Queen Kuntī said:] O gentle one, do my parents, brothers, sisters, nephews, family women and girlhood friends still remember us?

TEXT 9

भ्रात्रेयो भगवान् कृष्णः
शरण्यो भक्तवत्सलः
पैतृष्वस्रेयान् स्मरति रामश्चाम्बुरुहेक्षणः

*bhrātreyo bhagavān kṛṣṇaḥ śaraṇyo bhakta-vatsalaḥ paitṛ-śvasreyān smarati
rāmaś cāmburuhekṣaṇaḥ*

SYNONYMS

bhrātreyah—brother's son; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; kṛṣṇah—Kṛṣṇa; śaraṇyah—the giver of shelter; bhakta—to His devotees; vatsalah—compassionate; paitṛ-svasreyān—the sons of His father's sister; smarati—remembers; rāmah—Lord Balarāma; ca—and; amburuha—like lotus petals; ikṣaṇah—whose eyes.

TRANSLATION

Does my nephew Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality and the compassionate shelter of His devotees, still remember His aunt's sons? And does lotus-eyed Rāma remember them also?

TEXT 10

सपत्नमध्ये शोचन्तीं
वृकानां हरिणीमिव
सान्त्वयिष्यति मां वाक्यैः पितृहीनांश्च बालकान्

sapatna-madhye śocantīm vṛkānām hariṇīm iva sāntvayiṣyati mām vākyaīḥ
pitr-hīnāṁś ca bālakān

SYNONYMS

sapatna—of enemies; madhye—in the midst; śocantīm—who is lamenting; vṛkānām—of wolves; hariṇīm—a doe; iva—like; sāntvayiṣyati—will He console; mām—me; vākyaiḥ—with His words; pitṛ—of their father; hīnān—deprived; ca—and; bālakān—young boys.

TRANSLATION

Now that I am suffering in the midst of my enemies like a doe in the midst of wolves, will Kṛṣṇa come to console me and my fatherless sons with His words?

TEXT 11

कृष्ण कृष्ण महायोगिन्
विश्वात्मन् विश्वभावन
प्रपन्नां पाहि गोविन्द शिशुभिश्चावसीदतीम्

kṛṣṇa kṛṣṇa mahā-yogin
viśvātmān viśva-bhāvana prapaṇnām pāhi govinda śiśubhiś cāvasīdatīm

SYNONYMS

kṛṣṇa kṛṣṇa—O Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa; mahā-yogin—possessor of the greatest spiritual power; viśva-ātmān—O Supreme Soul of the universe; viśva-bhāvana—O protector of the universe; prapaṇnām—a surrendered lady; pāhi—please protect; govinda—O Govinda; śiśubhiḥ—along with my children; ca—and; avasīdatīm—who am sinking down in distress.

TRANSLATION

Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa! O great yogi! O Supreme Soul and protector of the universe!
O Govinda! Please protect me, who have surrendered to You. I and my sons are being overwhelmed by trouble.

PURPORT

"Since Lord Kṛṣṇa maintains the entire universe," thought Kuntīdevī, "surely He can protect our family." The word avasīdatīm indicates that Kuntīdevī was overwhelmed by troubles; thus exhausted, she was helplessly taking shelter of Śrī Kṛṣṇa. In her prayers in the First Canto of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, Kuntī admits that all these troubles were actually a blessing, for they forced her to always be intensely Kṛṣṇa conscious.

TEXT 12

नान्यत्तव पदाम्भोजात्
पश्यामि शरणं नृणाम्
बिभ्यतां मृत्युसंसाराद् ईश्वरस्यापवर्गिकात्

nānyat tava padāmbhojāt paśyāmi śaraṇam nṛṇām bibhyatām mṛtyu-saṁsārād īśvarasyāpavargikāt

SYNONYMS

na—no; anyat—other; tava—Your; pada-ambhojāt—than the lotus feet;
paśyāmi—I see; śaraṇam—shelter; nṛṇām—for men; bibhyatām—fearful;
mṛtyu—of death; saṁsārāt—and rebirth; īśvarasya—of the Supreme Personality of Godhead; āpavargikāt—which give liberation.

TRANSLATION

For persons fearful of death and rebirth, I see no shelter other than Your liberating lotus feet, for You are the Supreme Lord.

TEXT 13

नमः कृष्णाय शुद्धाय
ब्रह्मणे परमात्मने
योगेश्वराय योगाय त्वामहं शरणं गता

*namaḥ kṛṣṇāya śuddhāya brahmaṇe paramātmane yogeśvarāya yogāya
tvām ahaṁ śaraṇaṁ gatā*

SYNONYMS

namaḥ—obeisances; kṛṣṇāya—to Kṛṣṇa; śuddhāya—the pure; brahmaṇe—the Absolute Truth; parama-ātmane—the Supersoul; yoga—of pure devotional service; īśvarāya—the controller; yogāya—the source of all knowledge; tvām—You; aham—I; śaraṇam—for shelter; gatā—have approached.

TRANSLATION

I offer my obeisances unto You, Kṛṣṇa, the supreme pure, the Absolute Truth and the Supersoul, the Lord of pure devotional service and the source of all knowledge. I have come to You for shelter.

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī has translated the word yogāya as "unto Kṛṣṇa, the source of knowledge." The word yoga indicates connection and also the means to achieve something. As conscious souls, we have a connection with the Supreme Soul through bhakti, or devotion. Through that relationship we experience perfect knowledge of the Supreme Soul. Since the Supreme Soul is the Absolute Truth, perfect knowledge of Him means perfect knowledge of everything. As stated in the Muṇḍaka Upaniṣad (1.3), yasmin vijñāte sarvam evam vijñātaṁ bhavati: When the Absolute is understood, everything is understood. Thus Lord Kṛṣṇa Himself, by His spiritual potency, establishes our connection with Him, and that connection is the source of all spiritual knowledge. Thus Ācārya Śrīdhara, by his thoughtful translation, stimulates us to deeper understanding of Kṛṣṇa conscious philosophy.

TEXT 14

श्रीशुक उवाच
इत्यनुस्मृत्य स्वजनं
कृष्णं च जगदीश्वरम्
प्रारुदद् दुःखिता राजन् भवतां प्रपितामही

śrī-śuka uvāca
ity anusmṛtya sva-janaṁ kṛṣṇaṁ ca jagad-īśvaram prārudad duḥkhitā rājan bhavatāṁ prapitāmahī

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; iti—as expressed in these words; anusmṛtya—remembering; sva-janam—her own relatives; kṛṣṇam—Kṛṣṇa; ca—and; jagat—of the universe; īśvaram—the Supreme Lord; prārudat—she cried loudly; duḥkhitā—unhappy; rājan—O King (Parīkṣit); bhavatām—of your good self; prapitāmahī—the great-grandmother.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Thus meditating on her family members and also on Kṛṣṇa, the Lord of the universe, your great-grandmother Kuntīdevī began to cry out in grief, O King.

TEXT 15

समदुःखसुखोऽक्रूरो
विदुरश्च महायशाः
सान्त्वयामासतुः कुन्तीं तत्पुत्रोत्पत्तिहेतुभिः

sama-duḥkha-sukho 'krūro viduraś ca mahā-yaśāḥ sāntvayām āsatuḥ kuntīm tat-putrotpatti-hetubhiḥ

SYNONYMS

sama—equal (with her); duḥkha—in distress; sukhaḥ—and happiness; akrūraḥ—Akrūra; viduraḥ—Vidura; ca—and; mahā-yaśāḥ—most famous;

sāntvayām āsatuh—the two of them consoled; kuntīm—Śrīmatī Kuntīdevī; tat—her; putra—of the sons; utpatti—of the births; hetubhiḥ—with explanations about the origins.

TRANSLATION

Both Akrūra, who shared Queen Kuntī's distress and happiness, and the illustrious Vidura consoled the Queen by reminding her of the extraordinary way her sons had taken birth.

PURPORT

Akrūra and Vidura reminded Queen Kuntī that her sons were born of heavenly gods and thus could not be vanquished like ordinary mortals. In fact, an extraordinary victory awaited this most pious family.

TEXT 16

यास्यन् राजानमभ्येत्य
विषमं पुत्रलालसम्
अवदत्सुहृदां मध्ये बन्धुभिः सौहृदोदितम्

yāsyān rājānam abhyetya viṣamaṁ putra-lālasam avadat suhṛdāṁ madhye bandhubhiḥ sauhṛdoditam

SYNONYMS

yāsyān—when he was about to go; rājānam—the King (Dhṛtarāṣṭra);

abhyetya—going up to; viṣamam—biased; putra—toward his sons; lālasam—ardently affectionate; avadat—he spoke; suhṛdām—relatives; madhye—among; bandhubhiḥ—by well-wishing relatives (Lord Kṛṣṇa and Lord Balarāma); sauhṛda—in friendship; uditam—what had been said.

TRANSLATION

The ardent affection King Dhṛtarāṣṭra felt for his sons had made him act unjustly toward the Pāṇḍavas. Just before leaving, Akrūra approached the King, who was seated among his friends and supporters, and related to him the message that his relatives—Lord Kṛṣṇa and Lord Balarāma—had sent out of friendship.

TEXT 17

अक्रूर उवाच
भो भो वैचित्रवीर्य त्वं
कुरूणां कीर्तिवर्धन
भ्रातर्युपरते पाण्डाव अधुनासनमास्थितः

akrūra uvāca
bho bho vaicitravīrya tvam kurūṇām kīrti-vardhana bhrātary uparate pāṇḍāv adhunāsanam āsthitaḥ

SYNONYMS

akrūraḥ uvāca—Akrūra said; bhoḥ bhoḥ—O my dear, my dear;

vaicitravīrya—son of Vicitravīrya; tvam—you; kurūṇām—of the Kurus; kīrti—the glory; vardhana—O you who increase; bhrātari—your brother; uparate—having passed away; pāṇḍau—Mahārāja Pāṇḍu; adhunā—now; āsanam—the throne; āsthitaḥ—have assumed.

TRANSLATION

Akrūra said: O my dear son of Vicitravīrya, O enhancer of the Kurus' glory, your brother Pāṇḍu having passed away, you have now assumed the royal throne.

PURPORT

Akrūra was speaking ironically, since the young sons of Pāṇḍu should actually have been occupying the throne. Upon the death of Pāṇḍu, they were too young to immediately govern and so were put in Dhṛtarāṣṭra's care, but now sufficient time had passed, and their legitimate rights should have been recognized.

TEXT 18

धर्मेण पालयन्नुर्वी
प्रजाः शीलेन रञ्जयन्
वर्तमानः समः स्वेषु श्रेयः कीर्तिमवाप्स्यसि

dharmeṇa pālayann urvīm prajāḥ śīlena rañjayan vartamānaḥ samaḥ sveṣu
śreyaḥ kīrtim avāpsyasi

SYNONYMS

dharmeṇa—religiously; pālayan—protecting; urvīm—the earth; prajāḥ—the citizens; śīlena—by good character; rañjayan—delighting; vartamānaḥ—remaining; samaḥ—equally disposed; sveṣu—to your relatives; śreyaḥ—perfection; kīrtim—glory; avāpsyasi—you will achieve.

TRANSLATION

By religiously protecting the earth, delighting your subjects with your noble character, and treating all your relatives equally, you will surely achieve success and glory.

PURPORT

Akrūra told Dhṛtarāṣṭra that even though he had usurped the throne, if he now ruled according to the principles of dharma and behaved properly, he could be successful.

TEXT 19

अन्यथा त्वाचरँल्लोके
गर्हितो यास्यसे तमः
तस्मात्समत्वे वर्तस्व पाण्डवेष्वात्मजेषु च

anyathā tv ācaraṁ lōke garhito yāsyase tamaḥ tasmāt samatve vartasva pāṇḍaveṣv ātmajeṣu ca

SYNONYMS

anyathā—otherwise; tu—however; ācaran—acting; loke—in this world; garhitaḥ—condemned; yāsyase—you will attain; tamaḥ—darkness; tasmāt—therefore; amatve—in equanimity; vartasva—remain situated; pāṇḍaveṣu—toward the Pāṇḍavas; ātma-jeṣu—toward your sons; ca—and.

TRANSLATION

If you act otherwise, however, people will condemn you in this world, and in the next life you will enter the darkness of hell. Remain equally disposed, therefore, toward Pāṇḍu's sons and your own.

PURPORT

Dhṛtarāṣṭra's whole problem was his excessive attachment to his nasty sons. That was the fatal flaw that caused his downfall. There was no lack of good advice from all sides, and Dhṛtarāṣṭra even admitted that the advice was sound, but he could not follow it. One can have clear, practical intelligence when the mind and heart are pure.

TEXT 20

नेह चात्यन्तसंवासः
कस्यचित्केनचित्सह
राजन् स्वेनापि देहेन
किमु जायात्मजादिभिः

neha cātyanta-samvāsaḥ
kasyacit kenacit saha

*rājan svenāpi dehena
kim u jāyātmajādibhiḥ*

SYNONYMS

na—not; iha—in this world; ca—and; atyanta—perpetual; saṁvāsaḥ—association (dwelling together); kasyacit—of anyone; kenacit saha—with anyone; rājan—O King; svena—with one's own; api—even; dehena—body; kim u—what to speak then; jāyā—with wife; ātma-ja—children; ādibhiḥ—and so on.

TRANSLATION

In this world no one has any permanent relationship with anyone else, O King. We cannot stay forever even with our own body, what to speak of our wife, children and the rest.

TEXT 21

एकः प्रसूयते जन्तुर
एक एव प्रलीयते
एकोऽनुभुङ्क्ते सुकृतम् एक एव च दुष्कृतम्

*ekaḥ prasūyate jantur
eka eva pralīyate
eko 'nubhuṅkte sukṛtam
eka eva ca duṣkṛtam*

SYNONYMS

ekaḥ—alone; prasūyate—is born; jantuḥ—a living creature; ekaḥ—alone; eva—also; pralīyate—meets his demise; ekaḥ—alone; anubhunkte—enjoys as is due him; sukṛtam—his good reactions; ekaḥ—alone; eva ca—and surely; duṣkṛtam—bad reactions.

TRANSLATION

Every creature is born alone and dies alone, and alone one experiences the just rewards of his good and evil deeds.

PURPORT

The term anubhunkte is significant here. Bhunkte means "(the living being) experiences," and anu means "following," or "in sequence." In other words, we experience happiness and distress according to the moral and spiritual quality of our activities. We are responsible for what we do. Dhṛtarāṣṭra was falsely and obsessively attached to his evil-minded sons, forgetting that he alone would have to suffer for his imprudent behavior.

TEXT 22

अधर्मोपचितं वित्तं
हरन्त्यन्येऽल्पमेधसः
सम्भोजनीयापदेशैर् जलानीव जलौकसः

adharmopacitaṁ vittaṁ
haranty anye 'lpa-medhasaḥ sambhojanīyāpadeśair jalānīva jalaukasah

SYNONYMS

adharma—by irreligious means; upacitam—gathered; vittam—wealth; haranti—steal; anye—other persons; alpa-medhasaḥ—of one who is unintelligent; sambhojanīya—as requiring support; apadeśaiḥ—by the false designations; jalāni—water; iva—as; jala-okasaḥ—of a resident of the water.

TRANSLATION

In the guise of dear dependents, strangers steal the sinfully acquired wealth of a foolish man, just as the offspring of a fish drink up the water that sustains the fish.

PURPORT

Ordinary people feel they cannot live without their wealth, although their possession of it is circumstantial and temporary. Just as wealth gives life to an ordinary man, water gives life to a fish. One's dear dependents, however, steal one's wealth, just as a fish's offspring drink up the water sustaining the fish. In the words of Śrīla Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, this world is "a weird abode."

TEXT 23

पुष्णाति यानधर्मेण
स्वबुद्ध्या तमपण्डितम्
तेऽकृतार्थं प्रहिण्वन्ति प्राणा रायः सुतादयः

puṣṇāti yān adharmeṇa
sva-buddhyā tam apaṇḍitam

te 'kṛtārtham prahiṇvanti prāṇā rāyaḥ sutādayaḥ

SYNONYMS

puṣṇāti—nourishes; yān—which things; adharmeṇa—by sinful activity; sva-buddhyā—thinking them to be his own; tam—him; apaṇḍitam—uneducated; te—they; akṛta-artham—his purposes frustrated; prahiṇvanti—abandon; prāṇāḥ—life air; rāyaḥ—wealth; suta-ādayaḥ—children and others.

TRANSLATION

A fool indulges in sin to maintain his life, wealth and children and other relatives, for he thinks, "These things are mine." In the end, however, these very things all abandon him, leaving him frustrated.

PURPORT

In these verses, Akrūra is giving rather frank advice to Dhṛtarāṣṭra. Those who know the story of the Mahābhārata will realize how relevant and prophetic these instructions are, and how much Dhṛtarāṣṭra suffered for not accepting them. Although one tenaciously clings to his property, in the end all is lost, and the blundering soul is swept away by the wheel of birth and death.

TEXT 24

स्वयं किल्बिषमादाय
तैस्त्यक्तो नार्थकोविदः
असिद्धार्थो विशत्यन्धं

स्वधर्मविमुखस्तमः

*svayaṁ kilbiṣam ādāya
taiṣ tyakto nārtha-kovidaḥ asiddhārtho viśaty andhaṁ sva-dharma-vimukhaḥ tamaḥ*

SYNONYMS

svayaṁ—for himself; kilbiṣam—sinful reaction; ādāya—taking on; taiḥ—by them; tyaktaḥ—abandoned; na—not; ārtha—the purpose of his life; kovidaḥ—knowing properly; asiddha—unfulfilled; ārthaḥ—whose goals; viśati—he enters; andhaṁ—blind; sva—his own; dharma—to the religious duty; vimukhaḥ—indifferent; tamaḥ—darkness (of hell).

TRANSLATION

Abandoned by his so-called dependents, ignorant of the actual goal of life, indifferent to his real duty, and having failed to fulfill his purposes, the foolish soul enters the blindness of hell, taking his sinful reactions with him.

PURPORT

It is sadly ironic that materialistic persons, who labor so assiduously to accumulate insurance, security, property and family, enter the darkness of hell equipped with nothing but the painful reactions of their sins. On the other hand, those who cultivate Kṛṣṇa consciousness, spiritual life, while apparently neglecting to accumulate property, a large family and so on, enter the next life enriched with many spiritual assets and thus enjoy the deep pleasures of the soul.

TEXT 25

तस्माल्लोकमिमं राजन्
स्वप्नमायामनोरथम्
वीक्ष्यायम्यात्मनात्मानं समः शान्तो भव प्रभो

*tasmāl lokam imam rājan svapna-māyā-manoratham vīkṣyāyamyātmanātmānam
samaḥ śānto bhava prabho*

SYNONYMS

tasmāt—therefore; lokam—world; imam—this; rājan—O King; svapna—as a dream; māyā—a magic trick; manaḥ-ratham—or a fantasy in the mind; vīkṣya—seeing; āyamyā—bringing under control; ātmanā—by intelligence; ātmānam—the mind; samaḥ—equal; śāntaḥ—peaceful; bhava—become; prabho—my dear master.

TRANSLATION

Therefore, O King, looking upon this world as a dream, a magician's illusion or a flight of fancy, please control your mind with intelligence and become equipoised and peaceful, my lord.

TEXT 26

धृतराष्ट्र उवाच
यथा वदति कल्याणीं
वाचं दानपते भवान्

तथानया न तृप्यामि मर्त्यः प्राप्य यथामृतम्

dhṛtarāṣṭra uvāca
yathā vadati kalyāṇīm
vācam dāna-pate bhavān tathānayā na tṛpyāmi
martyaḥ prāpya yathāmṛtam

SYNONYMS

dhṛtarāṣṭraḥ uvāca—Dhṛtarāṣṭra said; yathā—as; vadati—speak; kalyāṇīm—auspicious; vācam—words; dāna—of charity; pate—O master; bhavān—you; tathā—so; anayā—by this; na tṛpyāmi—I am not satiated; martyaḥ—a mortal; prāpya—attaining; yathā—as if; mṛtam—the nectar of immortality.

TRANSLATION

Dhṛtarāṣṭra said: O master of charity, I can never be satiated while hearing your auspicious words. Indeed, I am like a mortal who has obtained the nectar of the gods.

PURPORT

In the opinion of Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī, Dhṛtarāṣṭra was in fact proud and felt he already knew everything Akrūra was speaking, but to maintain diplomatic gravity he spoke as a saintly gentleman.

TEXT 27

तथापि सूनृता सौम्य
हृदि न स्थीयते चले
पुत्रानुरागविषमे विद्युत्सौदामनी यथा

*tathāpi sūnṛtā saumya
hṛdi na sthīyate cale putrānūrāga-viṣame
vidyut saudāmanī yathā*

SYNONYMS

tathā api—nevertheless; sūnṛtā—pleasing words; saumya—O gentle one; hṛdi—in my heart; na sthīyate—do not remain steady; cale—which is unsteady; putra—for my sons; anurāga—by affection; viṣame—prejudiced; vidyut—lightning; saudāmanī—in a cloud; yathā—as.

TRANSLATION

Even so, gentle Akrūra, because my unsteady heart is prejudiced by affection for my sons, these pleasing words of yours cannot remain fixed there, just as lightning cannot remain fixed in a cloud.

TEXT 28

ईश्वरस्य विधिं को नु
विधुनोत्यन्यथा पुमान्
भूमेर्भारावताराय

योऽवतीर्णो यदोः कुले

īśvarasya vidhim ko nu vidhunoty anyathā pumān bhūmer bhārāvatārāya yo 'vatīrṇo yadoḥ kule

SYNONYMS

īśvarasya—of the Supreme Lord; vidhim—the law; kaḥ—what; nu—at all; vidhunoti—can shake off; anyathā—otherwise; pumān—person; bhūmeḥ—of the earth; bhāra—the burden; avatārāya—in order to diminish; yaḥ—who; avatīrṇaḥ—has descended; yadoḥ—of Yadu; kule—in the family.

TRANSLATION

Who can defy the injunctions of the Supreme Lord, who has now descended in the Yadu dynasty to diminish the earth's burden?

PURPORT

Naturally, we would like to ask Dhṛtarāṣṭra, "If you know all this, why don't you behave properly?" Of course, this is exactly Dhṛtarāṣṭra's point: he feels that since events have already been set in motion, he is helpless to change them. In fact, events have been set in motion by his attachment and sinful propensities, and therefore he should have taken responsibility for his own acts. Lord Kṛṣṇa clearly states in the Bhagavad-gītā (5.15), nādatte kasyacit pāpam: "The Supreme Lord does not accept responsibility for anyone's sinful activities." It is a dangerous policy to claim that we are acting improperly because of "destiny" or "fate." We should take up Kṛṣṇa consciousness seriously and create an auspicious future for ourselves and our associates.

Finally, one may argue that, after all, Dhṛtarāṣṭra is involved in the Lord's pastimes and is actually His eternal associate. In answer to this we may say that the Lord's pastimes are not only entertaining but also didactic, and the lesson here is that Dhṛtarāṣṭra should have acted properly. This is what the Lord wanted to teach. Dhṛtarāṣṭra claims that Kṛṣṇa came to relieve the burden of the earth, but the earth's burden is precisely the improper behavior of its inhabitants. So, let us take the lesson the Lord wants to teach here and be instructed for our benefit.

TEXT 29

यो दुर्विमर्शपथया निजमाययेदं
सृष्ट्वा गुणान् विभजते तदनुप्रविष्टः
तस्मै नमो दुरवबोधविहारतन्त्र-संसारचक्रगतये परमेश्वराय yo durvimarśa-pathayā nija-māyayedam sṛṣṭvā guṇān vibhajate tad-anupraviṣṭaḥ tasmai namo duravabodha-vihāra-tantrasaṁsāra-cakra-gataye parameśvarāya

SYNONYMS

yaḥ—who; durvimarśa—inconceivable; pathayā—whose path; nija—by His own; māyayā—creative energy; idam—this universe; sṛṣṭvā—creating; guṇān—its modes; vibhajate—He distributes; tat—within it; anupraviṣṭaḥ—entering; tasmai—to Him; namaḥ—obeisances; duravabodha—unfathomable; vihāra—of whose pastimes; tantra—the purport; saṁsāra—of birth and death; cakra—the cycle; gataye—and liberation (coming from whom); parama-īśvarāya—to the supreme controller.

TRANSLATION

I offer my obeisances to Him, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, who creates this universe by the inconceivable activity of His material energy and then distributes the various modes of nature by entering within the creation. From Him, the meaning of whose pastimes is unfathomable, come both the entangling cycle of birth and death and the process of deliverance from it.

PURPORT

When all is said and done, Dhṛtarāṣṭra was not an ordinary person but an associate of the Supreme Lord, Kṛṣṇa. Certainly an ordinary person could not offer such a learned hymn to the Lord.

TEXT 30

श्रीशुक उवाच
इत्यभिप्रेत्य नृपतेर्
अभिप्रायं स यादवः
सुहृद्भिः समनुज्ञातः पुनर्यदुपुरीमगात्

śrī-śuka uvāca
ity abhipretya nṛpater abhiprāyaṁ sa yādavaḥ suhṛdbhiḥ samanujñātaḥ punar yadu-purīm agāt

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; iti—thus; abhipretya—ascertaining; nṛpateḥ—of the King; abhiprāyam—the mentality; saḥ—he; yādavaḥ—Akrūra, the descendant of King Yadu; suhṛdbhiḥ—by his well-wishers; samanujñātaḥ—given permission to leave; punaḥ—again; yadu-purīm—to the city of the Yadu dynasty; agāt—went.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Having thus apprised himself of the King's attitude, Akrūra, the descendant of Yadu, took permission from his well-wishing relatives and friends and returned to the capital of the Yādavas.

TEXT 31

शशंस रामकृष्णाभ्यां
धृतराष्ट्रविचेष्टितम्
पाण्डवान् प्रति कौरव्य यदर्थं प्रेषितः स्वयम्

śaśaṁsa rāma-kṛṣṇābhyām dhṛtarāṣṭra-viceṣṭitam pāṇḍavān prati kauravya yad-arthaṁ preṣitaḥ svayam

SYNONYMS

śaśaṁsa—he reported; rāma-kṛṣṇābhyām—to Lord Balarāma and Lord Kṛṣṇa; dhṛtarāṣṭra-viceṣṭitam—the behavior of King Dhṛtarāṣṭra; pāṇḍavān prati—toward the sons of Pāṇḍu; kauravya—O descendant of the Kurus (Parīkṣit); yat—for which; arthaṁ—purpose; preṣitaḥ—sent; svayam—himself.

TRANSLATION

Akrūra reported to Lord Balarāma and Lord Kṛṣṇa how Dhṛtarāṣṭra was behaving toward the Pāṇḍavas. Thus, O descendant of the Kurus, he fulfilled the purpose for which he had been sent.

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Forty-ninth Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "Akrūra's Mission in Hastināpura."

50. Kṛṣṇa Establishes the City of Dvārakā

This chapter relates how Lord Kṛṣṇa defeated Jarāsandha seventeen times in battle and then constructed the city of Dvārakā.

After Kāṁsa was killed, his two queens, Asti and Prāpti, went to the home of their father, Jarāsandha, and sorrowfully described to him how Kṛṣṇa had made them widows. Upon hearing this account, King Jarāsandha became angry. He vowed to rid the earth of all the Yādavas, and he gathered an immense army to lay siege to Mathurā. When Śrī Kṛṣṇa saw Jarāsandha attacking, the Lord considered the reasons for His descent to this world and then decided to destroy Jarāsandha's army, which was a burden to the earth.

Two effulgent chariots suddenly appeared, equipped with drivers and furnishings, together with all the Lord's personal weapons. Seeing this, Lord Kṛṣṇa addressed Lord Baladeva, "My dear brother, Jarāsandha is now attacking Mathurā-purī, so please mount Your chariot and let Us go destroy the enemy's army." The two Lords took up Their weapons, mounted Their chariots and went forth from the city.

When Lord Kṛṣṇa came before His opponent's army, He sounded His conchshell, striking fear into His enemies' hearts. King Jarāsandha surrounded Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma with his soldiers, chariots and so on, and the women of the city, having climbed up to the roofs of the palaces, became extremely unhappy because they could not see the Lords. Then Kṛṣṇa twanged His bow and started to rain down a torrent of arrows upon the enemy soldiers. Soon Jarāsandha's unfathomable army had been annihilated.

Then Lord Baladeva arrested Jarāsandha and was about to bind him up with ropes when Śrī Kṛṣṇa had Baladeva release the King. Lord Kṛṣṇa reasoned that Jarāsandha would assemble another army and return again to fight; this would facilitate Kṛṣṇa's goal of removing the earth's burden. Released, Jarāsandha returned to Magadha and vowed to perform austerities with the aim of avenging his defeat. The other kings advised him that his defeat was only a reaction of his karma. Thus informed, King Jarāsandha withdrew to his kingdom with a heavy heart.

Śrī Kṛṣṇa rejoined the citizens of Mathurā, who began rejoicing, singing songs of triumph and arranging victory celebrations. The Lord brought all the warriors' jewelry and ornaments that had been picked up from the battlefield and presented them to Mahārāja Ugrasena.

Jarāsandha attacked the Yādavas in Mathurā seventeen times, and each time his armies were totally destroyed. Then, as Jarāsandha prepared to attack for the eighteenth time, a warrior named Kālayavana, who had been searching for a worthy opponent, was sent by Nārada Muni to fight the Yādavas. With thirty million soldiers Kālayavana laid siege to the Yādava capital. Lord Kṛṣṇa looked upon this attack with concern, for He knew that with Jarāsandha's arrival imminent, there was a serious danger that the simultaneous attack of these two enemies might endanger the Yādavas. Therefore the Lord constructed a wonderful city within the sea as a safe haven for the Yādavas; then He brought them all there by His mystic power. This city was fully populated with members of all four social orders, and within it no one felt the pangs of thirst and hunger. The various demigods, headed by Indra, each offered as tribute to Lord Kṛṣṇa the same opulences they had originally obtained from Him to establish their positions of authority.

Once He saw His subjects safely settled, Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa took permission from Lord Baladeva and went out of Mathurā unarmed.

TEXT 1

श्रीशुक उवाच
अस्तिः प्राप्तिश्च कंसस्य
महिष्यौ भरतर्षभ
मृते भर्तारि दुःखार्ते ईयतुः स्म पितुर्गृहान्

śrī-śuka uvāca
astiḥ prāptiś ca kamsasya mahiṣyau bharatarṣabha mṛte bhartari duḥkhārte īyatuh sma pitur gṛhān

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; astiḥ prāptiḥ ca—Asti and Prāpti; kamsasya—of Kamsa; mahiṣyau—the queens; bharata-rṣabha—O hero of the Bhāratas (Parikṣit); mṛte—having been killed; bhartari—their husband; duḥkha—with unhappiness; ārte—distressed; īyatuh sma—they went; pituh—of their father; gṛhān—to the house.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: When Kāṁsa was killed, O heroic descendant of Bharata, his two queens, Asti and Prāpti, went to their father's house in great distress.

TEXT 2

पित्रे मगधराजाय
जरासन्धाय दुःखिते
वेद्यां चक्रतुः सर्वम् आत्मवैधव्यकारणम्

*pitre magadha-rājāya jarāsandhāya duḥkhite vedayām cakratuḥ sarvam
ātma-vaidhavya-kāraṇam*

SYNONYMS

pitre—to their father; magadha-rājāya—the King of Magadha; jarāsandhāya—named Jarāsandha; duḥkhite—unhappy; vedayām cakratuḥ—they related; sarvam—all; ātma—their own; vaidhavya—of widowhood; kāraṇam—the cause.

TRANSLATION

The sorrowful queens told their father, King Jarāsandha of Magadha, all about how they had become widows.

TEXT 3

स तदप्रियमाकर्ण्य
शोकामर्षयुतो नृप
अयादवीं महीं कर्तुं चक्रे परममुद्यमम्

*sa tad apriyam ākarṇya śokāmarṣa-yuto nṛpa ayādavīm mahīm kartum
cakre paramam udyamam*

SYNONYMS

saḥ—he, Jarāsandha; tat—that; apriyam—unpleasant news; ākarṇya—hearing; śoka—sorrow; amarṣa—and intolerant anger; yutaḥ—experiencing; nṛpa—O King; ayādavīm—devoid of Yādavas; mahīm—the earth; kartum—to make; cakre—he made; paramam—extreme; udyamam—endeavor.

TRANSLATION

Hearing this odious news, O King, Jarāsandha was filled with sorrow and anger, and he began the greatest possible endeavor to rid the earth of the Yādavas.

TEXT 4

अक्षौहिणीभिर्विशत्या
तिसृभिश्चापि संवृतः
यदुराजधानीं मथुरां

न्यरुधत्सर्वतो दिशम्

akṣauhiṇībhir vimśatyā tisṛbhiś cāpi samvṛtaḥ yadu-rājadhānīm mathurām nyarudhat sarvato diśam

SYNONYMS

akṣauhiṇībhiḥ—by akṣauhiṇī divisions (each consisting of 21,870 soldiers on elephants, 21,870 charioteers, 65,610 cavalymen and 109,350 infantry soldiers); vimśatyā—twenty; tisṛbhiḥ ca api—plus three; samvṛtaḥ—surrounded; yadu—of the dynasty of Yadu; rājadhānīm—the royal capital; mathurām—Mathurā; nyarudhat—he besieged; sarvataḥ diśam—on all sides.

TRANSLATION

With a force of twenty-three akṣauhiṇī divisions, he laid siege to the Yadu capital, Mathurā, on all sides.

PURPORT

The numbers involved in an akṣauhiṇī division are given in the word meanings. An akṣauhiṇī was a standard fighting force in ancient times.

TEXTS 5-6

निरीक्ष्य तद्वलं कृष्ण
उद्वेलमिव सागरम्
स्वपुरं तेन संरुद्धं

स्वजनं च भयाकुलम्

चिन्तयामास भगवान्

हरिः कारणमानुषः

तद्देशकालानुगुणं

स्वावतारप्रयोजनम्

*nirīkṣya tad-balaṁ kṛṣṇa udvelam iva sāgaram
sva-puraṁ tena saṁruddhaṁ sva-janaṁ ca bhayākulam*

*cintayām āsa bhagavān hariḥ kāraṇa-mānuṣaḥ tad-deśa-kālānugunaṁ
svāvatāra-prayojanam*

SYNONYMS

nirīkṣya—observing; tat—of him (Jarāsandha); balaṁ—the military force; kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; udvelam—having overflowed its boundaries; iva—like; sāgaram—an ocean; sva—His own; puraṁ—city, Mathurā; tena—by it; saṁruddham—besieged; sva-janaṁ—His subjects; ca—and; bhaya—by fear; ākulam—disturbed; cintayām āsa—He thought; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; hariḥ—Lord Hari; kāraṇa—the cause of everything; mānuṣaḥ—appearing as a human being; tat—for that; deśa—place; kāla—and time; anugunaṁ—suitable; sva-avatāra—of His descent to this world; prayojanam—the purpose.

TRANSLATION

Although Lord Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, is the original cause of this world, when He descended to the earth He played the role of a human being. Thus when He saw Jarāsandha's assembled army surrounding His city like a great ocean overflowing its shores, and when He saw how this army was striking fear into His subjects, the Lord considered what His suitable response should be according to the time, place and specific purpose of His current incarnation.

PURPORT

The ācāryas point out that the Supreme Godhead did not have to worry about a mortal attack from Jarāsandha and his soldiers. But, as stated here, Śrī Kṛṣṇa was playing the part of a human being (kāraṇa-mānuṣaḥ), and He played the part well. This play is called līlā, the Lord's enactment of spiritual pastimes for the pleasure of His devotees. Although ordinary persons may be dumbfounded by the Lord's pastimes, the devotees derive tremendous pleasure from His inimitable style of behavior. Thus Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī points out that Śrī Kṛṣṇa thought as follows: "How should I defeat Jarāsandha? Should I kill the army but not Jarāsandha, or should I kill Jarāsandha and take the army for Myself? Or perhaps I should just kill both of them." Lord Kṛṣṇa's conclusion is described in the following verses.

TEXTS 7-8

हनिष्यामि बलं ह्येतद्
भुवि भारं समाहितम्
मागधेन समानीतं
वश्यानां सर्वभूभुजाम्

अक्षौहिणीभिः सङ्ख्यातं

भटाधरथकुञ्जरैः
मागधस्तु न हन्तव्यो भूयः कर्ता बलोद्यमम्

haniṣyāmi balam hy etad bhuvi bhāram samāhitam māgadhenā samānītam vaśyānām sarva-bhūbhujām akṣauhiṇībhiḥ saṅkhyātam bhaṭāśva-ratha-kuñjaraiḥ māgadhas tu na hantavyo bhūyaḥ kartā balodyamam

SYNONYMS

haniṣyāmi—I will kill; balam—army; hi—certainly; etat—this; bhuvi—upon the earth; bhāram—a burden; samāhitam—collected; māgadhenā—by the King of Magadha, Jarāsandha; samānītam—brought together; vaśyānām—subservient; sarva—all; bhū-bhujām—of the kings; akṣauhiṇībhiḥ—in akṣauhiṇīs; saṅkhyātam—counted; bhaṭa—(consisting) of foot soldiers; śva—horses; ratha—chariots; kuñjaraiḥ—and elephants; māgadhaḥ—Jarāsandha; tu—however; na hantavyaḥ—should not be killed; bhūyaḥ—again; kartā—he will make; bala—(to collect) an army; udyamam—the endeavor.

TRANSLATION

[The Supreme Lord thought:] Since it is such a burden on the earth, I will destroy Jarāsandha's army, consisting of akṇauhiēēs of foot soldiers, horses, chariots and elephants, which the King of Māgadha has assembled from all subservient kings and brought together here. But Jarāsandha himself should not be killed, since in the future he will certainly assemble another army.

PURPORT

After due consideration, Lord Kṛṣṇa decided that since He had descended to the earth to destroy the demons, and since Jarāsandha was so enthusiastic to bring all the demons to the Lord's front door, it was definitely more efficient to keep Jarāsandha alive and busy.

TEXT 9

एतदर्थोऽवतारोऽयं
भूभारहरणाय मे
संरक्षणाय साधूनां
कृतोऽन्येषां वधाय च

*etat-artho 'vatāro 'yaṁ bhū-bhāra-haraṇāya me saṁrakṣaṇāya sādhūnām
kṛto 'nyeṣām vadhāya ca*

SYNONYMS

etat—for this; arthaḥ—purpose; avatāraḥ—descent; ayaṁ—this; bhū—of the earth; bhāra—the burden; haraṇāya—for removing; me—by Me; saṁrakṣaṇāya—for the complete protection; sādhūnām—of the saintly; kṛtaḥ—done; anyeṣām—of others (the nonsaintly); vadhāya—for killing; ca—and.

TRANSLATION

This is the purpose of My present incarnation—to relieve the earth of its burden, protect the pious and kill the impious.

TEXT 10

अन्योऽपि धर्मरक्षायै
देहः संभ्रियते मया
विरामायाप्यधर्मस्य काले प्रभवतः क्वचित्

anyo 'pi dharma-rakṣāyai dehaḥ sambhriyate mayā virāmāyāpy adharmasya kāle prabhavataḥ kvacit

SYNONYMS

anyaḥ—another; api—as well; dharma—of religion; rakṣāyai—for the protection; dehaḥ—body; sambhriyate—is assumed; mayā—by Me; virāmāya—for the stopping; api—also; adharmasya—of irreligion; kāle—in the course of time; prabhavataḥ—becoming prominent; kvacit—whenever.

TRANSLATION

I also assume other bodies to protect religion and to end irreligion whenever it flourishes in the course of time.

TEXT 11

एवं ध्यायति गोविन्द
आकाशात्सूर्यवर्चसौ
रथावुपस्थितौ सद्यः ससूतौ सपरिच्छदौ

*evam dhyāyati govinda ākāśāt sūrya-varcasau
rathāv upasthitau sadyaḥ
sa-sūtau sa-paricchadau*

SYNONYMS

evam—in this manner; dhyāyati—while He was meditating; govinde—Lord Kṛṣṇa; ākāśāt—from the sky; sūrya—like the sun; varcasau—having effulgence; rathau—two chariots; upasthitau—appeared; sadyaḥ—suddenly; sa—with; sūtau—drivers; sa—with; paricchadau—equipment.

TRANSLATION

[Śukadeva Gosvāmī continued:] As Lord Govinda was thinking in this way, two chariots as effulgent as the sun suddenly descended from the sky. They were complete with drivers and equipment.

PURPORT

Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī and Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī agree that the chariots came down from the Lord's own abode, Vaikuṇṭha-loka, the kingdom of God. The faithful devotees of the Lord derive tremendous pleasure by observing the Lord's incomparable technology.

TEXT 12

आयुधानि च दिव्यानि
पुराणानि यदृच्छया
दृष्ट्वा तानि हृषीकेशः सङ्कर्षणमथाब्रवीत्

*āyudhāni ca divyāni
purāṇāni yadṛccchayā dṛṣṭvā tāni hṛṣīkeśaḥ
saṅkarṣaṇam athābravīt*

SYNONYMS

āyudhāni—weapons; ca—and; divyāni—divine; purāṇāni—ancient;
yadṛccchayā—automatically; dṛṣṭvā—seeing; tāni—them; hṛṣīkeśaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; saṅkarṣaṇam—to Lord Balarāma; atha—then; abravīt—He spoke.

TRANSLATION

The Lord's eternal divine weapons also appeared before Him spontaneously.
Seeing these, Śrī Kṛṣṇa, Lord of the senses, addressed Lord Saṅkarṣaṇa.

TEXTS 13-14

पश्यार्य व्यसनं प्राप्तं
यदूनां त्वावतां प्रभो
एष ते रथ आयातो

दयितान्यायुधानि च

एतदर्थं हि नौ जन्म
साधूनामीश शर्मकृत
त्रयोविंशत्यनीकारख्यं भूमेर्भारमपाकुरु

*paśyārya vyasanam prāptam yadūnām tvāvatām prabho eṣa te ratha āyāto
dayitāny āyudhāni ca*

*etat-artham hi nau janma sādhūnām īśa śarma-kṛt trayo-vimśaty-anīkākhyam
bhūmer bhāram apākuru*

SYNONYMS

paśya—please see; ārya—respected one; vyasanam—the danger; prāptam—now present; yadūnām—for the Yadus; tvā—by You; avatām—who are protected; prabho—My dear master; eṣaḥ—this; te—Your; rathaḥ—chariot; āyātaḥ—has come; dayitāni—favorite; āyudhāni—weapons; ca—and; etat-artham—for this purpose; hi—indeed; nau—Our; janma—birth; sādhūnām—of the saintly devotees; īśa—O Lord; śarma—the benefit; kṛt—doing; trayaḥ-vimśati—twenty-three; anīka—armies; ākhyam—in terms of; bhūmeḥ—of the earth; bhāram—burden; apākuru—please remove.

TRANSLATION

[The Supreme Lord said:] My respected elder brother, see this danger which has beset Your dependents, the Yadus! And see, dear master, how Your personal chariot and favorite weapons have come before You. The purpose for which We have taken birth, My Lord, is to secure the welfare of Our devotees. Please now remove from the earth the burden of these twenty-three armies.

TEXT 15

एवं सम्मन्त्र्य दाशार्हौ
दंशितौ रथिनौ पुरात्
निर्जग्मतुः स्वायुधाढ्यौ बलेनाल्पीयसा वृत्तौ

evam sammantrya dāśārḥau daṁśitau rathinau purāt nirjagmatuḥ svāyudhāḍhyau balenālpīyasā vṛtau

SYNONYMS

evam—thus; sammantrya—inviting Him; dāśārḥau—the two descendants of Daśārha (Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma); daṁśitau—wearing armor; rathinau—riding Their chariots; purāt—from the city; nirjagmatuḥ—went out; sva—Their own; āyudha—with weapons; āḍhyau—resplendent; balena—by a force; alpīyasā—very small; vṛtau—accompanied.

TRANSLATION

After Lord Kṛṣṇa had thus invited His brother, the two Dāśārhas, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, wearing armor and displaying Their resplendent weapons, drove out of the city in Their chariots. Only a very small contingent of soldiers accompanied Them.

TEXT 16

शङ्खं दध्मौ विनिर्गत्य
हरिर्दारुकसारथिः
ततोऽभूत्परसैन्यानां
हृदि वित्रासवेपथुः

*śaṅkham dadhmau vinirgatya harir dāruka-sārathiḥ tato 'bhūt para-sainyānām
hṛdi vitrāsa-vepathuḥ*

SYNONYMS

śaṅkham—His conchshell; dadhmau—blew; vinirgatya—upon going out; hariḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; dāruka-sārathiḥ—whose chariot driver was Dāruka; tataḥ—thereupon; abhūt—arose; para—of the enemy; sainyānām—among the soldiers; hṛdi—in their hearts; vitṛāsa—in terror; vepathuḥ—trembling.

TRANSLATION

As Lord Kṛṣṇa came out of the city with Dāruka at the reins of His chariot, He blew His conchshell, and the enemy soldiers' hearts began to tremble with fear.

TEXT 17

तावाह मागधो वीक्ष्य

हे कृष्ण पुरुषाधम
न त्वया योद्धुमिच्छामि
बालेनैकेन लज्जया
गुप्तेन हि त्वया मन्द न योत्स्ये याहि बन्धुहन्

*tāv āha māgadho vīkṣya
he kṛṣṇa puruṣādhama na tvayā yoddhum icchāmi bālenaikena lajjayā guptena hi tvayā manda na yotsye yāhi bandhu-han*

SYNONYMS

tau—to the two of Them; āha—said; māgadhaḥ—Jarāsandha; vīkṣya—watching; he kṛṣṇa—O Kṛṣṇa; puruṣa-adhama—lowest of men; na—not; tvayā—with You; yoddhum—to fight; icchāmi—do I want; bālena—with a boy; ekena—alone; lajjayā—shamefully; guptena—hidden; hi—indeed; tvayā—with You; manda—O fool; na yotsye—I will not fight; yāhi—go away; bandhu—of relatives; han—O killer.

TRANSLATION

Jarāsandha looked at the two of Them and said: O Kṛṣṇa, lowest of men! I do not wish to fight alone with You, since it would be a shame to fight with a mere boy. You fool who keep Yourself hidden, O murderer of Your relatives, go away! I will not fight with You.

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī has interpreted Jarāsandha's words as follows. Puruṣādhama can be understood as puruṣa adhamā yasmāt, meaning "Kṛṣṇa, to whom all men are inferior." In other words, here Lord Kṛṣṇa is being addressed as "O Puruṣottama, best of living beings." Similarly, the word guptena, "hidden," indicates Lord Kṛṣṇa's aspect of being in everyone's heart and invisible to material vision. The words tvayā manda can also be divided, according to Sanskrit grammar, as tvayā amanda. In this case Jarāsandha is indicating that Kṛṣṇa is not foolish but rather most alert. The word bandhu was used by Jarāsandha in the sense of "relative," since Lord Kṛṣṇa killed His maternal uncle, Kāṁsa. However, bandhu comes from the verb bandh, "to bind," and therefore bandhu-han can be understood as "one who destroys the bondage of ignorance." Similarly, the word yāhi, "please go," indicates that Lord Kṛṣṇa should approach the living beings and bless them to become Kṛṣṇa conscious.

TEXT 18

तव राम यदि श्रद्धा
युध्यस्व धैर्यमुद्वह
हित्वा वा मच्छरैश्छिन्नं
देहं स्वर्याहि मां जहि

tava rāma yadi śraddhā yudhyasva dhairyam udvaha hitvā vā mac-charaiś chinnam deham svar yāhi mām jahi

SYNONYMS

tava—Your; rāma—O Balarāma; yadi—if; śraddhā—confidence; yudhyasva—fight; dhairyam—courage; udvaha—take up; hitvā—leaving aside;

vā—either; mat—my; śaraiḥ—by the arrows; chinnam—cut to pieces; deham—Your body; svaḥ—to heaven; yāhi—go; mām—(or else) me; jahi—kill.

TRANSLATION

You, Rāma, should gather Your courage and fight with me, if You think You can do it. You may either give up Your body when it is cut to pieces by my arrows, and thus attain to heaven, or else kill me.

PURPORT

According to ācārya Śrīdhara Svāmī, Jarāsandha suspected that Lord Balarāma's body was indestructible, and thus he offered what might be a more practical alternative, that Balarāma kill Jarāsandha.

TEXT 19

श्रीभगवानुवाच
न वै शूरा विकत्थन्ते
दर्शयन्त्येव पौरुषम्
न गृह्णीमो वचो राजन् आतुरस्य मुमूर्षतः

śrī-bhagavān uvāca
na vai śūrā vikatthante darśayanty eva pauruṣam na grhṇīmo vaco rājann āturasya mumūrṣataḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī-bhagavān uvāca—the Supreme Lord said; na—do not; vai—indeed; śūrāḥ—heroes; vikatthante—boast vainly; darśayanti—they show; eva—simply; pauruṣam—their prowess; na gṛhṇīmaḥ—We do not accept; vacaḥ—the words; rājan—O King; āturasya—of one who is mentally agitated; mumūrṣataḥ—who is about to die.

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Lord said: Real heroes do not simply boast but rather show their prowess in action. We cannot take seriously the words of one who is full of anxiety and who wants to die.

TEXT 20

श्रीशुक उवाच
जरासुतस्तावभिसृत्य माधवौ
महाबलौघेन बलीयसावृनोत्
ससैन्ययानध्वजवाजिसारथी सूर्यानलौ वायुरिवाभ्ररेणुभिः

śrī-śuka uvāca
jarā-sutas tāv abhisṛtya mādhevau mahā-balaughena balīyasāvṛnot sa-sainya-yāna-dhvaja-vāji-sārathī sūryānalau vāyur ivābhra-reṇubhiḥ śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; jarā-sutaḥ—the son of Jarā; tau—the two of Them; abhisṛtya—going up to; mādhavau—the descendants of Madhu; mahā—great; bala—of military prowess; oghena—with a flood; balīyasā—powerful; āvṛṇot—surrounded; sa—with; sainya—soldiers; yāna—chariots; dhvaja—flags; vāji—horses; sārathī—and charioteers; sūrya—the sun; analau—and a fire; vāyuḥ—the wind; iva—as; abhra—by clouds; reṇubhiḥ—and by particles of dust.

SYNONYMS

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Just as the wind covers the sun with clouds or a fire with dust, the son of Jarā marched toward the two descendants of Madhu and with his huge assemblage of armies surrounded Them and Their soldiers, chariots, flags, horses and charioteers.

PURPORT

Ācārya Śrīdhara points out that clouds only seem to cover the sun: the sun remains shining in the vast sky. Nor is the potency of fire affected by a thin covering of dust. Similarly, the "covering" of Jarāsandha's military strength was only apparent.

TEXT 21

सुपर्णतालध्वजचिह्नौ रथाव
अलक्षयन्त्यो हरिरामयोर्मृधे
स्त्रियः पुराट्टालकहर्म्यगोपुरं समाश्रिताः सम्मुमुहुः शुचार्दितः

suparṇa-tāla-dhvaja-cihitnau rathāv

alakṣayantyo hari-rāmayor mṛdhe striyaḥ purāṭṭālaka-harmya-gopuraṁ samāśritāḥ sammumuhuḥ śucārditaḥ

SYNONYMS

suparṇa—with (the symbol of) Garuḍa (the bird who carries Lord Viṣṇu); tāla—and the palm tree; dhvaja—by the banners; cihñitau—marked; rathau—the two chariots; alakṣayantyaḥ—not identifying; hari-rāmayoḥ—of Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma; mṛdhe—in the battle; striyaḥ—women; pura—of the city; aṭṭālaka—in the watchtowers; harmya—palaces; gopuram—and in the gateways; samāśritāḥ—having taken positions; sammumuhuḥ—fainted; śucā—by grief; arditāḥ—tormented.

TRANSLATION

The women stood in the watchtowers, palaces and high gates of the city. When they could no longer see Kṛṣṇa's and Balarāma's chariots, identified by banners marked with the emblems of Garuḍa and a palm tree, they were struck with grief and fainted.

PURPORT

The women are especially mentioned here because of their extraordinary attachment to Lord Kṛṣṇa and Lord Balarāma.

TEXT 22

हरिः परानीकपयोमुचां मुहुः
शिलीमुखात्युल्बणवर्षपीडितम्
स्वसैन्यमालोक्य सुरासुरार्चितं

व्यस्फूर्जयच्छार्ङ्गशरासनोत्तमम्

hariḥ parānīka-payomucām muhuḥ śīlīmukhāty-ulbaṇa-varṣa-pīḍitam sva-sainyam ālokya surāsurārcitam vyasphūrjayac chārṅga-śarāsanottamam

SYNONYMS

hariḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; para—of the enemy; anīka—of the armies; payah-mucām—(which were like) clouds; muhuḥ—repeatedly; śīlīmukha—of their arrows; ati—extremely; ulbaṇa—fearsome; varṣa—by the rain; pīḍitam—pained; sva—His own; sainyam—army; ālokya—seeing; sura—by demigods; asura—and demons; arcitam—worshiped; vyasphūrjayat—He twanged; śārṅga—known as Śārṅga; śara-asana—His bow; uttamam—most excellent.

TRANSLATION

Seeing His army tormented by the relentless and savage rain of arrows from the massive opposing forces gathered like clouds about Him, Lord Hari twanged His excellent bow, Śārṅga, which both gods and demons worship.

TEXT 23

गृह्णन्निशङ्गादथ सन्दधच्छरान्
विकृष्य मुञ्चन् शितबाणपूगान्
निघ्नन् रथान् कुञ्जरवाजिपत्तीन्
निरन्तरं यद्वदलातचक्रम्

grhṇan niśaṅgād atha sandadhac charān vikṛṣya muñcan śita-bāṇa-pūgān nighnan rathān kuñjara-vāji-pattīn nirantaram yadvat alāta-cakram

SYNONYMS

grhṇan—taking; niśaṅgāt—from His quiver; atha—then; sandadhat—fixing; śarān—arrows; vikṛṣya—pulling back; muñcan—releasing; śita—sharp; bāṇa—of arrows; pūgān—floods; nighnan—striking; rathān—chariots; kuñjara—elephants; vāji—horses; pattīn—and infantrymen; nirantaram—relentlessly; yadvat—just like; alāta-cakram—a burning torch whirled around to make a circle of fire.

TRANSLATION

Lord Kṛṣṇa took arrows from His quiver, fixed them on the bowstring, pulled back, and released endless torrents of sharp shafts, which struck the enemy's chariots, elephants, horses and infantrymen. The Lord shooting His arrows resembled a blazing circle of fire.

TEXT 24

निर्भिन्नकुम्भाः करिणो निपेतुर्
अनेकशोऽश्वाः शरवृक्णकन्धराः रथा हताश्वध्वजसूतनायकाः पदायतश्छिन्नभुजोरुकन्धराः

nirbhinna-kumbhāḥ kariṇo nipetur anekaśo 'śvāḥ śara-vṛkṇa-kandharāḥ

rathā hatāśva-dhvaja-sūta-nāyakāḥ padāyataś chinna-bhujoru-kandharāḥ

SYNONYMS

nirbhinna—split; kumbhāḥ—the protuberances of their foreheads; kariṇaḥ—elephants; nipetuḥ—fell; anekaśaḥ—many at a time; aśvāḥ—horses; śara—by the arrows; vṛkṇa—severed; kandharāḥ—whose necks; rathāḥ—chariots; hata—struck; aśva—whose horses; dhvaja—flags; sūta—drivers; nāyakāḥ—and masters; padāyataḥ—foot soldiers; chinna—cut; bhuja—whose arms; ūru—thighs; kandharāḥ—and shoulders.

TRANSLATION

Elephants fell to the ground, their foreheads split open, cavalry horses fell with severed necks, chariots fell with their horses, flags, drivers and masters all shattered, and foot soldiers collapsed with severed arms, thighs and shoulders.

TEXTS 25-28

सञ्छिद्यमानद्विपदेभवाजिनाम्
अङ्गप्रसूताः शतशोऽसृगापगाः
भुजाहयः पूरुषशीर्षिकच्छपा
हतद्विपद्वीपहय ग्रहाकुलाः

करोरुमीना नरकेशशैवला
धनुस्तरङ्गायुधगुल्मसङ्कुलाः
अच्छूरिकावर्तभयानका महा-

मणिप्रवेकाभरणाश्मशर्कराः

प्रवर्तिता भीरुभयावहा मृधे
मनस्विनां हर्षकरीः परस्परम्
विनिघ्नतारीन्मुषलेन दुर्मदान्
सङ्कर्षणेनापरीमेयतेजसा

बलं तदङ्गार्णवदुर्गभैरवं
दुरन्तपारं मगधेन्द्रपालितम्
क्षयं प्रणीतं वसुवपुत्रयोर् विक्रीडितं तज्जगदीशयोः परम्

sañchidyamāna-dvipadebha-vājinām aṅga-prasūtāḥ śataśo 'sṛg-āpagāḥ bhujāhayaḥ pūruṣa-śīrṣa-kacchapā hata-dvipa-dvīpa-haya grahākulāḥ karoru-mīnā nara-keśa-śaivalā dhanus-taraṅgāyudha-gulma-saṅkulāḥ acchūrikāvarta-bhayānakā mahā-maṇi-pravekābharaṇāśma-śarkarāḥ pravartitā bhīru-bhayāvahā mṛdhe manasvinām harṣa-karīḥ parasparam vinighnatārīn muṣalena durmadān saṅkarṣaṇenāparīmeya-tejasā

balam tad aṅgārṇava-durga-bhairavam duranta-pāram magadhendra-pālitam kṣayam praṇītam vasudeva-putrayor vikrīḍitaṁ taj jagad-īśayoḥ param

SYNONYMS

sañchidyamāna—being cut to pieces; dvi-pada—of the two-legged (humans); ibha—elephants; vājinām—and horses; aṅga—from the limbs; prasūtāḥ—flowing; śataśaḥ—by the hundreds; aṣṭk—of blood; āpa-gaḥ—rivers; bhuja—arms; ahayaḥ—as the snakes; pūruṣa—of men; śīrṣa—heads; kacchapāḥ—as the turtles; hata—dead; dvīpa—with elephants; dvīpa—as islands; haya—and with horses; graha—as crocodiles; ākulāḥ—filled; kara—hands; ūru—and thighs; mīnaḥ—as the fish; nara—human; keśa—hair; śaivalāḥ—as the aquatic weeds; dhanuḥ—with bows; taraṅga—as the waves; āyudha—and with weapons; gulma—as the clumps of bushes; saṅkulāḥ—crowded; acchūrikā—chariot wheels; āvarta—as the whirlpools; bhayānakāḥ—fearful; mahā-maṇi—precious gems; praveka—excellent; ābharaṇa—and ornaments; aśma—as the stones; śarkarāḥ—and gravel; pravartitāḥ—issuing forth; bhīru—for the timid; bhaya-āvahāḥ—terrifying; mṛdhe—on the battlefield; manasvinām—for the intelligent; harṣa-karīḥ—inspiring joy; parasparam—from one to another; vinighnatā—who was striking down; arīn—His enemies; muṣalena—with His plow weapon; durmadān—who were furious; saṅkarṣaṇena—by Lord Balarāma; aparimeya—immeasurable; tejasā—whose potency; balam—military force; tat—that; aṅga—my dear (King Parikṣit); aṇava—like the ocean; durga—unfathomable; bhairavam—and frightening; duranta—impossible to cross over; pāram—whose limit; magadha-indra—by the King of Magadha, Jarāsandha; pālitaṁ—overseen; kṣayam—to destruction; praṇītaṁ—led; vasudeva-putrayoḥ—for the sons of Vasudeva; vikrīḍitaṁ—play; tat—that; jagat—of the universe; īśayoḥ—for the Lords; param—at most.

TRANSLATION

On the battlefield, hundreds of rivers of blood flowed from the limbs of the humans, elephants and horses who had been cut to pieces. In these rivers arms resembled snakes; human heads, turtles; dead elephants, islands; and dead horses, crocodiles. Hands and thighs appeared like fish, human hair like waterweeds, bows like waves, and various weapons like clumps of bushes. The rivers of blood teemed with all of these.

Chariot wheels looked like terrifying whirlpools, and precious gems and ornaments resembled stones and gravel in the rushing red rivers, which aroused fear in the timid, joy in the wise. With the blows of His plow weapon the immeasurably powerful Lord Balarāma destroyed Magadhendra's military force. And though this force was as unfathomable and fearsome as an impassable ocean, for the two sons of Vasudeva, the Lords of the universe, the battle was hardly more than play.

TEXT 29

स्थित्युद्भवान्तं भुवनत्रयस्य यः
समीहितेऽनन्तगुणः स्वलीलया
न तस्य चित्रं परपक्षनिग्रहस तथापि मर्त्यानुविधस्य वर्ण्यते

sthity-udbhavāntaṁ bhuvana-trayasya yaḥ samīhite 'nanta-guṇaḥ sva-līlayā na tasya citraṁ para-pakṣa-nigrahas tathāpi martyānuvidhasya varṇyate

SYNONYMS

sthiti—the maintenance; udbhava—creation; antaṁ—and annihilation; bhuvana-trayasya—of the three worlds; yaḥ—who; samīhite—effects; ananta—unlimited; guṇaḥ—whose transcendental qualities; sva-līlayā—as His own pastime; na—not; tasya—for Him; citram—wonderful; para—opposing; pakṣa—of the party; nigrahaḥ—the subduing; tathā api—nevertheless; martya—human beings; anuvīdhasya—who is imitating; varṇyate—it is described.

TRANSLATION

For Him who orchestrates the creation, maintenance and destruction of the three worlds and who possesses unlimited spiritual qualities, it is hardly amazing that He subdues an opposing party. Still, when the Lord does so, imitating human behavior, sages glorify His acts.

PURPORT

The philosopher Aristotle once argued that the Supreme God would hardly take part in human activities, since all ordinary activities are unworthy of such a divine being. Similarly, Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī, who almost certainly never read the works of Aristotle, raises a similar point. Since Śrī Kṛṣṇa creates, maintains and annihilates the entire universe, isn't it an uninteresting mismatch when He fights against Jarāsandha?

The answer is as follows: The Lord plays the part of a human being and, expanding His pleasure potency, creates thrilling transcendental pastimes full of suspense and dynamic action. By the Lord's Yogamāyā potency, He appears exactly like a human being, and thus we may enjoy the spectacle of the Supreme Person acting on the earthly stage. Undoubtedly, stubborn agnostics will argue that since Kṛṣṇa is God, there is no real suspense involved. Such skeptics simply do not understand Kṛṣṇa's attractive potency. Beauty and drama, even on the material stage, possess their own fascinating logic, and similarly we love Kṛṣṇa for His own sake, we appreciate His beauty for its own sake, and we enjoy Kṛṣṇa's pastimes because they are in fact wonderful in and of themselves. In fact, Kṛṣṇa executes His pastimes not for a mundane egotistical purpose but for our pleasure. Thus the presentation of spiritual pastimes is itself an act of love that Kṛṣṇa performs for the infinite spiritual happiness of pure-hearted souls who have transcended material envy of the Godhead.

In this regard, Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī quotes an important verse from the Gopāla-tāpanī Upaniṣad: narākṛti para-brahma kāraṇa-mānuṣaḥ. "The Supreme Absolute Truth, for His own purpose, appears in a humanlike form, although He is the source of everything." Similarly, in the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam (10.14.32) we find, yan-mitraṁ paramānandaṁ pūrṇaṁ brahma sanātanam: "The source of transcendental bliss, the eternal Supreme Brahman, has become their friend."

TEXT 30

जग्राह विरथं रामो
जरासन्धं महाबलम्
हतानीकावशिष्टासुं सिंहः सिंहमिवौजसा

jagrāha viratham rāmo
jarāsandham mahā-balam hatānīkāvaśiṣṭāsuṁ
siṁhaḥ siṁham ivaujasā

SYNONYMS

jagrāha—He seized; viratham—who was deprived of his chariot; rāmaḥ—Lord Balarāma; jarāsandham—Jarāsandha; mahā—very; balam—strong; hata—killed; anīka—whose army; avaśiṣṭa—remaining; asum—whose breath; siṁhaḥ—a lion; siṁham—another lion; iva—as; ojasā—forcibly.

TRANSLATION

Jarāsandha, with his chariot lost and all his soldiers dead, was left with only his breath. At that point Lord Balarāma forcibly seized the powerful warrior, just as one lion takes hold of another.

TEXT 31

बध्यमानं हतारातिं
पाशैर्वारुणमानुषैः
वारयामास गोविन्दस
तेन कार्यचिकीर्षया

*badhyamānaṁ hatārātiṁ pāśair vāruṇa-mānuṣaiḥ vārayām āsa govindas
tena kārya-cikīrṣayā*

SYNONYMS

badhyamānam—in the process of being tied up; hata—who had killed; arātiṁ—his enemies; pāśaiḥ—with ropes; vāruṇa—those of the demigod Varuna; mānuṣaiḥ—and those of ordinary humans; vārayām āsa—checked Him; govindaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; tena—by him (Jarāsandha); kārya—some need; cikīrṣayā—desiring to fulfill.

TRANSLATION

With the divine noose of Varuṇa and other, mortal ropes, Balarāma began tying up Jarāsandha, who had killed so many foes. But Lord Govinda still had a purpose to fulfill through Jarāsandha, and thus He asked Balarāma to stop.

PURPORT

The word hatārātim means "who has killed his enemies," or "through whom his enemies would be killed." Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī has provided this thoughtful note.

TEXTS 32-33

सा मुक्तो लोकनाथाभ्यां
व्रीडितो वीरसम्मतः
तपसे कृतसङ्कल्पो
वारितः पथि राजभिः

वाक्यैः पवित्रार्थपदैर्
नयनैः प्राकृतैरपि
स्वकर्मबन्धप्राप्तोऽयं यदुभिस्ते पराभवः

*sā mukto loka-nāthābhyām vrīḍito vīra-sammataḥ tapase kṛta-saṅkalpo
vāritaḥ pathi rājabhiḥ*

vākyaiḥ pavitrārtha-padair nayanaiḥ prākṛtair api sva-karma-bandha-prāpto 'yaṁ yadubhis te parābhavaḥ

SYNONYMS

saḥ—he, Jarāsandha; muktaḥ—freed; loka-nāthābhyām—by the two Lords of the universe; vrīḍitaḥ—ashamed; vīra—by heroes; sammataḥ—honored; tapase—to perform austerities; kṛta-saṅkalpaḥ—having made up his mind; vāritaḥ—was stopped; pathi—on the road; rājabhiḥ—by kings; vākyaiḥ—with statements; pavitra—purifying; artha—having meanings; padaiḥ—with words; nayanaiḥ—with reasoning; prākṛtaiḥ—mundane; api—also; sva—own; karma-bandha—due to the unavoidable reactions of past work; prāptaḥ—obtained; ayam—this; yadubhiḥ—by the Yadus; te—your; parābhavaḥ—defeat.

TRANSLATION

Jarāsandha, whom fighters had highly honored, was ashamed after being released by the two Lords of the universe, and thus he decided to undergo penances. On the road, however, several kings convinced him with both spiritual wisdom and mundane arguments that he should give up his idea of self-abnegation. They told him, "Your defeat by the Yadus was simply the unavoidable reaction of your past karma."

TEXT 34

हतेषु सर्वानीकेषु
नृपो बार्हद्रथस्तदा
उपेक्षितो भगवता मगधान्दुर्मना ययौ

hateṣu sarvānīkeṣu

*nṛpo bārhadhrathas tadā upekṣito bhagavatā
magadhān durmanā yayau*

SYNONYMS

hateṣu—having been killed; sarva—all; anīkeṣu—the soldiers of his armies; nṛpaḥ—the king; bārhadhrathaḥ—Jarāsandha, the son of Bṛhadhratha; tadā—then; upekṣita h—neglected; bhagavatā—by the Supreme Lord; magadhān—to the Magadha kingdom; durmanāḥ—depressed; yayau—he went.

TRANSLATION

All of his armies having been killed, and himself neglected by the Personality of Godhead, King Jarāsandha, son of Bṛhadhratha, then sadly returned to the kingdom of the Magadhas.

TEXTS 35-36

मुकुन्दोऽप्यक्षतबलो
निस्तीर्णारिबलार्णवः
विकीर्यमाणः कुसुमैस्
त्रीदशैरनुमोदितः

माथुरैरुपसङ्गम्य
विज्वरैर्मुदितात्मभिः
उपगीयमानविजयः सूतमागधवन्दिभिः

*mukundo 'py akṣata-balo nistīrṇāri-balārṇavaḥ vikīryamāṇaḥ kusumais tridaśair anumoditaḥ

māthurair upasaṅgamyā vijvarair muditātmabhiḥ upagīyamāna-vijayaḥ
sūta-māgadha-vandibhiḥ*

SYNONYMS

mukundaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; api—and; akṣata—unbroken; balaḥ—His military force; nistīrṇa—having crossed over; ari—of His enemy; bala—of the armies; arṇavaḥ—the ocean; vikīryamāṇaḥ—having scattered upon Him; kusumaiḥ—flowers; tridaśaiḥ—by the demigods; anumoditaḥ—congratulated; māthuraiḥ—by the people of Mathurā; upasaṅgamyā—being met; vijvaraiḥ—who were relieved of their fever; mudita-ātmabhiḥ—who felt great joy; upagīyamāna—being sung about; vijayaḥ—His victory; sūta—by Purāṇic bards; māgadha—panegyrists; vandibhiḥ—and heralds.

TRANSLATION

Lord Mukunda had crossed the ocean of His enemy's armies with His own military force completely intact. He received congratulations from the denizens of heaven, who showered Him with flowers. The people of Mathurā, relieved of their feverish anxiety and filled with joy, came out to meet Him as professional bards, heralds and panegyrists sang in praise of His victory.

TEXTS 37-38

शङ्खदुन्दुभयो नेदुर

भेरीतूर्याण्यनेकशः
वीणावेणुमृदङ्गानि
पुरं प्रविशति प्रभौ

सिक्तमार्गां हृष्टजनां
पताकाभिरभ्यलङ्कृताम्
निर्घुष्टां ब्रह्मघोषेण कौतुकाबद्धतोरणाम्

śaṅkha-duṇḍubhayo nedur
bherī-tūryāṇy anekaśaḥ vīṇā-veṇu-mṛdaṅgāni
puram praviśati prabhau

sikta-mārgām hṛṣṭa-janām patākābhir abhyalaṅkṛtām nirghuṣṭām brahma-ghoṣeṇa kautukābaddha-toraṇām

SYNONYMS

śaṅkha—conchshells; duṇḍubhayaḥ—and kettledrums; neduḥ—sounded; bherī—drums; tūryāṇi—and horns; anekaśaḥ—many at once; vīṇā-veṇu-mṛdaṅgāni—vīṇās, flutes and mṛdaṅga drums; puram—the city (Mathurā); praviśati—as He entered; prabhau—the Lord; sikta—sprinkled with water; mārgām—its boulevards; hṛṣṭa—joyful; janām—its citizens; patākābhiḥ—with banners; abhyalaṅkṛtām—abundantly decorated; nirghuṣṭām—resounding; brahma—of the Vedas; ghoṣeṇa—with chanting; kautuka—festive; ābaddha—ornaments; toraṇām—on its gateways.

TRANSLATION

As the Lord entered His city, conchshells and kettledrums sounded, and many drums, horns, veëäs, flutes and mādaì gas played in concert. The boulevards were sprinkled with water, there were banners everywhere, and the gateways were decorated for the celebration. The citizens were elated, and the city resounded with the chanting of Vedic hymns.

TEXT 39

निचीयमानो नारीभिर्
माल्यदध्यक्षताङ्कुरैः
निरीक्ष्यमाणः सस्नेहं प्रीत्युत्कलितलोचनैः

*nicīyamāno nārībhir
mālya-dadhy-akṣatāṅkuraiḥ nirīkṣyamāṇaḥ sa-sneham
prīty-utkalita-locanaiḥ*

SYNONYMS

nicīyamānaḥ—having scattered upon Him; nārībhiḥ—by the women; mālya—flower garlands; dadhi—yogurt; akṣata—parched rice; aṅkuraiḥ—and sprouts; nirīkṣyamāṇaḥ—being looked on; sa-sneham—affectionately; prīti—out of love; utkalita—opened wide; locanaiḥ—with eyes.

TRANSLATION

As the women of the city affectionately looked at the Lord, their eyes wide open with love, they scattered flower garlands, yogurt, parched rice and newly grown sprouts upon Him.

PURPORT

All this is taking place as Lord Kṛṣṇa enters the city of Mathurā.

TEXT 40

आयोधनगतं वित्तम्
अनन्तं वीरभूषणम्
यदुराजाय तत्सर्वम् आहृतं प्रादिशत्प्रभुः

*āyodhana-gatam vittam anantam vīra-bhūṣaṇam yadu-rājāya tat sarvam
āhṛtam prādiśat prabhuḥ*

SYNONYMS

āyodhana-gatam—fallen on the battlefield; vittam—the valuables; anantam—countless; vīra—of the heroes; bhūṣaṇam—the ornaments; yadu-rājāya—to the King of the Yadus, Ugrasena; tat—that; sarvam—all; āhṛtam—which was brought; prādiśat—presented; prabhuḥ—the Lord.

TRANSLATION

Lord Kṛṣṇa then presented to the Yadu king all the wealth that had fallen on the battlefield—namely, the countless ornaments of the dead warriors.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī adds that jeweled ornaments had also been collected from the horses and other animals. What might be added here, for the sake of the squeamish, is that Jarāsandha came to Mathurā with the clear intention of slaughtering every last man in the city, including Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma. It is out of the causeless mercy of the Lord that He gives the conditioned souls a taste of their own medicine and thus helps them become more sensitive to the laws of nature and the existence of a Supreme Godhead. Ultimately, Kṛṣṇa awarded Jarāsandha and others killed on the battlefield spiritual liberation. The Lord is strict, but He is not malicious. In fact, He is an ocean of mercy.

TEXT 41

एवं सप्तदशकृत्वस्
तावत्यक्षौहिणीबलः
युयुधे मागधो राजा
यदुभिः कृष्णपालितैः

evam sapṭadaśa-kṛtvas tāvaty akṣauhiṇī-balaḥ yuyudhe māgadho rājā yadubhiḥ kṛṣṇa-pālitaiḥ

SYNONYMS

evam—in this way; sapṭa-daśa—seventeen; kṛtvaḥ—times; tāvati—even thus (being defeated); akṣauhiṇī—consisting of entire divisions; balaḥ—His military strength; yuyudhe—fought; māgadhaḥ rājā—the King of Magadha;

yadubhiḥ—with the Yadus; kṛṣṇa-pālitaḥ—protected by Kṛṣṇa.

TRANSLATION

Seventeen times the King of Magadha met defeat in this very way. And yet throughout these defeats he fought on with his akṇauhiēt divisions against the forces of the Yadu dynasty who were protected by Śrī Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 42

अक्षिण्वंस्तद्वलं सर्वं
वृष्णयः कृष्णतेजसा
हतेषु स्वेष्ट्वनीकेषु त्यक्तोऽगादरिभिर्नृपः

*akṣiṇvaṁs tad-balaṁ sarvaṁ vṛṣṇayaḥ kṛṣṇa-tejasā hateṣu sveṣṭv anīkeṣu
tyakto 'gād aribhir nṛpaḥ*

SYNONYMS

akṣiṇvan—they destroyed; tat—his; balaṁ—force; sarvaṁ—entire; vṛṣṇayaḥ—the Vṛṣṇis; kṛṣṇa-tejasā—by the power of Lord Kṛṣṇa; hateṣu—when they were dead; sveṣṭu—his; anīkeṣu—soldiers; tyaktaḥ—abandoned; agāt—went away; aribhiḥ—by his enemies; nṛpaḥ—the King, Jarāsandha.

TRANSLATION

By the power of Lord Kṛṣṇa, the Vṛṣṇis would invariably annihilate all of Jarāsandha's forces, and when all his soldiers had been killed, the King, released by his enemies, would again go away.

TEXT 43

अष्टादशम सङ्ग्राम
आगामिनि तदन्तरा
नारदप्रेषितो वीरो यवनः प्रत्यदृश्यत

*aṣṭādaśama saṅgrāma
āgāmini tad-antarā
nārada-preṣito vīro
yavanaḥ pratyadṛśyata*

SYNONYMS

aṣṭā-daśama—the eighteenth; saṅgrāme—battle; āgāmini—being about to happen; tat-antarā—at that instant; nārada—by the sage Nārada; preṣitaḥ—sent; vīraḥ—a fighter; yavanaḥ—a barbarian (named Kālayavana); pratyadṛśyata—appeared.

TRANSLATION

Just as the eighteenth battle was about to take place, a barbarian warrior named Kālayavana, sent by Nārada, appeared on the battlefield.

TEXT 44

रुरोध मथुरामेत्य
तिसृभिर्म्लेच्छकोटिभिः
नृलोके चाप्रतिद्वन्द्वो वृष्णीन् श्रुत्वात्मसम्मितान्

*rurodha mathurām etya tisṛbhir mleccha-koṭibhiḥ nṛ-loke cāpratidvandvo
vṛṣṇīn śrutvātma-sammitān*

SYNONYMS

rurodha—he besieged; mathurām—Mathurā; etya—arriving there; tisṛbhiḥ—times three; mleccha—with barbarians; koṭibhiḥ—ten million; nṛ-loke—among mankind; ca—and; apratidvandvaḥ—having no suitable rival; vṛṣṇīn—the Vṛṣṇis; śrutvā—hearing; ātma—to himself; sammitān—comparable.

TRANSLATION

Arriving at Mathurā, this Yavana laid siege to the city with thirty million barbarian soldiers. He had never found a human rival worth fighting, but he had heard that the Vṛṣṇis were his equals.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī quotes from the Viṣṇu Purāṇa concerning the history of Kālayavana: "Once, Gārgya was ridiculed by his brother-in-law as a eunuch, and when the Yādavas heard this they laughed heartily. Infuriated by their laughter, Gārgya set out for the south, thinking, 'May I have a son who will bring terror to the Yādavas.' He worshiped Lord Mahādeva, eating powdered iron, and after twelve years obtained his desired benediction. Elated, he returned home.

"Later, when the childless King of the Yavanas requested a son from him, Gārgya begot in the Yavana's wife a son, Kālayavana. Kālayavana possessed the fury of Lord Śiva in his aspect as Mahākāla. Once, Kālayavana asked Nārada, 'Who are now the strongest kings on earth?' Nārada replied that the Yadus were. Thus sent by Nārada, Kālayavana appeared at Mathurā."

TEXT 45

तं दृष्ट्वाचिन्तयत्कृष्णः
सङ्कर्षण सहायवान्
अहो यदूनां वृजिनं
प्राप्तं ह्युभयतो महत्

*taṁ dṛṣṭvācintayat kṛṣṇaḥ saṅkarṣaṇa sahāyavān
aho yadūnām vṛjinam prāptam hy ubhayato mahat*

SYNONYMS

tam—him; dṛṣṭvā—seeing; acintayat—thought; kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; saṅkarṣaṇa—by Lord Balarāma; sahāya-van—assisted; aho—ah; yadūnām—for the Yadus; vṛjinam—a problem; prāptam—arrived; hi—indeed; ubhayataḥ—from both sides (from Kālayavana and also from Jarāsandha); mahat—great.

TRANSLATION

When Lord Kṛṣṇa and Lord Saṅkarṣaṇa saw Kālayavana, Kṛṣṇa thought about the situation and said, "Ah, a great danger now threatens the Yadus from two sides.

PURPORT

We may note here that although Śrī Kṛṣṇa had defeated Jarāsandha seventeen times against tremendous odds, He did not immediately annihilate the army of Kālayavana, thus keeping intact the benediction granted to Gargya by Lord Śiva, as explained in the previous purport.

TEXT 46

यवनोऽयं निरुन्देऽस्मान्
अद्य तावन्महाबलः
मागधोऽप्यद्य वा श्वो वा परश्वो वागमिष्यति

yavano 'yaṁ nirundhe 'smān adya tāvan mahā-balaḥ māgadho 'py adya vā śvo vā paraśvo vāgamiṣyati

SYNONYMS

yavanaḥ—foreign barbarian; ayam—this; nirundhe—is opposing; asmān—us; adya—today; tāvat—as much; mahā-balaḥ—greatly powerful; māgadhaḥ—Jarāsandha; api—also; adya—today; vā—or; śvaḥ—tomorrow; vā—or; para-śvaḥ—the day after tomorrow; vā—or; āgamiṣyati—will come.

TRANSLATION

"This Yavana is besieging us already, and the mighty King of Magadha will soon arrive here, if not today then tomorrow or the next day.

TEXT 47

आवयोः युध्यतोरस्य
यद्यागन्ता जरासुतः
बन्धून् हनिष्यत्यथ वा नेष्यते स्वपुरं बली

āvayoḥ yudhyator asya yady āgantā jarā-sutaḥ bandhūn haniṣyaty atha vā neṣyate sva-puraṁ balī

SYNONYMS

āvayoḥ—the two of Us; yudhyatoḥ—while fighting; asya—with him (Kālayavana); yady—if; āgantā—comes; jarā-sutaḥ—the son of Jarā; bandhūn—Our relatives; haniṣyati—he will kill; atha vā—or else; neṣyate—he will take; sva—to his own; puraṁ—city; balī—strong.

TRANSLATION

"If powerful Jarāsandha comes while We two are busy fighting Kālayavana, Jarāsandha may kill Our relatives or else take them away to his capital.

TEXT 48

तस्मादद्य विधास्यामो
दुर्गं द्विपददुर्गमम्
तत्र ज्ञातीन् समाधाय यवनं घातयामहे

*tasmād adya vidhāsyāmo durgam̐ dvipada-durgamam tatra jñātīn samādhāya
yavanam̐ ghātayāmahe*

SYNONYMS

tasmāt—therefore; adya—today; vidhāsyāmaḥ—We will construct; durgam—a fortress; dvipada—to humans; durgamam—insurmountable; tatra—there; jñātīn—Our family members; samādhāya—settling; yavanam—the barbarian; ghātayāmahe—We will kill.

TRANSLATION

"Therefore We will immediately construct a fortress that no human force can penetrate. Let Us settle our family members there and then kill the barbarian king."

TEXT 49

इति सम्मन्त्र्य भगवान्
दुर्गं द्वादशयोजनम्
अन्तःसमुद्रे नगरं

कृत्स्नाद्भुतमचीकरत्

*iti sammantrya bhagavān durgam dvādaśa-yojanam antaḥ-samudre nagaram
kṛtsnādbhutam acīkarat*

SYNONYMS

iti—thus; sammantrya—consulting; bhagavān—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; durgam—a fortress; dvādaśa-yojanam—twelve yojanas (about one hundred miles); antaḥ—within; samudre—the sea; nagaram—a city; kṛtsna—with everything; adbhutam—wonderful; acīkarat—He had made.

TRANSLATION

After thus discussing the matter with Balarāma, the Supreme Personality of Godhead had a fortress twelve yojanas in circumference built within the sea. Inside that fort He had a city built containing all kinds of wonderful things.

TEXTS 50-53

दृश्यते यत्र हि त्वाष्ट्रं
विज्ञानं शिल्पनैपुणम्
रथ्याचत्वरवीथीभिर्
यथावास्तु विनिर्मितम्

सुरद्रुमलतोद्यान-
विचित्रोपवनान्वितम्

हेमशृङ्गैर्दिविस्पृग्भिः
स्फटिकाट्टालगोपुरैः

राजतारकुटैः कोष्ठैर्
हेमकुम्भैरलङ्कृतैः
रत्नकूतैर्गृहैर्मैर्
महामारकतस्थलैः

वास्तोष्पतीनां च गृहैर्
वल्लभीभिश्च निर्मितम्
चातुर्वर्ण्यजनाकीर्णं यदुदेवगृहोल्लसत्

dṛśyate yatra hi tvāṣṭram vijñānam śilpa-naipuṇam rathyā-catvara-vīthībhir yathā-vāstu vinirmitam

sura-druma-latodyāna-vicitropavanānvitam
hema-śṛṅgair divi-spr̥gbhiḥ sphaṭikāṭṭāla-gopuraiḥ

rājatāraḥṣṭaiḥ koṣṭhair hema-kumbhair alaṅkṛtaiḥ ratna-kūtair gr̥hair hemair mahā-mārakata-sṭhalaiḥ

vāstoṣpatīnām ca gr̥hair vallabhībhiś ca nirmītam

cātur-varṇya-janākīrṇam
yadu-deva-grhollasat

SYNONYMS

dṛśyate—was seen; yatra—wherein; hi—indeed; tvāṣṭram—of Tvaṣṭā (Viśvakarmā), the architect of the demigods; vijñānam—the scientific knowledge; śilpa—in architecture; naipuṇam—the expertise; rathyā—with main avenues; catvara—courtyards; vīthībhiḥ—and commercial roads; yathā-vāstu—on ample plots of land; vinirmitam—constructed; sura—of the demigods; druma—having trees; latā—and creepers; udyāna—gardens; vicitra—splendid; upavana—and parks; anvitam—containing; hema—gold; śṛṅgaiḥ—having peaks; divi—the sky; spṛgbhiḥ—touching; sphaṭikā—of crystal quartz; aṭṭāla—having upper levels; gopuraiḥ—with gateways; rājata—of silver; ārakuṭaiḥ—and brass; koṣṭhaiḥ—with treasury buildings, warehouses and stables; hema—gold; kumbhaiḥ—by pots; alaṅkṛtaiḥ—decorated; ratna—jeweled; kūtaiḥ—having peaks; gṛhaiḥ—with houses; hemaiḥ—of gold; mahā-mārakata—with precious emeralds; sthalaiḥ—having floors; vāstoḥ—of the households; patīnām—belonging to the presiding deities; ca—and; gṛhaiḥ—with temples; vallabhībhiḥ—with watchtowers; ca—and; nirmitam—constructed; cātuḥ-varṇya—of the four occupational orders; jana—with people; ākīrṇam—filled; yadu-deva—of the Lord of the Yadus, Śrī Kṛṣṇa; gṛha—by the residences; ullasat—beautified.

TRANSLATION

In the construction of that city could be seen the full scientific knowledge and architectural skill of Viśvakarmā. There were wide avenues, commercial roads and courtyards laid out on ample plots of land; there were splendid parks, and also gardens stocked with trees and creepers from the heavenly planets. The gateway towers were topped with golden turrets touching the sky, and their upper levels were fashioned of crystal quartz. The gold-covered houses were adorned in front with golden pots and on top with jeweled roofs, and their floors were inlaid with precious emeralds. Beside the houses stood treasury buildings, warehouses, and stables for fine horses, all built of silver and brass. Each residence had a watchtower, and also a temple for its household deity. Filled with citizens of all four social orders, the city was especially beautified by the palaces of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the Lord of the Yadus.

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī explains that the state highways (rathyāḥ) were in front and the secondary roads (vīthyāḥ) behind, and between them were courtyards (catvarāṇi). Within these courtyards were surrounding walls, and within the walls stood golden residences, atop which shone crystal watchtowers crowned with golden pots. Thus the buildings were multistoried. The word vāstu indicates that the houses and buildings were constructed on ample plots of land, with plenty of room for green areas.

TEXT 54

सुधर्मा पारिजातं च
महेन्द्रः प्राहिणोद्धरेः
यत्र चावस्थितो मर्त्यो मर्त्यधर्मेन युज्यते

sudharmām pārijātaṁ ca mahendraḥ prāhiṇod dhareḥ yatra cāvasthito martyo martya-dharmair na yujyate

SYNONYMS

sudharmām—the Sudharmā assembly hall; pārijātam—the pārijāta tree; ca—and; mahā-indraḥ—Lord Indra, King of heaven; prāhiṇot—delivered; hareḥ—to Lord Kṛṣṇa; yatra—in which (Sudharmā); ca—and; avasthitaḥ—situated; martyaḥ—a mortal; martya-dharmaḥ—by the laws of mortality; na yujyate—is not affected.

TRANSLATION

Lord Indra brought Śrī Kṛṣṇa the Sudharmā assembly hall, standing within which a mortal man is not subject to the laws of mortality. Indra also gave the pārijāta tree.

TEXT 55

श्यामैकवर्णान् वरुणो
हयान् शुक्लान्मनोजवान्
अष्टौ निधिपतिः कोशान्
लोकपालो निजोदयान्

śyāmaika-varṇān varuṇo
hayān śuklān mano-javān aṣṭau nidhi-patiḥ kośān
loka-pālo nijodayān

SYNONYMS

śyāma—dark blue; eka—exclusively; varṇān—colored; varuṇaḥ—Varuṇa, ruler of the oceans; hayān—horses; śuklān—white; manaḥ—(as the) mind; javān—swift; aṣṭau—eight; nidhi-patiḥ—the treasurer of the demigods, Kuvera; kośān—treasures; loka-pālaḥ—the rulers of various planets;

nija—their own; udayān—opulences.

TRANSLATION

Lord Varuṇa offered horses as swift as the mind, some of which were pure dark-blue, others white. The treasurer of the demigods, Kuvera, gave his eight mystic treasures, and the rulers of various planets each presented their own opulences.

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī comments as follows on this verse: "The master of the treasury is Kuvera, and the eight treasures are his nidhis. These are described as follows:

*padmaś caiva mahāpadmo matsya-kūrmau tathaudakaḥ nīlo mukundaḥ śaṅkhaś ca
nidhayo 'ṣṭau prakīrtitāḥ*

'The eight mystic treasures are called Padma, Mahāpadma, Matsya, Kūrma, Audaka, Nīla, Mukunda and Śaṅkha.' "

TEXT 56

यद्यद्भगवता दत्तम्
आधिपत्यं स्वसिद्धये
सर्वं प्रत्यर्पयामासुर हरौ भूमिगते नृप

yad yad bhagavatā dattam

ādhipatyam sva-siddhaye sarvam pratyarpayām āsur harau bhūmi-gate nṛpa

SYNONYMS

yat yat—whatever; bhagavatā—by the Supreme Lord; dattam—given; ādhipatyam—delegated power of control; sva—their own; siddhaye—for facilitating the exercise of authority; sarvam—all; pratyarpayām āsuḥ—they offered back; harau—to Kṛṣṇa; bhūmi—to the earth; gate—come; nṛpa—O King (Parikṣit).

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Lord having come to the earth, O King, these demigods now offered Him whatever powers of control He had previously delegated to them for the exercise of their particular authority.

TEXT 57

तत्र योगप्रभावेन
नीत्वा सर्वजनं हरिः
प्रजापालेन रामेण
कृष्णः समनुमन्त्रितः
निर्जगाम पुरद्वारात् पद्ममाली निरायुधः

*tatra yoga-prabhāvena
nītvā sarva-janam hariḥ
prajā-pālena rāmeṇa*

*kṛṣṇaḥ samanumantritaḥ nirjagāma pura-dvārāt
padma-mālī nirāyudhaḥ*

SYNONYMS

tatra—there; yoga—of His mystic potency; prabhāvena—by the power; nītvā—bringing; sarva—all; janam—His subjects; hariḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; prajā—of the citizens; pālena—by the protector; rāmeṇa—Lord Balarāma; kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; samanumantritaḥ—advised; nirjagāma—went out; pura—of the city; dvārāt—by the gate; padma—of lotus flowers; mālī—wearing a garland; nirāyudhaḥ—without weapons.

TRANSLATION

After transporting all His subjects to the new city by the power of His mystic Yogamāyā, Lord Kṛṣṇa consulted with Lord Balarāma, who had remained in Mathurā to protect it. Then, wearing a garland of lotuses but bearing no weapons, Lord Kṛṣṇa went out of Mathurā by its main gate.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī quotes the following verses from Śrī Padma Purāṇa, Uttara-khaṇḍa, to describe how Lord Kṛṣṇa transferred the citizens from Mathurā to Dvārakā:

suṣuptān mathurāyān tu paurāṁs tatra janārdanaḥ uddhṛtya sahasā rātrau dvārakāyām nyaveśayat

prabuddhās te janāḥ sarve putra-dāra-samanvitāḥ

*haima-harmya-tale viṣṭā
vismayaṁ paramaṁ yayuḥ*

"In the middle of the night, as the citizens of Mathurā slept, Lord Janārdana suddenly removed them from that city and placed them in Dvārakā. When the men awoke, they were all amazed to find themselves, their children and their wives sitting inside palaces made of gold."

*Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C.
Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Fiftieth Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "Kṛṣṇa Establishes the City of Dvārakā."*

51. The Deliverance of Mucukunda

This chapter describes how Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa caused Mucukunda to kill Kālayavana with his harsh glance, and it also relates the conversation between Mucukunda and Lord Kṛṣṇa.

After placing His family members safely within the Dvārakā fortress, Śrī Kṛṣṇa went out of Mathurā. He appeared like the rising moon. Kālayavana saw that Kṛṣṇa's brilliantly effulgent body matched Nārada's description of the Lord, and thus the Yavana knew He was the Personality of Godhead. Seeing that the Lord carried no weapons, Kālayavana put his own weapons aside and ran toward Him from behind, wanting to fight with Him. Śrī Kṛṣṇa ran from the Yavana, staying just barely beyond Kālayavana's grasp at every step and eventually leading him a long distance toward a mountain cave. As Kālayavana ran, he hurled insults at the Lord, but he could not grasp Him, since his stock of impious karma was not yet depleted. Śrī Kṛṣṇa entered the cave, whereupon Kālayavana followed after Him and saw a man lying on the ground. Taking him for Śrī Kṛṣṇa, Kālayavana kicked him. The man had been sleeping for a very long time, and now, having been violently awakened, he looked around angrily in all directions and saw Kālayavana. The man stared harshly at him, igniting a fire in Kālayavana's body and in a moment burning him to ashes.

This extraordinary person was a son of Mandhātā's named Mucukunda. He was devoted to brahminical culture and always true to his vow. Previously, he had spent many long years helping to protect the demigods from the demons. When the demigods had eventually obtained Kārttikeya as their protector, they allowed Mucukunda to retire, offering him any boon other than liberation, which only Lord Viṣṇu can bestow. Mucukunda had chosen from the demigods the benediction of being covered by sleep, and thus since then he had been lying asleep within the cave.

Upon Kālayavana's immolation, Śrī Kṛṣṇa showed Himself to Mucukunda, who was struck with wonder at seeing Kṛṣṇa's incomparable beauty. Mucukunda asked Lord Kṛṣṇa who He was and also explained to the Lord his own identity. Mucukunda said, "After growing weary from remaining awake for a long time, I was enjoying my sleep here in this cave when some stranger disturbed me and, suffering the reaction of his sins, was burnt to ashes. O Lord, O vanquisher of all enemies, it is my great fortune that I now have the vision of Your beautiful form."

Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa then told Mucukunda who He was and offered him a boon. The wise Mucukunda, understanding the futility of material life, asked only that he might be allowed to take shelter of Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet.

Pleased at this request, the Lord said to Mucukunda, "My devotees are never enticed by material benedictions offered to them; only nondevotees, namely yogīs and speculative philosophers, are interested in material benedictions, having mundane desires in their hearts. My dear Mucukunda, you will have perpetual devotion for Me. Now, always remaining surrendered to Me, go perform penances to eradicate the sinful reactions incurred from the killing you had to do in your role as a warrior. In your next life you will become a first-class brāhmaṇa and attain Me." Thus the Lord offered Mucukunda His blessings.

TEXTS 1-6

श्रीशुक उवाच
तं विलोक्य विनिष्क्रान्तम्
उज्जिहानमिवोडुपम्
दर्शनीयतमं श्यामं

पीतकौशेयवाससम्
श्रीवत्सवक्षसं भ्राजत्
कौस्तुभामुक्तकन्धरम्
पृथुदीर्घचतुर्बाहुं

नवकञ्जारुणेक्षणम्
नित्यप्रमुदितं श्रीमत्
सुकपोलं शुचिस्मितम्
मुखारविन्दं बिभ्राणं

स्फुरन्मकरकुण्डलम्
वासुदेवो ह्ययमिति
पुमान् श्रीवत्सलाञ्छनः
चतुर्भुजोऽरविन्दाक्षो

वनमाल्यतिसुन्दरः
लक्षणैर्नारदप्रोक्तैर्
नान्यो भवितुमर्हति
निरायुधश्चलन् पद्भ्यां

योत्स्येऽनेन निरायुधः
इति निश्चित्य यवनः
प्राद्रवद् तं पराङ्मुखम्
अन्वधावज्जिघृक्षुस्तं दुरापमपि योगिनाम्

śrī-śuka uvāca
taṁ vilokya viniṣkrāntam ujjihānam ivoḍupam darśanīyatamaṁ śyāmaṁ
pīta-kauśeya-vāsasam

śrīvatsa-vakṣasaṁ bhrājat
kaustubhāmukta-kandharam pṛthu-dīrgha-catur-bāhum nava-kañjāruṇekṣaṇam

nitya-pramuditam śrīmat su-kapolaṁ śuci-smitam mukhāravindaṁ bibhrāṇam
sphuran-makara-kunḍalam

vāsudevo hy ayam iti pumān śrīvatsa-lāñchanah
catur-bhujo 'ravindākṣo

vana-māly ati-sundaraḥ lakṣaṇair nārada-proktair nānyo bhavitum arhati nirāyudhaś calan padbhyām yotsye 'nena nirāyudhaḥ

iti niścitya yavanaḥ prādravad taṁ parāṇ-mukham anvadhāvaj jighṛkṣus taṁ durāpam api yoginām

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; taṁ—Him; vilokya—seeing; vinīṣkrāntam—coming out; ujjihānam—rising; iva—as if; uḍupam—the moon; darśanīya-tamam—the most beautiful to behold; śyāmam—dark blue; pīta—yellow; kauśeya—silk; vāsasam—whose garment; śrīvatsa—the mark of the goddess of fortune, consisting of a special swirl of hair and belonging to the Supreme Lord alone; vakṣasam—upon whose chest; bhrājat—brilliant; kaustubha—with the gem Kaustubha; āmukta—decorated; kandharam—whose neck; prthu—broad; dīrgha—and long; catuḥ—four; bāhum—having arms; nava—newly grown; kañja—like lotuses; aruṇa—pink; ikṣaṇam—whose eyes; nitya—always; pramuditam—joyful; śrīmat—effulgent; su—beautiful; kapalam—with cheeks; śuci—clean; smitam—with a smile; mukha—His face; aravindam—lotuslike; bibhrāṇam—displaying; sphuran—glittering; makara—shark; kuṇḍalam—earrings; vāsudevaḥ—Vāsudeva; hi—indeed; ayam—this; iti—thus thinking; pumān—person; śrīvatsa-lāñchanaḥ—marked with Śrīvatsa; catuḥ-bhujah—four-armed; aravinda-akṣaḥ—lotus-eyed; vana—of forest flowers; mālī—wearing a garland; ati—extremely; sundaraḥ—beautiful; lakṣaṇaiḥ—by the symptoms; nārada-proktaiḥ—told by Nārada Muni; na—no; anyaḥ—other; bhavitum arhati—can He be; nirāyudhaḥ—without weapons; calan—going; padbhyām—by foot; yotsye—I will fight; anena—with Him; nirāyudhaḥ—without weapons; iti—thus; niścīya—deciding; yavanaḥ—the barbarian Kālayavana; prādravantam—who was fleeing; parāk—turned away; mukham—whose face; anvadhāvat—he pursued; jighṛkṣuḥ—wanting to catch; tam—Him; durāpam—unattainable; api—even; yoginām—by mystic yogīs.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Kālayavana saw the Lord come out from Mathurā like the rising moon. The Lord was most beautiful to behold, with His dark-blue complexion and yellow silk garment. Upon His chest He bore the mark of Śrīvatsa, and the Kaustubha gem adorned His neck. His four arms were sturdy and long. He displayed His ever-joyful lotuslike face, with eyes pink like lotuses, beautifully effulgent cheeks, a pristine smile and glittering shark-shaped earrings. The barbarian thought, "This person must indeed be Vāsudeva, since He possesses the characteristics Nārada mentioned: He is marked with Śrīvatsa, He has four arms, His eyes are like lotuses, He wears a garland of forest flowers, and He is extremely handsome. He cannot be anyone else. Since He goes on foot and unarmed, I will fight Him without weapons." Resolving thus, he ran after the Lord, who turned His back and ran away. Kālayavana hoped to catch Lord Kṛṣṇa, though great mystic yogīs cannot attain Him.

PURPORT

Although Kālayavana was seeing Lord Kṛṣṇa with his own eyes, he could not adequately appreciate the beautiful Lord. Thus instead of worshiping Kṛṣṇa, he attacked Him. Similarly, it is not uncommon for modern men to attack Kṛṣṇa in the name of philosophy, "law and order" and even religion.

TEXT 7

हस्तप्राप्तमिवात्मानं
हरीणा स पदे पदे
नीतो दर्शयता दूरं यवनेशोऽद्रिकन्दरम्

*hasta-prāptam ivātmānam harīṇā sa pade pade nīto darśayatā dūram
yavaneśo 'dri-kandaram*

SYNONYMS

hasta—in his hands; prāptam—reached; iva—as if; ātmānam—Himself; harīṇā—by Lord Kṛṣṇa; saḥ—he; pade pade—at each step; nītaḥ—brought; darśayatā—by Him who was showing; dūram—far; yavana-iśaḥ—the King of the Yavanas; adri—in a mountain; kandaram—to a cave.

TRANSLATION

Appearing virtually within reach of Kālayavana's hands at every moment, Lord Hari led the King of the Yavanas far away to a mountain cave.

TEXT 8

पलायनं यदुकुले
जातस्य तव नोचितम्
इति क्षिपन्ननुगतो नैनं प्रापाहताशुभः

*palāyanam yadu-kule
jātasya tava nocitam
iti kṣipann anugato
nainam prāpāhatāśubhaḥ*

SYNONYMS

palāyanam—fleeing; yadu-kule—in the Yadu dynasty; jātasya—who have been born; tava—for You; na—is not; ucitam—proper; iti—in these words; kṣipan—insulting; anugataḥ—in pursuit; na—not; enam—Him; prāpa—reached; ahata—not cleansed or eliminated; aśubhaḥ—whose sinful reactions.

TRANSLATION

While chasing the Lord, the Yavana cast insults at Him, saying "You took birth in the Yadu dynasty. It's not proper for You to run away!" But still Kālayavana could not reach Lord Kṛṣṇa, because his sinful reactions had not been cleansed away.

TEXT 9

एवं क्षिप्तोऽपि भगवान्
प्राविशद्गिरिकन्दरम्
सोऽपि प्रविष्टस्तत्रान्यं शयानं ददृशे नरम्

*evam kṣipto 'pi bhagavān prāviśad giri-kandaram
so 'pi praviṣṭas tatrānyam*

śayānam dadṛśe naram

SYNONYMS

evam—thus; kṣiptaḥ—insulted; api—even though; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; prāviśat—entered; giri-kandaram—the mountain cave; saḥ—he, Kālayavana; api—as well; praviṣṭaḥ—entering; tatra—there; anyam—another; śayānam—lying; dadṛśe—saw; naram—man.

TRANSLATION

Although insulted in this way, the Supreme Lord entered the mountain cave. Kālayavana also entered, and there he saw another man lying asleep.

PURPORT

The Lord exhibits here His opulence of renunciation. Determined to execute His plan and give His blessings to Mucukunda, the Lord ignored Kālayavana's insults and calmly proceeded with His program.

TEXT 10

नन्वसौ दूरमानीय
शेते मामिह साधुवत्
इति मत्वाच्युतं मूढस तं पदा समताडयत्

*nanv asau dūram ānīya śete mām iha sādhu-vat iti matvācyutaṁ mūḍhas
taṁ padā samatāḍayat*

SYNONYMS

nanu—is it so; asau—He; dūram—a long distance; ānīya—bringing; śete—is lying down; mām—me; iha—here; sādhū-vat—like a saintly person; iti—so; matvā—thinking (him); acyutam—(to be) Lord Kṛṣṇa; mūḍhaḥ—deluded; tam—him; padā—with his foot; samatāḍayat—struck with full force.

TRANSLATION

"So, after leading me such a long distance, now He is lying here like some saint!" Thus thinking the sleeping man to be Lord Kṛṣṇa, the deluded fool kicked him with all his strength.

TEXT 11

स उत्थाय चिरं सुप्तः
शनैरुन्मील्य लोचने
दिशो विलोकयन् पार्श्वे तमद्राक्षीदवस्थितम्

sa utthāya ciraṁ suptaḥ śanair unmīlya locane diśo vilokayan pāśve
tam adrākṣīd avasthitam

SYNONYMS

saḥ—he; utthāya—waking; ciraṁ—for a long time; suptaḥ—asleep; śanaiḥ—slowly; unmīlya—opening; locane—his eyes; diśaḥ—in all directions; vilokayan—looking about; pāśve—at his side; tam—him, Kālayavana;

adrākṣīt—he saw; avasthitam—standing.

TRANSLATION

The man awoke after a long sleep and slowly opened his eyes. Looking all about, he saw Kālayavana standing beside him.

TEXT 12

स तावत्तस्य रुष्टस्य
दृष्टिपातेन भारत
देहजेनाग्निना दग्धो भस्मसादभवत्क्षणात्

sa tāvat tasya ruṣṭasya
dṛṣṭi-pātena bhārata deha-jenāgninā dagdho
bhasma-sād abhavat kṣaṇāt

SYNONYMS

saḥ—he, Kālayavana; tāvat—that much; tasya—of him, the awakened man; ruṣṭasya—who was angered; dṛṣṭi—of the glance; pātena—by the casting; bhārata—O descendant of Bharata (Parīkṣit Mahārāja); deha-jena—generated in his own body; agninā—by the fire; dagdhaḥ—burned; bhasma-sāt—to ashes; abhavat—he was; kṣaṇāt—in a moment.

TRANSLATION

The awakened man was angry and cast his glance at Kālayavana, whose body burst into flames. In a single moment, O King Parīkṣit, Kālayavana was burnt to ashes.

PURPORT

The man who incinerated Kālayavana with his glance was named Mucukunda. As he will explain to Lord Kṛṣṇa, he had fought for a long time on behalf of the demigods, finally taking as his benediction the right to sleep undisturbed. The Hari-vaṁśa explains that he secured the further benediction of being able to destroy anyone who disturbed his sleep. Ācārya Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura quotes from the Śrī Hari-vaṁśa as follows:

*prasuptaṁ bodhayed yo mām taṁ daheyam ahaṁ surāḥ cakṣuṣā krodha-dīptena
evam āha punaḥ punaḥ*

"Again and again Mucukunda said, 'O demigods, with eyes blazing with anger, may I incinerate anyone who awakens me from sleep.' "

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī explains that Mucukunda made this rather morbid request to scare Lord Indra, who, Mucukunda thought, might otherwise wake him repeatedly to request his help in fighting Indra's cosmic enemies. Indra's consent to Mucukunda's request is described in Śrī Viṣṇu Purāṇa as follows:

*proktaś ca devaiḥ saṁsuptaṁ yas tvām utthāpayiṣyati deha-jenāgninā sadyaḥ
sa tu bhasmī-kariṣyati*

"The demigods declared, 'Whoever awakens you from sleep will suddenly be burnt to ashes by a fire generated from his own body.' "

TEXT 13

श्रीराजोवाच
को नाम स पुमान् ब्रह्मन्
कस्य किंवीर्य एव च
कस्माद्गुहां गतः शिष्ये किंतेजो यवनार्दनः

śrī-rājovāca
ko nāma sa pumān brahman kasya kim-vīrya eva ca kasmād guhām gataḥ śiṣye kim-tejo yavanārdanaḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī-rājā uvāca—the King (Parīkṣit) said; kaḥ—who; nāma—in particular; saḥ—that; pumān—person; brahman—O brāhmaṇa (Śukadeva); kasya—of which (family); kim—having what; vīryaḥ—powers; eva ca—as also; kasmāt—why; guhām—in the cave; gataḥ—having gone; śiṣye—lay down to sleep; kim—whose; tejaḥ—semen (offspring); yavana—of the Yavana; ardanaḥ—the destroyer.

TRANSLATION

King Parīkṣit said: Who was that person, O brāhmaṇa? To which family did he belong, and what were his powers? Why did that destroyer of the barbarian lie down to sleep in the cave, and whose son was he?

TEXT 14

श्रीशुक उवाच
स इक्ष्वाकुकुले जातो
मान्धातृतनयो महान्
मुचुकुन्द इति ख्यातो ब्रह्मण्यः सत्यसङ्गरः

śrī-śuka uvāca
sa ikṣvāku-kule jāto māndhātṛ-tanayo mahān mucukunda iti khyāto brahmaṇyaḥ satya-saṅgarah

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; saḥ—he; ikṣvāku-kule—in the dynasty of Ikṣvāku (grandson of Vivasvān, the sun-god); jātaḥ—born; māndhātṛ-tanayaḥ—the son of King Māndhātā; mahān—the great personality; mucukundaḥ iti khyātaḥ—known as Mucukunda; brahmaṇyaḥ—devoted to the brāhmaṇas; satya—true to his vow; saṅgarah—in battle.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Mucukunda was the name of this great personality, who was born in the Ikṣvāku dynasty as the son of Māndhātā. He was devoted to brahminical culture and always true to his vow in battle.

TEXT 15

स याचितः सुरगणैर्
इन्द्राद्यैरात्मरक्षणे
असुरेभ्यः परित्रस्तैस् तद्रक्षां सोऽकरोच्चिरम्

sa yācitaḥ sura-gaṇair indrādyair ātma-rakṣaṇe asurebhyaḥ paritrastais tad-rakṣām so 'karoc ciram

SYNONYMS

saḥ—he; yācitaḥ—requested; sura-gaṇaiḥ—by the demigods; indra-ādyaiḥ—headed by Lord Indra; ātma—their own; rakṣaṇe—for protection; asurebhyaḥ—of the demons; paritrastaiḥ—who were terrified; tat—their; rakṣām—protection; saḥ—he; akarot—carried out; ciram—for a long time.

TRANSLATION

Begged by Indra and the other demigods to help protect them when they were terrorized by the demons, Mucukunda defended them for a long time.

TEXT 16

लब्ध्वा गुहं ते स्वःपालं
मुचुकुन्दमथाब्रुवन्
राजन् विरमतां कृच्छ्राद्

भवान्नः परिपालनात्

labdhvā guhaṁ te svaḥ-pālaṁ mucukundam athābruvan rājan viramatām kṛcchrād bhavān naḥ paripālanāt

SYNONYMS

labdhvā—after obtaining; guham—Kārttikeya; te—they; svaḥ—of heaven; pālam—as the protector; mucukundam—to Mucukunda; atha—then; abruvan—said; rājan—O King; viramatām—please desist; kṛcchrāt—troublesome; bhavān—your good self; naḥ—our; paripālanāt—from the guarding.

TRANSLATION

When the demigods obtained Kārttikeya as their general, they told Mucukunda, "O King, you may now give up your troublesome duty of guarding us.

TEXT 17

नरलोकं परित्यज्य
राज्यं निहतकण्टकम्
अस्मान् पालयतो वीर कामास्ते सर्व उज्झिताः nara-lokaṁ parityajya rājyaṁ nihata-kaṇṭakam

*asmān pālayato vīra
kāmaś te sarva ujjhitāḥ*

SYNONYMS

nara-lokam—in the world of men; parityajya—abandoning; rājyam—a kingdom; nihata—removed; kaṇṭakam—whose thorns; asmān—us; pālayataḥ—who was protecting; vīra—O hero; kāmaḥ—desires; te—your; sarve—all; ujjhitāḥ—thrown away.

TRANSLATION

"Abandoning an unopposed kingdom in the world of men, O valiant one, you neglected all your personal desires while engaged in protecting us.

TEXT 18

सुता महिष्यो भवतो
ज्ञातयोऽमात्यमन्त्रिनः
प्रजाश्च तुल्यकालीना
नाधुना सन्ति कालिताः

*sutā mahiṣyo bhavato
jñātayo 'mātya-mantrinaḥ prajāś ca tulya-kālīnā
nādhunā santi kālitāḥ*

SYNONYMS

sutāḥ—children; mahiṣyaḥ—queens; bhavataḥ—your; jñātayaḥ—other relatives; amātya—ministers; mantriṇaḥ—and advisers; prajāḥ—subjects;

ca—and; tulya-kālīnāḥ—contemporary; na—not; adhunā—now; santi—are alive; kālitāḥ—forced to move on by time.

TRANSLATION

"The children, queens, relatives, ministers, advisers and subjects who were your contemporaries are no longer alive. They have all been swept away by time.

TEXT 19

कालो बलीयान् बलिनां
भगवानीश्वरोऽव्ययः
प्रजाः कालयते क्रीडन् पशुपालो यथा पशून्

kālo balīyān balinām
bhagavān īśvaro 'vyayaḥ prajāḥ kālayate krīḍan paśu-pālo yathā paśūn

SYNONYMS

kālaḥ—time; balīyān—more powerful; balinām—than the powerful; bhagavān īśvaraḥ—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; avyayaḥ—inexhaustible; prajāḥ—mortal creatures; kālayate—causes to move; krīḍan—playing; paśu-pālaḥ—a herdsman; yathā—as; paśūn—domestic animals.

TRANSLATION

"Inexhaustible time, stronger than the strong, is the Supreme Personality of Godhead Himself. Like a herdsman moving his animals along, He moves mortal creatures as His pastime.

PURPORT

The universe is created to gradually rectify the contaminated souls trying to exploit material nature. The Lord moves the conditioned souls along, according to their karma, through the various stages of spiritual rectification. Thus the Lord is like a herdsman (the word paśu-pāla literally means "protector of animals"), who moves the creatures under his protection to various pastures and watering spots in order to protect them and sustain them. A further analogy is that of a doctor, who moves the patient under his care to various areas of a hospital for diverse kinds of examination and treatment. Similarly, the Lord brings us through the network of material existence in a gradual cleansing process so that we can enjoy our eternal life of bliss and knowledge as His enlightened associates. Thus all of Mucukunda's relatives, friends and co-workers had long ago been swept away by the force of time, which of course is Kṛṣṇa Himself.

TEXT 20

वरं वृणीष्व भद्रं ते
ऋते कैवल्यमद्य नः
एक एवेश्वरस्तस्य भगवान् विष्णुरव्ययः

*varam vṛṇīṣva bhadraṁ te ṛte kaivalyam adya naḥ
eka eveśvaras tasya*

bhagavān viṣṇur avyayaḥ

SYNONYMS

varam—a benediction; vṛṇīṣva—choose; bhadram—all good; te—unto you; ṛte—except; kaivalyam—liberation; adya—today; naḥ—from us; ekaḥ—one; eva—only; īśvaraḥ—capable; tasya—of that; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; viṣṇuḥ—Śrī Viṣṇu; avyayaḥ—the inexhaustible.

TRANSLATION

"All good fortune to you! Now please choose a benediction from us—anything but liberation, since only the infallible Supreme Lord, Viṣṇu, can bestow that."

TEXT 21

एवमुक्तः स वै देवान्
अभिवन्द्य महायशाः
अशयिष्ट गुहाविष्टो निद्रया देवदत्तया

*evam uktaḥ sa vai devān abhivandya mahā-yaśāḥ aśayiṣṭa guhā-viṣṭo
nidrayā deva-dattayā*

SYNONYMS

evam—thus; uktaḥ—addressed; saḥ—he; vai—indeed; devān—the demigods; abhivandya—saluting; mahā—great; yaśāḥ—whose fame; aśayiṣṭa—he lay down; guhā-viṣṭaḥ—entering a cave; nidrayā—in sleep; deva—by the demigods; dattayā—given.

TRANSLATION

Addressed thus, King Mucukunda took his respectful leave of the demigods and went to a cave, where he lay down to enjoy the sleep they had granted him.

PURPORT

Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura gives the following lines from an alternate reading of this chapter. These lines are to be inserted between the two halves of this verse:

*nidrām eva tato vavre
sa rājā śrama-karṣitaḥ*

yaḥ kaścin mama nidrāyā bhaṅgaṁ kuryād surottamāḥ sa hi bhasmī-bhaved āśu tathoktaś ca surais tadā

*svāpaṁ yātaṁ yo madhye tu bodhayet tvām acetanaḥ sa tvayā dṛṣṭa-mātras tu
bhasmī-bhavatu tat-kṣaṇāt*

"The King, exhausted by his labor, then chose sleep as his benediction. He further stated, 'O best of the demigods, may whoever disturbs my sleep be immediately burned to ashes.' The demigods replied, 'So be it,' and told him, 'That insensitive person who wakes you in the middle of your sleep will immediately turn to ashes simply by your seeing him.' "

TEXT 22

यवने भस्मसानीते
भगवान् सात्वतर्षभः
आत्मानं दर्शयामास मुचुकुन्दाय धीमते

yavane bhasma-sān nīte bhagavān sātvatarṣabhaḥ ātmānaṁ darśayām āsa mucukundāya dhimate

SYNONYMS

yavane—after the barbarian; bhasma-sāt—into ashes; nīte—was turned; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; sātvata—of the Sātvata clan; ṛṣabhaḥ—the greatest hero; ātmānam—Himself; darśayām āsa—revealed; mucukundāya—to Mucukunda; dhī-mate—the intelligent.

TRANSLATION

After the Yavana was burnt to ashes, the Supreme Lord, chief of the Sātvatas, revealed Himself to the wise Mucukunda.

TEXTS 23-26

तमालोक्य घनश्यामं
पीतकौशेयवाससम्

श्रीवत्सवक्षसं भ्राजत्
कौस्तुभेन विराजितम्

चतुर्भुजं रोचमानं
वैजयन्त्या च मालया
चारुप्रसन्नवदनं
स्फुरन्मकरकुण्डलम्

प्रेक्षणीयं नृलोकस्य
सानुरागस्मितेक्षणम्
अपीव्यवयसं मत्त-मृगेन्द्रोदारविक्रमम्

पर्यपृच्छन्महाबुद्धिस
तेजसा तस्य धर्षितः
शङ्कितः शनकै राजा दुर्धर्षमिव तेजसा

*tam ālokya ghana-śyāmaṁ
pīta-kauśeya-vāsasam
śrīvatsa-vakṣasaṁ bhrājat
kaustubhena virājitam*

*catur-bhujam rocamānam vaijayantyā ca mālāyā
cāru-prasanna-vadanaṁ
sphuran-makara-kunḍalam*

prekṣaṇīyaṁ nṛ-lokasya sānurāga-smitekṣaṇam apīvyā-vayasam matta-mṛgendrodāra-vikramam

paryapṛcchan mahā-buddhis tejasā tasya dharṣitaḥ śaṅkitaḥ śanakai rājā durdharṣam iva tejasā

SYNONYMS

tam—Him; ālōkya—looking upon; ghana—like a cloud; śyāmam—dark blue; pīta—yellow; kauśeya—silk; vāsasam—whose garment; śrīvatsa—the Śrīvatsa mark; vakṣasam—on whose chest; bhrājat—brilliant; kaustubhena—with the Kaustubha gem; virājitam—glowing; catuḥ-bhujam—four-armed; rocamānam—beautified; vaijayantya—named Vaijayantī; ca—and; mālayā—by the flower garland; cāru—attractive; prasanna—and calm; vadanam—whose face; sphurat—glittering; makara—shaped like sharks; kuṇḍalam—whose earrings; prekṣaṇīyam—attracting the eyes; nṛ-lokasya—of mankind; sa—with; anurāga—affection; smita—smiling; ikṣaṇam—whose eyes or glance; apīvyā—handsome; vayasam—whose youthful form; matta—angered; mṛga-indra—like a lion; udāra—noble; vikramam—whose walking; parya-pṛcchat—he questioned; mahā-buddhiḥ—having great intelligence; tejasā—by the effulgence; tasya—His; dharṣitaḥ—overwhelmed; śaṅkitaḥ—having doubt; śanakaiḥ—slowly; rājā—the King; durdharṣam—unassailable; iva—indeed; tejasā—with His effulgence.

TRANSLATION

As he gazed at the Lord, King Mucukunda saw that He was dark blue like a cloud, had four arms, and wore a yellow silk garment. On His chest He bore the Śrīvatsa mark and on His neck the brilliantly glowing Kaustubha gem. Adorned with a Vaijayantī garland, the Lord displayed His handsome, peaceful face, which attracts the eyes of all mankind with its shark-shaped earrings and affectionately smiling glance. The beauty of His youthful form was unexcelled, and He moved with the nobility of an angry lion. The highly intelligent King was overwhelmed by the Lord's effulgence, which showed Him to be invincible. Expressing his uncertainty, Mucukunda hesitantly questioned Lord Kṛṣṇa as follows.

PURPORT

It is significant that Text 24 states, catur-bhujam rocamānam: "The Lord was seen in the beauty of His four-armed form." Throughout this great work, we find Lord Kṛṣṇa manifesting His various transcendental forms, most prominently the two-armed form of Kṛṣṇa and the four-armed form of Nārāyaṇa or Viṣṇu. Thus there is no doubt that Kṛṣṇa and Viṣṇu are nondifferent, or that Kṛṣṇa is the original form of the Lord. These things are sometimes misunderstood, but the great ācāryas, experts in spiritual science, have clarified the matter for us. God in His original form is not merely the creator, maintainer and destroyer, or the punisher of conditioned souls, but rather the infinitely beautiful Godhead, enjoying in His own right, in His own abode. This is the form of Kṛṣṇa, the same Kṛṣṇa who expands Himself into Viṣṇu forms for the maintenance of our stumbling world.

Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī mentions that the word śaṅkitah, "having some doubt," indicates that Mucukunda was thinking, "Is this indeed the Supreme Lord?" He expresses himself frankly in the following verses.

TEXT 27

श्रीमुचुकुन्द उवाच
को भवानिह सम्प्राप्तो

विपिने गिरिगह्वरे
पद्भ्यां पद्मपलाशाभ्यां विचरस्युरुकण्टके

śrī-mucukunda uvāca
ko bhavān iha samprāpto vipine giri-gahvare padbhyām padma-palāśābhyām vicarasy uru-kaṇṭake

SYNONYMS

śrī-mucukundaḥ uvāca—śrī Mucukunda said; kaḥ—who; bhavān—are You; iha—here; samprāptaḥ—arrived together (with me); vipine—in the forest; giri-gahvare—in a mountain cave; padbhyām—with Your feet; padma—of a lotus; palāśābhyām—(which are like) the petals; vicarasi—You are walking; uru-kaṇṭake—which is full of thorns.

TRANSLATION

Śrī Mucukunda said: Who are You who have come to this mountain cave in the forest, having walked on the thorny ground with feet as soft as lotus petals?

TEXT 28

किं स्वित्तेजस्विनां तेजो
भगवान् वा विभावसुः
सूर्यः सोमो महेन्द्रो वा

लोकपालो परोऽपि वा

*kiṁ svit tejasvinām tejo bhagavān vā vibhāvasuḥ sūryaḥ somo mahendro vā
loka-pālo paro 'pi vā*

SYNONYMS

kiṁ svit—perhaps; tejasvinām—of all potent beings; tejaḥ—the original form; bhagavān—powerful lord; vā—or else; vibhāvasuḥ—the god of fire; sūryaḥ—the sun-god; somaḥ—the moon-god; mahā-indraḥ—the King of heaven; va—or; loka—of a planet; pālaḥ—the ruler; aparaḥ—other; api vā—else.

TRANSLATION

Perhaps You are the potency of all potent beings. Or maybe You are the powerful god of fire, or the sun-god, the moon-god, the King of heaven or the ruling demigod of some other planet.

TEXT 29

मन्ये त्वां देवदेवानां
त्रयाणां पुरुषर्षभम्
यद्वाधसे गुहाध्वान्तं प्रदीपः प्रभया यथा

*manye tvām deva-devānām
trayāṇām puruṣarṣabham*

yad bādhase guhā-dhvāntam pradīpaḥ prabhayā yathā

SYNONYMS

manye—I consider; tvām—You; deva-devānām—of the chief of the demigods; trayāṇām—three (Brahmā, Viṣṇu and Śiva); puruṣa—of the personalities; ṛṣabham—the greatest; yat—because; bādhase—You drive away; guha—of the cave; dhvāntam—the darkness; pradīpaḥ—a lamp; prabhayā—with its light; yathā—as.

TRANSLATION

I think You are the Supreme Personality among the three chief gods, since You drive away the darkness of this cave as a lamp dispels darkness with its light.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī points out that with His effulgence Lord Kṛṣṇa dispelled not only the darkness of the mountain cave but also the darkness in Mucukunda's heart. In Sanskrit the heart is sometimes metaphorically referred to as guha, "cavern," a deep and secret place.

TEXT 30

शुश्रूषतामव्यलीकम्
अस्माकं नरपुङ्गव
स्वजन्म कर्म गोत्रं वा कथ्यतां यदि रोचते

śuśrūṣatām avyalīkam
asmākaṁ nara-puṅgava
sva-janma karma gotraṁ vā
kathyatām yadi rocate

SYNONYMS

śuśrūṣatām—who are eager to hear; avyalīkam—truthfully; asmākaṁ—to us; nara—among men; puṅgava—O most eminent; sva—Your; janma—birth; karma—activity; gotraṁ—lineage; vā—and; kathyatām—may it be told; yadi—if; rocate—it pleases.

TRANSLATION

O best among men, if You like, please truly describe Your birth, activities and lineage to us, who are eager to hear.

PURPORT

When the Supreme Lord descends to this world, He certainly becomes nara-puṅgava, the most eminent member of human society. Of course, the Lord is not actually a human being, and Mucukunda's questions will lead to a clarification of this point. Thus the term śuśrūṣatām, "to us, who are sincerely eager to hear," indicates that Mucukunda is inquiring in a noble way for his own and others' benefit.

TEXT 31

वयं तु पुरुषव्याघ्र
ऐक्ष्वाकाः क्षत्रबन्धवः
मुचुकुन्द इति प्रोक्तो

यौवनाश्वात्मजः प्रभो

*vayaṁ tu puruṣa-vyāghra aikṣvākāḥ kṣatra-bandhavaḥ
mucukunda iti prokto yauvanāśvātmajaḥ prabho*

SYNONYMS

vayaṁ—we; tu—on the other hand; puruṣa—among men; vyāghra—O tiger; aikṣvākāḥ—descendants of Ikṣvāku; kṣatra—of kṣatriyas; bandhavaḥ—family members; mucukundaḥ—Mucukunda; iti—thus; proktaḥ—called; yauvanāśva—of Yauvanāśva (Māndhātā, the son of Yuvanāśva); ātma-jaḥ—the son; prabho—O Lord.

TRANSLATION

As for ourselves, O tiger among men, we belong to a family of fallen kṣatriyas, descendants of King Ikṣvāku. My name is Mucukunda, my Lord, and I am the son of Yauvanāśva.

PURPORT

It is common in Vedic culture that a kṣatriya will humbly introduce himself as kṣatra-bandhu, a mere relative in a kṣatriya family, or in other words a fallen kṣatriya. In ancient Vedic culture, to claim a particular status on the basis of one's family relations was itself indicative of a fallen position. Kṣatriyas and brāhmaṇas should be given status according to their merit, by their qualities of work and character. When the caste system in India became degraded, people proudly claimed to be relatives of kṣatriyas or brāhmaṇas, though in the past such a claim, unaccompanied by tangible qualifications, indicated a fallen position.

TEXT 32

चिरप्रजागरश्रान्तो
निद्रयापहतेन्द्रियः
शयेऽस्मिन् विजने कामं केनाप्युत्थापितोऽधुना

*cira—prajāgara—śrānto
nidrayāpahatendriyaḥ
śaye 'smin vijane kāmam kenāpy utthāpito 'dhunā*

SYNONYMS

cira—for a long time; prajāgara—because of remaining awake; śrāntaḥ—fatigued; nidrayā—by sleep; apahata—covered over; indriyaḥ—my senses; śaye—I have been lying; asmin—in this; vijane—solitary place; kāmam—as pleases me; kena api—by someone; utthāpitaḥ—awakened; adhunā—now.

TRANSLATION

I was fatigued after remaining awake for a long time, and my senses were overwhelmed by sleep. Thus I slept comfortably here in this solitary place until, just now, someone woke me.

TEXT 33

सोऽपि भस्मीकृतो नूनम्

आत्मीयेनैव पाप्मना
अनन्तरं भवान् श्रीमाल् लक्षितोऽमित्रशासनः

*so 'pi bhasmī-kṛto nūnam ātmīyenaiva pāpmanā anantaram bhavān śrīmāl
lakṣito 'mitra-śāsanah*

SYNONYMS

saḥ api—that very person; bhasmī-kṛtaḥ—turned to ashes; nūnam—indeed; ātmīyena—by his own; eva—only; pāpmanā—sinful karma; anantaram—immediately following; bhavān—Your good self; śrīmān—glorious; lakṣitaḥ—observed; amitra—of enemies; śāsanah—the chastiser.

TRANSLATION

The man who woke me was burned to ashes by the reaction of his sins. Just then I saw You, possessing a glorious appearance and the power to chastise Your enemies.

PURPORT

Kālayavana had declared himself the enemy of Śrī Kṛṣṇa and the Yadu dynasty. Through Mucukunda, Śrī Kṛṣṇa destroyed the opposition of that foolish barbarian.

TEXT 34

तेजसा तेऽविषह्येण
भूरि द्रष्टुं न शक्नुमः
हतौजसा महाभाग माननीयोऽसि देहिनाम्

tejasā te 'viṣahyeṇa
bhūri draṣṭum na śaknumaḥ hataujasā mahā-bhāga
mānanīyo 'si dehinām

SYNONYMS

tejasā—because of the effulgence; te—Your; aviṣahyeṇa—unbearable; bhūri—much; draṣṭum—to see; na śaknumaḥ—we are not able; hata—diminished; ojasā—with our faculties; mahā-bhaga—O most opulent one; mānanīyaḥ—to be honored; asi—You are; dehinam—by embodied beings.

TRANSLATION

Your unbearably brilliant effulgence overwhelms our strength, and thus we cannot fix our gaze upon You. O exalted one, You are to be honored by all embodied beings.

TEXT 35

एवं सम्भाषितो राज्ञा
भगवान् भूतभावनः
प्रत्याह प्रहसन् वाण्या

मेघनादगभीरया

*evam sambhāṣito rājñā bhagavān bhūta-bhāvanaḥ pratyāha prahasan vāṇyā
megha-nāda-gabhīrayā*

SYNONYMS

evam—thus; sambhāṣitaḥ—spoken to; rājñā—by the King; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; bhūta—of all creation; bhāvanaḥ—the origin; pratyāha—He replied; prahasan—smiling broadly; vāṇyā—with words; megha—of clouds; nāda—like the rumbling; gabhīrayā—deep.

TRANSLATION

[Śukadeva Gosvāmī continued:] Thus addressed by the King, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, origin of all creation, smiled and then replied to him in a voice as deep as the rumbling of clouds.

TEXT 36

श्रीभगवानुवाच
जन्मकर्माभिधानानि
सन्ति मेऽङ्ग सहस्रशः
न शक्यन्तेऽनुसङ्ख्यातुम् अनन्तत्वान्मयापि हि

*śrī-bhagavān uvāca
janma-karmābhidhānāni* santi me 'ṅga sahasraśaḥ na śakyante 'nusaṅkhyātum anantatvān mayāpi hi

SYNONYMS

śrī-bhagavān uvāca—the Supreme Lord said; janma—births; karma—activities; abhidhānāni—and names; santi—there are; me—My; aṅga—O dear one; sahasraśaḥ—by the thousands; na śakyante—they cannot; anusaṅkhyātum—be enumerated; anantatvāt—because of having no limit; mayā—by Me; api hi—even.

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Lord said: My dear friend, I have taken thousands of births, lived thousands of lives and accepted thousands of names. In fact My births, activities and names are limitless, and thus even I cannot count them.

TEXT 37

क्वचिद्रजांसि विममे
पार्थिवान्युरुजन्मभिः
गुणकर्माभिधानानि
न मे जन्मानि कर्हिचित्

kvacid rajāṁsi vimame pārthivāny uru-janmabhiḥ guṇa-karmābhidhānāni na me janmāni karhicit

SYNONYMS

kvacit—at some time; rajāṁsi—the particles of dust; vimame—one might count; pārthivāni—on the earth; uru-janmabhiḥ—in many lifetimes; guṇa—qualities; karma—activities; abhidhānāni—and names; na—not; me—My; janmāni—births; karhicit—ever.

TRANSLATION

After many lifetimes someone might count the dust particles on the earth, but no one can ever finish counting My qualities, activities, names and births.

TEXT 38

कालत्रयोपपन्नानि
जन्मकर्माणि मे नृप
अनुक्रमन्तो नैवान्तं गच्छन्ति परमर्षयः

kāla-trayopapannāni
janma-karmāṇi me nṛpa anukramanto naivāntaṁ
gacchanti paramarṣayaḥ

SYNONYMS

kāla—of time; traya—in three phases (past, present and future); upapannāni—occurring; janma—births; karmāṇi—and activities; me—My; nṛpa—O King (Mucukunda); anukramantaḥ—enumerating; na—not; eva—at all; antaṁ—the end; gacchanti—reach; parama—the greatest; ṛṣayaḥ—sages.

TRANSLATION

O King, the greatest sages enumerate My births and activities, which take place throughout the three phases of time, but never do they reach the end of them.

TEXTS 39-40

तथाप्यद्यतनान्यङ्ग
शृणुष्व गदतो मम
विज्ञापितो विरिञ्चेन
पुराहं धर्मगुप्तये
भूमेर्भारायमाणानाम्
असुराणां क्षयाय च
अवतीर्णो यदुकुले
गृह आनकदुन्दुभेः
वदन्ति वासुदेवेति वासुदेवसुतं हि माम्

*tathāpy adyatanāny aṅga śṛṇuṣva gadato mama vijñāpito viriñcena
purāhaṁ dharma-guptye bhūmer bhārāyamāṇānām asurāṇām kṣayāya ca
avatīrṇo yadu-kule
gṛha ānakadundubheḥ*

*vadanti vāsudeveti
vasudeva-sutaṁ hi mām*

SYNONYMS

tathā api—nevertheless; adyatanāni—those current; aṅga—O friend; śṛṇuṣva—just hear; gadataḥ—who am speaking; mama—from Me; viññāpitaḥ—sincerely requested; virīñcena—by Lord Brahmā; purā—in the past; aham—I; dharma—religious principles; guptaye—to protect; bhūmeḥ—for the earth; bhārāyamāṇānām—who are a burden; asurāṇām—of the demons; kṣayāya—for the destruction; ca—and; avatīrṇaḥ—descended; yadu—of Yadu; kule—into the dynasty; gṛhe—in the home; ānakadundubheḥ—of Vasudeva; vadanti—people call; vāsudevaḥ iti—by the name Vāsudeva; vasudeva-sutam—the son of Vasudeva; hi—indeed; mām—Me.

TRANSLATION

Nonetheless, O friend, I will tell you about My current birth, name and activities. Kindly hear. Some time ago, Lord Brahmā requested Me to protect religious principles and destroy the demons who were burdening the earth. Thus I descended in the Yadu dynasty, in the home of Ānakadundubhi. Indeed, because I am the son of Vasudeva, people call Me Vāsudeva.

TEXT 41

कालनेमिर्हतः कंसः
प्रलम्बाद्याश्च सद्विषः
अयं च यवनो दग्धो राजंस्ते तिग्मचक्षुषा

kālanemir hataḥ kamsaḥ pralambādyāś ca sad-dviṣaḥ ayaṁ ca yavano dagdho rājaṁs te tigma-cakṣuṣā

SYNONYMS

kālanemiḥ—the demon Kālanemi; hataḥ—killed; kamsaḥ—Kamsa; pralamba—Pralamba; ādyāḥ—and others; ca—also; sat—of those who are pious; dviṣaḥ—envious; ayaṁ—this; ca—and; yavanaḥ—barbarian; dagdhaḥ—burned; rājan—O King; te—your; tigma—sharp; cakṣuṣā—by the glance.

TRANSLATION

I have killed Kālanemi, reborn as Kamsa, as well as Pralamba and other enemies of the pious. And now, O King, this barbarian has been burnt to ashes by your piercing glance.

TEXT 42

सोऽहं तवानुग्रहार्थं
गुहामेतामुपागतः
प्रार्थितः प्रचुरं पूर्वं त्वयाहं भक्तवत्सलः

*so 'haṁ tavānugrahārtham
guhām etām upāgataḥ prārthitaḥ pracuraṁ pūrvam tvayāhaṁ bhakta-vatsalaḥ*

SYNONYMS

saḥ—that same person; aham—I; tava—your; anugraha—of the favoring; artham—for the sake; guhām—cave; etām—this; upāgataḥ—approached; prārthitaḥ—prayed to; pracuram—abundantly; pūrvam—before; tvayā—by you; aham—I; bhakta—to My devotees; vatsalaḥ—affectionate.

TRANSLATION

Since in the past you repeatedly prayed to Me, I have personally come to this cave to show you mercy, for I am affectionately inclined to My devotees.

PURPORT

It is apparent from this verse that Mucukunda was a devotee of the Supreme Lord. He had prayed for the Lord's association, and now Śrī Kṛṣṇa granted his fervent request.

TEXT 43

वरान् वृणीष्व राजर्षे
सर्वान् कामान्ददामि ते
मां प्रसन्नो जनः कश्चिन्
न भूयोऽर्हति शोचितुम्

varān vṛṇīṣva rājarṣe sarvān kāmān dadāmi te mām prasanno janaḥ kaścīn na bhūyo 'rhati śocitum

SYNONYMS

varān—benedictions; vr̥ṇīṣva—just choose; rāja-ṛṣe—O saintly King; sarvān—all; kāmān—desirable things; dadāmi—I give; te—to you; mām—Me; prasannaḥ—having satisfied; janaḥ—person; kaścit—any; na bhūyaḥ—never again; arhati—needs; śocitum—to lament.

TRANSLATION

Now choose some benedictions from Me, O saintly King. I will fulfill all your desires. One who has satisfied Me need never again lament.

PURPORT

The ācāryas explain that we lament when we feel incomplete, when we have lost something or when we fail to achieve something desirable. One who has satisfied Kṛṣṇa and thus attained the Lord's mercy will never be troubled in these ways. Lord Kṛṣṇa is the reservoir of all pleasure, and He enjoys sharing His spiritual bliss with all living beings. We need only cooperate with the Supreme Lord.

TEXT 44

श्रीशुक उवाच
इत्युक्तस्तं प्रणम्याह
मुचुकुन्दो मुदान्वितः
ज्ञात्वा नारायणं देवं गर्गवाक्यमनुस्मरन्

śrī-śuka uvāca
ity uktas taṁ praṇamyāha mucukundo mudānvitaḥ jñātvā nārāyaṇaṁ devaṁ
garga-vākyam anusmaran

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; iti—thus; uktaḥ—addressed; taṁ—to Him; praṇamya—after bowing down; āha—said; mucukundaḥ—Mucukunda; mudā—with joy; anvitaḥ—filled; jñātvā—knowing (Him) to be; nārāyaṇaṁ devaṁ—Nārāyaṇa, the Supreme Lord; garga-vākyam—the words of the sage Garga; anusmaran—remembering.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Mucukunda bowed down to the Lord when he heard this. Remembering the words of the sage Garga, he joyfully recognized Kṛṣṇa to be the Supreme Lord, Nārāyaṇa. The King then addressed Him as follows.

PURPORT

Although the Lord here appears as four-handed Nārāyaṇa, we may say that Mucukunda was addressing Śrī Kṛṣṇa. All of this is taking place within the context of kṛṣṇa-līlā, the pastimes of Lord Kṛṣṇa. It is well known to Vaiṣṇavas that the four-handed forms of Viṣṇu, or Nārāyaṇa, are expansions of Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Thus within the pastimes of Lord Kṛṣṇa there may also appear viṣṇu-līlā, the activities of Viṣṇu. Such are the qualities and activities of the Supreme Godhead. Deeds that for us would be extraordinary and even impossible are commonplace, effortless pastimes for the Supreme Personality of Godhead.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī informs us that Mucukunda was aware of the prediction of the ancient sage Garga that in the twenty-eighth millennium the Supreme Lord would descend. According to Ācārya Viśvanātha, Garga Muni further informed Mucukunda that he would personally see the Lord. Now it was all happening.

TEXT 45

श्रीमुचुकुन्द उवाच
विमोहितोऽयं जन ईश मायया
त्वदीयया त्वां न भजत्यनर्थदृक्
सुखाय दुःखप्रभवेषु सज्जते गृहेषु योषित्पुरुषश्च वञ्चितः

śrī-mucukunda uvāca
vimohito 'yaṁ jana īśa māyayā tvadīyayā tvāṁ na bhajaty anartha-dṛk sukhāya duḥkha-prabhaveṣu sajjate grheṣu yoṣit puruṣaś ca vañcitaḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī-mucukundaḥ uvāca—Śrī Mucukunda said; vimohitaḥ—bewildered; ayaṁ—this; janaḥ—person; īśa—O Lord; māyayā—by the illusory energy; tvadīyayā—Your own; tvāṁ—You; na bhajati—does not worship; anartha-dṛk—not seeing one's real benefit; sukhāya—for the sake of happiness; duḥkha—misery; prabhaveṣu—in things that cause; sajjate—becomes entangled; grheṣu—in affairs of family life; yoṣit—woman; puruṣaḥ—man; ca—and; vañcitaḥ—cheated.

TRANSLATION

Śrī Mucukunda said: O Lord, the people of this world, both men and women, are bewildered by Your illusory energy. Unaware of their real benefit, they do not worship You but instead seek happiness by entangling themselves in family affairs, which are actually sources of misery.

PURPORT

Mucukunda immediately makes it clear that he is not going to ask the Lord for material blessings. He has advanced, spiritually, far beyond those who try to exploit religion for all kinds of material benefits. Artha means "value," and the negation of this word, anartha, means "that which is valueless or useless." Thus the term anartha-dṛk indicates those whose vision is focused on valueless things, who have not understood what actual artha, or value, is. All that glitters is not gold, and Mucukunda here emphatically states that we should not ruin our spiritual chances by entangling ourselves in the fool's gold of bodily relationships. We are meant to love the Lord.

TEXT 46

लब्ध्वा जनो दुर्लभमत्र मानुषं
कथञ्चिदव्यङ्गमयत्नतोऽनघ
पादारविन्दं न भजत्यसनमतिर गृहान्धकूपे पतितो यथा पशुः

labdhvā jano durlabham atra mānuṣaṁ kathañcid avyaṅgam ayatnato 'nagha pādāravindaṁ na bhajaty asan-matir gṛhāndha-kūpe patito yathā paśuḥ

SYNONYMS

labdhvā—attaining; janaḥ—a person; durlabham—rarely obtained; atra—in this world; mānuṣam—the human form of life; kathañcit—somehow or other; avyaṅgam—with undistorted limbs (unlike the various animal forms); ayatnataḥ—without endeavor; anagha—O sinless one; pāda—Your feet; aravindam—lotuslike; na bhajati—he does not worship; asat—impure; matiḥ—his mentality; gṛha—of home; andha—blind; kūpe—in the well; patitaḥ—fallen; yathā—as; paśuḥ—an animal.

TRANSLATION

That person has an impure mind who, despite having somehow or other automatically obtained the rare and highly evolved human form of life, does not worship Your lotus feet. Like an animal that has fallen into a blind well, such a person has fallen into the darkness of a material home.

PURPORT

Our real home is in the kingdom of God. Despite our tenacious determination to remain in our material home, death will rudely eject us from the theater of material affairs. To stay at home is not bad, nor is it bad to devote ourselves to our loved ones. But we must understand that our real home is eternal, in the spiritual kingdom.

The word ayatnataḥ indicates that human life has been automatically awarded to us. We have not constructed our human bodies, and therefore we should not foolishly claim, "This body is mine." The human form is a gift of God and should be used to achieve the perfection of God consciousness. One who does not understand this is asan-mati, possessed of dull, mundane understanding.

TEXT 47

ममैष कालोऽजित निष्फलो गतो
राज्यश्रियोन्नद्धमदस्य भूपतेः
मर्त्यात्मबुद्धेः सुतदारकोशभूष्व आसज्जमानस्य दुरन्तचिन्तया

mamaiṣa kālo 'jita niṣphalo gato rājya-śriyonnaddha-madasya bhū-pateḥ martyāتما-buddheḥ suta-dāra-kośa-bhūṣv āsajjamānasya duranta-cintayā

SYNONYMS

mama—my; eṣaḥ—this; kālaḥ—time; ajita—O unconquerable one; niṣphalaḥ—fruitlessly; gataḥ—now gone; rājya—by kingdom; śriyā—and opulence; unnaddha—built up; madasya—whose intoxication; bhūpateḥ—a king of the earth; martya—the mortal body; ātma—as the self; buddheḥ—whose mentality; suta—to children; dāra—wives; kośa—treasury; bhūṣu—and land; āsajjamānasya—becoming attached; duranta—endless; cintayā—with anxiety.

TRANSLATION

I have wasted all this time, O unconquerable one, becoming more and more intoxicated by my domain and opulence as an earthly king. Misidentifying the mortal body as the self, becoming attached to children, wives, treasury and land, I suffered endless anxiety.

PURPORT

Having in the previous verse condemned those who misuse the valuable human form of life for mundane purposes, Mucukunda now admits that he himself falls into this category. He intelligently wants to take advantage of the Lord's association and become a pure devotee once and for all.

TEXT 48

कलेवरेऽस्मिन् घटकुड्यसन्निभे
निरूढमानो नरदेव इत्यहम्
वृतो रथेभाश्वपदात्यनीकपैर गां पर्यटंस्त्वागणयन् सुदुर्मदः

kalevare 'smin ghaṭa-kuḍya-sannibhe nirūḍha-māno nara-deva ity aham vṛto rathebhāśva-padāty-anikapair gām paryaṭaṁs tvāgaṇayan su-durmadaḥ

SYNONYMS

kalevare—in the body; asmin—this; ghaṭa—a pot; kuḍya—or a wall; sannibhe—which is like; nirūḍha—exaggerated; mānaḥ—whose false identification; nara-devaḥ—a god among men (king); iti—thus (thinking myself); aham—I; vṛtaḥ—surrounded; ratha—by chariots; ibha—elephants; aśva—horses; padāti—infantry; anikapaiḥ—and generals; gām—the earth; paryaṭan—traveling; tvā—You; agaṇayan—not regarding seriously; su-durmadaḥ—very much deluded by pride.

TRANSLATION

With deep arrogance I took myself to be the body, which is a material object like a pot or a wall. Thinking myself a god among men, I traveled the earth surrounded by my charioteers, elephants, cavalry, foot soldiers and generals, disregarding You in my deluding pride.

TEXT 49

प्रमत्तमुच्चैरितिकृत्यचिन्तया
प्रवृद्धलोभं विषयेषु लालसम्
त्वमप्रमत्तः सहसाभिपद्यसे क्षुल्लेलिहानोऽहिरिवाखुमन्तकः

pramattam uccair itikṛtya-cintayā pravṛddha-lobham viṣayeṣu lālasam tvam apramattaḥ sahasābhipadyase kṣul-lelihāno 'hir ivākhum antakaḥ

SYNONYMS

pramattam—thoroughly deluded; uccaiḥ—extensive; iti-kṛtya—of what needs to be done; cintayā—with thought; pravṛddha—increased fully; lobham—whose greed; viṣayeṣu—for sense objects; lālasam—hankering; tvam—You; apramattaḥ—not deluded; sahasā—suddenly; abhipadyase—confront; kṣut—out of thirst; lelihānaḥ—licking its fangs; ahiḥ—a snake; iva—as; ākhum—a mouse; antakaḥ—death.

TRANSLATION

A man obsessed with thoughts of what he thinks needs to be done, intensely greedy, and delighting in sense enjoyment is suddenly confronted by You, who are ever alert. Like a hungry snake licking its fangs before a mouse, You appear before him as death.

PURPORT

We may note here the contrast between the words pramattam and apramattaḥ. Those who are trying to exploit the material world are pramatta: "deluded, bewildered, maddened by desire." But the Lord is apramatta: "alert, sober, and unbewildered." In our madness we may deny God or His laws, but the Lord is sober and will not fail to reward or punish us according to the quality of our activities.

TEXT 50

पुरा रथैर्हेमपरिष्कृतैश्चरन्
मतंगजैर्वा नरदेवसंज्ञितः
स एव कालेन दुरत्ययेन ते कलेवरो विट्कृमिभस्मसंज्ञितः

purā rathair hema-pariṣkṛtaiś caran matam-gajair vā nara-deva-samjñitah sa eva kālena duratyayena te kalevaro viṭ-kṛmi-bhasma-samjñitah

SYNONYMS

purā—previously; rathaiḥ—in chariots; hema—with gold; pariṣkṛtaiḥ—furnished; caran—riding; matam—fierce; gajaiḥ—on elephants; vā—or; nara-deva—king; samjñitah—named; saḥ—that; eva—same; kālena—by time; duratyayena—unavoidable; te—Your; kalevarah—body; viṭ—as feces; kṛmi—worms; bhasma—ashes; samjñitah—named.

TRANSLATION

The body that at first rides high on fierce elephants or chariots adorned with gold and is known by the name "king" is later, by Your invincible power of time, called "feces," "worms," or "ashes."

PURPORT

In the United States and other materially developed countries, dead bodies are cosmetically disposed of in a tidy ceremonial way, but in many parts of the world old, sickly and injured people die in lonely or neglected places, where dogs and jackals consume their bodies and transform them into stool. And if one is so blessed as to be buried in a coffin, one's body may very well be consumed by worms and other minuscule creatures. Also, many earthly cadavers are burned and thus transformed into ashes. In any case, death is certain, and the ultimate fate of the body is never sublime. That is the real purport of Mucukunda's statement here—that the body, though now called "king," "prince," "beauty queen," "upper-middle class" and so on, will eventually be called "stool," "worms" and "ashes."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī quotes the following Vedic statement:

yoneḥ sahasrāṇi bahūni gatvā duḥkhena labdhvāpi ca mānuṣatvam sukhāvahaṁ ye na bhajanti viṣṇum te vai manuṣyātmani śatru-bhūtāḥ

"After passing through many thousands of species and undergoing great struggle, the conditioned living entities finally obtain the human form. Thus those human beings who still do not worship Lord Viṣṇu, who can bring them real happiness, have certainly become enemies of both themselves and humanity."

TEXT 51

निर्जित्य दिक्चक्रमभूतविग्रहो
वरासनस्थः समराजवन्दितः
गृहेषु मैथुन्यसुखेषु योषितां क्रीडामृगः पूरुष ईश नीयते

nirjitya dik-cakram abhūta-vigraho varāśana-sthaḥ sama-rāja-vanditaḥ gṛheṣu maithunya-sukheṣu yoṣitām krīḍā-mṛgaḥ pūruṣa īśa nīyate

SYNONYMS

nirjitya—having conquered; dik—of directions; cakram—the whole circle; abhūta—nonexistent; vigrahaḥ—any conflict for whom; vara-āsana—on an exalted throne; sthaḥ—seated; sama—equal; rāja—by kings; vanditaḥ—praised; gṛheṣu—in residences; maithunya—sex; sukheṣu—whose happiness; yoṣitām—of women; krīḍā-mṛgaḥ—a pet animal; puruṣaḥ—the person; īśa—O Lord; nīyate—is led about.

TRANSLATION

Having conquered the entire circle of directions and being thus free of conflict, a man sits on a splendid throne, receiving praise from leaders who were once his equals. But when he enters the women's chambers, where sex pleasure is found, he is led about like a pet animal, O Lord.

TEXT 52

करोति कर्माणि तपःसुनिष्ठितो
निवृत्तभोगस्तदपेक्षयाददत्
पुनश्च भूयासमहं स्वराडिति प्रवृद्धतर्षो न सुखाय कल्पते

karoti karmāṇi tapaḥ-suniṣṭhito nivṛtta-bhogas tad-apekṣayādadat punaś ca bhūyāsam ahaṁ sva-rāḍ iti pravṛddha-tarṣo na sukhāya kalpate

SYNONYMS

karoti—one performs; karmāṇi—duties; tapaḥ—in the practice of austerities; su-niṣṭhitaḥ—very fixed; nivṛtta—avoiding; bhogaḥ—sense enjoyment; tat—with that (position which he already has); apekṣayā—in comparison; adadat—assuming; punaḥ—further; ca—and; bhūyāsam—greater; aham—I; sva-rāḍ—sovereign ruler; iti—thus thinking; pravṛddha—rampant; tarṣaḥ—whose urges; na—not; sukhāya—happiness; kalpate—can attain.

TRANSLATION

A king who desires even greater power than he already has strictly performs his duties, carefully practicing austerity and forgoing sense enjoyment. But he whose urges are so rampant, thinking "I am independent and supreme," cannot attain happiness.

TEXT 53

भवापवर्गो भ्रमतो यदा भवेज्

जनस्य तर्ह्यच्युत सत्समागमः
सत्सङ्गमो यर्हि तदैव सद्गतौ परावरेषे त्वयि जायते मतिः

bhavāpavargo bhramato yadā bhavej janasya tarhy acyuta sat-samāgamaḥ sat-saṅgamo yarhi tadaiva sad-gatau parāvareṣe tvayi jāyate matiḥ

SYNONYMS

bhava—of material existence; apavargaḥ—the cessation; bhramataḥ—who has been wandering; yadā—when; bhavet—occurs; janasya—for a person; tarhi—at that time; acyuta—O infallible Lord; sat—of saintly devotees; samāgamaḥ—the association; sat-saṅgamaḥ—saintly association; yarhi—when; tadā—then; eva—only; sat—of the saintly; gatau—who is the goal; para—of superior (the causes of material creation); avara—and inferior (their products); iṣe—for the Supreme Lord; tvayi—Yourself; jāyate—is born; matiḥ—devotion.

TRANSLATION

When the material life of a wandering soul has ceased, O Acyuta, he may attain the association of Your devotees. And when he associates with them, there awakens in him devotion unto You, who are the goal of the devotees and the Lord of all causes and their effects.

PURPORT

Ācāryas Jīva Gosvāmī and Viśvanātha Cakravartī agree on the following point: Although it is stated here that when material life ceases one attains the association of devotees, in fact it is the association of the Lord's devotees that enables one to transcend material existence. Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī explains this apparent inversion of sequence by quoting the Kāvya-prakāśa (10.153) as follows: kārya-kāraṇayoś ca paurvāpya-viparyayo vijñeyātiśayoktiḥ syāt sa. "A statement in which the logical order of a cause and its effect is reversed should be understood as atiśayokti, emphasis by extreme assertion." Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī cites the following commentary on this statement: kāraṇasya śīghra-kāritām vaktuṁ kāryasya pūrvam uktau. "To express the swift action of a cause, one may assert the result before the cause."

In this connection Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī points out that the merciful association of the Lord's devotees makes possible our determination to become Kṛṣṇa conscious. And the ācārya agrees with Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī that this verse is an instance of atiśayokti.

TEXT 54

मन्ये ममानुग्रह ईश ते कृतो
राज्यानुबन्धापगमो यदृच्छया
यः प्रार्थ्यते साधुभिरेकचर्यया वनं विविक्षद्भिरखण्डभूमिपैः

manye mamānugraha īśa te kṛto rājyānubandhāpagamo yadṛcchayā yaḥ prārthyate sādhubhir eka-caryayā vanam vivikṣadbhir akhaṇḍa-bhūmi-paiḥ

SYNONYMS

manye—I think; mama—to me; anugrahaḥ—mercy; īśa—O Lord; te—by You; kṛtaḥ—done; rājya—to kingdom; anubandha—of attachment; apagamaḥ—the removal; yadṛcchayā—spontaneous; yaḥ—which; prārthyate—is prayed for; sādhubhiḥ—saintly; eka-caryayā—in solitude; vanam—the forest; vivikṣadbhiḥ—who desire to enter; akhaṇḍa—unlimited; bhūmi—of lands; paiḥ—by rulers.

TRANSLATION

My Lord, I think You have shown me mercy, since my attachment to my kingdom has spontaneously ceased. Such freedom is prayed for by saintly rulers of vast empires who desire to enter the forest for a life of solitude.

TEXT 55

न कामयेऽन्यं तव पादसेवनाद्
अकिञ्चनप्रार्थ्यतमाद्वरं विभो
आराध्य कस्त्वां ह्यपवर्गदं हरे वृणीत आर्यो वरमात्मबन्धनम्

na kāmaye 'nyam tava pāda-sevanād akiñcana-prārthyatamād varam vibho ārādhya kas tvām hy apavarga-dam hare vṛṇīta āryo varam ātma-bandhanam

SYNONYMS

na kāmaye—I do not desire; anyam—another; tava—Your; pāda—of the feet; sevanāt—than the service; akiñcana—by those who want nothing material; prārthya-tamāt—which is the favorite object of entreaty; varam—boon; vibho—O all-powerful one; ārādhya—worshiping; kaḥ—who; tvām—You; hi—indeed; apavarga—of liberation; dam—the bestower; hare—O Lord Hari;

vṛṇīta—would choose; āryaḥ—a spiritually advanced person; varam—boon; ātma—his own; bandhanam—(cause of) bondage.

TRANSLATION

O all-powerful one, I desire no boon other than service to Your lotus feet, the boon most eagerly sought by those free of material desire. O Hari, what enlightened person who worships You, the giver of liberation, would choose a boon that causes his own bondage?

PURPORT

The Lord offered Mucukunda anything he desired, but Mucukunda desired only the Lord. This is pure Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 56

तस्माद्विसृज्याशिष ईश सर्वतो
रजस्तमःसत्त्वगुणानुबन्धनाः
निरञ्जनं निर्गुणमद्वयं परं त्वां ज्ञासिमात्रं पुरुषं व्रजाम्यहम्

tasmād visṛjyāśiṣa īśa sarvato rajas-tamaḥ-sattva-guṇānubandhanāḥ nirañjanam nirguṇam advayaṁ paraṁ tvāṁ jñāpti-mātraṁ puruṣaṁ vrajāmy aham

SYNONYMS

tasmāt—therefore; visṛjya—putting aside; āśiṣaḥ—desirable objects; īśa—O Lord; sarvataḥ—entirely; rajaḥ—with passion; tamaḥ—ignorance; sattva—and goodness; guṇa—the material modes; anu-bandhanāḥ—entangled; nirañjanam—free from mundane designations; nirguṇam—transcendental to the material modes; advayam—nondual; param—supreme; tvām—You; jñāpti-mātram—pure knowledge; puruṣam—the original person; vrajāmi—am approaching; aham-I.

TRANSLATION

Therefore, O Lord, having put aside all objects of material desire, which are bound to the modes of passion, ignorance and goodness, I am approaching You, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, for shelter. You are not covered by mundane designations; rather, You are the Supreme Absolute Truth, full in pure knowledge and transcendental to the material modes.

PURPORT

The word nirguṇam here indicates that the Lord's existence is beyond the qualities of material nature. One might argue that Lord Kṛṣṇa's body is made of material nature, but here the word advayam refutes that argument. There is no duality in Lord Kṛṣṇa's existence. His eternal, spiritual body is Kṛṣṇa, and Kṛṣṇa is God.

TEXT 57

चिरमिह वृजिनार्तस्तप्यमानोऽनुतापैर्
अवितृषषडमित्रोऽलब्धशान्तिः कथञ्चित् शरणदं समुपेतस्त्वत्पदाब्जं परात्मन् अभयमृतमशोकं पाहि मापन्नमीश

ciram iha vṛjinārtas tapyamāno 'nutāpair

avitr̥ṣa-ṣaḍ-amitro 'labdha-śāntiḥ kathañcit śaraṇa-da samupetas tvat-padābjaṁ parātman abhayaṁ ṛtam aśokaṁ pāhi māḥpannam īśa

SYNONYMS

ciram—for a long time; iha—in this world; vṛjina—by disturbances; ārtaḥ—distressed; tapyamānaḥ—tormented; anutāpaiḥ—with remorse; avitr̥ṣa—unsatiated; ṣaṭ—six; amitraḥ—whose enemies (the five senses and the mind); alabdha—not attaining; śāntiḥ—peace; kathañcit—by some means; śaraṇa—of shelter; da—O bestower; samupetaḥ—who have approached; tvat—Your; pada-abjaṁ—lotus feet; para-ātman—O Supreme Soul; abhayaṁ—fearless; ṛtam—the truth; aśokaṁ—free from sorrow; pāhi—please protect; mā—me; āpannam—who am confronted with dangers; īśa—O Lord.

TRANSLATION

For so long I have been pained by troubles in this world and have been burning with lamentation. My six enemies are never satiated, and I can find no peace. Therefore, O giver of shelter, O Supreme Soul, please protect me. O Lord, in the midst of danger I have by good fortune approached Your lotus feet, which are the truth and which thus make one fearless and free of sorrow.

TEXT 58

श्रीभगवानुवाच
सार्वभौम महाराज
मतिस्ते विमलोर्जिता
वरैः प्रलोभितस्यापि

न कामैर्विहता यतः

*śrī-bhagavān uvāca
sārvabhauma mahā-rāja
matis te vimalorjitā varaiḥ pralobhitasyāpi
na kāmair vihatā yataḥ*

SYNONYMS

śrī-bhagavān uvāca—the Supreme Lord said; sārvabhauma—O emperor; mahā-rāja—great ruler; matiḥ—mind; te—Your; vimala—spotless; urjitā—potent; varaiḥ—with benedictions; pralobhitasya—of (you) who were enticed; api—even though; na—not; kāmair—by material desires; vihatā—spoiled; yataḥ—since.

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Lord said: O emperor, great ruler, your mind is pure and potent. Though I enticed You with benedictions, your mind was not overcome by material desires.

TEXT 59

प्रलोभितो वरैर्यत्त्वम्
अप्रमादाय विद्धि तत्
न धीरेकान्तभक्तानाम् आशीर्भिर्भिद्यते क्वचित्

pralobhito varair yat tvam

apramādāya viddhi tat na dhīr ekānta-bhaktānām āśīrbhir bhidyate kvacit

SYNONYMS

pralobhitaḥ—enticed; varaiḥ—with benedictions; yat—which fact; tvam—you; apramādāya—for (showing your) freedom from bewilderment; viddhi—please know; tat—that; na—not; dhīḥ—the intelligence; ekānta—exclusive; bhaktānām—of devotees; āśīrbhiḥ—by blessings; bhidyate—is diverted; kvacit—ever.

TRANSLATION

Understand that I enticed you with benedictions just to prove that you would not be deceived. The intelligence of My unalloyed devotees is never diverted by material blessings.

TEXT 60

युञ्जानानामभक्तानां
प्राणायामादिभिर्मनः
अक्षीणवासनं राजन्
दृश्यते पुनरुत्थितम्

*yuñjānānām abhaktānām prāṇāyāmādibhir manaḥ akṣīṇa-vāsanam rājan
dṛśyate punar utthitam*

SYNONYMS

yuñjānānām—who are engaging themselves; abhaktānām—of nondevotees; prāṇāyāma—with prāṇāyāma (yogic breath control); ādibhiḥ—and other practices; manaḥ—the minds; akṣīṇa—not eliminated; vāsanam—the last traces of whose material desire; rājan—O King (Mucukunda); dṛśyate—is seen; punaḥ—again; utthitam—waking (to thoughts of sense gratification).

TRANSLATION

The minds of nondevotees who engage in such practices as prāṇāyāma are not fully cleansed of material desires. Thus, O King, material desires are again seen to arise in their minds.

TEXT 61

विचरस्व महीं कामं
मय्यावेशितमानसः
अस्त्वेवं नित्यदा तुभ्यं भक्तिर्मय्यनपायिनी

vicarasva mahīm kāmam
mayy āveśita-mānasaḥ
astv evam nityadā tubhyam
bhaktir mayy anapāyinī

SYNONYMS

vicarasva—wander; mahīm—this earth; kāmam—at will; mayi—in Me; āveśita—fixed; mānasaḥ—your mind; astu—may there be; evam—thus;

nityadā—always; tubhyam—for you; bhaktiḥ—devotion; mayi—to Me; anapāyinī—unfailing.

TRANSLATION

Wander this earth at will, with your mind fixed on Me. May you always possess such unfailing devotion for Me.

TEXT 62

क्षात्रधर्मस्थितो जन्तून्
न्यवधीर्मृगयादिभिः
समाहितस्तत्तपसा जह्यघं मदुपाश्रितः

kṣātra-dharma-sthito jantūn nyavadhīr mṛgayādibhiḥ samāhitas tat tapasā
jahy agham mad-upāśritaḥ

SYNONYMS

kṣātra—of the ruling class; dharma—in the religious principles; sthitaḥ—situated; jantūn—living beings; nyavadhīḥ—you killed; mṛgayā—in the course of hunting; ādibhiḥ—and other activities; samāhitaḥ—fully concentrated; tat—that; tapasā—by penances; jahi—you should eradicate; agham—sinful reaction; mat—in Me; upāśritaḥ—taking shelter.

TRANSLATION

Because you followed the principles of a kṇātriya, you killed living beings while hunting and performing other duties. You must vanquish the sins thus incurred by carefully executing penances while remaining surrendered to Me.

TEXT 63

जन्मन्यनन्तरे राजन्
सर्वभूतसुहृत्तमः
भूत्वा द्विजवरस्त्वं वै मामुपैष्यसि केवलम्

*janmany anantare rājan
sarva-bhūta-suhṛttamaḥ bhūtvā dvija-varas tvam vai
mām upaiṣyasi kevalam*

SYNONYMS

janmani—in the birth; anantare—immediately following; rājan—O King; sarva—of all; bhūta—living beings; suhṛt-tamaḥ—a supreme well-wisher; bhūtvā—becoming; dvija-varaḥ—an excellent brāhmaṇa; tvam—you; vai—indeed; mam—to Me; upaiṣyasi—will come; kevalam—exclusively.

TRANSLATION

O King, in your very next life you will become an excellent brāhmaëa, the greatest well-wisher of all creatures, and certainly come to Me alone.

PURPORT

Śrī Kṛṣṇa states in the Bhagavad-gītā (5.29), suhṛdam sarva-bhūtānām jñātvā

mām śāntim ṛcchati: "A person attains peace by understanding Me to be the well-wishing friend of all living beings." Lord Kṛṣṇa and His pure devotees work together to rescue the fallen souls from the ocean of illusion. This is the real purport of the Kṛṣṇa consciousness movement.

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Fifty-first Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "The Deliverance of Mucukunda."

52. Rukmiṇī's Message to Lord Kṛṣṇa

This chapter describes how Lord Balarāma and Lord Kṛṣṇa, running as if in fear, went to Dvārakā. Then Lord Kṛṣṇa heard the message of Rukmiṇī from the mouth of a brāhmaṇa and chose her as His wife.

King Mucukunda, shown mercy by Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, offered obeisances and circumambulated Him. The King then left the cave and saw that humans, animals, trees and plants were all smaller than when he had fallen asleep. From this he could understand that the age of Kali was at hand. Thus, in a mood of detachment from all material association, the King began worshiping the Supreme Lord, Śrī Hari.

Śrī Kṛṣṇa returned to Mathurā, which was still under siege by the barbarian army. He destroyed this army, collected all the valuables the soldiers had been carrying, and set off for Dvārakā. Just then Jarāsandha arrived on the scene with a force of twenty-three akṣauhiṇīs. Lord Balarāma and Lord Kṛṣṇa, acting as if fearful, left Their riches aside and ran far away. Because Jarāsandha could not appreciate Their true power, he ran after Them. After running a long way, Rāma and Kṛṣṇa came to a mountain named Pravarṣaṇa and proceeded to climb it. Jarāsandha thought They had hidden inside a cave and looked all over for Them. Unable to find Them, he built fires on all sides of the mountain. As the vegetation on the mountain slopes burst into flame, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma jumped off the peak. After reaching the ground unseen by Jarāsandha and his followers, They returned to the Dvārakā fort, which floated within the sea. Jarāsandha decided that Rāma and Kṛṣṇa had burned to death in the fire, and he took his army back to his kingdom.

At this point Mahārāja Parīkṣit asked a question, and Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī responded to it by beginning to narrate the history of the marriage of Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa and Rukmiṇī. Rukmiṇī, the young daughter of Bhīṣmaka, King of Vidarbha, had heard of Śrī Kṛṣṇa's beauty, strength and other fine qualities, and she therefore made up her mind that He would be the perfect husband for her. Lord Kṛṣṇa also wanted to marry her. But although Rukmiṇī's other relatives approved of her marriage to Kṛṣṇa, her brother Rukmī was envious of the Lord and thus forbade her to marry Him. Rukmī wanted her to marry Śiśupāla instead. Rukmiṇī unhappily took up her duties in preparation for the marriage, but she also sent a trustworthy brāhmaṇa to Kṛṣṇa with a letter.

When the brāhmaṇa arrived in Dvārakā, Śrī Kṛṣṇa properly honored him with ritual worship and other tokens of reverence. The Lord then asked the brāhmaṇa why he had come. The brāhmaṇa opened Rukmiṇī's letter and showed it to Lord Kṛṣṇa, who had the messenger read it to Him. Rukmiṇī-devī wrote, "Ever since I have heard about You, my Lord, I have become completely attracted to You. Without fail please come before my marriage to Śiśupāla and take me away. In accordance with family custom, on the day before my marriage I will visit the temple of goddess Ambikā. That would be the best opportunity for You to appear and easily kidnap me. If You do not show me this favor, I will give up my life by fasting and observing severe vows. Then perhaps in my next life I will be able to obtain You."

After reading Rukmiṇī's letter to Lord Kṛṣṇa, the brāhmaṇa took his leave so he might carry out his daily religious duties.

TEXT 1

श्रीशुक उवाच
इत्थं सोऽनग्रहीतोऽन्ग
कृष्णेनेक्ष्वाकु नन्दनः
तं परिक्रम्य सन्नम्य निश्चक्राम गुहामुखात्

śrī-śuka uvāca
ittham so 'nagrahīto 'nga kṛṣṇenekṣvāku nandanah taṁ parikramya sannamya niścakrāma guhā-mukhāt

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; ittham—in this manner; saḥ—he; anugrahītaḥ—shown mercy; aṅga—my dear (Parīkṣit Mahārāja); kṛṣṇena—by Lord Kṛṣṇa; ikṣvāku-nandanah—Mucukunda, the beloved descendant of Ikṣvāku; taṁ—Him; parikramya—circumambulating; sannamya—bowing down; niścakrāma—he went out; guhā—of the cave; mukhāt—from the mouth.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: My dear King, thus graced by Lord Kṛṣṇa, Mucukunda circumambulated Him and bowed down to Him. Then Mucukunda, the beloved descendant of Ikṣvāku, exited through the mouth of the cave.

TEXT 2

संवीक्ष्य क्षुल्लकान्मर्त्यान्
पशून् वीरुद्वनस्पतीन्
मत्वा कलियुगं प्राप्तं जगाम दिशमुत्तराम्

*saṁvikṣya kṣullakān martyān paśūn vīrud-vanaspatīn matvā kali-yugam prāptam
jagāma diśam uttarām*

SYNONYMS

saṁvikṣya—noticing; kṣullakān—tiny; martyān—the human beings; paśūn—animals; vīrut—plants; vanaspatīn—and trees; matvā—considering; kali-yugam—the age of Kali; prāptam—having arrived; jagāma—he went; diśam—to the direction; uttarām—northern.

TRANSLATION

Seeing that the size of all the human beings, animals, trees and plants was severely reduced, and thus realizing that the age of Kali was at hand, Mucukunda left for the north.

PURPORT

There are several significant words in this verse. A standard Sanskrit dictionary gives the following English meanings for the word kṣullaka: "little, small, low, vile, poor, indigent, wicked, malicious, abandoned, hard, pained, distressed." These are the symptoms of the age of Kali, and all these qualities are said here to apply to men, animals, plants and trees in this age. We who are enamored of ourselves and our environment can perhaps imagine the superior beauty and living conditions available to people in former ages.

The last line of this text, jagāma diśam uttarām—"He went toward the north"—can be understood as follows. By traveling north in India, one comes to the world's highest mountains, the Himalayan range. There one can still find many beautiful peaks and valleys, where there are quiet hermitages suitable for austerity and meditation. Thus in Vedic culture "going to the north" indicates renouncing the comforts of ordinary society and going to the Himālayan Mountains to practice serious austerities for spiritual advancement.

TEXT 3

तपःश्रद्धायुतो धीरो
निःसङ्गो मुक्तसंशयः
समाधाय मनः कृष्णे प्राविशद्गन्धमादनम्

*tapah-śraddhā-yuto dhīro niḥsaṅgo mukta-saṁśayaḥ samādhāya manaḥ kṛṣṇe
prāviśad gandhamādanam*

SYNONYMS

tapah—in austerities; śraddhā—faith; yutaḥ—having; dhīraḥ—serious; niḥsaṅgaḥ—detached from material association; mukta—freed; saṁśayaḥ—of doubts; samādhāya—fixing in trance; manaḥ—his mind; kṛṣṇe—upon Lord Kṛṣṇa; prāviśat—he entered upon; gandhamādanam—the mountain known as Gandhamādana.

TRANSLATION

The sober King, beyond material association and free of doubt, was convinced of the value of austerity. Absorbing his mind in Lord Kṛṣṇa, he came to Gandhamādana Mountain.

PURPORT

The name Gandhamādana indicates a place of delightful fragrances. Undoubtedly Gandhamādana was filled with the aroma of wild flowers and forest honey, and with other natural scents.

TEXT 4

बदर्याश्रममासाद्य
नरनारायणालयम्
सर्वद्वन्द्वसहः शान्तस् तपसाराधयद्धरिम्

*badary-āśramam āsādya nara-nārāyaṇālayam
sarva-dvandva-sahaḥ śāntas tapasārādhayad dharim*

SYNONYMS

badarī-āśramam—the hermitage Badarikāśrama; āsādya—reaching;
nara-nārāyaṇa—of the Supreme Lord's dual incarnation as Nara and Nārāyaṇa; ālayam—the residence; sarva—all; dvandva—dualities;

sahaḥ—tolerating; śāntaḥ—peaceful; tapasā—with severe austerities; ārādhayat—he worshiped; harim—Lord Kṛṣṇa.

TRANSLATION

There he arrived at Badarikāśrama, the abode of Lord Nara-Nārāyaṇa, where, remaining tolerant of all dualities, he peacefully worshiped the Supreme Lord Hari by performing severe austerities.

TEXT 5

भगवान् पुनराव्रज्य
पुरीं यवनवेष्टिताम्
हत्वा म्लेच्छबलं निन्ये तदीयं द्वारकां धनम्

bhagavān punar āvrajya
purīm yavana-veṣṭitām hatvā mleccha-balaṁ ninye tadīyaṁ dvārakāṁ dhanam

SYNONYMS

bhagavān—the Lord; punaḥ—once again; āvrajya—returning; purīm—to His city; yavana—by the Yavanas; veṣṭitām—surrounded; hatvā—killing; mleccha—of barbarians; balam—the army; ninye—He brought; tadīyam—their; dvārakām—to Dvārakā; dhanam—wealth.

TRANSLATION

The Lord returned to Mathurā, which was still surrounded by Yavanas. Then He destroyed the army of barbarians and began taking their valuables to Dvārakā.

PURPORT

It is clear from this verse that Kālayavana alone pursued Lord Kṛṣṇa into the mountain cave. When Kṛṣṇa returned to the besieged city of Mathurā, He eliminated the vast barbarian army.

TEXT 6

नीयमाने धने गोभिर
नृभिश्चाच्युतचोदितैः
आजगाम जरासन्धस् त्रयोविंशत्यनीकपः

*nīyamāne dhane gobhir nṛbhiś cācyuta-coditaiḥ ājagāma jarāsandhas
trayo-vimśaty-anīka-paḥ*

SYNONYMS

nīyamāne—as it was being taken; dhane—the wealth; gobhiḥ—by oxen; nṛbhiḥ—by men; ca—and; acyuta—by Lord Kṛṣṇa; coditaiḥ—engaged; ājagāma—came there; jarāsandhaḥ—Jarāsandha; trayaḥ—three; vimśati—plus twenty; anīka—of armies; paḥ—the leader.

TRANSLATION

As the wealth was being carried by oxen and men under Lord Kṛṣṇa's direction, Jarāsandha appeared at the head of twenty-three armies.

TEXT 7

विलोक्य वेगरभसं
रिपुसैन्यस्य माधवौ
मनुष्यचेष्टामापन्नौ
राजन्दुद्रुवतुर्द्रुतम्

*vilokya vega-rabhasam riṣu-sainyasya mādhavau manuṣya-ceṣṭām āpannau
rājan dudruvatur drutam*

SYNONYMS

vilokya—seeing; vega—of the waves; rabhasam—the fierceness; riṣu—enemy; sainyasya—of the armies; mādhavau—the two Mādhavas (Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma); manuṣya—humanlike; ceṣṭām—behavior; āpannau—assuming; rājan—O King (Parīkṣit); dudruvatuḥ—ran away; drutam—quickly.

TRANSLATION

O King, seeing the fierce waves of the enemy's army, the two Mādhavas, imitating human behavior, ran swiftly away.

TEXT 8

विहाय वित्तं प्रचुरम्

अभीतौ भीरुभीतवत्
पद्भ्यां पलाशाभ्यां चेलतुर्बहुयोजनम्

*vihāya vittam pracuram
abhītau bhīru-bhīta-vat padbhyām palāśābhyām
celatur bahu-yojanam*

SYNONYMS

vihāya—abandoning; vittam—the riches; pracuram—abundant;
abhītau—actually unafraid; bhīru—like cowards; bhīta-vat—as if frightened;
padbhyām—with Their feet; padma—of lotuses; palāśābhyām—like petals; celatur—They went; bahu-yojanam—for many yojanas (one yojana is slightly more than eight miles).

TRANSLATION

Abandoning the abundant riches, fearless but feigning fear, They went many yojanas on Their lotuslike feet.

TEXT 9

पलायमानौ तौ दृष्ट्वा
मागधः प्रहसन् बली
अन्वधावद्रथानीकैर् ईशयोरप्रमाणवित्

*palāyamānau tau dṛṣṭvā māgadhaḥ prahasan balī anvadhāvat rathānikair
īśayor apramāṇa-vit*

SYNONYMS

palāyamānau—who were fleeing; tau—Those two; dṛṣṭvā—seeing; māgadhaḥ—Jarāsandha; prahasan—laughing loudly; balī—powerful; anvadhāvat—he ran after; ratha—with charioteers; anīkaiḥ—and soldiers; īśayoḥ—of the Lords; apramāṇa-vit—unaware of the scope.

TRANSLATION

When he saw Them fleeing, powerful Jarāsandha laughed loudly and then pursued Them with charioteers and foot soldiers. He could not understand the exalted position of the two Lords.

TEXT 10

प्रद्रुत्य दूरं संश्रान्तौ
तुङ्गमारुहतां गिरिम्
प्रवर्षणाख्यं भगवान्
नित्यदा यत्र वर्षति

pradrutya dūraṁ saṁśrāntau tuṅgam āruhatāṁ girim pravarṣaṇākhyam bhagavān nityadā yatra varṣati

SYNONYMS

pradrutya—having run with full speed; dūram—a long distance; saṁśrāntau—exhausted; tuṅgam—very high; āruhatām—They climbed; girim—the mountain; pravarṣaṇa-ākhyam—known as Pravarṣaṇa; bhagavān—Lord Indra; nityadā—always; yatra—where; varṣati—he rains.

TRANSLATION

Apparently exhausted after fleeing a long distance, the two Lords climbed a high mountain named Pravarṣaṇa, upon which Lord Indra showers incessant rain.

TEXT 11

गिरौ निलीनावाज्ञाय
नाधिगम्य पदं नृप
ददाह गिरिमेधोभिः समन्तादग्निमुत्सृजन्

girau nilīnāv ājñāya nādhigamya padam nṛpa dadāha girim edhobhiḥ
samantād agnim utsṛjan

SYNONYMS

girau—on the mountain; nilīnau—hiding; ājñāya—being aware; na adhigamya—not finding; padam—Their location; nṛpa—O King (Parīkṣit); dadāha—he set ablaze; girim—the mountain; edhobhiḥ—with firewood;

samantāt—on all sides; agnim—fire; utsrjan—generating.

TRANSLATION

Although he knew They were hiding on the mountain, Jarāsandha could find no trace of Them. Therefore, O King, he placed firewood on all sides and set the mountain ablaze.

PURPORT

Clearly we are observing one of the Supreme Lord's transcendental pastimes. Although the Bhāgavatam states that the two Lords, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, were "exhausted," even in Their so-called exhausted state They were able to quickly climb a high mountain and shortly thereafter jump off it to the ground. It would be unwise and illogical to ignore the whole picture the sages are giving us here and instead try to pick apart isolated descriptions. Clearly we are watching the Supreme Personality of Godhead in the midst of His spiritual pastimes; we are not observing an ordinary human being. Lord Kṛṣṇa and Lord Balarāma were still quite young men when this pastime took place, and one can easily see in these descriptions how They must have been enjoying Themselves, eagerly fleeing from the somewhat ridiculous King Jarāsandha, racing up a mountain, jumping off and totally befuddling the constantly failing demon, who somehow or other never lost confidence in himself. Seen without envy or quarrelsomeness, the Lord's pastimes are immensely entertaining.

TEXT 12

तत उत्पत्य तरसा
दह्यमानतटादुभौ
दशैकयोजनात्तुङ्गान्

निपेततुरधो भुवि

tata utpatya tarasā dahyamāna-taṭād ubhau daśaika-yojanāt tuṅgān nipetatur adho bhuvi

SYNONYMS

tataḥ—from it (the mountain); utpatya—jumping; tarasā—with haste; dahyamāna—which were burning; taṭāt—whose sides; ubhau—the two of Them; daśa-eka—eleven; yojanāt—yojanas; tuṅgāt—high; nipetatuḥ—They fell; adhaḥ—down; bhuvi—to the ground.

TRANSLATION

The two of Them then suddenly jumped from the burning mountain, which was eleven yojanas high, and fell to the ground.

PURPORT

Eleven yojanas is approximately ninety miles.

TEXT 13

अलक्ष्यमाणौ रिपुणा
सानुगेन यदूत्तमौ
स्वपुरं पुनरायातौ समुद्रपरिखां नृप

*alakṣyamāṇau ripuṇā sānugena yadūttamau
sva-puraṁ punar āyātau
samudra-parikhāṁ nṛpa*

SYNONYMS

alakṣyamāṇau—not being seen; ripuṇā—by Their enemy; sa—together; anugena—with his followers; yadu—of the Yadus; uttamau—the two most excellent; sva-puraṁ—to Their own city (Dvārakā); punaḥ—again; āyātau—They went; samudra—the ocean; parikhāṁ—having as its protective moat; nṛpa—O King.

TRANSLATION

Unseen by Their opponent or his followers, O King, those two most exalted Yadus returned to Their city of Dvārakā, which had the ocean as a protective moat.

TEXT 14

सोऽपि दग्धाविति मृषा
मन्वानो बलकेशवौ
बलमाकृष्य सुमहन् मगधान्मागधो ययौ

*so 'pi dagdhāv iti mṛṣā manvāno bala-keśavau balam ākṛṣya su-mahan
magadhān māgadho yayau*

SYNONYMS

saḥ—he; api—further; dagdhau—both burned in the fire; iti—thus; mṛṣā—falsely; manvānaḥ—thinking; bala-keśavau—Balarāma and Kṛṣṇa; balam—his force; ākṛṣya—pulling back; su-mahat—huge; magadhān—to the kingdom of the Magadhas; māgadhaḥ—the King of the Magadhas; yayau—went.

TRANSLATION

Jarāsandha, moreover, mistakenly thought that Balarāma and Keśava had burned to death in the fire. Thus he withdrew his vast military force and returned to the Magadha kingdom.

TEXT 15

आनर्ताधिपतिः श्रीमान्
रैवतो रैवतीं सुताम्
ब्रह्मणा चोदितः प्रादाद् बलायेति पुरोदितम्

ānartādhipatiḥ śrīmān
raivato raivatīm sutām brahmaṇā coditaḥ prādād balāyeti puroditam

SYNONYMS

ānarta—of the Ānarta province; adhipatiḥ—the overlord; śrīmān—opulent; raivataḥ—Raivata; raivatīm—named Raivatī; sutām—his daughter;

brahmaṇā—by Lord Brahmā; coditaḥ—ordered; prādāt—gave; balāya—to Balarāma; iti—thus; purā—previously; uditam—mentioned.

TRANSLATION

As ordered by Lord Brahmā, Raivata, the opulent ruler of Ānarta, gave Lord Balarāma his daughter Raivatī in marriage. This has already been discussed.

PURPORT

The topic of Lord Kṛṣṇa's marriage to Rukmiṇī will now be discussed. By way of introduction, a brief mention is made of His brother Baladeva's marriage. This marriage was alluded to in the Ninth Canto of the Bhāgavatam, Third Chapter, texts 33-36.

TEXTS 16-17

भगवानपि गोविन्द
उपयेमे कुरुद्वह
वैदर्भी भीष्मकसुतां
श्रियो मात्रां स्वयंवरे
प्रमथ्य तरसा राज्ञः
शाल्वादींश्चैद्यपक्षगान्
पश्यतां सर्वलोकानां
ताक्ष्यपुत्रः सुधामिव

bhagavān api govinda
upayeme kurūdvaha
vaidarbhīm bhīṣmaka-sutām

śriyo mātrām svayam-vare

pramathya tarasā rājñah śālvādīnś caidya-pakṣa-gān paśyatām sarva-lokānām tārṣya-putraḥ sudhām iva

SYNONYMS

bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; api—indeed; govindah—Kṛṣṇa; upayame—married; kuru-udvaha—O hero among the Kurus (Parīkṣit); vaidarbhīm—Rukmiṇī; bhīṣmaka-sutām—the daughter of King Bhīṣmaka; śriyah—of the goddess of fortune; mātrām—the plenary portion; svayam-vare—by her own choice; pramathya—subduing; tarasā—by force; rājñah—kings; śālva-ādīn—Śālva and others; caidya—of Śiśupāla; pakṣa-gān—the supporters; paśyatām—as they looked on; sarva—all; lokānām—the people; tārṣya-putraḥ—the son of Tārṣya (Garuḍa); sudhām—the nectar of heaven; iva—as.

TRANSLATION

O hero among the Kurus, the Supreme Lord Himself, Govinda, married Bhīṣmaka's daughter, Vaidarbhī, who was a direct expansion of the goddess of fortune. The Lord did this by her desire, and in the process He beat down Śālva and other kings who took Śiśupāla's side. Indeed, as everyone watched, Śrī Kṛṣṇa took Rukmiṇī just as Garuḍa boldly stole nectar from the demigods.

PURPORT

Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī gives the following profound comments on these two verses: The words śriyo mātrām indicate that beautiful Rukmiṇī is a direct expansion of the eternal goddess of fortune. Therefore she is worthy to be the bride of the Personality of Godhead. As stated in the Brahma-saṁhitā (5.56), śriyaḥ kāntā kāntaḥ parama-puruṣaḥ: "In the spiritual world, all the female lovers are goddesses of fortune and the male lover is the Supreme Personality." Thus, Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī explains, Śrīmatī Rukmiṇī-devī is a plenary portion of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. The Kārttika-māhātmya section of the Padma Purāṇa states, kaiṣore gopa-kanyās tā yauvane rāja-kanyakāḥ: "In childhood, Śrī Kṛṣṇa enjoyed with the daughters of cowherd men, and in His adolescence He enjoyed with the daughters of kings." Similarly, in the Skanda Purāṇa we find this statement: rukmiṇī dvāravatyām tu rādhā vṛndāvane vane. "Rukmiṇī is in Dvārakā what Rādhā is in the forest of Vṛndāvana."

The term svayaṁ-vare here means "by one's own choice." Although the word often refers to a formal Vedic ceremony in which an aristocratic girl may select her own husband, here it indicates the informal and indeed unprecedented events surrounding Kṛṣṇa's marriage to Rukmiṇī. In fact, Śrī Kṛṣṇa and Śrīmatī Rukmiṇī chose each other because of their eternal, transcendental love.

TEXT 18

श्रीराजोवाच
भगवान् भीष्मकसुतां
रुक्मिणीं रुचिराननाम्
राक्षसेन विधानेन
उपयेम इति श्रुतम्

śrī-rājovāca
bhagavān bhīṣmaka-sutām
rukmiṇīm rucirānanām rākṣasena vidhānena
upayema iti śrutam

SYNONYMS

śrī-rājā uvāca—the King (Parīkṣit Mahārāja) said; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; bhīṣmaka-sutām—the daughter of Bhīṣmaka; rukmiṇīm—Śrīmatī Rukmiṇī-devī; rucira—charming; ānanām—whose face; rākṣasena—called Rākṣasa; vidhānena—by the method (namely, by kidnapping); upayame—He married; iti—thus; śrutam—heard.

TRANSLATION

King Parīkṣit said: The Supreme Lord married Rukmiṇī, the beautiful-faced daughter of Bhīṣmaka, in the Rākṣasa style—or so I have heard.

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī quotes the following smṛti statement: rākṣaso yuddha-haraṇāt. "A Rākṣasa marriage takes place when the bride is stolen from one's rival suitors by force." Similarly, Śukadeva Gosvāmī himself has already said, rājñah pramathya: Kṛṣṇa had to beat down opposing kings to take Rukmiṇī.

TEXT 19

भगवन् श्रोतुमिच्छामि
कृष्णस्यामिततेजसः
यथा मागधशाल्वादीन्
जित्वा कन्यामुपाहरत्

bhagavan śrotum icchāmi kṛṣṇasyāmita-tejasah

*yathā māgadha-śālvādīn
jītvā kanyām upāharat*

SYNONYMS

bhagavan—O lord (Śukadeva Gosvāmī); śrotum—to hear; icchāmi—I wish; kṛṣṇasya—about Kṛṣṇa; amita—immeasurable; tejasaḥ—whose potency; yathā—how; māgadha-śālva-ādīn—such kings as Jarāsandha and Śālva; jītvā—defeating; kanyām—the bride; upāharat—He took away.

TRANSLATION

My lord, I wish to hear how the immeasurably powerful Lord Kṛṣṇa took away His bride while defeating such kings as Māgadha and Śālva.

PURPORT

We should not think that Śrī Kṛṣṇa was actually afraid of Jarāsandha. In the very next chapter we will find that Śrī Kṛṣṇa easily defeats Jarāsandha and his soldiers. Thus we should never doubt the supreme prowess of Lord Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 20

ब्रह्मन् कृष्णकथाः पुण्या
माध्वीर्लोकमलापहाः
को नु तृप्येत शृण्वानः
श्रुतज्ञो नित्यनूतनाः

*brahman kṛṣṇa-kathāḥ puṇyā mādhvīr loka-malāpahāḥ
ko nu tṛpyeta śṛṇvānaḥ*

śruta-jñō nitya-nūtanāḥ

SYNONYMS

brahman—O brāhmaṇa; kṛṣṇa-kathāḥ—topics of Kṛṣṇa; punṇyāḥ—pious; mādhvīḥ—sweet; loka—of the world; mala—the contamination; apahāḥ—which remove; kaḥ—who; nu—at all; tṛpyeta—would become satiated; śṛṇvānaḥ—hearing; śruta—what is heard; jñāḥ—who can understand; nitya—always; nūtanāḥ—novel.

TRANSLATION

What experienced listener, O brāhmaëa, could ever grow satiated while listening to the pious, charming and ever-fresh topics of Lord Kṛṣṇa, which cleanse away the world's contamination?

TEXT 21

श्रीबादरायणिरुवाच
राजासीद्भीष्मको नाम
विदर्भाधिपतिर्महान्
तस्य पन्चाभवन् पुत्राः कन्यैका च वरानना

śrī-bādarāyaṇir uvāca
rājāsīd bhīṣmako nāma vidarbhādhīpatir mahān tasya pañcābhavan putrāḥ
kanyaikā ca varānanā

SYNONYMS

śrī-bādarāyaṇiḥ—Śrī Bādarāyaṇi (Śukadeva, the son of Badarāyaṇa Veda-vyāsa); uvāca—said; rājā—a king; āsīt—there was; bhīṣmakaḥ nāma—named Bhīṣmaka; vidarbha-adhipatiḥ—ruler of the kingdom Vidarbha; mahān—great; tasya—his; pañca—five; abhavan—there were; putrāḥ—sons; kanyā—daughter; ekā—one; ca—and; vara—exceptionally beautiful; ānanā—whose face.

TRANSLATION

Śrī Bādarāyaṇi said: There was a king named Bhīṣmaka, the powerful ruler of Vidarbha. He had five sons and one daughter of lovely countenance.

TEXT 22

रुक्म्यग्रजो रुक्मरथो
रुक्मबाहुरनन्तरः
रुक्मकेशो रुक्ममाली रुक्मिण्येषा स्वसा सती

rukmy agrajo rukmaratho rukmaabāhur anantaraḥ rukmakeśo rukmamālī
rukmiṇy eṣā svasā satī

SYNONYMS

rukmi—Rukmī; agra-jah—the first-born; rukma-rathaḥ
rukmaabāhuḥ—Rukmaratha and Rukmaabāhu; anantaraḥ—following him;

rukma-keśaḥ rukma-mālī—Rukmakeśa and Rukmamālī; rukmiṇī—Rukmiṇī; eṣā—she; svasā—sister; satī—of saintly character.

TRANSLATION

Rukmī was the first-born son, followed by Rukmaratha, Rukmabāhu, Rukmakeśa and Rukmamālī. Their sister was the exalted Rukmiṇī.

TEXT 23

सोपश्रुत्य मुकुन्दस्य
रूपवीर्यगुणश्रियः
गृहागतैर्गीयमानासु तं मेने सदृशं पतिम्

sopaśrutya mukundasya
rūpa-vīrya-guṇa-śriyaḥ grhāgatair gīyamānāśu
taṁ mene sadṛśaṁ patim

SYNONYMS

sā—she; upaśrutya—hearing; mukundasya—Kṛṣṇa's; rūpa—about the beauty; vīrya—prowess; guṇa—character; śriyaḥ—and opulences; grha—to her family's residence; āgataiḥ—by those who came; gīyamānāḥ—being sung; taṁ—Him; mene—she thought; sadṛśam—suitable; patim—husband.

TRANSLATION

Hearing of the beauty, prowess, transcendental character and opulence of Mukunda from visitors to the palace who sang His praises, Rukmiṇī decided that He would be the perfect husband for her.

PURPORT

The word sadṛśam indicates that Rukmiṇī and Śrī Kṛṣṇa had similar qualities and thus were naturally attracted to each other. King Bhīṣmaka was a pious man, and therefore many spiritually advanced persons must have visited his palace. These saintly persons undoubtedly preached openly about the glories of Śrī Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 24

तां बुद्धिलक्षणौदार्य-रूपशीलगुणाश्रयाम्
कृष्णश्च सदृशीं भार्या समुद्वोढुं मनो दधे

tām buddhi-lakṣaṇaudārya-rūpa-śīla-guṇāśrayām kṛṣṇaś ca sadṛśīm bhāryām samudvodhum mano dadhe

SYNONYMS

tām—her; buddhi—of intelligence; lakṣaṇa—auspicious bodily markings; audārya—magnanimity; rūpa—beauty; śīla—proper behavior; guṇa—and other personal qualities; āśrayām—repository; kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; ca—and; sadṛśīm—suitable; bhāryām—wife; samudvodhum—to marry; manaḥ—His mind; dadhe—made up.

TRANSLATION

Lord Kṛṣṇa knew that Rukmiṇī possessed intelligence, auspicious bodily markings, beauty, proper behavior and all other good qualities. Concluding that she would be an ideal wife for Him, He made up His mind to marry her.

PURPORT

Just as Lord Kṛṣṇa was described as sadṛśam patim, an ideal husband for Rukmiṇī, being just like her, Rukmiṇī is described as sadṛśīm bhāryām, an ideal wife for Śrī Kṛṣṇa, being just like Him. That is natural, since Śrīmatī Rukmiṇī is Lord Kṛṣṇa's internal potency.

TEXT 25

बन्धूनामिच्छतां दातुं कृष्णाय भगिनीं नृप
ततो निवार्य कृष्णद्विड् रुक्मी चैद्यममन्यत

bandhūnām icchatām dātum
kṛṣṇāya bhaginīm nṛpa tato nivārya kṛṣṇa-dviḍ
rukmi caidyam amanyata

SYNONYMS

bandhūnām—her family members; icchatām—even as they were desiring; dātum—to give; kṛṣṇāya—to Kṛṣṇa; bhaginīm—their sister; nṛpa—O King; tataḥ—from this; nivārya—preventing them; kṛṣṇa-dviḍ—hateful of Kṛṣṇa;

rukṁī—Rukṁī; caidyam—Caidya (Śiśupāla); amanyata—considered.

TRANSLATION

Because Rukṁī envied the Lord, O King, he forbade his family members to give his sister to Kṛṣṇa, although they wanted to. Instead, Rukṁī decided to give Rukmiṇī to Śiśupāla.

PURPORT

Rukṁī abused his position as elder brother and acted with impure motives. He would only suffer for his decision.

TEXT 26

तदवेत्यासितापाङ्गी
वैदर्भी दुर्मना भृशम्
विचिन्त्याप्तं द्विजं कञ्चित् कृष्णाय प्राहिणोद् द्रुतम्

tad avetyāsitāpāṅgī
vaidarbhī durmanā bhṛśam vicintyāptaṁ dvijaṁ kañcit kṛṣṇāya prāhiṇod drutam

SYNONYMS

tat—that; avetya—knowing; asita—dark; apāṅgī—the corners of whose eyes; vaidarbhī—the princess of Vidarbha; durmanā—unhappy; bhṛśam—very much; vicintya—thinking; āpta—reliable; dvijam—brāhmaṇa; kañcit—a certain; kṛṣṇāya—to Kṛṣṇa; prāhiṇot—sent; drutam—with haste.

TRANSLATION

Dark-eyed Vaidarbhī was aware of this plan, and it deeply upset her. Analyzing the situation, she quickly sent a trustworthy brāhmaëa to Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 27

द्वारकां स समभ्येत्य
प्रतीहारैः प्रवेशितः
अपश्यदाद्यं पुरुषम् आसीनं काञ्चनासने

*dvārakām sa samabhyetya pratīhāraiḥ praveśitaḥ apaśyad ādyam puruṣam
āsīnam kāñcanāsane*

SYNONYMS

dvārakām—at Dvārakā; saḥ—he (the brāhmaṇa); samabhyetya—arriving; pratīhāraiḥ—by the gatekeepers; praveśitaḥ—brought inside; apaśyat—he saw; ādyam—the original; puruṣam—Supreme Person; āsīnam—seated; kāñcana—golden; āsane—on a throne.

TRANSLATION

Upon reaching Dvārakā, the brāhmaëa was brought inside by the gatekeepers and saw the primeval Personality of Godhead sitting on a golden throne.

TEXT 28

दृष्ट्वा ब्रह्मण्यदेवस्तम्
अवरुह्य निजासनात्
उपवेश्यार्हयां चक्रे यथात्मानं दिवौकसः

dr̥ṣṭvā brahmaṇya-devas tam avaruhya nijāsanāt upaveśyārhayāṁ cakre yathātmānaṁ divaukaśaḥ

SYNONYMS

dr̥ṣṭvā—seeing; brahmaṇya—who is considerate to the brāhmaṇas; devaḥ—the Lord; tam—him; avaruhya—getting down; nija—His own; āsanāt—from the throne; upaveśya—seating him; arhayām cakre—He performed worship; yathā—as; ātmānam—to Himself; diva-okasaḥ—the residents of heaven.

TRANSLATION

Seeing the brāhmaëa, Śrī Kṛṣṇa, Lord of the brāhmaëas, came down from His throne and seated him. Then the Lord worshiped him just as He Himself is worshiped by the demigods.

TEXT 29

तं भुक्तवन्तं विश्रान्तम्

उपगम्य सतां गतिः
पाणिनाभिमृशन् पादाव् अव्यग्रस्तमपृच्छत

*tam bhuktavantam viśrāntam upagamya satām gatiḥ pāṇinābhimṛśan pādāv
avyagras tam apr̥cchata*

SYNONYMS

tam—him; bhuktavantam—having eaten; viśrāntam—rested;
upagamya—approaching; satām—of saintly devotees; gatiḥ—the goal;
pāṇinā—with His hands; abhimṛśan—massaging; pādau—his feet;
avyagraḥ—without agitation; tam—of him; apr̥cchata—He inquired.

TRANSLATION

After the brāhmaëa had eaten and rested, Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the goal of saintly devotees, came forward, and while massaging the brāhmaëa's feet with His own hands, He patiently questioned him as follows.

TEXT 30

कच्चिद् द्विजवरश्रेष्ठ
धर्मस्ते वृद्धसम्मतः
वर्तते नातिकृच्छ्रेण सन्तुष्टमनसः सदा

kaccid dvija-vara-śreṣṭha dharmas te vṛddha-sammataḥ vartate nāti-kṛcchreṇa santuṣṭa-manasaḥ sadā

SYNONYMS

kaccit—whether; dvija—of the brāhmaṇas; vara—first-class; śreṣṭha—O best; dharmaḥ—religious principles; te—your; vṛddha—by senior authorities; sammataḥ—sanctioned; vartate—are proceeding; na—not; ati—too much; kṛcchreṇa—with difficulty; santuṣṭa—fully satisfied; manasaḥ—whose mind; sadā—always.

TRANSLATION

[The Supreme Lord said:] O best of exalted brāhmaṇas, are your religious practices, sanctioned by senior authorities, proceeding without great difficulty? Is your mind always fully satisfied?

PURPORT

Here we have translated the word dharma as "religious practice," although this does not fully convey the Sanskrit sense of the word. Kṛṣṇa did not appear within a secular society. The people in Vedic times could hardly imagine a society that did not understand the need to obey God's law. Thus to them the word dharma conveyed a sense of duty in general, higher principles, prescribed duty and so on. It was automatically understood that such duties were within a religious context. But religion in those days was not a specific aspect or department of life, but rather a guiding light for all activities. Irreligious life was considered demoniac, and God's hand was seen in everything.

TEXT 31

सन्तुष्टो यर्हि वर्तेत
ब्राह्मणो येन केनचित्
अहीयमानः स्वधर्मात् स ह्यस्याखिलकामधुक्

santuṣṭo yarhi varteta
brāhmaṇo yena kenacit ahīyamānaḥ svad dharmāt
sa hy asyākhila-kāma-dhuk

SYNONYMS

santuṣṭaḥ—satisfied; yarhi—when; varteta—carries on; brāhmaṇaḥ—a brāhmaṇa; yena kenacit—with whatever; ahīyamānaḥ—not falling short; svāt—of his own; dharmāt—religious duty; saḥ—those religious principles; hi—indeed; asya—for him; akhila—of everything; kāma-dhuk—the mystic cow, milked for fulfillment of any desire.

TRANSLATION

When a brāhmaëa is satisfied with whatever comes his way and does not fall away from his religious duties, those very religious principles become his desire cow, fulfilling all his wishes.

TEXT 32

असन्तुष्टोऽसकृल्लोकान्
आप्नोत्यपि सुरेश्वरः
अकिञ्चनोऽपि सन्तुष्टः

शेते सर्वाङ्गविज्वरः

*asantuṣṭo 'sakṛl lokān āpnoty api sureśvaraḥ akiñcano 'pi santuṣṭaḥ
śete sarvāṅga-vijvaraḥ*

SYNONYMS

asantuṣṭaḥ—dissatisfied; asakṛt—repeatedly; lokān—various planets; āpnoti—he attains; api—even though; sura—of the demigods; īśvaraḥ—the master; akiñcanaḥ—possessing nothing; api—even; santuṣṭaḥ—satisfied; śete—he rests; sarva—all; aṅga—his limbs; vijvaraḥ—free of distress.

TRANSLATION

An unsatisfied brāhmaëa wanders restlessly from one planet to another, even if he becomes King of heaven. But a satisfied brāhmaëa, though he may possess nothing, rests peacefully, all his limbs free of distress.

PURPORT

Those who are unsatisfied feel distress throughout their body, becoming subject to many diseases. A satisfied brāhmaṇa, however, though he may possess nothing, is peaceful and calm, and there is no distress within his body or mind.

TEXT 33

विप्रान् स्वलाभसन्तुष्टान्
साधून् भूतसुहृत्तमान्

निरहङ्कारिणः शान्तान् नमस्ये शिरसासकृत

*viṣṇūn sva-lābha-santuṣṭān sādhūn bhūta-suhṛttamān nirahaṅkāriṇaḥ śāntān
namasye śirasāsakṛt*

SYNONYMS

viṣṇūn—to the learned brāhmaṇas; sva—their own; lābha—by the gain; santuṣṭān—satisfied; sādhūn—saintly; bhūta—of all living beings; suhṛt-tamān—the best well-wishing friends; nirahaṅkāriṇaḥ—devoid of false ego; śāntān—peaceful; namasye—I bow down; śirasā—with My head; asakṛt—again and again.

TRANSLATION

I repeatedly bow My head in respect to those brāhmaëas who are satisfied with their lot. Saintly, prideless and peaceful, they are the best well-wishers of all living beings.

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī explains that sva-lābha also means "achieving one's self," or, in other words, self-realization. Thus an advanced brāhmaṇa is always satisfied with his spiritual understanding, never depending on material formalities or facilities.

TEXT 34

कच्चिद्वः कुशलं ब्रह्मन्
राजतो यस्य हि प्रजाः
सुखं वसन्ति विषये
पाल्यमानाः स मे प्रियः

*kaccid vaḥ kuśalam brahman rājato yasya hi prajāḥ sukham vasanti viṣaye
pālyamānāḥ sa me priyaḥ*

SYNONYMS

kaccit—whether; vaḥ—your; kuśalam—well-being; brahman—O brāhmaṇa;
rājataḥ—from the King; yasya—whose; hi—indeed; prajāḥ—subjects;
sukham—happily; vasanti—reside; viṣaye—in the state; pālyamānāḥ—being protected; saḥ—he; me—to Me; priyaḥ—dear.

TRANSLATION

O brāhmaëa, is your King attending to your welfare? Indeed, that king in whose country the citizens are happy and protected is very dear to Me.

TEXT 35

यतस्त्वमागतो दुर्गं
निस्तीर्येह यदिच्छया
सर्वं नो ब्रूह्यगुह्यं चेत किं कार्यं करवाम ते

yatas tvam āgato durgam nistīryeha yad-icchayā sarvam no brūhy aguhyam cet kim kāryam karavāma te

SYNONYMS

yataḥ—from which place; tvam—you; āgataḥ—have come; durgam—the impassable sea; nistīrya—crossing; iha—here; yat—with what; icchayā—desire; sarvam—everything; naḥ—to Us; brūhi—please tell; aguhyam—not secret; cet—if; kim—what; kāryam—work; karavāma—may We do; te—for you.

TRANSLATION

Whence have you come, crossing the impassable sea, and for what purpose?
Explain all this to Us if it is not a secret, and tell Us what We may do for you.

TEXT 36

एवं सम्पृष्टसम्प्रश्नो
ब्राह्मणः परमेष्ठिना
लीलागृहीतदेहेन
तस्मै सर्वमवर्णयत्

evam samprṣṭa-sampraśno
brāhmaṇaḥ parameṣṭhinā
līlā-grhīta-dehena
tasmai sarvam avarṇayat

SYNONYMS

evam—thus; sampr̥ṣṭa—asked; sampraśnaḥ—questions; brāhmaṇaḥ—the brāhmaṇa; parameṣṭhinā—by the Supreme Personality of Godhead; līla—as His pastime; gr̥hīta—who assumes; dehena—His bodies; tasmai—to Him; sarvam—everything; avarṇayat—he related.

TRANSLATION

Thus questioned by the Supreme Personality of Godhead, who incarnates to perform His pastimes, the brāhmaëa told Him everything.

PURPORT

The word gr̥hīta may be translated as "grasped or caught," and thus, exactly as in English, may also mean "to perceive or understand something." Therefore Lord Kṛṣṇa's transcendental body is perceived, understood, or in other words, grasped by the devotees when the Lord comes to exhibit His transcendental pastimes. These pastimes are not whimsical, but are a part of the complex program, structured and executed by the Lord Himself, for awakening the conditioned souls to their natural love and devotion for Him and bringing them back to Godhead.

TEXT 37

श्रीरुक्मिण्युवाच

श्रुत्वा गुणान् भुवनसुन्दर शृण्वतां ते
निर्विश्य कर्णविवरैर्हरतोऽङ्गतापम्
रूपं दृशां दृशिमतामखिलार्थलाभं त्वय्यच्युताविशति चित्तमपत्रपं मे

śrī-rukmiṇy uvāca

śrutvā guṇān bhuvana-sundara śṛṇvatām te nirviśya karṇa-vivarair harato 'ṅga-tāpam rūpam dṛśām dṛśimatām akhilārtha-lābham tvayy acyutāviśati cittam apatrapam me

SYNONYMS

śrī-rukmiṇī uvāca—Śrī Rukmiṇī said; śrutvā—hearing; guṇān—the qualities; bhuvana—of all the worlds; sundara—O beauty; śṛṇvatām—for those who hear; te—Your; nirviśya—having entered; karṇa—of the ears; vivaraiḥ—by the orifices; harataḥ—removing; aṅga—of their bodies; tāpam—the pain; rūpam—the beauty; dṛśām—of the sense of sight; dṛśi-matām—of those who have eyes; akhila—total; artha—of the fulfillment of desires; lābham—the obtaining; tvayi—in You; acyuta—O infallible Kṛṣṇa; āviśati—is entering; cittam—mind; apatrapam—shameless; me—my.

TRANSLATION

Śrī Rukmiṇī said [in her letter, as read by the brāhmaṇa]: O beauty of the worlds, having heard of Your qualities, which enter the ears of those who hear and remove their bodily distress, and having also heard of Your beauty, which fulfills all the visual desires of those who see, I have fixed my shameless mind upon You, O Kṛṣṇa.

PURPORT

Rukmiṇī was a king's daughter, courageous and bold, and furthermore she would rather die than lose Kṛṣṇa. Considering all this, she wrote a frank, explicit letter, begging Kṛṣṇa to come and take her away.

TEXT 38

का त्वा मुकुन्द महती कुलशीलरूप-विद्यावयोद्रविणधामभिरात्मतुल्यम्
धीरा पतिं कुलवती न वृणीत कन्या काले नृसिंह नरलोकमनोऽभिरामम्

kā tvā mukunda mahatī kula-śīla-rūpa-vidyā-vayo-draviṇa-dhāmabhir ātma-tulyam dhīrā patim kulavatī na vṛṇīta kanyā kāle nṛ-siṃha nara-loka-mano-'bhirāmam

SYNONYMS

kā—who; tvā—You; mukunda—O Kṛṣṇa; mahatī—aristocratic; kula—in terms of family background; śīla—character; rūpa—beauty; vidyā—knowledge; vayaḥ—youth; draviṇa—property; dhāmabhiḥ—and influence; ātma—to Yourself only; tulyam—equal; dhīrā—who is sober; patim—as her husband; kula-vatī—of a good family; na vṛṇīta—would not choose; kanyā—marriageable young lady; kāle—at such a time; nṛ—among men; siṃha—O lion; nara-loka—of human society; manaḥ—to the minds; abhirāmam—who give pleasure.

TRANSLATION

O Mukunda, You are equal only to Yourself in lineage, character, beauty, knowledge, youthfulness, wealth and influence. O lion among men, You delight the minds of all mankind. What aristocratic, sober-minded and marriageable girl of a good family would not choose You as her husband when the proper time has come?

TEXT 39

तन्मे भवान् खलु वृतः पतिरङ्ग जायाम्
आत्मार्पितश्च भवतोऽत्र विभो विधेहि
मा वीरभागमभिमर्शतु चैद्य आराद् गोमायुवन्मृगपतेर्बलिमम्बुजाक्ष tan me bhavān khalu vṛtaḥ patir aṅga jāyām ātmārpitaś ca bhavato 'tra vibho vidhehi mā vīra-bhāgam abhimarśatu caidya ārād gomāyu-van mṛga-pater balim ambujākṣa

SYNONYMS

tat—therefore; me—by me; bhavān—Your good self; khalu—indeed; vṛtaḥ—chosen; patiḥ—as husband; aṅga—dear Lord; jāyām—as wife; ātmā—myself; arpitaḥ—offered; ca—and; bhavataḥ—to You; atra—here; vibho—O omnipotent one; vidhehi—please accept; mā—never; vīra—of the hero; bhāgam—the portion; abhimarśatu—should touch; caidyaḥ—Śiśupāla, son of the King of Cedi; ārāt—swiftly; gomāyu-vat—like a jackal; mṛga-pateḥ—belonging to the king of animals, the lion; balim—the tribute; ambuja-akṣa—O lotus-eyed one.

TRANSLATION

Therefore, my dear Lord, I have chosen You as my husband, and I surrender myself to You. Please come swiftly, O almighty one, and make me Your wife. My dear lotus-eyed Lord, let Śiśupāla never touch the hero's portion like a jackal stealing the property of a lion.

TEXT 40

पूर्तेष्टदत्तनियमव्रतदेवविप्र
गुर्वर्चनादिभिरलं भगवान् परेशः
आराधितो यदि गदाग्रज एत्य पाणिं गृह्णातु मे न दमघोषसुतादयोऽन्ये pūrteṣṭa-datta-niyama-vrata-deva-vipra gurv-arcanādibhir alaṁ bhagavān pareśaḥ ārādhito yadi gadāgraja etya pāṇim gṛhṇātu me na damaghoṣa-sutādayo 'nye

SYNONYMS

pūrta—by pious works (such as feeding brāhmaṇas, digging wells, etc.); iṣṭa—sacrificial performances; datta—charity; niyama—ritual observances (such as visiting holy places); vrata—vows of penance; deva—of the demigods; vipra—brāhmaṇas; guru—and spiritual masters; arcana—by worship; ādibhiḥ—and by other activities; alam—sufficiently; bhagavān—the Personality of Godhead; para—supreme; īśaḥ—controller; ārādhitaḥ—rendered devotional service; yadi—if; gada-agrajaḥ—Kṛṣṇa, the elder brother of Gada; etya—coming here; pāṇim—the hand; gṛhṇātu—may please take; me—my; na—not; damaghoṣa-suta—Śiśupāla, the son of Damaghoṣa; ādayaḥ—and so on; anye—others.

TRANSLATION

If I have sufficiently worshiped the Supreme Personality of Godhead by pious works, sacrifices, charity, rituals and vows, and also by worshiping the demigods, brāhmaëas and gurus, then may Gadāgraja come and take my hand, and not Damaghoṣa's son or anyone else.

PURPORT

The ācāryas comment as follows on this verse: "Rukmiṇī felt that no one could obtain Lord Kṛṣṇa by the efforts of a single lifetime. Therefore she earnestly pointed out the pious activities she had performed in that life and previous lives, hoping to convince Śrī Kṛṣṇa to come."

TEXT 41

श्वो भाविनि त्वमजितोद्वहने विदर्भान्
गुप्तः समेत्य पृतनापतिभिः परीतः निर्मथ्य चैद्यमगधेन्द्रबलं प्रसह्य मां राक्षसेन विधिनोद्वह वीर्यशुल्काम्

śvo bhāvinī tvam ajitodvahane vidarbhān guptaḥ sametya pṛtanā-patibhiḥ parītaḥ nirmathya caidya-magadhendra-balaṁ prasahya mām rākṣasena vidhinodvaha vīrya-śulkām

SYNONYMS

śvaḥ bhāvinī—tomorrow; tvam—You; ajita—O unconquerable one; udvahane—at the time of the marriage ceremony; vidarbhān—to Vidarbha; guptaḥ—unseen; sametya—coming; pṛtanā—of Your army; patibhiḥ—by the leaders; parītaḥ—surrounded; nirmathya—crushing; caidya—of Caidya, Śiśupāla; magadha-indra—and the King of Magadha, Jarāsandha; balam—the military strength; prasahya—by force; mām—me; rākṣasena vidhinā—in the Rākṣasa style; udvaha—take in marriage; vīrya—Your prowess; śulkām—the payment for whom.

TRANSLATION

O unconquerable one, tomorrow when my marriage ceremony is about to begin, You should arrive unseen in Vidarbha and surround Yourself with the leaders of Your army. Then crush the forces of Caidya and Magadhendra and marry me in the Rākṣasa style, winning me with Your valor.

PURPORT

As Śrīla Prabhupāda points out in Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Rukmiṇī, being born of royal blood, certainly had a brilliant grasp of political affairs. She advised Śrī Kṛṣṇa to enter the city alone and unnoticed and then surround Himself with His military commanders so He could do what was needed. Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī compares the coming fight to the Lord's churning of the ocean to extract the goddess Lakṣmī. Gorgeous Rukmiṇī, the goddess of fortune, would be gained in the coming turbulence.

TEXT 42

अन्तःपुरान्तरचरीमनिहत्य बन्धून्
त्वामुद्वहे कथमिति प्रवदाम्युपायम्
पूर्वेद्युरस्ति महती कुलदेवयात्रा यस्यां बहिर्नववधूर्गिरिजामुपेयात्

antaḥ-purāntara-carīm anihatya bandhūn tvām udvahe katham iti pravadāmy upāyam pūrve-dyur asti mahatī kula-deva-yātrā yasyām bahir nava-vadhūr girijām upeyāt

SYNONYMS

antaḥ-pura—the women's quarters of the palace; antara—within; carīm—moving; anihatya—without killing; bandhūn—your relatives; tvām—you; udvahe—I shall carry away; katham—how; iti—saying such words; pravadāmi—I shall explain; upāyam—a means; pūrve-dyuh—on the day before; asti—there is; mahatī—large; kula—of the royal family; deva—for the presiding deity; yātrā—a ceremonial procession; yasyām—in which; bahiḥ—outside; nava—new; vadhūḥ—the bride; girijām—goddess Girijā (Ambikā); upeyāt—approaches.

TRANSLATION

Since I will be staying within the inner chambers of the palace, You may wonder, "How can I carry you away without killing some of your relatives?" But I shall tell You a way: On the day before the marriage there is a grand procession to honor the royal family's deity, and in this procession the new bride goes outside the city to visit Goddess Girijā.

PURPORT

Clever Rukmiṇī anticipated a possible objection on the part of Śrī Kṛṣṇa. He certainly would not object to subduing rascals like Śiśupāla and Jarāsandha, but He might be reluctant to injure or kill Rukmiṇī's relatives, some of whom might block His way to the palace's inner sanctum, where the women were protected. The procession to or from the temple of Girijā (Durgā) would provide the perfect opportunity for Kṛṣṇa to kidnap Rukmiṇī without harming her relatives.

TEXT 43

यस्याङ्घ्रिपङ्कजरजःस्नपनं महान्तो
वाञ्छन्त्युमापतिरिवात्मतमोऽपहत्यै यर्हम्बुजाक्ष न लभेय भवत्प्रसादं जह्यामसून् व्रतकृशान् शतजन्मभिः स्यात् yasyāṅghri-pañkaja-rajah-snapanam mahānto vāñchanty umā-patir ivātma-tamo-'pahatyai yarhy ambujākṣa na labheya bhavat-prasādam jahyām asūn vrata-kṛśān śata-janmabhiḥ syāt

SYNONYMS

yasya—whose; aṅghri—of the feet; pañkaja—lotus; rajah—with the dust; snapanam—bathing; mahāntaḥ—great souls; vāñchanti—hanker after; umā-patiḥ—Lord Śiva, husband of Goddess Umā; iva—just as; ātma—their own; tamaḥ—of the ignorance; apahatyai—to vanquish; yarhi—when; ambuja-akṣa—O lotus-eyed one; na labheya—I cannot obtain; bhavat—Your; prasādam—mercy; jahyām—I should give up; asūn—my life airs; vrata—by austere penances; kṛśān—weakened; śata—hundreds; janmabhiḥ—after lifetimes; syāt—it may be.

TRANSLATION

O lotus-eyed one, great souls like Lord Śiva hanker to bathe in the dust of Your lotus feet and thereby destroy their ignorance. If I cannot obtain Your mercy, I shall simply give up my vital force, which will have become weak from the severe penances I will perform. Then, after hundreds of lifetimes of endeavor, I may obtain Your mercy.

PURPORT

The divine Rukmiṇī's extraordinary dedication to Śrī Kṛṣṇa is possible only on the spiritual platform, not in the fragile world of mundane affection.

TEXT 44

ब्राह्मण उवाच
इत्येते गुह्यसन्देशा
यदुदेव मयाहताः
विमृश्य कर्तुं यच्चात्र क्रियतां तदनन्तरम्

brāhmaṇa uvāca
ity ete guhya-sandēśā
yadu-deva mayāhṛtāḥ vimṛśya kartum yac cātra kriyatām tad anantaram

SYNONYMS

brāhmaṇaḥ uvāca—the brāhmaṇa said; iti—thus; ete—these; guhya—confidential; sandēśāḥ—messages; yadu-deva—O Lord of the Yadus; mayā—by me; āhṛtāḥ—brought; vimṛśya—considering; kartum—to be done; yat—what; ca—and; atra—in this matter; kriyatām—please do; tat—that; anantaram—immediately following.

TRANSLATION

The brāhmaṇa said: This is the confidential message I have brought with me, O Lord of the Yadus. Please consider what must be done in these circumstances, and do it at once.

PURPORT

When the brāhmaṇa arrived, he broke the seal of a confidential letter written in the privacy of Rukmiṇī's quarters and meant only for Lord Kṛṣṇa. By using the term guhya-sandēśāḥ, the trustworthy brāhmaṇa, personally selected by Rukmiṇī, here affirms that he has not violated the confidentiality of this message. Only Lord Kṛṣṇa has heard it. Since the marriage of Rukmiṇī was fast approaching, Śrī Kṛṣṇa would have to act immediately. The term yadu-deva indicates that Lord Kṛṣṇa, as the Lord of the powerful Yadu dynasty, should make His decision and then mobilize His followers if necessary.

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Fifty-second Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled 'Rukmiṇī's Message to Lord Kṛṣṇa.'

53. Kṛṣṇa Kidnaps Rukmiṇī

This chapter describes how Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa arrived in Kuṇḍina, the capital of Vidarbha, and kidnapped Rukmiṇī in the presence of powerful enemies.

After Lord Kṛṣṇa had heard the brāhmaṇa messenger recite Rukmiṇī's letter, the Lord said to him, "I am indeed attracted to Rukmiṇī, and I know of her brother Rukmī's opposition to My marrying her. Therefore I must kidnap her after crushing all the low-class kings, just as one might generate fire from wood by friction." Since the solemnizing of vows between Rukmiṇī and Śiśupāla was scheduled to occur in only three days, Lord Kṛṣṇa had Dārūka ready His chariot at once. Then He immediately set out for Vidarbha, which He reached after one night's travel.

King Bhīṣmaka, trapped by his affection for his son Rukmī, was prepared to give his daughter to Śīsupāla. Bhīṣmaka saw to all the necessary preparations: he had the city decorated in various ways and had its main roads and intersections thoroughly cleansed. Damaghoṣa, the King of Cedi, having also done everything necessary to prepare for his son's marriage, arrived in Vidarbha. King Bhīṣmaka greeted him properly and gave him a place to stay. Many other kings, such as Jarāsandha, Śālva and Dantavakra, also came to witness the occasion. These enemies of Kṛṣṇa had conspired to kidnap the bride if Kṛṣṇa came. They planned to fight Him together and thus guarantee Śīsupāla his bride. Hearing of these plans, Lord Baladeva gathered His entire army and quickly went to Kuṇḍinapura.

On the night before the wedding, Rukmiṇī, about to retire, had still not seen either the brāhmaṇa or Kṛṣṇa arrive. In anxiety, she cursed her bad fortune. But just then she felt her left side twitch, a good omen. Indeed, the brāhmaṇa shortly appeared and related to her what Kṛṣṇa had said, including His firm promise to kidnap her.

When King Bhīṣmaka heard that Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma had arrived, he went out to greet Them to the accompaniment of triumphant music. He worshiped the Lords with various gifts and then designated residences for Them. Thus the King showed due respect to the Lords, as he did to each of his numerous royal guests.

The people of Vidarbha, seeing Lord Kṛṣṇa, remarked to one another that He alone would be a suitable husband for Rukmiṇī. They prayed that on the strength of whatever pious credit they had, Kṛṣṇa might win Rukmiṇī's hand.

When the time came for Śrīmatī Rukmiṇī-devī to visit the temple of Śrī Ambikā, she proceeded there surrounded by many guards. After bowing down to the deity, Rukmiṇī prayed to be allowed to have Śrī Kṛṣṇa as her husband. Then she took the hand of a girlfriend and left the Ambikā temple. Seeing her inexpressible beauty, the great heroes present dropped their weapons and fell to the ground unconscious. Rukmiṇī walked with deliberate steps until she noticed Kṛṣṇa. Then, as everyone looked on, Śrī Kṛṣṇa took Rukmiṇī onto His chariot. Like a lion claiming his rightful share from a band of jackals, He drove back all the opposing kings and slowly made His exit, followed by His associates. Jarāsandha and the other kings, unable to bear their defeat and dishonor, loudly condemned themselves, declaring that this defamation was like a petty animal's stealing away what rightfully belongs to the lion.

TEXT 1

श्रीशुक उवाच
वैदर्भ्याः स तु सन्देशं
निशम्य यदुनन्दनः
प्रगृह्य पाणिना पाणिं प्रहसन्निदमब्रवीत्

śrī-śuka uvāca
vaidarbhyāḥ sa tu sandeśam niśamya yadu-nandanaḥ pragṛhya pāṇinā pāṇim
prahasann idam abravīt

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; vaidarbhyāḥ—of the princess of Vidarbha; saḥ—He; tu—and; sandeśam—the confidential message; niśamya—hearing; yadu-nandanaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa, the descendant of Yadu; pragṛhya—taking; pāṇinā—by His hand; pāṇim—the hand (of the brāhmaṇa messenger); prahasann—smiling; idam—this; abravīt—said.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Thus hearing the confidential message of Princess Vaidarbhī, Lord Yadunandana took the brāhmaṇa's hand and, smiling, spoke to him as follows.

TEXT 2

श्रीभगवानुवाच
तथाहमपि तच्चित्तो
निद्रां च न लभे निशि
वेदाहम्रुक्मिणा द्वेषान् ममोद्वाहो निवारितः

śrī-bhagavān uvāca
tathāham api tac-citto nidrām ca na labhe niśi vedāham rukmiṇā dveṣān mamodvāho nivāritaḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī-bhagavān uvāca—the Supreme Personality of Godhead said; tathā—in the same way; aham—I; api—also; tat—fixed on her; cittaḥ—My mind; nidrām—sleep; ca—and; na labhe—I cannot get; niśi—at night; veda—know; aham—I; rukmiṇā—by Rukmī; dveṣāt—out of enmity; mama—My; udvāhaḥ—marriage; nivāritaḥ—forbidden.

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Lord said: Just as Rukmiṇī's mind is fixed on Me, My mind is fixed on her. I can't even sleep at night. I know that Rukmī, out of envy, has forbidden our marriage.

TEXT 3

तामानयिष्य उन्मथ्य
राजन्यापसदान्मृधे
मत्परामनवद्याङ्गीम् एधसोऽग्निशिखामिव

*tām ānayaṣya unmathya rājanyāpasadān mṛdhe mat-parām anavadyāṅgīm
edhaso 'gni-śikhām iva*

SYNONYMS

tām—she; ānayaṣye—I will bring here; unmathya—churning up; rājanya—of the royal order; apasadān—unfit members; mṛdhe—in battle; mat—to Me; parām—who is solely dedicated; anavadya—unquestionable; āṅgīm—the beauty of whose body; edhasaḥ—from kindling wood; agni—of fire; śikhām—the flames; iva—as.

TRANSLATION

She has dedicated herself exclusively to Me, and her beauty is flawless. I will bring her here after thrashing those worthless kings in battle, just as one brings a blazing flame out of firewood.

PURPORT

When latent fire is aroused in wood, the fire bursts forth, consuming the wood in the act of manifestation. Similarly, Lord Kṛṣṇa boldly predicted that Rukmiṇī would come forth to take His hand and that in the process the wicked kings would be burned by the fire of Kṛṣṇa's determination.

TEXT 4

श्रीशुक उवाच
उद्वाहर्क्षं च विज्ञाय
रुक्मिण्या मधुसूदनः
रथः संयुज्यतामाशु
दारुकेत्याह सारथिम्

śrī-śuka uvāca
udvāharkṣam ca vijñāya rukmiṇyā madhusūdanaḥ rathaḥ saṁyujyatām āśu dārukety āha sārathim

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; udvāha—of the wedding; ṛkṣam—the lunar asterism (the measurement that fixes the exact auspicious time); ca—and; vijñāya—knowing; rukmiṇyāḥ—of Rukmiṇī; madhusūdanaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; rathaḥ—the chariot; saṁyujyatām—should be readied; āśu—immediately; dāruka—O Dāruka; iti—thus; āha—He said; sārathim—to His driver.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Lord Madhusūdana also understood the exact lunar time for Rukmiṇī's wedding. Thus He told His driver, "Dāruka, ready My chariot immediately."

TEXT 5

स चाश्वैः शैब्यसुग्रीव-मेघपुष्पबलाहकैः
युक्तं रथमुपानीय
तस्थौ प्राञ्जलिरग्रतः

*sa cāśvaiḥ śaibya-sugrīvameghapuṣpa-balāhakaiḥ yuktam ratham upānīya
tasthau prāñjalir agrataḥ*

SYNONYMS

saḥ—he, Dāruka; ca—and; aśvaiḥ—with the horses; śaibya-sugrīva-meghapuṣpa-balāhakaiḥ—named Śaibya, Sugrīva, Meghapuṣpa and Balāhaka; yuktam—yoked; ratham—the chariot; upānīya—bringing; tasthau—stood; prāñjaliḥ—with palms joined in reverence; agrataḥ—in front.

TRANSLATION

Dāruka brought the Lord's chariot, yoked with the horses named Śaibya, Sugrīva, Meghapuṣpa and Balāhaka. He then stood before Lord Kṛṣṇa with joined palms.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī quotes the following text of the Padma Purāṇa describing Lord Kṛṣṇa's chariot horses:

*śaibyas tu śuka-patrābhaḥ sugrīvo hema-piṅgalaḥ meghapuṣpas tu meghābhaḥ
pāṇḍuro hi balāhakaḥ*

"Śaibya was green like a parrot's wings, Sugrīva yellow-gold, Meghapuṣpa the color of a cloud, and Balāhaka whitish."

TEXT 6

आरुह्य स्यन्दनं शौरिर्
द्विजमारोप्य तूर्णगैः
आनर्तादेकरात्रेण विदर्भानगमद्वयैः

*āruhya syandanam śaurir
dvijam āropya tūrṇa-gaiḥ ānartād eka-rātreṇa
vidarbhān agamad dhayaiḥ*

SYNONYMS

āruhya—mounting; syandanam—His chariot; śauriḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; dvijam—the brāhmaṇa; āropya—placing (on the chariot); tūrṇa-gaiḥ—(who were) swift; ānartāt—from the district of Ānarta; eka—single; rātreṇa—in a night; vidarbhān—to the Vidarbha kingdom; agamat—went; hayaiḥ—with His horses.

TRANSLATION

Lord Śauri mounted His chariot and had the brāhmaëa do likewise. Then the Lord's swift horses took them from the Ānarta district to Vidarbha in a single night.

TEXT 7

राजा स कुण्डिनपतिः
पुत्रस्नेहवशानुगः
शिशुपालाय स्वां कन्यां दास्यन् कर्माण्यकारयत्

rājā sa kuṇḍina-patiḥ
putra-sneha-vaśānugaḥ śiśupālāya svām kanyām
dāsyān karmāṇy akārayat

SYNONYMS

rājā—the king; saḥ—he, Bhīṣmaka; kuṇḍina-patiḥ—master of Kuṇḍina; putra—for his son; sneha—of affection; vaśa—the control; anugaḥ—obeying; śiśupālāya—to Śiśupāla; svām—his; kanyām—daughter; dāsyān—being about to give; karmāṇi—the required duties; akārayat—he had done.

TRANSLATION

King Bhīṣmaka, the master of Kuṇḍina, having succumbed to the sway of affection for his son, was about to give his daughter to Śiśupāla. The King saw to all the required preparations.

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī points out in this connection that King Bhīṣmaka had no particular liking for Śiśupāla but rather acted out of attachment for his son Rukmī.

TEXTS 8-9

पुरं सम्मृष्टसंसिक्त-मार्गरथ्याचतुष्पथम्
चित्रध्वजपताकाभिः
तोरणैः समलङ्कृतम्

स्रग्गन्धमाल्याभरणैः
विरजोऽम्बरभूषितैः
जुष्टं स्त्रीपुरुषैः श्रीमद्- गृहैरगुरुधूपितैः

puram sammṛṣṭa-saṁsikta-mārga-rathyā-catuṣpatham citra-dhvaja-patākābhis toraṇaiḥ samalaṅkṛtam

srag-gandha-mālyābharaṇair virajo-'mbara-bhūṣitaiḥ

juṣṭam strī-puruṣaiḥ śrīmadgrhair aguru-dhūpitaiḥ

SYNONYMS

puram—the city; sammṛṣṭa—thoroughly cleaned; saṁsikta—and sprinkled abundantly with water; mārga—the main avenues; rathyā—commercial roads; catuḥ-patham—and intersections; citra—variegated; dhvaja—on flagpoles; patākābhiḥ—with banners; toraṇaiḥ—and archways; samalaṅkṛtam—decorated; srak—with jeweled necklaces; gandha—fragrant substances such as sandalwood paste; mālya—flower garlands; ābharaṇaiḥ—and other ornaments; virajaḥ—spotless; ambara—in clothing; bhūṣitaiḥ—who were arrayed; juṣṭam—containing; strī—women; puruṣaiḥ—and men; śrī-mat—opulent; grhaiḥ—homes; aguru-dhūpitaiḥ—aromatic with aguru incense.

TRANSLATION

The king had the main avenues, commercial roads and intersections thoroughly cleaned and then sprinkled with water, and he also had the city decorated with triumphant archways and multicolored banners on poles. The men and women of the city, arrayed in spotless raiment and anointed with fragrant sandalwood paste, wore precious necklaces, flower garlands and jeweled ornaments, and their opulent homes were filled with the aroma of aguru.

PURPORT

When earthen roads are sprinkled with water, the dust settles down and the road becomes smooth and firm. King Bhīṣmaka thoroughly prepared for the great wedding, setting the scene for Lord Kṛṣṇa's triumphant abduction of beautiful Rukmiṇī-devī.

TEXT 10

पतिरून् देवदन् समब्हयरच्य
वप्रिदद्भरु च वदिहि-वन् न्द्रप
ब्हउजयत्विद यत्हद-न्यदयद्भ वदचय्दम् दस मश्वगलम्

SYNONYMS

pitṛn—the forefathers; devān—the demigods; samabhyarcya—correctly worshiping; viprān—the brāhmaṇas; ca—and; vidhi-vat—according to prescribed rituals; nṛpa—O King (Parīkṣit); bhojayitvā—feeding them; yathā—as; nyāyam—is just; vācayām āsa—he had chanted; maṅgalam—auspicious mantras.

TRANSLATION

O King, in accordance with prescribed rituals, Mahārāja Bhīṣmaka worshiped the forefathers, demigods and brāhmaëas, feeding them all properly. Then He had the traditional mantras chanted for the well-being of the bride.

TEXT 11

सुस्नातां सुदतीं कन्यां
कृतकौतुकमङ्गलाम्
आहतांशुकयुग्मेन

भूषितां भूषणोत्तमैः

*su-snātām su-datīm kanyām kṛta-kautuka-maṅgalām āhatāmśuka-yugmena
bhūṣitām bhūṣaṇottamaiḥ*

SYNONYMS

su-snātām—properly bathed; su-datīm—with spotless teeth; kanyām—the bride; kṛta—having performed; kautuka-maṅgalām—the ceremony of putting on the auspicious marriage necklace; āhata—unused; aṁśuka—of garments; yugmena—with a pair; bhūṣitām—adorned; bhūṣaṇa—with ornaments; uttamaiḥ—most excellent.

TRANSLATION

The bride cleaned her teeth and bathed, after which she put on the auspicious wedding necklace. Then she was dressed in brand-new upper and lower garments and adorned with most excellent jeweled ornaments.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī, only spotless clothing fresh off the loom should be worn during auspicious ceremonies.

TEXT 12

चक्रुः सामर्ग्यजुर्मन्त्रैर्
वध्वा रक्षां द्विजोत्तमाः
पुरोहितोऽथर्वविद्वै

जुहाव ग्रहशान्तये

cakruḥ sāma-ṛg-yajur-mantrair vadhvā rakṣāṁ dvijottamāḥ purohito 'tharva-vid vai juhāva graha-śāntaye

SYNONYMS

cakruḥ—effected; sāma-ṛg-yajuḥ—of the Sāma, Ṛg and Yajur Vedas; mantraiḥ—with chants; vadhvāḥ—of the bride; rakṣām—the protection; dvija-uttamaḥ—first-class brāhmaṇas; purohitaḥ—the priest; atharva-vid—who was expert in the mantras of the Atharva Veda; vai—indeed; juhāva—poured oblations of ghee; graha—the controlling planets; śāntaye—to pacify.

TRANSLATION

The best of brāhmaëas chanted mantras of the Āg, Sāma and Yajur Vedas for the bride's protection, and the priest learned in the Atharva Veda offered oblations to pacify the controlling planets.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī points out that the Atharva Veda often deals with the pacification of unfavorable planets.

TEXT 13

हिरण्यरूप्य वासांसि
तिलांश्च गुडमिश्रितान्
प्रादाद्धेनूश्च विप्रेभ्यो

राजा विधिविदां वरः

*hiraṇya-rūpya vāsāṁsi
tilāṁś ca guḍa-miśritān prādād dhenūś ca viprebhyo
rājā vidhi-vidāṁ varaḥ*

SYNONYMS

hiraṇya—gold; rūpya—silver; vāsāṁsi—and clothing; tilān—sesame seeds; ca—and; guḍa—with raw sugar; miśritān—mixed; prādāt—gave; dhenūḥ—cows; ca—also; viprebhyaḥ—to the brāhmaṇas; rājā—the king, Bhīṣmaka; vidhi—regulative principles; vidāṁ—of those who know; varaḥ—the best.

TRANSLATION

Outstanding in his knowledge of regulative principles, the King rewarded the brāhmaëas with gold, silver, clothing, cows and sesame seeds mixed with raw sugar.

TEXT 14

एवं चेदिपती राजा
दमघोषः सुताय वै
कारयामास मन्त्रज्ञैः सर्वमभ्युदयोचितम्

evaṁ cedi-patī rājā damaghoṣaḥ sutāya vai

kārayām āsa mantra-jñaiḥ sarvam abhyudayocitam

SYNONYMS

evam—in the same way; cedi-patiḥ—the lord of Cedi; rājā damaghoṣaḥ—King Damaghoṣa; sutāya—for his son (Śiśupāla); vai—indeed; kārayām āsa—had done; mantra-jñaiḥ—by expert knowers of mantras; sarvam—everything; abhyudaya—to his prosperity; ucitam—conducive.

TRANSLATION

Rājā Damaghoṣa, lord of Cedi, had also engaged brāhmaëas expert in chanting mantras to perform all rituals necessary to assure his son's prosperity.

TEXT 15

मदच्युद्भिर्गजानिकैः
स्यन्दनैर्हेममालिभिः
पत्त्यश्वसङ्कुलैः सैन्यैः परीतः कुण्डीनं ययौ

mada-cyudbhir gajānikaiḥ syandanair hema-mālibhiḥ patty-aśva-saṅkulaiḥ sainyaiḥ parītaḥ kuṇḍīnam yayau

SYNONYMS

mada—liquid secreted from the forehead; cyudbhiḥ—exuding; gaja—of elephants; anikaiḥ—with hordes; syandanaiḥ—with chariots; hema—golden;

mālibhiḥ—decorated with garlands; patti—with foot soldiers; aśva—and horses; saṅkulaiḥ—crowded; sainyaiḥ—by armies; parītaḥ—accompanied; kuṇḍinam—to Kuṇḍina, Bhīṣmaka's capital; yayau—he went.

TRANSLATION

King Damaghoṣa traveled to Kuṇḍina accompanied by armies of elephants exuding mada, chariots hung with golden chains, and numerous cavalry and infantry soldiers.

TEXT 16

तं वै विदर्भाधिपतिः
समभ्येत्याभिपूज्य च
निवेशयामास मुदा कल्पितान्यनिवेशने

taṁ vai vidarbhādhipatiḥ samabhyetyābhipūjya ca niveśayām āsa mudā
kalpitānya-niveśane

SYNONYMS

taṁ—him, King Damaghoṣa; vai—indeed; vidarbha-adhipatiḥ—the master of Vidarbha, Bhīṣmaka; samabhyetya—going forward to meet; abhipūjya—honoring; ca—and; niveśayām āsa—settled him; mudā—with pleasure; kalpita—constructed; anya—special; niveśane—at a place of residence.

TRANSLATION

Bhīṣmaka, the lord of Vidarbha, came out of the city and met King Damaghoṣa, offering him tokens of respect. Bhīṣmaka then settled Damaghoṣa in a residence especially constructed for the occasion.

TEXT 17

तत्र शाल्वो जरासन्धो
दन्तवक्रो विदूरथः
आजग्मुश्चैद्यपक्षीयाः पौण्ड्रकाद्याः सहस्रशः

tatra śālvo jarāsandho dantavakro vidūrathaḥ ājagmuś caidya-pakṣīyāḥ pauṇḍrakādyāḥ sahasraśaḥ

SYNONYMS

tatra—there; śālvaḥ jarāsandhaḥ dantavakraḥ vidūrathaḥ—Śālva, Jarāsandha, Dantavakra and Vidūratha; ājagmuḥ—came; caidya—of Śiśupāla; pakṣīyāḥ—taking the side; pauṇḍraka—Pauṇḍraka; ādyāḥ—and others; sahasraśaḥ—by the thousands.

TRANSLATION

Śiśupāla's supporters—Śālva, Jarāsandha, Dantavakra and Vidūratha—all came, along with Pauṇḍraka and thousands of other kings.

PURPORT

Those familiar with the history of Lord Kṛṣṇa's life will immediately recognize the names given in this text. The kings mentioned here maintained a deep animosity toward Śrī Kṛṣṇa and opposed Him in one way or another. But they were all to be frustrated and defeated on the occasion of Śiśupāla's would-be wedding.

TEXTS 18-19

कृष्णरामद्विषो यत्ताः
कन्यां चैद्याय साधितुम्
यद्यागत्य हरेत्कृष्णो
रामाद्यैर्यदुभिवृतः

योत्स्यामः संहतास्तेन
इति निश्चितमानसाः
आजग्मुर्भूभुजः सर्वे समग्रबलवाहनाः *kṛṣṇa-rāma-dviṣo yattāḥ kanyāṁ caidyāya sādhitum yady āgatya haret kṛṣṇo rāmādyair yadubhir vṛtaḥ yotsyāmaḥ saṁhatās tena iti niścita-mānasāḥ ājagmur bhū-bhujāḥ sarve

samagra-bala-vāhanāḥ*

SYNONYMS

kṛṣṇa-rāma-dviṣaḥ—those hateful toward Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma; yattāḥ—prepared; kanyām—the bride; caidyāya—for Śiśupāla; sādhitum—in order to secure; yadi—if; āgatya—coming; haret—should steal; kṛṣṇaḥ—Kṛṣṇa; rāma—by Balarāma; ādyaiḥ—and other; yadubhiḥ—Yadus; vṛtaḥ—accompanied; yotsyāmaḥ—we will fight; saṁhatāḥ—joining all together; tena—with Him; iti—thus; niścita-mānasāḥ—having decided; ājagmuḥ—came; bhū-bhujāḥ—the kings; sarve—all; samagra—complete; bala—with military forces; vāhanāḥ—and conveyances.

TRANSLATION

To secure the bride for Śiśupāla, the kings who envied Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma came to the following decision among themselves: "If Kṛṣṇa comes here with Balarāma and the other Yadus to steal the bride, we shall band together and fight Him." Thus those envious kings went to the wedding with their entire armies and a full complement of military conveyances.

PURPORT

The word saṁhatāḥ, which normally means "bound tightly together," may also mean "thoroughly struck down" or "killed." Thus although Kṛṣṇa's enemies thought they were unified and strong—saṁhatāḥ in the former sense—they could not successfully oppose the Personality of Godhead, and consequently they would be struck down and killed—saṁhatāḥ in the latter sense.

TEXTS 20-21

श्रुत्वैतद्भगवान् रामो

विपक्षीय नृपोद्यमम्
कृष्णं चैकं गतं हर्तुं
कन्यां कलहशङ्कितः

बलेन महता सार्धं
भ्रातृस्नेहपरिप्लुतः
त्वरितः कुण्डिनं प्रागाद् गजाश्वरथपत्तिभिः

śrutvaitad bhagavān rāmo vipakṣīya nṛpodyamam kṛṣṇam caikam gataṁ hartum kanyām kalaha-śaṅkitaḥ balena mahatā sārdham bhrātr-sneha-pariplutaḥ tvaritaḥ kuṇḍinam prāgād gajāśva-ratha-pattibhiḥ

SYNONYMS

śrutvā—hearing; etat—this; bhagavān rāmaḥ—Lord Balarāma; vipakṣīya—inimical; nṛpa—of the kings; udyamam—the preparations; kṛṣṇam—Lord Kṛṣṇa; ca—and; ekam—alone; gataṁ—gone; hartum—to take away; kanyām—the bride; kalaha—a fight; śaṅkitaḥ—fearing; balena—a force; mahatā—mighty; sārdham—together with; bhrātr—for His brother; sneha—in affection; pariplutaḥ—immersed; tvaritaḥ—swiftly; kuṇḍinam—to Kuṇḍina; prāgāt—went; gaja—with elephants; aśva—horses; ratha—chariots; pattibhiḥ—and infantry.

TRANSLATION

When Lord Balarāma heard about these preparations of the inimical kings and how Lord Kṛṣṇa had set off alone to steal the bride, He feared that a fight would ensue. Immersed in affection for His brother, He hurried to Kuṇḍina with a mighty army consisting of infantry and of soldiers riding on elephants, horses and chariots.

TEXT 22

भीष्मकन्या वरारोहा
काङ्क्षन्त्यागमनं हरेः
प्रत्यापत्तिमपश्यन्ती द्विजस्याचिन्तयत्तदा

bhīṣma-kanyā varārohā kāṅkṣanty āgamanam hareḥ pratyāpattim apaśyantī dvijasyācintayat tadā

SYNONYMS

bhīṣma-kanyā—the daughter of Bhīṣmaka; vara-ārohā—having lovely hips; kāṅkṣantī—waiting for; āgamanam—the arrival; hareḥ—of Kṛṣṇa; pratyāpattim—the return; apaśyantī—not seeing; dvijasya—of the brāhmaṇa; acintayat—thought; tadā—then.

TRANSLATION

The lovely daughter of Bhīṣmaka anxiously awaited the arrival of Kṛṣṇa, but when she did not see the brāhmaëa return she thought as follows.

TEXT 23

अहो त्रियामान्तरित
उद्वाहो मेऽल्पराधसः
नागच्छत्यरविन्दाक्षो
नाहं वेद्म्यत्र कारणम्
सोऽपि नावर्ततेऽद्यापि मत्सन्देशहरो द्विजः

*aho tri-yāmāntarita udvāho me 'lpa-rādhasaḥ nāgacchaty aravindākṣo nāhaṁ vedmy atra kāraṇam
so 'pi nāvartate 'dyāpi mat-sandeśa-haro dvijaḥ*

SYNONYMS

aho—alas; tri-yāma—three yāmas (nine hours), i.e., the night; antaritaḥ—having ended; udvāhaḥ—the marriage; me—of me; alpa—insufficient; rādhasaḥ—whose good fortune; na āgacchati—does not come; aravinda-akṣaḥ—lotus-eyed Kṛṣṇa; na—do not; aham—I; vedmi—know; atra—for this; kāraṇam—the reason; saḥ—he; api—also; na āvartate—does not return; adya api—even now; mat—my; sandeśa—of the message; haraḥ—the carrier; dvijaḥ—the brāhmaṇa.

TRANSLATION

[Princess Rukmiṇī thought:] Alas, my wedding is to take place when the night ends! How unlucky I am! Lotus-eyed Kṛṣṇa does not come. I don't know why. And even the brāhmaëa messenger has not yet returned.

PURPORT

It is apparent from this verse, as confirmed by Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī, that the present scene takes place before sunrise.

TEXT 24

अपि मय्यनवद्यात्मा
दृष्ट्वा किञ्चिज्जुगुप्सितम्
मत्पाणिग्रहणे नूनं
नायाति हि कृतोद्यमः

*api mayy anavadyātmā
dr̥ṣṭvā kiñcij jugupsitam mat-pāṇi-grahaṇe nūnam
nāyāti hi kṛtodyamaḥ*

SYNONYMS

api—perhaps; mayi—in me; anavadya—faultless; ātmā—He whose body and mind; dr̥ṣṭvā—seeing; kiñcit—something; jugupsitam—contemptible; mat—my; pāṇi—hand; grahaṇe—for the taking; nūnam—indeed; nāyāti—has not come; hi—certainly; kṛta-udyaamaḥ—even though originally intending to do so.

TRANSLATION

Perhaps the faultless Lord, even while preparing to come here, saw something contemptible in me and therefore has not come to take my hand.

PURPORT

Princess Rukmiṇī boldly invited Śrī Kṛṣṇa to kidnap her. When Rukmiṇī did not see Him come, she naturally feared that He had rejected her proposal, perhaps finding some unacceptable quality in her. As expressed here, the Lord Himself is anavadya, faultless, and if He saw some fault in Rukmiṇī she would be an unworthy bride for Him. It was natural for the young princess to feel such anxiety. Furthermore, if Śrī Kṛṣṇa had actually made this decision, it would be natural for the brāhmaṇa to fear Rukmiṇī's reaction were he to bring her the news, and that would explain why he had not come.

TEXT 25

दुर्भगाया न मे धाता
नानुकूलो महेश्वरः
देवी वा विमुखी गौरी रुद्राणी गिरिजा सती

durbhagāyā na me dhātā
nānukūlo maheśvaraḥ
devī vā vimukhī gaurī
rudrāṇī girijā satī

SYNONYMS

durbhagāyāḥ—who is unfortunate; na—not; me—with me; dhātā—the creator (Lord Brahmā); na—not; anukūlaḥ—favorably disposed; mahā-īśvaraḥ—the great Lord Śiva; devī—the goddess (his consort); vā—or; vimukhī—turned against; gaurī—Gaurī; rudrāṇī—the wife of Rudra; giri-jā—the adopted daughter of the Himālayan mountain range; satī—Satī, who, in her previous life as the daughter of Dakṣa, chose to give up her body.

TRANSLATION

I am extremely unfortunate, for the creator is not favorably disposed toward me, nor is the great Lord Śiva. Or perhaps Śiva's wife, Devī, who is known as Gaurī, Rudrāṇī, Girijā and Satī, has turned against me.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī explains that Rukmiṇī might have thought, "Even if Kṛṣṇa wanted to come, He might have been stopped on the path by the creator, Brahmā, who is not favorably inclined toward me. But why should he be unfavorable? Perhaps it is Maheśvara, Lord Śiva, whom on some occasion I did not properly worship and who thus became angry with me. But he is Maheśvara, the great controller, so why would he be angry with such an insignificant and foolish girl as me?

"Perhaps it is Śiva's wife, Gaurī-devī, who is displeased, though I worship her every day. Alas, alas, how have I offended her so that she has turned against me? But after all, she is Rudrāṇī, the wife of Rudra, and her very name means 'one who makes everyone cry.' So perhaps she and Śiva want me to cry. But seeing that I am so miserable, about to give up my life, why don't they soften their attitude? The reason must be that Goddess Devī is Girijā, an adopted daughter, so why should she be soft-hearted? In her incarnation as Satī she gave up her body, so perhaps she now wants me to give up my body also."

Thus the ācārya, with realized poetic sensitivity, interprets the various names used in this verse.

TEXT 26

एवं चिन्तयती बाला
गोविन्दहतमानसा
न्यमीलयत कालज्ञा नेत्रे चाश्रुकलाकुले

*evam cintayatī bālā govinda-hṛta-mānasā nyamīlayata kāla-jñā
netre cāśru-kalākule*

SYNONYMS

evam—in this manner; cintayatī—thinking; bālā—the young girl; govinda—by Kṛṣṇa; hṛta—stolen; mānasā—whose mind; nyamīlayata—she closed; kāla—the time; jñā—knowing; netre—her eyes; ca—and; aśru-kalā—with tears; ākule—brimming.

TRANSLATION

As she thought in this way, the young maiden, whose mind had been stolen by Kṛṣṇa, closed her tear-filled eyes, remembering that there was still time.

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī explains the word kāla-jñā as follows: "[Rukmiṇī thought,] 'It is not even the right time yet for Govinda to come,' and thus she felt a bit consoled."

TEXT 27

एवं वध्वाः प्रतीक्षन्त्या
गोविन्दागमनं नृप
वाम ऊरुर्भुजो नेत्रम् अस्फुरन् प्रियभाषिणः

*evam vadhvāḥ pratīkṣantya govindāgamanam nṛpa vāma ūrur bhujo netram
asphuran priya-bhāṣiṇaḥ*

SYNONYMS

evam—thus; vadhvāḥ—the bride; pratīkṣantyaḥ—as she awaited;
govinda-āgamanam—the arrival of Kṛṣṇa; nṛpa—O King (Parīkṣit);
vāmaḥ—left; ūruḥ—her thigh; bhujaḥ—arm; netram—and eye;
asphuran—twitched; priya—something desirable; bhāṣiṇaḥ—be speaking.

TRANSLATION

O King, as the bride thus awaited the arrival of Govinda, she felt a twitch in her left thigh, arm and eye. This was a sign that something desirable would happen.

TEXT 28

अथ कृष्णविनिर्दिष्टः
स एव द्विजसत्तमः
अन्तःपुरचरीं देवीं

राजपुत्रीम्ददर्श ह

*atha kṛṣṇa-vinirdiṣṭaḥ
sa eva dvija-sattamaḥ antaḥpura-carīm devīm
rāja-putrīm dadarśa ha*

SYNONYMS

atha—then; kṛṣṇa-vinirdiṣṭaḥ—ordered by Lord Kṛṣṇa; saḥ—that; eva—very; dvija—of learned brāhmaṇas; sat-tamaḥ—the most pure; antaḥ-pura—within the inner palace; carīm—staying; devīm—the goddess, Rukmiṇī; rāja—of the king; putrīm—the daughter; dadarśa ha—saw.

TRANSLATION

Just then the purest of learned brāhmaëas, following Kṛṣṇa's order, came to see the divine Princess Rukmiṇī within the inner chambers of the palace.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī, Śrī Kṛṣṇa had reached the gardens outside the city, and out of concern for Rukmiṇī He had instructed the brāhmaṇa to tell her of His arrival.

TEXT 29

सा तं प्रहृष्टवदनम्
अव्यग्रात्मगतिं सती
आलक्ष्य लक्षणाभिज्ञा

समपृच्छच्छुचिस्मिता

sā taṁ prahr̥ṣṭa-vadanam avyagrātma-gatiṁ satī ālakṣya lakṣaṇābhijñā samapṛcchat chuci-smitā

SYNONYMS

sa—she; taṁ—him; prahr̥ṣṭa—filled with joy; vadanam—whose face; avyagra—unagitated; ātma—of whose body; gatiṁ—the movement; satī—the saintly young woman; ālakṣya—noting; lakṣaṇa—of symptoms; abhijñā—an expert knower; samapṛcchat—inquired; śuci—pure; smitā—with a smile.

TRANSLATION

Noting the brāhmaṇa's joyful face and serene movements, saintly Rukmiṇī, who could expertly interpret such symptoms, inquired from him with a pure smile.

TEXT 30

तस्या आवेदयत्प्राप्तं
शशंस यदुनन्दनम्
उक्तं च सत्यवचनम् आत्मोपनयनं प्रति

tasyā āvedayat prāptaṁ śaśaṁsa yadu-nandanam uktaṁ ca satya-vacanam

ātmopanayanam prati

SYNONYMS

tasyāḥ—to her; āvedayat—he announced; prāptam—as having arrived; śaśaṁsa—he related; yadu-nandanam—Kṛṣṇa, the child of the Yadus; uktam—what He had said; ca—and; satya—of assurance; vacanam—words; ātma—with her; upanayanam—His marriage; prati—concerning.

TRANSLATION

The brāhmaëa announced to her the arrival of Lord Yadunandana and relayed the Lord's promise to marry her.

TEXT 31

तमागतं समाज्ञाय
वैदर्भी हृष्टमानसा
न पश्यन्ती ब्राह्मणाय प्रियमन्यन्ननाम सा

tam āgataṁ samājñāya
vaidarbhī hr̥ṣṭa-mānasā na paśyantī brāhmaṇāya priyam anyan nanāma sā

SYNONYMS

tam—Him, Kṛṣṇa; āgataṁ—arrived; samājñāya—fully realizing; vaidarbhī—Rukmiṇī; hr̥ṣṭa—gladdened; mānasā—her mind; na paśyantī—not seeing; brāhmaṇāya—to the brāhmaṇa; priyam—dear; anyat—anything else;

nanāma—bowed down; sā—she.

TRANSLATION

Princess Vaidarbhī was overjoyed to learn of Kṛṣṇa's arrival. Not finding anything at hand suitable to offer the brāhmaëa, she simply bowed down to him.

TEXT 32

प्राप्तौ श्रुत्वा स्वदुहितुर्
उद्वाहप्रेक्षणोत्सुकौ
अभ्ययात्तूर्यघोषेण रामकृष्णौ समर्हणैः

prāptau śrutvā sva-duhitur udvāha-prekṣaṇotsukau abhyayāt tūrya-ghoṣeṇa
rāma-kṛṣṇau samarhaṇaiḥ

SYNONYMS

prāptau—arrived; śrutvā—hearing; sva—his; duhituḥ—daughter's;
udvāha—marriage; prekṣaṇa—to witness; utsukau—eager; abhyayāt—he went forward; tūrya—of musical instruments; ghoṣeṇa—with the resounding;
rāma-kṛṣṇau—to Balarāma and Kṛṣṇa; samarhaṇaiḥ—with abundant offerings.

TRANSLATION

The King, upon hearing that Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma had come and were eager to witness his daughter's wedding, went forth with abundant offerings to greet Them as music resounded.

TEXT 33

मधुपर्कमुपानीय
वासांसि विरजांसि सः
उपायनान्यभीष्टानि
विधिवत्समपूजयत्

*madhu-parkam upānīya
vāsāṁsi virajāṁsi saḥ upāyanāny abhīṣṭāni
vidhi-vat samapūjayat*

SYNONYMS

madhu-parkam—the traditional mixture of milk and honey; upānīya—bearing; vāsāṁsi—garments; virajāṁsi—spotless; saḥ—he; upāyanāni—presentations; abhīṣṭāni—desirable; vidhi-vat—according to scriptural prescriptions; samapūjayat—performed worshiped.

TRANSLATION

Presenting Them with madhu-parka, new clothing and other desirable gifts, he worshiped Them according to standard rituals.

TEXT 34

तयोर्निवेशनं श्रीमद्
उपाकल्प्य महामतिः
ससैन्ययोः सानुगयोर् आतिथ्यं विदधे यथा

*tayor niveśanam śrīmad upākalpya mahā-matiḥ sa-sainyayoḥ sānugayor
ātithyam vidadhe yathā*

SYNONYMS

tayoḥ—for Them; niveśanam—place to stay; śrī-mat—opulent;
upākalpya—arranging; mahā-matiḥ—generous; sa—together with;
sainyayoḥ—Their soldiers; sa—together with; anugayoḥ—Their personal associates; ātithyam—hospitality; vidadhe—he afforded; yathā—properly.

TRANSLATION

Generous King Bhīṣmaka arranged opulent accommodations for the two Lords, and also for Their army and entourage. In this way he afforded Them proper hospitality.

TEXT 35

एवं राज्ञां समेतानां
यथावीर्यं यथावयः
यथाबलं यथावित्तं

सर्वैः कामैः समर्हयत्

evam rājñām sametānām yathā-vīryam yathā-vayaḥ yathā-balam yathā-vittam sarvaiḥ kāmaiḥ samarhayat

SYNONYMS

evam—thus; rājñām—for the kings; sametānām—who had assembled; yathā—according; vīryam—to their power; yathā—according; vayaḥ—to their age; yathā—according; balam—to their strength; yathā—according; vittam—to their wealth; sarvaiḥ—with all; kāmaiḥ—desirable things; samarhayat—he honored them.

TRANSLATION

Thus it was that Bhīṣmaka gave all desirable things to the kings who had assembled for the occasion, honoring them as befitted their political power, age, physical prowess and wealth.

TEXT 36

कृष्णमागतमाकर्ण्य
विदर्भपुरवासिनः
आगत्य नेत्राञ्जलिभिः पपुस्तन्मुखपङ्कजम्

*kṛṣṇam āgatam ākarṇya
vidarbha-pura-vāsinaḥ*

*āgatya netrāñjalibhiḥ
papus tan-mukha-pankajam*

SYNONYMS

kṛṣṇam—Lord Kṛṣṇa; āgatam—come; ākarnya—hearing; vidarbha-pura—of the capital city of Vidarbha; vāsinaḥ—the residents; āgatya—coming; netra—of their eyes; añjalibhiḥ—with the cupped palms; papuḥ—they drank; tat—His; mukha—face; pankajam—lotus.

TRANSLATION

When the residents of Vidarbha-pura heard that Lord Kṛṣṇa had come, they all went to see Him. With the cupped palms of their eyes they drank the honey of His lotus face.

TEXT 37

अस्यैव भार्या भवितुं
रुक्मिण्यर्हति नापरा
असावप्यनवद्यात्मा
भैष्म्याः समुचितः पतिः

*asyaiva bhāryā bhavitum rukmiṇy arhati nāparā
asāv apy anavadyātmā
bhaiṣmyāḥ samucitaḥ patiḥ*

SYNONYMS

asya—for Him; eva—alone; bhāryā—wife; bhavitum—to be;

rukmiṇī—Rukmiṇī; arhati—deserves; na aparā—none other; asau—He; api—as well; anavadya—faultless; ātmā—whose bodily form; bhaiṣmyāḥ—for the daughter of Bhīṣmaka; samucitaḥ—most suitable; patiḥ—husband.

TRANSLATION

[The people of the city said:] Rukmiṇī, and no one else, deserves to become His wife, and He also, possessing such flawless beauty, is the only suitable husband for Princess Bhaiṣmī.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī, this text combines statements made by different citizens. Some pointed out that Rukmiṇī was a suitable wife for Kṛṣṇa, others said that no one else was suitable. Similarly, some stated that Kṛṣṇa was most suitable for Rukmiṇī, and others stated that no one else would be a suitable husband for her.

TEXT 38

किञ्चित्सुचरितं यन्नस
तेन तुष्टस्त्रिलोककृत
अनुगृह्णातु गृह्णातु वैदर्भ्याः पाणिमच्युतः

*kiñcit su-caritaṁ yan nas tena tuṣṭas tri-loka-kṛt anugṛhṇātu grhṇātu
vaidarbhyāḥ pāṇim acyutaḥ*

SYNONYMS

kiñcit—at all; su-caritam—pious work; yat—whatever; naḥ—our; tena—with that; tuṣṭaḥ—satisfied; tri-loka—of the three worlds; kṛt—the creator; anugṛhṇātu—may please show mercy; gṛhṇātu—may take; vaidarbhyāḥ—of Rukmiṇī; pāṇim—the hand; acyutaḥ—Kṛṣṇa.

TRANSLATION

May Acyuta, the creator of the three worlds, be satisfied with whatever pious work we may have done and show His mercy by taking the hand of Vaidarbhī.

PURPORT

The devoted citizens of Vidarbha lovingly offered their entire stock of pious credit to Princess Rukmiṇī. They were very eager to see her marry Lord Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 39

एवं प्रेमकलाबद्धा
वदन्ति स्म पुरौकसः
कन्या चान्तःपुरात्प्रागाद् भटैर्गुप्ताम्बिकालयम्

evaṁ prema-kalā-baddhā
vadanti sma puraukasaḥ kanyā cāntaḥ-purāt prāgād bhaṭair guptāmbikālayam

SYNONYMS

evam—thus; prema—of pure love; kalā—by the increase; baddhāḥ—bound; vadanti sma—they spoke; pura-okasaḥ—the residents of the city; kanyā—the bride; ca—and; antaḥ-purāt—from the inner palace; prāgāt—went out; bhaṭaiḥ—by guards; guptā—protected; ambikā-ālayam—to the temple of Goddess Ambikā.

TRANSLATION

Bound by their swelling love, the city's residents spoke in this way. Then the bride, protected by guards, left the inner palace to visit the temple of Ambikā.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī quotes the Medinī dictionary's definition of the word kalā as follows: kalā mūle pravṛddhau syāc chilādāv aṁśa-mātrake. "The word kalā means 'a root,' 'increase,' 'a stone' or 'a mere part.' "

TEXTS 40-41

पद्भ्यां विनिर्ययौ द्रष्टुं
भवान्याः पादपल्लवम्
सा चानुध्यायती सम्यङ्
मुकुन्दचरणाम्बुजम्

यतवाङ् मातृभिः सार्धं
सखीभिः परिवारिता

गुप्ता राजभट्टैः शूरैः
सन्नद्धैरुद्यतायुधैः
मृडङ्गशङ्खपाणवास
तूर्यभेर्यश्च जघ्निरे

padbhyām viniryayau draṣṭum bhavānyāḥ pāda-pallavam sā cānudhyāyatī samyaṁ mukunda-caraṇāmbujam

yata-vān mātṛbhiḥ sārdham sakhībhiḥ parivāritā
guptā rāja-bhaṭaiḥ śūraiḥ sannaddhair udyatāyudhaiḥ mṛdaṅga-śaṅkha-ṇavās
tūrya-bheryaś ca jaghnire

SYNONYMS

padbhyām—on foot; viniryayau—went out; draṣṭum—in order to see; bhavānyāḥ—of mother Bhavānī; pāda-pallavam—the lotus-petal feet; sā—she; ca—and; anudhyāyatī—meditating; samyak—totally; mukunda—of Kṛṣṇa; caraṇa-ambujam—on the lotus feet; yata-vāk—maintaining silence; mātṛbhiḥ—by her mothers; sārdham—accompanied; sakhībhiḥ—by her female companions; parivāritā—surrounded; guptā—guarded; rāja—of the King; bhaṭaiḥ—by soldiers; śūraiḥ—valiant; sannaddhaiḥ—armed and ready; udyata—upraised; āyudhaiḥ—with weapons; mṛdaṅga-śaṅkha-ṇavāḥ—clay drums, conchshells and side drums; tūrya—wind instruments; bheryaḥ—horns; ca—and; jaghnire—played.

TRANSLATION

Rukmiṇī silently went out on foot to see the lotus feet of the deity Bhavānī. Accompanied by her mothers and girlfriends and protected by the King's valiant soldiers, who held their upraised weapons at the ready, she simply absorbed her mind in the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa. And all the while mādaṁ gas, conchshells, paëavas, horns and other instruments resounded.

TEXTS 42-43

नानोपहार बलिभिर्
वारमुख्याः सहस्रशः
स्रग्गन्धवस्त्राभरणैर्
द्विजपत्न्यः स्वलङ्कृताः

गायन्त्यश्च स्तुवन्तश्च
गायका वाद्यवादकाः
परिवार्य वधूं जग्मुः सूतमागधवन्दिनः

*nānopahāra balibhir
vāramukhyāḥ sahasraśaḥ srag-gandha-vastrābharaṇair dvija-patnyaḥ sv-alāṅkṛtāḥ*

*gāyantyaś ca stuvantaś ca gāyakā vādya-vādakāḥ parivārya vadhūṁ jagmuḥ
sūta-māgadha-vandinaḥ*

SYNONYMS

nānā—various; upahāra—with paraphernalia of worship; balibhiḥ—and presents; vāra-mukhyāḥ—prominent courtesans; sahasraśaḥ—by the thousands; srak—with flower garlands; gandha—fragrances; vastra—clothing; ābharaṇaiḥ—and jewelry; dvija—of brāhmaṇas; patnyaḥ—the wives; sv-alāṅkṛtāḥ—well ornamented; gāyantyaḥ—singing; ca—and; stuvantaḥ—offering prayers; ca—and; gāyakāḥ—singers; vādya-vādakāḥ—instrumental musicians; parivārya—accompanying; vadhūm—the bride; jagmuḥ—went; sūta—bards; māgadha—chroniclers; vandinaḥ—and heralds.

TRANSLATION

Behind the bride followed thousands of prominent courtesans bearing various offerings and presents, along with well-adorned brāhmaēas' wives singing and reciting prayers and bearing gifts of garlands, scents, clothing and jewelry. There were also professional singers, musicians, bards, chroniclers and heralds.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī explains that from her own quarters up to the temple of Bhavānī, Rukmiṇī went by palanquin and thus was easily protected. Only for the last twelve to fifteen feet, from the palace to the temple area, did she go on foot, with royal bodyguards stationed outside the temple on all sides.

TEXT 44

आसाद्य देवीसदनं

धौतपादकराम्बुजा
उपस्पृश्य शुचिः शान्ता प्रविवेशाम्बिकान्तिकम्

āsādyā devī-sadanam dhauta-pāda-karāmbujā upasprśya śuciḥ śāntā praviveśāmbikāntikam

SYNONYMS

āsādyā—reaching; devī—of the goddess; sadanam—the residence; dhauta—washing; pāda—her feet; kara—and hands; ambujā—lotuslike; upasprśya—sipping water for purification; śuciḥ—sanctified; śāntā—peaceful; praviveśa—she entered; ambikā-antikam—the presence of Ambikā.

TRANSLATION

Upon reaching the goddess's temple, Rukmiṇī first washed her lotus feet and hands and then sipped water for purification. Thus sanctified and peaceful, she came into the presence of mother Ambikā.

TEXT 45

तां वै प्रवयसो बालां
विधिज्ञा विप्रयोषितः
भवानीं वन्दयां चक्रुर् भवपत्नीं भवान्विताम्

*tām vai pravayasaḥ bālām vidhi-jñā vipra-yoṣitaḥ bhavānīm vandayām cakruḥ
bhava-patnīm bhavānvitām*

SYNONYMS

tām—her; vai—indeed; pravayasaḥ—elderly; bālām—the young girl; vidhi—of ritual injunctions; jñāḥ—expert knowers; vipra—of brāhmaṇas; yoṣitaḥ—the wives; bhavānīm—to Goddess Bhavānī; vandayām cakruḥ—they led in offering respects; bhava-patnīm—the wife of Bhava (Lord Siva); bhava-anvitām—accompanied by Lord Bhava.

TRANSLATION

The older wives of brāhmaëas, expert in the knowledge of rituals, led young Rukmiṇī in offering respects to Bhavānī, who appeared with her consort, Lord Bhava.

PURPORT

According to the ācāryas, here the term bhavānvitām indicates that in the Ambikā temple visited by Rukmiṇī, the presiding deity was the goddess, whose husband appeared in an accompanying role. Thus the ritual was properly performed by women.

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī comments that the term vidhi-jñāḥ may be understood to mean that since the learned wives of brāhmaṇas knew of Rukmiṇī's desire to marry Kṛṣṇa, the verb vandayām cakruḥ thus indicates that they prompted her to pray for what she really wanted. In this way, like the goddess Bhavānī, Rukmiṇī could be united with her eternal male companion.

TEXT 46

नमस्ये त्वाम्बिकेऽभीक्ष्णं
स्वसन्तानयुतां शिवाम्
भूयात्पतिर्मे भगवान्
कृष्णस्तदनुमोदताम्

namasye tvāmbike 'bhīkṣṇam sva-santāna-yutām śivām bhūyāt patir me bhagavān kṛṣṇas tad anumodatām

SYNONYMS

namasye—I offer my obeisances; tvā—to you; ambike—O Ambikā; abhīkṣṇam—constantly; sva—your; santāna—children; yutām—along with; śivām—the wife of Lord Śiva; bhūyāt—may He become; patiḥ—husband; me—my; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; kṛṣṇaḥ—Kṛṣṇa; tat—that; anumodatām—please allow.

TRANSLATION

[Princess Rukmīṇī prayed:] O mother Ambikā, wife of Lord Siva, I repeatedly offer my obeisances unto you, together with your children. May Lord Kṛṣṇa become my husband. Please grant this!

TEXTS 47-48

अद्भिर्गन्धाक्षतैर्धूपैर्
वासःस्रङ्माल्य भूषणैः
नानोपहारबलिभिः

प्रदीपावलिभिः पृथक्

विप्रस्त्रियः पतिमतीसु तथा तैः समपूजयत्
लवणापूपताम्बूल-कण्ठसूत्रफलेक्षुभिः

adbhir gandhākṣatair dhūpair vāsaḥ-sraṇ-mālya bhūṣaṇaiḥ nānopahāra-balibhiḥ pradīpāvalibhiḥ pṛthak vipra-striyaḥ patimatīś tathā taiḥ samapūjayat lavaṇāpūpa-tāmbūla-kaṇṭha-sūtra-phalekṣubhiḥ

SYNONYMS

adbhiḥ—with water; gandha—fragrant substances; akṣataiḥ—and whole grains; dhūpaiḥ—with incense; vāsaḥ—with clothing; sraṇ—flower garlands; mālya—jeweled necklaces; bhūṣaṇaiḥ—and ornaments; nānā—with various; upahāra—offerings; balibhiḥ—and gifts; pradīpa—of lamps; āvalibhiḥ—with rows; pṛthak—separately; vipra-striyaḥ—the brāhmaṇa ladies; pati—husbands; matīḥ—having; tathā—also; taiḥ—with these items; samapūjayat—performed worship; lavaṇa—with savory preparations; āpūpa—cakes; tāmbūla—prepared betel nut; kaṇṭha-sūtra—sacred threads; phala—fruits; ikṣubhiḥ—and sugar cane.

TRANSLATION

Rukmiṇī worshiped the goddess with water, scents, whole grains, incense, clothing, garlands, necklaces, jewelry and other prescribed offerings and gifts, and also with arrays of lamps. The married brāhmaëa women each performed worship simultaneously with the same items, also offering savories and cakes, prepared betel nut, sacred threads, fruit and sugar-cane juice.

TEXT 49

तस्यै स्त्रियस्ताः प्रददुः
शेषां युयुजुराशिषः
ताभ्यो देव्यै नमश्चक्रे शेषां च जगृहे वधूः

tasyai striyas tāḥ pradaduḥ
śeṣām yuyujur āśiṣaḥ tābhyo devyai namaś cakre
śeṣām ca jagṛhe vadhūḥ

SYNONYMS

tasyai—to her, Rukmiṇī; striyaḥ—women; tāḥ—they; pradaduḥ—gave; śeṣām—the remnants; yuyujuḥ—they bestowed; āśiṣaḥ—blessings; tābhyaḥ—to them; devyai—and to the deity; namaḥ cakre—bowed down; śeṣām—the remnants; ca—and; jagṛhe—took; vadhūḥ—the bride.

TRANSLATION

The ladies gave the bride the remnants of the offerings and then blessed her. She in turn bowed down to them and the deity and accepted the remnants as prasādam.

TEXT 50

मुनिव्रतमथ त्यक्त्वा
निश्चक्रामाम्बिकागृहात्
प्रगृह्य पाणिना भृत्यां रत्नमुद्रोपशोभिना

*muni-vratam atha tyaktvā niścakrāmāmbikā-gṛhāt pragṛhya pāṇinā bhṛtyām
ratna-mudropāśobhinā*

SYNONYMS

muni—of silence; *vrata*m—her vow; atha—then; tyaktvā—giving up; niścakrāma—she exited; ambikā-gṛhāt—from the temple of Ambikā; pragṛhya—holding on; pāṇinā—with her hand; bhṛtyām—to a maidservant; ratna—jeweled; mudrā—by a ring; upāśobhinā—beautified.

TRANSLATION

The princess then gave up her vow of silence and left the Ambikā temple, holding on to a maidservant with her hand, which was adorned with a jeweled ring.

TEXTS 51-55

तां देवमायामिव धीरमोहिनीं
सुमध्यमां कुण्डलमण्डिताननाम्

श्यामां नितम्बार्पितरत्नमेखलां
व्यञ्जत्स्तनीं कुन्तलशङ्कितेक्षणाम्

शुचिस्मितां बिम्बफलाधरद्युति- शोणायमानद्विजकुन्दकुङ्कुमलाम् पदा चलन्तीं कलहंसगामिनीं
सिञ्जत्कलानूपुरधामशोभिना

विलोक्य वीरा मुमुहुः समागता
यशस्विनस्तत्कृतहृच्छयार्दिताः
यां वीक्ष्य ते नृपतयस्तदुदारहास-व्रीदावलोकहतचेतस उज्झितास्त्राः

पेतुः क्षितौ गजरथाश्वगता विमूढा
यात्राच्छलेन हरयेऽर्पयतीं स्वशोभाम्
सैवं शनैश्चलयती चलपद्मकोशौ
प्राप्तिं तदा भगवतः प्रसमीक्षमाणा

उत्सार्य वामकरजैरलकानपङ्क्तैः
प्राप्तान् ह्रियैक्षत नृपान्ददृशेऽच्युतं च
तां राजकन्यां रथमारुरक्षतीं जहार कृष्णो द्विषतां समीक्षताम्

tām deva-māyām iva dhīra-mohinīm su-madhyamām kuṇḍala-maṇḍitānanām

śyāmām nitambārpita-ratna-mekhalām vyañjat-stanīm kuntala-śaṅkitekṣaṇām

śuci-smitām bimba-phalādhara-dyutiśoṇāyamāna-dviija-kunda-kuḍmalām padā calantīm kala-haṁsa-gāminīm siñjat-kalā-nūpura-dhāma-śobhinā vilokya vīrā mumuhuh samāgatā yaśasvinas tat-kṛta-hṛc-chayārditāḥ yām vīkṣya te nṛpatayas tad udāra-hāsavrīdāvaloka-hṛta-cetasa ujjhitastrāḥ

petuh kṣitau gaja-rathāśva-gatā vimūḍhā yātrā-cchalena haraye 'rpayatīm sva-śobhām saivam śanaiś calayatī cala-padma-kośau prāptīm tadā bhagavataḥ prasamīkṣamāṇā utsārya vāma-karajair alakān apaṅgaiḥ prāptān hriyaikṣata nṛpān dadṛśe 'cyutam ca tām rāja-kanyām ratham ārurakṣatīm jahāra kṛṣṇo dviṣatām samīkṣatām

SYNONYMS

tām—her; deva—of the Supreme Lord; māyām—the illusory potency; iva—as if; dhīra—even those who are sober; mohinīm—who bewilders; su-madhyamām—whose waist was well-formed; kuṇḍala—with earrings; maṇḍita—decorated; ānanām—whose face; śyāmām—uncontaminated beauty; nitamba—on whose hips; arpita—placed; ratna—jewel-studded; mekhalām—a belt; vyañjat—budding; stanīm—whose breasts; kuntala—of the locks of her hair; śaṅkita—frightened; ikṣaṇām—whose eyes; śuci—pure; smitām—with a smile; bimba-phala—like a bimba fruit; adhara—of whose lips; dyuti—by the glow; śoṇāyamāna—becoming reddened; dviija—whose teeth; kunda—jasmine;

kuḍmalām—like buds; padā—with her feet; calantīm—walking; kala-haṁsa—like that of a royal swan; gāminīm—whose gait; siñjat—tinkling; kalā—skillfully fashioned; nūpura—of whose ankle bells; dhāma—by the effulgence; śobhinā—beautified; vilokya—seeing; vīrāḥ—the heroes; mumuhuh—became bewildered; samāgatāḥ—assembled; yaśasvinaḥ—respectable; tat—by this; kṛta—generated; hṛt-śaya—by the lust; arditāḥ—distressed; yām—whom; vīkṣya—upon seeing; te—these; nṛ-patayaḥ—kings; tat—her; udāra—broad; hāsa—by the smiles; vṛḍā—of shyness; avaloka—and the glances; hṛta—stolen; cetasaḥ—whose minds; ujjhita—dropping; astrāḥ—their weapons; petuh—they fell; kṣitau—to the ground; gaja—on elephants; ratha—chariots; aśva—and horses; gatāḥ—sitting; vimūḍhāḥ—fainting; yātrā—of the procession; chalena—on the pretext; haraye—to Lord Hari, Kṛṣṇa; arpayatīm—who was offering; sva—her own; śobhām—beauty; sā—she; evam—thus; śanaiḥ—slowly; calayatī—making walk; cala—moving; padma—of lotus flowers; kośau—the two whorls (that is, her feet); prāptim—the arrival; tadā—then; bhagavataḥ—of the Supreme Lord; prasamīkṣamāṇā—eagerly awaiting; utsārya—pushing away; vāma—left; kara-jaiḥ—with the nails of her hand; alakān—her hair; apāṅgaiḥ—with sidelong glances; prāptān—those present; hriyā—with shyness; aikṣata—she looked; nṛpān—at the kings; dadṛśe—she saw; acyutam—Kṛṣṇa; ca—and; tām—her; rāja-kanyām—the King's daughter; ratham—His chariot; ārurukṣatīm—who was ready to mount; jahāra—seized; kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; dviṣatām—His enemies; samīkṣatām—as they looked on.

TRANSLATION

Rukmiṇī appeared as enchanting as the Lord's illusory potency, who enchants even the sober and grave. Thus the kings gazed upon her virgin beauty, her shapely waist, and her lovely face adorned with earrings. Her hips were graced with a jewel-studded belt, her breasts were just budding, and her eyes seemed apprehensive of her encroaching locks of hair. She smiled sweetly, her jasmine-bud teeth reflecting the glow of her bimba-red lips. As she walked with the motions of a royal swan, the effulgence of her tinkling ankle bells beautified her feet. Seeing her, the assembled heroes were totally bewildered. Lust tore at their hearts. Indeed, when the kings saw her broad smile and shy glance, they became stupefied, dropped their weapons and fell unconscious to the ground from their elephants, chariots and horses. On the pretext of the procession, Rukmiṇī displayed her beauty for Kṛṣṇa alone. Slowly she advanced the two moving lotus-whorls of her feet, awaiting the arrival of the Supreme Lord. With the fingernails of her left hand she pushed some strands of hair away from her face and shyly looked from the corners of her eyes at the kings standing before her. At that moment she saw Kṛṣṇa. Then, while His enemies looked on, the Lord seized the princess, who was eager to mount His chariot.

PURPORT

According to Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī, Rukmiṇī was anxious that her locks of hair might impede her vision, since she was most eager to see her beloved Kṛṣṇa. The nondevotees, or demons, are bewildered at seeing the opulences of the Lord and think that His potency is meant for their gross sense gratification. But Rukmiṇī, an expansion of Kṛṣṇa's internal pleasure potency, was meant for the Lord alone.

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī quotes the following verse to describe the kind of woman known as śyāmā:

*śīta-kāle bhaved uṣṇo uṣṇa-kāle tu śītalā
stanau su-kaṭhinau yasyāḥ
sā śyāmā parikīrtitā*

"A woman is called śyāmā when her breasts are very firm and when someone in her presence feels warm in the winter and cool in the summer."

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī further points out that since the beautiful form of Rukmiṇī is a manifestation of the Lord's internal energy, the nondevotees cannot perceive her. Thus the heroic kings assembled in Vidarbha were agitated with lust upon seeing the Lord's illusory potency, an expansion of Rukmiṇī. In other words, no one can lust after the Lord's eternal consort, since as soon as one's mind is contaminated with lust, the covering of Māyā separates one from the pristine beauty of the spiritual world and its inhabitants.

Finally, Śrīmatī Rukmiṇī-devī felt shy as she looked from the corners of her eyes at the other kings, for she did not want to meet the glances of those inferior men.

TEXT 56

रथं समारोप्य सुपर्णलक्षणं
राजन्यचक्रं परिभूय माधवः
ततो ययौ रामपुरोगमः शनैः शृगालमध्यादिव भागहृद्धरिः

ratham samāropya suparṇa-lakṣaṇam rājanya-cakram paribhūya mādhabaḥ tato yayau rāma-purogamaḥ śanaiḥ śṛgāla-madhyād iva bhāga-hṛd dhariḥ

SYNONYMS

ratham—onto His chariot; samāropya—lifting her; suparṇa—Garuḍa; lakṣaṇam—whose mark; rājanya—of kings; cakram—the circle; paribhūya—defeating; mādhabaḥ—Kṛṣṇa; tataḥ—from there; yayau—went; rāma—by Rāma; puraḥ-gamaḥ—preceded; śanaiḥ—slowly; śṛgāla—of jackals; madhyāt—from the midst; iva—as; bhāga—his portion; hṛt—removing; hariḥ—a lion.

TRANSLATION

Lifting the princess onto His chariot, whose flag bore the emblem of Garuḍa, Lord Mādhava drove back the circle of kings. With Balarāma in the lead, He slowly exited, like a lion removing his prey from the midst of jackals.

TEXT 57

तं मानिनः स्वाभिभवं यशःक्षयं
परे जरासन्धमुखा न सेहिरे
अहो धिगस्मान् यश आत्तधन्वनां गोपैर्हतं केशरिणां मृगैरिव

taṁ māninaḥ svābhibhavaṁ yaśaḥ-kṣayaṁ pare jarāsandha-mukhā na sehire aho dhig asmān yaśa ātta-dhanvanām gopair hṛtaṁ keśariṇām mṛgair iva

SYNONYMS

taṁ—that; māninaḥ—conceited; sva—their; abhibhavam—defeat; yaśaḥ—their honor; kṣayaṁ—ruining; pare—the enemies; jarāsandha-mukhāḥ—headed by Jarāsandha; na sehire—could not tolerate; aho—ah; dhik—condemnation; asmān—upon us; yaśaḥ—the honor; ātta-dhanvanām—of the archers; gopaiḥ—by cowherds; hṛtaṁ—taken away; keśariṇām—of lions; mṛgaiḥ—by small animals; iva—as if.

TRANSLATION

The kings inimical to the Lord, headed by Jarāsandha, could not tolerate this humiliating defeat. They exclaimed, "Oh, damn us! Though we are mighty archers, mere cowherds have stolen our honor, just as puny animals might steal the honor of lions!"

PURPORT

From the last two verses of this chapter it is clear that the perverted intelligence of demons makes them perceive things in a way exactly opposite to reality. It is clearly stated that Kṛṣṇa stole Rukmiṇī like a lion taking his prey from the midst of jackals. The demons, however, saw themselves as lions and Lord Kṛṣṇa as an inferior creature. Without Kṛṣṇa consciousness, life becomes most dangerous.

Thus end the purports of the humble servants of His Divine Grace A.C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupāda to the Tenth Canto, Fifty-third Chapter, of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, entitled "Kṛṣṇa Kidnaps Rukmiṇī."

54. The Marriage of Kṛṣṇa and Rukmiṇī

This chapter describes how Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa defeated the opposing kings after kidnapping Rukmiṇī, disfigured Rukmiṇī's brother Rukmī, brought Rukmiṇī to His capital and married her.

As Śrī Kṛṣṇa was taking Princess Rukmiṇī away, the inimical kings gathered their armies and pursued Him. Lord Baladeva and the generals of the Yādava army turned to face these opponents, blocking their advance. The enemy armies then began pouring incessant showers of arrows upon Lord Kṛṣṇa's army. Seeing her husband-to-be's forces under such violent attack, Śrīmatī Rukmiṇī looked at Śrī Kṛṣṇa fearfully. But Kṛṣṇa simply smiled and told her there was nothing to fear because His army would surely destroy the enemy in short order.

Lord Balarāma and the other heroes then began to annihilate the opposing army with nārāca arrows. The enemy kings, headed by Jarāsandha, retreated after suffering the destruction of their armies at the hands of the Yādavas.

Jarāsandha consoled Śiśupāla: "Happiness and distress are never permanent and are under the control of the Supreme Lord. Seventeen times Kṛṣṇa defeated me, but in the end I was victorious over Him. Thus seeing that victory and defeat are under the control of destiny and time, I have learned not to succumb to either lamentation or joy. Time now favors the Yādavas, so they have defeated you with only a small army, but in the future time will favor you, and you will surely conquer them." Consoled in this way, Śiśupāla took his followers and returned to his kingdom.

Rukmiṇī's brother Rukmī, who hated Kṛṣṇa, was infuriated by Kṛṣṇa's kidnapping of his sister. So, after vowing before all the kings present that he would not return to Kuṇḍina until Kṛṣṇa had been destroyed and Rukmiṇī rescued, Rukmī set out with his army to attack the Lord. Ignorant of Lord Kṛṣṇa's glories, Rukmī boldly went out to attack Kṛṣṇa in a lone chariot. He approached the Lord, struck Him with arrows and demanded that He release Rukmiṇī. Śrī Kṛṣṇa fended off Rukmī's weapons, breaking them to pieces. Then He raised His sword high and was about to kill Rukmī when Rukmiṇī interceded and fervently pleaded that her brother's life be spared. Lord Kṛṣṇa did not kill Rukmī, but with His sword He shaved off bits of Rukmī's hair here and there, leaving him disfigured. Just then Lord Baladeva appeared on the scene with the Yādava army. Seeing Rukmī disfigured, He gently reproached Kṛṣṇa: "To disfigure such a close family member is as good as killing him; therefore he should not be killed but set free."

Lord Baladeva then told Rukmiṇī that the sorry condition of her brother was only the fruit of his past work, since everyone is responsible for his own happiness and suffering. He further instructed her about the transcendental position of the jīva soul and how the illusion of happiness and distress is simply a result of ignorance. Accepting Lord Balarāma's instructions, Rukmiṇī gave up her sorrow.

Rukmī, meanwhile, felt totally frustrated, deprived as he was of all his strength and his will to fight. Since he had vowed not to return home without conquering Kṛṣṇa, Rukmī constructed a city on that very spot and took up residence there in a mood of undiminished anger.

Lord Kṛṣṇa took Rukmiṇī to His capital, Dvārakā, and married her. All the citizens celebrated in lavish style, broadcasting throughout the city accounts of how the Lord had kidnapped Rukmiṇī. Everyone in Dvārakā was delighted to see Lord Kṛṣṇa united with Rukmiṇī.

TEXT 1

श्रीशुक उवाच
इति सर्वे सुसंरब्धा
वाहानारुह्य दंशिताः
स्वैः स्वैर्बलैः परिक्रान्ता अन्वीयुर्धृतकामुकाः

śrī-śuka uvāca
iti sarve su-saṁrabdhā
vāhān āruhya daṁśitāḥ svaiḥ svair balaiḥ parikrāntā anvīyur dhr̥ta-kārmukāḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; iti—thus (speaking); sarve—all of them; su-saṁrabdhāḥ—greatly angered; vāhān—their conveyances;

āruhya—mounting; daṁṣitāḥ—wearing armor; svaiḥ svaiḥ—each by his own; balaiḥ—military force; parikrāntāḥ—surrounded; anvīyuḥ—they followed; dhṛta—holding; kārmukāḥ—their bows.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Having thus spoken, all those infuriated kings donned their armor and mounted their conveyances. Each king, bow in hand, was surrounded by his own army as he went after Lord Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 2

तानापतत आलोक्य
यादवानीकयूथपाः
तस्थुस्तत्सम्मखा राजन् विस्फूर्ज्य स्वधनूंषि ते

tān āpatata ālokya
yādavānīka-yūthapāḥ tasthus tat-sammukhā rājan visphūrjya sva-dhanūṁṣi te

SYNONYMS

tān—them; āpatataḥ—in pursuit; ālokya—seeing; yādava-anīka—of the Yādava army; yūtha-paḥ—the officers; tasthuḥ—stood; tat—them; sammukhāḥ—directly facing; rājan—O King (Parikṣit); visphūrjya—twanging; sva—their; dhanūṁṣi—bows; te—they.

TRANSLATION

The commanders of the Yādava army, seeing the enemy racing to attack, turned to face them and stood firm, O King, twanging their bows.

TEXT 3

अश्वपृष्ठे गजस्कन्धे
रथोपस्थेऽस्त्र कोविदाः
मुमुचुः शरवर्षाणि मेघा अद्रिष्वपो यथा

*aśva-prṣṭhe gaja-skandhe rathopasthe 'stra kovidāḥ mumucuḥ śara-varṣāṇi
meghā adriṣv apo yathā*

SYNONYMS

aśva-prṣṭhe—on horseback; gaja—of elephants; skandhe—on the shoulders; ratha—of chariots; upasthe—on the seats; astra—of weapons; kovidāḥ—those expert in the use; mumucuḥ—released; śara—of arrows; varṣāṇi—rains; meghāḥ—clouds; adriṣu—upon mountains; apaḥ—water; yathā—as.

TRANSLATION

Mounted on the backs of horses, the shoulders of elephants and the seats of chariots, the enemy kings, expert with weapons, rained down arrows upon the Yadus like clouds pouring rain on mountains.

TEXT 4

पत्युर्बलं शरासारैश्च
छन्नं वीक्ष्य सुमध्यमा
सव्रीड्मैक्षत्तद्वक्त्रं भयविह्वललोचना

*patyur balaṁ śarāsāraiś channaṁ vīkṣya su-madhyamā sa-vrīḍm aikṣat tad-vaktraṁ
bhaya-vihvala-locanā*

SYNONYMS

patyuḥ—of her Lord; balam—the army; śara—of arrows; āsāraiḥ—by heavy rains; channam—covered; vīkṣya—seeing; su-madhyamā—slender-waisted (Rukmiṇī); sa-vrīḍam—shyly; aikṣat—looked; tat—His; vaktram—at the face; bhaya—with fear; vihvala—disturbed; locanā—whose eyes.

TRANSLATION

Slender-waisted Rukmiṇī, seeing her Lord's army covered by torrents of arrows, shyly looked at His face with fear-stricken eyes.

TEXT 5

प्रहस्य भगवानाह
मा स्म भैर्वामलोचने
विनङ्ग्यत्यधुनैवैतत् तावकैः शात्रवं बलम्

*prahasya bhagavān āha
mā sma bhair vāma-locane vināṅkṣyaty adhunaivaitat tāvakaiḥ śātravaṁ balam*

SYNONYMS

prahasya—laughing; bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; āha—said; mā sma bhaiḥ—do not be afraid; vāma-locane—O beautiful-eyed one; vināṅkṣyati—will be destroyed; adhunā eva—just now; etat—this; tāvakaiḥ—by your (army); śātravam—of enemies; balam—force.

TRANSLATION

In response the Lord laughed and assured her, "Do not be afraid, beautiful-eyed one. This enemy force is about to be destroyed by your soldiers."

PURPORT

To express His great affection for Rukmiṇī, Lord Kṛṣṇa gallantly referred to His own Yādava army as "your men," indicating that the Lord's entire dynasty was now the property of His beloved queen. The Supreme Lord, Kṛṣṇa, desires to share His blissful opulences with all living beings, and thus He sincerely invites them to come back home, back to Godhead. The Kṛṣṇa consciousness movement, introduced throughout the world by Śrīla Prabhupāda on the order of his spiritual master, Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura, who himself preached all over India on the order of his exalted father, Śrīla Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, is broadcasting the loving message of Lord Kṛṣṇa: Remember Him, serve Him, return to Him and share in the infinite bounty of the kingdom of God.

TEXT 6

तेषां तद्विक्रमं वीरा
गदसङ्कर्षणादयः
अमृष्यमाणा नाराचैर् जघ्नुर्हयगजान् रथान्

*teṣāṁ tad-vikramam vīrā gada-saṅkarṣanādayaḥ amṛṣyamāṇā nārācāir
jaghnur haya-gajān rathān*

SYNONYMS

teṣāṁ—by them (the opposing kings); tat—that; vikramam—show of prowess; vīrāḥ—the heroes; gada—Gada, the younger brother of Lord Kṛṣṇa; saṅkarṣaṇa—Lord Balarāma; ādayaḥ—and others; amṛṣyamāṇāḥ—not tolerating; nārācāiḥ—with arrows made of iron; jaghnuḥ—they struck; haya—horses; gajān—elephants; rathān—and chariots.

TRANSLATION

The heroes of the Lord's army, headed by Gada and Saṅkarṣaṇa, could not tolerate the aggression of the opposing kings. Thus with iron arrows they began to strike down the enemy's horses, elephants and chariots.

TEXT 7

पेतुः शिरांसि रथिनाम्
अश्विनां गजिनां भुवि
सकुण्डलकिरीटानि

सोष्णीषाणि च कोटिशः

*petuḥ śirāṃsi rathinām aśvinām gajinām bhuvi sa-kunḍala-kirītāni
soṣṇīṣāṇi ca koṭīśaḥ*

SYNONYMS

petuḥ—fell; śirāṃsi—the heads; rathinām—of those riding on chariots; aśvinām—of those riding horses; gajinām—of those riding elephants; bhuvi—to the ground; sa—with; kunḍala—earrings; kirītāni—and helmets; sa—with; uṣṇīṣāṇi—turbans; ca—and; koṭīśaḥ—by the millions.

TRANSLATION

The heads of soldiers fighting on chariots, horses and elephants fell to the ground by the millions; some heads wore earrings and helmets, others turbans.

TEXT 8

हस्ताः सासिगदेष्वासाः
करभा ऊरवोऽङ्घ्रयः
अश्वाश्चतरनागोष्ट्र-खरमर्त्यशिरांसि च

*hastāḥ sāsi-gadeṣv-āsāḥ
karabhā ūravo 'ngḥrayaḥ aśvāśvatara-nāgoṣṭra-khara-martya-śirāṃsi ca*

SYNONYMS

hastāḥ—hands; sa—with; asi—swords; gadā—clubs; iṣu-āsāḥ—bows; karabhāḥ—fingerless hands; ūravaḥ—thighs; aṅghrayaḥ—legs; aśva—of horses; aśvatara—donkeys; nāga—elephants; uṣṭra—camels; khara—wild asses; martya—and humans; śīrāṁsi—heads; ca—also.

TRANSLATION

Lying all around were thighs, legs and fingerless hands, along with hands clutching swords, clubs and bows, and also the heads of horses, donkeys, elephants, camels, wild asses and humans.

PURPORT

Karabhāḥ indicates the portion of the hand from the wrist to the base of the fingers. The same word may also indicate an elephant's trunk, and thus in this verse the implication is that the thighs lying on the battlefield resembled the trunks of elephants.

TEXT 9

हन्यमानबलानीका
वृष्णिभिर्जयकाङ्क्षिभिः
राजानो विमुखा जग्मुर् जरासन्धपुरःसराः

hanyamāna-balānīkā
vṛṣṇibhir jaya-kāṅkṣibhiḥ rājāno vimukhā jagmur

jarāsandha-puraḥ-sarāḥ

SYNONYMS

hanyamāna—being killed; bala-anīkāḥ—whose armies; vṛṣṇibhiḥ—by the Vṛṣṇis; jaya—for victory; kāṅkṣibhiḥ—who were eager; rājānaḥ—the kings; vimukhāḥ—discouraged; jagmuḥ—left; jarāsandha-puraḥ-sarāḥ—headed by Jarāsandha.

TRANSLATION

Seeing their armies being struck down by the Vṛṣṇis, who were eager for victory, the kings headed by Jarāsandha were discouraged and left the battlefield.

TEXT 10

शिशुपालं समभ्येत्य
हृतदारमिवातुरम्
नष्टत्विषं गतोत्साहं शुष्यद्वदनमब्रुवन्

śiśupālam samabhyetya
hṛta-dāram ivāturam
naṣṭa-tviṣam gatotsāham
śuṣyad-vadanam abruvan

SYNONYMS

śiśupālam—Śiśupāla; samabhyetya—approaching; hṛta—stolen; dāram—whose wife; iva—as if; āturam—perturbed; naṣṭa—lost; tviṣam—whose color;

gata—gone; utsāham—whose enthusiasm; śuṣyat—dried up; vadanam—whose face; abruvan—they addressed.

TRANSLATION

The kings approached Śiśupāla, who was disturbed like a man who has lost his wife. His complexion was drained of color, his enthusiasm was gone, and his face appeared dried up. The kings spoke to him as follows.

PURPORT

Although Śiśupāla had not married Rukmiṇī, he passionately considered her his property, and thus he was devastated, like a man who has lost his beloved wife.

TEXT 11

भो भोः पुरुषशार्दूल
दौर्मनस्यमिदं त्यज
न प्रियाप्रिययो राजन्
निष्ठा देहिषु दृश्यते

bho bhoḥ puruṣa-śārdūla daurmanasyam idaṁ tyaja na priyāpriyayo rājan
niṣṭhā dehiṣu dṛśyate

SYNONYMS

bhoḥ bhoḥ—O sir; puruṣa—among men; śārdūla—O tiger;
daurmana-syam—depressed state of mind; idaṁ—this; tyaja—give up; na—no;

priya—of the desirable; apriyayoḥ—or the undesirable; rājan—O King; niṣṭhā—permanence; dehiṣu—among embodied beings; dṛśyate—is seen.

TRANSLATION

[Jarāsandha said:] Listen, Śiśupāla, O tiger among men, give up your depression. After all, embodied beings' happiness and unhappiness is never seen to be permanent, O King.

TEXT 12

यथा दारुमयी योषित्
नृत्यते कुहकेच्छया
एवमीश्वरतन्त्रोऽयम् ईहते सुखदुःखयोः

yathā dāru-mayī yoṣit
nṛtyate kuhakeccchayā evam īśvara-tantro 'yam
īhate sukha-duḥkhayoḥ

SYNONYMS

yathā—as; dāru-mayī—made of wood; yoṣit—a woman; nṛtyate—dances; kuhaka—of the showman; icchayā—by the desire; evam—in the same way; īśvara—of the Supreme Lord; tantraḥ—under the control; ayam—this world; īhate—endeavors; sukha—in joy; duḥkhayoḥ—and misery.

TRANSLATION

Just as a puppet in the form of a woman dances by the desire of the puppeteer, so this world, controlled by the Supreme Lord, struggles in both happiness and misery.

PURPORT

By the will of the Supreme Lord, living beings are awarded the proper results of their own activities. One who understands the Absolute Truth surrenders to the Absolute Truth, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, and is no longer considered to be within the material system of existence. Since those endeavoring within the material system, or world, are necessarily trying to exploit the creation of God, they must be subjected to reactions, which are perceived by the conditioned souls as miserable and joyful. In fact, the entire material way of life is a fiasco when seen from the perspective of absolute bliss.

TEXT 13

शौरेः सप्तदशाहं वै
संयुगानि पराजितः
त्रयोविंशतिभिः सैन्यैर् जिग्ये एकमहं परम्

śaureḥ sapta-daśāham vai saṁyugāni parājitaḥ trayo-vimśatibhiḥ sainyair jigye ekam aham param

SYNONYMS

śaureḥ—with Kṛṣṇa; sapta-daśa—seventeen; aham—I; vai—indeed; saṁyugāni—battles; parājitaḥ—lost; trayaḥ-vimśatibhiḥ—twenty-three;

sainyaiḥ—with armies; jigye—won; ekam—one; aham—I; param—only.

TRANSLATION

In battle with Kṛṣṇa I and my twenty-three armies lost seventeen times;
only once did I defeat Him.

PURPORT

Jarāsandha offers his own life as an example of the inevitable happiness and distress of this material world.

TEXT 14

तथाप्यहं न शोचामि
न प्रहृष्यामि कर्हिचित्
कालेन दैवयुक्तेन
जानन् विद्रावितं जगत्

tathāpy ahaṁ na śocāmi
na prahṛṣyāmi karhicit kālena daiva-yuktena
jānan vidrāvitam jagat

SYNONYMS

tathā api—nonetheless; aham—I; na śocāmi—do not lament; na prahṛṣyāmi—do not rejoice; karhicit—ever; kālena—by time; daiva—with fate; yuktena—conjoined; jānan—knowing; vidrāvitam—driven; jagat—the world.

TRANSLATION

But still I never lament or rejoice, because I know this world is driven by time and fate.

PURPORT

Having stated that the Supreme Lord controls this world, Jarāsandha explains the specific method of control. It should be remembered that in the Vedic context kāla, or time, does not refer merely to a system of measuring planetary movements such as days, weeks, months and years but rather to the way things are being moved. Everything is moving according to its destiny, and this destiny is also described as "time," since everyone's destiny is revealed and imposed by the movements of time.

TEXT 15

अधुनापि वयं सर्वे
वीरयूथपयूथपाः
पराजिताः फल्गुतन्त्रैर् यदुभिः कृष्णपालितैः

*adhunāpi vayaṁ sarve
vīra-yūthapa-yūthapāḥ parājitāḥ phalgu-tantrair
yadubhiḥ kṛṣṇa-pālitaiḥ*

SYNONYMS

adhunā—now; api—even; vayaṁ—we; sarve—all; vīra—of heroes;

yūtha-pa—of the leaders; yūtha-pāḥ—the leaders; parājitāḥ—defeated; phalgu—meager; tantraiḥ—whose entourage; yadubhiḥ—by the Yadus; kṛṣṇa-pālitaiḥ—protected by Kṛṣṇa.

TRANSLATION

And now all of us, great commanders of military leaders, have been defeated by the Yadus and their small entourage, who are protected by Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 16

रिपवो जिग्युरधुना
काल आत्मानुसारिणि
तदा वयं विजेष्यामो यदा कालः प्रदक्षिणः

ripavo jigyur adhunā
kāla ātmānusāriṇi
tadā vyaṁ vijeṣyāmo
yadā kālaḥ pradakṣiṇaḥ

SYNONYMS

ripavaḥ—our enemies; jigyuh—have conquered; adhunā—now; kāle—the time; ātma—them; anusāriṇi—favoring; tadā—then; vayam—we; vijeṣyāmaḥ—shall conquer; yadā—when; kālaḥ—time; pradakṣiṇaḥ—turned toward us.

TRANSLATION

Now our enemies have conquered because time favors them, but in the future, when time is auspicious for us, we shall conquer.

TEXT 17

श्रीशुक उवाच
एवं प्रबोधितो मित्रैश्च
चैद्योऽगात्सानुगः पुरम् हतशेषाः पुनस्तेऽपि

śrī-śuka uvāca
evam prabodhito mitraiś caidyō 'gāt sānugaḥ puram hata-śeṣāḥ punas te 'pi yayuhḥ svam svam puram nṛpāḥ

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; evam—thus; prabodhitaḥ—persuaded; mitraiḥ—by his friends; caidyāḥ—Śiśupāla; agāt—went; sa-anugaḥ—with his followers; puram—to his city; hata—from the killed; śeṣāḥ—who remained; punaḥ—again; te—they; api—also; yayuhḥ—went; svam svam—each to his own; puram—city; nṛpāḥ—kings.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Thus persuaded by his friends, Śiśupāla took his followers and went back to his capital. The surviving warriors also returned to their respective cities.

TEXT 18

रुक्मी तु राक्षसोद्वाहं
कृष्णद्विडसहन् स्वसुः
पृष्ठतोऽन्वगमत्कृष्णम् अक्षौहिण्या वृतो बली

*rukmi tu rākṣasodvāham
kṛṣṇa-dviḍ asahan svasuḥ pṛṣṭhato 'nvagamat kṛṣṇam akṣauhiṇyā vṛto balī*

SYNONYMS

rukmi—Rukmī; tu—however; rākṣasa—in the style of demons; udvāham—the marriage; kṛṣṇa-dviḍ—the hater of Kṛṣṇa; asahan—unable to bear; svasuḥ—of his sister; pṛṣṭhataḥ—from behind; anvagamat—he followed; kṛṣṇam—Lord Kṛṣṇa; akṣauhiṇyā—by an entire akṣauhiṇī division; vṛtaḥ—surrounded; balī—powerful.

TRANSLATION

Powerful Rukmī, however, was especially envious of Kṛṣṇa. He could not bear the fact that Kṛṣṇa had carried off his sister to marry her in the Rākṣasa style. Thus he pursued the Lord with an entire military division.

TEXTS 19-20

रुक्म्यमर्षी सुसंरब्धः
शृण्वतां सर्वभूभुजाम्

प्रतिजज्ञे महाबाहुर
दंशितः सशरासनः

अहत्वा समरे कृष्णम्
अप्रत्यूह्य च रुक्मिणीम्
कुण्डिनं न प्रवेक्ष्यामि सत्यमेतद् ब्रवीमि वः

rukmy amarṣī su-saṁrabdhaḥ śṛṇvatām sarva-bhūbhujām pratijajñe mahā-bāhur daṁśitaḥ sa-śarāsanaḥ ahatvā samare kṛṣṇam apratyūhya ca rukmiṇīm kuṇḍinaṁ na pravekṣyāmi satyam etad bravīmi vaḥ

SYNONYMS

rukmi—Rukmī; amarṣī—intolerant; su-saṁrabdhaḥ—extremely angry; śṛṇvatām—while they listened; sarva—all; bhū-bhujām—the kings; pratijajñe—he swore; mahā-bāhuḥ—mighty-armed; daṁśitaḥ—wearing his armor; sa-śarāsanaḥ—with his bow; ahatvā—without killing; samare—in battle; kṛṣṇam—Kṛṣṇa; apratyūhya—without bringing back; ca—and; rukmiṇīm—Rukmiṇī; kuṇḍinaṁ—the city of Kuṇḍina; na pravekṣyāmi—I shall not enter; satyam—in truth; etat—this; bravīmi—I say; vaḥ—to all of you.

TRANSLATION

Frustrated and enraged, mighty-armed Rukmī, dressed in armor and wielding his bow, had sworn before all the kings, "I shall not again enter Kuṇḍina if I do not kill Kṛṣṇa in battle and bring Rukmiṇī back with me. I swear this to you."

PURPORT

Rukmī spoke these angry words and then set off to pursue Lord Kṛṣṇa, as described in the following verses.

TEXT 21

इत्युक्त्वा रथमारुह्य
सारथिं प्राह सत्वरः
चोदयाध्वान् यतः कृष्णः तस्य मे संयुगं भवेत्

*ity uktvā ratham āruhya sārathim prāha satvaraḥ codayāśvān yataḥ kṛṣṇaḥ
tasya me saṁyugam bhavet*

SYNONYMS

iti—thus; uktvā—speaking; ratham—on his chariot; āruhya—climbing; sārathim—to his driver; prāha—said; satvaraḥ—quickly; codaya—drive; aśvān—the horses; yataḥ—to where; kṛṣṇaḥ—Kṛṣṇa; tasya—His; me—with me; saṁyugam—fight; bhavet—must be.

TRANSLATION

Having said this, he had mounted his chariot and told his charioteer, "Drive the horses quickly to where Kṛṣṇa is. He and I must fight.

TEXT 22

अद्याहं निशितैर्बाणैर्
गोपालस्य सुदुर्मतेः
नेष्ये वीर्यमदं येन
स्वसा मे प्रसभं हता

*adyāhaṁ niśitair bāṇair gopālasya su-durmateḥ neṣye vīrya-madam yena
svasā me prasabhaṁ hṛtā*

SYNONYMS

adya—today; aham—I; niśitaiḥ—sharp; bāṇaiḥ—with my arrows; gopālasya—of the cowherd; su-durmateḥ—whose mentality is most wicked; neṣye—I will remove; vīrya—in His power; madam—the intoxicated pride; yena—by which; svasā—sister; me—my; prasabham—violently; hṛtā—abducted.

TRANSLATION

"This wicked-minded cowherd boy, infatuated with His prowess, has violently abducted my sister. But today I will remove His pride with my sharp arrows."

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī explains that gopālasya actually means "of the protector of the Vedas,"while durmateḥ means "of Him whose beautiful mind is compassionate even toward the wicked." Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī adds that the real meaning of what Rukmī said is that today, fighting with Lord Kṛṣṇa, Rukmī would relieve himself of his pretensions to being a great hero.

TEXT 23

विकत्थमानः कुमतिर्
ईश्वरस्याप्रमाणवित्
रथेनैकेन गोविन्दं
तिष्ठ तिष्ठेत्यथाह्वयत्

*vikatthamānaḥ kumatir īśvarasyāpramāṇa-vit rathenaikena govindam
tiṣṭha tiṣṭhety athāhvayat*

SYNONYMS

vikatthamānaḥ—boasting; ku-matiḥ—foolish; īśvarasya—of the Supreme Lord; apramāṇa-vit—not knowing the dimensions; rathena ekena—with a single chariot; govindam—to Lord Kṛṣṇa; tiṣṭha tiṣṭha—stand and fight; iti—so saying; atha—then; āhvayat—he called.

TRANSLATION

Boasting thus, foolish Rukmī, ignorant of the true extent of the Supreme Lord's power, approached Lord Govinda in his lone chariot and challenged Him, "Just stand and fight!"

PURPORT

It appears from these verses that though Rukmī set out with an entire military division, he personally rushed up to Lord Kṛṣṇa to fight with Him.

TEXT 24

धनुर्विकृष्य सुदृढं
जघ्ने कृष्णं त्रिभिः शरैः
आह चात्र क्षणं तिष्ठ यदूनां कुलपांसन

dhanur vikṛṣya su-dṛḍham jaghne kṛṣṇam tribhiḥ śaraiḥ āha cātra kṣaṇam tiṣṭha yadūnām kula-pāṁsana

SYNONYMS

dhanuḥ—his bow; vikṛṣya—drawing; su—very; dṛḍham—firmly; jaghne—he struck; kṛṣṇam—Lord Kṛṣṇa; tribhiḥ—with three; śaraiḥ—arrows; āha—he said; ca—and; atra—here; kṣaṇam—a moment; tiṣṭha—stand; yadūnām—of the Yadus; kula—of the dynasty; pāṁsana—O corrupter.

TRANSLATION

Rukmī drew his bow with great strength and struck Lord Kṛṣṇa with three arrows. Then he said, "Stand here for a moment, O defiler of the Yadu dynasty!"

PURPORT

Śrīla Śrīdhara Svāmī points out that kula-pāmsana may be understood as a combination of the words kula-pa, "O master of the Yadu dynasty," and amsana, "O expert killer of enemies." The ācārya gives the grammatical details that make this interpretation possible.

TEXT 25

यत्र यासि स्वसारं मे
मुषित्वा ध्वाङ्क्षवद्धविः
हरिष्येऽद्य मदं मन्द मायिनः कूटयोधिनः

yatra yāsi svasāram me muṣitvā dhvāṅkṣa-vad dhaviḥ hariṣye 'dya madam manda māyinaḥ kūṭa-yodhinaḥ

SYNONYMS

yatra—wherever; yāsi—You go; svasāram—sister; me—my; muṣitvā—having stolen; dhvāṅkṣa-vat—like a crow; dhaviḥ—the sacrificial butter; hariṣye—I will remove; adya—today; madam—Your false pride; manda—You fool; māyinaḥ—of the deceiver; kūṭa—cheating; yodhinaḥ—of the fighter.

TRANSLATION

"Wherever You go, carrying off my sister like a crow stealing sacrificial butter, I will follow. This very day I shall relieve You of Your false pride, You fool, You deceiver, You cheater in battle!

PURPORT

In his hysterical attack, Rukmī displays the very qualities he attributes to Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Every living being is part and parcel of the Lord and belongs to the Lord. Therefore Rukmī was like a crow trying to steal the sacrificial offering meant for the enjoyment of the Lord.

TEXT 26

यावन्न मे हतो बाणैः
शयीथा मुञ्च दारीकाम्
स्मयन् कृष्णो धनुश्छित्त्वा षड्भिर्विव्याध रुक्मिणम्

*yāvan na me hato bāṇaiḥ
śayīthā muñca dārikām
smayan kṛṣṇo dhanuś chittvā ṣaḍbhir vivyādha rukmiṇam*

SYNONYMS

yāvat—while; na—not; me—my; hataḥ—killed; bāṇaiḥ—by the arrows; śayīthaḥ—you lie down; muñca—release; dārikām—the girl; smayan—smiling; kṛṣṇaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; dhanuḥ—his bow; chittvā—breaking; ṣaḍbhiḥ—with six (arrows); vivyādha—pierced; rukmiṇam—Rukmī.

TRANSLATION

"Release the girl before You are struck dead by my arrows and made to lie down!" In response to this, Lord Kṛṣṇa smiled, and with six arrows He struck Rukmī and broke his bow.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī points out that in fact Lord Kṛṣṇa was meant to lie down together with Rukmīṇī on a beautiful bed of flowers, but out of shyness Rukmī did not directly mention this point.

TEXT 27

अष्टभिश्चतुरो वाहान्
द्वाभ्यां सूतं ध्वजं त्रिभिः स चान्यद्वनुराधाय कृष्णं विव्याध पञ्चभिः

aṣṭabhiḥ caturo vāhān dvābhyām sūtaṁ dhvajam tribhiḥ sa cānyad dhanur ādhāya kṛṣṇaṁ vivyādha pañcabhiḥ

SYNONYMS

aṣṭabhiḥ—with eight (arrows); caturaḥ—the four; vāhān—horses; dvābhyām—with two; sūtaṁ—the chariot driver; dhvajam—the flagpole; tribhiḥ—with three; saḥ—he, Rukmī; ca—and; anyat—another; dhanuḥ—bow; ādhāya—taking up; kṛṣṇam—Kṛṣṇa; vivyādha—pierced; pañcabhiḥ—with five.

TRANSLATION

The Lord struck Rukmī's four horses with eight arrows, his chariot driver with two, and the chariot's flag with three. Rukmī grabbed another bow and struck Lord Kṛṣṇa with five arrows.

TEXT 28

तैस्तादितः शरौघैस्तु
चिच्छेद धनुरच्युतः
पुनरन्यदुपादत्त तदप्यच्छिनदव्ययः

*tais tāditaḥ śaraughais tu ciccheda dhanur acyutaḥ punar anyad upādatta
tad apy acchinad avyayaḥ*

SYNONYMS

taiḥ—by these; tāditaḥ—struck; śara—of arrows; oghaiḥ—floods; tu—although; ciccheda—broke; dhanuḥ—(Rukmī's) bow; acyutaḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa; punaḥ—again; anyat—another; upādatta—he (Rukmī) picked up; tat—that; api—also; acchinat—broke; avyayaḥ—the infallible Lord.

TRANSLATION

Although hit by these many arrows, Lord Acyuta again broke Rukmī's bow. Rukmī picked up yet another bow, but the infallible Lord broke that one to pieces as well.

TEXT 29

परिघं पट्टिशं शूलं
चर्मासी शक्तितोमरौ
यद्यदायुधमादत्त तत्सर्वं सोऽच्छिनद्धरिः

pariḥam paṭṭiśam śūlam carmāsī śakti-tomaraṁ yad yad āyudham ādatta tat sarvaṁ so 'cchinad dhariḥ

SYNONYMS

pariḥam—spiked iron bludgeon; paṭṭiśam—three-pointed spear; śūlam—lance; carma-asī—shield and sword; śakti—pike; tomaraṁ—javelin; yad yad—whatever; āyudham—weapon; ādatta—he took up; tat sarvaṁ—all of them; saḥ—He; acchinat—broke; hariḥ—Lord Kṛṣṇa.

TRANSLATION

Iron bludgeon, three-pointed spear, sword and shield, pike, javelin—whatever weapon Rukmī picked up, Lord Hari smashed it to bits.

TEXT 30

ततो रथादवप्लुत्य
खड्गपाणिर्जिघांसया
कृष्णमभ्यद्रवत्क्रुद्धः पतङ्ग इव पावकम्

*tato rathād avaplutya
khaḍga-pāṇir jighāṁsayā kṛṣṇam abhyadravat kruddhaḥ pataṅga iva pāvakam*

SYNONYMS

tataḥ—then; rathāt—from his chariot; avaplutya—leaping down; khaḍga—a sword; pāṇiḥ—in his hand; jighāṁsayā—with the desire to kill; kṛṣṇam—Lord Kṛṣṇa; abhyadravat—he ran toward; kruddhaḥ—furious; pataṅgaḥ—a bird; iva—as; pāvakam—the wind.

TRANSLATION

Then Rukmī leaped down from his chariot and, sword in hand, rushed furiously toward Kṛṣṇa to kill Him, like a bird flying into the wind.

TEXT 31

तस्य चापततः खड्गं
तिलशश्चर्म चेषुभिः
छित्त्वासिमाददे तिग्मं रुक्मिणं हन्तुमुद्यतः

*tasya cāpatataḥ khaḍgaṁ tilaśaś carma ceṣubhiḥ chittvāsim ādade tigmaṁ
rukmiṇaṁ hantum udyataḥ*

SYNONYMS

tasya—of him; ca—and; āpatataḥ—who was attacking; khadgam—the sword; tilaśaḥ—into small pieces; carma—the shield; ca—and; iṣubhiḥ—with His arrows; chittvā—breaking; asim—His sword; ādade—He took; tigmam—sharp; rukmiṇam—Rukmī; hantum—to kill; udyataḥ—prepared.

TRANSLATION

As Rukmī attacked Him, the Lord shot arrows that broke Rukmī's sword and shield into small pieces. Kṛṣṇa then took up His own sharp sword and prepared to kill Rukmī.

TEXT 32

दृष्ट्वा भ्रातृवधोद्योगं
रुक्मिणी भयविह्वला
पतित्वा पादयोर्भर्तुर् उवाच करुणं सती

dṛṣṭvā bhrātr-vadhodyogam rukmiṇī bhaya-vihvalā patitvā pādayor bhartur
uvāca karuṇam satī

SYNONYMS

dṛṣṭvā—seeing; bhrātr—her brother; vadha—to kill; udyogam—the attempt; rukmiṇī—Śrīmatī Rukmiṇī; bhaya—by fear; vihvalā—agitated; patitvā—falling; pādayoḥ—at the feet; bhartuḥ—of her husband; uvāca—spoke; karuṇam—pathetically; satī—saintly.

TRANSLATION

Seeing Lord Kṛṣṇa ready to kill her brother, saintly Rukmiṇī was filled with alarm. She fell at her husband's feet and piteously spoke as follows.

TEXT 33

श्रीरुक्मिण्युवाच
योगेश्वराप्रमेयात्मन्
देवदेव जगत्पते
हन्तुं नार्हसि कल्याण भ्रातरं मे महाभुज

śrī-rukmiṇy uvāca
yogeśvarāprameyātman
deva-deva jagat-pate hantum nārhasi kalyāṇa bhrātaram me mahā-bhuja

SYNONYMS

śrī-rukmiṇī uvāca—Śrī Rukmiṇī said; yoga-īśvara—O controller of all mystic power; aprameya-ātman—O immeasurable one; deva-deva—O Lord of lords; jagat-pate—O master of the universe; hantum na arhasi—please do not kill; kalyāṇa—O all auspicious one; bhrātaram—brother; me—my; mahā-bhuja—O mighty-armed one.

TRANSLATION

Śrī Rukmiṇī said: O controller of all mystic power, immeasurable one, Lord of lords, master of the universe! O all auspicious and mighty-armed one, please do not kill my brother!

TEXT 34

श्रीशुक उवाच
तया परित्रासविकम्पिताङ्गया
शुचावशुष्यन्मुखरुद्धकण्ठया
कातर्यविस्रंसितहेममालया गृहीतपादः करुणो न्यवर्तत

śrī-śuka uvāca
tayā paritrāsa-vikampitāṅgayā śucāvaśuṣyan-mukha-ruddha-kaṇṭhayā kātarya-visraṁsita-hema-mālayā grhīta-pādaḥ karuṇo nyavartata

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; tayā—by her; paritrāsa—in total fear; vikampita—trembling; aṅgayā—whose limbs; śucā—out of sorrow; avaśuṣyat—drying up; mukha—whose mouth; ruddha—and choked; kaṇṭhayā—whose throat; kātarya—in her agitation; visraṁsita—disheveled; hema—golden; mālayā—whose necklace; grhīta—held; pādaḥ—His feet; karuṇaḥ—compassionate; nyavartata—He desisted.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Rukmiṇī's utter fear caused her limbs to tremble and her mouth to dry up, while her throat choked up out of sorrow. And in her agitation her golden necklace scattered. She grasped Kṛṣṇa's feet, and the Lord, feeling compassionate, desisted.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī quotes the "worldly rule" that one's sister is the personification of mercy: dayāyā bhaginī mūrtiḥ. Even though Rukmī was wicked and was opposed to his sister's best interest, Rukmiṇī was compassionate toward him, and the Lord shared her compassion.

TEXT 35

चैलेन बद्ध्वा तमसाधुकारीणं
सश्मश्रुकेशं प्रवपन् व्यरूपयत्
तावन्ममर्दुः परसैन्यमद्भुतं यदुप्रवीरा नलिनीं यथा गजाः

cailena baddhvā tam asādhū-kārīṇaṁ sa-śmaśru-keśaṁ pravapaṇ vyarūpayat tāvaṇ mamarduḥ para-sainyam adbhutaṁ yadu-pravīrā nalinīm yathā gajāḥ

SYNONYMS

cailena—with a strip of cloth; baddhvā—tying up; tam—him; asādhū-kārīṇaṁ—the evil-doer; sa-śmaśru-keśaṁ—leaving some of his mustache and hair remaining; pravapaṇ—by shaving him; vyarūpayat—made him disfigured; tāvat—by then; mamarduḥ—they had crushed; para—opposing; sainyam—the army; adbhutam—extraordinary; yadu-pravīrāḥ—the heroes of the Yadu dynasty; naliniṁ—a lotus flower;

yathā—as; gajāḥ—elephants.

TRANSLATION

Lord Kṛṣṇa tied up the evil-doer with a strip of cloth. He then proceeded to disfigure Rukmī by comically shaving him, leaving parts of his mustache and hair. By that time the Yadu heroes had crushed the extraordinary army of their opponents, just as elephants crush a lotus flower.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa used His same sharp sword to give the wicked Rukmī a peculiar haircut.

TEXT 36

कृष्णान्तिकमुपव्रज्य
ददृशुस्तत्र रुक्मिणम्
तथाभूतं हतप्रायं
दृष्ट्वा सङ्कर्षणो विभुः
विमुच्य बद्धं करुणो भगवान् कृष्णमब्रवीत्

*kṛṣṇāntikam upavrajya dadṛśus tatra rukmiṇam tathā-bhūtaṁ hata-prāyaṁ dṛṣṭvā saṅkarṣaṇo vibhuḥ vimucya baddhaṁ karuṇo
bhagavān kṛṣṇam abravīt*

SYNONYMS

kṛṣṇa—of Kṛṣṇa; antikam—the proximity; upavrajya—approaching; dadṛśuḥ—they (the Yadu soldiers) saw; tatra—there; rukmiṇam—Rukmī; tathā-bhūtam—in such a condition; hata—dead; prāyam—practically; dṛṣṭvā—seeing; saṅkarṣaṇaḥ—Balarāma; vibhuḥ—the omnipotent; vimucya—releasing; baddham—the bound-up (Rukmī); karuṇaḥ—compassionate; bhagavān—the Lord; kṛṣṇam—to Kṛṣṇa; abravīt—said.

TRANSLATION

As the Yadus approached Lord Kṛṣṇa, they saw Rukmī in this sorry condition, practically dying of shame. When the all-powerful Lord Balarāma saw Rukmī, He compassionately released him and spoke the following to Lord Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 37

असाध्विदं त्वया कृष्ण
कृतमस्मज्जुगुप्सितम्
वपनं श्मश्रुकेशानां
वैरूप्यं सुहृदो वधः

*asādhv idaṁ tvayā kṛṣṇa
kṛtam asmaj-jugupsitam vapanaṁ śmaśru-keśānām
vairūpyaṁ suhṛdo vadhaḥ*

SYNONYMS

asādhū—improperly; idam—this; tvayā—by You; kṛṣṇa—O Kṛṣṇa; kṛtam—done; asmat—for Us; jugupsitam—terrible; vāpanam—the shaving; śmaśru-keśānām—of his mustache and hair; vairūpyam—the disfigurement; suhṛdah—of a family member; vadhah—death.

TRANSLATION

[Lord Balarāma said:] My dear Kṛṣṇa, You have acted improperly! This deed will bring shame on Us, for to disfigure a close relative by shaving off his mustache and hair is as good as killing him.

PURPORT

Omniscient Balarāma knew that Rukmī was the guilty party, but to encourage the lamenting Rukmiṇī He decided to gently reproach Śrī Kṛṣṇa

TEXT 38

मैवास्मान् साध्व्यसूयेथा
भ्रातुर्वैरूप्यचिन्तया
सुखदुःखदो न चान्योऽस्ति यतः स्वकृतभुक्पुमान्

maivāsmān sādhy asūyethā
bhrātur vairūpya-cintayā sukha-duḥkha-do na cānyo 'sti yataḥ sva-kṛta-bhuk pumān

SYNONYMS

mā—please do not; eva—indeed; asmān—toward Us; sādhvi—O saintly lady; asūyethāḥ—feel inimical; bhrātuḥ—of your brother; vairūpya—over the disfigurement; cintayā—out of concern; sukha—of happiness; duḥkha—and unhappiness; daḥ—bestower; na—not; ca—and; anyaḥ—anyone else; asti—there is; yataḥ—since; sva—of his own; kṛta—action; bhuk—the sufferer of the reaction; pumān—a man.

TRANSLATION

Saintly lady, please do not be displeased with Us out of anxiety for your brother's disfigurement. No one but oneself is responsible for one's joy and grief, for a man experiences the result of his own deeds.

TEXT 39

बन्धुर्वधार्हदोषोऽपि
न बन्धोर्वधमर्हति
त्याज्यः स्वेनैव दोषेण हतः किं हन्यते पुनः

bandhur vadhārha-doṣo 'pi na bandhor vadham arhati tyājyaḥ svenaiva doṣeṇa
hataḥ kiṁ hanyate punaḥ

SYNONYMS

bandhuḥ—a relative; vadha—being killed; arha—which merits; doṣaḥ—whose wrong-doing; api—even though; na—not; bandhoḥ—from a relative; vadham—being killed; arhati—deserves; tyājyaḥ—to be cast out; svena eva—by his own; doṣeṇa—fault; hataḥ—killed; kim—why; hanyate—is to be killed; punaḥ—again.

TRANSLATION

[Again addressing Kṛṣṇa, Balarāma said:] A relative should not be killed even if his wrongdoing warrants capital punishment. Rather, he should be thrown out of the family. Since he has already been killed by his own sin, why kill him again?

PURPORT

To further encourage Lady Rukmiṇī, Balarāma again emphasizes that Kṛṣṇa should not humiliate Rukmī.

TEXT 40

क्षत्रियाणामयं धर्मः
प्रजापतिविनिर्मितः
भ्रातापि भ्रातरं हन्याद् येन घोरतमस्ततः

kṣatriyāṇām ayam dharmah prajāpati-vinirmitaḥ bhrātāpi bhrātaram hanyād
yena ghoratamas tataḥ

SYNONYMS

kṣatriyāṇām—of warriors; ayam—this; dharmah—code of sacred duty; prajāpati—by the original progenitor, Lord Brahmā; vinirmitaḥ—established; bhrātā—a brother; api—even; bhrātaram—his brother; hanyāt—has to kill; yena—by which (code); ghora-tamaḥ—most terrible; tataḥ—therefore.

TRANSLATION

[Turning to Rukmiṇī, Balarāma continued:] The code of sacred duty for warriors established by Lord Brahmā enjoins that one may have to kill even his own brother. That is indeed a most dreadful law.

PURPORT

Lord Balarāma, in the interest of fairness, is giving a complete analysis of the situation. Although one should not kill a relative, there are extenuating circumstances according to military codes. In the American Civil War, which took place in the 1860's, many families were divided between the army of the North and that of the South, and thus fratricidal killing unfortunately became a common affair. Such killing is certainly ghoratama, most dreadful. Yet such is the nature of the material world, where duty, honor and so-called justice often create conflict. Only on the spiritual platform, in pure Kṛṣṇa consciousness, can we transcend the unacceptable pain of material existence. Rukmī was maddened by pride and envy and thus could not understand anything about Kṛṣṇa or Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 41

राज्यस्य भूमेर्वित्तस्य
स्त्रियो मानस्य तेजसः
मानिनोऽन्यस्य वा हेतोः

श्रीमदान्धाः क्षिपन्ति हि

rājyasya bhūmer vittasya striyo mānasya tejasah mānino 'nyasya vā hetoh śrī-madāndhāḥ kṣipanti hi

SYNONYMS

rājyasya—of kingdom; bhūmeḥ—of land; vittasya—of wealth; striyaḥ—of a woman; mānasya—of honor; tejasah—of power; māninaḥ—those who are proud; anyasya—of something else; vā—or; hetoh—for the reason; śrī—in their opulence; mada—by their intoxication; andhāḥ—blinded; kṣipanti—they commit insult; hi—indeed.

TRANSLATION

[Again Balarāma addressed Kṛṣṇa:] Blinded by conceit with their personal opulences, proud men offend others for the sake of such things as kingdom, land, wealth, women, honor and power.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa was originally meant to marry Rukmiṇī. All along this was the best arrangement for all concerned, and yet from the beginning Rukmī had maliciously opposed this beautiful arrangement. When his sister's desire was finally fulfilled and she was taken by Kṛṣṇa, he viciously attacked the Lord with vulgar insults and mortal weapons. In return Lord Kṛṣṇa tied him up and partially clipped his hair and mustache. While certainly humiliating for a puffed-up prince like Rukmī, his punishment was a mere slap on the wrist, considering what he had done.

TEXT 42

तवेयं विषमा बुद्धिः
सर्वभूतेषु दुर्हदाम्
यन्मन्यसे सदाभद्रं सुहृदां भद्रमज्ञवत्

taveyaṁ viṣamā buddhiḥ sarva-bhūteṣu durhṛdām yaṁ manyase sadābhadraṁ suhṛdāṁ bhadraṁ ajña-vat

SYNONYMS

tava—your; iyam—this; viṣamā—biased; buddhiḥ—attitude;
sarva-bhūteṣu—toward all living beings; durhṛdām—of those who have ill intentions; yat—that; manyase—you wish; sadā—always; abhadram—evil; suhṛdām—to your well-wishers; bhadram—good; ajña-vat—like an ignorant person.

TRANSLATION

[To Rukmiṇī Balarāma said:] Your attitude is unfair, for like an ignorant person you wish good to those who are inimical to all living beings and who have done evil to your true well-wishers.

TEXT 43

आत्ममोहो नृणामेव
कल्पते देवमायया

सुहृद् दुर्हृदुदासीन इति देहात्ममानिनाम्

*ātma-moho nṛṇām eva kalpate deva-māyayā
suhṛd durhṛd udāsīna
iti dehātma-māninām*

SYNONYMS

ātma—about the self; mohaḥ—the bewilderment; nṛṇām—of men; eva—only; kalpate—is effected; deva—of the Supreme Lord; māyayā—by the illusory, material energy; suhṛt—a friend; durhṛt—an enemy; udāsīnaḥ—a neutral party; iti—thus thinking; deha—the body; ātma—as the self; māninām—for those who consider.

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Lord's Māyā makes men forget their real selves, and thus, taking the body for the self, they consider others to be friends, enemies or neutral parties.

TEXT 44

एक एव परो ह्यात्मा
सर्वेषामपि देहिनाम्
नानेव गृह्यते मूढैर् यथा ज्योतिर्यथा नभः

eka eva paro hy ātmā

*sarveṣām api dehinām
nāneva gṛhyate mūḍhair yathā jyotir yathā nabhaḥ*

SYNONYMS

ekaḥ—one; eva—only; paraḥ—the Supreme; hi—indeed; ātmā—Soul; sarveṣām—among all; api—and; dehinām—embodied beings; nānā—many; iva—as if; gṛhyate—is perceived; mūḍhaiḥ—by those who are bewildered; yathā—as; jyotiḥ—a celestial body; yathā—as; nabhaḥ—the sky.

TRANSLATION

Those who are bewildered perceive the one Supreme Soul, who resides in all embodied beings, as many, just as one may perceive the light in the sky, or the sky itself, as many.

PURPORT

The last line of this text, yathā jyotir yathā nabhaḥ, introduces two analogies in which we perceive one thing to be many. Jyotiḥ indicates the light of heavenly bodies such as the sun or moon. Although there is only one moon, we may see the moon reflected in pools, rivers, lakes and buckets of water. Then it would appear as if there were many moons, although there is only one. Similarly, we perceive a divine presence in each living being because the Supreme Lord is present everywhere, although He is one. The second analogy given here, yathā nabhaḥ, is that of the sky. If we have a row of sealed clay pots in a room, the sky, or air, is in each pot, although the sky itself is one.

The Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam (1.2.32) gives a similar analogy concerning fire and wood:

yathā hy avahito vahnir

*dāruṣv ekaḥ sva-yoniṣu nāneva bhāti viśvātmā
bhūteṣu ca tathā pumān*

"The Lord, as the Supersoul, pervades all things, just as fire permeates wood, and so He appears to be of many varieties, though He is the absolute one without a second."

TEXT 45

देह आद्यन्तवानेष
द्रव्यप्राणगुणात्मकः
आत्मन्यविद्यया क्लृप्तः संसारयति देहिनम्

*deha ādy-antavān eṣa
dravya-prāṇa-guṇātmakaḥ ātmany avidyayā kṛptaḥ saṁsārayati dehinam*

SYNONYMS

dehaḥ—the material body; ādi—beginning; anta—and end; vān—having; eṣaḥ—this; dravya—of the physical elements; prāṇa—the senses; guṇa—and the primary modes of material nature (goodness, passion and ignorance); ātmakaḥ—composed; ātmani—on the self; avidyayā—by material ignorance; kṛptaḥ—imposed; saṁsārayati—causes to experience the cycle of birth and death; dehinam—an embodied being.

TRANSLATION

This material body, which has a beginning and an end, is composed of the physical elements, the senses and the modes of nature. The body, imposed on the self by material ignorance, causes one to experience the cycle of birth and death.

PURPORT

The material body, composed of various material qualities, elements and so on, attracts and repels the conditioned soul and thus entangles him in material existence. Because of our attraction and repulsion for our own body and other bodies, we establish temporary relationships, dedicate ourselves to great endeavors and sacrifices, concoct imaginary religions, make noble speeches and thoroughly involve ourselves in material illusion. As Shakespeare said, "All the world's a stage." Beyond the somewhat absurd theater of material existence is the real and meaningful world of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, the liberated life of pure souls devoted in loving service to the Supreme Lord.

TEXT 46

नात्मनोऽन्येन संयोगो
वियोगश्चसतः सति
तद्धेतुत्वात्तत्प्रसिद्धे दृग्रूपाभ्यां यथा रवेः

*nātmano 'nyena saṁyogo viyogaś casataḥ sati tad-dhetutvāt tat-prasiddher
dṛg-rūpābhyāṁ yathā raveḥ*

SYNONYMS

na—not; ātmanaḥ—for the self; anyena—with anything else; saṁyogaḥ—contact; viyogaḥ—separation; ca—and; asataḥ—with that which is insubstantial; sati—O discriminating one; tat—from it (the self); hetutvāt—because of originating; tat—by it (the self); prasiddheḥ—because of being revealed; dṛk—with the sense of vision; rūpābhyām—and visible form; yathā—as; raveḥ—for the sun.

TRANSLATION

O intelligent lady, the soul never undergoes contact with or separation from insubstantial, material objects, because the soul is their very origin and illuminator. Thus the soul resembles the sun, which neither comes in contact with nor separates from the sense of sight and what is seen.

PURPORT

As explained in the previous text, the conditioned soul ignorantly assumes himself to be the material body and thus rotates in the cycle of birth and death. In fact, matter and spirit are co-energies of the original source of everything, the Supreme Lord, who is the Absolute Truth.

As Lord Kṛṣṇa explains in the Bhagavad-gītā (7.5), jīva-bhūtām mahā-bāho yayedam dhāryate jagat. The material world is sustained by the living beings' desire to exploit it. The material world is like a prison. Criminals are determined to commit crimes, and thus the government finds it necessary to maintain a prison system. Similarly, the Supreme Lord maintains the material universes because the conditioned souls are determined to rebel against Him and try to enjoy without His loving co-operation. Thus here the phrase tad-dhetutvāt is used to describe the soul, meaning that the soul is the cause of matter assembling itself into a material body. The term tat-prasiddheḥ indicates that the soul is the cause of the body's being perceived, and the same term also indicates that this fact is well known to the enlightened.

Besides its given meaning, the word ātmanaḥ in this verse may indicate the Supreme Soul, in which case the term tad-dhetutvāt indicates that Lord Kṛṣṇa expands His personal potency and thus manifests the material universe. Since the Lord exists eternally in His pure, spiritual body, He never becomes material, as indicated here.

TEXT 47

जन्मादयस्तु देहस्य
विक्रिया नात्मनः क्वचित्
कलानामिव नैवेन्दोर् मृतिर्ह्यस्य कुहूरिव

*janmādayas tu dehasya vikriyā nātmanaḥ kvacit kalānām iva naivendor
mṛtir hy asya kuhūr iva*

SYNONYMS

janma-ādayaḥ—birth and so on; tu—but; dehasya—of the body; vikriyāḥ—transformations; na—not; ātmanaḥ—of the self; kvacit—ever; kalānām—of the phases; iva—as; na—not; eva—indeed; indoḥ—of the moon; mṛtiḥ—the death; hi—indeed; asya—of it; kuhūr—the new moon day; iva—as.

TRANSLATION

Birth and other transformations are undergone by the body but never by the self, just as change occurs for the moon's phases but never for the moon, though the new-moon day may be called the moon's "death."

PURPORT

Lord Balarāma here explains how the conditioned souls identify with the body and how this identification should be given up. Certainly every ordinary person considers himself or herself young, middle-aged or old, healthy or sick. But such identification is an illusion, just as the waxing and waning of the moon is an illusion. When we identify ourselves with the material body, we lose our power to understand the soul.

TEXT 48

यथा शयान आत्मानं
विषयान् फलमेव च
अनुभुङ्क्तेऽप्यसत्यर्थे तथाप्नोत्यबुधो भवम्

yathā śayāna ātmānam viṣayān phalam eva ca anubhūṅkte 'py asaty arthe tathāpnoty abudho bhavam

SYNONYMS

yathā—as; śayānaḥ—a sleeping person; ātmānam—himself; viṣayān—sense objects; phalam—the fruits; eva—indeed; ca—also; anubhūṅkte—experiences; api—even; asati arthe—in that which is not real; tathā—so; āpnoti—undergoes; abudhaḥ—the unintelligent; bhavam—material existence.

TRANSLATION

As a sleeping person perceives himself, the objects of sense enjoyment and the fruits of his acts within the illusion of a dream, so one who is unintelligent undergoes material existence.

PURPORT

As stated in śruti, asaṅgo hy ayaṁ puruṣaḥ: "The living being has no intimate connection with the material world." This point is explained in the present verse. A similar statement is found in the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam (11.22.56):

*arthe 'hy avidyamāne 'pi saṁsṛtir na nivartate dhyāyato viṣayān asya
svapne 'narthāgamo yathā*

"For one who is meditating on sense gratification, material life, although lacking factual existence, does not go away, just as the unpleasant experiences of a dream do not."

TEXT 49

तस्मादज्ञानजं शोकम्
आत्मशोषविमोहनम्
तत्त्वज्ञानेन निर्हृत्य स्वस्था भव शुचिस्मिते

tasmād ajñāna-jam śokam

*ātma-śoṣa-vimohanam tattva-jñānena nirhṛtya
sva-sthā bhava śuci-smite*

SYNONYMS

tasmāt—therefore; ajñāna—out of ignorance; jam—born; śokam—the lamentation; ātma—yourself; śoṣa—drying up; vimohanam—and bewildering; tattva—of the truth; jñānena—with knowledge; nirhṛtya—dispelling; sva-sthā—reinstated in your natural mood; bhava—please be; śuci-smite—O you whose smile is pure.

TRANSLATION

Therefore, with transcendental knowledge dispel the grief that is weakening and confounding your mind. Please resume your natural mood, O princess of the pristine smile.

PURPORT

Lord Balarāma reminds Śrīmatī Rukmiṇī that she is the eternal goddess of fortune performing pastimes with the Lord in this world and should thus give up her so-called grief.

TEXT 50

श्रीशुक उवाच
एवं भगवता तन्वी
रामेण प्रतिबोधिता
वैमनस्यं परित्यज्य

मनो बुद्ध्या समादधे

*śrī-śuka uvāca
evam bhagavatā tanvī rāmeṇa pratibodhitā vaimanasyam parityajya
mano buddhyā samādadhe*

SYNONYMS

śrī-śukaḥ uvāca—Śukadeva Gosvāmī said; evam—thus; bhagavatā—by the Supreme Lord; tanvī—slender-waisted Rukmiṇī; rāmeṇa—by Balarāma; pratibodhitā—enlightened; vaimanasyam—her depression; parityajya—giving up; manaḥ—her mind; buddhyā—by intelligence; samādadhe—composed.

TRANSLATION

Śukadeva Gosvāmī said: Thus enlightened by Lord Balarāma, slender Rukmiṇī forgot her depression and steadied her mind by spiritual intelligence.

TEXT 51

प्राणावशेष उत्सृष्टो
द्विङ्निर्हतबलप्रभः
स्मरन् विरूपकरणं
वितथात्ममनोरथः
चक्रे भोजकटं नाम
निवासाय महत्पुरम्

*prāṇāvaśeṣa utsṛṣṭo dviḍbhir hata-bala-prabhaḥ smaran virūpa-karaṇam vitathātma-manorathaḥ cakre bhojakaṭam nāma
nivāsāya mahat puram*

SYNONYMS

prāṇa—his life air; avaśeṣaḥ—remaining only; utsṛṣṭaḥ—expelled; dviḍbhiḥ—by his enemies; hata—destroyed; bala—his strength; prabhaḥ—and bodily effulgence; smaran—remembering; virūpa-karaṇam—his disfigurement; vitatha—frustrated; ātma—his personal; manaḥ-rathaḥ—desires; cakre—he made; bhoja-kaṭam nāma—named Bhojakaṭa; nivāsāya—for his residence; mahat—large; puram—a city.

TRANSLATION

Left with only his life air, cast out by his enemies and deprived of his strength and bodily radiance, Rukmī could not forget how he had been disfigured. In frustration he constructed for his residence a large city, which he called Bhojakaṭa.

TEXT 52

अहत्वा दुर्मतिं कृष्णम्
अप्रत्यूह्य यवीयसीम्
कुण्डिनं न प्रवेक्ष्यामीत्य उक्त्वा तत्रावसद्गुषा

*ahatvā durmatim kṛṣṇam apratyūhya yavīyasīm kuṇḍinam na pravekṣyāmīty
uktvā tatrāvasad ruṣā*

SYNONYMS

ahatvā—without killing; durmatim—evil-minded; kṛṣṇam—Kṛṣṇa; apratyūhya—without bringing back; yavīyasīm—my younger sister; kuṇḍinam—Kuṇḍina; na pravekṣyāmi—I will not enter; iti—such; uktvā—having spoken; tatra—there (in the same place where he had been disfigured); avasat—he took up residence; ruṣā—in anger.

TRANSLATION

Because he had promised "I will not reenter Kuṇḍina until I have killed wicked Kṛṣṇa and brought back my younger sister," in a mood of angry frustration Rukmī took up residence at that very place.

PURPORT

Śrīla Viśvanātha Cakravartī explains that the word bhoja means "experience" and that kaṭaḥ, according to the Nānārtha-varga dictionary, means "vow." Thus Bhojakata is the place where Rukmī experienced misery as a result of his vow.

TEXT 53

भगवान् भीष्मकसुताम्
एवं निर्जित्य भूमिपान्
पुरमानीय विधिवद्

उपयेमे कुरुद्वह

*bhagavān bhīṣmaka-sutām
evam nirjitya bhūmi-pān puram ānīya vidhi-vad
upayeme kurūdvaha*

SYNONYMS

bhagavān—the Supreme Lord; bhīṣmaka-sutām—the daughter of Bhīṣmaka; evam—thus; nirjitya—defeating; bhūmi-pān—the kings; puram—to His capital; ānīya—bringing; vidhi-vat—in accordance with the injunctions of the Vedas; upayeme—married; kuru-udvaha—O protector of the Kurus.

TRANSLATION

Thus defeating all the opposing kings, the Supreme Personality of Godhead brought the daughter of Bhīṣmaka to His capital and married her according to the Vedic injunctions, O protector of the Kurus.

TEXT 54

तदा महोत्सवो नृणां
यदुपुर्या गृहे गृहे
अभूदनन्यभावानां
कृष्णे यदुपतौ नृप

*tadā mahotsavo nṛṇām yadu-puryām gṛhe gṛhe
abhūd ananya-bhāvānām*

kṛṣṇe yadu-patau nṛpa

SYNONYMS

tadā—then; mahā-utsavaḥ—great rejoicing; nṛṇām—by the people; yadu-puryām—in the capital of the Yadus, Dvārakā; gṛhe gṛhe—in each and every home; abhūt—arose; ananya-bhāvānām—who had exclusive love; kṛṣṇe—for Kṛṣṇa; yadu-patau—the chief of the Yadus; nṛpa—O King (Parīkṣit).

TRANSLATION

At that time, O King, there was great rejoicing in all the homes of Yadupurī, whose citizens loved only Kṛṣṇa, chief of the Yadus.

TEXT 55

नरा नार्यश्च मुदिताः
प्रमृष्टमणिकुण्डलाः
पारिबर्हमुपाजहुर वरयोश्चित्रवाससोः

narā nāryaś ca muditāḥ
pramṛṣṭa-maṇi-kuṇḍalāḥ pāribarham upājahrur varayoś citra-vāsasoḥ

SYNONYMS

narāḥ—the men; nāryaḥ—women; ca—and; muditāḥ—joyful; pramṛṣṭa—polished; maṇi—their jewels; kuṇḍalāḥ—and earrings;

pāribarham—wedding gifts; upājahruḥ—they respectfully presented; varayoḥ—to the groom and the bride; citra—wonderful; vāsasoḥ—whose dress.

TRANSLATION

All the men and women, full of joy and adorned with shining jewels and earrings, brought wedding presents, which they reverently offered to the exquisitely dressed groom and bride.

TEXT 56

सा वृष्णिपुर्युत्तम्भितेन्द्रकेतुभिर्
विचित्रमाल्याम्बररत्नतोरणैः
बभौ प्रतिद्वार्युपकृप्तमङ्गलैर् आपूर्णकुम्भागुरुधूपदीपकैः

sā vṛṣṇi-pury uttambhitendra-ketubhir vicitra-mālyāmbara-ratna-toraṇaiḥ babhau prati-dvāry upakṛpta-maṅgalair āpūrṇa-kumbhāguru-dhūpa-dīpakaiḥ sā—that; vṛṣṇi-purī—city of the Vṛṣṇis; uttambhita—upraised; indra-ketubhiḥ—with festive columns; vicitra—variegated; mālya—having flower garlands; ambara—cloth banners; ratna—and jewels; toraṇaiḥ—with archways; babhau—appeared beautiful; prati—in every; dvāri—doorway; upakṛpta—arranged; maṅgalaiḥ—with auspicious items; āpūrṇa—full; kumbha—waterpots; aguru—scented with aguru; dhūpa—with incense; dīpakaiḥ—and lamps.

SYNONYMS

TRANSLATION

The city of the Vṛṣṇis appeared most beautiful: there were tall, festive columns, and also archways decorated with flower garlands, cloth banners and precious gems. Arrangements of auspicious, full waterpots, aguru-scented incense, and lamps graced every doorway.

TEXT 57

सिक्तमार्गा मदच्युद्धिर
आहूतप्रेष्ठभूभुजाम्
गजैर्द्वाःसु परामृष्ट-रम्भापूगोपशोभिता

sikta-mārgā mada-cyudbhir āhūta-preṣṭha-bhūbhujām gajair dvāḥsu parāmṛṣṭa-rambhā-pūgopaśobhitā

SYNONYMS

sikta—sprinkled; mārgā—its streets; mada—a secretion that flows from the foreheads of excited elephants; cyudbhiḥ—exuding; āhūta—invited; preṣṭha—beloved; bhū-bhujām—of the kings; gajaiḥ—by the elephants; dvāḥsu—in the doorways; parāmṛṣṭa—handled; rambhā—by plantain trees; pūga—and betel-nut trees; upaśobhitā—beautified.

TRANSLATION

The city's streets were cleansed by the intoxicated elephants belonging to the beloved kings who were guests at the wedding, and these elephants further enhanced the beauty of the city by placing trunks of plantain and betel-nut trees in all the doorways.

TEXT 58

कुरुसृञ्जयकैकेय-विदर्भयदुकुन्तयः
मिथो मुमुदिरे तस्मिन् सम्भ्रमात्परिधावताम्

kuru-sṛñjaya-kaikeyavidarbha-yadu-kuntayaḥ mitho mumudire tasmin sambhramāt paridhāvatām

SYNONYMS

kuru-sṛñjaya-kaikeya-vidarbha-yadu-kuntayaḥ—of the members of the Kuru, Sṛñjaya, Kaikeya, Vidarbha, Yadu and Kunti clans; mithaḥ—with one another; mumudire—they took pleasure; tasmin—in that (festivity); sambhramāt—out of excitement; paridhāvatām—among those who were running about.

TRANSLATION

Those who belonged to the royal families of the Kuru, Sṛñjaya, Kaikeya, Vidarbha, Yadu and Kunti clans joyfully met one another in the midst of the crowds of people excitedly running here and there.

TEXT 59

रुक्मिण्या हरणं श्रुत्वा
गीयमानं ततस्ततः
राजानो राजकन्याश्च बभूवुर्भृशविस्मिताः

*rukmiṇyā haraṇam śrutvā gīyamānam tatas tataḥ rājāno rāja-kanyāś ca
babhūvur bhṛśa-vismitāḥ*

SYNONYMS

